Elliott stood up while sentence was pronounced upon him; he looked steadily at the Judge and maintained a calm and apparently unmoved demeanor. Counsel asked for time to prepare and file a bill of exceptions and the Judge granted till the 31 of September for that purpose. The statute provides that not less than thirty or more than sixty days after passing sentence of death the Court must fix a date for the execution of the sentence. If a bill of exceptions shall be filed at any time within sixty days, and an appeal to the Supreme Court be perfected, then this would have the effect to stay proceedings, and no time would be fixed for the execution of the sentence till after the Supreme Court had given its decision.

GROUNDS OF EXCEPTION.

Counsel for the defendant stated their grounds of an appeal. They allege that on more than one occasion several jurors had been permitted by the Deputy Sheriff in charge of the jury to separate from the other jurors, to go away from the room where the jury was kept, and to be unattended and out of sight of any sworn officer whose duty it was to guard the jury. As further ground for appeal counsel allege error in the rulings of the Court.

IN THE JURY ROOM.

When the jury was locked up to consider their verdict W. J. Lake was chosen Foreman. He advised the other jurors not to be excited or talk about the case, but each one in the silence of his own heart to carefully and conscientiously consider the evidence and decide accordingly. Mr. Lake proposed that a ballot be taken as to the guilt or innocence of the accused. The ballots were opened and found to be 11 for murder in the first degree and one for murder in the second degree. Mr. Lake at once called for a ballot on the degree of punishment. The ballot resulted in 8 votes for death and 4 for life imprisonment. A third ballot was taken with the same result. The fourth ballot stood 11 for death 1 for life imprisonment. The fifth ballot was unanimous for the death penalty. In making their verdict the jury acted under a misapprehension of the law. Having been informed that they had the power to fix the punishment at imprisonment for life, they also supposed it was their duty to determine if the punishment should be death and acted accordingly. The defendant was sentenced to death in due form by the Court, and lawyers for the prosecution do not believe that the misapprehension on the part of the jury will in the least alter the final result.

PUBLIC SATISFACTION.

The people of Inyo county express full satisfaction with the result of the trial. All things in this connection have been done decently and in order. The majesty of the law has been established; there has been no unseemly clamor or violence, nothing of which good citizens need be ashamed, and a solemn warning has been given to all who may be disposed to commit crime that stern justice will be surely and speedily dealt out to the evil doer in Inyo county. Now that Elliott has been sentenced to death there is not a tongue in Inyo that would refrain from uttering a prayer for the salvation of his soul. It was not vengeance but justice that was asked.

Long Divided Relatives Meet.

Last Tuesday Mr. Dan. Cofer and Mr. William Bourchier, of Susanville, Lassen county, arrived at Mr. S. A. Densmore's place at Camp Independence. Mr. Cofer is brother to Mrs. Densmore and had not seen his sister in twenty years. He is going to the new town of Ensenada, in Lower California, to start a sash and blind factory there. He had a factory of that kind at Susanville. Mr. Bourchier is taking a vacation and traveling with his friend to see the country. The company have teams and a good camping outfit. They will start again from Camp Independence on Monday. The lovely home, the orchards and farm of Mr. Densmore was a big surprise to the party. They had no knowledge of the extent and resources of Owens Valley, and are filled with surprise at what they see. They say this is the best watered valley in the State, and no other region have they yet seen that appears so desirable to settle in. With Mr. Cofer and Mr. Bourchier are some other families that they encountered on the way and who are traveling in the same direction; these people are from Idaho. From Susanville to Independence the distance is a little over four hundred miles, and thence to Ensenada the distance is considerably greater. The whole party appears to find much enjoyment on the trip.

Beer Did It.

Last Wednesday evening William Huff, a barber at Independence, inflicted a severe cut upon Francisco Ramirez. The weapon used was a large bladed pocket-knife; the point of the blade struck a rib and turned downward, making an ugly wound, but not penetrating beyond the ribs. Several days ago a member of Huff's family, who has a weakness for beer, came to town. The wounded man likes beer, too. A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind, and the pair soon became closer friends than Tim O'Shanter and Souter Johnnie. This went on for several days. Huff is a very patient and quiet man; but at last he remonstrated and told Ramirez that he must not buy any more bottles of beer. The man promised he would not, and kept his promise to the ear but broke it to the hope, for he went and bought a keg full and the jamboree became livelier than ever. Huff got his team and wagon and went after the party in whom he is interested. When he was helping the person into the wagon Ramirez interfered to prevent him and Huff drew his pocket-knife and cut him. The wounded man has since been very sick but appears to be getting along all right. No action has been taken by the authorities; the officers are waiting to see what the result of the wound will be. Huff will be on hand any time he is wanted.

Casa Diablo.

Phil. Cartier and Joe Schalton got back last Tuesday from a sojourn of more than two months at the Casa Diablo springs. Both were ailing when they went to the springs, and they come back in perfect health. Casa Diablo is a wonderful region. Volcanoes have been active there at a very recent period. There are vast masses of volcanic glass piled up; thousands of columns are regularly piled up as though done by human hands. These columns, if they could be transported, would be beautiful objects in large buildings. While Messrs. Cartier and Schalton were there many other visitors were present. The only accommodation is a log house; visitors must be provided with bedding and provisions. About four miles from the hot springs is a large stream where any quantity of trout can be got; they are large, weighing six to eight pounds, but at present they must be taken with spears; they are very fat and will not touch any kind of bait. During the past four weeks the weather was very cool and plenty of warm clothing was needed. The hot springs are in Mono county, about forty seven miles from Bishop Creek.

Valuable Hay.

An item in the Virginia City Enterprise of a few days ago tells of the hay crop at Duckwater, Nevada. And this reminds an old timer. In the fall of 1863 occurred the big excitement at White Pine. There was an immense rush there. Hundreds of horses went into the county hauling freight and a hay famine set in immediately. Duckwater is, or was then, a great swampy region covered with wild hay. Cold weather set in and the swamp was quickly frozen over; mowing machines were hauled there and were run on the ice and hundreds of tons of hay were cut. The hay was hauled to White Pine and sold at four hundred dollars per ton. This was the highest price hay ever sold in quantity on the Pacific Coast.

The eclipse of the moon on last Sunday evening was seen under most favorable conditions. When the denser shadow followed the first partial obscuration it appeared to contract and expand, or flicker like a flame of fire in the open air, till at last the whole disc of the moon was darkened, when it appeared of a dark copper color. The flickering of the shadow again appeared as it passed off from the moon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Curtis and Miss Emma Kemp, daughter of Mrs. Curtis, have returned to Owens Valley. The family went to Oregon about three years ago, but were not satisfied there and have returned here to stay.

PAUSE AND PERUSE!

Our house is essentially one of bargains. Low values abound everywhere—in every department. Were it not so we would have not intercepted and held the volume of trade which we have. We buy FIVE times the amount of goods of any store in this city. Our advantage is easily seen. Why not enjoy the benefit of it?

Here are some of the values which we are offering. Those at a distance—even a thousand miles away—by our well regulated system of shopping by mail, obtain the same advantages as if trading in person. Orders for the following described goods should be sent in quickly, as the stock will doubtless soon be exhausted.

OF INTEREST TO YOU!

Fine Rhadame silks, a firm body, honest weave and true dye. They have the natural brilliant lustre produced by pure silk and skilful weaving. We have them in TWENTY-FOUR colors. Price 90 cents per yard; equal to any $1.15 or $1.25 Rhadame in the market.

A good bargain in Surah silks at 50 cents per yard. Excellent for sashes, combination suits and hat trimmings. All of the popular shades in stock.

French novelties in all wool dress goods in plaids and checks at 50 cents per yard. Twenty five lines of them. We have an all wool plaid a yard wide for 25 cents.

Something in an Oxford shoe for Gentlemen that we can recommend. Price $1.45; has always sold at $2.50. It is low cut, has a neat, fancy tip and four buttons. Sizes 5 to 10.

An all wool jersey with a vest front and coat back for $1.40. In the popular shades. At $1.75 we can give an all wool jersey with front and cuffs embroidered.

PARASOLS—An Ecru Silk covered with Coralline Lace natural wood handles price $2. A heavy Black Satin Parasol trimmed with deep Spanish Loce and lined with rich changeable silk, $5.

Ladies' full finished hose at 19 cents a pair. Infancy stripes on a light ground.

Ladies' India Gauze Vest, high neck, long or short sleeves at 25 cents.

Three unlaundried white shirts for $1.

Fancy featheredge folding fans at 25 cents.

Samples of DRY GOODS mailed free upon application.

Send in your name for a Fall and Winter Catalogue which will be issued shortly.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GRAND CONCERT

Entertainment & DANCE

Friday Eve, August 3d, 1888,

A Brilliant Array of Local Talent.

BOX SHEET IS NOW OPEN.

100 reserved seats at 25 cents each. Tickets for the evening, $1.50 a couple Single admission, 50 cents. Pa l tickets, per couple, $1.00. Children under 13, 25 cents.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the Republican Committee of Inyo county is hereby called at the Court House in the town of Independence, on

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10th, 1888,

At 7 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of fixing the time for the election of delegates in the several precincts to attend a county convention to nominate county officers; also to fix the time and place for holding said convention and to fix the apportionment of delegates for each precinct.

S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
Geo. H. Hardy, Sec.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INDEPENDENCE SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE, Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D., Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT Watchmaker & Jeweler, LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County. THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles OF Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc AT

L. WOOD'S CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain. Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES, PEANUTS, WALNUTS, TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS, &c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS, 44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Dress Goods and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Foundation.

Independence, Inyo

"DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED."

The young man fell dead!

A friend had pointed a revolver at him.

"He didn't know it was loaded!"

We often hear it stated that a man is not responsible for what he does not know. The law presupposes knowledge and therefore convicts the man who excuses crime by ignorance!

"If I had only known" has often been an unfortunate man's apology for some evil unknowingly wrought, but in a matter of general interest—as for instance that laudanum is a poison, that naphtha is a deadly explosive, that blood heavily charged with a winter's accumulations of the waste of the system,—it is one's duty to know the fact and the consequences thereof. Our good old grandmothers knew for instance, that the opening of spring was the most perilous period of the year.

Why?

Because then the blood stream is sluggish and chilled by the cold weather, and if not thinned a good deal and made to flow quickly and healthfully through the arteries and veins, it is impossible to have good vigor the rest of the year. Hence, without exception, what is now known as Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, was plentifully made and religiously given to every member of the family regularly through March, April, May and June. It is a matter of record that this prudential preventive and restorative custom saved many a fit of sickness, prolonged life and happiness to a vigorous old age, and did away with heavy medical expenditures.

Mrs. Maggie Kerchwal, Lexington, Ky., used Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla "for nervous sick headache of which I had been a sufferer for years. It has been a great benefit to me." Capt. Huge Harkins, 1114 S. 15th St. Philadelphia, Pa., says "it purified my blood and removed the blotches from my skin." Mrs. Aarea Smith, Topton, Berks Co., Pa., says she "was entirely cured of a skin disease of the worst kind," by Log Cabin Sarsaparilla. Bad skin indicates a very bad condition of the blood

If you would live and be well, go to your druggist to-day and get Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and take no other,—there's nothing like it or as good,—and completely renovate your impaired system with this simple, old-fashioned preparation of roots and herbs.

Warner, who makes the famous Safe Cure, puts it up, and that is a guarantee of excellence all over the known world. Take it yourself and give it to the other members of the family, including the children. You will be astonished at its health-giving and life-prolonging powers. We say this editorially with perfect confidence, because we have heard good things of it everywhere, and its name is a guarantee that it is first class in every particular.

Before Going to Sleep.

He who would reap the greatest benefit from sleep should also cultivate the habit of eschewing all worry and vexatious ponderings for a considerable time before retiring. The attainment of this end is far easier than might at first be imagined; indeed it is largely a question of habit, and the individual who exerts himself systematically will soon find that he shall be able to divest the mind of thought at the proper time very much as he would take off a superfluous garment. Where, as in certain neurotic and irritable persons, it is impossible to acquire this habit by a mere fiat of the will, the individual should seek by laying hold of the law of substitution to drive forth the depressing and irritating train of reflections. And just here we find the true function of amusement. Light reading, light plays, light operas, light games, light conversation and the presence of friends, these are the things which serve to exorcise the spectre of omnipresent care.—Dr. J. Leonard Corning.

Fattening Women in Tunis.

Professor Hoeber says, apropos of corpulence, that the Jewesses of Tunis, when they were 10 years old, were put into dark rooms and fed on the food prepared from flour and also with the meat of dogs until they were systematically fattened. In a similar way, he continues, the women in other parts of Africa are said to reach the same degree of fatness by eating honey and fresh dates. Corpulence in those localities must be "fashionable." Good Housekeeping

A LUCKY WIDOW.

A Weaver in the Woolen Mills Wins a $5,000 Prize.

A little woman who works in the Pioneer Woolen Mills has been very happy for the past three weeks. The cause of her joy she could not keep, and the news spread, and now the whole neighborhood knows that Mrs. Jennie Tiffany won $5,000 at the last drawing of the Louisiana lottery.

An Examiner reporter asked for her at the woolen mills yesterday.

A healthy, bright-eyed, pleasant-faced young woman, whose hands were covered with indigo stains, came out of the weaving-room and introduced herself as the person sought for.

She said that she had two coupons for the drawing, and both drew prizes, one $5,000 and the other $50.

"Were you surprised when you learned of your winning?" asked the reporter.

"Of course it excited me some, but it wasn't exactly a surprise. I've been very lucky in the lottery. I've played it fourteen months, one or two tickets a month, and I have won seven prizes—once $5 and several times $10, $20 and $50. Everybody said that I'd win a big prize if I kept on, and I did."

"What will you do with your money?"

"I've already put it in the bank," she replied with a shrewd look; "half in one bank and half in another, so that if even one busts I won't lose it all. I don't know whether I'll invest it at all. Maybe I will."

She laughed at a suggestion that $5,000 could give her a pleasanter life than she had been following, and answered that she would not change her style of living. "I moved into larger rooms and got a few extra things," she said, but I don't intend to quit work here or anything of that kind. I make from $30 to $35 a month here, and I don't know any reason why I should give it up."

Any is a widow with one [illegible] has also supported her aged [illegible] whom she has given $1,000 [illegible] fortune.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGG RD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Meanwhile the boats had gathered together at a distance, and we could see that their occupants, who were evidently much frightened, were consulting what to do. Without giving them time for further consideration, which we thought might result unfavorably to ourselves, we instantly took our paddles and advanced towards them, Good standing in the bow and taking off his cocked hat politely in every direction, his amiable features suffused by a bland but intelligent smile. Most of the craft retreated as we advanced, but a few held their ground, while the big rowboat came on to meet us. Presently we were alongside, and I could see that our appearance—and especially Good's and Umslopogaas's—filled the venerable looking commander with astonishment, not unmixed with awe. He was dressed after the same fashion as the man we first met, except that his shirt was not made of brown cloth, but of pure white linen hemmed with purple. The kilt, however, was identical, and so were the thick rings of gold around the arm and beneath the left knee. The rowers wore only a kilt, their bodies being naked to the waist. Good took off his hat to the old gentleman with an extra flourish, and inquired after his health in the purest English, to which he replied by laying the first two fingers of his right hand horizontally across his lips and holding them there for a moment, which we took as his method of salutation. Then he also addressed some remarks to us in the same soft accents that had distinguished our first interviewer, which we were forced to indicate we did not understand by shaking our heads and shrugging our shoulders. This last Alphonse, being to the manner born, did to perfection, and in so polite a way that nobody could take any offense. Then we came to a standstill, till I, being exceedingly hungry, thought I might as well call attention to the fact, and did so first by opening my mouth and pointing down it, and then rubbing my stomach. These signals the old gentleman clearly understood, for he nodded his head vigorously, and pointed toward the harbor; and at the same time one of the men in his boat threw us a line and motioned to us to make it fast, which we did. The row boat then took us in tow, and proceeded with great rapidity toward the mouth of the river, accompanied by all the other boats. In about twenty minutes more we reached the entrance to the harbor, which was crowded with boats full of people who had come out to see us. We observed that all the occupants were more or less of the same type, though some were fairer than others. Indeed, we noticed certain ladies whose skin was of a most dazzling whiteness; and the darkest shade of color which we saw was about that of a rather swarthy Spaniard. Presently the wide river gave a sweep, and when it did so an exclamation of astonishment and delight burst from our lips as we caught our first view of the place that we afterward knew as Milosis, or the Frowning City (from mi, which means city, and losis, a frown).

At a distance of some 500 yards from the river's bank rose a sheer precipice of granite, 250 feet or so in height, which had no doubt once formed the bank itself—the intermediate space of land now utilized as docks and roadways having been gained by draining and deepening and embanking the stream.

On the brow of this precipice stood a great building of the same granite that formed the cliff, built on three sides of a square, the fourth side being open, save for a kind of antlement pierced at its base by a little door. This imposing place we afterwards discovered was the palace of the queen, or rather of the queens. At the back of the palace the town sloped gently upward to a flashing building of white marble, crowned by the golden dome which we had already observed. The city was, with the exception of this one building, entirely built of red granite and laid out in regular blocks with splendid roadways between. So far as we could see also the houses were all one-storied and detached, with gardens round them, which gave some relief to the eye wearied with the vista of red granite. At the back of the palace a road of extraordinary width stretched away up the hill for the distance of a mile and a half or so, and appeared to terminate at an open space surrounding the gleaming building that crowned the hill. But right in front of us was the wonder and glory of Milosis—the great staircase of the palace, the magnificence of which fairly took our breath away. Let the reader imagine, if he can, a splendid stairway, sixty-five feet from balustrade to balustrade, consisting of two vast flights, each of 125 steps of eight inches in height by three feet broad, connected by a flat resting place sixty feet in length and running from the palace wall on the edge of the precipice down to meet a water way or canal, cut to its foot from the river. This marvelous staircase was supported upon a single enormous granite arch, of which the resting place between the two flights formed the crown; that is, the connecting open space lay upon it. From this archway sprang a subsidiary flying arch, or rather something that resembled a flying arch in shape, such as none of us had seen in any other country, and of which the beauty and wonder surpassed all that we have ever imagined. Three hundred feet from point to point, and no less than 550 round the curve that half arc soared touching the bridge it supported for a space of fifty feet only, one end resting on and backed into the parent archway, and the other imbedded in the solid granite of the side of the precipice.

Approaching Milosis.

The staircase, with its supports, was, indeed, a work of which any living man might have been proud, both on account of its magnitude and its surpassing beauty. Four times, as we afterward learned, did the work, which was commenced in remote antiquity, fail and was then abandoned for three centuries, when half finished, till at last there rose a youthful engineer named Rademas, who said that he would complete it successfully, and staked his life upon it. If he failed, he was to be hurled from the precipice he had undertaken to scale; if he succeeded, he was to be rewarded by the hand of the king's daughter. Five years was given to him to complete the work, and an unlimited supply of labor and material. Three times did his arch fail, till at last, seeing failure to be inevitable, he determined to commit suicide on the morrow of the third collapse. That night, however, a beautiful vision came to him in a dream and touched his forehead, and of a sudden he saw a vision of the completed work, and saw, too, through the masonry, and how the difficulties connected with the flying arch that had hitherto baffled his genius were to be overcome. Then he awoke and once more commenced the work, but on a different plan, and behold! he achieved it, and on the last day of the five years he led the princess, his bride, up the stair and into the palace. And in due course he became king by right of his wife and founded the present Eleventh dynasty, which is to this day called the "House of the Stairway," thus proving once more how energy and talent are the natural stepping stones to grandeur. And to commemorate his triumph he fashioned a statue of himself dreaming and of the fair woman who touched him on the forehead, and placed it in the great hall of the palace, and there it stands to this day.

The great staircase.

Such was the great stair of Milosis, and such the city beyond. No wonder they called it the "Frowning City," for certainly those mighty works in solid granite did seem to frown down upon our littleness in their sombre splendor. This was so even in the sunshine, but when the storm clouds gathered on her imperial brow, Milosis looked more like a supernatural dwelling place, or some imagining of a poet's brain, than what she is—a mortal city, carven by the patient genius of generations out of the red silence of the mountain side.

CHAPTER XII.

THE SISTER QUEENS.

The big rowing boat glided on up the cutting that ran almost to the foot of the vast stairway, and then halted at a flight of steps leading to the landing place. Here the old gentleman disembarked, and invited us to do likewise, which, having no alternative, and being nearly starved, we did without hesitation—taking our rifles with us, however. As each of us landed, our guide again laid his fingers on his lips in salutation and bowed deeply, at the same time ordering back the crowds who had assembled to gaze on us. The last to leave the canoe was the girl we had picked out of the water, for whom her companion was waiting. Before she went away she kissed my hand, I suppose as a token of gratitude for having saved her from the fury of the hippopotamus; and it seemed to me that she had by this time quite got over any fear she may have had of us, and was by no means anxious to return in such a hurry to her lawful owners. At any rate, she was going to kiss Good's hand as well as mine, when the young man interfered and led her off. As soon as we were on shore a number of the men who had rowed the big boat took possession of our few goods and chattels, and started with them up the splendid staircase, our guide indicating to us by means of motions that the things were perfectly safe. This done, he turned to the right and led the way to a small house, which was, as I afterward discovered, an inn. Entering into a good sized room, we saw that a wooden table was already furnished with food, presumably in preparation for us. Here our guide motioned us to be seated on a bench that ran the length of the table. We did not require a second invitation, but at once fell too ravenously on the viands before us, which were served on wooden platters, and consisted of cold goat's flesh, wrapped up in some kind of leaf that gave it a delicious flavor, green vegetables resembling lettuces, brown bread and red wine poured from a skin into horn mugs. This wine was peculiarly soft and good, having something of the flavor of Burgundy. Twenty minutes after we sat down at that hospitable board we rose from it feeling like new men. After all that we had gone through we needed two things, food and rest, and the food of it, it was a great blessing to us. Two girls of the same charming cast of face as the first whom we had seen waited on us while we ate, and very nicely they did it. They were also dressed in the same fashion, namely, in a white linen petticoat coming to the knee, and with the toga like garment of brown cloth, leaving bare the right arm and breast. I afterward found out that this was the national dress, and regulated by an iron custom, though, of course, subject to variations. Thus, if the petticoat was pure white, it signified that the wearer was unmarried; if white, with a straight purple stripe round the edge, that she was married and a first or legal wife; if with a wavy purple stripe, that she was a second or other wife; if with a black stripe, that she was a widow. In the same way the toga, or "kaff," as they call it, was of different shades of color, from pure white to the deepest brown, according to the rank of the wearer, and embroidered at the end in various ways. This also applies to the "shirts," or tanics, worn by the men, which varied in material and color; but the kilts were always the same except as regards quality. One thing, however, every man and woman in the country wore as the national insignia, and that was the thick band of gold round the right arm above the elbow and the left leg beneath the knee. People of high rank also wore a torque of gold round the neck, and I observed that our guide had one on.

So soon as we had finished our meal our venerable conductor, who had been standing all the while, regarding us with inquiring eyes, and our guns with something as like fear as his pride would allow him to show, bowed towards Good, whom he evidently took for the chief of the party on account of the splendor of his regard, and once more led the way to the door and to the foot of the great stair. Here we paused for a moment to admire the colossal lions, each hewn from a single block of pure black marble, and standing rampant on the terminations of the wide balustrades of the staircase.

(To be Continued.)

The Way to Get Rich.

A Land Speculation.—"But," said the would-be purchaser, they tell me that the land is covered by a swamp."

"Swamp, why, of course. It's the richest land in the world."

"But how am I to get rid of the water?"

"Pump it off."

"Yes, but then it will be on some other man's land."

"That's all right; let him pump it off on to some one else's land. My dear sir, you should never be bothered by what is on some other man's land."

"Yes, but won't he pump the water back on my land?"

"The very thing you want. The best crops in the world are raised that way. Pumping from first one field to another brings about a mutual system of irrigation. I got rich that way."—Arkansaw Traveler.

THE LITTLE RED RIBBON.

I sing not of battles nor conquerors laden
With trophies their valor has won in the strife,
My song is the love of a shy little maiden
Who smiled upon me in the morning of life.
I whispered my passion; though clumsily spoken,
With tear shining lashes she heeded my prayer:
With the ring of betrothal I plead for a token—
The little red ribbon she wore in her hair.

Though now it is faded
I picture it braided
The way that it shimmered that night on the stair;
And often I kiss it,
And think how I'd miss it—
The little red ribbon she wore in her hair.

The years have flown by and her locks have grown whiter;
I smile when she speaks of the gray in the gold;
I whisper to her that her glances are brighter,
Her dimples more witching than ever of old.
Our love life has witnessed more laughing than weeping;
We chase with fond kisses the footprints of care
But my little wife never dreams I am keeping
The little red ribbon she wore in her hair.

Though faded and crinkled,
And rumpled and wrinkled,
The bonnie, bright looping that glistened so fair—
Far down in my pocket
It lies in a locket—
The little red ribbon she wore in her hair.

—Samuel Minturn Peck in New Orleans Times Democrat.

How Servants Are Spoiled.

It is a well known fact that no French or English servant can find a place with her own country people after she has lived in an American family. Good servants are rare in every country, and they are so rare here that a lady, when she gets one, generally turns to spoiling her as the only means of keeping her. The bad servant is spoiled in the hope of wheedling her into doing better. One mistress who pays the modest sum of $25 a month for her cook says that the morning after she has given a dinner party she presents this autocrat of the dinner table with $1.

Another consults the convenience of her cook always before inviting her guests. The demand to go out from one to three times a week is a claim never questioned by the most obdurate of mistresses, but the servant who asks this here would only have a holiday once a month in England and the privilege of going to church once every Sunday. In France the conditions are the same. In this country there must be trouble until some of the women who are obliged to earn a living are willing to become servants and submit to being called by their right name, and not consider that, if they are "helps," they have equal rights with their mistresses. Then, too, the mistresses must learn how to treat their servants with perfect kindness and still without the familiarity that breeds contempt.—New York Press.

Cooking and Digestibility.

Experiments by Dr. N. Butlagin, a St. Petersburg medical student, show that the saliva is less active in digesting starch foods in invalids and weak persons than in the healthy, and that compensation for this may be had in the increased digestibility given the starchy substances by prolonged cooking. The saliva of a weak and nervous woman, with 88 per cent. of the normal activity, digested rice and peas which had been cooked three hours with the same readiness that healthy saliva digested the same foods after cooking one hour. It was further found that the difference between the effects of healthy and unhealthy saliva becomes greatly lessened when the starch is cooked for a long time.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Shortcomings of Typewriters.

It is astonishing that out of the large number of girls who learn shorthand and typewriting so few make a success of it. There is scarcely a day passes that girls do not apply to me for positions, saying that they are experts, but when it comes to the test not 5 per cent. of those who apply for positions could be considered good students. One great drawback is that most girls begin studying shorthand and typewriting before they understand the rudiments of spelling, or have the slightest idea of punctuation and capitalization. The colleges are all crowded, and have been for the past two years, with girls learning shorthand and typewriting, and yet good, reliable operators are very scarce.—Globe-Democrat.

Patrick Chalmers, of Wimbledon, England, has been engaged for some years, and apparently with much success, in demonstrating to philatelists that his father, the late James Chalmers, of Dundee, was the inventor of the adhesive postage stamp. The credit is usually given to Rowland Hill, who succeeded in getting penny postage adopted, and certainly rendered a great service in so doing, but it is claimed he took his idea from a postoffice blue book of 1836, and that, when the idea was becoming a failure in practice, Mr. Chalmers saved it by his device. In fact, a German writer has pointed out a passage in the "Penny Cyclopædia" wherein it is said that Mr. Hill stated that the idea did not originate with him. When he died, about eight years ago, and the London press gave him the entire credit of the postal reforms, there was a general protest from Dundee, where more than thirty years before Mr. Chalmers had been presented with a testimonial in honor of his having originated the adhesive stamp.

The Prosaic broker—"Oh, for the wings of a dove!" sighed the poet. "Bosh!" said his friend the broker. "The breast of a turkey is much better to fill up on."

When fragile woman sighs, deploring
The charms that quickly fade away,
What power, the blo om of health to bring
Can check the progress of decay?
The only aid that's worth attention,
For pains and ills of such description,
Thousands of women gladly mention—
'Tis "Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

The price of this royal remedy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is but one dollar. Specific for all those chronic ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women. The only medicine for such maladies, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction or money refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper. Large bottles $1. Six for $5.

Artful—"What a perfect picture Mrs. Mourn'ul is this evening!" "Indeed, yes. She is exquisitely painted."

ALWAYS KEEP THE UPPER HAND OF DISEASE.

Changes of temperature are apt to cause dangerous sickness; in the full-blooded apoplexy is to be feared. When you have a pain in the head, feel dizzy, feverish, rheumatic or sick at the stomach take at once three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Such slight affections are only the harbingers of disease or sudden prostration, and the thing to do is to master the trouble at once. Never let a little sickness get the better of you. Drive it out of doors immediately. Let there be no compromise, always have with you a box of BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and you are prepared to fight the worst form of sickness in its incipiency.

IN illustration of how fast a popular idea can travel our attention is called to a club in Scotland that has placed an order for a large lot of Cameo Cigarettes, stating their desire to adopt the brand and asking to be allowed to compete for one of the elegant pictures of Largtry or Theo, recently issued exclusively for these persons who would be one in a party who return the largest number of empty 5c boxes of this brand of cigarettes in 1888.

See Anticell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

A COMMON ENEMY

Strikes down its Helpless Victims—Saved when All Hope had Fled.

Very few of the ills from which we suffer are more painful, embarrassing and dangerous than those of the kidneys and bladder. It is important to remember that as we grow older we become more and more subject to affections of the urinary organs, and that the majority, of both sexes, who are past fifty have them in a more or less recognizable form. Take a case—one out of multitudes—

Mr. John M. Allen, a well-known and respected citizen, of Charlotte, N. Y., had suffered long from gravel. Urination became increasingly difficult, until it became almost impossible. Phycicians of marked skill and ability exerted themselves to relieve him, and succeeded to a degree, but were not able to interrupt the steady and persistent growth of this terrible renal disorder. Mr. Allen was already so exhausted that he came one day not long since into the place of business of his friend, Mr. E. D. W. Parsons, 559 Plymouth Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., and feebly said:

"Parsons, I am about dead with the gravel."

"Did you ever try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y.?"

"What's the use I've tried all the remedies, prescribed and patented, and kept on sinking downwards in spite of them."

Nevertheless Mr. Parsons finally persuaded Mr. Allen to give Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy a chance to help him if it could, and he began using it on that understanding. Weeks went by, and the friends met once more—Mr. Allen looking like a man who had been close to the grave and been snatched back.

"Mr. Parsons," he exclaimed, "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has saved my life. I acknowledge it to be a cure for gravel—and, so far as I know, the only cure."

Had Mr. Allen used it occasionally a year or two before the symptoms of his trouble manifested themselves he never would have felt them. In all complaints and diseases of the blood, liver, stomach, bowels, kidneys and bladder this preparation has a record of successes not equalled by any other ever recommended to the sick and suffering. $1, 6 for $5. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

By Degrees—"Well, Edith, did Mr. Lambrequin make you an offer of his hand last night?" "No, mamma; he's so shy, you know—has never got any further than offering me his arm, so far."

A STAB IN THE DARK

Sometimes fails of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made upon the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics as identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who attempt them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thorough medicine, adapted to the total cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient, unlike those in the imitations of it, is of an ascertained standard of excellence, and while they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both those organs it is a sedative and invigorant. Refuse all these harmful imitations.

A clergyman who preached in a prison a Sunday or two since, began his discourse in a traditional way, thus: "I am glad, my friends, to see so many of you here this morning."

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURG, PA.

Receive what cheer you may; the night is long that never finds the day.—Shakespeare.

THIEF ARRESTED.

The news was received with the utmost satisfaction by the community that he had terrorized; but the arrest of a disease that is stealing away a loved and valued life, is an achievement that should inspire heart-felt gratitude. Chiliness, cold extremities, depressed spirits, and extremely miserable sensations, with pale, wan features, are the results of disordered kidneys and liver. Arrest the cause at once by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a purely vegetable detective, that will ferret out and capture the most subtle lung or blood disorder. Druggists.

Hood suggested that the phrase "republic of letters" was hit upon to insinuate that, taking the whole lot of authors together, they hadn't a sovereign among them.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA the Great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifyer, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c. RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster.

TO THE LADIES!

Jacobs & Co.

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES' CHILDREN'S & INFANTS' WEAR.

113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every gram of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists San Francisco, Agents

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 314

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging, most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

Inquisitive Party—Whose funeral is this? Irish Undertaker—Mine, sor.

IS THIS WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery, and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

Anger is the mother of cruelty; cruelty is the mother of crime.

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Asthma, Catarrh, and other Diseases of the Bronchial Tubes, no more useful article can be found than "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Harmless as pure water, fragrant as the sweetest flowers, is RUBIFOAM, that liquid substitute for tooth powder. It makes the teeth pearly white, and the breath sweet and pure.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK.

—AND—

Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. CATES & CO., Proprietors, 417 Sansome St., San Francisco.

You will save Money, Time, Pain, Trouble, AND WILL CURE CATARRH By Using ELY'S CREAM BALM

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD. CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price, 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Romish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BEWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

Fairbanks

STANDARD SCALES,

Grain Trucks, Bag Holders, Pinch Bars, Coffee Mills, Grocers Supplies and Fittings, Asbestos Packed Cocks, Standard Thermometers, Golden Gate Windmills,

Send for Illustrated List to

FAIRBANKS & HUTCHINSON, 519 Market Street, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Note St. Jacobs Oil FOR STABLEMEN AND STOCKMEN

It is the Greatest Remedy known FOR Horses and Cattle

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS. THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

CLOSING OUT

OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF SUMMER BALBRIGGAN UNDERWEAR, at $1 and $1.50 per suit.

Latest designs in PERCALE SHIRTS, three latest style Collars and one pair Cuffs, $1.50 each.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS, 232 Kearny St., near Bush.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute

Staff of Eighteen Experienced and Skillful Physicians and Surgeons.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY.—Patients treated here or at their homes. Many treated at home, through correspondence, as successfully as if here in person. Come and see us, or send ten cents in stamps for our "Invalids' Guide-Book," which gives all particulars. Address: WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and overworked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. The treatment of many thousands of such cases, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute has afforded a large experience in adapting remedies for their cure, and is the result of this vast experience. For internal congestion, inflammation and ulceration, it is a Specific. It is a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, exhaustion, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

OR SIX BOTTLES FOR $5.00.

PRICE $1.00,

Send 10 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered). Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

SIZE OF PELLETS

ANTI-BILIOUS and CATHARTIC.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, and Bilious Attacks, promptly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. 25 cents a vial, by Druggists.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

PRETTY TALK!

We are not closing out; we are not selling at half price; we are not offering auction goods or goods bought at Sheriff sale or obtained through the misfortune of our fellow men at less than one-half their real value. You see and hear this kind of pretty talk all over town. It is used to entrap the ignorant and inexperienced, and is seldom, if ever, true. Our patrons, we are glad to say, belong to another class. They are intelligent and economical, pay cash for what they want, and expect good value for the money. We talk plainly to them, and try to present things as they really are. We have a large stock of goods and a wonderful variety of useful things, bought on the best terms from reliable manufacturers and dealers. If we see a chance to secure a good bargain, we accept it, and give our customers the benefit of our opportunity, but never at the expense of quality or reputation. Just now we have some Raisins, very good to cook, at 4c and 5c, and Figs, Pears, Apricots, Prunes, Plums, Apples or Peaches at 5c, and all good value. Next week we publish our new list. Please send for copy to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

Paine's Celery Compound

For The NERVOUS The DEBILITATED The AGED.

A NERVE TONIC. Celery and Coca, the prominent ingredients, are the best and safest Nerve Tonics. It strengthens and quiets the nervous system, curing Nervous Weakness, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, &c.

AN ALTERATIVE. It drives out the poisonous humors of the blood purifying and enriching it, and so overcoming those diseases resulting from impure or impoverished blood.

A LAXATIVE. Acting mildly but surely on the bowels it

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY.....AUGUST 4 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 8. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 4, 1888. WHOLE NO. 927.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

ON LIFE'S THRESHOLD

How Little Arthur Got Even with His Mother.

Arthur, who is forbidden to speak at the table, had his revenge the other day. As dinner began he was uneasy, and finally said, "Ma, can't I speak just one word."

"You know the rule, Arthur."

"Not one word?"

"No, Arthur; not until your father finishes the paper."

Arthur subsided until the paper was finished, when he was asked what he wished to say.

"Oh, nothing; only Nora put the custards outside the window to cool and the cat has been eating them up."—Harper's Young People.

A Plea for the Dolls.

The good women who are so busy reforming the world have taken up the doll enormity now, and are to make public sentiment too warm for it. "Hamlet" with the Prince left out would be spirited and entertaining compared with a little girl's universe that was doll-less. There is a queer little element of sacredness in the relation between the inanimate pet and the live one that we saw amusingly and touchingly illustrated the other day. A small girl was holding her largest and most beloved doll well outside the window, and her mother protested, saying: "You will drop your big dollie; why do you hold it out there so long?" "I was showing it to God," said the baby, and the mother did not find, for the time, anything more to say. It might be as well to do away with a few other abuses, good women, before dooming the doll.—Boston Commonwealth.

A Reasonable Hypothesis.

One never hears of an event so sad but that some element of humor lurks about it. A little girl who lives on State street near the dentist's office where the shooting affray occurred this week happened to hear the pistol shots and shouts for the police. Revolving it a moment in her baby mind a plausible explanation seemed to dawn upon her, and turning to her father she remarked: "He must have pulled a wrong tooth for somebody."—Albany Journal.

A Neat Phrase.

Children sometimes hit upon a phrase which conveys more than pages in which their elders have striven to set forth things clearly, and an instance was afforded recently by a girl of 6. She had been present while her mother received a call from a neighbor, one of those immeasurably voluble women who are the terror of their friends, and after the caller had departed she said to her mother with the utmost seriousness:

"Mamma, I don't think I like Mrs. Blank. She leaks words all the time."—Boston Courier.

Sermon by a Little Colored Boy.

A little colored boy in South Carolina made an attempt to write an excuse to his teacher for his absence as follows: "Dear Affectionately Teacher: Ise sorry I couldn't come to school on Friday, but I couldn't cause it rain and dat's de way it go in dis world. If de Lord shut de door, no man can open de door. If de Lord say 'it rain,' no man stop it rain. But de Lord, he do all things well. And you oughn't to growl about it."—Lowell (Mass.) New Moon.

Sympathy.

Three little boys in a down river town attend the same school. They are but 4 years old and are in the same class. The other day they were called out by the teacher and asked to spell a certain word. They all failed, and one of the little fellows looked up to the teacher and said: "Now, Mr. M., you are in a terrible fix, ain't you?"—Bangor Commercial.

The Whirled of Dogs.

Mrs. Oliphant—Is Raggles on the box, Michael? I thought I heard him bark.

Michael—He's not, ma'am. He got uneasy a shpell back, an' Oi put him aff fer a bit av a shpin. He'll soon catch up.—Judge.

Not Going Hungry.

Young Mr. Wabash—May I have the pleasure of acting as your escort to supper, Miss Breezy?

Miss Breezy (scanning her card)—Oh, thanks, awfully; I see Mr. Porcine's name is down for the first valse in that direction. But you may have the second, Mr. Wabash.—New York Sun.

English as She Is Sung.

Polite Caller—I did not know you were such an accomplished linguist, Miss Highnote.

Amateur Soprano—Linguist?

"Yes. What language were you singing in just now, Italian, German, French or Spanish?"

"I was singing in English, sir."—Omaha World.

They Got Something.

Wife—Is that a fact that burglars broke into your bank last night?

Husband—Yes, my dear.

"Did they get anything?"

"Not until this morning. Then the judge gave them three years."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Timely Suggestion.

"Bobby," said his mother sternly, "I punished you only last week for running away, and yet you have done it again today. I don't know what I shall do."

"Why not give up punishing me, ma," suggested Bobby, "it doesn't seem to do any good?"—New York Sun.

Gotham's Paternal Government.

New York Dame—Oh, dear, there's my hair coming down again. I don't see why hairpins can't be made so they'll stay where they're put.

Husband—Well, I'll write to Mayor Hewitt about it.—Omaha World.

An Opportunity Opened.

Those persons who tell the editor "how to run his paper," should apply for positions in Cornell university. A school of journalism is to be established in that institution, and instructors may be needed.—Norristown Herald.

STEPHEN GIRARD

The Founder of One of America's Greatest Institutions of Learning.

Stephen Girard was a remarkable man, and one who certainly holds a place among the prominent men of America. He was the son of a distinguished naval officer, and was born in Bordeaux, France, in the year 1750. In 1774, he sailed for New York, and, in 1776, first arrived in Philadelphia. In the latter place he was very successful in all his ventures, and so the Quaker City became his home. Girard was a man who would not brook disobedience. He sent a young supercargo to the Dead Sea in charge of a cargo, with orders to sell it at a port which he named. The enterprising young man, finding he could make $6,000 more by selling his cargo at another port, did so, expecting to please his master by his business capability, and proudly handed Mr. Girard the extra thousands. But the Frenchman, so far from showing delight, informed the officer that this disobedience would compel him to dispense with his services in future.

In 1793, the yellow fever broke out in Philadelphia. There were four thousand and thirty-one deaths in the city from the first of August to the ninth of November. Here the nobility of Girard was shown, for when many of the rich fled, he remained and performed most humble and self-sacrificing offices for the sick and the dying, devoting many hours every day to nursing in the hospital. In Mr. Ingram's "Life of Girard" is quoted an extract from the United States Gazette of 1832, in which a merchant records that he saw a carriage drive up to a house during the pestilence. "A short, thick-set man stepped from the coach and entered the house," and on emerging from it "his arm was around the waist of a sick man, whose yellow face rested" upon his shoulder, as he carried the invalid, and the sick man's feet were "dragging helpless along the pavement." He was driven to the hospital in the carriage of the man whom Philadelphia looked upon with dislike. A few years later Girard opened a bank bearing his own name. We learn from Ingram, that during the war of 1812 "Girard's bank was the very right hand of the National credit, for when other banks were contracting, it was Girard who stayed the panic by a timely and liberal expansion—and frequent were the calls made upon him by the Government for temporary loans, which calls were invariably responded to immediately." In 1814, Girard risked his whole fortune, at a time when all the prominent capitalists held back and failed the Government in its time of need.

Girard was a warm friend of Joseph Bonaparte, the brother of Napoleon I. They dined together very often in the merchant's quiet home in Philadelphia. Prince Murat and Baron Lallemand were also intimate with Girard, who had few friends among the natives of the country of his adoption. When he died, in 1831, at the age of eighty-one, the city gave him a public funeral. Flags were hung at half-mast, and a civic procession marched through the streets to do honor to his memory.—Alice Maude Fenn, in St. Nicholas.

THE POPE'S PRESENTS.

Will Carleton Sees Them and Gives a Hint as to Their Splendor.

As a mark of special favor I was taken by one of the attendants at the Vatican to see the Pope's presents. What warehouses full of wealth have been sent for this aged man to look at just before he steps into the grave! They are all his own; have been given him absolutely; he has had them insured for over a million dollars. But those who look upon his frail form and white face know that the possession of them must consist merely of a glance.

Here are some of the queerest as well as the grandest things that could ever be sent to a ruler, temporal or spiritual. Gold and silver have been hewn by the smith's cunning knife into every sort of jewel that the enthusiastic mind could invent. Diamonds flashed their way here from every direction. Kings and Queens could not have sent more magnificence if they had drawn upon their stock of crown jewels. In the midst of these gleaming signals to the senses is a plain though richly bound copy of the Constitution of the United States—refreshing in its grand simplicity, and full of instruction for any potentate who will read it.

Here are slippers, enough to have clad the feet of every Pope that has lived, and more pontifical robes than Leo can ever wear. Here are topboots, embroidered sofa pillows, muskets, medicine cases, sets of carpenters' tools and enough clocks to make green with envy the Philadelphia collection of a certain unwilling candidate for the Presidency. Among the things which people wonder what the Pope will do with are a lot of baby clothes and rattle boxes.

Here are tokens from Catholic missionaries all over the world. War costumes, stuffed monkeys and birds, carved ivory, pictorial histories of Buddha and Confucius, the teeth of the beasts and the stings of the reptiles which the Pope's messengers have to encounter in the torrid zones and on the islands of the sea. Many of these seem to say to Leo: "See what your missionaries suffer for the cause!" There are also hundreds of knapsacks ready packed for missionaries who are yet to go. Each of these contains an altar service and a relic of some saint, without which mass could not be said. Hundreds of new church bells are in the adjacent garden waiting to be sent as silver-tonged messengers to some new temple of worship.—Will Carleton, in Philadelphia Press.

STEAMSHIP STATISTICS.

The Enormous Amount of Provender Required for a Single Trip.

Commissioner Morton, of the Bureau of Navigation, says that 50 years ago a transatlantic steamer burned 44 tons of coal daily, while the most recently built vessel in this trade burns 300 tons. The latter also consumes 130 gallons of oil every day and requires 287 persons to man her throughout. For a single passage to the westward she had the following quantities of provisions: 12,550 pounds fresh beef, 760 pounds of corned beef, 5,230 pounds mutton, 850 pounds lamb, 350 pounds veal, 350 pounds pork, 2,000 pounds fresh fish, 600 fowls, 300 chickens, 100 ducks, 50 geese, 80 turkeys, 200 brace grouse, 15 tons potatoes, 30 hampers vegetables, 220 quarts ice cream, 1,000 quarts milk and 11,500 eggs. In groceries alone there were over 200 different articles, including (for the round voyage of 22 days) 650 pounds of tea, 1,200 pounds of coffee, 1,600 pounds white sugar, 2,800 pounds moist sugar, 750 pounds pulverized sugar, 1,500 pounds cheese, 2,000 pounds butter, 3,500 pounds ham, 1,000 pounds bacon. Lemons were used at the rate of 1½ per day per head; oranges three per head per day, and apples, when in season, at the rate of 2¾ per head per day. The quantities of wines, spirits, beer, etc., put on board for consumption on the round voyage comprises 1,100 bottles champagne, 850 bottles claret, 6,000 ale, 2,500 bottles porter, 4,500 bottles mineral water, 650 bottles of various spirits. Crockery is broken very extensively, being at the rate of 900 plates, 280 cups, 438 saucers, 1,214 tumblers, 200 wine glasses, 27 decanters and 63 water bottles in a single voyage. No less than 4,656 sheep, 1,800 lambs and 2,474 oxen are consumed on the entire fleet of one line each year. This is equivalent to 2,091,754 pounds of meat. Eight hundred and thirty-one thousand six hundred and three eggs, 21,000 pounds of tea and 71,770 pounds of coffee, sweetened by 296,100 pound of sugar, are used in a year, while the following articles also figure largely: One and one-half tons of mustard, 1¾ tons of pepper, 7,216 bottles of pickels, 8,000 tins of sardines, 30 tons salt cod and ling, 4,192 four-pound jars jam, 15 tons marmalade, 22 tons raisins, currants and figs, 13 tons split peas, 15 tons pearl barley, 17 tons of rice, 34 tons oatmeal, 460 tons flour, 23 tons biscuits, 33 tons salt, 48,962 loaves of bread (8 pounds each), 53 tons hams, 20 tons bacon, 35 tons cheese, 930 tons potatoes, 24,075 fowls, 4,230 ducks, 2,200 turkeys, 2,260 geese, 31,312 tablets toilet soap, 3,484 pounds white soap, 10 tons yellow soap. The heaviest item in the annual consumption is naturally coal, of which 356,764 tons are burned, or almost 1,000 tons for every day in the year. The consumption of engine oil is 104,043 gallons; of burning oils, 23,020 gallons; of paint oil, 9,290 gallons; of waste, 90 tons; of white lead, 51 tons; of red lead, 12 tons. The aggregate employment of labor by the company is 34 captains, 146 officers, 628 engineers, boilermakers and carpenters, 665 seamen, 916 firemen, 900 stewards, 62 stewardesses, 42 women to keep the upholstery and linen in order, with 1,100 men as a shore gang, or about 4,500 people to run the ships of one line. The vessels traverse yearly a distance equal to five times that between the earth and the moon.—Albany Argus.

AN ELK'S BATTLE.

His Terrible Struggle with a Pack of Ferocious Wild Dogs.

A stockman in from the Wind river range, Wy. T., tells of a fierce and exciting battle between a courageous old elk and the wild dogs that infest the Wind river region. The river escapes from the mountains and hills into what is known as the busin district over high and beautiful hills named the Maiden Hair. While riding near these falls a few days ago, the stockman's attention was attracted by a deep baying, and, at once recognizing the sound as coming from savage dogs, and realizing the necessity of getting out of the way, the horseman rode rapidly to the top of a neighboring hill, which commanded an excellent view of the falls and also of the surrounding country. He had scarcely reached the top of the hill wheg he saw, dashing along a high ridge running parallel to the river, a magnificent buck elk, hotly chased by a dozen or more mountain dogs. The race had evidentle been on for some time, for the elk appeared to be about exhausted and the dogs were not in the best of condition. On swept the pursued and the pursuers, every bound bringing the dogs nearer the haunches of the tired elk. Suddenly the elk changed his course and plunged down the side of the ridge, making straight for the falls. Overhanging the edge of the river, and towering directly above the pool at the foot of the falls, was a huge rock. On this rock the bull made his way, and planting himself within a few feet of the edge and with lowered antlers, awaited the attack. He did not have to wait long. The dogs came with a rush and hurled themselves at their prey. First one and then another dog was caught in the elk's antlers and sent howling into the depths below. Just when the fight was the hottest the rock, or ledge, upon which the battle was being fougnt, suddenly gave way, and with a crash the combatants were dropped into the water and rocks at the foot of the falls, and their bruised and bleeding remains were swept on down the stream.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

—Cast-iron stoves and iron ware should be heated gradually the first time they are used.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—General Crook stands six feet in his stockings, and is as straight as an arrow. He has been thirty-six years in the service.

—Cornelius Vanderbilt's income from his capital is said to be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 a month, while that of William K. is not far behind it.

—An English lord recently kept his birthday in a novel manner by inviting his friends to receive the Holy Communion with him. About sixty responded.

—The late Chief Justice Waite and Judge Field, of the United States Supreme Court, were born within twenty miles of each other in Connecticut, in in the same month of the same year.

—The late Dr. Agnew claimed that since the Biblical era no person had ever lived one hundred years, and that in the cases where the contrary was claimed, mistakes in dates had occurred.

—Mrs. Eliza Chappell Porter, who died the other day at the age of eighty, is sincerely mourned in Chicago. She taught the first school in that city, and her husband, Dr. Jeremiah Porter, preached the first sermon.

—Senator Ingalls has had eleven children, seven of whom survive. The names given to his offspring have been somewhat peculiar: Ellsworth, Ruth, Ethel, Ralph, Addison, Constance, Sheffield, Faith, Marion, Muriel, Louise.

—A New York lady who recently gave a ball is said to have hired a perambulatory coffee and cake vender to take his stand in the street and distribute, at her cost, cakes, coffee and chocolate to the hack drivers and to all others waiting on her invited guests.

—Mrs. Alice J. Shaw, the musical whistler, speaking of her career, said recently: "I was a whistling girl, and my friends always told me that if I would cultivate my talent I would find a fortune in it. I have not found the fortune yet, but my success has been beyond any thing I ever dreamed of."

—Boulanger visited the United States in 1881. He came over here as the chief of the French mission for the celebration of the centenary of Yorktown. He says that it is a pet idea of his to make another visit to America for the purpose of studying our form of government. He expresses the opinion that the United States is a model Republic, and says that his highest ambition is to give France such a constitution as ours.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE."

—Try buttermilk for the removal of tan and walnut stains and freckles. If that is not efficacious, try sand-paper.—Puck.

—Fair friend—"And do you ever soak your brushes, Mr. Palette?" Artist—"No. I'm happy to say I never was reduced so low as that."—Harvard Lampoon.

—"What made the Tower of Pisa lean?" "Because of the famine in the land," said a small boy who got the tower confused with Joseph's brethren.—The Teacher.

—A Chicago man who had grown rich selling hams built a country seat, but had some difficulty in finding a name to suit. A friend suggested that he call it the All-hambra.

—"How soft the moonlight sleeps upon the bank!" exclaimed the poetic burglar, toying with his drill. "I wish the same might be said of the watchman," replied his companion.

—Swell—"I'm going to resign from my club." Friend—"I thought you liked it so much." Swell—"Used to be all right, but society is getting too mixed. Why, I met my pawnbroker there the other night!"—Harper's Magazine.

—A woman had her picture, with others, in a daily paper under the heading "Labor's Female Cohorts;" and, in remarking hysterically that she had never been a cohort in her life, took to her bed and didn't rise for three weeks.—Judge.

—A High Office.—"What does your father do?" asked the teacher of the new boy. "He's a contractor," was the reply. "A railroad contractor?" "No ma'am, a sausage contractor. He ties up the ends after another man has filled them."—Tid-Bits.

—Sunday School Teacher—"What does it mean, Johnny, in the prayer where it says 'Lead us not into temptation.'" Johnny—"W'y I guess it means, they needn't trouble theirselves because we can go into it ourselves without leadin'."—Critic.

—At the close of a recent performance at the opera house, and while the crowd was retiring, a lady's garment was caught in a seat. A gallant Irishman rushed to the rescue, and asked the trouble. "My lace is caught," she said. "Hould on a bit, lady," said he, "and I'll relase ye."—Bangor Commercial.

—How to get into a mess and how to get out of it.—At an art exhibition: "That picture of X's is a fearful daub, don't you think?" The gentleman addressed: "I beg your pardon but I'm the artist." "Oh, I beg ten thousand pardons! The fact is, I don't know any thing about art—I just repeat what I hear everyone saying!"

'I hope the Colonel didn't seem at all annoyed when you presented him with my account, Penwipe," said Mouldby to his confidential clerk. "O, dear, no, sir; he was affable as you please, offered me a cigar and a glass of wine, then he glanced over the bill, nodded his head pleasantly, said 'That will be all right,' rolled it up and lighted his pipe with it," answered Penwipe, chirpily.—Fun.

INSIGNIA OF MERIT.

European Orders of Knighthood of More Than Ordinary Interest.

Inquiry has been made as to the significance of the Iron Cross the late Emperor William was so desirous to have buried with him. The Iron Cross is the chief badge of military service, and was conferred upon William when he was a Prince by his brother, then King, for great bravery and soldierly conduct. This was in 1849, when he was given supreme command of the royal forces when Baden and the Palatinate rushed into arms against constituted authority. The cross was more prized by him because he had been recalled from banishment—he was exiled by imperial order in 1848—and the order pour le merite, better than his recall, attested his restoration to favor. The order of the Iron Cross was founded by Frederick William in 1813. The insignia is a cast-iron cross with silver mountings and bearing no inscription on the reverse; the upper part of the obverse contains the initials "F. W." surmounted on a crown; the center is adorned with three oak leaves, below which is the number 1813. When the cross is conferred for military merit, the ribbon supporting it is of black watered silk with white stripes; for civil merit, the ribbon is white watered silk with black stripes.

Other European orders may be referred to with interest. The Royal Prussian order of the Black Eagle, founded in 1701 by Frederick, is a blue enameled cross, each arm of which is forked with a center gold monogram "F. R." (Fredricus Rex) and a crowned black eagle with spread wings. The motto is "Suum Cique" (every one his due). The order is never conferred upon persons below thirty years of age. Germany has also the order of the Red Eagle, the second order of the kingdom, founded 1705; the royal order of the House of Hohenzollern, a gold cross with white and black enamel, founded 1841; the order of Louise, a small black enameled gold cross, founded in 1814, exclusively reserved for ladies; the Bavarian order of St. Hubert, founded 1444, to be admitted to which requires that one should have been six years a member of the civil order of merit of the Bavarian crown.

Austria shares with Spain, since the time of Charles V., the right of the order of the Golden Fleece, founded in 1429 by Philip III., the Good, Duke of Burgundy and Count of Flanders. The French Legion of Honor was founded in 1802 as a reward of civil merit or military valor. The highest order of Russia is that of St. Andrew, founded 1698, and is conferred exclusively on persons of the most exalted rank. It is represented by a blue enameled figure of St. Andrew on the cross. Russia has a military order of St. George, founded in 1769, which is never conferred but for a gallantry at sea or in the field. The insignia is a white enameled cross with gold rim, on the obverse side of which is an image of St. George and the dragon.

Spain has numerous orders, the oldest being that of Calatrava, founded in 1158, and is now a court distinction rarely conferred. The order of Alcantara was founded in 1177, and is limited to those who can prove noble descent through at least four generations. The orders of Great Britain are more or less famous. The first in dignity is that of the Garter, founded in 1349. The next that of the Thistle, founded in 1540, the motto of which is "Nemo me impune lacessit;" that of St. Patrick, 1783, "Quis Separabit?" that of the Bath, 1389, "Tria juncta in uno;" the Star of India, 1861, motto, "Heaven's Light Our Guide;" St. Michael and St. George, 1818. The chief order of Brazil is that of Pedro, founded in 1822.

Denmark has one of the most illustrious orders of chivalry, the order of the Elephant, which ranks even with that of the Garter, founded at an uncertain date, but probably in the twelfth century. It is limited to thirty knights. Italy's chief order is that of the Annunciada, reorganized in 1518. Sweden has the nobler order of the Seraph, founded 1280, and limited to twenty-three natives and eight foreigners.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

South American Mosquitoes.

Some ludicrous stories are told about adventures with the mosquitoes. I have been solemnly assured that often when they have attacked a boat and driven its captain and crew below they have broken the windows of the cabin by plunging in swarms against them, and have attempted to burst in the doors. Although this may be something of an exaggeration, it is nevertheless true that frequently horses and cattle, after the most frightful sufferings, have died from mosquito bites on board the vessels. Not long ago a herd of valuable cattle were being taken from the United States to a ranch upon the Magdalena river, and became so desperate under the attacks of the mosquitoes that they broke from their stalls and all were drowned. Passengers intending to make the voyage usually provide themselves with protection in the shape of mosquito bars, head nets and thick gloves, and when on deck are compelled to tie their sleeves around their wrists and their pantaloons around their ankles.—American Magazine.

—The latest medical theory prescribes only two meals a day—one at the beginning and one at the end of the day. If people adopt this plan and carefully avoid working between meals life would be much easier. It is working so much between meals that makes life so hard.—Norwich Bulletin.

—Washington Territory now claims to have over 200,000 inhabitants.

FAR WESTERN THIEVES.

How They Have to Be Watched After They Are Captured.

Having captured our men, we were in a quandary how to keep them. The cold was so intense that to tie them tightly hand and foot meant, in all likelihood, freezing both hands and feet off during the night; and it was no use tying them at all unless we tied them tightly enough to stop in part the circulation. So nothing was left for us to do but to keep perpetual guard over them. Of course we had carefully searched them, and taken away not only their fire-arms and knives, but every thing else that could possibly be used as a weapon. By this time they were pretty well cowed, as they found out very quickly that they would be well treated so long as they remained quiet, but would receive some rough handling if they attempted any disturbance.

Our next step was to cord their weapons up in some bedding, which we sat on while we took supper. Immediately afterward we made the men take off their boots—an additional safeguard, as it was a cactus country, in which a man could travel barefoot only at the risk of almost certainly laming himself for life—and go to bed, all three lying on one buffalo robe and being covered by another, in the full light of the blazing fire. We determined to watch in succession a half-night apiece, thus each getting a full rest every third night. I took first watch, my two companions, revolver under head, rolling up in their blankets on the side of the fire opposite that on which the captives lay; while I, in fur cap, gantlets and overcoat, took my station a little way back in the circle of firelight, in a position in which I could watch my men with the absolute certainty of being able to stop any movement, no matter how sudden. For this night-watching we always used the double-barrel with buck-shot, as a rifle is uncertain in the dark; while with a shot-gun at such a distance, and with men lying down, a person who is watchful may be sure that they can not get up, no matter how quick they are, without being riddled. The only danger lies in the extreme monotony of sitting still in the dark guarding men who make no motion, and the consequent tendency to go to sleep, especially when one has had a hard day's work and is feeling really tired. But neither on the first night nor on any subsequent one did we ever abate a jot of our watchfulness.—Theodore Roosevelt, in Century.

EVOLUTION IN FROGS.

A Series of Marvelous Changes Revealed by the Little Croakers.

Viewed from this development point of view, it is interesting to observe how the infancy and adolescence of the individual frog accurately repeats for us, as it were, the various steps in the slow evolution of its whole kind from some unknown and pre-historic progenitor. The tiny tadpole is not only a fish, but also distinctively a fish of a very early and antique type, showing close analogies to the most ancient known form of vertebrate animal, the boneless lancelet, as well as to the larva of those curious sac-like molluscan creatures, the ascidians or sea squirts, presumed degenerate descendants of the oldest undeveloped ancestral vertebrate. As it grows, however, its gills and other characteristics become more truly fish-like, and it feeds entirely in this early stage on vegetable matter, like its piscine relatives, the barramunda and the other amphibious forms of ganoids. But as the season for the drying up of the ponds approaches, it takes to itself lungs, with a peculiar mode of breathing through the nostrils by the aid of the tongue; it gradually repeats the ancestral stages in the acquisition of legs; its eyes push through the skin to the surface; it hops ashore, a full-fledged frog; and its beak giving place to true carnivorous jaws, it feeds henceforth exclusively upon its later diet of insects, slugs and other animal matter. The common English frog thus appears to sum up for us, in a single generation, a series of most marvelous historical changes which it must probably have taken its remote ancestors whole geological ages to pass through in long succession.

Gladstone's London House.

Mr. Gladstone's London House is near Buckingham Gate. It is in the old—not the new fangled—Queen Ann style, and the drawing-room windows overlook the parade-grounds of the Wellington Barracks. Mr. Gladstone likes spending a few moments now and then watching the soldiers go through their drill. The entrance-hall is square and roomy, paneled, as is the staircase, with fine Chippendale carving, and lighted by a stained-glass window. In it are a few reproductions of the Autotype Gallery, and a large picture of the entrance to Alexandria, which must recall to the ex Premier each time he enters the house one of the most unpleasing reminiscences of his official life. The dining-room is on the ground floor, and it is of somewhat restricted dimensions. Above it is the drawing-room, which is a long, charming room. In one corner is a portrait of Mr. Gladstone painted by Watts, and in the middle window is placed Mrs. Gladstone's writing-table. It is shut in by a screen on which hang portraits of her husband and younger son. The room in which Mr. Gladstone works is at the back of the house, and is in consequence free from all noise. Not even the sound of a passing cab-wheel can break in on his quiet.—London Letter.

SCOTCH OIL MINES.

The Curious Petroleum Field at West Calder, Scotland.

William Findley, of West Calder, Scotland, which is the ancient oil shale region of that country, has been making a tour of the Pennsylvania petroleum fields during the last few weeks, and was in New York this week.

"I am more than amazed," said he, "at what I have seen. The petroleum of Scotland is mined like coal, and although I had read of the oil-wells of America, I was not prepared for such a vast difference in the methods of oil production. The Scotch petroleum is not in the fluid state, but in a shale formation. The extracting of the products of this shale was for many years a most important industry, and is quite an extensive one yet; but the American oil, both illuminating and lubricating, is now set down in our markets cheaper than the Scotch oil can be produced, and how long our oil production will last is only a question of how long national pride will resist considerations of economy.

The Scotch oil shale is black, and lies at a depth of about four hundred feet beneath the surface. The shale-producing regions are all between Edinburgh and Glasgow, and are known as the oil fields of West Calder. They are very extensive and literally inexhaustible. That is one hope we have. The fluid oil of this country will undoubtedly become exhausted or greatly curtailed in production some time in the future. It would not be kind in me to say that I hope so, but, well, I am interested in West Calder. When your fields cease to pour out a quantity of oil that enables you to refine it, export it, and sell it in Scotland at a less figure than it costs us to extract the oil from the shales at the very threshold of Scotch markets we will come to the front with our oil mines again, and know whatever happens they can't be exhausted.

When the oil fields of West Calder were being operated to a full capacity the shale refinery there known as the Addiswell oil works, and which cover seventy-five acres of ground, gave employment to over two thousand men. In various parts of the field there were shale crushing works, not unlike your coal breakers where the shale is run on being taken from the mines. It is broken up into small pieces, and the crude oil extracted at the crushers. What we call crude oil, you would call tar over here. The refiners take it in that condition, and from it extract illuminatin and lubricating oil, ammonia and wax. The latter is called parafine in the oil trade of this country. The tar from a ton of shale will yield fourteen gallons of illuminating oil. This is subjected to four different acid distillations, each one much heavier than any the American fluid petroleum requires. The result is a clear, white high-flash illuminant as good as American kerosene, but four times as expensive. If the American product simply came in competition with our illuminating oil, the effect on our trade would not be of much consequence, as in that branch of the Scotch oil business is not where the profit lies. The lubricant, the ammonia, and the wax are the products which make the shale mines valuable. The American lubricating oil is cheaper, and those who use it say better than any. The latter altogether I can't agree with. Of course the American oil does not interfere with our ammonia products, nor with our wax trade, but we can't afford to produce kerosene and lubricating oil to throw away in order that we may get at the ammonia and wax that the shale contains. I am forced to say, therefore, to use an Americanism, that the Scotch oil business is not booming at the present time.—N. Y. Sun.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

How Girls Are Taught Gymnastics in Several High Schools.

The Pittsburgh (Pa.) high school is a pioneer in the matter of physical culture for women. Several times a week the girls of that institution are put through a course of Indian clubs, dumb-bells and other appliances for gymnastics. So far the boys have been excluded.

As a result of this, other institutions have taken this idea up.

The Washington (Pa.) school has recently received a donation of a complete outfit for a gymnasium for girls from a wealthy resident of that place.

The costume is the regular gymnastic dress. It resembles a bathing suit, and consists of what is called the "Flower" waist, short skirt and bloomers. The more variety in color and material, the prettier the effect when donned by a lot of pretty girls. Tennis shoes are worn. The object is to secure freedom of motion and unimpeded circulation.

The appliances are ladders and rings, parallel bars, dumb-bells, Indian clubs, wands, etc. In some of the classes boxing and fencing is added to the list. Then there is running, jumping, wrestling, etc. The class movements are timed by music.

There is nothing prettier in the world than a bevy of pretty girls swinging on cross-bars, shinning up ladders, or swinging dumb-bells and Indian clubs in rythmic motion to inspiring music. It is the cutest little circus imaginable.

Their eyes sparkle, their cheeks glow, their health and muscles develop, and their tempers evaporate into pellucid pleasantness, and all the blessings of a healthful mind in a perfect body.—St. L

—There, p[illegible] the United [illegible] so named [illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4.....1888

The Grand Jury of San Francisco in its report says that a saloonkeeper, aided by a few pugilists, rockrollers and ballot box stuffers is able to make captive 50,000 voters. It will be a happy day when the "boss" disappears from politics; but it is greatly to be feared that day will not dawn till Gabriel is ready to call the human race to order to celebrate the event.

We need a revival of the doctrine of State rights. The two Federal Judges, Sawyer and Sabin, assume to be above, not only the power of the State of California, but of the Congress of the United States. With almost unanimous voice the people of California declared their opposition to the admission of any more Chinese; Congress passed a law for their exclusion; yet these two Judges have nullified the law and contemptuously disregard the expressed will of the people of the State. So far as the Chinese are concerned these two Judges have robbed California of the local self government guaranteed to each State of the Union by the Constitution. The Chinese evil has now reached that stage where, according to the Declaration of Independence, men are justified in resistance by other means when the forms of law are no longer effective to afford protection against wrong and secure them in their just rights. It is an agravation of the wrong done by these judges that they are conceded to be able men; and that they err, not through ignorance or stupidity, but with knowledge and evil design. The motive for their wrong doing may be found in the large sums of money made by all concerned in landing the Chinese.

MISCELLANEOUS.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.

SECOND
ANNUAL FAIR
Agricultural District
No. 18.
STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
Composed Of the Counties of
ALPINE, MONO & INYO.
TO BE HELD AT
Independence
Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstake or as a member of a family. Animals which are sired or owned by a stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than three | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS VI.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched cattle team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 10 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion any breed or age Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best heifer calf | 10 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $ 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of agricultural products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ½ doz watermelon | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| Single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| best variety of jellies | 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.
CLASS I
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| raisin | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.
CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.
CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $ 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil satin and Japanese fancies | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.
CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| second best quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| other articles | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf towards | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall pocket, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk or flannel | 2 00 |
| embroidery | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| hearth rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display and best work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| crochet work, silk | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| net work quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.
CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $ 5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground by 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ⅝ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m. sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday | January 28th |
| " | February 25th |
| " | March 24th |
| " | April 21st |
| " | May 19th |
| " | June 23rd |
| " | July 21st |
| " | August 18th |
| " | September 15th |
| " | October 13th |
| " | November 17th |
| " | December 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 361, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO. CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.
☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb1 26f

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known and favorably established stables patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 156.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Jan. 22, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that John Kupert, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof of his desert land claim No. 156, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Sec 22, Tp 14 S, R 35 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence, Cal., on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyer, Fritz Strohmeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sep 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may see their address and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars
Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising and as a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no capital or ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R
TAKING EFFECT
Tuesday, April 10th, 1888

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Layton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 a. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Mina | 6 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodas Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 0 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 3 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 1 10 p. m. | 11 25 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 0 a. m. |
| Averill | 2 00 p. m. | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 0 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 8 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 6 05 p. m. | Lv. 7 0 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with trains on V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (36 miles); Bodie (67 miles); Keeler and Bishop.

At LALLANING (12½ miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Cobb's tri-weekly stages for Ione, Mineral, Berlin, Ione City and Pine Grove, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbia (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜
Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 249.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 249, for the E ½ of N W ¼, N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼, N E ¼ of S W ¼ Sec 13, Tp 14 S R 36 E, N W ¼, N ½ of S W ¼ Sec 18, Tp 14 S, R 35 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office, at Independence, Cal., on Tuesday, the 14th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.
Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.
Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.
D. S. No. 1228.
LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
June 22, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz.: Hiram Hamilton, for the E ½ of S W ¼, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
Register.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.,
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every one article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
NATHAN RHINE.
n252

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, } Germany.
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten getreulich. Geldsendungen von uns nach Deutschland besorgt.
AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - - $11,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP.
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing ..... $2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4 ..... 1883

D. B. Curtis was in town a few days this week.

Ice-cream every Saturday evening and Sunday at Roeder's.

The Big Pine Hotel will be opened with a grand ball on the 28th.

Mr. A. Spencer, of Bishop Creek was in town a day or two this week.

Mr. T. J. Goodale, of Fish Springs, was in town a day or two this week.

The first watermelons marketed this season were brought into Big Pine last Sunday from the Baker ranch.

A new fire hydrant has been put in at the corner of Mairs' Hotel; it will be of great service should fire break out.

None of the girls will take offense at being treated cool—provided the coolness is caused by ice-cream at Roeder's.

A body of ore was struck in the Defiance mine, at Darwin, some days ago. The extent of the body is not yet known.

The Chronicle Union says that much damage has been done to roads and ditches in Mono county by cloud-bursts recently.

The Annual Conference of the M. E. Church for Nevada and California east of the mountains will meet August 17th at Reno.

Won't Nevada have a State Fair this year? We in Owens Valley are interested in knowing, but Nevada papers don't give any information on the subject.

The Tulare county Times says that long and bitter lawsuits will grow out of the formation of irrigation districts in that county, made under the Wright Irrigation Law.

Another race has been added to the speed programe for the Fair. It is a half mile and repeat, free for all, purse $100; to be run on Wednesday. See the advertisement.

Matt. McDonald's fist can decorate a fellow's cheek with all the lovely colors of a rainbow. It is curious that such a gnarled bunch of bones should produce such beautiful effects.

According to the ritual Inyo county has the two best sites for Masonic Lodges in the United States. Mount Whitney is the highest mountain and Death Valley the lowest depression.

The Republican State Convention met at Sacramento last Tuesday. Hon. H. Beatty was nominated for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Hon. J. D. Works was nominated for Associate Justice.

Last week we made complaint that by some mishap with the mails a number of our Nevada exchanges were missing. This week they are nearly all missing. Our mail service is a sore trial to all who have to use it.

Mr. E. A. DeCamp, Secretary of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, has sent complimentary tickets for the officers of the Eighteenth District to attend the fair at Los Angeles, August 6th to 11th inclusive.

A fire at Virginia City last week destroyed $15,000 worth of property. The fire originated in the furniture store of I. Rosenbaum, on C street, and is supposed to have been caused by children playing with matches.

The new bathrooms at Huff & Levy's are handsomely furnished; marble topped dressing stands, fine mirrors and other suitable conveniences in each room. There are hot and cold baths. One room is exclusively kept for ladies.

A. D. Gilbert has begun work to take water out of a lake up in the Sierras west from Black and about twelve miles northwest from Independence. There is a fine body of land at the foot of the mountains upon which Mr. Gilbert proposes to take the water.

Henry Galvin is taking out ore right along from his recent find near Independence Station. The ledge is over sixty feet wide and contains several veins of lead ore that appear to be converging to a central ore body. Harry may find another Cerro Gordo in his claim.

Two years ago Link & Kehoe bought a tract of land within the town limits of Independence. They set out fruit trees the same season. Last Tuesday Mr. Link brought to this office a large bucketful of very fine peaches gathered from that ground. In Owens Valley it does n't take a lifetime to get fruit from trees.

Some days ago an old squaw was washing clothing at a house in town and was given her breakfast. She said: "White man b-e-a-p good; long time ago Injun eat pine-nut, grasshopper, jackrabbit 'n grass; now h—e—a—p plenty bread, coffee, meat, plenty much good eat, you bet; white man h——e——a——p good."

It is reported that several families are now on the way coming to settle along the line of the Eastside canal. Early next spring so much of the canal will be finished as will supply water to several thousand acres of land. From now till spring settlers could put in their time to good purpose clearing sagebrush and fencing. With the sagebrush cleared plowing could at once be commenced; the ground is loose and would plow easily in its present condition.

Every Sunday quite a number of Indian families come to town. They have their own teams and wagons and in each wagon will be all the women and children that can be carried. The women are dressed in clean calico gowns, and the men and children are also decently clothed. Many Indians farm land on shares and are quite successful; they live more comfortably and are of more use to the country than many whites, who wander like Arabs, without a home or an honest calling.

Two years ago Mr. W. L. Hunter planted an orchard at his place at Georges Creek. This year from his young trees he had the earliest apricots in the neighborhood. His young peach trees are now bearing very fine fruit. The land was covered with sagebrush a few weeks before the trees were set out; the soil is sandy loam. Last year the editor of this paper gave Mr. Hunter three ears of yellow corn. Mr. Hunter planted the seed and the yield from it was ten sacks of shelled corn. All of this was used for seed last spring and now promises a good crop.

HISTORY OF MT. WHITNEY.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT. Sir:—Inasmuch as a mistake was made in 1870 concerning the identity of Mt. Whitney, and inasmuch as after the discovery of that mistake in 1873 a cool, deliberate, persistent and determined effort was made by certain parties here in Owens Valley to change the name of Mt. Whitney and call it "Fisherman's Peak;" it occurs to the present writer that a history of that business by one who is familiar with most of its details from beginning to end may prove of some interest to your readers, not only here in Inyo county, but also wherever your valuable paper may circulate in other parts of the country.

Mt. Whitney was recognized as the highest peak in the State of California (and, so far as yet known, it is the highest peak in the United States south of Alaska) in 1864, and was then so named in honor of Prof. J. D. Whitney, who was at that time State Geologist of California.

The discovery party consisted of Prof. Wm. H. Brewer, Geologist in charge, Charles F. Hoffman, Topographer, and Clarence King, Assistant Geologist.

This party came into the mountains from the western side, i. e., from the Tulare Valley, and did not at that time cross over into Owens Valley. But they ascended several of the high peaks in the vicinity of Mt. Whitney and gave names to quite a number of them, among which are Mt. Brewer, Mt. Williamson, Mt. Tyndall, Mt. Whitney itself, and the "Sheep Mountain."

At the same time Clarence King made a resolute but unsuccessful attempt to climb Mt. Whitney, and really succeeded in reaching a point on the mountain only some 200 or 300 feet below the summit, when he was stopped by a ledge of rocks, up which he could not climb; though subsequent explorers state that one may safely go down over the same ledge.

A complete account of this trip will be found in the "Geology of California," Vol. I, published by Prof. Whitney in the following year, viz 1865. Furthermore, accompanying this account in the same volume there is a description of Mt. Whitney and its surroundings by Clarence King himself, which is sufficiently full and accurate to prevent all possibility of mistake in identifying the peak by anyone who has first carefully read that description and afterwards gets on top of any of the high peaks in the near vicinity when the air is clear so that he gets a good view of the region. But little was heard or known of Mt. Whitney, however, in Owens Valley until 1870 or '71.

In 1870 another party of the State Geological Survey, still under Prof. Whitney, went up the Tulare Valley, crossed the mountains through Walker's Pass, and spent two or three months in Owens Valley and the Inyo and White Mountain range. That party consisted of Charles F. Hoffman, Topographer in charge, Alfred Craven, Assistant Topographer, and the present writer as Geologist. That was the time when the mistake was first made in the identity of Mt. Whitney. It was a very natural mistake: For "Sheep Mountain," which lies some five or six miles southeast of Mt. Whitney and about opposite the upper end of Owens Lake, really looks but a few hundred feet of being as high as Whitney, while it stands several miles nearer to the eastern foot of the range, so that looking up from the valley, ten thousand feet below these summits, the "Sheep Mountain" looked the highest, and at the same time its shape bears a close resemblance to that of Mt. Whitney itself as seen from the Valley near the Lake.

Mr. Hoffman, therefore, (who was the only one in our party who had ever seen Mt. Whitney before) mistook the "Sheep Mountain" for Mt. Whitney, and we continued to call it so all that summer. But after our return to San Francisco, when Mr. Hoffman came to plot his work, he found a large and unaccountable discrepancy in the location of Mt. Whitney between his work of 1864 and 1870, the latter work placing Mt. Whitney five or six miles further southeast than the former. He was sure that his work of 1870 was correct; for the bearings taken by him that summer from various points in the Valley and in the Inyo Mountains were numerous and agreed well with each other. But in 1864 he had only two bearings by means of which to locate Mt. Whitney: One of these was taken by himself with a transit instrument from the top of Mt. Brewer, and on that bearing he felt that he could rely: But the other one was a bearing taken by Mr. King with only a pocket compass from the top of Mt. Williamson, and this bearing he concluded must have been erroneous. And thus the mistake remained undiscovered.

In 1871 Mr. King determined to make another effort to reach the summit of Mt. Whitney, this time from the eastern side. So, having obtained from Mr. Hoffman a full description of the appearance and description of the supposed Mt. Whitney as viewed from Owens Valley, he came to Lone Pine, and without any difficulty succeeded in reaching the summit of "Sheep Mountain," and getting observations of its altitude, still supposing it to be Mt. Whitney. The reason why he did not discover the mistake was that there were clouds on the mountains at the time of his ascent which prevented his seeing the true peak. He shortly afterward published an account of this ascent in the first edition of his "Mountaineering in the Sierra Nevada."

So it was not until July 27th, 1873, when Mr. M. W. Belshaw and myself rode our mules to the very top of "Sheep Mountain" that the mistake made three years before concerning Mt. Whitney was discovered. It happened to be clear weather when we climbed the mountain, and therefore the instant we reached the summit we saw five or six miles northwest of us the tremendous crags of Whitney itself, the main peak evidently and unmistakeably rising considerably higher than the one on which we stood.

Up to this time there is, so far as I know, or have ever been able to learn, no reliable record or evidence to prove that any human being had ever set foot upon Mt. Whitney.

It was, however, but a very short time after Mr. Belshaw and I returned to the Valley and reported the error we had discovered before several parties succeeded, one after the other, in reaching the summit of the mountain; and I believe some rather acrimonious disputes afterwards arose between some of the parties as to which of them was really entitled to the credit of being the first to get there. But into the merits of these disputes I have no wish to enter. I do wish, however, to add a few words concerning the discreditable "Fisherman's Peak" affair.

It appears that when Prof. Whitney was in Owens Valley himself in 1872 for the purpose of studying the effects of the great earthquake of March 26 th of that year, he became quite unpopular with a good many people in the Valley, some of whom took a very strong personal dislike for him. When, therefore, a year later it was suddenly discovered that a lower mountain had for three years been called Mt. Whitney by mistake, some of these people thought it would be a fine opportunity for revenge upon the man whom they disliked by making his name stick to the lower peak forever and calling the highest one something else. Therefore they dubbed Mt. Whitney "Fisherman's Peak," and tried hard and long to make it stick. But it will not stick.

Mt. Whitney was named, and almost climbed by Clarence King in 1864, and was described by him in 1865. It is the highest mountain in the country, and Mt. Whitney it will remain! The "Sheep Mountain" was also named by King in 1864, and that name will adhere to it. The other high peaks in that neighborhood have names given to them many years ago, so that there is no place nor habitation in those mountains as "Fisherman's Peak"—which will doubtless fall into the utter oblivion which it deserves. Respectfully yours,

W. A. GOODYEAR.

Independence, July 30, 1888.

State Mining Bureau

Mr. W. A. Goodyear, Geologist for the State Mining Bureau, has been at Independence during the week on official duty. At the last session of the Legislature an appropriation of $60,000 was made for the support of the Bureau. One condition of the appropriation was that not less than half the amount should be expended in actual field work. Mr. Goodyear and eight or nine other scientists are now engaged in the work in various parts of the State. On two previous occasions has Mr Goodyear been in Owens Valley; once in 1870 and again in 1873. On both of these occasions he made investigations and wrote a good deal that has never since been published. Much of what was then recorded will be included in the next report of the State Mining Bureau. Mr. Goodyear was deeply interested in the dispute that was long carried on about which peak in the Sierras should be called Mt. Whitney, though he never took any part in it. By common consent the name has long been applied to the peak originally so named by Clarence King in 1864. In another column will be found an article on the subject written this week by Mr. Goodyear.

New Hotel.

The new hotel belonging to the Crocker Brothers, at Big Pine, has very nearly attained completion. The building is large and well arranged, and well finished in every respect. The parlor, parlor bedroom, dining room, kitchen and bar room are all on the ground floor, and are very large and commodious rooms. A wide corridor extends the full length of the upper story, on either side of which are comfortable, nicely finished bedrooms. The house will be furnished throughout in first class style and under the care and management of the amiable hostess, Mrs. J. Crocker, will become a favored resort. An opening ball will be given on the 28th of the present month and arrangements are already being made. A large open air platform will be provided for dancing. No doubt this ball will have the largest attendance of any ever given at Big Pine.

Meteorological Summary for July, 1888, Keeler, Cal.

Mean reduced barometer ..... 29.880 inches.
Mean temperature ..... 79°
Highest temperature ..... 98°
Lowest temperature ..... 54°
Monthly range of temperature ..... 44°
Mean relative humidity 26 per cent.
Mean dew point, 34 per cent.
Prevailing direction of wind, S. E.
Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 42 miles S. 11th.
Precipitation ..... 0.17
Number of clear days ..... 21
Number of fair days ..... 6
Number of cloudy days ..... 4

D. C. GRUNOW,
Private, Signal Corps.

Horsemen Attention.

The Directors of Agricultural District No. 18 will arrange races for all horses that may attend the District Fair at Independence beginning September 17th. If any horses should be brought to the Fair for which provision is not already made in the published speed programme, special races and suitable purses will be arranged for them. Any person who has a horse that he wants tried on the race track should bring along the animal; whether the horse runs, trots, or paces, if he has speed at any gait there will be given a chance to try him.

Eastside Canal.

On the Eastside canal Mr. McIver is finishing up the last half mile of the heaviest cutting to be done on the whole work. Of this half mile 1400 feet had to be cut to a depth of five feet, the remainder averaging about four feet. Below a depth of three feet the time required to remove the earth increases rapidly in proportion. A few days will finish this deep cut; then the canal will be finished about half a mile south of Independence Station, or as it is now called, Citrus.

Fine Fruit.

It is much to be regretted that Mr. Walker, of Olancha, should not make a display of fruit at San Francisco. He sent up a box to this office last Saturday that would have attracted attention in the City. Apples, peaches, prunes and late apricots were in the box. The fruit was all large of its kind, but size was only a secondary merit; its perfection of form and color and fine flavor are the qualities that give value beyond the productions of other countries.

Sudden Death

Last Friday Miss Given died at Bishop Creek after an illness of only a few days. The young lady had recently came out from Iowa on a visit to her brother, of the firm of Given & Ingals. Her death was very sudden and altogether unexpected. The remains have been taken back to Iowa.

Since the launch of the "Charleston" at San Francisco the Eastern press predicts great things for iron ship building on the Pacific Coast. The mild climate of California enables workmen to accomplish more in a given time than can be done by men working in the terrible heat or severe cold of the Atlantic Coast.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

PAUSE AND PERUSE!

Our house is essentially one of bargains. Low values abound everywhere—in every department. Were it not so we would have not intercepted and held the volume of trade which we have. We buy FIVE times the amount of goods of any store in this city. Our advantage is easily seen. Why not enjoy the benefit of it?

Here are some of the values which we are offering. Those at a distance—even a thousand miles away—by our well regulated system of shopping by mail, obtain the same advantages as if trading in person. Orders for the following described goods should be sent in quickly, as the stock will doubtless soon be exhausted.

OF INTEREST TO YOU!

Fine Rhadame silks, a firm body, honest weave and true dye. They have the natural brilliant lustre produced by pure silk and skillful weaving. We have them in TWENTY-FOUR colors. Price 90 cents per yard; equal to any $1.15 or $1.25 Rhadame in the market.

A good bargain in Surah silks at 50 cents per yard. Excellent for sashes, combination suits and hat trimmings. All of the popular shades in stock.

French novelties in all wool dress goods in plaids and checks at 50 cents per yard. Twenty five lines of them. We have an all wool plaid a yard wide for 25 cents.

Something in an Oxford shoe for Gentlemen that we can recommend. Price $3.45; has always sold at $2.50. It is low cut, has a neat, fancy tip and four buttons. Sizes 5 to 10.

An all wool jersey with a vest front and coat back for $1.40. In the popular shades. At $1.75 we can give an all wool jersey with front and cuffs embroidered.

PARASOLS—An Ecru Silk covered with Coralline Lace natural wood handles, price $2. A heavy Black Satin Parasol trimmed with deep Spanish Lace and lined with rich changeable silk, $5.

Ladies' full finished hose at 19 cents a pair. Infancy stripes on a light ground.

Ladies' India Gauze Vest, high neck, long or short sleeves at 25 cents.

Three unlaundried white shirts for $1.

Fancy featheredge folding fans at 25 cents.

Samples of DRY GOODS mailed free upon application

Send in your name for a Fall and Winter Catalogue which will be issued shortly.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GRAND CONCERT

Entertainment & DANCE

Friday Eve, August 3d, 1888,

A Brilliant Array of Local Talent.

BOX SHEET IS NOW OPEN.

100 reserved seats at 25 cents each.
Tickets for the evening, $1.50 a couple
Single admission, 50 cents.
Ball tickets, per couple, $1.00.
Children under 13, 25 cents.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the Republican Committee of Inyo county is hereby called at the Court House in the town of Independence, on

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10th, 1888,

At 7 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of fixing the time for the election of delegates in the several precincts to attend a county convention to nominate county officers; also to fix the time and place for holding said convention and to fix the apportionment of delegates for each precinct

S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.

Geo. H. Hardy, Sec.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Timepieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ Allord repairs from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURCKHARDT

STANDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n47tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS'
Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine boned and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen

Bee Ke

Fou

Too Much.

"Amanda," said the mother sharply, "I did not hear you ask young Mr. Spawn D'Uhlich to call again when he went away last evening?"

"No, mamma," replied the stanch New York girl, with decision, "I could never go into society with a young man who calls a lift an elevator, and seems to take delight in sounding his h's distinctly."—Chicago Tribune.

Time to Close Up.

She was sitting in the parlor with her beau when the old man came down stairs and opened the front door.

"Surely, papa," she said, "you are not going out at this late hour?"

"Merely to untie the dog," he replied.

"Well, Miss Clara," said the young man, reaching for his hat, "I think I will say good night."—New York Sun.

A Fastidious Traveler.

Boggs (on board Pullman sleeper, coming to his friend's berth at 11 a. m.)—Not up yet, Jagley! I hope you're not ill?

Jagley (despairingly)—I cawn't leave this berth, deah boy, till the end of the twip. My traveling cap blew off on the pwairie lawst night, and I should pewish with shame to be seen on the twain bareheaded.—Judge.

Putting It On the Other Fellow.

Husband—Oh, by the way, here's a letter I found in the mail this morning addressed to you. It looks like Mrs. Brown's handwriting.

Wife—It is hers. But (examining the envelope attentively) this letter looks as if it had been carried in the pocket a long time.

H. (with assumed carelessness)—Indeed. I'll bet that Brown got it from his wife to put in the mail and forgot about it.—Boston Courier.

They Kept Apart.

Mr. Marise de Lazan, of this city, who is known in literary as well as fashionable society, is the author of several successful dramas. Like many men of talent, he has his peculiarities, if such they be, and one of them is the wearing of clothes that are extremely fashionable. He is careful of their cut and has a habit when seated of drawing his trousers up a little, so that the unhandsome bagging at the knees may not result. In an elevated road car recently he was absorbed in thought and mechanically drew up one of his trousers legs and then took a tug at what he thought was the other. A man beside him angrily grasped his arm and said: "What do you mean, sir?" Mr. Lazan looked down, saw an exact counterpart of his own trousers on the other man and fled to a forward car without an explanation. Reaching the bridge car, he breathed freer and sat down. The man he sat beside jumped up and rushed to the front platform, where he remained until the other end of the bridge was reached, keeping an eye suspiciously on the absent minded dramatist. It was the owner of the twin trousers.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Out of Mere Charity.

"Joe, are you still boarding at Mrs. Finnegan's?"

"Yes, Bill, out of mere charity."

"Why; is she hard up?"

"No, but I am. I haven't paid her anything for six months."—Tid Bits.

Good All the Time.

Cincinnati Man (at supper)—These sausages, my dear, don't seem quite as nice as usual.

Wife—Oh, yes they are, John; they are the same as we had for breakfast and dinner.—

Mr. Kelley's Thirty Thousand Dollars.

So much interest has been shown in various ways in Mr. M. A. Kelley's fortunate investments in the monthly schemes of The Louisiana State Lottery that it has been deemed of sufficient public interest to find out what Mr. Kelley thinks about it. Learning that Mr. Kelley had received the $30,000 through the Miners' Saving Bank, a Gazette reporter interviewd him yesterday. He said he simply bought one-fifth of ticket No. 55,315, which drew the first capital prize of $150,000, for which he paid $2, just as he would have put up a margin upon at a bit of stock from Gould & Co.'s Wall Street list, and he was surprised to learn that there were men in town who knew of the value of the ticket a week before he was advised. There was therefore no possible chance of collusion through anyone here with the Louisiana company, indicating that the lottery as a game of chance was conducted honestly. As Mr. Kelley is one of the steady young business men of the town, who understands the value of money and has the intelligence to use it profitably, there is no question that the $30,000 so suddenly dropped into his purse will be of benefit to himself and the public. That Mr. Kelley has the appreciative interest of the public is indicated in the fact that he has been Pittson's borough tax receiver for two successive terms and has done the work to the entire satisfaction of the several departments of the borough government to which he had to make an accounting. He has been engaged in the grocery business for the past few years, on Pine Street, and has driven a successful trade.

Mr. Kelley informs the reporter that with a needed proportion of the $30,000 he means to push the interests of a much needed household appliance, and will establish agencies all over the United States. And in this way he thinks The Louisiana Lottery Company will be able to do a great deal of appreciable missionary work. What some other people would do with $30,000 was detailed in the Gazette a few days ago. Mr. Kelley's determination to put it into business has merit and may prove profitable.—Pittston (Pa.) Gazette, May 26.

WELL MANAGED.

[illegible]s of its exist- [illegible]ned steadi- [illegible] Its uni- [illegible]ly due [illegible]ll-known [illegible]ontinues at [illegible]

Allan Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

On he went up the first flight of 120 steps, across the broad platform joining it to the second flight, where we paused to admire the glorious view of one of the most beautiful stretches of country that the world can show, edged by the blue waters of the lake. Then we passed on up this till at last we reached the top, where we found a large standing space to which there were three entrances, all of small size. Two of these opened on to rather narrow galleries or roadways cut in the face of the precipice that ran round the palace walls and led to the principal thoroughfares of the city, and were used by the inhabitants passing up and down from the docks. These were defended by gates of bronze, and also, as we afterward learned, it was possible to let down a portion of the roadways themselves by withdrawing certain bolts, and thus render it quite impracticable for an enemy to pass. The third entrance consisted of a flight of ten curved black marble steps leading to a doorway cut in the palace wall. This wall was in itself a work of art, being built of huge blocks of granite to the height of forty feet, and so fashioned that its face was concave, whereby it was rendered practically impossible for it to be scaled. To this doorway our guide led us. The door, which was very massive, and made of wood protected by an outer gate of bronze, was closed; but on our approach it was thrown wide, and we were met by the challenge of a sentry, who was armed with a heavy, triangular bladed spear, not unlike a bayonet in shape, and a cutting sword, and protected by breast and back plates of carefully prepared hippopotamus hide, and a small round shield fashioned of the same tough material. The sword instantly attracted our attention; it was practically identical with the one in the possession of Mr. Mackenzie which he had obtained from the ill starred wanderer. There was no mistaking the gold lined fretwork cut in the thickness of the blade. So the man had told the truth after all. Our guide instantly gave a password, which the soldier acknowledged by letting the iron shaft of his spear fall with a ringing sound upon the pavement, and we passed on through the massive wall into the courtyard of the palace. This was about forty yards square, and laid out in flower beds full of lovely shrubs and plants, many of which were quite new to me. Through the center of this garden ran a broad walk formed of powdered shells brought from the lake in the place of gravel. Following this we came to another doorway with a round, heavy arch, which is hung with thick curtains, for there are no doors in the palace itself. Then came another short passage, and we were in the great hall of the palace, and once more stood astonished at the simple and yet overpowering grandeur of the place.

The hall is, as we afterwards learned, 150 feet long by 80 wide, and has a magnificent arched roof of carved wood. Down the entire length of the building there are on either side, and at a distance of twenty feet from the wall, slender shafts of black marble springing sheer to the roof, beautifully fluted and with carved capitals. At one end of this great place which these pillars support is the group of which I have already spoken as executed by the king Rademas to commemorate his building of the staircase; and really, when we had time to admire it, its loveliness almost struck us dumb. The group, of which the figures are in white, and the rest in black marble, is about half as large again as life, and represents a young man of noble countenance and form sleeping heavily upon a couch. One arm is carelessly thrown over the side of this couch, and his head reposes upon the other, its curling locks partially hiding it. Bending over him, her hand resting on his forehead, is a draped female form of such white loveliness as to make the beholder's breath stand still. And as for the calm glory that shines upon her perfect face—well, I can never hope to describe it. But there it rests like the shadow of an angel's smile; and power, love and divinity all have their part in it. Her eyes are fixed upon the sleeping youth, and perhaps the most extraordinary thing about this beautiful work is the success with which the artist has succeeded in depicting on the sleeper's worn and weary face the sudden rising of a new and spiritual thought as the spell begins to work within his mind. You can see that an inspiration is breaking in upon the darkness of the man's soul, as the dawn breaks in upon the darkness of the night. It is a glorious piece of statuary, and none but a genius could have conceived it. Between each of the black marble columns is some such group of figures, some allegorical, and some representing the persons and wives of deceased monarchs or great men; but none of them, in our opinion, comes up to the one I have described, although several are from the hand of the great sculptor and engineer, King Rademas.

In the exact center of the hall was a solid mass of black marble about the size of a baby's arm chair, which it rather resembled in appearance. This, as we afterwards learned, was the sacred stone of this remarkable people, and on it their monarchs laid their hand after the ceremony of coronation, and swore by the sun to safeguard the interests of the empire, and to maintain its customs, traditions and laws.

At the end of the hall is a dais spread with rich carpets, on which two thrones are set side by side. These thrones are shaped like great chairs, and made of solid gold. The seats are richly cushioned, but the backs are left bare, and on each is carved the emblem of the sun, shooting out his fiery rays in all directions. The footstools are golden lions couchant, with yellow topazes set in them for eyes. There are no other gems about them.

The place is lighted by numerous but narrow windows, placed high up, cut on the principle of the loopholes to be seen in ancient castles, but innocent of glass, which was evidently unknown here.

Such is a brief description of this splendid hall in which we now found ourselves, compiled, of course, from our subsequent knowledge of it. On this occasion we had but little time for observation, for when we entered we perceived that a large number of men were gathered together in front of the two thrones, which were unoccupied. The principal among them were seated on carved wooden chairs ranged to the right and the left of the thrones, but not in front of them, and were dressed in white tunics, with various embroideries and different colored edgings, and armed with the usual pierced and gold inlaid swords. To judge from the dignity of their appearance, they seemed one and all to be individuals of very great importance. Behind each of these great men was a small knot of followers and attendants.

Seated by themselves, in a little group to the left of the throne, were six men of a different stamp. Instead of wearing the ordinary kilt they were clothed in long robes of pure white linen, with the same symbol of the sun that is to be seen on the back of the chairs, emblazoned in gold thread upon the breast. This garment was girt up at the waist with a simple golden curb like chain, from which hung long elliptic plates of the same metal, fashioned in shiny scales like those of a fish, that, as their wearers moved, jingled and reflected the light. They were all men of mature age, and of a severe and impressive cast of features, which was rendered still more imposing by the long beards they wore.

The personality of one individual among them, however, impressed us at once. He seemed to stand out among his fellows and refuse to be overlooked. He was very old—80 at least—and extremely tall, with a long snow white beard that hung nearly to his waist. His features were aquiline and deeply cut, and his eyes were gray and cold looking. The heads of the others were bare, but this man wore a round cap entirely covered with gold embroidery, from which we judged that he was a person of great importance; and, indeed, I afterward discovered that he was Agon, the high priest of the country. As we approached, all these men, including the priests, rose and bowed to us with the great est courtesy, at the same time placing the two fingers across the lips in salutation. Then soft footed attendants advanced from between the pillars, bearing seats which were placed in a line in front of the thrones. We three sat down, Alphonse and Umslopogaas standing behind us. Scarcely had we done so when there came a blare of trumpets from some passage to the right, and a similar blare from the left. Next a man with a long white wand of ivory appeared just in front of the right hand throne, and cried out something in a loud voice, ending with the word Nyleptha, repeated three times; and another man, similarly attired, called out a similar sentence before the other throne, but ending with the word Sorais, also repeated thrice. Then came the tramp of armed men from each side entrance, and in filed about a score of picked and magnificently accoutered guards, who formed up on each side of the thrones, and let their heavy iron handled spears fall simultaneously with a clash upon the black marble flooring. Another double blare of triumpets, and in from either side, each attended by six maidens, swept the two queens of Zu-Vendis, everybody in the hall rising to greet them as they came.

I have seen beautiful women in my day, and am no longer thrown into transports at the sight of a pretty face, but language fails me when I try to give some idea of the blaze of loveliness that then broke upon us in the persons of these sister queens. Both were young—perhaps five and twenty years of age—both were tall and exquisitely formed, but there the likeness stopped. One, Nyleptha, was a woman of dazzling fairness; her right arm and breast bare, after the custom of her people, showed like snow even against her white and gold embroidered "kaf," or toga. And as for her sweet face, all I can say is that it was one that few men could look on and forget. Her hair, a veritable crown of gold, clustered in short ringlets over her shapely head, half hiding the ivory brow, beneath which eyes of deep and glorious gray flashed out in tender majesty. I cannot attempt to describe her other features, only the mouth was most sweet, and curved like Cupid's bow, and over the whole countenance there shone an indescribable look of loving kindness, lit up by a shadow of delicate humor that lay upon her face like a touch of silver on a rosy cloud. She wore no jewels, but on her neck, arm and knee were the usual torques of gold, in this instance fashioned like a snake, and her dress was of pure white linen of excessive fineness, plentifully embroidered with gold, and with the familiar symbols of the sun.

Her twin sister, Sorais, was of a different and darker type of beauty. Her hair was wavy like Nyleptha's, but coal black, and fell in masses on her shoulders; her complexion was olive, her eyes large, dark and lustrous; the lips were full and I thought rather cruel. Somehow her face, quiet and even cold as it was, gave an idea of passion in repose and caused one to wonder involuntarily what its aspect would be if anything occurred to break the calm. It reminded me of the deep sea, that even on the bluest days never loses its visible stamp of power and in its murmuring sleep is yet instinct with the spirit of the storm. Her figure, like her sister's, was almost perfect in its curves and outlines, but a trifle more rounded, and her dress was absolutely the same.

As this lovely pair swept onward to their respective thrones, amid the deep attentive silence of the court, I was bound to confess to myself that they did indeed fulfill my idea of royalty. Royal they were in every way—in form, in grace and queenly dignity, and in the barbaric splendor of their attendant pomp. But methought that they needed no guards or gold to proclaim their power and bind the loyalty of wayward men. A glance from those bright eyes or a smile from those sweet lips, and while the red blood runs in the veins of youth women such as these will never lack subjects ready to do their biddings to the death.

But, after all, they were women first and queens afterward, and therefore not devoid of curiosity. As they passed to their seats I saw both of them glance swiftly in our direction. I saw, too, that their eyes passed by me, seeing nothing to charm them in the person of an insignificant and grizzled old man. Then they looked with evident astonishment on the grim form of old Umslopogaas, who raised his ax in salutation. Attracted next by the splendor of Good's apparel, for a second their glance rested on him, like a humming moth upon a flower, then off it darted to where Sir Henry Curtis stood, the sunlight from a window playing upon his yellow hair and peaked beard, and marking out the outlines of his massive frame against the twilight of the somewhat gloomy hall. He raised his eyes and they met the fair Nyleptha's full, and thus for the first time the goodliest man and woman that it has ever been my lot to see looked one upon the other. And why it was I know not, but I saw the swift blood run up beneath Nyleptha's skin as the pink lights run up the morning sky. Red grew her fair bosom and shapely arm, red the swan like neck; the rounded cheeks blushed red as the petals of a rose, and then the crimson flood sank back to whence it came, and left her pale and trembling.

I glanced at Sir Henry. He, too, had colored up to the eyes.

"On my word!" thought I to myself, "the ladies have come on the stage, and now we may look to the plot to develop itself." And I sighed and shook my head, knowing that the beauty of a woman is like the beauty of the lightning—a destructive thing and a cause of desolation. By the time that I had finished my reflections both the queens were on the thrones, for all this had happened in about six seconds. Once more the unseen trumpets blared out, and then the court seated itself and Queen Sorais motioned to us to do likewise.

(To be Continued.)

KEEPING STEP TOGETHER.

The band was playing martial airs,
Their melodies repeating
In rhythmic rhyme; and, marking time
The drums were loudly beating;
And those in uniform so fine,
With soldier cap and feather,
And others there along the square
Were keeping step together.

Beside me walked a maiden fair
Whose heart I had been seeking
For many a day, but had not found
The courage yet for speaking;
And as I watched her glowing face
I really wondered whether,
As man and wife, throughout our life,
We could keep step together.

The tune was changed; but still the band
Kept up its martial measure;
In unison the crowd moved on
To business, or to pleasure;
And she—emboldened by the scene,
Or by the bracing weather—
Exclaimed: "Just see how nicely we Are keeping step together!"

Ah! quickly I improved the time,
My heart a quickstep beating,
And soon the old, old story I
Was tenderly repeating;
And when the "Wedding March" was played,
Close bound by Hymen's tether,
Adown the aisle, with rapturous smile,
We two kept step together.

The years have sped; and we are old,
Who once were young and sprightly;
But still within our hearts the flame
Of love is burning brightly;
And though we've met with cloudy days,
And some tempestuous weather,
True comrades still—through good or ill—
We're keeping step together.

—N. Y. Ledger.

THREE KISSES OF FAREWELL.

Three, only three, my darling,
Separate, solemn, slow;
Not like the swift and joyous ones
We used to know,
When we kissed because we loved each other,
Simply to taste love's sweets,
And lavished our kisses as summer
Lavishes heats;
But as they kiss whose hearts are wrung
When hope and fear are spent,
And nothing is left to give except
A sacrament!

First of the three, my darling,
Is sacred unto pain;
We have hurt each other often,
We shall again.
When we pine because we miss each other,
And do not understand
How the written words are so much colder
Than eye and hand.
I kiss thee, dear, for all such pain
Which we may give or take.
Buried, forgiven, before it comes,
For our love's sake.

The second kiss, my darling,
Is full of joy's sweet thrill;
We have blessed each other always,
We always will.
We shall reach until we feel each other
Past all of time and space;
We shall listen till we hear each other
In every place.
The earth is full of messengers
Which love sends to and fro;]
I kiss thee, darling, for all joy
Which we shall know.

The last kiss, oh, my darling,
My love—I cannot see
Through my tears, as I remember
What it may be.
We may die and never see each other,
Die with no time to give
Any sign that our hearts are faithful
To die, as live.
Token of what they may not see
Who see our dying breath—
This one last kiss, my darling,
Seals the seal of death.

CASE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Complicated with Gravel. How Help came at last. A Lucky Woman.

I have long resolved that I would apprise you of the deep sense of obligation which I feel. There is nothing which I now enjoy that I do not owe to the happy chance of having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy at a time when I was suffering all that a human being could endure. My troubles began in my Kidneys over nine years ago and from which I never expected to recover. First there was increasing pains in the small of my back and in my loins. I was feverish with no appetite and no sleep. I was compelled to use a cane when I walked, and I finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible, I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. In a few months my physicians said I had Bright's disease, which was indeed alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case and I resigned myself to die. Up to this time I had four different doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago, last June, how well I remember the day, I saw Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y., advertised in our paper. I purchased a bottle, paying the price of One Dollar, and used it faithfully. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me, this was six years ago. I have never had a return of gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am now vigorous and strong as I was in my prime.—Mrs. Emeline F. Mizner, Burg Hill, Ohio.

Avoid making a mistake, by remembering the name of medicine, Favorite Remedy. Price $1.00, made at Rondout, N. Y. Redington & Co., agents, S. F., Cal.

Bob—I tell you the new teacher is lightning. Bill—No he ain't; lightning never strikes twice in the same place.

A STAB IN THE DARK

Sometimes falls of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made upon the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics as identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who attempt them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thorough medicine, adapted to the total cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient, unlike those in the imitations of it, is of an ascertained standard of excellence, and when they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both those organs it is a sedative and invigorant. Refuse all these harmful imitations.

Men suppose that their reason has command over their words; still it happens that words in return exercise authority on reason.—Lord Bacon.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted snow scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

If you enlist in the army, say a prayer; if you go to sea, say two; if you get married, say three.—Persian Proverb.

"Yes; I shall break the engagement," she said, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he hawks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course it cured his catarrh.

Money will buy everything in this world excepting the things that are most worth having.

For Throat Diseases and Coughs, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Price 25 cts. Sold only in boxes.

The only amaranthine flower on earth is virtue; the only lasting treasure is truth.—Cowper.

REMARKABLE SURGERY.

The science of surgery has made such wonderful progress in modern times, that the most intricate and delicate operations are now undertaken and carried to a successful issue. There are now several well authenticated cases of what is known as pneumotomy, that is to say, the removal of deceased portions of the lungs in cases of consumption. While, however, this delicate operation has sometimes been successfully performed, the risks attending it are so great, and the chances of recovery so slight, that it is seldom resorted to. The safest plan in consumptive cases is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, this will always cure the disease in its earlier stages, thoroughly arresting the ravages of the terrible malady, by removing its cause and healing the lungs.

Zeal without humility is like a ship without a rudder, liable to be stranded at any moment.—Feltham.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.,
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS.

SPINAL WEAKNESS AND LUNG TROUBLES.

56 PRINCE STREET, NEW YORK, March 25, 1884.

Having been troubled with pains in back and chest during the last winter I was compelled to remain at home unable to attend to business, until I was advised by a friend to try one of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. After applying one to my chest and one to my back, in three hours I found relief which I had not got in over three months. I cheerfully recommend them to persons having spinal weakness and lung troubles. HENRY J. GALLAGHER.

Friendship is a golden coin that brightens with the using.

THE NEW PRIZE STORY

is eagerly sought for, read with pleasure or disappointment, is then tossed aside and forgotten. But ladies who read of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, read it again, for the discover in it something to prize—a messenger of joy to those suffering from functional derangements of any of the painful disorders or weaknesses peculiar to their sex. Periodical pains, internal inflammation and ulceration, readily yield to its wonderful curative and healing powers. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Mr. Blane has made no truer remark, nor has anyone else, than this, that courage is as contagious as cowardice.

CONSUMPTION, WASTING DISEASES

And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites: the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. SCOTT'S EMULSION is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

R. H. McDONALD PRES'T. F. V. McDONALD, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
SURPLUS $650,000.00.
AV. RESOURCES $4,356,175.94.

Besides paying the usual dividends, we have been enabled to add $200,000 to Surplus Fund during the past 2 years.

We are pleased to announce that the past year has been the most prosperous one the PACIFIC BANK has had during its 25 years of existence.

ASSETS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank Premises, | $150,000 00 |
| Other Real Estate, | 30,918 83 |
| Land Association, Gas and Bank stocks, | 26,242 30 |
| Loans and Discounts, | 2,914,119 99 |
| Due from Banks, | 340,897 37 |
| Money on hand, | 502,979 85 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

LIABILITIES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, paid up, | $1,000,000 00 |
| Surplus Fund, | 650,000 00 |
| Undivided Profits, | 9,369 40 |
| Due Depositors, | 2,094,780 69 |
| Due Banks, | 211,068 25 |
| | $3,965,158 34 |

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations. R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. CATES & CO., Proprietors
417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

Wholesale and Retail Agency for all Adjustible and Common Dress Forms and Drapers; also Papier Mache Busts made to order.

WANTED—One Business Lady in every town to handle our Forms.

Send for Circular.

W. M. LOUDON.
224 Stockton St., S. F., Cal.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by

GOULDS & AUSTIN,
167 & 169 Lake St.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

TO THE LADIES!

Jacobs & Co.

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANT'S WEAR.
113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.
Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

BETTER THAN IRRIGATION!

Kast's NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF FASHIONABLE SHOES.

The Finest and most Complete Shoe Catalogue ever published in the United States. It will enable you to buy your footwear as intelligently and profitably as though you visited our store and personally made your purchase.

Sent Free to any address. Send for it now to

Kast's

738 and 740 Market St., S. F.

CRYSTALLIZED FRUITS.

Send 50 cents for one box of California Crystallized Fruits, best quality, delivered free. The most delicious confection made, warranted fresh goods. The French Manufacturing Co., 21 Montgomery avenue, San Francisco. Special terms to the trade.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 315.

ST. JACOBS OIL

FOR SWINE.

—CURES—

Hog Cholera and all Diseases of Hogs.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS.—Use freely in the hog swill. If they will not eat drench with milk into which a small quantity of the Oil is put.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

GENERAL AGENTS WANTED! $100 to $500 a month easily made selling the Farmers' Friend, a bag holder and scales combined. Don't miss this—send for circulars. E. E. BAIR, Manager Puget Sound Mfg. Co., Tacoma, Wash. Ter.

THE DEHESIA COLONY

The Raisin-Grape Colony of the North.

NO IRRIGATION REQUIRED.

Abundant Rainfall—No Drought.

THE DEHESIA COLONY LIES three miles east of Redding, the county seat of Shasta. The surface of the land is level and gently rolling. The soil is particularly adapted to the production of Raisin Grapes. All Citrus and Tropical Fruits do well. The colony consists of 1480 acres, and has been subdivided into 20, 40 and 80 acre tracts. Broad avenues, running north and south and east and west, have been laid out. Lumber can be obtained from miles in vicinity of Redding at $10 and $12 per M. The climate is very even. Extreme cold is unknown. Prices range from $20 to $40 per acre. Terms easy. For full particulars, etc., apply to

C. H. STREET & CO.,
Successors to IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.
415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F.

CLOSING OUT

OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF SUMMER BALBRIGGAN UNDERWEAR, at $1 and $1.50 per suit.

Latest designs in PERCALE SHIRTS, three latest style Collars and one pair Cuffs, $1.50 each.

Wolf & Frank

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
232 Kearny St., near Bush.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

What Is Two Bits?

It is a small amount; but suppose you save that much on every dollar you spend. It would be quite a nice sum at the end of the year. Many a man at the head of a family is lamenting the fact that he cannot afford to dress his wife and children like other people, and get the little conveniences about the home that help to make everything run smoothly and sweetly. And yet if all his dollars, or even most of them, had been spent through the year at SMITH'S CASH STORE, he would find himself with all these things paid for and almost have Money to Throw Away he would feel so rich. No one can be made to believe the difference till they try it. And so much better goods than you get on credit. It is almost a shame that so many nice, bright children have to go shabby and their education neglected only because you insist on buying at credit stores at prices that will always keep you poor. We would not say so, but we like to see everybody do the best they can with their money, and have the best the market affords at market price. Try trading one year for cash where you will not be imposed on, even if you never go near the store but send all your orders by mail. Our next list is now ready to send out, and is more complete than ever before. Write for it, to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., S. F., Cal.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenisch Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Big G. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle, White and Flesh.
REDINGTON & CO.,
Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents.

WOVEN WIRE MATTRESSES AND IRON BEDS. H. BERNHAND & CO. Manufacturers of Woolen & Hair Mattresses of every description. 154 New Montgomery St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

SEAL OF North Carolina PLUG CUT SMOKING TOBACCO

Has made the Pipe a popular institution—being composed of a quality of leaf best adapted for smoking, and cut ready for immediate use, it is preferable to the best brands of light pressed plug. A single trial will convert every consumer—they will use no other.

* If your dealer does not keep it, he will get it for you, if he values your trade.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

IRRIGATING PUMPS, STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars.
BYRON JACKSON SAN FRANCISCO.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and vital strength, will be established.

CONSUMPTION, which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. PIERCE thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills, alternating with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is unsurpassed.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS, at $1.00, or SIX BOTTLES for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

$500 REWARD is offered by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. If you have a discharge from the nose, offensive or otherwise, partial loss of smell, taste, or hearing, weak eyes, dull pain or pressure in head, you have Catarrh. Thousands of cases terminate in consumption.

Dr. Sage's CATARRH REMEDY cures the worst cases of Catarrh

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... AUGUST 11 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 9. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 11, 1888. WHOLE NO. 928.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

A FEMALE HERCULES.

She Can Lift a Thousand-Pound Weight and Walk Off With a Safe.

A quiet, modest girl, of medium height and slender, graceful figure, dressed in a simple brown dress, brightened up only by a narrow red ribbon and tiny bow at the throat, chatting pleasantly away to her visitor in her quiet room and now and then interrupted by the piercing voice of a tame canary—that is Mme. Victorina, the female Hercules, who every evening astonishes the audience of the Empire Theater with feats of her marvelous strength. For six years past she has now been before the public as "the strongest woman in the world;" she has astonished Berlin and Paris audiences; has been victorious in her competition with many, of the world's greatest athletes; is honorary member and medalist of the Central Athletic Club of Stettin; honorary member of the Buda-Pesth Hercules Club; of the Hercules Club, Vienna; of the Compagnie Hercules of Paris, and a string of other athletic societies.

"How came it," our representative asked, "that you adopted your present profession? Had you exceptional strength when young?"

"No, not at once; and when I was quite young I was not stronger than the average healthy child. I was born at Strasbourg, and after my father died I went to my uncle's, who was a circus proprietor, and he at once began to train me as a circus rider and a performer on the trapeze. But my career as an acrobat came soon to an end, for I fell from a height of forty feet while performing, and ever since I have the greatest dislike to trapeze performances. Luckily I only broke the bridge of my nose in the accident, and therefore I was in no way impeded from beginning to train for something else. At that time I became acquainted with my present husband, who was an athlete, and who began my athletic training. This was done by making me practice every day with an expander, just as you see girls use them in calisthenic classes, with the one difference that the firmness of my expander was periodically increased till at last the muscles and sinews of the arms, the shoulders and the neck got so strong that I could without difficulty work with an expander consisting of an India rubber rope as thick as my wrist, and I also practiced lifting and handling weights, beginning with smaller ones and gradually increasing up to a thousand pounds. This, of course, took several years, and in my daily performances I do not always lift quite the full weight which I could lift and carry, but there is never a day on which I do not handle from seven to eight hundred pounds at the performances.

Once we were at Berlin, and, as our luggage is naturally tremendously heavy, and expensive in proportion, we take as much of it as possible into the railway carriage when we are traveling. The porter, who had put our boxes into the van, saw that I was carrying what looked like two small handbags. He offered to put them into the carriage for me, and I never saw so astonished and overawed a face than when I handed him the two parcels, each containing one of my heavy weights. Another time we were going up the stairs of our hotel, when we found six men engaged in taking an iron safe up-stairs. The owner, who knew us, said, laughingly: 'Oh, here comes madame; she will show you how to do this kind of work.' I had never tried any thing like it, but I took a firm hold of the safe and put it on the next step, although I wore my ordinary clothes. The safe was presented to me by the owner, and I have since then often carried it across the stage."—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Famous Ohio Landmark.

Among the memories of early Columbus is "the old Eagle Tavern," where, if there were such things in those days—and there must have been since the time of Cæsar—many political rings formed. At any rate, it was a famous resort in the '20's, and was situated on High street, opposite the public offices. Among those who frequented the place were Henry Stanbery, Thomas Ewing, James M. Bell, Lyne Starling, and scores of others who became prominent in the political history of Ohio. The proprietor of the place was a John Young, who was noted for the excelence of his mint-juleps, the elegance of his wardrobe, and his being the greatest gambler in Ohio. Perhaps it was this latter fact that Bell, who was at one time Speaker of the House, owed his passion for gambling, which afterward proved his ruin. Ewing was considered the epicure of the clique, caring little for drink, and Stanbrey never forgot the delights of many cozy hours at the old Eagle, even after he became a member of Johnson's Cabinet, from which, it will be remembered, he resigned to defend the impeachment. Nothing now remains of this old "Eagle Coffee-House."—Deshler Welch, in Harper's Magazine.

Satisfactory Explanation.

"What is the matter with you?" asked a Washington lady, addressing her husband, who had come home late at night.

"Do I look as if any thing is the matter?"

"Yes, you keep nodding all the time. There you go again. Why, you can't keep you eyes open."

"I'll tell you why," he said, with an effort. "I attended the authors' reading."—Arkansaw Traveler.

MEATS IN SUMMER.

Maria Parloa Tells How They Should be Cooked and Seasoned.

Meats are much more digestible when broiled or roasted than when cooked in almost any other manner. This is, however, a much neglected or abused branch of cooking. The housekeeper who can prepare a dessert as skillfully as a professional cook, and whose cake is perfect, frequently will place on the table a "roast" that is water-soaked and grease-soaked, its flavor spoiled, and its digestibility remotely removed. The meat bill is the most expensive item in the family account-book, and yet no food that is brought into the house is so often completely spoiled and wasted.

For broiling, there must be a bed of clear coals—those of hard coal, charcoal or wood; or if one has a modern gas stove, with which the broiling is done under a sheet of gas, the result will be the same.

Many persons object to seasoning meat before it is cooked. Try the following rules and you will be satisfied that when the seasoning is added properly it makes a great improvement.

A steak will not be real juicy unless it be cut thick. An inch is as thin as it should ever be cut. Mutton and lamb chops ought to be an inch, or three-quarters of an inch, thick. Veal and pork chops are better thin—say about one-third of an inch thick.

Before any of these meats are cooked they should be seasoned generously with salt and pepper. They also should be dredged lightly with flour. Place in a broiler and cook over hot coals, turning constantly. The broiler should be held near the coals for the first four minutes, that the surface of the meat may be seared and the juices imprisoned. Now lift the broiler a little higher, that the meat may not cook too rapidly. The time of cooking depends upon the thickness of the meat and whether the meat be desired rare or well done. A steak or mutton chop an inch thick will be cooked rare in ten minutes, medium well done in twelve and well done in fifteen. But a quarter of an hour's cooking would spoil the dish for most people. Lamb should be well done, with hardly a tinge of pink. Veal and pork can not be too well done, yet the cooking must be slow, or the meat will be hardened. All broiled meats should be seasoned on the dish with salt, pepper and butter, and be served at once. Never put the dish into the oven or over hot water to have the butter melt. It ruins the meat, and butter too. Sometimes a little lemon juice or a small quantity of chopped parsley is added with the butter.

In summer, when so many people cook on an oil stove, none of the modes of broiling just described will be available if an oil stove be used. Heat a frying pan to a high temperature, and then sprinkle the bottom with salt. Lay the steak or chop in the pan, and, after cooking until brown on one side, turn it, and brown the other side. Nothing but the salt should be put in the pan with the meat. It will take about three minutes longer to cook the meat in this way than over clear coals.

When roasting meats, be careful to wipe the meat clean and to dredge it with salt and flour. Place the meat on a rack that will raise it about an inch from the bottom of the pan. Sprinkle the bottom of the pan with salt and flour. Place in a hot oven, and when the flour becomes browned, which will be in about five minutes, pour in hot water enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Close the door, and in a quarter of an hour open it and baste the meat by dipping up the gravy in the pan and pouring it over the meat, following this operation by dredging lightly with salt, pepper, and flour. Now put more water in the pan. Return the meat to the oven, and in fifteen minutes repeat the basting. Indeed, the basting should be repeated every quarter of an hour until the meat is done. Red meats should be cooked rare, white meats well done.

If this mode of roasting be followed faithfully, the meat will be found juicy, well flavored, and digestible. A meat-rack can be bought for a small sum at any kitchen-furnishing store. Every kitchen should be supplied with one.—Maria Parloa, in Christian Union.

—A number of experiments made at the Missouri Agricultural College farm showed that on a moist dirt road it required a force equal to 487 pounds to move a load of 2,665 pounds, or 57 per cent. more than was needed to move the same load over a gravel road having a grade of one foot in twenty-eight; and that on a level gravel or macadamized road the force needed was only one-fourth as much as that needed on the dirt road. On a plank floor the force needed was but one-seventh as much as that required on the dirt road. This made no allowance for the energy wasted by the horse in pulling its feet from the mud or lifting them over the little elevations which are always to be found in muddy roads.

—Ham and Macaroni.—A very savory dish for country suppers is made of boiled macaroni, the long sticks being broken in equal lengths, and carefully but thoroughly well boiled; pour the water off and place them on a dish, taking care not to break the sticks in too small pieces. Then take some cold slices of ham, mince them fine and pour over the macaroni, and to top off, use parsley finely chopped, or bread crumbs fried brown in butter, —Surgeon (to patient, who has been playing Missouri poker)—"I can find only one ear, sir." Patient—"Yaas, the other one wasn't worth savin'. Don't sew it on the wrong side, Doc."—Texas Siftings.

HE WAS ADMITTED.

The Future Mayor Got In and the Show Proceeded.

Will J. Davis, of the Haymarket theater, tells of a night of minstrelsy in a California town in Petaluma valley. He was manager of the show, which was given in a skating rink, opposite a corn field. The average Californian was not unlike the average Chicago theater goer between acts. He had the same thirst, the only difference being that the Californian had further to go for his elixir. Mr. Davis, knowing something of the character of the Californian carrying his point, had asked the city marshal of the town to occupy a seat with him in the box office. The rush out between acts had returned, and Mr. Davis was preparing to count up. A typical miner presented himself, whittling with a knife, the blade of which was six inches long. "You know me?" said the Californian.

Mr. Davis said he hadn't the honor.

"I was in and went out," the Californian remarked, turning off another shaving.

Mr. Davis asked him for his check.

"You didn't give me no check," said the man with the knife.

"Beg your pardon," remarked the Chicago man, who began to feel that he was a long way from home.

"I'm goin' in," said the Californian, "and if you try to stop me I'll take this here knife and lay your liver out where the crows'll pick at it. D'ye understand, you hatched faced, long eared curiosity from the east?"

Mr. Davis nudged the town marshal, who got up and looked out of the window. "Is that you, Bill?" he asked of the Californian.

"Yes, it's me, and I ain't got no check."

The town marshal turned to Mr. Davis and said: "Well, if Bill says you didn't give him no check you didn't. And I reckon it's best for the show to let him go in."

And Bill went in and put his feet on the back of a man who sat in front of him, but there was no disturbance. "It was the peaceablest show I ever gave," said Mr. Davis. "I was in that town some time after that and I heard that Bill had been elected mayor."—Chicago Times.

Encouragement As It Is.

Patient—Do you think it is anything serious, doctor?

Physician—Nothing but a slight lesion in the muscles of your back. Take that medicine and you'll be all right to-morrow.

Patient—What makes you walk so funny, Doc?

Physician—I've had a backache for three weeks.—Judge.

Being Neighborly.

"I'll bet I've got some of the meanest neighbors a fellow ever had," said a man yesterday to some half dozen loungers; "they're always on the borrow. One family in particular sends every day or two for a cup of browned coffee—of which we keep only the very best—and then returns, in place of it, a most inferior article. We're going to head 'em off on that, though; they owe us a cup now, and when they fetch it home, wife's going to set it away and loan it to 'em again!" and he chuckled with infinite satisfaction.

"Well, sir," continued another, after a pause, "my wife has a worse neighbor than that. She moved into our neighborhood about a month ago, and in a few days borrowed a cup of sugar. When she returned it, it wasn't nearly so full. After two or three such experiences, my wife set the cup away, and when she returned for another loan, sent back the same quantity. It was still lighter when it was returned, and after two weeks passing back and forth, my wife handed it out at last with less than a spoonful in it."

"How much was in it when the woman sent it home?" queried a listener.

"Not a single grain!—they had washed the cup!"—Detroit Fress Press.

The Place to Trade.

Stranger (to tailor)—You've got a nice stock of goods here.

Tailor (rubbing his hands)—There's nothing like it this side of the Atlantic ocean, sir.

Stranger—I've been told that your prices are about right, too.

Tailor—Yes, sir; the price I put on a suit of clothes is a great injustice to my wife and family. Now, there is a line of spring and summer goods of my own importation, and I paid cabin passage rates to get 'em here. That diagonal, the manufacturer assures me, was made exclusively for the Prince of Wales, and only got into my lot by mistake. He offered me big money to get the goods back for fear of international complications.

Stranger—You don't say so!

Tailor—Yes, sir. But I laughed at him. When I get hold of a good thing it goes to a customer every time if I lose money on it. I s'pose you will want a nice, stylish spring suit, and then something for warm weather?

Stranger—N-no. I guess not this morning. I was trying to get out of the way of a milk wagon too suddenly a few moments ago, and I want to get a suspender button sewed on.—New York Sun.

Wasn't Used to It.

A traveler was eating supper in the stuffy saloon of a Chesapeake bay steamboat, and when he had finished the meal, the waiter brought a finger bowl, with that extra touch of colored politeness which preceded the expected fee. The guest moistened his fingers and lips from the bowl, and then a look of surprise overspread his face. "What is that?" he asked. "Water, sah." "It's kerosene." "Water, sah." "I tell you it's kerosene," said the guest angrily, as the fumes of coal oil arose from his mustache and fingers. "What do you take me for? Do you think my mustache is a lamp wick? Maybe you think I want to be a torch light procession?" "Sah?" "Take this stuff away, I tell you," thundered the oil covered tourist. The terrified waiter obeyed, and a moment later reappeared with another bowl, said tremblingly: "I reckon you was right, sah. I done gave you the bowl what the lamps drip in, sah."—The Argonaut.

Something for Him to Ponder Over.

Miss Blunt—I'm told that you have made up your mind to remain a bachelor all your life, Mr. Knobchewer.

Mr. K.—I-aw-beg your pawdon, Mith Blunt; I nevah awthowised such a statement.

Miss B.—Then I must have been misinformed.

Mr. K.—Who-aw-told you tho?

Miss B.—I wasn't told in exactly those words, but I was told that you had expressed a determination never to marry any girl who knew more than yourself.—Boston Courier.

ITALY'S GREAT PATRIOT.

The Hair-Breadth Escapes of the Early Career of Garibaldi.

The fate of nations often hangs on a thread. At this day, the unification of Italy may appear a very simple, natural, historically unavoidable fact. Yet those who know what a heavy task it was, in our time, once more to knead together the Roman stock, and how the personality of Garibaldi alone was able to join South to North, can not read without a strange feeling his several hair-breadth escapes. What if he had been taken prisoner for that conspiracy, owing to which a sentence of death was pronounced against him by default, when he was at the age of 27? On February 5, 1834, he fortunately was able to steal out of Genoa, disguised as a peasant—henceforth an exile. A few days afterward he read his condemnation to death in a paper at Marseilles. "There," he adds, "began my public life." He does not mention that at Marseilles he met Mazzini, the head of "Young Italy." From the works of the latter, however, we know the fact, and also that Garibaldi's secret nom de querre in the patriotic association was "Borel." In Guerzoni's ample and highly interesting work, it is well pointed out how the characters of the two men, then both equally young, were evidently too different to "allow of the creation of that electric spark which lights the flame of mutual love and of a lasting community of thought." Still, curious to say, the first ship which Garibaldi, together with his friend Rossetti, fitted out for the republic of the Rio Grande, being provided with letters of marque, was called the Mazzini—so named, as we also earn from Guerzoni, by Garibaldi himself. Again, what if this man of destiny, as some may say, after having been shot in the neck during his South American campaigns, and for a time lain nearly lifeless, had succumbed to the horrible torture he was afterward put to at Genaleguay? He was a prisoner on parole. He thought the Government of his captors would itself be glad to get rid of his presence. So he tried to escape, but was overtaken and put on a horse, with his hands tied back, and his legs even bound together under the animal's belly. On his refusal to betray the persons who had furnished him with the means for flight, he was first brutally beaten with a whip by the commander of Gualeguay, and then hung up for two hours by the wrists on a rope drawn over a beam in the prison. "I, who had devoted my whole life to the relief of the suffering, who had devoted it to war against tyranny and the patrons and administrators of torture! My body was burning like a furnace. My stomach dried up the water which I swallowed without interruption, and which was poured into me by a soldier as if it were a red-hot iron. Such sufferings can not be described. When they took me down I no longer moaned; I was in a swoon; I was like a corpse."—Karl Blind, in Contemporary Review.

FISHING IN GEORGIA.

Some Go After a Trout with a Gun and Others Narcotize the Fish.

Mr. Hitchcock says: "Whenever I felt as if I wanted a trout for dinner I would stroll over to the pond and bring one down or up rather with my rifle. Between eleven and twelve o'clock at midday are the hours when they can be shot, as for some unexplained reason they come up near the surface. I always aim for the head. No, the ball never penetrates the head or any portion of the fish. It is seldom that even a scale is disturbed. The rifle ball never touches them. They are killed apparently by concussion. The water, I think, flattens the ball. Immediately upon being shot they rise to the surface, floating upon their backs. I never take the trouble to fish with a hook, preferring my rifle." Mr. McClelland recently noticed that the fish were dying by hundreds and rising to the surface. He had a pond dragged and brought out from it fully five hundred dead trout or black bass. At least one hundred of them would weigh eight pounds or over. They were thrown upon the bank and the buzzards feasted upon them. It is suspected that persons to whom the owner of the pond had refused the right to fish from it had poisoned its water and with it the finny life with which it teemed.

A lazy but unlawful method of obtaining fish from the ponds was once quite common among negroes and others. This was stupefying or drugging the fish by means of some narcotic plants. The favorite growth for this purpose was the devil's shoe-string, a small plant with extremely long, tough and slender roots. This queer plant, with its uncanny name was much used by the Indians as a medicine, and is said to be the basis for several blood purifiers with long and alliterative names. A plentiful supply of the plant being obtained the negro finds a log which projects well out into the water, and getting astride of it dips it in and alternately beats it with a stick or paddle. After every good beating it is shaken about in the water and the supply replenished, and this continued until the pond is thoroughly impregnated with the singular properties of the weed. The fish soon commence rising to the surface and gasping as if for breath. A few faint struggles follow and then the fish lie helpless and inert upon the surface only to be gathered in and served as a meal. It is said that the meat is not at all affected by the treatment the fish have undergone, but it is with considerable squeamishness and trepidation that a person for the first time dines upon poisoned or narcotized fish.—Atlanta Constitution.

ARMENIAN WOMEN

They Are Not Allowed to Speak Above a Whisper in Their Homes.

It would appear that nowhere is the patriarchal system carried to a greater extent than among the Armenians. During the lifetime of the father, all the sons and their descendants live together in one common dwelling; and thus houses may be found which, from the number of their inhabitants, resemble bee-hives, often comprising three or four generations. All the property is held in common by the descendants of the head of the house. Brothers and sisters inherit equally, but until the death of the head no one can possess any thing separate from all the others. Until marriage the Armenian girl goes about as she likes; she is unveiled, and enjoys as much freedom as she could do in European countries, flirting, love making and marrying to please herself, as in more civilized lands. But once married and all is changed. From that time until she becomes a mother, she never speaks to any one except her husband, and then only in private. After she becomes a mother, she may speak to her mother-in-law first, and after the lapse of certain periods, to her own mother, her sisters-in-law and her own sisters. She is always veiled, even in her own house; she never speaks to male strangers, and she seldom or never leaves the house. Her finery, jewelry and ornaments can be shown only to those of her own sex, and in every way her seclusion is as complete as that of the Turkish woman. On the other hand the Armenian women seldom do any hard work; they remain at home while their husbands labor in the fields, and they enjoy, probably on account of their acquaintance prior to marriage, much more respect and confidence from their husbands than falls to the share of the Turkish wife, who, moreover, has to divide with two or three rivals the little affection or respect which her husband deigns to bestow on her. As the Armenian woman can only talk in her own house below her breath, that none of her male relatives may hear what she says, it follows that the consequence which usually results from the residence of so many women in one house, incessant quarreling, is quite avoided. Custom, the strongest of all laws, forbidding them to speak above a whisper, a war of words could only be carried on under great difficulties; and as yet at least speaking on the fingers, which would also require a knowledge of spelling, an accomplishment very few of them possess, is not introduced to facilitate the interchange of hostilities between those ancient enemies, mothers and daughter-in-law. Yet it is not easy to realize the idea of a large family circle in which all the ladies sit mute, only converse among themselves in whispers.—London Standard.

INKS OF ALL COLORS.

How Writing Fluids Are Made in American Laboratories.

Ink is variously composed, according to the purposes to which it is to be applied. Common writing ink is the pertannate of iron, mixed with a little gallate, held in suspension in water by means of gum or some other adhering substance. The gum also preserves the ink from being too fluid and also serves to protect the vegetable matter from decomposition.

Blue ink has of late years been much in demand. The coloring matter is said to be sulphate of indigo and tincture of iron, or, according to another recipe, Prussian blue dissolved in water by means of oxalic acid. Red ink is usually made by boiling in the proportion of two ounces of Brazil wood in a pint of water for about a quarter of an hour, and adding a little gum and water. This ink is not in demand now, carmine having superseded it; this color is attained by a solution of carmine and ammonia, also adding gum. The great merit of our common writing ink is in the freedom with which it flows from the pen, allowing of rapid writing, and the manner in which it bites into the paper, so as not to be removed by sponging. The great defect is in the want of durability. Such inks partake of the nature of dyes. The writing ink of the ancients, on the contrary, is characterized by great permanency; its basis was finely divided charcoal mixed with some mucilaginous or adhesive fluid. India ink is of this character; it is formed of lamp-black and animal glue, with the addition of perfumes, not necessary however, to its use as an ink, and is made up into cakes. It is used in China with a brush, both for writing and painting upon Chinese paper, and it is used in this country for making drawings in black and white, the different depths of shade being produced by varying the dilution with water.

"Writing ink," said a prominent manufacturer, "is now made in large quantities in New York, and whereas in the past we used to import largely, we now export to almost every country."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

—Large numbers of colored people are said to be emigrating to California from the Southern States. Recently one party of twenty-four men and women arrived in San Francisco en route to join a colony in the southern part of the State. Another party of 110 laborers has gone to Frisno to work in the raisin vineyards, and 150 more are to follow.

—A man at Livingston, M. T., is said to keep as a pet a full-grown mountain lioness. The animal is as tame as a cat and playful as a little dog, and sleeps in the bed with its master.

AN UMPIRE'S DUTIES.

Some of the Trials and Tribulations of a Much-Abused Individual.

The duties of an umpire are very responsible and require considerable nerve and perserverance for one to properly fill the position. Any one having these requirements and fulfilling them to their utmost ability will do more to elevate the game than one has any idea of. No matter how good two nines may be or how well they may try to play ball, unless they have a good umpire the players will lose heart, and then the interest in the game dies out. Time and again I have seen games which, only for superior work on the part of the umpire, would have proved tame and tiresome affairs. Then again, players themselves can help to make the duties of an umpire light and at the same time increase the interest in the game. Players are instructed, before coming on the field, to win the game if they can, no matter how it is done. Therefore they come out with the determination to do so, no matter whom it may injure. It is not a question of a player disputing with the umpire that I am going to refer to, for no competent umpire will permit a player to say a word to him while in the field, but it is the many childish ways the players adopt to try to gain the sympathy of the crowd, and in that way subject the umpire to many indignities. It is these things that have ruined the chances of many competent men who have undertaken to discharge the duties of an umpire. Umpires often overlook these things rather than impose a fine on the player. Every club should warn its men that such conduct on the field will be met by a heavy fine, and then let the player pay the penalty and not the club after the fine has been imposed. I can mention lots of players who, when they are at the bat and have a strike called on them, will go through all kinds of contortions to gain sympathy from the crowd, and, as a rule, the crowd, especially if the player is a member of the home club, will set up a howl at the umpire. The player does this to gain his base, which he could not have reached on his batting abilities. I like to get hold of such fellows. I have no sympathy for them. I have seen pitchers and catchers go through such "baby acts" when the former are being freely batted. You never saw a first-class player, or, at least, a man with principle, being guilty of such work. The clubs themselves are responsible for the scarcity of umpires. Let them adopt more rigid rules and then enforce them while the men are on the ball field, and they will find any number of first-class men who are willing and competent to fill the umpire's position.

There is another thing I would like to say a word about, and that is giving decisions made at second base. They get many umpires into trouble, and yet those officials are not to blame for them. Most of these decisions are purely guesswork, although often correct. All the trouble down at that base could be averted by dratting a rule compelling the runner to keep on the line while going to that base, except when compelled to run behind the fielder, who is fielding a batted ball. That three-feet limit rule is causing the trouble. No man knows how far out of the line he goes, yet he will declare he has not been more than three feet, as the rule allows.—Robert Ferguson, in Chicago Inter-Ocean.

MISSOURI COURTSHIP.

An Aged Politician Relates the Story of a Narrow Escape.

"When I was a young man," said the politician, "I traveled in the Southwest considerably, selling saddles, etc. On one of my trips I stopped over night in a settler's cabin in Southeast Missouri. The settler and his family were mighty cordial, gave me the best they had and made me welcome to a bunk on the floor with them. The oldest daughter was sixteen or seventeen years old and a perfect beauty for her situation. She was the kind of a girl a novelist would break his neck to get hold of for a heroine. She'd be very picturesque and pleasing in a book, but I shudder when I think of her in real life. She took quite a shine to me and before we laid down she had told me nearly every thing she ever heard. A heavy rain fell during the night, and as the roads had been heavy before, they were not passable the next morning. So I had to stay at the cabin. The girl was very attentive for the three days I was there, and on the evening of the last day she said: 'Say, is you uns married?' I told her 'no,' and wanted to know why she asked. 'Well, if you uns ain't,' she said, 'we uns might get spliced.'

The speaker paused to allow his hearers time to break all their buttons and then proceeded:

"Her father approved heartily of the plan. 'I've been wishin' you uns would hitch ever since I seen you uns,' he said, and the whole family was so congratulatory that I was afraid to decline. I pretended to accept and offered to ride to the meeting-house about twenty miles away and get the preacher. They laughed at the idea. 'We uns can marry ourselves by kissing over a candle,' the girl said. I insisted on the preacher, and after a long argument got my horse to ride for him. Just as I was about to mount the girl came out of the cabin arrayed to go with me. That was too much. I mounted in a hurry, laid a switch to the horse's flanks and rode off at the top of the horse's speed. I have never seen the charmer since."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

—Newark, N. J., has a post of veterans of the Franco-Prussian war.

PUTTING AWAY CLOTHES.

How to Store Winter Garments Through the Summer Season.

One of the most difficult tasks for the housekeeper in the spring is the putting away of the winter clothing so that it may be taken out in the fall ready for use. It requires a great deal of care to do this work properly. Where the house is roomy and the closets arranged so that they may be aired frequently, it is a very easy matter to keep the winter clothing free from that most dreaded of all insects, the moth, by opening and airing the closets often. Where this can be done there is no danger of the clothes suffering from this destroyer, for where there is air and light no moth cares to remain long. If closets were better ventilated and fewer dark places in the house, there would be little cause for protection against this insect. When moths once get into a house, they are very difficult to dislodge, for their eggs will lie dormant for months and months, and when the housewife is congratulating herself on her victory over them, ere she is aware of it the house is infested with them again. As "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," it is best to apply turpentine freely in the dark, close places they would be likely to infest. To be sure, if a closet is near a chimney this would be dangerous to use, but as clothes should never be put in a closet so situated, there should be no occasion for its use here.

All clothing before being placed away should be aired thoroughly. Hang out in the air all coats, dresses, furs, etc., whip free of dust, turn all the pockets inside out, brush with a corn brush broom, and let hang in the air an hour or two. If there is a brisk wind blowing, all the better, and in this case less time is required to air them. When sufficiently aired take in. Have made some little muslin bags, into each one of which put a small piece of camphor. Place one of these bags into each coat or dress pocket. Turn each dress skirt inside out, fold neatly, place a newspaper between each one, and do all up in strong newspaper, pasting it so as not to leave the smallest crevice by which a moth could enter.

Coats should be folded lengthwise, but never across, and done up the same as the dresses. Furs should be placed in their boxes, a camphor bag put in with them, the boxes done up in newspaper, and the ends fastened with paste. If no boxes are convenient, then simply put the camphor bag inside the muff, and wrap the set in newspaper fastened as above. Newspaper is much better than wrapping paper for this work, as moths abhor printer's ink. Some use cloth for this purpose, making cotton bags especially for it, but cloth is not as good as paper. Felt hats and bonnets, bits of plush, velvet, etc., should be put in a box, into which put a camphor bag, and do up securely in newspaper.

Have ready the shelves, drawers or boxes in which the clothing is to be placed. If shelves, cover with newspaper, place the bundles as neatly as convenient in them and cover all with newspaper. Line drawers in the same way, cover with newspaper, tucking it in all round. Where a person can afford it, a cedar chest is the best receptacle for winter clothes, requires no camphor and will last a lifetime. Cedar chips are excellent to scatter among clothes, they give them a pleasant odor and are obnoxious to moths. When placing the clothing away in boxes or trunks, line the insides with newspaper, pasting it firmly to the wood, pack the bundles in closely and cover with newspaper, tucking it in around the edges. Bitter apples are said to be a sure preventive of moths. They can be bought at the chemist's, put in muslin bags and placed in chests, drawers, etc., and moths will not trouble any article in these places. A tallow candle wrapped in brown paper and placed among clothes that are laid away for any length of time will keep the moths at a distance. This is an old-fashioned remedy, but a good one.—Boston Budget.

Muslins and Percales.

Wide borders are on the new muslins and lawns, and the French percales have outline designs all over them, with a vine border on one selvage. There are pretty French percale dresses made up with a polonaise, quite full, and belted with ribbon, falling open over a skirt of the same, that is completed by a deep Spanish flounce of the material sewed on above the knees, with a standing ruffle at the top as a heading, in a simple way in great favor many years ago. This makes a charming gown when the white or ecru percales are chosen with indigo blue outline designs, and dark blue faille ribbon is used for the sash and as a folded collar, also as wristbands for the full sleeves. Another pretty model is a pale ecru batiste, with sprigs of red and green at intervals all over it, and these sprigs massed more closely for a wide border. The shirred bodice is arranged to have the borders down the back and front, the sleeves are leg-of-mutton shape, with deep bordered cuffs, and the belt and sash ribbon are of gros grain, changeable from yellow to pink and green. The skirt has a border around the foot, and is quite straight, and about four and a half yards wide, with most of its fulness pushed to the back. The front has a pointed apron, which is turned up to the hip on the left side in a milkmaid revers, and is bordered along its edges. The wide border is turned over arou[illegible] the neck as a Byron collar.—Ho[illegible] Bazar.

—The r[illegible] sow[illegible] c[illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11.....1888

General P. H. Sheridan died last Sunday evening. The heart that never quailed in battle yielded to disease. The heroic Irish blood that coursed through that brave heart is now cold in death. Of the immortal three who were mainly instrumental in leading the Union armies to victory, he was one. He was admired for heroic courage; trusted for wisdom and skill; but loved for his modesty and simple-hearted kindness. The great General Sheridan will have endless fame as a soldier; the true patriot Sheridan will for ages to come be held in reverence for his devotion to his country; but the man Phil. Sheridan will be loved and mourned while there is one man alive who knew how true, how modest, how sincere, how faithful, how affectionate and kind he was. It is more to his honor that he inspired respect for his manly virtues, and esteem and affection for his gentleness, than that he won glorious victories on the field of battle. Every American citizen will love the institutions of his country the more when he remembers Sheridan, who was born the son of a poor immigrant, yet attained such splendid renown and such a high place in the Nation. Every Irish-American will, when the name of Sheridan is mentioned, feel a more profund respect for those free institutions under which genius and worth have a fair field for their display, and are fully valued when found.

MISCELLANEOUS.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

...air-Cutting, etc., done in the best ...r. Prop'r.

SECOND
ANNUAL FAIR
Agricultural District
No. 18.
STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
Composed Of the Counties of
ALPINE, MONO & INYO.
TO BE HELD AT
Independence
Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in gaits, or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown in harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than three | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 15 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion any breed or age Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $ 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display on Agricultural Field | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds onions | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety roots | 2 00 |
| ½ doz squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in roll | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| Single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| Display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| Display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| Display of cake | 2 50 |
| Variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 5 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| grapes, black | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $ 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil painting and Japanese panels | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsome knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered baby's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf, two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall panel, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk or flannel | 2 00 |
| counterpane | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand knitted scarf | 2 00 |
| bath rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made baby's dress | 5 00 |
| best display and best work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, silk or cotton | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $ 5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground by 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year-olds, mile, 2 in 3 Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GERRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Boggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 456.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 22, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that John Kasport, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 456, for the S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Sec 22 Tp 14 S, R 35 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence Cal. on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Frederick Albers, John Meyer, Fritz Stromeyer, and John Alexander, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to
HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide, 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may see their address and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars.
Jy-1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23 tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free all information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R
TAKING EFFECT
Tuesday, April 10th, 1888

| STATIONS. | From Mound House No. 1. | To Mound House No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leaves— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Layton | 9 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 p. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 30 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Gardner | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Soda Springs | 7 00 p. m. | 8 00 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 00 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 30 p. m. | Lv. 6 30 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leaves— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m. | 1 55 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 20 a. m. |
| Averill | 2 00 p. m. | 10 55 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 00 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 30 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 5 45 p. m. | Lv. 7 00 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (65 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & co's. tri-weekly stages (leaving Monday, Wednesday and Friday) for Diamondfield, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDIR,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, June 6th 1888.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.
D. E. No. 243.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 25, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that Sherman V. Stevens of Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 243, for the E ½ of N W ¼ N E ¼ N ½ of S E ¼, N E ¼ of S W ¼ Sec 13, T 14 S R 35 E N W ¼ N ½ of S W ¼ Sec 18, Tp 14 S, R 34 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver of this office at Independence, Cal., on Tuesday, the 14th day of August, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land: Charles A. Sumner, Allen Keny, John Meyers and William Meyers, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the Law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.
Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.
Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

FINAL PRE-EMPTION PROOF.
D. S. No. 1228.
LAND OFFICE AT INDEPENDENCE, CAL. June 22, 1888.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on August 4, 1888, viz: Hiram Hamilton, for the E ½ of S W ¼, W ½ of S E ¼ of Sec 30, Twp 14 S, R 36 E, M D M.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: John Shepherd, John W. Lacey, William H. Jenkins and Peter Meyer, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.
o-m14

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.,
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK
Consisting of most everything a article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as our past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252-tf

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO

DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main
Deutsche Vollmachten gültig.
Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2.50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11. ..... ...1883

A fishing party from the Norman House went up in the Sierras on Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles Green and Mrs. Burckhardt were up from Lone Pine last Monday.

George M. Palmer, of Lone Pine, was in town at the beginning of the week.

The State Fair of Nevada will be held at Reno September 17th to the 22d inclusive.

Hon. A. J. Gould came in from Darwin on Thursday to attend a meeting of the Republican Executive committee.

Read Hale Brothers' advertisement. Every word they say can be received with entire confidence; they are thoroughly reliable.

A. R. Conklin Esq. got back last Monday from Sacramento, where he had been as a delegate to the Republican State Convention.

The following letters are unclaimed at the Postoffice at Independence: Max Cohn O. P. Engelbright, F. W. Floyd, Dan McCarty.

Mr. S. G. Sneden came down from Bishop Creek on Wednesday to attend a meeting of the Republican County Central Committee.

Mr. J. R. Mogan, of San Francisco, arrived at Independence last Wednesday. He is looking after land interests and may remain some weeks.

The Democratic County Central committee will meet at Independence on Tuesday, the 21st inst., to apportion delegates and fix a time for holding the County Convention. See the notice.

Miss Mollie Stevens has a large class of girls at Lone Pine teaching them drawing. The class will make a display of their work at the Fair at Independence.

A fair will be held at Bishop Creek beginning on the 10th of September and ending on the 13th. See the notice by the Secretary, J. H. Stoutenborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Tremmore Coffin went north on their way back to Carson last Thursday morning. Mr. Coffin expects to return to Independence in time to attend the Fair.

Mr. Frank Butler and his sister, Miss Minnie Butler, arrived at Independence on Wednesday from Red Bluff, Tehama county and are visiting at the ranch of Mr. John Shepherd.

J. D. Harger, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, came down from Bishop Creek last Wednesday evening to attend the meeting of the Board. Private business compelled him to return home next morning.

Jack Dunphy and his partner, O'Keefe are shipping sixty tons of ore they have taken out at Cerro Gordo. The lot was gathered in little dabs and has been a long while accumulating.

We are to have a new holiday. Governor Waterman has declared September 9th, the day on which California was admitted into the Union, to be a legal holiday. As the 9th falls on Sunday this year Monday will be the holiday.

Frank Fitzgerald has had constructed a machine for concentrating fine ore and flue dust which is a success. He has on hand some 1200 tons of material which he will concentrate, and which promises good returns.

Large numbers of people go to Agricultural Hall every Saturday evening to hear the band. By request the band will furnish music every Saturday evening until further notice. Admission, gentlemen, 50 cents, ladies free.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKenzie and Miss Seaman, and Mr. E. H. Edwards left Lone Pine last Sunday for a month's ramble about the head of Kings River and the Mt. Whitney country. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, of Keeler, are also of the party.

Lumber is now on the way to be used in the Agricultural Hall in making additional conveniences for the display of goods at the Fair. Ample space will be given to each exhibitor, no matter how much he may bring for exhibition.

George Storey is finishing up two or three small lots of ore at the Maxim mill. The ore was taken from the Poleta and one or two claims in the same neighborhood. The yield of gold is about the same as usually found in the same claims.

J. B. Stinson is at Independence looking for land. Mr. Stinson came from Kingsbury, Fresno county. He says there was a big boom there a year ago, but it has collapsed and now everything is very dull and values of all kinds are much depressed.

Americans of Irish blood should build a suitable monument to the memory of General P. H. Sheridan. Enough money can be raised in a month to build a monument that will be a credit to the dead Hero. Let the movement begin here in Inyo county. We will publish the names of subscribers every week. Here is the first subscription: C. Mulholland..... $5 00

Twenty thousand dollars is a very safe estimate to make as the cost of extending the ditch to Lone Pine and beyond to the Lake. This would irrigate all the land in that locality. On the day when the work shall be completed every acre of that land would be worth five times the cost per acre in getting the water there. The canal is now carrying water a distance of about thirteen miles.

The Eastern Slope Fair

EDITOR INDEPENDENT. Sir:—There will be a Fair held by the Eastern Slope Agricultural Association at this place commencing on the 10th day of September and ending on the 13th. Respectfully,

J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH,
Secretary.

Good Land.

W. H. Russell, of Benton, recently purchased from J. Fernbach 160 of land a half mile south of Lone Pine, the price paid being $1,000. There is no water right with the land, nor any improvements. The tract is as level as a house floor, and there is no better land in the Valley. If artesian water can be found anywhere in Owens Valley it surely can be found on this tract. With water it would make a valuable property; fruits of kinds are now grown in that neighborhood. In all probability Mr. Russell will bore for water; if he should be successfull there is a great deal of very fine land near Lone Pine that at once would be in demand at good prices.

SUPERVISORS' PROCEEDINGS.

MONDAY, August 6, 1888.

On the above date the Board of Supervisors met in regular session. Present, Eldred, Robinson and Boland. Absent, Harger and Edly. Supervisor Robinson was elected Chairman pro. tem.

Ordered, that the "Order of Business" be suspended and that the Board consider petitions for a new road from the town of Lone Pine to the railroad station. Two routes are proposed for this road, one being the present traveled route and the other starting east to the railroad from near the residence of A. C. Harvey. Each of these petitions was accompanied by a proper bond.

S. P. McKnight, County Surveyor, Jos. Seely and C. Meysan were appointed to view, lay out and report on said proposed roads, or any other feasible route from Lone Pine to the railroad.

The following claims were allowed:

| | |
|---|---|
| A W Edesburz, mdse | $ 9 75 |
| J H Shannon, Board of Education | 28 50 |
| D Crough " " | 15 00 |
| A E Janvier " " | 23 40 |
| I J & L L Woodin, medical services | 33 50 |
| W H George, post mortem | 25 00 |
| I P Yaney, Justice Fees | 40 00 |
| Mrs J Kepler, labor at Courthouse | 30 00 |
| H S Crocker & Co, blanks | 10 00 |
| J J Moore, postage | 1 94 |

The Board adjourned till 10 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, August 7th.

TUESDAY, August 7, 1888.

The Board met at 10 o'clock a. m., same members present.

The following claims were allowed:

| | |
|---|---|
| H L vy, carrying patients | $26 40 |
| J W P Lord, Board of Education | 15 00 |
| P H Mack, sands | 3 58 |
| S G Gregg, " | 33 50 |
| W A Chalfant, printing | 8 50 |
| H G Pomeley, Constable Fees | 10 60 |
| A W Edesburz, dse | 21 00 |
| Independence Water Co | 35 00 |
| N Rohne, mdse | 81 70 |
| O I Mairs, boarding Jury &c | 394 75 |
| P A Chalfant, reports | 48 20 |
| C Mulholland, printing | 60 49 |
| I J Woodin, Co. Physician | 150 00 |
| Mrs A Stewart, for indigent sick | 86 66 |
| Margaret Lewis " " | 160 00 |
| H Evans, Road Dist. No. 1 | 30 00 |
| W A Powers, " " 2 | 96 12 |
| M S McLeod " " 3 | 114 72 |
| S J McMurry " " 4 | 91 00 |
| Walter James " " 5 | 144 04 |
| G H Palmer " " 6 | 46 50 |

The petition of P. A. Chalfant for $200 additional allowance for Deputy Assessor was granted; the Auditor was authorized to draw his warrant for the same.

The reports of Road Overseers for Districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 were examined, accepted and approved.

The Board adjourned till 10 a. m. on Wednesday, August 8th.

WEDNESDAY, August 8, 1888.

Board met at 10 o'clock a. m., same members present as on preceeding day. Supervisor Robinson was elected Chairman pro. tem. Minutes of preceeding day read and approved.

Upon petition the Board ordered that $6 80 be paid to P. A. Chalfant, being amount of 2 poll and 2 hospital taxes illegally collected by him and paid into the County Treasury.

The Board took a recess till one o'clock. At the afternoon session petitions of citizens of Road Districts Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were laid over till next regular meeting of the Board, as was also petition for a road at Big Pine.

A petition was presented from citizens of Judicial Township No. 4 for a change of Township line so as to include a portion of said Township in Township No. 3. The petition was granted.

A report was presented from Road Viewers appointed to lay out and report upon a road in District No. 3. Said report was rejected on the ground that it was insufficient and a new report was ordered.

At this point Supervisor Harger appeared and took his seat.

A recess was then taken till 10 o'clock a. m., August 9th.

THURSDAY, August 9th, 1888.

The Board met at 10 o'clock a. m., same members as of preceeding day present. E. Robinson was chosen Chairman pro. tem.

The Trustees of Irving School District reported that a majority of votes had been cast in favor of issuing bonds to the amount of $300 for repairing school house and furnishing same. The Board ordered that said amount be raised by taxation of property within said District.

The report of the County Superintendent on School Fund for ensuing year was accepted.

Ordered that notice be published for proposals for county printing.

The Board adjourned till Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Orcharding

On June 27th last Angelo Rossi budded some fruit trees for John Lucas, at Lone Pine. The buds were set in young branches that had started last Spring. Last Monday Mr. Rossi brought into this office fully developed blossoms from those buds. The buds started growing immediately after being grafted and quite a number of them have blossomed and young apples are now forming. Mr. Rossi says that immense damage is done to fruit trees by improper pruning. The young shoots that start from the main branches near the trunk of the tree should not be cut away, as is too commonly done; these should be left, and will be found to bear fruit. When these shoots are cut away the strength of the tree is thrown into the higher limbs; these grow long and slender, and when fruit forms upon them most of it is lost when winds blow and what remains is difficult to gather and the limbs are liable to break down. These opinions of Mr. Rossi are not mere theories, but the result of experience of himself and others.

Slough Land

White Smith has ninety acres of grain this season on his place at Black Rock, the most of it being wheat. The wheat is a very fine crop, the oats are of first-class quality, but barley not so good. The land was covered with a very heavy sod of thick, wild grass. This was broken up last fall and winter. Two hundred tons of hay has been cut and stacked on the place this season. This hay is native grasses; blue joint redtop and clover. In preparing the land, seeding and gathering the crop, Mr. Smith employed labor to the amount of $159; during the season he did work for others to about the same amount. This tract of land is on the slough formed by water from the Big Spring. Till Mr. Smith and his brothers showed what could be done with the land it was supposed to be worthless. Along that slough is some of the best hay and grain land in the county, but it will never be good for fruit raising.

Display at the G. A. R. Meeting.

The meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic at Columbus Ohio, next month, will afford a good opportunity for making a grand display of the resources of California. The railroad companies of the State and the State Board of Trade are doing all in their power to get up such a display as will alike be honorable and profitable to the State. Inyo county is asked to take part, as the following letter will show:

CARSON, Nev., August 3, 1888.

C. MULHOLLAND, Esq. Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of a letter from Jno. Q. Brown, Esq., General Manager of the California Board of Trade, urging us to co-operate with the Board in making an extensive exhibit of Pacific Coast productions at the National Encampment of the G. A. R., to be held at Columbus, Ohio, early in September next, where 250,000 visitors expect to be present. The citizens of Columbus have granted the use of their City Hall for the purpose of such an exhibit. The officials of the Board will have full charge and control of all articles that may be donated, contributed, or shipped for the purpose, and which will be, as I understand it, shipped to Columbus and returned to the shipper at the close of the exhibition by the railroad lines interested. All such articles may be sent to Wm. Thompson Esq., representative of the Board, Reno, Nevada, who will see that the same go forward with articles from other parts of California and Nevada. Through information from T. H. Goodman Esq., General Passenger Agent of the Southern Pacific Company, I learn that the S. P. Co. intend to make at Columbus a very fine exhibit of photographic views of California, making use of the stereopticon in illustrating the same. Mr. Goodman requests the loan of such views, and especially lantern slides. I submit the above matters to you with the hope that you may be able to work up an interest therein by the good people of Inyo county. If you will consult Mr. Nathan Rhine and other influential citizens of the county, and take immediate and active steps to co-operate with those who have the exhibit in charge we will, at this end, gladly render all possible assistance. Yours sincerely,

D. A. BENDER,
G. F. & P. A.

We cannot show perishable articles, such as fruits and vegetables, but we might make a very creditable showing of various kinds of grain, and we ought to make a very fine display of minerals. Any articles that may be loaned or given for exhibition from Inyo county, if brought to Independence, will be duly forwarded free of expense to the sender; or the articles may be taken to any station on the C. & C. railroad, addressed to Mr. W. Thompson, Reno, Nevada, and said articles will be receipted for and forwarded.

Irrigation Directors' Meeting.

Irrigation District No. 1, of Owens Valley, formed under the Wright Irrigation Bill, has ceased to exist as an organization. The Directors met at Independence last Tuesday in regular session. Upon application of Joseph Seely, and by resolution of the Board, the contract heretofore entered into with Seely wherein he agreed to convey his right to the waters of Owens river, and the location of his ditch to the District, was cancelled and annulled, and he was released from all obligations thereunder. W. L. Hunter, President, stated to the Board that he had tendered his resignation as a Director to the Board of Supervisors, to take effect August 8th. The following preamble and resolution was adopted

"Whereas, owing to the great opposition of the owners of the lands of said district, and the inability of the Directors to procure the necessary funds to carry on the business of said Board, and also to effect a sale of the bonds heretofore ordered issued for carrying out the purpose for which said district was formed, therefore be it

Resolved, That when said Board of Directors adjourn it be without day.

Whereupon the Board adjourned sine die.

By the adoption of this resolution the Board ceased to exist and the Irrigation District is dead. The Directors have given their services and personal expenses without any compensation whatever. The Secretary not only gave his services as such, and as legal adviser to the Board, but paid cash for a complete set of books for the District, and for all this he gets nothing. Those who try to help the public are apt to get Tanquin Oge's payment—more kicks than ha'pence. In other parts of the State great difficulty is experienced in trying to operate under the Wright Irrigation Law. Several districts have been organized, and though these contain vast bodies of good land, and ample security could be given for the bonds, yet no district has succeeded in selling bonds and getting capital to construct necessary works. In Colusa county a district has been organized and bonds were voted for by a very large majority, and there success may be achieved, but it seems will be the only successful district in the State so far.

Darwin Notes.

Darwin is very quiet at present. The low price of lead discourages miners. Lead is admitted from Mexico free of duty under the fiction that it is silver ore, and as wages in that country are extremely low, our own lead miners are driven from the market. J. C. Eddy is not operating any mines at present; he says nothing can be made in the mines under the present conditions. The pipe that conveys water to the town of Darwin is so worn that it will not stand any pressure; there is little inducement for putting in new pipe and the works are threatened with utter ruin.

A little ore is taken from the Defiance mine, but very few men are at work there.

At the Lucky Jim Mr. J. A. McKenzie has a few men at work; but not much is doing and Mr. McKenzie is taking life easy in the heart of the Sierras somewhere over in the Mt. Whitney region.

Mr. C. Anthony has got a renewal of his lease of the Higgin mine, over in the Slate Range, and will do a good deal of work there as soon as the weather gets a little cooler. Charley says that even at the low price of lead mining is a better business than politics, and he will prefer to prove his patriotism by hunting for ore rather than for votes.

Cheap Fruit

A. C. Harvey, of Lone Pine, has a fine crop of peaches and other fruits. He will deliver first-class fruit on board the cars at seventy-five cents a box. Mr. Harvey puts up his fruit in good shape and will not ship any that is not strictly first-class. All orders from responsible parties will be filled promptly.

Land Contest.

Last Saturday Hiram Hamilton went to the Land Office at Independence to make final proof on a pre-emption claim at Georges Creek. A contest was entered by H. J. Robinson, who alleged that Hamilton had not lived upon the claim, as required by law. Witnesses were examined for both parties. The Register decided against Hamilton and the case will be appealed to Washington.

PAUSE AND PERUSE!

Our house is essentially one of bargains. Low values abound everywhere—in every department. Were it not so we would have not intercepted and held the volume of trade which we have. We buy FIVE times the amount of goods of any store in this city. Our advantage is easily seen. Why not enjoy the benefit of it?

Here are some of the values which we are offering. Those at a distance—even a thousand miles away—by our well regulated system of shopping by mail, obtain the same advantages as if trading in person. Orders for the following described goods should be sent in quickly, as the stock will doubtless soon be exhausted.

OF INTEREST TO YOU!

Fine Rhadame silks, a firm body, honest weave and true dye. They have the natural brilliant lustre produced by pure silk and skilful weaving. We have them in TWENTY FOUR colors. Price 90 cents per yard; equal to any $1.15 or $1.25 Rhadame in the market.

A good uargain in Surah silks at 50 cents per yard. Excellent for sashes, combination suits and hat trimmings. All of the popular shades in stock.

French novelties in all wool dress goods in plaids and checks at 50 cents per yard. Twenty five lines of them. We have an all wool plaid a yard wide for 25 cents.

Something in an Oxford shoe for Gentlemen that we can recommend. Price $1.45; has always sold at $2.00. It is low cut, has a neat, fancy tip and four buttons. Sizes 5 to 10.

An all wool jersey with a vest front and coat back for $1.40. In the popular shades. At $1.75 we can give an all wool jersey with front and cuffs embroidered.

PARASOLS—An Ecru Silk covered with Coralline Lace natural wood handles, price $2. A heavy Black Satin Parasol trimmed with deep Spanish Loce and lined with rich changeable silk, $5.

Ladies' full finished hose at 19 cents a pair. Infancy stripes on a light ground.

Ladies' India Gauze Vest, high neck, long or short sleeves at 25 cents.

Three unlaundried white shirts for $1.

Fancy featheredge folding fans at 25 cents.

Samples of DRY GOODS mailed free upon application.

Send in your name for a Fall and Winter Catalogue which will be issued shortly.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GRAND

OPENING BALL!

—AT—

Crockers Hotel

BIG PINE,

Tuesday, Aug. 28th,

Everybody Welcome.

GRANDEST BALL EVER GIVEN AT BIG PINE.

OPEN AIR PLATFORM FOR DANCING.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that there will be a meeting of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo county held in the town of Independence, on

TUESDAY, AUGUST 23, 1888,

At 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of arranging for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

By order of Executive Committee.

A. N. BELL, Chairman.
Thos. Crough, Sec.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The regular Semi-Annual Meeting of the Inyo county Board of Education will be held at Independence on Tuesday, August 21st, at 10 o'clock a. m. Examination will commence on the 22d at 9 o'clock a. m. All applications for examination should be presented to the Secretary on the day preceeding the examination.

J. H. SHANNON,
Secretary.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out a flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not fail and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Prime Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered base, finished with pearly lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
406, 408, 410, 412, 414, 416 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Cannon Shooting Fifteen Miles.

Some important experiments have been made at the Shoeburyness school of gunnery in high angle firing. A London correspondent writes: Probably no step of recent years is likely to lead to greater results, for if the experiment should be repeated with the same success, it is undeniable that war ships will have to be as fully protected on their decks as they are now on their broadsides. The experiments were made with the 9-inch or 23-centimeter gun used as a howitzer. An elevation of 37 degs. was given and battering charges were used with Palliser shells. Out of four shots three fell within a space of 500 feet by 80 feet, representing the deck of a first class ironclad, and the range attained was twelve miles!

Now, if it be really possible, three times out of four, or for that matter once out of four times, to throw a nine inch shell upon the deck of a ship in midchannel between Dover and Calais, another proof will have been given that in the tedious duel between gun and armor the gun has much the best of it. What is very important, too, is that the heavy charges and the high angle did not strain either gun or carriage in the least, and one of the officers present has said that he believed the gun would stand 45 degs. of elevation without injury, while with 42 degs. a range of fifteen miles would be secured. Now, at fifteen miles, a ship is "hull down," so it comes to this, that we can throw a nine inch shell on to the deck of a ship before we can see it! Surely this is the most marvelous thing yet attempted in gunnery, which of later years has been so fruitful in surprises.—Army and Navy Register.

About South American Musquitoes.

Some ludicrous stories are told about adventures with the musquitoes. I have been solemnly assured that very often when they have attacked a boat and driven its captain and crew below they have broken the windows of the cabin by plunging in swarms against them and have attempted to burst in the doors. Although this may be something of an exaggeration, it is nevertheless true that frequently horses and cattle, after the most frightful sufferings, have died from musquito bites on board the vessels. Not long ago a herd of valuable cattle were being taken from the United States to a ranch upon the Magdalena river and became so desperate under the attacks of the musquitoes that they broke from their stalls, jumped into the water and all were drowned. Passengers intending to make the voyage usually provide themselves with protection in the shape of musquito bars, head nets and thick gloves, and when on deck are compelled to tie their sleeves around their wrists and their pantaloons around their ankles.—American Magazine.

How the Paraguayans Fought.

It was not alone the Paraguayan men and boys who had to bear arms in that struggle. "Food for powder" of that kind was soon exhausted. Then came the women's turn to fight, and, indeed, from an early period of the war, mothers, wives and sweethearts had donned the soldier's uniform and fought bravely in the ranks with those they loved.

After a certain battle, when the burying parties were busily pursuing their grim work, they came upon the bodies of two loving companions in arms, clasped in a last embrace.

The head of one rested on the other's breast, while an arm was closely drawn round him, the disengaged hand being raised to stanch the life blood flowing from a cruel gash. They looked like two true comrades whose friendship death itself had not been able to sever.

That, however, was not all their history. A wounded mother, in a soldier's guise, had dragged herself to the spot where her son lay bleeding, and there, regardless of her own fatal injuries, had placed his head upon her breast, and tried to soothe his last living moments, as she had done his first on earth.—Winthrop's "Reminiscences."

—"Time is money." Of course it is, or else how could you spend it?

—Men are not judged so much nowadays by their deeds as by their bonds.

—The gentleman is solid mahogany; the fashionable man is only veneer.—J. G. Holland.

—Most people believe in "the greatest good to the greatest number," and their greatest number is number one.

—A philosopher declares "it is not wrong to say what one thinks." Sometimes, however, it is not prudent.

—Young men are respectfully informed that when the young lady's father stamps his foot he is preparing to send it through the male.

—Some one says: "Wisdom comes with age." It does not always stay with it. When an old man wants to be silly wisdom cuts and runs.—N. O. Picayune.

—There are one hundred and seventy-two known species of creatures that are blind. This doesn't include the man who can't read "shut the door" in letters a foot long.

THE MONEY ARRIVED SAFELY.

In our issue of last week we noticed that Mrs. Peter Hoke of this place had drawn $5,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery, and since then have had inquiries made regarding the same, in answer to which we give the following: About two weeks or so before the drawing Mrs. Hoke sent one dollar to the Lottery Company by Express, for a one-tenth ticket in the May drawing, and in the course of ten days, received the same, (Ticket No. 21,492). Several days after the drawing she learned through a Washington newspaper, that ticket No. 21,492 had drawn the Second Capital Prize of $50,000 and immediately telegraphed to Mr. M. A. Dauphin, the President of the Company at New Orleans, and received a reply the next day that the same was correct, whereupon the ticket was sent immediately to the company by express. Just seven days after the ticket was sent away, the Express agent at this place left a letter at Mrs. Hoke's containing a draft on a New York Bank for the amount, $5,000, which was in full without any discount or percentage off. The draft was immediately placed in Bank where it was considered as good as the ready cash. In an interview with a reporter of this paper Mr. Hoke said that he had bought tickets in the Lottery several times before, he thought about six or seven, and always had them sent to his wife. Also that the money had come in very nicely to them, as they were a little in debt which they were enabled to release at once and have a handsome sum left. He has no doubt that the drawings are fairly and impartially made. This is the second time that $5,000 has come to this place from the lottery, the other one having been drawn about six years [illegible] Mr. Hoke is a highly respectable [illegible] this place and has been en[illegible] grocery business. [illegible] May 26.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC

(CONTINUED.)

Next from among the crowd, whither he had withdrawn, stepped forward our guide, the old gentleman who had towed us ashore, holding by the hand the girl whom we had first seen and afterwards rescued from the hippopotamus. Having made obeisance, he proceeded to address the queens, evidently describing to them the way and place where we had been found. It was most amusing to watch the astonishment, not unmixed with fear, reflected upon their faces as they listened to his tale. Clearly they could not understand how we had reached the lake, and been found floating on it, and were inclined to attribute our presence to supernatural causes. Then the narrative proceeded, as I judged from the frequent appeals that our guide made to the girl, to the point where we had shot the hippopotami, and we at once perceived that there was something very wrong about those hippopotami, for the history was frequently interrupted by indignant exclamations from the little group of white robed priests, and even from the courtiers, while the two queens listened with an amazed expression, especially when our guide pointed to the rifles in our hands as being the means of destruction. And here, to make matters clear, I may as well explain at once that the inhabitants of Za-Vendis are sun worshipers, and that for some reason or other the hippopotamus is a sacred animal among them. Not that they do not kill it, because at a certain season of the year they slaughter thousands—which are specially preserved in large lakes up the country—and use their hides for armor for soldiers; but this does not prevent them from considering these animals as sacred to the sun. Now, as ill luck would have it, the particular hippopotami we had shot were a family of tame animals that were kept at the mouth of the port, and daily fed by priests whose special duty it was to attend to them. When we shot them I thought that the brutes were suspiciously tame, and this was, as we afterwards ascertained, the cause of it. Thus it came about that in attempting to show off we had committed sacrilege of a most aggravated nature.

When our guide had finished his tale, the old man with the long beard and round cap, whose appearance I have already described, and who was, as I have said, the high priest of the country, and known by the name of Agon, rose and commenced an impassioned harangue. I did not like the look of his cold gray eye as he fixed it on us. I should have liked it still less had I known that in the name of the outraged majesty of his god he was demanding that the whole lot of us should be offered up as a sacrifice by means of being burnt alive.

After he had finished speaking the Queen Sorais addressed him in a soft and musical voice, and appeared, to judge from his gestures of dissent, to be putting the other side of the question before him. Then Nyleptha spoke in liquid accents. Little did we know that she was pleading for our lives. Finally, she turned and addressed a tall, soldier like man of middle age with a black beard and a long, plain sword, whose name, as we afterwards learned, was Nasta, and who was the greatest lord in the country, apparently appealing to him for support. Now when Sir Henry had caught her eye and she had blushed so rosy red, I had seen that the incident had not escaped this man's notice, and what is more, that it was eminently disagreeable to him, for he bit his lip and his hand tightened on his sword hilt. Afterwards we learned that he was an aspirant for the hand of this queen in marriage, which accounted for it. This being so, Nyleptha could not have appealed to a worse person, for speaking in slow, heavy tones, he appeared to confirm all that the High Priest Agon said. As he spoke, Sorais put her elbow on her knee, and resting her chin on her hand, looked at him with a suppressed smile upon her lips, as though she saw through the man, and was determined to be his match; but Nyleptha grew very angry. Her cheek flushed, her eyes flashed, and she did indeed look lovely. Finally she turned to Agon and seemed to give some sort of qualified assent, for he bowed at her words; and as she spoke she moved her hands as though to emphasize her words; while all the time Sorais kept her chin on her hand and smiled. Then suddenly Nyleptha made a sign and the trumpets blew again, and everybody rose to leave the hall save ourselves and the guards, whom she motioned to stay.

When they were all gone she bent forward and, smiling sweetly, partially by signs and partly by exclamations, made it clear to us that she was very anxious to know where we came from. The difficulty was how to explain, but at last an idea struck me. I had my large pocket book in my pocket and a pencil. Taking it out, I made a little sketch of a lake, and then as best I could, drew the underground river and the lake at the other end. When I had done this I advanced to the steps of the throne and gave it to her. She understood it at once and clapped her hands with delight, and then descending from the throne took it to her sister Sorais, who also evidently understood. Next she took the pencil from me, and after examining it with curiosity, proceeded to make a series of delightful little sketches, the first representing herself holding out both hands in welcome, and a man uncommonly like Sir Henry taking them. Next she drew a lovely little picture of a hippopotamus rolling about dying in the water, and of an individual, in whom we had no difficulty in recognizing Agon, the high priest, holding up his hands in horror on the bank. Then followed a most alarming picture of a dreadful fiery furnace and of the same figure, Agon, poking us into it with a forked stick. This picture perfectly horrified me, but I was a little reassured when she nodded sweetly and proceeded to make a fourth drawing—of a man again uncommonly like Sir Henry, and of two women, in whom I recognized Sorais and herself, each with one arm around him, and holding a sword in protection over him. To all of these Sorais, who I saw was employed in carefully taking us all in—especially Curtis—signified her approval by nodding.

Holding out both hands in welcome.

At last Nyleptha drew a final sketch of a rising sun, indicating that she must go, and that we should meet on the following morning; whereat Sir Henry looked so disappointed that she saw it, and I suppose by way of consolation, extended her hand to him to kiss, which he did with pious fervor. At the same time Sorais, off whom Good had never taken his eyeglass during the whole indaba (interview), rewarded him by giving him her hand to kiss, though while she did so her eyes were fixed upon Sir Henry. I am glad to say that I was not implicated in these proceedings; neither of them gave me her hand to kiss.

Then Nyleptha turned and addressed the man who appeared to be in command of the body guard, apparently from her manner and his frequent obeisances, giving him very stringent and careful orders; after which, with a somewhat coquettish nod and smile, she left the hall, followed by Sorais and most of the guards.

When the queens had gone the officer whom Nyleptha had addressed came forward, and with many tokens of deep respect led us from the hall through various passages to a sumptuous set of apartments opening out of a large central room lighted with brazen swinging lamps (for it was now dusk), and richly carpeted and strewn with couches. On a table in the center of the room was set a profusion of food and fruit, and, what is more, flowers. There was delicious wine also in ancient looking sealed earthenware flagons, and beautifully chased golden and ivory cups to drink it from. Servants, male and female, also were there to minister to us, and while we ate, from some recess outside the apartment and altogether we found ourselves in a sort of earthly paradise, which was only disturbed by the vision of that disgusting high priest who intended to commit us to the flames. But so very weary were we with our labors that we could scarcely keep ourselves awake through the sumptuous meal, and as soon as it was over we indicated that we desired to sleep. So they led us off, and would have given us a room each, but we made it clear that we would sleep two in a room. As a further precaution against surprise we left Umslopogaas with his ax to sleep in the main chamber, near the curtained doorways leading to the apartments which we occupied respectively, Good and I in the one and Sir Henry and Alphonse in the other. Then throwing off our clothes, with the exception of the mail shirts, which we considered it safer to keep on, we flung ourselves down upon the low and luxurious couches, and drew the silk embroidered coverlids over us.

The silver lute did speak between the trumpet's lordly blowing;

The Sister Queens.

In two minutes I was just dropping off when I was aroused by Good's voice.

"I say, Quatermain," he said, "did you ever see such eyes?"

"Eyes," I said, crossly; "what eyes?"

"Why, the queen's, of course! Sorais, I mean—at least I think that is her name."

"Oh, I don't know," I yawned; "I didn't notice them much; I suppose they are good eyes," and again I dropped off.

Five minutes or so elapsed, and I was once more awakened.

"I say, Quatermain," said the voice.

"Well," I answered, testily, "what is it now?"

"Did you notice her ankle? The shape"—

This was more than I could stand. By my bed stood the veldtschoons I had been wearing. Moved quite beyond myself, I took them up and threw them straight at Good's head—and hit it.

After that I slept the sleep of the just, and a very heavy sleep it must be. As for Good, I don't know if he went to sleep, or if he continued to pass Sorais' beauties in mental review, and what is more, I don't care.

CHAPTER XIII.

ABOUT THE ZU-VENDI PEOPLE.

And now the curtain is down for a few hours, and the actors in this novel drama are plunged in dewy sleep. Perhaps we should except Nyleptha, whom the reader may, if poetically inclined, imagine lying in her bed of state encompassed by her maidens, tiring women, guards and all other people and appurtenances that surround a throne, and yet not able to slumber for thinking of the strangers who had visited a country where no such strangers had ever come before, and wondering, as she lay awake, who they were and what their past had been, and if she was ugly compared to the women of their native place. I, however, not being poetically inclined, will take advantage of the lull to give some account of the people among whom we found ourselves, compiled, needless to state, from information which we subsequently collected.

The name of this country, to begin at the beginning, is Zu-Vendis, from Zu, "yellow," and Vendis, "place or country." Why it is called the Yellow Country I have never been able to ascertain accurately, nor do the inhabitants themselves know. Three reasons are, however, given, each of which would suffice to account for it. The first is that the name owes its origin to the great quantity of gold that is found in the land. Indeed, in this respect Zu-Vendis is a veritable Eldorado, the precious metal being extraordinarily plentiful.

The second reason given is, that at certain seasons of the year the native grasses of the country, which are very sweet and good, turn as yellow as ripe corn; and the third arises from a tradition that the people were originally yellow skinned, but grew white after living for many generations upon these high lands. Za-Vendis is a country about the size of France, is, roughly speaking, oval in shape, and on every side cut off from the surrounding territory by illimitable forests of impenetrable thorn, beyond which are said to be hundreds of miles of morasses, deserts and great mountains. It is, in short, a huge, high table land rising up in the center of the dark continent, much as in southern Africa flat topped mountains rise from the level of the surrounding veldt. Milosis itself lies, according to my aneroid, at a level of about 9,000 feet above the sea, but most of the land is even higher, the greatest elevation of the open country being, I believe, about 11,000 feet. As a consequence the climate is, comparatively speaking, a cold one, being very similar to that of southern England, only brighter and not so rainy. The land is, however, exceedingly fertile, and grows all cereals and temperate fruits and timber to perfection; and in the lower lying parts even produces a hardy variety of sugar cane. Coal is found in great abundance, and in many places crops out from the surface; and so is pure marble, both black and white. The same may be said of almost every metal except silver, which is scarce, and only to be obtained from a range of mountains in the north.

To be Continued.

The average wages of the Dutch laborers are $3 a week (he works twelve hours a day), and for "skilled labor of a very high class" not more than $4 50 to $5 is paid—scarcely more than carpenters and brick-layers receive here for a day's work.

Evolution of the Colored Race.

The negro is changing in appearance and losing some of the birthmarks peculiar to the African race. The new generation is showing the effects of a higher culture. Especially is this noticeable in the towns where contact with the whites shows its effect. The flat nosed, kinky headed negro is passing away and becoming an unknown race. All the colored children, no matter how dusky in one, show the change. Among the females, long hair of that peculiar woolly appearance, hangs in long braids or curls down their backs. Aquiline noses and smaller mouths with thinner lips are the rule. For years, and in fact ever since their freedom, the negresses have endeavored to do away with the short kinky hair bestowed upon them by their ancestors. Much of their spare change is invested in various tonics and invigorators, and the long attention and care bestowed upon it is shown in their descendants. The South Georgia negro is an evidence of evolution, the survival of the fittest.—Atlanta Constitution.

Solidifying Petroleum Fuel.

Experiments are still being made under the direction of the Russian government, with the view of finding a process, at once practicable as well as desirable on the score of economy and cleanliness, of solidifying the petroleum used as fuel. According to the report made by Dr. Kauffmann, who has had the principal charge of these experiments, a successful method of accomplishing the desired results consists simply in heating the oil and afterward adding from 1 to 3 per cent. of soap. The latter dissolves in the oil, and the liquid on cooling forms a mass having the appearance of cement and the hardness of compact tallow. The product is hard to light, burns slowly and without smoke, but develops much heat, and leaves about 2 per cent. of a hard, black residuum.—New York Sun.

A MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

I Expect to be Believed in all I am about to say—I write for the good of others.

"I am now at an age when a man should speak words of truth and soberness, having reached the alloted term of three score years and ten, and having devoted my time in the pulpit impressing lessons of wisdom to my fellows. Mine is a common story of physical suffering and how I was delivered from it; and my desire is to mention the facts as though no one were interested save myself and those who may read these lines. I was long troubled with a stubborn affection of the kidneys and bladder. I had painful gravel deposits, and at times enlargement of the prostrate gland. Despite all the professional help I could get I grew steadily worse. In this extremity I first learned of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. I took the wise course. I privately inquired into Dr. Kennedy's personal character and professional standing at his home in Rondout, N. Y. The result was more than satisfactory. I discovered him to be a highly educated and experienced physician and surgeon, respected and trusted at home and abroad—a man whose career has been a long and open success. I bought a bottle, however (the price being only $1.00,) taking nobody into my confidence. The good effects cheered and emboldened me. I bought another, following the clear directions; and now I want to make known the good it has done me. The disease has relaxed its hold and I look forward to spending the balance of my life free from bodily torture, and with a heart grateful for the medicine which affords me so pleasant a prospect." Rev. S. C. Chandler, Lebanon Springs, N. Y. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

Be noble—that is more than wealth;
Do right—that more than place;
Then in the spirit there is health,
And gladness in the face.
—Grace Macdonald.

TWO WAYS. CHOOSE WHICH!

There are two usual ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not gripe the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Bitters, he can rely upon the restoration of a regular habit of body, consequently upon a renewal of a healthful tone in the intestinal canal. Besides healthfully relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action of the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

Civilization is to have solved the problem how we may best avail ourselves of our opportunity, and enjoy the beautiful world in which we live.—Lubbock.

THE FLYING DOVE OF PEACE.

A richly frosted quivering, flying Dove. A Dream of Life screen calendar. An imported ideal head. An imported frosted show scene and a full set of magnificent floral cards. Fourteen artistic pieces. Sent to anyone who will buy from a druggist a box of the genuine DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS (price, 25 cts.) and mail us the outside wrapper from the box with 4 cents in stamps. Write your address plainly. FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURG, PA.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY.

Price, 25 cents a Bottle.

PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

In wonder, says Aristotle, does philosophy begin; and in astonishment, says Plato, does all true philosophy finish.

Are you sad, despondent, gloomy?
Are you sore distressed?
Listen to the welcome binding—
"Be at rest."
Have you aches and pains unnumbered,
Poisoning life's Golden Cup?
Think not there's no balm in Gilead, and "Give it up."
A Golden Remedy awaits you—
Golden not alone in name—
Reach, oh, suffering one, and grasp it,
Health reclaim.

There is but one "Golden" Remedy—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It stands alone as the great "blood-purifier," "strength-renewer" and "health-restorer," of the age. The Liver, it regulates, removing all impurities. The lungs it strengthens, cleansing and nourishing them. The whole system it builds up, supplying that above all other things most needed—pure, rich Blood.

A lie always needs a truth for a handle to it. The worst lies are those whose handle is true and whose blade is false.

The continuation of a cough for any length of time causes irritation of the Lungs, or some chronic Throat Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are an effectual Cough Remedy. Price 25 cts. Sold only in boxes.

The maxim, "Know thyself," does not suffice; Knows others—knows them well—that's my advice."
—Menander.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

That dyspepsia comes from torpid liver and costiveness.

That you cannot digest your food well unless your bowels and liver act properly.

That your bowels require thorough cleansing when they do not do their duty by your digestion.

That your torpid liver needs stimulating in order that it may act as nature intended it should.

That BRANDRETH'S PILLS taken in doses of one or two at night for, say, ten days, will regulate the bowels, stimulate the liver, improve the digestion and drive away dyspepsia.

Why is the person who cleans clothes considered inferior to the person who soils them?

In answer to causal question,
How easy and truthful to tell it's
A cure for the worst indigestion,
To take Pierce's Purgative Pellets.

A Setler.—He—That song always carries me away. She (politely)—I thought it would.

CONSUMPTION, WASTING DISEASES

And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites: the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and nutritive system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

"I never smelt a smell that smelt so sweet," says a far westerner, said of Hoyt's German Cologne. All acknowledge its sweetness. Be sure and obtain the genuine.

A BEAUTIFUL souvenir album, containing complete collection of Rulers, Flags and Coats-of-Arms of every nation in the world, sent free to any address on receipt of seventy five folding cards, unsoiled and same as taken from Cameo Cigarette packages. W. Duke, Sons & Co., First avenue and twenty-ninth street, New York.

A man with six marriageable daughters says that his house is a regular court house every Sunday night.

"I DON'T WANT RELIEF, BUT CURE,"

Is the exclamation of thousands suffering from catarrh. To all such we say: Catarrh can be cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It has been done in thousands of cases; why not in yours? Your danger is in delay. Enclose a stamp to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for pamphlet on this disease.

The Democratic party seems to be marching "left in front," with a red signal ahead.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 316

EXTERNAL USE of St. Jacobs Oil FOR PAINS AND SORENESS RESULTING FROM CRAMPS, COLIC, CRAMP COLIC, STOMACHACHE DIARRHŒA

Rub the stomach well with St. Jacobs Oil. Apply flannel steeped in hot water and wrung out.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS. THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

SARSAPARILLA YELLOW DOCK. —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors 417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

I am surprised after using Ely's Cream Balm two months to find the right nostril, which was closed for 20 years is open and free as the other. I feel very thankful.—R. H. Cressingham, 275 18th St., Brooklyn.

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

CHEAP LAND! —THE— Monte Vista Colony.

RICH RIVER BOTTOM LAND.

Abundant Rainfall. Unrivalled Scenery.

Semi-Tropical Climate. 20 Acre Tracts, $30 to $75 per Acre.

THE MONTE VISTA COLONY IS BUT two miles east and north of Anderson, the second town, (in size), of Shasta county. The land is all level and susceptible of cultivation. For raising Oranges, Lemons, Figs, and all Citrus and the Hardier Fruits the Monte Vista Colony cannot be excelled. The soil is a deep rich sediment loam. Prices are from $30 to $75 per acre. Terms one-third cash, one-third in one year, one-third in two years, with interest at eight per cent. For farther particulars apply to

C. H. STREET & CO., Successors to IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA. 415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O

GENERAL AGENTS WANTED! $100 to $500 a month easily made selling the Farmers' Friend, a bag holder and scales combined. Don't miss this. Send for circulars. E. E. BAIR, Manager Puget Sound Mfg. Co., Tacoma, Wash. Ter.

Fairbanks'

STANDARD SCALES, Grain Trucks, Bag Holders, Pinch Bars, Coffee Mills, Grocers Supplies and Fittings, Asbestos Packed Cocks, Standard Thermometers, Golden Gate Windmills,

Send for Illustrated List to

FAIRBANKS & HUTCHINSON, 519 Market Street, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Ask Your Wife

To call in, price goods and see the great variety kept on sale at Smith's. Ask if she would not prefer to visit a place where she can order everything needed, without the trouble of going from place to place all over town. A full line of Groceries, Provisions, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Dried and Canned Fruits, Domestic Dry Goods, Notions, Wall Paper and Miscellaneous Goods; in fact, nearly everything used in a family is to be seen and bought at the lowest price, and all of the very best quality. Ask where else she can buy Peeled Peaches for 12½c worth 25c; Alden Apples from 8c to 10c; Figs, Raisins, Pears, Apricots, Plums, Prunes and Peaches at 5c; Sugar Corn or Sugar Peas at $1.35 per dozen, of the finest packs ever put up; Butter from 40c a roll up; Cheese at 12½c; Honey, in 60 lb tins, at 5c, 6c and 7c (new coming to hand now); Tea from 20c up; and Rice, Spices, Coffee and all kinds of Breakfast Mush at wholesale rates; beautiful Evaporated Nectarines at 12½c; Dried Raspberries, Cherries and Blackberries. No trouble to quote prices or show goods. New list will be ready this week (free); ask for copy. Address Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is probably Dr. Issac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. John L. Thompson, Sons & Co., TROY N. Y.

BETTER THAN IRRIGATION!

Kast's NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF FASHIONABLE SHOES.

The Finest and most Complete Shoe Catalogue ever published in the United States. It will enable you to buy your footwear as intelligently and profitably as though you visited our store and personally made your purchase.

Sent Free to any address. Send for it now to Kast's 738 and 740 Market St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY. THE WORLD FAMED LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG REMEDY. WHAT AILS YOU?

[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

ARE YOU SICK?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in, and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

BILIOUS ATTACK. DAVID G. LOWE, Esq., of St. Agathe, Manitoba, Canada, says: "Being troubled with a terrible bilious attack, fluttering of the heart, poor rest at night, etc., I commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and derived the very highest benefit therefrom."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "For five years previous to taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' I was a great sufferer; had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am now well and strong."

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures all humors, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Virulent blood-poisons are, by its use, robbed of their terrors. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

A medicine possessing the power to cure such inveterate blood and skin diseases as the following testimonial portrays, must certainly be credited with possessing properties capable of curing any and all skin and blood diseases, for none are more obstinate or difficult of cure than Salt-rheum.

SALT-RHEUM AND RHEUMATISM. "COLUMBUS, OHIO, Aug. 18th, 1887. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.: Gentlemen—For several years I have felt it to be my duty to give to you the facts in relation to the complete cure of a most aggravated case of salt-rheum, by the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' An elderly lady relative of mine had been a great sufferer from salt-rheum for upwards of forty years. The disease was most distressing in her hands, causing the skin to crack open on the inside of the fingers at the joints and between the fingers. She was obliged to protect the raw places by means of adhesive plasters, salves, ointments and bandages, and during the winter months had to have her hands dressed daily. The pain was quite severe at times and her general health was badly affected, paving the way for other diseases to creep in. Catarrh and rheumatism caused a great deal of suffering in addition to the salt-rheum. She had used faithfully, and with the most commendable perseverance, all the remedies prescribed by her physicians, but without obtaining relief. She afterwards began treating herself by drinking teas made from blood-purifying roots and herbs. She continued this for several years but derived no benefit. Finally, about ten years ago, I chanced to read one of Dr. Pierce's small pamphlets setting forth the merits of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and other medicines. The name struck my fancy, and seeing that it was essentially a blood-purifier, I immediately recommended it to the old lady who had been so long a sufferer from salt-rheum. She commenced taking it at once, and took one bottle, but seemed to be no better. However, I realized that it would take time for any medicine to effect a change for the better, and encouraged her to continue. She then purchased a half-a-dozen bottles, and before these had all been used she began to notice an improvement. After taking about a dozen bottles she was entirely cured. Her hands were perfectly well and as smooth and healthy as a child's. Her general health was also greatly improved; the rheumatism entirely left her, and the catarrh was almost cured, so that it ceased to be much annoyance. She has enjoyed excellent health from that day to this, and has had no return of either salt-rheum or rheumatism. The 'Discovery' seems to have entirely eradicated the salt-rheum from her system. She is now over eighty years old, and very healthy for one of such extreme age.

I have written this letter, of which you can make any use you see fit, hoping that some sufferer from salt-rheum might chance to read it and obtain relief by using your 'Golden Medical Discovery'—for 'Golden' it is in its curative properties, and as much above the multitude of nostrums and so-called 'patent medicines,' so zealously flaunted before the public, as gold is above the baser metals.

Respectfully yours, F. W. WHEELER, 182 21st St."

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

CON

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... AUGUST 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 10. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 18, 1888. WHOLE NO. 929.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

IRISH ANTIQUITIES.

The Half-Mythical Traditions of the Tuatha-de-Danaan.

Among the most interesting monuments of pre-historic pagan times in Ireland are those found on and near the banks of the river Boyne, in the county of Meath, a few miles west of Drogheda. Here was a cemetery of some of the princes and chieftains of Erin at a period to which no certain date can be ascribed, but to which may be referred the half-mythical traditions of the Tuatha-de-Danaan, the fair-haired race of strangers, valiant horsemen, singers and harpers and magicians, who are supposed to have conquered some part of the island, and to have established their King's throne on the hill of Tara. Of their protracted war against the Fomorians and the Firbolgs, whoever those invaders were; of the Fomorian King Balor, who had one eye in the middle of his forehead and another in the back of his head, which could kill men by a glance; and of Nuada Airgeat Lamb, the King with a silver hand, made to replace his hand lost in the battle of Moytura, the lovers of romantic fables may read at their pleasure. It is probable that Meath was, in a very remote age, the abode of a warlike people, who gained a considerable ascendency over the tribes of the adjacent parts of Ireland, and whose King may sometimes have been the head of a federal league to resist the incursions of the Danes and Norsemen.

The sepulchral mounds, cairns or burrows in the neighborhood of Dowth and Newgrange, associated with the names of King Dubbath and Achad Aldai (the name of "Dowth" being a corruption of "Dubbath" in the opinion of Celtic scholars) were examined by members of the Royal Irish Academy forty years ago. The Dowth mound is an immense pile of small boulder stones, in the interior of which are chambers and passages constructed of very large blocks of stone rudely laid together in the "dolmen" fashion of Brittany and other Celtic examples; the first chamber, formed in the shape of a cross (though certainly not of Christian design), contained a broken stone coffin, with a few bronze or iron ornaments, and half-burnt human bones. A passage twenty-seven feet long conducts to a series of small crypts, and to a square chamber, the stones of which are sculptured with a variety of decorative, perhaps symbolical, patterns and devices. The more important of these have engaged the study of antiquarians with a view to ascertain their possible significance. They appear in the greatest richness and complexity on the huge stones of the interior of the great sepulchral monument at Newgrange; the carvings are of wonderful diversity—circles, spirals, zig-zag, indentations, lozenges, and lines and dots, which some think to be a form of writing.—London News.

PRACTICAL LESSONS.

How People Might be Taught the Rights and Duties of Citizenship.

Four Indian students belonging to the Hampton Institute were taken to Hampton recently by one of their teachers to get an idea of public business and the duties of citizenship.

First, they stopped at the bank, where the routine of the banking business was explained to them, and they were shown the great safe, and all the curiosities of the place. Next, they visited the office of the tax-collector, and learned all about the processes by which the public treasury is every year replenished and emptied.

Then they called upon the mayor, who told them what his duties were, and explained the other departments of the city government. They went to the office of the county clerk, where they examined the records of the ancient town, which go back to the beginning of the last century. They were greatly interested in some of the quaint entries. Here, too, they learned how land is bought and sold, how deeds are drawn, executed, recorded and canceled.

Finally, they took their seats in the court-room, and heard part of the trial of a case. Here an Indian would find himself at home, as he is fond of argument and takes naturally to oratory. One of the students, who wrote a brief account of this tour, gave his impressions of the scene:

"We heard lawyers arguing to the judge on points of law. From this we got some good ideas of law, or how a law can be twisted to fit either side. We heard each man make his side clear, but did not stay long enough to hear how the judge decided. From what the lawyers said, they were both right, but we were sure that somewhere beyond our short vision something was wrong."

With this visit to the court-room their afternoon's lesson in civil government ended. They returned to their college with a keen interest in the subject, and strongly desirous of repeating their valuable experience.

There is a hint here for teachers of high schools in which an attempt is made to teach the pupils the rights and duties of citizenship, which surely ought to be part of the scheme of every advanced school. Our Indian lads, however, attempted too much for one day. A series of visits to public offices, with explanations of their uses and methods, would be an excellent supplement to the lessons learned from the book.—Youth's Companion.

—Europe now has twenty-two crematories, ten of them added within the past year, while no less than 600 bodies have been burned in Germany and 800 in Italy. The United States has seven crematories, with six building. Thus it seems that prejudice against cremation is fast abating.

WHEN TO SELL STOCK.

The Losses Farmers Sustain by Keeping Cattle Too Long.

That many farmers are heavy losers by keeping animals intended solely for producing meat too long is certain. All the reports of our fat stock fairs show that the gain in weight of cattle is the greatest while they are young, and the smallest after they have reached maturity. They also show that young animals will thrive and become fat on cheaper food than old ones will. Young cattle will take on flesh and fat if they have no other food than grass in the summer and hay in the winter. Old cattle, however, must have grain or they will not improve in condition. Their appetite is not so keen and their digestion is not as good as when they were young. The like is true in respect to pigs. When young they will eat almost any thing, and will convert much of it into flesh and fat. As they advance in age they take less exercise, have a less keen appetite, and are more particular about their food. Their digestion is not as good, and as a consequence the food they consume does not produce so great a gain in weight.

Sheep raised chiefly for their flesh should be prepared for market and disposed of early. If they are raised partly for their flesh and partly for their wool there is ordinarily no gain in keeping them over more than three winters. It is difficult to feed an old sheep so that it will afford good mutton. It may be policy to keep good breeding ewes as long as they will raise lambs, but the profit in keeping them will be in the lambs, as the mothers will be likely to decrease in value after they are four years old. The risk of keeping animals intended to furnish meat beyond the time when they can be fitted for the market should be always taken into consideration. The risks incident to disease are very large in the care of pigs, now that the swine plague and hog cholera have become so common and are so generally fatal. A delay of a few days in fattening and selling a lot of pigs may result in the loss of all of them. The risk in keeping a lot of steers or sheep is not as great, but it is considerable.

Farmers are generally anxious to keep an animal till such time as it will bring the highest price that can be obtained for it. They like to obtained a large sum of money for an animal raised on a place, and have the credit of obtaining it. There is some pleasure in having a steer that weighs a ton and in receiving the amount of money it will bring in the market. It should be remembered, however, that the last five hundred pounds added to its weight are generally obtained at a loss. The grain consumed in producing it was worth more than the feed, and could have been sold for more money. It should also be remembered that there is greater risk in keeping a very heavy animal than one of light or medium weight. It is more liable to injuries on the place where it is kept or in the car in which it is transported. A very heavy animal is defenseless, and, if it receives a slight injury, is not likely to recover from it. It can not be driven any considerable distance without suffering from fatigue or a loss in weight. It can not endure extremes of heat and cold as well as a smaller animal.

A few years ago there was quite an inducement held out to farmers to feed steers till they weighed 2,000 pounds each and to keep a lot of hogs till they averaged 400 pounds. The highest prices in all our markets were paid for "extra heavy-weights." Such is not now the case. A well-fattened steer weighing from 1,300 to 1,500 pounds will bring as much per pound as one weighing a ton. A few very heavy steers are wanted by city butchers for the Christmas trade. Their meat is desired for making a display and attractive to customers. For ordinary trade, however, medium-sized animals are preferred. They cut up to better advantage, and the size of the roasts and steaks are nearer what most customers desire. What is true of steers is also true of hogs. At one time there was a demand for specimens of animated lard weighing from 400 to 600 pounds. Now that strictly pure kettle-rendered hog's lard is made from beef tallow and cotton-seed oil, there is no occasion for making pigs very fat, and, as medium-sized hams and shoulders are more desirable than very large ones, there is no reason for feeding hogs till they are overgrown.

Quite likely baby beef and pig pork are unprofitable alike to the seller and the buyer, but mature, well-ripened meat can be produced without keeping animals till they exhibit marks of age. Some kinds of stock can be sold when very young at higher prices than they will ever bring afterward. Such is the case with lambs that are dropped early in the season. A lamb which is of good size when the first green peas appear in the market can often be sold for more money than a sheep that is three or four years old. Spring chickens sell for more than fowls that have lived long enough to eat bushels of corn. In relation to draft animals it may be said that it never pays their raisers to keep them till they have began to decline in value on account of old age or infirmities. Keeping horses until they have outlived their usefulness may give evidence of sentiment and of kindly feeling, but it is a losing business so far as the pocket is concerned. Old stock on a farm rarely ever pays, and it is about as unsalable as the old stock in a store.—Chicago Times.

—The best reason yet advanced for having Monday for washing-day, the next after Sunday, is because cleanliness is next to godliness.

SPANISH GYPSIES.

Visit to a Camp of the Gitanos in the Vicinity of Havana.

If ever in any land Gypsies may be said to have duties, I am sure they were wholly set aside during my three days' sojourn in the Gitanos' camp near Bayano. It was along in the afternoon when I arrived with Ignacio, one of their own men, and not much time elapsed before the evening meal was ready. A solid plank of roughly-hewn mahogany, twelve feet long, two in width and fully three inches thick, formed our table. Upon this was spread a crimson cloth of rich texture, interwoven with gold and silver threads, bearing a suspicious resemblance to a pilfered Cardinal's robe. At one end stood a gorgeous spray of peacock's feathers, and set awkwardly upon the other was one of those hideous Spanish pellejos, or entire wild bear skins, filled with wine drawn at a spigot in its savage mouth. This fierce and suggestive arrangement remained during my entire visit. Besides these queer ornamentations some odd vessels and relics were brought into requisition in my honor. One or two silver tankards of great weight and age made their appearance. A silver bowl that would hold a gallon sat in the table's center. For plates, polished brass and pewter dishes of every imaginable design did service. Dirks and little machetes were placed about for knives. There were no forks, and the spoons were of pewter and of horn, shining like amber with their generations of absorbed grease.

The meal was a dismally sober one, despite my best efforts. The first flush of cheery recognition having passed, I knew the tawny crew were mentally wondering about the real motive of my quest. The food itself was good enough for any hungry body, though one might rationally hope to never get worse. It consisted of ajiaco, or Cuban all-sorts, rice, green and ripe roasted plaintains, or bananas, boiled sweet potatoes and tassajo de puerca, or barbecued pork, roasted and smoked with guava leaves over live embers; and Ignacio's entire family of fourteen, including twelve daughters, ranging from a nina mite at its stout old mother's breast past hoydenish vixens in their early teens, to maidens whose forms and faces would have set an artist wild with delight, kept me good funeral company until the old boar's skin began to look gaunt from repeated attentions. Their spirits rose as the boar's back fell; and by the time the stars had come and the supper was gone we were all on a friendly footing. But I knew gypsies too well to force terms of geniality. I pleaded weariness and went to my tent. Here and there the lights began to peep out in the cañon. Now and then I caught sounds of chatting and laughter. The honest human tone of reassurance had come. And so I fell asleep on that, my first night in a genuine Spanish Gypsy camp, as sure of a pleasant morrow as though a born room rajah, or road lord, among these pilgriming sons and daughters of the Orient.

I was on my feet and about with the first of the Gitanos the next morning, and there was a pleasant word and smile for me every where. Breakfast consisted of black coffee and blacker pan negro, or black bread, and oranges, which I supplemented by stealthy resource to my own pouch of sausage and cheese. This was followed by a dash on a nimble-footed jacas over the low-lying mountains, among the sitios, over toward Jaruco way; for a donkey had strayed away and must be recovered. We passed the whole day in the saddle, undoubtedly riding eighty miles without dismounting. On our return my good fortune received happy addition by my own accidental discovery of the missing animal, which had wandered into a deserted guajiro's hut, and, though half starved, had resolutely determined on digesting the entire palm-thatched structure before retreating from his position.

The day in the mountains was a grand one. Though not four leagues from Havana, evidence of country life was as marked and characteristic as though in the very center of the island. In every direction low hills seemed to radiate from points of vision to the horizon as wavelets from the falling of a pebble in still water; and yet the face of the country has that peculiar appearance of spreading before the beholder immeasurable reaches of prairie and savanna. Checkering all this interesting topography are seen hedges marking the confines of the closely-divided holdings of the tenantry, and among these hedges are here and there found the sentinel-like palm and the quite as lonely cocoa. Always in the oddest and most uncouth location will appear the cabins of the peasantry. As a rule they are mere huts, and an indescribable feeling of sadness comes when the bounteousness of the soil, the gladness of the birds, the splendor of the Heavens, and the glory of the sky, are contrasted with the abject insufficiency of the Caban guajiro's, or countryman's, surroundings.—Edgar L. Wakeman, in N. Y. Mail and Express.

—Housekeeper's who have been accustomed to judge of the age of a turkey by the flexibility of the rear end of the brest bone, will be grieved to learn that unprincipled poultry dealers pound the breast-bones of aged turkeys until the tip attains the flexibility consistant with youth, and thus render them marketable.

TWO FAMOUS PIRATES.

The Lawless Deeds and Boldness of Pierre and Jean Lafitte.

In the early years of this century, when there were slave insurrections in the West Indies, and wars for independence in Mexico, Central America and South America, many people were driven from their homes in these regions, and came to New Orleans as a place of refuge. Among them were two brothers, Pierre and Jean Lafitte. They were Frenchmen born in Bayonne, but they had lived for several years in the West Indies. Both were tall, handsome men; but Jean had the stronger character. For a time they carried on the trade of blacksmithing. Their shop stood on St. Philip street, between Bourbon and Dauphin. It was pulled down only a few years ago. Bold and enterprising in disposition, and of commanding presence, the two brothers were fitted by nature to be leaders of men. Jean, especially, was of an appearance so striking that strangers, meeting him on the streets, turned for a second look at him.

At first they were only the agents in New Orleans for smugglers who brought merchandise and slaves into the bays and bayous long the Louisiana coast; but was not long before they became the chiefs of the most powerful organization of lawless men that ever existed in this country. In 1810 they made their headquarters on the islands at the entrance of the Bay of Barataria, where they built a fort and a village. They obtained from the republic of Carthagena, in South America, then at war with Spain for its independence, letters of marque which authorized them to capture Spanish vessels wherever found. They fitted out and armed fast-sailing schooners, which were the terror of the gulf. According to common belief at the time, these vessels were pirates, which did not hesitate to pick up any merchant-ship they could overhaul, no matter what flag it might carry; but the Lafittes denied these reports, and insisted that they were honorable privateersmen, only attacking the ships of Spain, as, under the laws of nations, their letters of marque gave them the right to do. That they were smugglers, violating the laws of the United States, they did not deny.

In vain did Governor Claiborne issue proclamations, commanding the people of Louisiana to arrest the Lafittes and their men. Jean and Pierre came often to New Orleans, and read the proclamations posted on the walls of the old Government building, on the Place aux Armes. Once there was an effort made to arrest Jean, as he was passing through a bayou with a boat-load of smuggled goods. A party of custom-house officers attacked him from the shore. There was a fight, and Jean and his crew beat off their assailants. Afterward, Jean sent a polite letter to the Captain of the custom-house force, in which he said: "I am a man of peace, and do not want to fight; but I would have you to know that I am at all times ready to lose my life rather than my goods."—Eugene V. Smalley, in St. Nicholas.

PRINTING IN CHINA.

Primitive Arrangements by Which Impressions Are Transferred to Paper.

A correspondent of the North China Daily News of Shanghai describes a printing establishment which he found in a village in the interior, about one hundred and fifty miles from Shanghai. The printing was being temporarily carried on in the village temple, and movable type only was used. In the large central hall of the temple were placed about twenty ordinary square tables, on which the cases of type were spread out. At the time of the visit, one man was engaged in setting up type, another was printing. The former stood before a table, on which was what may be called the Chinese "case." It was a solid block of hardwood, about twenty-three inches long by fifteen inches broad and perhaps three inches deep. The inside was hollowed out to a depth of about a quarter of an inch, this depression being still further hallowed out into grooves about three-quarters of an inch deep. The block had twenty-nine of these grooves, each filled to the depth of a quarter of an inch with ordinary stiff clay. With his copy before him, armed with a small pair of iron pincers, the compositor began his work; character after character was transferred from the case and firmly pressed into the clay. When the "forme" was complete a flat board was placed on the top and the characters pressed perfectly even and level with the surface of the wooden block, the edge of which was cut to form the border generally found round every Chinese page. The printer now received the forme and carefully brushed his ink over the type. Taking a sheet of paper, he pressed it down all over the forme so that it might be brought in contact with every character. He then removed the sheet and examined each character, carefully adjusting those which were not quite straight with pincers, and apparently never touching the type with his fingers. After sufficient copies had been struck off, the type was distributed, each character being returned to its particular box. The writer was told that the art of printing in this way had been handed down in the same family since the Sung dynasty, more than six hundred years ago. No strangers were ever taught, apprentices being always from the same clan.—Pall Mall Gazette.

—Divorces were granted to a mother and her daughter on the same day in the Circuit Court at Gladwin, Mich.

AN HISTORIC DOG

The Faithful Animal That Accompanied Empress Marie Louise.

Marie Louise's dog was a slim Italian gray-hound, and as far as she was concerned, it proved to be a very winsome bit of dog flesh. It twined itself into her affections by its graceful ways. She had her other pets, her singing-birds and her parrot in her boudoir in Vienna, a room where, we read, there was "scarcely a thing, down to the carpet on the floor, which was not the work of some loved hand." Madame Junot says when the Archduchess became Empress she had to leave her fawn-colored favorite at Vienna. In the memoir of the Empress Marie Louise by St. Arnaud he says it was at Munich "she was compeled to separate from a little dog she loved dearly, which the Countess (Lazansky) had to take back to Vienna with her." The reason of this was that Napoleon did not like dogs. Mad. Junot says "the Emperor used to be annoyed by Josephine's favorite pet dogs, with Fortune at their head." The Empress cried bitterly when she found the plaintive-faced little hound had to return with her grand mistress. Every one was anxious to swell the train of this new Empress. She longed to keep her cooing little friend beside her, because she knew it alone cared to be with her, not because she was wife of the man who had so much of Europe in his grasp, but simply because it worshiped her from the depth of its true little heart. "It was a cruel separation," writes Mad. Junot, "and the Empress and her favorite parted with a duo of complaint." "The acquisition of a colossal Empire did not console the sovereign for the loss a little dog," says another historian. It is satisfactory to know that the timid, shrinking hound was not long parted from the Empress. Berthier told Napoleon of Marie Louise's tears over leaving her dog, her feathered friends, her room made dear by cherished association, and Napoleon prepared a delectable surprise for his wife, a strategy to win her love. Leading her from the balcony of the Tuileries, where he had presented her to the people who had thronged below, he led her, in wonderment as to her destination, up a dimly-lighted corridor. A woebegone gray-hound had been sitting in a room there forlorn and puzzled till it heard a step it knew, and, whining with impatience, sprang out when Napoleon opened the door. The phlegmatic Empress greeted her recovered pet with effusion. She knew its adoration was genuine. The fickle multitude that cheered her might turn on her as they had turned on her grandaunt, the Queen of France; but this four-legged courtier was genuine and stanch. In the room where her trusty favorite awaited her, Marie Louise found her beds, her music, "in fact, every article was there, and placed in the room in the same manner as she left them on quitting her paternal roof." Napoleon was well pleased with the delight his kindly thoughtfulness gave the Empress, and may be honored the overjoyed hound with some notice. Four years after this the dog left the Tuileries with the Empress and her son. It returned to Vienna with her, loving her as truly as a pensioner and a prisoner at her father's court as when she was Empress over a powerful nation. These historic dogs of France were, you see, no time-servers. They took little heed of reverse of fortune or change of dynasty, well content if allowed to attend their owners in prison or palace, to the throne or the scaffold. Lord Bacon says: "Take an example of a dog and mark what a generosity and courage he will put on when he finds himself maintained by a man who to him is instead of a God." A dog has no wish to command. Ich dien is their motto, and more willing, easily-remunerated servants it is impossible to find. Their fidelity is proverbial, their constancy is not to be bought. If there is a life beyond this for them as well as their masters, they will not only love them "to the death" here, but "out beyond into the dream to come."—Art Journal.

Rules for Married Men.

Theodore Parker married in April, 1836, Miss Lydia D. Cabot, only daughter of John Cabot, of Newton, with whom he had plighted troth five years previously. The following resolutions were entered in his journal on his wedding day:

1. Never, except for the best of causes, to oppose my wife's will.
2. To discharge all services, for her sake, freely.
3. Never to scold.
4. Never to look cross at her.
5. Never to weary her with commands.
6. To promise her piety.
7. To bear her burdens.
8. To overlook her foibles.
9. To love, cherish and ever defend her.
10. To remember her always most affectionately in my prayers; thus, God willing, we shall be blessed.—Boston Journal.

—To get good-sized, active mules breed a large, well-made mare with neat limbs to a good-sized Spanish jack. If it should not be wished to have a lazy mule take care that the mare be lively and active. Mules are less subject to disease than horses, and their term of work averages twice as long. For cultivating crops mules are superior to horses, as they walk Indian fashion, one foot directly in front of the other.

ABOUT WALL-PAPERS.

Four Simple and Entirely Reliable Tests for Arsenic.

The question arises: How are the public to distinguish between arsenical and non-arsenical wall-papers? In reply we would state that the "Marsh" test, which is very simple in the hands of a chemist, showing the presence of so small a portion of arsenic as the twenty thousandth part of a grain, is one of the most reliable and delicate tests for arsenic, and should be employed when possible. But the following tests, which are within the reach of any body, have been suggested as sufficiently accurate to determine the presence of arsenic in wall paper if in sufficient quantity to be detrimental to health:

TEST I.—For these tests no apparatus is required beyond an ordinary gas jet, which is turned down to quite a pin point, until the flame is wholly blue. When this has been done, a strip of paper suspected to contain arsenic is cut one-sixteenth of an inch wide and one or two inches long. When the edge of this paper is brought into contact with the outer edge of the gas flame, a gray coloration, due to arsenic, will be seen in the flame.

TEST II.—The fumes given off from the burning paper will be found to have a strong garlic-like odor, due to the vapor of arsenious acid.

TEST III.—Take the paper away from the flame and examine the charred end. The carbon will be colored a bronze red; this is copper reduced by the carbon.

TEST IV.—Being now away from the flame, in a fine state of division, the copper is slightly oxidized by the air, and on placing the charred end a second time not too far into the flame, the flame will now be colored green by the copper.

By this simple means it is possible to form an opinion, without an apparatus, whether any wall-paper contains arsenic, as copper arseniate is commonly used in preparing wall-papers, if arsenic is used at all.

We are also informed that one roll from every order of wall-papers now received in the State of Massachusetts is chemically examined for the presence of arsenic, the tests being principally done by one of the professors at Harvard College. The Marsh test is always used, and every paper showing the least trace of this poison is rejected.

We are glad to hear that such a course is taken, as it must be a decided check on the pernicious practice to which we have called attention, it being hardly possible that wall-paper manufacturers will now use arsenic in their colors when sure detection stares them in the face. Had the examiners in Massachusetts found any arsenic in the wall-papers examined, they would surely have made known the discovery, so in their silence we trust we may infer that the danger is happily a thing of the past.—Harper's Bazar.

WHITE HOUSE LADIES.

Some of the Widows of Presidents and Some of Their Daughters.

What has become of all the fair women who have lived in the White House? There are living four widows of Presidents. Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. James K. Polk, of Nashville, and Mrs. John Tyler, of Richmond.

Mrs. Polk is now a venerable woman of eighty-five, and Mrs. Tyler, though in the sixties, looks much younger. She went to the White House as a bride in 1844, and, for a brief period of eight months, reigned supreme. There are living, besides these ladies, says Laura C. Holloway, in her social history of the Republic, "The Ladies of the White House," Mrs. Robert Tyler, daughter-in-law of President Tyler, and the daughters of President Zachary Taylor, Tyler and Johnson. None of the older Presidents have wives or daughters living, and only Tyler and Fillmore are represented by sons.

Mrs. Bettie Taylor Dandridge, President Taylor's youngest daughter, is residing in Virginia. Her husband is one of the famous Dandridge family, to which belonged Martha Washington, who was Miss Dandridge, of New Kent County, Va. Andrew Johnson's eldest daughter, Mrs Martha Patterson, is living at the old homestead in Greenville, East Tennessee, the last surviving child of the thrice Governor of Tennessee, United States Senator, and President. Mrs. Semple, the daughter of President John Tyler, is an inmate of the Louise Home, the institution which owes its existence to the great benevolence of Mr. Corcoran, who now lies dead not far away from this useful retreat. Mrs. Semple is a brilliant and cultured woman of the old school, who for many years had a private school for young ladies on Mount Vernon street in Baltimore, but who is now so afflicted that she is unable to wholly provide for herself and was invited by Mr. Corcoran to become his guest.

Another "Lady of the White House," of a generation ago, is Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, now visiting it Washington after a long absence in Europe. Mrs. Johnston is a gray-haired lady of stately appearance, and possesses much of the beauty that distinguished her as Miss Lane.

Of the youngest widows of the presidents are Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Garfield. Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. McElroy are two other ex-"Ladies of the White House," both of whom, with Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Garfield, have each a daughter who lived in the White House as young girls during their respective reigns there as hostess.—Washington Letter.

PITH AND POINT.

—We frequently confess our little faults in order to have it thought that we have no great ones.

—We find it hard to get and keep any private property in thought. Other people are all the time saying the same things we are hoarding to say when we get ready.—Dr. Holmes.

—Solomon might have spoken a little emphatically had he said: "Go to the oyster, thou sluggard." An able-bodied female oyster thinks producing 9,000,000 eggs is a fair season's work when she is feeling well.

—If a man received three dollars per day, and saved every cent of it, one thousand years would elapse before he could be master of a million. His hair by that time would be slight-tinged with gray.—United Labor Age.

—It contributes greatly toward a man's moral and intellectual health, to be brought into habits of companionship with individuals unlike himself, who care little for his pursuits and whose sphere and abilities he must go out of himself to appreciate.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

—We do not know what is to happen to-morrow, therefore let us make the best use we can of to-day. Only one day is given us at a time—one moment, indeed—that imperative "now" that quickly passes, and will never come back again.—United Presbyterian.

—It is very difficult to retain a friend after you have got him. You may be sure of losing him if you ask him to befriend you—at his expense or risk. There is love of friends which causes men to go on bonds and indorse notes, which they subsequently have to make good, while they wail and gnash their teeth.—Texas Siftings.

—Congressional demagogue (at a mass-meeting) — "Yes, gentlemen, labor is the corner-stone of our prosperity. Voice (from the audience)—"True fer you. The corner-stone of a buildin' is highly honored, isn't it sor?" "Honored! It is the stone selected for the reception of the most valued records and most precious testimonials of its era of civilization." "Thrue agin, sor. An' it's dorn near the bottom it is, too, sor."—Omaha World.

—If Milton will only cross my threshold to sing to me of Paradise, and Shakespeare to open to me the worlds of imagination and the workings of the human heart, and Franklin to enrich me with his practical wisdom, I shall not pine for want of intellectual companionship, and I may become a cultivated man, though excluded from what is called the best society in the place where I live.—William Ellery Channing.

—Consciences are accommodating things. They seldom trouble a man who has gobbled millions of other people's money; but when they get hold of a fellow who has pocketed twenty-five cents that belongs to somebody else, they make it warm for him until he disgorges or joins the great majority and augments his peculations to a point beyond which no self-respecting conscience cares to go.

—Inequality in taxation, my son, is a system of assessment which hits you quite as hard as neighbor Jones, over the way. Just and impartial taxation, on the contrary, is a system which lets you off without paying a dollar and makes Jones pay enough for both. There, my son, you have a bit of information that you would never learn in an organic newspaper or a political convention.—Boston Transcript.

FINE NEIGHBORHOOD.

A South Carolina Negro's Pleasant Experiences in Tennessee.

A South Carolina negro who had moved into a Tennessee ommunity was asked by a white man if he liked his neighbors.

"Oh, mighty well, sah; mighty well," he replied. "Trabeled ober seberal counties an' hab circleated roun' er good many votin' precints, but ain't foun' no neighborhood yit dat I likes lack I do dis yere one."

"Have the people borrowed any thing from you?"

"Oh, yas, sah; oh, yas. 'Bout de secon' day we got yere Miz Jones she came ober an borried de sifter, an' Mr. Smif he borried my sawbuck an' Mr. Brown he come ober an' said dat he would lack ter hab our coffee-mill."

"Did you let them have what they wanted?"

"Oh, yas, sah. Jes handed em' right out widout a word o' 'plaint."

"Have they ever brought them back?"

"No, sah."

"And still you call them good neighbors?"

"Yes, sah."

"Well, I don't see how you can make that out."

"Easy ernuff, sah. Yer see I hab borried er dollar frum Miz Jones, er chunk o' er hoss frum Mr. Smif an' er sassage-grinder frum Mr. Brown, so, I's er good deal erhead. Oh, I nin't neber gwine ax 'em ter pay me back. Bless yo' life, I's dollars erhead now. Oh, yas, sah, dis is so fur er mighty fine neighborhood."—Arkansaw Traveler.

A Fatal Omission.

Old Man (to daughter)—Clara, I discovered Nero lying dead in the yard this morning.

Daughter—I am very sorry, papa, but I can not help it. You knew very well that young Mr. Harvard was coming to see me last night, and you should have tied the dog out of harm's way.—N. Y. Sun.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18.....1888

JAMES G. BLAINE was given a grand welcome on his arrival in New York. The triumphs awarded to Roman heroes of old were insignificant compared to the glorious reception given to this private citizen of the Republic by his fellow citizens on his return from foreign lands. This outburst of enthusiasm is more, far more, than an expression of admiration for Mr. Blaine. It is an expression of the intense love of Americans for their country and its institutions; and it is because of the splendid ability of Mr. Blaine in defending these institutions, and of his own enthusiastic love of everything American that this glorious welcome was given him. He is not an office holder nor a candidate for any office; therefore men of all shades of political opinion could join in marks of respect to the man who loves his country supremely, and whose claim to distinction rests upon the ability and heartiness with which he at all times has discharged the duties of a citizen. The reception given to Mr. Blaine does as much honor to the givers as to him.

AT the meeting of the Republican County Central Committee there was a good deal of discussion of the proposal to adopt the Crawford plan of nominating candidates for County offices. The proposal was rejected by a vote of 9 to 7. Those who favored the adoption of the plan argued that any change in the management of the party would be an improvement over the past. For years past Inyo county has regularly given a good majority for the head of the Republican ticket, State and National, and just as regularly the county has elected nearly all Democrats to county offices. No other proof is needed to show that there has been bad influence at work in Republican County Conventions. When men who are in no sense representative Republicans are elected delegates; and when one man will carry into a convention a pocketful of proxies from such dummies, the real strength of the Republican party, the men of intelligence who have the good of the county at heart, will indignantly repudiate the unworthy nominations secured by such disreputable means. If good, intelligent men are chosen delegates, the best men in the party will be nominated for office, Then a nomination will be equivalent to an election and there will be no talk of the Crawford plan

MISCELLANEOUS.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

PALACE SALOON,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS

A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a

FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR

Agricultural District

No. 18.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD BREDDERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best Stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than three | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 15 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion, any breed or age Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $ 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| " raisin | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $ 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| On satin and Japanese panels | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf, two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall panel, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk on flannel | 2 00 |
| on linen | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| hearth rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display hand knit work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, outline | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $ 5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $150.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year-olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary. A. R. CONKLIN, President.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES AND CONVENTION.

AT A MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN Central Committee of Inyo county, held at Independence on the 10th day of August, 1888, it was ordered that a Republican County Convention be held in the Town of Independence, on to convene at 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the County and District offices to be filled at the General Election on TUESDAY, November 6th, 1888, also the appointment of a County Central Committee, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said Republican County Convention.

TUESDAY, September 18th, 1888,

The Apportionment of Delegates to said Convention is based upon the number of votes cast for the Republican nominee for Governor at the General Election in 1886—allowing 1 Delegate for each precinct, 1 for each 20 votes, and 1 for a fraction of 12 or more. The several precincts of the county are therefore entitled to representation as follows, to-wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 2 | George's Creek | 2 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Bishop Station | 1 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 4 | Keeler | 1 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 3 | Darwin | 1 |
| Fish Springs | 2 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 4 | Panamint | 1 |

comprising a Nominating Convention of 33 members.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates in accordance with the above apportionment will be held in the several precincts of Inyo county on

SATURDAY, September 8th 1888,

Polls being open between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., of said day, at the places herein named, and under the direction of the following Primary Election Officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Blaisdell's Store, Inspector, F P Blaisdell; Judges, Thos E Jones, R Hilton.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, A Matlack; Judges, N C Young, W McLaren.

BISHOP STATION—School House. Inspector, J Peregrine; Judges, Jas G McNally, A Plumley.

COTTONWOOD—Inspector, W A Greenley; Judges, N Gilbert.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, J H Stoutenborough; Judges, M C Hall, A Friedline.

POLETA—A O Collins' House. Inspector, A O Collins; Judges, Thos Hughes, Geo Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, L M Newman; Judges, E M Crocker, A McDonald.

FISH SPRINGS—School House. Inspector, A J Wren; Judges, A McKellip, N E Conklin.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, Thos Parker; Judges, W F Matlack, J D Blair.

GEORGE'S CREEK—School House. Inspector, John Kispert; Judges, T B Scovil, John Meyer.

KEYNOT—Laskey Mill. Inspector, John Anton; Judges, Ge St. Clair.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Geo H Palmer; Judges, J J Stewart, M Castro.

CERRO GORDO—Store. Inspector, Wm Crapo; Judges, John Thomas, Fred Wallis.

KEELER—Boland Building. Inspector, John Yandell, Judges, E E Hall, W H Walker.

OLANCHA—A Walker's House. Inspector, A Walker; Judges, H Belows, A Brown.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, Chas Anthony; Judges, Jas McDonald, A J Gould.

LOOKOUT—Company Store. Inspector, J D Chancellor; Judges, H P Livingston.

PANAMINT—Company Store. Inspector, E F Rowell; Judges, Wm Horne, — Bennett.

PRIMARY TEST—Are You a Republican, and will you support the Republican Nominees?

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Delegates or proxies be permitted a voice in the Convention unless actual residents and voters in the precincts represented; and we hereby earnestly recommend that the Convention adopt such a rule of qualification for its members.

It is urgently requested that all Republican voters in Inyo county, laying aside all past differences and uniting for the common good of the party, who in good faith intend to support the Republican nominees, shall assemble in their respective Precincts at the time named for primary meetings, and select delegates who will attend the Convention and truly represent their wishes, to the end that nominations may be fairly made and a ticket presented which shall command the united and enthusiastic support of all Republicans in the County.

By order of the Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H HARDY, Secretary. aug18-1m

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday | January 28th |
| " | February 25th |
| " | March 24th |
| " | April 21st |
| " | May 19th |
| " | June 23rd |
| " | July 21st |
| " | August 18th |
| " | September 15th |
| " | October 13th |
| " | November 17th |
| " | December 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Indepen - - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,
—Dealer in—
Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.
—Agent for—
PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.
Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.
oct 23-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet, Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1. | | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a. m. | | 5 35 p. m. |
| Dayton | | 10 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 a. m. | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p. m. | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | | 5.50 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs | | 7 0 p. m. | | 8 10 a. m. |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p. m. | | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8.50 p. m. | Lv. | 6 30 a. m. |
| | | No. 3 Leave— | | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a. m. | | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | | 11 00 a. m. | | 1:45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p. m. | | 11:30 a. m. |
| Alvord | | 2.00 p. m. | | 10 55 a. m. |
| Independence | | 2 30 p. m. | | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m. | | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. | 5.05 p. m. | Lv. | 7.20 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County, of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.
Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.
Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoet in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,

(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)

Mercha t,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every thing a article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore

NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

—ON—

SAN FRANCISCO

—

DRAW DIRECT

—ON—

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

—

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geferligt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

—

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL

Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL

And LONDON and GLOBE

Insurance Company

Capital - - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18. .....1888

MARRIED.

BUTLER—SHEPHERD—At the residence of Mr. John Shepherd, at George's Creek, near Independence, by C. Mulholland, J. P., August 15th, 1888 Mr. Thomas Francis Butler, of Tehama, to Miss Luella Shepherd, daughter of John Shepherd.

Paymaster Mills of the C & C road went down to Keeler last Monday.

Sherman Stevens arrived at Lone Pine last Monday from San Francisco.

The Democratic County Central Committee will meet at Independence next Tuesday.

Mrs. O'Hara and Mr. C. Wildasin, of Bishop Creek, were at the Land Office on Wednesday.

Webb Walker was up from Keeler attending the meeting of the Republican Central Committee.

Miss Mollie Stevens has secured space in the Pavilion for an exhibit of drawings by herself and pupils.

Mr. W. A. Hampton left town last Tuesday morning for San Francisco. He expects to return about two weeks hence.

Mr. W. H. Russell came down from Benton last Monday; he stayed in town but one night and went north again next morning

It is worth a trip up Black Rock canyon to get such a welcome as Jake Shoemaker gives a visitor to his quarters at the sawmill.

Mr. Frank Russell and Mrs. Russell, of Yolo county, arrived at Independence last Monday. They expect to stay about a month.

There are grouse in Black Rock canyon, and so few hunters or strangers ever go there that the birds show as little fear as barnyard fowls.

Blaine is reported as saying that he will not come to the Pacific Coast during the campaign. He thinks the Pacific States will stand solidly for protection.

Mr. Thomas Holt, Superintendent of the Mono county railroad, was at Independence last Wednesday. He was accompanied by John Langrell and Robert Murray, of Bodie. The party had business at the Land Office.

J H. Stout'enborough, of Bishop Creek, is a candidate for nomination for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. Everybody will readily admit that Mr. Stout'enborough is a man well qualified for the office of Sheriff. See his card.

Mr. Sherman Stevens was in town this week, making final proof on a tract of land to be irrigated from the Stevens canal. He left Lone Pine last Thursday morning to return to San Francisco. His sister, Mrs. Heenan, accompanied him.

A gentleman who was up in the Sierra Mountains west from Independence, a few days ago, says he saw a great many protected sheep; but he also saw a great many unprotected forest trees burning by the fires kindled by the sheep-herders.

Gus Stecker is architect of the new mill; he is doing a big job and a good one. Sam Andrews is one of his lieutenants; Sam is getting pious and sings hymns most of the time. Jim Rose says Sam's voice chords well with Pat Downs' mule. All the boys up the canyon are as happy as larks; they will be down to the Fair.

The Republican County Convention will meet at Independence on Tuesday, Sept. 18, 1888. This date was chosen because the Fair at Independense will then be in operation and most of the delegates would be in town then. For appointment of delegates see the advertisement. Delegates will be elected on Saturday, September 8th.

A few days ago John Baxter brought a basket of peaches to this office. Soon after some visitors came in and all expressed astonishment at the size of the peaches. They were told to help themselves; each took a peach in both hands and buried his face in the luscious mass. Their exclamations of wonder were lost in low murmurs um-um-um, of delight. Owens valley peaches are very fine.

El Clark is at Independence, studying veterinary surgery with a traveling practitioner named Trullinger. El intends to study in this state about a year and then go East and enter for the regular course of veterinary surgery at one of the best colleges. Mr. Clark has a natural inclination and much talent for the profession and will make a success as a practitioner.

Many of the valley people are in the mountains rusticating during the hot weather. Most of them are camping along King's river. Among oth rs who joined the campers lately are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Moffat, of George's Creek, Felix Meysan and his sisters from Lone Pine; John Lewis, Phil Cartier and Irve Mulholland from Independence.

Frequently letters are mailed without any postage stamp. Such letters are sent to the dead letter office. Last Tuesday there was a letter at the Independence office addressed to Mrs. Wambold. Lake county, Cal., and another addressed to the New York Herald, neither of which had a stamp. Both of these letters will be opened at Washington and returned to the writers.

Mr. C. M. Joslyn returned to Independence last Wednesday, after an absence of about two years. He went from here to Texas, and then visited many places in the East. He was eight days on the way from Montreal, Canada, to Independence. Old Time has been at work on Mr. Joslyn nearly eighty years, and though the veteran has as much vim and snap as he ever had, yet he begins to show evidence of failing strength; he is staying with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Irwin.

It is rather discouraging to an editor when he thinks he has written political articles that will silence all opposition; convert the wavering and more firmly bind the already solid, to find that men of plain common sense regard him as an ass. A subscriber recently wrote to an editor as follows:

"i hev pade to mutch alrely and you don't give us enny funny eyetums, you air awl the time ritin up pollyticks en wot you kno about a pollytick woodent fill a flee's yeare."

LUMBER, WATER, LAND.

Ten miles north from Independence is a vast crack, or chasm, in the face of the Sierra Mountains. For several miles the mountains here present an almost vertical wall of bare rocks, that end in peaks of great hight, and as sharp and clear cut as the towers of gothic cathedrals. This chasm is the only break into that wall of rock in a long distance. It is very narrow; the rocks on either side shoot nearly straight up to a hight of about three thousand feet, and these awful walls are as bare as if they had been washed and scrubbed with brushes. The bottom of the gorge is always shrouded in deep gloom, and the solemn roar of a torrent that dashes down is never silent. This opening into the dark recesses of the mountain is as awe-inspiring as that entrance where Dante read "All hope abandon, ye who enter here." Far up this mighty fissure in the rocks can be seen the top of pine trees, and still farther away the highest peaks of the mountains, set in frames of snow. North from the entrance to the gorge the mountains are not so steep; a trail winds upward in short zigzags up which it is possible to go on horse back—but a very sure-footed animal is wanted. About two and a half miles of slow climbing and the trail reaches the summit of the ridge on the north side of the canyon, and crosses over and continues on up into the timbered region seen from the valley below. From the summit of the ridge looking down into the chasm below is enough to shake very steady nerves; from top to bottom the wall of rock is not far from vertical, and in places is quite so for hundreds of feet. Beyond the summit the trail is in sand that makes good footing; but as the mountain side is so steep that a touch will set this sand running down like water, a distance of perhaps a thousand feet, where it falls over a precipice, one traveling over it is apt to draw short breaths and look longingly to where the trail reaches the bottom of the canyon. Once fairly down among the forest trees the difficulty of getting there is at once forgotten. The great pines clothe the mountain sides; wild flowers of the loveliest colors, purple and gold, crimson and snow white are very plentiful and the air is full of fragrance. No more fitting place could be found in all the Sierras to get perfect rest from worry and care, and to escape from the heat and dust of August's ardent days.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS.

But this grand canyon has attractions for practical minds as well as for the sentimental. Several years ago machinery was carried over the ticklish trail described above; a small sawmill was built; a flume was made down the bottom of the gorge and a good deal of lumber has been taken out. Some time ago Mr. C. B. Rawson bought the mill and this summer he is making extensive improvements. An entire new mill is being built, lower down the canyon than the old one. This will have a capacity of about ten thousand feet of lumber per day. On the mountain side a flume is laid to a wooden tank; this tank is one hundred feet long, twelve feet wide and about six feet deep. From the tank the vertical head of water is one hundred and fifty-five feet to a three foot Pelton wheel that will run the mill. There is accessible pine timber that will supply the mill for years to come.

MORE WEALTH.

The stream that flows in the canyon has its source in two lakes. These lie at the base of the peaks near the water-shed of the mountains; the first lake is about three and a half miles above the sawmill; the second is about a mile beyond and it overflows into the other. Out in Owens valley and near the mouth of the canyon Mr. A. D. Gilbert owns a nice farm. He owns the water that flows from the canyon and irrigates his land with it. In the same locality is a tract of two or three thousand acres of as good land as any in Owens valley; but without water is of little value. Mr. Gilbert studied about the lakes and investigated. He quickly satisfied himself that the lakes would furnish water for the land and he at once went and located land and water. From the edge of the lower lake at a distance of only two hundred and twelve feet is a precipice of about two hundred feet, down which the water from the lake flows. Mr. Gilbert has begun at the edge of this precipice and is cutting a channel in the rock that will tap the lake at a depth of about seven feet from the surface. Should the lake be lowered to that depth a gate can very easily be put in and the water filled up again to its original depth. In this way enough water can be secured to irrigate a large tract of land. It is believed, however, that the lake is fed by large springs and will not be lowered much by being tapped. No more work than cutting the channel at the lake would be required to send the water from the lake to the land; as the bottom of the canyon is a flume of solid rock. The Sierra Mountains abound in lakes in this neighborhood, and there may be other places as good as this Mr. Gilbert has found. No thorough investigation has yet been made.

Wedding.

Last Wednesday evening at the residence of her parents at George's Creek, Miss Luella Shepherd was married to Mr. Thomas Francis Butler. The ceremony was performed by C. Mulholland, J. P. The wedding was very quiet, very few persons being present other than members of the family. Miss Minnie Butler, sister of Mr. Butler, was bridesmaid, and Mr. J. E. Shepherd, brother of Miss Shepherd, was groomsman. This wedding is the result of an attachment that grew up between the young people when Miss Shepherd was attending school at Oakland, a few years ago. Since Miss Shepherd left school they had not met, and very seldom wrote to each other; yet

"The stream that first burst frae their hearts still travels on its way,
And channels deeper as it rins, the love o'
life's young day."

The first intimation Miss Shepherd had that Mr. Butler was coming to visit her at this time was when he telegraphed from Carson that he was on the way. The wedding was quite unexpected by Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, and there was not time to invite friends and make such a wedding feast for their daughter as they would have taken pleasure in preparing. The rooms on the ground floor of their residence were handsomely decorated with flowers and fancy colored lanterns; the couple were married in the parlor, and soon afterward the company were well entertained in the dining room. On Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Miss Butler went north on the train, intending to go at once to their home in Tehama county. The father of Mr. Butler owns a large tract of land and has his residence ten miles from the town of Red Bluff. Here the young people will live till a residence can be built for them; this will be done as soon as possible.

The Superior Judge of Mono county has summoned Mr. W. A. Harris to Bridgeport to report the proceeding in two mining suits. T. B. Rickey is the plaintiff in both cases.

Gross Errors.

In the Visalia Delta of August 9th is a lengthy article in which certain statements are made concerning Owens Valley. The article appears over the signature of J. W. Bledsoe, and contains very erroneous statements. Here is a sample.

"At present the consumer pays three cents per pound freight from Mound House to any point on the road. It matters not whether the railroad company hauls it ten miles or 330 miles—the price is the same. From San Francisco to the Mound House the freight is one and a half cents per pound, thus making the freight to any station beyond Mound House four and a half cents per pound; and at the same time if a miner has ore to ship he is charged exorbitant freight rates."

On small packages the regular charge from Mound House to points in Owens valley is $1 64 per hundred pounds. Lots of one ton or over have been hauled for one cent per pound. From Keeler, the present terminus of the road, ore is hauled to San Francisco for ten dollars per ton. These gross errors throw discredit upon the whole article. Mr. Bledsoe makes statements about the altitude and climate of Owens valley that are as far from the truth as the above.

A Beautiful Lake.

In the heart of the Sierra, about forty-three miles west from Lone Pine and in the Mount Whitney region is one of the loveliest lakes in the mountains. It is known as Rankle's Lake, and is formed by Kern river. The river there flows through a very deep canyon. The mountains are heavily timbered with immense pine trees. At the lower end of the lake the mountains on either side approach each other so close as to leave only a narrow gorge. At some time not very remote earthquake or some other agency caused enormous masses of rock to fall from the mountains and fill up this gorge to a great depth. This made the lake, which is one and three-quarter miles long and half a mile wide. It is a strange experience to get into a boat at the upper end of the lake and sail over the top of gigantic pine trees that were submerged by the rising water. The water is so clear that for some distance from the upper end of the lake these trees can be seen down nearly to their roots. But soon the water becomes so deep that looking down into its depths is like looking down into the ocean. The lake abounds in large trout that can be caught with bait or fly in any desired quantity. That whole region is full of interest for intelligent tourists, and if it were properly described and better railroad facilities afforded it would have more visitors than Switzerland.

Mining in Virginia.

Business is dull at Virginia City at present. Low water in the Carson river prevents the mills from crushing ore to their full capacity, and the number of men employed at the mines is much reduced. With increase of water in the river business will increase again. The Enterprise says preparations for the prosecution of work in all the mines are as elaborate and thorough as they have been at any time for the last ten years. The tendency of their researches and endeavor is to reduce ore cheaper, and ever cheaper. Every dollar per ton saved in the reduction of ore brings millions upon millions to be made at the business within the profitable range of reduction. Every effort thus put out by them with this object in view should receive the warmest, most sincere and unequivocal support our people can extend. For instance, John Mackay has spent $250,000 in the wire rope system of transmission, and $500,000 has been spent to bring water for power on the Comstock. By the expenditure of probably $100,000 more the system of power introduced will bring ore assaying about $2 loss within the range of profitable reduction. The argument is plain. It simply means that the Comstock is richer by millions of tons of ore that were prior to that time practically worthless. So with the Nevada Mill Company and their introduction of electric power, and so it is with the Alta people, and their endeavors and researches to successfully and profitably reduce their ores.

Supervisors Proceedings.

The Board met at 4 o'clock p. m., Aug. 10th, 1888. A public highway was ordered to be opened from Lone Pine to the C & C railroad, as petitioned for.

The following transfers of funds were made:

From the Salary Fund to General Expense Fund, $800.

From the General Road Fund to District No. 6, $134.

Bills allowed:

| | |
|---|---|
| S P McKnight, diagrams | $100 00 |
| Redington & Co., drugs | 121 50 |
| H H Howell, post mortem | 25 00 |
| C Meysan, road viewing | 6 00 |
| J Seeley, " " | 9 00 |
| S P McKnight, road viewing | 35 00 |
| C D Begole, right of way | 100 00 |
| J D Harger, per diem & mileage | 21 10 |
| J R Eldred, " " " " | 43 80 |
| E Robinson, " " " " | 30 30 |
| T Boland, " " " " | 39 60 |

Board adjourned.

A child of six years old who lives with his parents at Independence had a pet slut and her puppies. The little lad was very fond of his pets and played with them for hours day after day. Last Wednesday evening, while the father of the child was from home, some person poisoned the slut and her puppies. The little fellow cried bitterly over his dead pets. The man who could do such a cowardly act may be left to public judgment.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.

PIONEER BREWERY.

INDEPENDENCE

PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

PAUSE AND PERUSE!

Our house is essentially one of bargains. Low values abound everywhere—in every department. Were it not so we would have not intercepted and held the volume of trade which we have. We buy FIVE times the amount of goods of any store in this city. Our advantage is easily seen. Why not enjoy the benefit of it!

Here are some of the values which we are offering. Those at a distance—even a thousand miles away—by our well regulated system of shopping by mail, obtain the same advantages as if trading in person. Orders for the following described goods should be sent in quickly, as the stock will doubtless soon be exhausted.

OF INTEREST TO YOU!

Fine Rhadame silks, a firm body, honest weave and true dye. They have the natural brilliant lustre produced by pure silk and skilful weaving. We have them in TWENTY-FOUR colors. Price 90 cents per yard; equal to any $1.15 or $1.25 Rhadame in the market.

A good uargain in Surah silks at 50 cents per yard. Excellent for sashes, combination suits and hat trimmings. All of the popular shades in stock.

French novelties in all wool dress goods in plaids and checks at 50 cents per yard. Twenty five lines of them. We have an all wool plaid a yard wide for 25 cents.

Something in an Oxford shoe for Gentlemen that we can recommend. Price $1.45; has always sold at $2.50. It is low cut, has a neat, fancy tip and four buttons. Sizes 5 to 10.

An all wool jersey with a vest front and coat back for $1.40. In the popular shades. At $1.75 we can give an all wool jersey with front and cuffs embroidered.

PARASOLS—An Ecru Silk covered with Coralline Lace natural wood handles, price $2. A heavy Black Satin Parasol trimmed with deep Spanish Loce and lined with rich changeable silk, $5.

Ladies' full finished hose at 19 cents a pair. Infancy stripes on a light ground.

Ladies' India Gauze Vest, high neck, long or short sleeves at 25 cents.

Three unlaundried white shirts for $1.

Fancy featheredge folding fans at 25 cents.

Samples of DRY GOODS mailed free upon application.

Send in your name for a Fall and Winter Catalogue which will be issued shortly.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GRAND

OPENING BALL!

—AT—

Crockers Hotel

BIG PINE,

Tuesday, Aug. 28th,

Everybody Welcome.

GRANDEST BALL EVER GIVEN AT BIG PINE.

OPEN AIR PLATFORM FOR DANCING.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that there will be a meeting of the Democratic Central Committee of Inyo county held in the town of Independence, on

TUESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1888,

At 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of arranging for the holding of a County Nominating Convention, and he transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

By order of Executive Committee.

A. N. BELL, Chairman.

Thos. Crough, Sec.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The regular Semi-Annual Meeting of the Inyo county Board of Education will be held at Independence on Tuesday, August 21st, at 10 o'clock a. m. Examination will commence on the 22d at 9 o'clock a. m. All applications for examination should be presented to the Secretary on the day preceeding the examination.

J. H. SHANNON,
Secretary.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,

10 Spruce Street, New York City,

For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS

Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS, &c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS, 44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered front, inside two specially lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Ladies' Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
408, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A FOX-HUNTING JUDGE.

How He Fooled a Batch of Prisoners and Had His Sport.

Rather a good story used to be told by Justice Porter, a well-known legal bon-vivant of Dublin. It concerns a rare old Irish judge on the Northwest circuit, who loved the hunting-field more than he did the stupid, sleepy court-room. His clerk was like-minded, and a joyous pair they made.

One fine morning the clerk whispered to the judge:

"Yer Honor, old Billy Duan's meets to-day at Ballykillmulligan, an' they've a fine dog fox."

"How many's in the dock?" asked the judge, excitedly.

"Twenty for rioting and breach of the peace, yer Honor."

"Tom," said the judge, "do you think you can get the first fellow to plead guilty without a jury trial, and me to let him off with a week in jail?"

"The easiest thing in the world," answered the faithful clerk.

"Make haste, then, and bring the whole gang; and, I say, Tom, tell Jerry to saddle the mare meanwhile."

The twenty Fenians were brought into court—a defiant gang, nineteen of them prepared to fight to the bitter end. The twentieth had been interviewed by the clerk. He was called.

"Guilty or not guilty of the crime charged?" demanded the Judge, with a propitious smile.

"Guilty, yer Honor," said the crafty prisoner.

"Well," said the judge, glancing benevolently about the room, "I fancy I can let you off with a week."

The man thanked the judge and stepped down to the bailiff. There was a terrible sensation among the other defendants. Why, none of them expected to get off with less than five years in limbo. Here was a chance to profit by "his Honor's" pleasant mood. One and all manifested an earnest desire to follow the example of their comrade and acknowledge the crimes in a batch.

"Do you all plead guilty?" demanded the judge, eagerly.

"We do!" shouted the enthusiastic nineteen, in chorus.

"Fourteen years' transportation apiece," exclaimed the judge, with a click of his jaw—"Jerry, is the mare saddled yet?"—Farmers' Voice.

—"Will you give a penny to a little waif from Liverpool?" whined a ragged boy, as he approached a man on Broadway. "You are a big way from Liverpool, my lad, so here's ten cents," was the reply.—Texas Siftings.

—He—"Do you know, Miss Mabel, I have discovered why my brain is so active?" She—"No, Mr. Minuswit, what is your theory?" He—"It is because I so often start a train of thought." She—"Ah, yes! The 'Limited.'"—Tid-Bits.

—"How do you suppose the slang phrase 'I am laying for you,' originated?" asked the Casual Caller of the Snake Editor. "An old hen made that remark to her owner one day before Easter," was the reply.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND RICHER.

A Charlestown Woman Draws a Prize in The Louisiana State Lottery.

Mrs. Mary E. Clark, wife of Mr. Linus E. Clark, Superintendent of the Money-Order Department of the Boston Post-office, who lives at No. 217 Main street, Charlestown district, is $15,000 richer to-day than she was a few days ago.

The following story of how she obtained the money was told to a Herald reporter by her husband: "As long as you have called on me," he said, "I suppose I must say something, but for good reasons of my own, I had hopes that nothing would be said in the papers about the matter. Notoriety is not what I am looking for. I will say, however, that it is true that my wife held one-twentieth of the ticket 90,443, which drew the first capital prize of $300,000 in the drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery Company at New Orleans on the 12th inst. My wife has invested $1 in a ticket occasionally in this lottery, and had always drawn blanks. I said to her: 'Mary, are you going to try your luck again this month?' alluding to the June drawing. She replied that she thought she would, but asked me if it was not too late. I replied that it was not, and she sent $1. She thought very little about it afterward, but I took the precaution to look for the announcement of the lucky ticket after the drawing, and I found it was 90,443. When I went home, I asked my wife what her number was, and she said she really did not remember. She had tucked the pasteboard away in her handkerchief box in a bureau drawer. I went to the drawer little thinking that she had drawn part of the capital prize, but I had an idea that perhaps she had drawn an approximation prize. As I ran my eye over the ticket, comparing it with the telegraphed lucky number, I was almost paralyzed at finding that they exactly tallied. It is needless for me to add that my wife was crazy with delight. I sent the ticket to New Orleans by Adams' express for collection. Last Friday I received a check for $15,000 from the National Bank of New Orleans on the Maverick Bank of Boston, and I have cashed it.

"My wife and I had been plodding along, trying to get ahead, saving a little here and a little there, and now we have got quite a start, enough to build a couple of good houses, any way. I shall invest the money carefully, and we naturally feel elated over our good luck, which will probably never come to us again."—Boston (Mass.) Herald, June 27.

A TIME-HONORED POLICY.

Conservative commercial men will note with satisfaction that the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, continues to give proof of the soundness of its business methods, and the prudence and wisdom of its administration by its last statement.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Zu-Vendis comprises in her boundaries a great variety of scenery, including two ranges of snowclad mountains, one on the western boundary beyond the impenetrable belt of thorn forest, and the other piercing the country from north to south, and passing at a distance of about eighty miles from Milosis, from which town its higher peaks are distinctly visible. This range forms the chief watershed of the land. There are also three large lakes—the biggest, namely that whereon we emerged, and which is named Milosis after the city, covering some 200 square miles of country—and numerous small ones, some of them salt.

The population of this favored land is, comparatively speaking, dense, numbering at a rough estimate from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000. As to their descent, I can give no certain information. Their written records, which extend back for about 1,000 years, give no hint of it. One very ancient chronicler does indeed, in alluding to some old tradition that existed in his day, talk of it as having probably originally "come down with the people from the coast," but that may mean little or nothing. In short, the origin of the Zu-Vendis is lost in the mists of time. Whence they came or of what race they are no man knows. Their architecture and some of their sculptures suggest an Egyptian or possibly an Assyrian origin; but it is well known that their present remarkable style of building has only sprung up within the last 800 years, and they certainly retain no traces of Egyptian theology or customs. Again, their appearance and some of their habits are rather Jewish; but here again it seems hardly conceivable that they should have utterly lost all traces of the Jewish religion. Still, for aught I know, they may be one of the lost ten tribes whom people are so fond of discovering all over the world, or they may not. I do not know, and so can only describe them as I find them, and leave wiser heads than mine to make what they can out of it, if indeed this account should ever be read at all, which is exceedingly doubtful.

In addition to being an agricultural people the Zu-Vendi are, oddly enough, excessively warlike; and as they cannot, from the exigency of their position, make war upon other nations, they fight among each other like the famed Kilkenny cats, with the happy result that the population never outgrows the power of the country to support it. This habit of theirs is largely fostered by the political condition of the country. The monarchy is nominally an absolute one, save in so far as it is tempered by the power of the priests and the informal council of the great lords; but, as in many other such institutions, the king's writ does not run unquestioned throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Zu-Vendis has had its king makers as well as England, a fact that will be appreciated when I state that eight different dynasties have sat upon the throne during the last 1,000 years, every one of which took its rise from some noble family that succeeded in grasping the purple after a sanguinary struggle. At the date of our arrival in the country things were a little better than they had been for some centuries, the last king, the father of Nyleptha and Sorais, having been an exceptionally able and vigorous ruler, and, as a consequence, kept down the power of the priests and nobles. On his death, two years before we reached Zu-Vendis, the twin sisters, his children, were, following an ancient precedent, called to the throne, since an attempt to exclude either would instantly have provoked a sanguinary civil war; but it was generally felt in the country that this measure was a most unsatisfactory one, and could hardly be expected to be permanent. Indeed, as it was, the various intrigues that were set on foot by ambitious nobles to obtain the hand of one or other of the queens in marriage had disquieted the country, and the general opinion was that there would be bloodshed before long.

I will now pass on to the question of the Zu-Vendi religion, which is nothing more or less than sun worship of a pronounced and highly developed character. Around this sun worship is grouped the entire social system of the Zu-Vendi. It sends its roots through every institution and custom of the land. From the cradle to the grave the Zu-Vendi follows the sun in every sense of the word.

The priests of the sun do not marry, but are recruited by young men specially devoted to the work by their parents and supported by the state. The nomination to the higher offices of the priesthood lies with the crown, but once appointed, the nominees cannot be dispossessed, and it is scarcely too much to say that they really rule the land. To begin with, they are a united body sworn to obedience and secrecy, so that an order issued by the high priest at Milosis will be instantly and unhesitatingly acted upon by the resident priest of a little country town three or four hundred miles off. They are the judges of the land, criminal and civil, an appeal lying only to the lord paramount of the district and from him to the king, and they have, of course, practically unlimited jurisdiction over religious and moral offenses, together with a right of excommunication, which, as in the faiths of more highly civilized lands, is a very effective weapon. Indeed, their rights and powers are almost unlimited; but I may as well state here that the priests of the sun are wise in their generation and do not push things too far. It is but very seldom that they go to extremes against anybody, being more inclined to exercise the prerogative of mercy than run the risk of exasperating the powerful and vigorous minded people on whose neck they have set their yoke, lest it should rise and break it off altogether.

Another source of the power of the priests is their practical monopoly of learning, and their very considerable astronomical knowledge, which enables them to keep a hold on the popular mind by predicting eclipses and even comets. In Zu-Vendis only a few of the upper classes can read and write, but nearly all the priests have this knowledge, and are therefore looked upon as learned men.

The social system of the Zu-Vendi allows considerable liberty to the individual, provided he does not offend against the laws and customs of the country. They are polygamous in theory, though most of them have only one wife on account of the expense. By law a man is bound to provide a separate establishment for each wife. The first wife also is the legal wife, and her children are said to be "of the house of the father." The children of the other wives are of the houses of their respective mothers. This does not, however, imply any slur upon either mother or children. Again, a first wife can, on entering into the marriage state, make a bargain that her husband shall marry no other wife. This, however, is very rarely done, as the women are the great upholders of polygamy, which not only provides for their surplus numbers, but gives greater importance to the first wife, who is thus practically the head of several households. Marriage is looked upon as primarily a civil contract, and, subject to certain conditions and to a proper provision for children, is dissoluble at the will of both contracting parties, the divorce, or "unloosing," being formally and ceremoniously accomplished by going through certain portions of the marriage ceremony backward.

The Zu-Vendi are on the whole a very kindly, pleasant and light hearted people. They are not great traders, and care little about money, only working to earn enough to support themselves in that class of life in which they were born. They are exceedingly conservative, and look with disfavor on changes. Their legal tender is silver, cut into little squares of different weights; gold is the baser coin, and is about of the same value as our silver. It is, however, much prized for its beauty, and largely used for ornaments and decorative purposes. Most of the trade, however, is carried on by means of sale and barter, payment being made in kind. Agriculture is the great business of the country, and is really well understood and carried out, most of the available acreage being under cultivation. Great attention is also given to the breeding of cattle and horses, the latter being unsurpassed by any I have ever seen either in Europe or Africa.

And now comes a question which I find some difficulty in answering. Are the Zu-Vendi a civilized or a barbarous people? Sometimes I think the one, sometimes the other. In some branches of art they have attained the very highest proficiency. Take, for instance, their buildings and their statuary. I do not think that the latter can be equaled either in beauty or imaginative power anywhere in the world; and as for the former, it may have been rivaled in ancient Egypt, but I am sure that it has never been since. But, on the other hand, they are totally ignorant of many other arts. Till Sir Henry, who happened to know something about it, showed them how to do it by mixing silica and lime, they could not make a piece of glass, and their crockery is rather primitive. A water clock is their nearest approach to a watch; indeed, ours delighted them exceedingly. They know nothing about steam, electricity or gunpowder, and, mercifully for themselves, nothing about printing or the penny post. Thus they are spared many evils; for of a truth our age has learned the wisdom of the old world saying, "He who increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow."

As regards their religion, it is a natural one for imaginative people, who know no better, and might therefore be expected to turn to the sun and worship him as the all father, but it cannot justly be called elevating or spiritual. It is true that they do sometimes speak of the sun as the "garment of the spirit;" but it is a vague term, and what they really adore is the fiery orb himself. They also call him the "hope of eternity;" but here again the meaning is vague, and I doubt if the phrase conveys any very clear impression to their minds. Some of them do indeed believe in a future life for the good—I know that Nyleptha does firmly—but it is a private faith, arising from the promptings of the spirit, not an essential of their creed. So, on the whole, I cannot say that I consider this sun worship as a religion indicative of a civilized people, however magnificent and imposing its ritual, or however moral and high sounding the maxims of its priests, many of whom, I am sure, have their own opinions on the whole subject; though of course they have nothing but praise for a system which provides them with so many of the good things of this world.

There are now only two more matters to which I need allude, namely, the language and the system of caligraphy. As for the former, it is soft sounding, and very rich and flexible. Sir Henry says that it sounds something like modern Greek, but of course it has no connection with it. It is easy to acquire, being simple in its construction, and a peculiar quality about it is its euphony, and the way in which the sound of the words adapts itself to the meaning to be expressed. Long before we mastered the language we could frequently make out what was meant by the ring of the sentence. It is on this account that the language lends itself so well to poetical declamation, of which these remarkable people are very fond. The Zu-Vendi alphabet seems, Sir Henry says, to be derived, like every other known system of letters, from a Phœnician source, and therefore more remotely still from the ancient Egyptian hieratic writing. Whether or no this is a fact I cannot say, not being learned in such matters. All I know about it is that their alphabet consists of eighteen hieroglyphics, each of which is, to my mind, more puzzling and cumbersome than the last. But as the people of Zu-Vendis are not given to the writing of novels, or of anything except business documents and records of the briefest character, it answers their purpose well enough.

(To be continued.

HOW TO MAKE FRIENDS.

Directions That Should Be Studied and Adopted by Every One.

The following directions for becoming agreeable should be studied and adopted by every one, and especially merchants and their clerks:

Very rarely, if ever, young persons acquire the ability to converse with ease and fluency. This implies, first of all, good ideas clearly and sensibly expressed. An empty mind never makes a good talker; remember "you can not draw water out of an empty well." Next in importance comes self-possession. "Self-possession is nine points in the law"—of good breeding.

A good voice is as essential to self-possession as good ideas are essential to fluent language. The voice from infancy should be carefully trained and developed; a full, clear, flexible voice is one of the surest indications of good breeding; it falls like music on the ear, and while it pleases the listener it adds to the confidence of its possessor, be he ever so timid. One may be witty without being popular, voluble without being agreeable, a great talker and yet a great bore. It is wise then, to note carefully the following suggestions:

Be sincere; he who habitually sneers at every thing will not only render himself disagreeable to others, but will soon cease to find pleasure in life.

Be frank; a frank open countenance, and a clear, cheery laugh are worth more, even socially than "pedantry in a stiff cravat."

Be amiable; you may hide a vindictive nature under a polite exterior for a short time, as a cat masks its sharp claws in velvet fur, but the least provocation brings out one as quickly as the other; ill-natured persons are always disliked.

Be sensible; society never lacks for fools. If you want elbow room "go up higher."

Be cheerful; if you have no great trouble on your mind you have no right to render other people miserable by your long face and dollorous tones. If you do you will be avoided.

But above all, be cordial; true cordiality unites all the qualities we have enumerated.—Luray Breezes.

—There is nothing so contradictory as human nature. Just when we are beginning to hate a man for his manners, we discover him to be possessed of some noble trait which compels us to admire, if not to love, him.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

—Notwithstanding the depravity of human nature, there are some things that men can not be hired to do. Take the tramp and the wood-pile for example.—Merchant Traveler.

—The source of vanity is from without—of pride, from within. Vanity is a vane that turns, a willow that bends with every breeze—pride is the oak that defies the storm. One is cloud—the other rock. One is weakness, the other strength.—Ingersoll.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—A granddaughter of Charles Dickens is now a type-writer, and copies MSS. for a living.

—Sydney Smith said: "There are two questions to be asked respecting every new publication. Is it worth buying? Is it worth borrowing?

—Rev. Dr. Bartol says of the late A. Bronson Alcott: "Were it possible, he was courteous to excess. He would have been polite to Satan."

—Mr. Gladstone always speaks of "an union" and "an European." His enemies claim that this is an indefensible misapplication of certain articles.

—Of the literary men who died during 1887, the ages of one hundred and twenty are recorded in the Literary World. Taking them as a basis the average age of literary men is found to be seventy years.

—The youngest woman in the newspaper business heard from up to date is Miss Agnes McMellan, the local editor of the Seward Democrat of Nebraska. She is but fifteen years old, and an excellent news gatherer.

—The story of the deep sea is an expensive one. The cost of compiling and publishing the reports of the Challenger expedition is said to have already exceeded two hundred thousand pounds, the work being still unfinished.

A LUCKY FATHER AND SON.

The following narative of the suffering of a Father and Son, will prove interesting to the readers of this paper. G. C. Bartholomew, of Kalkaska, Mich., Says: I located in this place five years ago, having formerly resided in Troy, N. Y. My friends there, as well as here know that I have been a great sufferer from what the physicians of Troy called Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. They frankly confessed that there was no help for me—that I must die. As a last resort I commenced the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, (made at Rondout, N. Y., you know). The result is little short of a miracle. All the terrible symptoms of this disease of the kidneys are gone. I do not have any more difficulty in voiding the urine, no pain or ache in the small of the back, no more soreness across the loins or over the bladder, no more constipation of the bowels no swelling of feet, hands and legs, and many other symptoms of disease of the kidneys, liver or bladder.

So you see, help came to me
In Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Who would begrudge the cost of this medicine (One Dollar a bottle) for such a blessing? or refuse this simple though sincere token of gratitude, for being perfectly cured. But my recovery was not more remarkable than that of my son George, who when a boy fell from a fence, bruising his leg, which was followed by disease of the bone. Large pieces were removed by surgical operations from time to time. His blood was impure, and the future to him was dark and gloomy; expecting to be a helpless cripple for life. But help came when least expected. He was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., paying one dollar for a bottle. He used this and part of another, and assures as I am writing this grateful acknowledgement his leg is healed up. He now works with me doing a good man's work. He owes everything to Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and hopes my writing this will induce others to use the medicine who suffer from a kidney or blood disorder. Made at Rondout, N. Y. Price $1; 6 for $5. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

Positiveness is a most absurd foible; if you are in the right it lessens your triumph; if in the wrong it adds shame to your defeat.—Sterne.

TWO WAYS, CHOOSE WHICH!

There are two usual ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not gripe the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Bitters, he can rely upon the restoration of a regular habit of body, consequent upon a renewal of a healthful tone in the intestinal canal. Besides healthfully relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action or the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

Men suppose that their reason has command over their words; still it happens that words in return exercise authority on reason.—Lord Bacon.

FROM DAKOTA.

FLEMING BROS.,

Dear Sirs:—For a long time I have suffered from the effects of indigestion and sick headache, and on trying your DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRETED LIVER PILLS I found quick and satisfactory relief. A very few doses does the work and I would not be without them.

Sioux Falls, Dakota. GEO. H. HARRIS.

Cure sick headache, biliousness, liver complaint, dyspepsia, heartburn, indigestion, malaria, pimples on face and body, impure blood, etc., by using regularly DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, prepared only by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. Price 25 cents. Sold by all druggists. Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name MCLANE, spelled differently but of the same pronunciation. Always make sure of the words "Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa." on the wrapper.

He that loves not his wife and children feeds a lioness at home and broods a nest of sorrows, and blessing itself cannot make him happy.—Jeremy Taylor.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

Receive what cheer you may; the night is long that never finds the day.—Shakespeare.

MAY TO BELL.

Dear Bell: I'll write you a short letter
To say I'm wonderfully better;
How much that means you ought to know,
Who saw me just one month ago—
Thin, nervous, fretful, white as chalk,
Almost too weak to breathe or talk;
Head throbbing, as if fit for breaking,
A weary, ever present aching.
But now life seems a different thing;
I feel as glad as bird on wing!
I say, and fear no contradiction,
That Pierce's Favorite Prescription
Is grand! Why, I'd have died without it!
Ma thinks there's no mistake about it.
It's driven all my ills away
Just come and see! Yours ever, MAY.

In the corrupted currents of the world
Offense's gilded hand may shove by justice;
And oft the wicked prize itself
Buys out the law.—Shakespeare.

FROM THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF WESTCHESTER CO., NEW YORK.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 10, 1886.

I have received many letters in reference to my testimonial, lately published, commending ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

I cannot spare the time to answer them in writing, therefore would again say, through the press, that I have found ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS invaluable as chest protectors and shields against coughs and colds. Furthermore, I have found ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS unequaled for pains in side, back and chest.

NELSON H. BAKER.

The only amaranthine flower on earth is virtue, the only lasting treasure is truth.—Cowper.

WHAT A DUNCE!

I suffered with fever, hot head and foul breath, With stomach disordered—was sick unto death. I bore it a week—surely I was a dunce—Then I took a few "Pellets"—they cured me at once. What a dunce, indeed, to neglect such a remedy and suffer a week, when quick relief could have been found in Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets.

Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won.—Duke of Wellington.

For Bronchial, Asthmatic, and Pulmonary Complaints, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" manifest remarkable curative properties. 25 cts. a box.

CONSUMPTION, WASTING DISEASES

And General Debility.—Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites, the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. SCOTT'S EMULSION is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

The Baldwin Hotel of San Francisco, has been entirely refurnished, and is now being managed by Mr. Baldwin himself, on his original plan of sparing no expense to make it first class in every respect. Its table is unexceptionable; its location central, at the corner of Market and Powell Sts. All street cars lines from the ferry passing the door. Our readers will find it to their advantage in every way, to stop at the Baldwin, when visiting San Francisco.

You cannot be too careful of what you use on your teeth. RUBYOAN is perfectly safe, effective, and harmless, makes the teeth white and the breath sweet. Large bottles 25 cents.

Zeal without humility is like a ship without a rudder, liable to be stranded at any moment.—Feltham.

If you have catarrh, use the surest remedy—Dr. Sage's.

If you enlist in the army, say a prayer; if you go to sea, say two; if you get married, say three.—Persian Proverb.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use, 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

GENERAL AGENTS WANTED! $100 to $500 a month easily made selling the Farmers' Friend, a big bolder and scales combined. Don't miss this. Send for circulars. E. E. BAIR, Manager Puget Sound Mfg. Co., Tacoma, Wash. Ter.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Kohnish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 30c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

BETTER THAN IRRIGATION!

Kast's NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF FASHIONABLE SHOES.

The Finest and most Complete Shoe Catalogue ever published in the United States. It will enable you to buy your footwear as intelligently and profitably as though you visited our store and personally made your purchase.

Sent Free to any address. Send for it now to

Kast's

738 and 740 Market St., S. F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

St. JACOBS OIL

TRADE MARK

SPRAINS, STRAINS, INJURIES.

1311 Seventh St., Louisville, Ky.

While helping to remove a frame building of the City Railway Co., it fell over on me, pressing me to the ground and spraining my back. I was carried home on a stretcher, and the doctors attended me two weeks, when my wife persuaded me to use St. Jacobs Oil, and the pain was soon gone entirely.

JAS. PER BROWER.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

100 FARMS

—AT—

Proberta, Tehama Co., Cal.

—THE—

ROSENTHAL COLONY

In the Upper Sacramento Valley.

9,000 Acres Subdivided into 100 Farms of 20 to 160 Acres.

SUITABLE FOR GRAPES, APPLES, Pears, Plums, Prunes, Apricots, Pomegranates, Figs, Quinces, Olives, Nectarines, Nuts, all Berries, Currants, small Grain, Corn, all kinds of Vegetables, Alfalfa, Broom Corn, Sorghum, Sugar Beets, Cotton Jute, Ramie Silk, Live Stock. TERMS: One-third cash, one-third in two years, one-third in 3 years with interest on deferred payment at 8%.

We will plant 20 acre tracts in this colony to Fruit and Vines, and care for same until full bearing on easy terms.

For further information apply to

C. H. STREET & CO.,

Successors to IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.

415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F.

TO THE LADIES!

Jacobs & Co.

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANT'S WEAR

113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application

HE GOT BIT!

"I have been bit sending to San Francisco for goods," writes a customer, "but I'll try you once." That is exactly what we want all the readers of this paper to do. Give us one trial. We know but little and say less of other people's methods of doing business, but we do know—if we know anything—that the way to get friends and customers is to treat them well. We have been doing business in San Francisco for many years, and are pleased to say that our sales have increased each one of these years from 20 to 30 per cent; that we now number among our patrons many if not most of the best people all over the coast, and receive thousands of letters commending our goods and prices, and speaking kindly of our method of doing business. We carry the largest variety of goods in town, select everything with care and sell at the smallest margin of profit consistent with fair trading. What we want is the chance to please you in price and quality, and if we fail we will then give it up. Our price list is complete and explicit. Sample copies sent free to everybody who writes for it to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

IRRIGATING PUMPS, STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars.

BYRON JACKSON, SAN FRANCISCO.

GIC Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.

G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.

D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.

ESTABLISHED 1863.

Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.

SURPLUS $ 700,000.00.

AV. RESOURCES $ 4,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1st, 1888.

PACIFIC BANK,

JULY 2d, 1888.

The usual Semi-Annual Dividend of

4 PER CENT

Is now due and payable to shareholders of the Pacific Bank.

We take pleasure in informing our shareholders that the close of the first half of 1888 finds our institution in a most prosperous condition.

In addition to paying the regular dividend, we have been enabled to add another $50,000 to the Surplus Fund.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

SEAL OF North Carolina PLUG CUT SMOKING TOBACCO

Has made the Pipe a popular institution—being composed of a quality of leaf best adapted for smoking, and cut ready for immediate use, it is preferable to the best brands of light pressed plug. A single trial will convert every consumer—they will use no other.

* If your dealer does not keep it, he will get it for you, if he values your trade.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

Flag Handkerchiefs

PURE SILK—75 CENTS.

Wolf & Frank

Shirts, Underwear, Neckwear, Hosiery, Suspenders, Collars, Cuffs, etc.

Shirts to Order.....One Dollar.

323 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List mailed free.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 317.

DWIGHT'S SODA

THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —

DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD

USE

DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.

THE COW BRAND.

DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

Paine's Celery Compound

A NERVE TONIC.

Celery and Coca, the prominent ingredients, are the best and safest Nerve Tonics. It strengthens and quiets the nervous system, curing Nervous Weakness, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, &c.

AN ALTERATIVE.

It drives out the poisonous humors of the blood purifying and enriching it, and so overcoming those diseases resulting from impure or impoverished blood.

A LAXATIVE.

Acting mildly but surely on the bowels it cures habitual constipation, and promotes a regular habit. It strengthens the stomach, and aids digestion.

A DIURETIC.

In its composition the best and most active diuretics of the Materia Medica are combined scientifically with other effective remedies for diseases of the kidneys. It can be relied on to give quick relief and speedy cure.

Hundreds of testimonials have been received from persons who have used this remedy with remarkable benefit. Send for circulars, giving full particulars.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Prop's BURLINGTON, VT.

For The NERVOUS The DEBILITATED The AGED.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best baking powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

OUR TRADE MARK

CHURCH & CO'S SODA

ON EVERY PACKAGE.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

INDEPENDENCE CAL.
SATURDAY..... AUGUST 25 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 11. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., AUGUST 25, 1888. WHOLE NO. 930.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

A Contented Mind the Richest Possession a Person Can Have.

Pink and yellow oxalis, red geraniums and fuchsias in one window, and a round, laughing face looking out of another—this was what we saw day after day. Whenever car Number One passed, the rosy face was at the window. The driver, a pleasant-looking young fellow, with the bluest of blue eyes, and fuzzy yellow hair, never failed to see the black eyes that looked out at him, and to smile or wave his handkerchief as he passed.

One day the car stopped in front of the house, and a girl came out and got in. It was her face that we had seen at the window, and we looked at her with a mixture of curiosity and interest. In her arms she carried a large, shapeless bundle, which, when she unwrapped the red shawl that was wound around it, proved to be a baby, fat and blue-eyed, who looked at each of us in turn, wonderingly, while he sucked the fingers of one little hand.

The car stopped again, and three ladies came in; they were evidently acquainted, and in order to give them seats together the girl gave her seat to one of them and sat down by me. She glanced at me once or twice, and seeing, or perhaps feeling, my friendly attitude, said, half shyly: "I see you in this car very often—you see, I 'most always look out when I know Jack will be passing."

"I have seen you, too," I answered. "I suppose this is your baby?"

"Yes," she said proudly, "Jack's and mine. Don't you think he looks like Jack?"

"Yes, very much. But you look young to be married and have a baby as old as this little fellow."

"Well, I'm older than I look—I'm past fifteen. See my ear-rings—they were a present from Jack on my fifteen birthday, and the baby gave me a butter-knife. Of course, Jack bought it, but it was a present from the baby just the same. I suppose you keep house?"

I told her I did.

"So do I. We have one real large room, and it's fixed so it's just as good as two would be. When I was at home we had a whole house, but I think one room is a great deal nicer—you can see all the pretty things you've got, right there; you don't have to go into other rooms to look at them. Don't you think we were lucky to be able to get a room that looks out on the street? And we have another window, too; that looks out into a lumber yard, and I've watched the teams and men coming and going so much that I know the names of some of the horses and where some of the men live. But I like the front windows best; I see the trees on the corner of A—— street when they are brown in autumn, and then when they are bare in winter. Now the leaves will soon be out, and then won't they look pretty?"

Again the car stopped. She got up and wrapped the shawl around the baby. "I get off here," she said, smiling. "I'm going to get a dress for the baby. Good-bye; I hope I'll see you again some time."

"What an outlandish-looking girl!" said one of the ladies on the opposite side of the car as soon as the girl was out of hearing. "Oh, dear, how slow this car goes! I wish the drivers had to go faster through parts of the city where there's nothing to see."

She did not seem to be an ill-natured woman; her face was pleasant, and her manners were good, but she was thoughtless. The "outlandish-looking girl," who saw beauty everywhere, was happier, and would make others happier than she who had a "whole house" to live in, and enjoyed many advantages which the other never dreamed of possessing. It is not material possessions nor the lack of them that makes riches or poverty, but a contented mind.—Youth's Companion.

Incubators for Infants.

Prematurely born and abnormally delicate infants are now supplied with artificial mothers of more than motherly tenderness. The apparatus, identical with the incubator or artificial hen for hatching chickens, is simply a large square box warmed by bowls of water beneath an inner bottom. In this, wrapped carefully in cotton, is placed the weak babe, so frail during its first few days that the open air would fatally chill it. With an even temperature and a free circulation of warm air, secure from cold and dampness, and with careful feeding, the infant thrives and rapidly acquires health. The natural mother can only watch the growth of her offspring through the glass cover until the new life has been fanned into sufficient strength to be confided to her keeping. In the hospitals of Paris this system has been for some time giving satisfactory and even surprising results.—Arkansaw Traveler.

A Lesson in Natural History.

A professor of Natural History wandered away from the Smithsonian the other day and got into a lawyer's office on F street, where there is a very pompous young clerk. The professor asked two or three questions on the point at issue and the clerk finally remarked to him very largely:

"I tell you it's true, and it is true. What do you know about law, any way?"

"Nothing, nothing at all," replied the professor, meekly; "but I know a great deal about natural history, and I think you are an ass."—Washington Critic.

REMARKABLE LUCK.

An Investment of $500 That Yielded Nearly $4,000,000.

Old-time Pittsburghers would hardly need an introduction to Philip Winebiddle, founder of the Winebiddle estate in East Liberty. About sixty years ago his mother gave him five hundred dollars as a "starter." The "Go West" fever had not as yet agitated staid Eastern communities, but Philip was fired with a restless ambition to go West, and seeing but little prospect of a great future for Pittsburgh, he journeyed toward the setting sun, and after much meandering he halted at the city of Erie, then little more than a lakeside hamlet. Philip had considerable knowledge of land titles, and as he was offered by an an old settler one hundred acres in the town for five hundred dollars, he grasped eagerly at the supposed bargain, but shortly afterwards relented and wanted his money back. But real estate deals are not generally made on the basis of "refunding the money if goods are not satisfactory," and Philip had to keep the land. He came back to his mother in Pittsburgh, broken-hearted over his ill luck, and cried like a child at what he considered a robbery of his five hundred dollars, and both agreed it was a "bad slip" for Philip. Thirty years later this land could not bought for two million dollars, and is now worth nearly four million dollars. Of course all this, on the Carpenterian theory, was brought about by hard work.

Five and thirty years ago the most noted hostelry in the city was kept at the junction of the Seventh street road and the East Liberty turnpike, by a sprightly old German lover of the turf named "Pap" Beitler, father of the noted turfmen Sam and Joe Beitler. For nearly a generation it was the "out of town" resort for sleighing parties in winter and driving parties in summer, pretty much after the fashion of "mine host" Keating of later days. It was famous for its poker parties and frog suppers, and many a pleasant evening was spent there in the "long ago" by coteries of what Broker Holmes and attorneys Andrew Burke, Biddle Roberts, W. E. Austin, Henry McGraw and Colonel Sam Black were the chief attractions. "Pap" Beitler had a famous black stallion which was known all over that region, and it was probably not worth over $100. The owner of a large tract of land near where East Liberty Station now stands, but whose heirs do not care to have his name mentioned, took a fancy to "Pap's" horse and offered him 100 acres of land for him. "Pap" preferred to keep the nag. The Beitlers are now all dead and the land which "Pap" refused for his horse could not now be purchased for $1,500,000.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

DE LESSEPS' CANAL.

The Proposed Alteration in the Plan of the Panama Ditch.

It has cost some hundreds of millions of dollars to demonstrate to Count Ferdinand De Lesseps that stone has not the degree of permeability possessed by sand. It was no trick at all to dig a hole through the granulated plain of Suez; but canalizing the solid rocks of Panama is quite a different thing. This is at last admitted by De Lesseps, and he now proposes to change his work from a sea level to a lock canal. But will the undertaking, even in its new shape, ever be finished? Can its promoters ever raise the vast sum needed for its completion?

Le Genie Civil, the most prominent engineering periodical in France, has an article in a recent number on the subject of the proposed alteration in the canal. The statistics it presents must certainly startle the Gallic enthusiasts who have been inveigled into dumping money by the cart-load into a big ditch which promises to remain for all time "without form and void." Following is a synopsis of statements made by this French scientific authority—which, by the way, is not hostile to the enterprise:

"The five divisions into which the line of the canal at Panama is divided, contained at the outset, 135,000,000 cubic meters to be removed. The accomplishment, up to this time, has been as follows: In the first division, from Aspinwall westward, three-fifths of the excavation, and in the fifth division, from Panama eastward, one-third; in the second and third divisions, from Tavernilla to Emperado, one-eighth each, and in the fourth division, La Cuiebra, two twenty-sevenths. Of the total accomplishment of 30,666,666 cubic meters out of the 135,000,000 to be extracted 19,666,666 comes from the Atlantic and Pacific sections, where the earth is soft and the dredges encounter no serious obstacles. From the three central and difficult divisions 11,000,000 cubic meters have been extracted after seven years' operations, and out of a total of 86,000,000. Even if the substitution of a canal with locks should reduce the total remaining excavation in these sections to 40,000,000 cubic meters, as claimed by the company, it would require twenty-five years to complete the work at the same rate of progress. In that time, even at the present rate, the aggregate interest of the existing debt, uncompounded, would amount to $500,000,000 and the world would have for the requirements of its commerce, an incomplete canal, not more than fifteen feet in depth (4.57 meters), and burdened with debts exceeding $1,000,000,000."—Chicago Times.

—The lady who posed to her husband as the model for the figure of Freedom, painted in the dome of the Capitol at Washington, now keeps a boarding-house, and frowns upon the department clerks who ask twice for butter.

TERRIBLE ORDEAL.

An Adventure Which Made a Coward of a Gallant Officer.

Instances are not uncommon of men who have displayed most remarkable courage and fearlessness, and have faced even death itself, until all danger was past, and then have broken down utterly, and been as cowardly as children ever after. A writer gives a thrilling incident of this kind, which happened in India. On one of his many trips up Little Rangoon river he camped one night with a party of British officers who were out on a hunt. The leader of the party, and the best shot and bravest man in it, was Major Curtis, a man about forty years old.

He has killed more animals than any other white man in the province. Armed only with a revolver, he had entered the bungalow in which a murderer was concealed, and taken him away from a crowd of his friends and delivered him to justice. He had swum the river and the alligators, and he would stand for the rush of a tiger or the spring of a panther with a laugh on his lips. They said the Major did not know what fear was. He, perhaps, thought so himself.

The camp was on the bank of the river, and only a temporary one, and no tents or covers were erected. We sat around the fires until a late hour, and when we rolled ourselves up for sleep the Major and I were only about four feet apart, with nothing between us. The camp grew silent at once, and every body was soon sound asleep. I was just dozing off when I thought I detected the crawl of a snake near me, but, after listening closely for a minute, I concluded it was a lizzard or insect. The air, the earth, the forests and the waters of India are full of animal life by day and by night. A camp no sooner grows quiet than wild rats and mice, lizzards, great beetles, and three or four sorts of squirrels begin to prospect around, while night-birds circle about, and the wolf, fox, jackal, hyena and other animals draw near. Snakes are always to be feared, but if one started up at every suspicious sound he would never get an hour's sleep.

Daylight was just coming when I opened my eyes. I was on my left side, turned toward the Major, and I noticed that he was on his back. Close beside me was a revolver, which I had slipped out of his holsters the night before that I might have it handy in case of need. Not another soul in camp was yet aroused, so far as I know, and I lay listening to the noises in the surrounding forest while daylight continued to grow stronger. I was about to arise, when I suddenly saw the head of a serpent lift itself above the Major's breast and wave to and fro. I shut my eyes for a few seconds and then opened them to see the same sight again. I even tried it again and again, fearful that I was dozing, and not wishing to believe what I plainly saw. It certainly was the head of a venomous serpent, a species closely resembling the American black snake, and as deadly as any serpent in India. It waved its head and darted its tongue for a moment, and then settled back into its coil.

As soon as the head went down I felt for my revolver and drew back the hammer. The click! click! alarmed the snake, as I knew it would, but by the time he had elevated his head again I had my arm outstretched and the muzzle of my revolver within two feet of him. It was a snap-shot and had to be made on the instant, and it was by pure good luck that I sent a bullet through his ugly head. He was over thing and flopping about as I sprang up, and was dead as I bent over the Major. The snake had crept out of the bushes and upon the Major's breast early in the night. It was not more than midnight when he awoke and found the serpent coiled up, and he knew that any movement on his part would result in certain death. For three hours and a half he had rested on the broad of his back, never moving a muscle, with his eyes wide open, and that serpent's head part of the time waving to and fro within six inches of his face. When I bent over him he was helpless. When we got him off the ground he sank down again and began to weep, and it was fully two hours before he would talk to us. The result of his experience was that he became a perfect physical coward, started at the slightest noise, and was ready to run from even a house dog.—N. Y. Sun.

Chrome Yellow as Food.

Chrome yellow is not good food. It kills. Yet certain bakers and confectioners of Philadelphia have been using chrome yellow in making cakes, buns and confections. A recent investigation showed that ten deaths have occurred among those who used the richly-colored buns. One baker has been sentenced to nine months' imprisonment for manslaughter. Another was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for adulteration and is held on another charge for manslaughter. There should be no complaint of too much paternal government when such things can occur as have happened in Philadelphia. A careless baker or confectioner can do more harm than a careless prescription clerk. Many of the instances where at social gatherings a great many persons have been taken sick can be traced to the recklessness of the baker and confectioner. Chrome yellow is not a good condiment. Neither are many other substances used to beautify candies, cakes and confections.—Chicago Times.

—The number of patents issued in this country during 1887 for electrical devices of various kinds was 1,248.

BURDETTE'S PHILOSOPHY.

USED TO BE HOSTS OF 'EM.

"Gentlemen paragraphers," asks Drake's Magazine, "candidly and honestly, did you ever know a man who was shot for playing the accordion? And if so, where does he live?" Good land, man, he doesn't live anywhere, he's dead, that's why he was shot, to keep him from living anywhere.

YOU CAN ALWAYS READ THE LAST WORDS.

An old operator says that "Telegraphers are born, not made, there are some men who can never learn telegraphing." So there are, so there are, and oh, how often, how earnestly do we wish there were more like them. This feeling comes over us most strongly when we are handed a message, saying—"To Povert J Jebberntt—Povd nxx quod not said ildint wrxly to-morrow evening moritd tbbly Collect $1.85." Then it would do us more good to hear that one telegrapher had died than to learn that fifty had been born.

EQUAL TO THE DEMAND.

There are 320,000 species of insects in the world, of which 25,000 are found in the United States. This isn't much more than enough to go around the orchards and farms, so that this season the summer hotels that cannot afford cockroaches will have to scrimp along with the common mosquito of commerce, and the little wingless bird of which the poets sing so plaintively, and which has made an enviable record for coming under the wire a full neck ahead of the best second.

THEY COME HIGH BUT YOU MUST HAVE 'EM.

Mama—Charles, dear, what are those two pages of names on the first part of your magazine? The list of subscribers? Charles (who has just started a new monthly magazine to fill a long felt want)—No, those are the editors.—Robert J. Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

Practical Proverbs.

"Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves," said the grocer's boy. Then he left his loaded handcart on the corner, and played pitch penny for half an hour.

"It's a poor rule that won't work both ways," said the youth, as he threw it out the back window at the cat, after his "irate parent" has disciplined him with it in an equally traditional manner in the front parlor.

"Charity begins at home," said Young Hardupp, as he carried away the easiest rocker obtainable, from his employer's burning furniture establishment.—Detroit Free Press.

A Lady Killer

Bobby—I guess you must be a lady killer, Mr. Sissy.

Mr Sissy (complacently)—Aw, d'ye think so, Bawbby?

Bobby—You must be. Clara said that after you left last night she nearly died laughing.—The Epoch.

He Told the Truth.

Magistrate (to new policeman)—Did you notice no suspicious characters about the neighborhood?

New Policeman—Shure, yer honor, I saw but one man, an' I asked him wot he was doin' there at that time o' night. Sez he: "I have no business here just now, but I expect to open a jewelry shtore in the vicinity later on." At that I sez: "I wish you success, sor."

Magistrate (disgusted)—Yes, and he did open a jewelry store in that vicinity and stole seventeen watches.

New Policeman (after a pause)—Begorra, yer honor, the mon may have been a thafe, but he was no liar.—St. Louis Critic.

One Touch of Nature.

The wind was high its hat blew off
And rolled along the street.
"Great Scott!" he cried, and after it
He ran with nimble feet.

It stopped—he reached it—as he stooped
To take it up, a gust
Came suddenly, and off the hat
Went in a whirl of dust.

The sage, the fool, the grave, the gay,
Young, middle aged and old,
The tall, the short, the lean, the fat,
The timid and the bold,

The rich, the poor, all laughed to see
The dicer whirl and spin—
This is the touch of nature, sure,
That makes the whole world kin.

Boston Courier

A Successful Critic.

"Well, Bigsby, you are looking very prosperous. Are you making money nowadays?"

"Lots of it."

"What business are you in?"

"I'm engaged as literary critic for The Blizzard."

"Critic? How did you come to branch out in that line?"

"Well, you see, I couldn't get a publisher for any of the books I wrote, and I had to do something."—Omaha World.

Why They Come.

Wife—I see by the paper that a Russian troupe that plays on the twenty-four pianos at once is on its way to America. Dear me! I wonder if they were not driven out.

Husband—Like enough. This country is a refuge for the oppressed of all nations.—Omaha World.

An Appropriate Chestnut.

Lincoln Street Car Passenger (to driver)—This line must have been improved recently?

"No, sir. No changes have been made."

"But this car runs very smoothly."

"Well, you see it's off the track."—Lincoln Journal.

Solved Already.

A lecturer has chosen for his subject "How to rise in the world." Texas horse thieves who get caught have solved that problem.—Norristown Herald.

Unquestionable.

Insinuating Agent—Can I see the lady of the house, please?

Bridget—Yer luckin at her, young man.—The Idea.

THE RED PLANET.

Speculations About the Canals of Mars and Their Builders.

It may be interesting to lovers of astronomy to know that the eminent French astronomer, M. Ferrotin, is engaged in a minute study of Mars, and that his discoveries confirm those of M. Schiaparilli in every particular. It seems actually true that the longitudinal stripes which circle around the planet are bodies of water and must, according to all laws of probability, be artificial. No one ever saw or conceived a system of parallel rivers from 1,000 to 2,000 miles long and straight as a plumb line. Every thing is possible, of course, but such straight rivers it is impossible to reconcile with the principles of cosmogony as we understand them. On this planet, at all events, nature abhors a straight line, and by analogy it should do so in Mars.

Yet, if these bodies of water are canals, as Schiaparilli believed and Perrotin seems hardly to doubt, what monstrous works they must be! They are from fifty to eighty miles wide. Fancy the labor of digging such a canal, the time it must have taken and the number of workmen it must have employed. The pyramids of Egypt are trifling in comparison. The Suez canal is 197 feet wide at the surface, and the Nicaragua canal is to be 150 feet; the Martian canals are 2,800 times wider. Our canals on this one-horse globe are considered long when they reach 100 miles in length. The Panama canal will be less than sixty miles long. The canals of Mars reach a length of 2,000 miles—say as far as from here to Omaha. What a traffic there must be to support such enterprises. On the waterways of China travelers describe the incessant ebb and flow of multitudinous crowds, but to require canals of such dimensions as we have described, the movement of traffic in Mars must be far more prodigious. In fact, they imply a population which almost staggers belief; considering that the volume of the planet is only one-sixth that of the earth, the diameter being 4,400 miles as against 8,000 miles, they warrant the wildest conjectures as to the density with which it may be peopled.

What manner of man lives in Mars, if there be men there, has always been a favorite topic of speculation. The law of gravitation tells us that he may be 14 feet high; not such a son of Anak as the inhabitant of the asteroids, but still one who would regard the Belgian giant as a remarkable dwarf. Possibly the enormous public works on Mars may be explained on the theory that these tall fellows can work in proportion to their stature—that one citizen of Mars can shovel as much dirt as two and a half denizens of this world.—San Francisco Call.

THE SUN'S ENERGY.

Striking Illustrations Intended to Give Readers an Idea of It.

The most satisfactory way of arriving at an idea of the enormous energy of the sun is by measuring the amount of heat which his rays are capable of generating; and further, by our knowledge of the relation which exists between heat and mechanical work, we are able at once to estimate the amount of work which the sun is capable of doing, and also the quantity of energy he must be losing year by year. By suitable arrangements we can cause a certain quantity of his radiation to be absorbed by water or other substance, and note the rise of temperature which results, and as we know the mechanical equivalent of each degree of temperature in water, for instance, it is only a matter of calculation to arrive at a knowledge of the sun's total energy. Like every thing else connected with this wonderful body, figures give us no adequate conception of his energy, and various illustrations have been used by different investigators. Thus, Herschel considered it in relation to the quantity of ice which it would melt in a given time, and states that the amount of heat which the earth receives when the sun is overhead would melt an inch thickness of ice in two hours and thirteen minutes. From this it can be calculated that if the body of the sun were entirely surrounded by a sheet of ice on its surface of more than a mile in thickness the sun's heat would entirely melt this coating of ice in the same time—namely, two hours and thirteen minutes. Prof. Young uses an even more striking illustration. He says: "If we could build up a solid column of ice from the earth to the sun, two miles and a quarter in diameter, spanning the inconceivable abyss of 93,000,000 miles, and if the sun should concentrate his power upon it, it would dissolve and melt, not in an hour, not in a minute, but in a single second; one swing of the pendulum, and it would be water; seven more, and it would be dissipated in vapor." Of course, of this enormous quantity of heat the earth receives but a very small fraction. The remainder, except, of course, what the other planets receive, passes away into space, and is lost forever, so far as can be ascertained, to the solar system. If we estimate in mechanical power what we do receive, we find this to be on each square foot of surface equivalent, on the average, to about fifty tons raised a mile high yearly, or to one-horse power continuously acting, to every thirty square feet of the earth's surface. It is by this enormous supply of energy that the whole world is kept alive and active. It keeps us warm, and drives our steam-engines and water-wheels; it circulates our atmosphere and brings us rain and snow in due season; it grows and nourishes our plants and animals, and, in a word, is the source of almost every earthly blessing.—Scotsman.

THE CANNED-GOODS TRADE.

An Industry That Has Grown to Vast Proportions in This Country.

An industry in this country which has grown to enormous proportions is that of preserving food products by canning and bottling. In 1807 M. Appert, a distinguished French chemist, found that organic substances remained fresh an indefinite time by being kept from contact with the air. Comparatively little use was made of this invention for many years except by sailors. About the year 1835, however, a small local trade sprang up in this country in canned oysters and tomatoes. The discovery of gold in California gave an impetus to the trade, but the first great expansion of it was during the civil war. Since that time the canned-goods trade has advanced by leaps and bounds until at present there is a capital of $11,000,000 invested here in fruit and vegetable canning alone, giving employment to 35,000 persons, who earn yearly $3,000,000, and turn out of goods $20,000,000, leaving a net profit of about 20 per cent. to the investors.

During the war advantage was taken by the Union Commissariat Department of the economy in bulk and the ease in transportation of canned goods. Canned meat was found useful for rations in forced marches; canned milk was a valuable substitute for fresh milk in the hospitals when the latter could not be had, and the health of the army was largely maintained by canned fruit and vegetables.

At the end of the war those engaged in the manufacture of these goods turned their attention to supplying the European markets with salmon and lobster. The lobster export trade had started ten years previously in the New England States. Soon after the Canadians began the salmon-packing industry, but did not meet with success. But the utilization of the enormous run of salmon up the Columbia and other rivers on the Pacific coast put new life into the industry. Some idea of how much the trade has grown may be gathered from the fact that, while in 1836 the pack of salmon was only 4,000 cases, during the past four years it has averaged 3,800,000.

The next great era in the trade was the compression of corned beef. Chicago, being a great cattle center, at once embarked heavily in this enterprise. Foreign governments (largely recognized the value of this system of preserving beef. They ordered large quantities of it for consumption by their war forces. Much of this was stored as a reserve in case of war, but as the supply was exhausted it has been continually renewed, to the profit of the American.

The success of the Americans in canning goods provoked the English and French people to emulation. Unable to compete with the United States in what had been already done, they turned their attention to the canning of delicacies. This trade was developed to a very large extent in Europe, and extended to this country. But the importation of these goods has fallen off in recent years, as this country has gone into the manufacture of this class of goods, and produces a much cheaper article, not at all inferior to the imported.

The development of the canned-goods industry has been great, but the variety of articles treated in this way has been even greater. Beginning as it did with ship's beef, it has extended until it embraces nearly all the desirable food products of the animal and vegetable kingdoms. Lieutenant Greely, after his famous Arctic expedition, said that canned apples, peaches, pears, rhubarb, green peas, green corn, onions, potatoes and tomatoes were all subjected to the temperature of sixty degrees below zero. They were solid for many months at a time, the second summer they thawed, and the following winter they were frozen solid again. When these articles were eaten they presented the same appearance as though freshly canned, and their flavor was as good when the last can was opened as during the first month.

Canned goods have proved a great boon to the housekeeper. In cities, at any rate, the goods preserved are cheaper than if bought in the fresh condition. This arises from the fact that they are always packed where the material is cheapest and most abundant. A great economy is exercised, too, by the wholesale preparation of meat and fish.

The popular idea that canned goods are injurious to health is a mistake. Tin, which forms the coating of the thin iron plates of which the cans are made, is not acted on at all by any ordinary acids or by the gases of decomposition. Certain firms in this city have followed up every case of alleged poisoning from canned goods without finding a single one of them authentic. The ordinary precautions of taste and smell as applied to fresh goods are a sufficient protection against danger in similar goods when canned, and, judging by the progress of the past decade in this method of food preservation, it seems likely to have a still larger future before it.—N. Y. Sun.

—A New York bachelor over seventy years of age recently visited Maine, fell in love with a damsel less than half his age, was accepted and went home to prepare for the coming of his bride. When all things were in order, instead of going after his betrothed himself he sent his younger brother. The younger man was pleased with his future sister-in-law, so pleased that he persuaded her to marry him before starting for New York.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

Who They Are and the Legislation They Desire to Have Passed.

A number of Socialists were recently tried and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment in Prussian Poland. At this same time the German Reichstag was discussing a bill proposed by Prince Bismarck, restricting the operations of the Socialists more severely than was done by the previous law. These events call renewed attention to the growth of Socialism in Europe, and especially in Germany. In almost every country where Socialism exists, it is found that among its leaders and chief promoters are many Germans. It is so notably in the United States and England.

In Germany itself the growth of the party, which calls itself "Socialist," and which is more or less revolutionary in its methods and aims, though not favoring physical violence, has become a seriously important matter to the Emperor's government and divides Bismarck's anxious attention with the prospects of a general European war. A deputy in the Reichstag, Herr Charles Grad, has included in an essay recently published certain facts in regard to Socialism in Germany, which show us how steadily it has increased, and what a real power in German politics it has become to-day.

Socialism may be said to have made its appearance as a political factor in 1871. In that year, out of a total German vote of nearly four million, the Socialists polled one hundred and twenty-five thousand votes. After the lapse of sixteen years, during which Socialism steadily grew in spite of repressive laws and an iron-handed regime, the German Socialists cast a vote (in 1887) of seven hundred and sixty-three thousand votes—more than six times as many as in 1871. A party which can cast three-quarters of a million ballots, out of a total of seven and a half millions, has certainly become an important element in the State.

Herr Grad further shows that the increase of socialism during the sixteen years has been mainly in the great centers of population. In Berlin, the capital of the Empire, for example, the increase was from two thousand and fifty-eight votes in 1871 to ninety-four thousand two hundred and fifty-nine in 1887. In the Reichstag itself the Socialist party ranks fourth in point of numbers, being only exceeded by the Conservatives, the Liberals and the Catholic "Center."

The large proportion of the German Socialists are not, as the Socialists in America appear to be, lawless and violent men, who wish to use force to overthrow existing society. They would warmly resent being classed with the so-called "Anarchists." They do not engage in secret combinations to breed revolts. Much less do they aim to achieve their purpose by the methods of arson and assassination, which mark the course of the more extreme Russian Nihilists. There is a movement in favor of what its leaders call, and call truly, Christian socialism.

The Socialist leaders in the Reichstag are, in several instances, men of learning and culture, graduates of universities, and competent in debate and legislation. Their purpose is to convert Germany into a social democracy by legal and political agitation. The founders of German Socialism, Ferdinand Lassalle and Karl Marx, often declared that the most formidable weapon they desired to use was the ballot, and this is also the assertion of their successors in the Socialist leadership. They only ask for the liberty of utterance, which, to be sure, is not fully allowed them under the Empire; but still they have a voice in the Reichstag, and some scope of free speech in the press; and with these advantages, they find the increase of their numbers rapid enough to encourage them to hope and labor for final success.

On the other hand, it is certain that Prince Bismarck will make every possible effort, and use all the powers he can acquire, to check the influence and growth of Socialism.—Youth's Companion.

BLESSING SACRED LAMBS.

A Curious Ceremony That is Performed Annually at Rome.

There is a curious ceremony which takes place at Rome every year on St. Agnes' Day—the blessing of lambs, the sacred lambs, whose fleece is used for the Pope's pallium. The lambs are provided by the canons of St. John Lateran. They are first taken in a grand carriage to St. Agnes' church, outside the walls, to be blessed; then driven to the Vatican, where they are formally presented to the Pope and afterward given over to the care of one of the convents, where the nuns keep them till Easter, when the fleece is shorn and the sacred vestment made, while the flesh is eaten by the poor.

The ceremony we went to see was very short; two little white lambs, their fleece carefully wash and combed, were carried in, each tied with red ribbons into an open baskest. They looked wretchedly uncomfortable, and we were told that they were drugged to prevent them from bleating. The two baskets were placed upon the high altar, and the Abbot of St. Agnes' who was officiating, proceeded to bless them. He then sprinkled the lambs with holy water, which made the little creatures wake up and struggle to get loose, and censed them, and they were carried back to their carriage, the people thronging around and seizing bits of their fleece as relics as they were taken through the congregation.—St. James Gazette.

—If there is any th[illegible] a locksmith it's to h[illegible] burglarized.—Mercha[illegible]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25.....1888

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES —AND— County Convention.

PURSUANT TO CALL THE DEMOCRATIC CENtral Committee of Inyo County met at Independence, August 21st, and arranged for the holding of a County Nominating Convention to assemble at INDEPENDENCE on

TUESDAY, September 25, 1888,

for the nomination of candidates for County Officers, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention. Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several Precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, Sept mber 8th,

in accordance with the following Apportionment based on the votes cast for the Democratic Nominee for State Controller at the Gubernatorial Election of 1886, a Delegate for each Precinct voting at said election, 1 for each 10 votes so cast, and 1 for each fraction over one half that number, as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 3 | George's Creek | 1 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Station | 2 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 6 | Keeler | 2 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 4 | Darwin | 3 |
| Fish Springs | 1 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 7 | Panamint | 1 |

Polls are to be open from 2 to 6 o'clock, p. m., on Saturday, Sept. 8th, at the following places and under charge of the following officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Inspector, David Olds; Judges, C A Waldasinn, C H Parsons. Old's House.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, John Blair; Judges, Geo Clarke, T Hutchinson.

STATION—Depot. Inspector, H A Man; Judges, McNally and Doby.

COTTONWOOD—N Gilbert's. Inspector, Scott Broder; Judges, S P Roberts.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, W G McCrosky; Judges, I P Yaney, W W Yandell.

POLETA—Storey's House at Switch. Inspector, Geo Story; Judges, Rube Merryman, — Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, S J McMurry; Judges, Dennis Hessian, Jack Mallane.

FISH SPRINGS—Hill's old Store. Inspector, Jas Conners; Judges, Jas Lane, D W Nerney.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, G W Brady; Judges, C S Swan, Thos Kelsoe.

GEORGE'S CREEK—Half-way House. Inspector, W I Hunter; Judges, Aaron Reynolds, H Hamilton.

KEYNOT—McDonough's Store. Inspector, Thomas McDonough.

CERRO GORDO—Boland's Store. Inspector, J Hertel; Judges, J Dunphy, Geo Wright.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Chas Moynan; Judges, A Apple, J G Dodge.

KEELER—Barnes Hotel. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, John Morton, Tim Molden.

OLANCHA—Wm Walker's. Inspector, Wm Walker; Judges, W T Grant, Ed Walker.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, J C Eddy; Judges John Wilson, Jeremiah Fitzgerald.

LOOKOUT—Store. Inspector, F Fitzgerald; Judges, W C Smith.

PANAMINT—Store. Inspector, H G Chickering; Judges, Jas Wall, John Curran.

PRIMARY TEST Are you a Democrat?

All Democratic Voters in Inyo County are requested to attend the Primaries and assist in the selection of Delegates to the Convention.

By order of County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary.
Dated, Aug. 21, 1888 tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18 tf

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

...ied with the most celebrated brands of ...uors and the Finest Havana ...

...C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR

Agricultural District

No. 18.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best Stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than th ee | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 10 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, any breed or age Association cup. | |
| Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup. | |

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII.
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years Old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. watermelons | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds, 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 5 00 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, wine | 5 00 |
| " raisin | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department,

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department,

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| On satin and Japanese panels | 5 00 |
| Collect on of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf, two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall panel, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk on flannel | 2 00 |
| on linen | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darnel net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| Brussels rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display hand knit work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, outline | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| ladies dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department,

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entires to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN,
C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES AND CONVENTION.

AT A MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN Central Committee of Inyo county, held at Independence on the 10th day of August, 1888, it was ordered that a Republican County Convention be held in the Town of Independence, on to convene at 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the County and District offices to be filled at the General Election on TUESDAY, November 6th, 1888, also the appointment of a County Central Committee, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said Republican County Convention.

TUESDAY, September 18th, 1888,

The Apportionment of Delegates to said Convention is based upon the number of votes cast for the Republican nominee for Governor at the General Election in 1886 allowing 1 Delegate for each precinct, 1 for each 20 votes, and 1 for a fraction of 12 or more. The several precincts of the county are therefore entitled to representation as follows, to-wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 2 | George's Creek | 2 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Bishop Station | 1 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 4 | Keeler | 1 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 3 | Darwin | 1 |
| Fish Springs | 2 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 4 | Panamint | 1 |

comprising a Nominating Convention of 33 members.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates in accordance with the above apportionment will be held in the several precincts of Inyo county on

SATURDAY, September 8th 1888,

Polls being open between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., of said day, at the places herein named, and under the direction of the following Primary Election Officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Blaisdell's Store, Inspector, F P Blaisdell; Judges, Thos E Jones, R Hilton.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, A Matlack; Judges, N C Young, W McLaren.

BISHOP STATION—School House. Inspector, J Peregrine; Judges, Jas O'McNally, A Plumley.

COTTONWOOD—Inspector, W A Greenley; Judges, N Gilbert.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, J H Stoutenborough; Judges, M C Hall, A Friedline.

POLETA—A O Collins' House. Inspector, A O Collins; Judges, Thos Hughes, Geo Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, L M Newman; Judges, E M Crocker, A McDonald.

FISH SPRINGS—School House. Inspector, A J Wren; Judges, A McKeilp, N E Conklin.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, Thos Parker; Judges, W F Matlack, J D Blair.

GEORGE'S CREEK—School House. Inspector, John Kispert; Judges, T B Scovil, John Meyer.

KEYNOT—Laskey Mill. Inspector, John Anton; Judges, Ge St. Clair.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Geo H Palmer; Judges, J J Stewart, M Castro.

CERRO GORDO—Store. Inspector, Wm Crapo; Judges, John Thomas, Fred Wallis.

KEELER—Boland Building. Inspector, John Yandell, Judges, E E Hall, W H Walker.

OLANCHA—A Walker's House. Inspector, A Walker; Judges, H Belows, A Brown.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, Chas Anthony; Judge, Jas McDonald, A J Gould.

LOOKOUT—Company Store. Inspector, J D Channell; Judges, H P Livingston.

PANAMINT—Company Store. Inspector, E F Rowell; Judges, Wm Horne, — Bennett.

PRIMARY TEST—Are You a Republican, and will you support the Republican Nominees!

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Delegates or proxies be permitted a voice in this Convention unless actual residents and voters in the precincts represented; and we hereby earnestly recommend that the Convention adopt such a rule of qualification for its members.

It is urgently requested that all Republican voters in Inyo county, laying aside all past differences and uniting for the common good of the party, who in good faith intend to support the Republican nominees, shall assemble in their respective Precincts at the time named for primary meetings, and select delegates who will attend the Convention and truly represent their wishes, to the end that nominations may be fairly made and a ticket presented which shall command the united and enthusiastic support of all Republicans in the county.

By order of the Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H. HANNY, Secretary. aug18 1m

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday | January 28th |
| " | February 25th |
| " | March 24th |
| " | April 21st |
| " | May 19th |
| " | June 23rd |
| " | July 21st |
| " | August 18th |
| " | September 15th |
| " | October 13th |
| " | November 17th |
| " | December 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. H. MACK, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

EVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.
W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,

Reno, Nevada.

oct 23-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet, Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No 1. | | To Mound House. No 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leaves— | | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a. m | | 5 35 p. m |
| Dayton | | 10 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 a. m | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p. m. | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Ammo | | 5 30 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sodaville | | 7 0 p. m. | | 8 10 a. m |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p. m. | | 7 0 a. m |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8 50 p. m. | Lv. | 6 30 a. m |
| | | No 3 | | No 4 |
| | | Leave— | | Arrive— |
| Belleville | | 7 3 a. m. | | 5 25 p. m |
| Benton | | 11 00 a. m | | 1 55 p. m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p. m. | | 11 30 a. m |
| Averill | | 2 00 p. m | | 10 55 a. m. |
| Independence | | 3 30 p. m. | | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m | | 8 15 a. m |
| Keeler | Ar. | 6 05 p. m. | Lv. | 7 20 a. m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜

☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pulman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNty of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County, of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM HEDGE, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned, administrator of the estate of William Hedge, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator, at the law office of George M. Gill, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, State of California, that being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate.

WILLIAM F. MATLACK,
Administrator of the estate of William Hedge deceased.
Dated at Independence, California, June 19, 1888.
Geo. M. Gill, Attorney for Administrator.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything a article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

-ON-

SAN FRANCISCO

—

DRAW DIRECT

--ON--

NEW YORK,

LONDON, England

BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

—

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geordnet. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

—

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL

Life Insurance Co.

OF NEW YORK.

Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL

And LONDON and GLOBE

Insurance Company

Capital - - $10,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing.....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25. ..... ....1883

Tom Boland is "mending his fences" up about Bishop Creek.

See the advertisement for sale of privileges at the Fair Grounds during Fair week.

A big crowd will go from Independence next Tuesday to the opening of Crocker's hotel.

Mike Laskey has gone to San Francisco to go into business. Ben is managing the store at Lone Pine.

Send in your subscriptions to the Sheridan Monument Fund. It can easily be made a grand success.

Mrs. J. W. P. Laird got home at the beginning of the week from a visit of a few weeks to Round Valley.

Mrs. Julia Church arrived at Independence last Wednesday, from Hawthorne, on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Blair.

More improvements are making at the Norman House. C. S. Swan is doing a a good deal of new work on the house.

"Doc" Callison was tried at Hawthorne for killing Tom Donahue at Candelaria, some months ago. He was acquitted last Wednesday.

Mr. W. S. Enos brought in about one hundred head of horses from Long Valley a few days ago. They are now on his place at Independence.

Doctor Middleton came down from Bishop Creek on Monday. He was summoned by telegraph to Lone Pine to attend Mrs. Carrasco, who is very ill.

Defective mail service still continues. This week it was a little worse than usual; a little more progress in the same direction and we won't have any mail.

George Collins is making a tour through the lower end of the county, interviewing on the subject of his candidacy for the nomination for County Clerk.

Miss Mallory and Miss Shirley came down from Bishop Creek on Monday. They were before the Board of Education on examination for teachers certificates.

For a cool drink of Soda Water or Sarsaparilla, kept on ice, go the Independence Hotel. These drinks are pure and wholesome, and made at the new factory at Bishop Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fehrman have bought a house and garden at Elmshorn, Germany, and are settled there. Mr. Fehrman writes that crops in Germany are ruined by bad weather.

Julius Schroeder and Sam Graber came down from Kearsage at the beginning of the week, where they have been doing assessment work on the Silver Sprout mine for Henry Levy. They brought in some fine silver chloride ore.

Republican meetings will be held next Saturday at Bishop Creek, Lone Pine and Independence. It is not yet determined if any Republican speakers from abroad will visit Inyo county during the campaign. See the advertisement for above meetings.

Martin Mee, of Darwin, publishes his announcement that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. Martin is one of the old-timers of Inyo county; many miners have received kindness from him; in fact he is one of the kindest men that ever lived, and will have warm friends in the Convention.

R. S. Miner, Attorney in the Silva case, has written to a friend at Independence that he has not yet got the $7,500 awarded to Silva. A certificate for the amount was placed in the hands of Longhorn & Miller, of San Francisco, for Mr. Miner, but he refuses to receive it, and is now suing for $4,000 additional, which he claims for costs and interest.

Hon. R. B. Terry, Democratic nominee for Congress from this district, has arranged to come to Owens Valley and make a number of speeches on the political issues of the day. Mr. Terry is reported to be a young man of fine ability as a speaker, and will doubtless highly interest his audiences. See the advertisement for times and places of holding the meetings.

The Board of Education met last Tuesday; all the members present. There were two applicants for teachers certificates. Both applicants failed to make the necessary percentage on the first paper, and the Board would not proceed further with the examination. The subject was spelling, and the papers returned by both applicants were very defective.

A few days ago A. R. Jones and his son, Jefferson Jones, arrived at Independence with 120 head of horses. They came from Nevada, up near the Oregon Line. They will winter here and have rented pasture for their horses from Smith Brothers, on Black Rock slough. Mr. Jones says bands of sheep have eaten up the pasture where his horses formerly grazed and he was forced to move. This is the best horse country he has seen since he left home.

W. T. C. Elliott has made an appeal for help to former acquaintance in Lassen county. In his appeal he says:

"I feel sure in the sight of God that I am innocent of the crime charged, but owing to the unfortunate circumstances that surround me here, of which my counsel, Judge Haydon and Gen. J. R. Kittrell, will inform you, I am compelled to ask you, and my old Honey Lake friends and neighbors, to assist me in the way of means to help pay the expenses of taking an appeal to the Supreme Court and then in a new trial."

Governor Waterman has issued his proclamation declaring Monday, September 9th, a legal holiday. The proclamation recites excellent reasons why the natal day of the State should be observed with proper ceremonies; and why all business possible should be laid aside to do proper honor to the occasion. The proclamation is very patriotic and manly and will make all Californians who read it proud of their State. What the 4th of July is to the Nation, September 9th should be to California.

The Sixth Volume of Alden's Cyclopedia of Universal Literature is fully up to the preceding volumes in excellence and interest. It begins with Isaac Da Costa, a Dutch poet, and ends with Frederick Douglas, the celebrated negro orator. There are brief biographical notices and selections from authors of all ages and of all countries. No other publication furnishes such variety of interesting reading as this. If not in a mood for reading any long, connected work, any of the volumes may be taken up with the certainty of finding something pleasing, interesting and instructive. If a question should arise concerning the time when any noted author lived; the leading facts in his or her life and selections from the works of the author can at once be found in this Cyclopedia. It is very remarkable that such a work can be had for fifty cents per volume. Address John B. Alden, publisher, New York.

Attempted Burglary.

About three o'clock last Monday morning an attempt was made to force an entrance into the store of Mr. E. Chenot. Mr. Chenot sleeps in a room back of the store; he heard a noise in front and got out of bed to find the cause. From a doorway that commands a view of the front of the store he watched, and soon saw the figure of a man, with the head and shoulders muffled up, attempting to force open a window. Mr. Chenot rushed to open the front door, but when he succeeded the burglar had disappeared. Mr. Chenot had a loaded pistol in his hand; it is a pity he did not shoot when he first saw the burglar, but he hoped to capture without killing him. On the window frame are marks made with a chisel where the thief tried to force an entrance. Should the attempt be repeated Mr. Chenot will be more prompt to shoot next time.

A Noted Murder Case.

The murder of Doctor Powers in San Benito county, that made a great sensation three years ago, is still a subject of interest. Powers was seventy-three years old. He was murdered by a man named Prewett. The trouble grew out of claims to land. After the murder the body was hung to a tree and an effort was made to have it appear that it was a case of hanging by vigilantes. The conspiracy was discovered and several arrests were made. One man is now in State prison under a life sentence. Prewett, who, it is alleged, actually killed Powers, was tried and the jury disagreed, one juror refusing to bring in a verdict of "guilty." This juror was with difficulty saved from lynching. A new trial was had, but public indignation was so great in the county that a jury could not be got in San Benito. In the mean time an act was passed by the Legislature, granting the State the right to a change of venue where a jury cannot be had in a county where crime is committed. Prewett is again on trial for the crime. At the former trial one important witness was missing and could not be found though great effort was made. Friday evening of last week a stranger arrived at Independence. He at once sought Sheriff Gregg and with him went to C. Mulholland, Justice of Peace, and made known who he was and told his business here. This stranger proved to be H. W. Scott, Attorney-at-Law, of Hollister, San Benito county, though he traveled under an assumed name. He said that he had reason to believe the missing witness for the trial of Prewett was in Inyo county, and asked for authority to arrest him. Sufficient proof being given, the authority was granted and Mr. Scott and Sheriff Gregg started to hunt up the missing witness. They returned to Independence on Monday with their man, having found him near Bishop Creek, where he had been for some time under an assumed name. His real name is Richard Alexander; he had been present at the meetings held by Prewett and others before and after the killing of Powers, and can testify to all the leading facts in the case. Mr. Scott is one of the prosecuting counsel in the trial of Prewett; he started for Hollister with his witness last Tuesday morning, and is very confident that Prewett can now be convicted of the crime of murder. Mr. Scott gives this witness a very good character; he says Alexander being a young man was inveigled by older men into attending the meetings held by Prewett and other conspirators, but took no part in the murder of Powers beyond attending these meetings.

A Teacher in Danger.

We came near losing a school teacher. This is how it happened:—A party from Owens valley were up in the mountains hunting and fishing. Ed Shepherd and A. E. Janvier were in the party. There were several ladies along. One of the ladies had a fine burro for a saddle animal. The party camped many days in a lovely meadow near the head of Kings river. Short excursions were made daily from the camp to places of interest in the neighborhood. The jack got used to these short trips. At length it was determined to break camp and return to the valley. The lady had her ass bridled and saddled; the rest of the company got ready and all moved forward. All went well till jack seemed to think it was time to camp; then he stopped. The lady urged, but jack was obdurate and refused to move. The lady didn't know how to swear. The boys might have done justice to the subject but didn't like to begin. All the males of the party tried to make jack go on; it was no go, he had determined to camp. Ed Shepherd suggested to the lady that she take his horse and he would ride her ass. The exchange was made. There is a great deal of daylight under the forks of Ed's bifurcated garments. He bestrode the jack and urged him forward. Jack wagged an ear with a no-you-don't air, and planted his feet more firmly than ever. Ed stretched his legs, planted his feet firmly on the ground and forced jack forward. The ass dashed down a narrow canyon and jammed himself and his rider into a cleft of the rocks. Ed had to pull the brute out by main force, and in the struggle the ass came near being left as scant of tail as "Tam O'Shanter's" mare. Ed got the jack back into the trail and made a start again; that is, he tried to start; but the animal was still firmly convinced that it was camping time. There was another long struggle; ending in the jack again dashing off at a terrific rate down a little side canyon. Ed and the jack both pitched headlong into a thicket of thorny bushes. It was a hard job getting out. Ed's clothes suffered severely; his hands and face bore evidence of sharp encounter. At length the trail was again reached and Ed tried another forward movement. It was still camping time with the jack. Everybody who knows Ed Shepherd will testify that he is one of the most sweet tempered mortals that ever lived. But even to the patience of Ed Shepherd there is a limit; he was riled at last, and now came the peril to the teacher. Mr. Janvier was riding up the canyon a short distance ahead of Ed. Ed had a shot gun; he let his feet to the ground; stepped behind the ass; raised the gun and hit the ass a belt on the ribs that made him concave on that side. The breach-pin was knocked out of the gun; the barrels fell on the rocks and both cartridges exploded together. The charges tore up the ground under the horse Mr. Janvier was riding; it was a narrow escape, but neither horse nor man were hurt. The ass now seemed to think that Ed should decide when it was time to camp and went on without further trouble.

Dennis O'Keefe was arrested last Wednesday at Cerro Gordo, by Sheriff Gregg. He is charged with shooting at Joseph Agosta with a rifle. The trouble was about a mining claim. O'Keefe was brought to Independence and will have his examination to-day (Saturday) at 10 o'clock, a. m., before Justice of Peace, C. Mulholland. O'Keefe is suffering from a bullet wound in the leg, received during the scrimmage.

Tickets for the Ball at Big Pine next Tuesday evening, three dollars.

Sending Ore to England.

During the past year Samuel Chalmers has made repeated efforts to sell ore from a mine in Deep Spring district, in the Inyo Mountains, east from Alvord. The ore carries copper and other metals. None of the reduction works in California or Nevada would offer satisfactory terms to Mr. Chalmers and he has made arrangements to ship his ore to Swansea, Wales. He can ship large quantities of the ore; he is now stoping out ore and sorting at the mine. It is not very creditable to our own ore reducers that ore taken out in the Inyo mountains should be sent to England for reduction, no matter what its character may be.

Indians in Luck.

Some days ago Pat Keyes was taking a train of mules loaded with ore down the Inyo mountains from the White Hill. At a short curve on the trail one of the mules missed his footing, and with his load of ore went whirling into the canyon, hundreds of feet below. Of course the mule was dashed to death on the rocks. A day or two afterward Keyes climbed down into the canyon to see if any part of the harness was worth gathering up, or if any of the ore could be recovered. He found the bones of the mule picked clean down even to the hoofs. The Indians are very partial to mule meat, and as this was a young animal in good condition they had a royal feast. The Indians had kindled fires near the carcass and roasted, broiled, and eat as long as a scrap of meat could be picked from a bone.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

The Democratic County Central Committee met at Independence last Tuesday. Present, A. N. Bell, Chairman; J. A. Lank, E. Robinson, White Smith, P. W. Forbes, R. P. Hessian, J. W. Murphy and Arthur Smith. The following resignations were accepted: A. W. Eibeshutz, J. E. Shepherd, J. W. P. Laird, Thomas Crough; and appointments to fill the vacancies were made as follows: C. S. Swan, Fred Holbert, John C. Irwin, W. M. Boyd. Henry Rhine was added to the Committee. Eighteen absent members were represented by proxies and new appointees. J. J. Gunn was appointed in place of Arthur Tanner, who has left the county. J. J. Gunn was appointed Secretary, with Henry Rhine and John C. Irwin as assistants. The basis of appointment of delegates was fixed at ten votes. Independence was chosen as the place for holding the Convention, the vote being 14 to 12. The Convention will be held September 25th. Harmony and good feeling prevailed throughout the meeting.

Music for the Campaign.

We have just received from the publishers, S. Brainhard's Sons, 145 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, copies of the "Red Hot Democratic" and the "True Blue Republican" Campaign Song Books. Each book contains sixteen pieces of music arranged for male quartette, with words and music complete. They are not cheap word editions. The price of each book is but fifteen cents and will, no doubt, have a very large sale.

J. W. Symmes cannot get help to fill orders for fruit as fast as they come in. He is shipping all he can pack by each train.

GRAND DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

HON. R. B. TERRY,

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR

CONGRESS,

Will address the People of Inyo County, on the Political Issues of the Day at following times and places:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| BISHOP CREEK..... | September.... | 7, | 1888 |
| INDEPENDENCE..... | " | ....8, | " |
| BIG PINE..... | " | ....9, | " |
| LONE PINE..... | " | ....10, | " |

Local Democrats will please arrange for the Meetings.

By order County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary. aug28

We are uncompromisingly in favor of the American System of Protection. We protest against its destruction, proposed by the President and his party.—National Republican Platform.

GRAND REPUBLICAN RALLY!

HARRISON & MORTON.

The Republican State Central Committee having determined upon opening the Republican Campaign in California on

Saturday, Sept. 1, 1888,

the County Committee of Inyo has arranged for the holding of Local Meetings on that evening, at the following places, to be addressed by the gentlemen named;

BISHOP CREEK,
A. R. CONKLIN.

INDEPENDENCE,
C. C. STEDDER.

LONE PINE,
C. W. CRAIG.

The Republicans of the several towns are requested to make necessary arrangements for holding such meetings.

By order of Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H. HARDY, Secty. aug25

A THOUGHT TO THIS!

The profusion and regularity with which orders pour in upon us with every mail, has a meaning—a meaning that is significant. It shows that there must be something in our goods our prices or our methods which attracts. As it has the power of interesting others, WHY MAY IT NOT INTEREST YOU!

SEND FOR IT

We believe we can safely announce September 1st, as the date of the appearance of our FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK. It will be a large sized volume of over 100 pages, with over 1000 illustrations, and handsomely printed. It is full of facts, figures and information, and is both valuable and interesting. We are confident that those who send for a copy will bear us out in the assertion that is absolutely the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi river. Sent to any address FREE. Send in your names now. Regular customers who do not receive the catalogue will please notify us.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

Below are several lines of goods which we can recommend as being of good value. All are in first-class condition and are a part of our regular stock.

A Model Boot at a nominal price is Hale's Full Stock Calf Boot at $2.50. It is made of first class tannery calfskin with sole leather innersole and counter. Sizes 6 to 10.

Ladies White Merino Vests and Drawers, silk-bound, catstitch, 44 cents each.

Ladies Unbleached Balbriggan Hose, full regular made and extra long. Price 16 2-3 cents per pair.

The Stanley Hat for gentlemen is an exceptionally good article. It is a soft hat, has a raw edge and cord band, and comes in black, wine and nutria colors. It holds its shape well and gives good wear.

Gents all-wool knit Undershirts and Drawers—Made especially for us, HALE'S brand being on every garment. The goods are heavy weight, cut full size and both shirt and drawers are ribbed at the bottom. Best value on the coast. Price $1.50 per garment. Colors, scarlet and natural grey.

Boys mudium brown mixed cassimere suits, well made and trimmed. Ages 10 to 18 Price $6.50.

Childrens Knee Pants Suits in dark fancy broken plaid suitings. Ages 4 to 12. Price $2.50.

Figured Lawns in neat designs at 4 cents per yard.

English Challis—a soft and airy fabric with a cream white ground and figured and geometrical designs. It contains a small percentage of wool for drapery purposes. Price 12 yards for $1. Samples sent upon application.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GRAND

OPENING BALL!

—AT—

Crockers Hotel

BIG PINE,

Tuesday, Aug. 28th,

Everybody Welcome.

GRANDEST BALL EVER GIVEN AT BIG PINE.

OPEN AIR PLATFORM FOR DANCING.

TICKETS, - - - - $3.00

ESTRAY.

ABOUT JUNE 18th, 1888, THERE CAME to my place a horse, described as follows: Dark bay, saddle marks on back, white spot on face, age 12 to 15 years. Brand, O with bar, on shoulder, left side. The owner may have the same on proving property and paying expenses. Apply to HENRY GLADER aug 25 Georges Creek.

SALE OF FAIR PRIVILEGES.

The exclusive privileges of keeping a bar at race track.

Ice cream stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Confectionery stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Lunch stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Selling goods on the Fair Grounds.

All during the Annual Fair of the 18th Agricultural District, commencing September 17th, 1888, at Independence, will be sold at the reading room of the Norman House, Independence, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, September 10, 1888. Fair sales will be made at public auction to the highest bidder. Terms of sale, cash at sale. C. MULHOLLAND,
By order of Directors. Secretary.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for nomination for Sheriff of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. MARTIN MEE.
Darwin, August 18, 1888.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANDIDATE for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n47tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

aug25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 12c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

—Queen Victoria has now reigned over England longer than any monarch but two—Henry III. and George III. She overtook Queen Elizabeth six years ago and has outdone Edward III., who only reigned one hundred and forty-eight days over half a century. If she lives a few years longer Victoria will have reigned longer than any royal personage of history.—Philadelphia Times.

—Some one has got up an alphabet of precious stones as follows: Amethyst, beryl, chryso-beril, diamond, emerald, feldspar, garnet, hyacinth, idiocrase, kyanite (more commonly cyanite, a blue mineral), lynx-sapphire, milk-opal, natrolite, opal, pyrope, quartz, ruby, sapphire, topaz, uranite, vesuvianite (a species of garnet), water-sapphire, xanthite, zircon (a Cingalese stone).

—The Boston Transcript tells of two shoemakers who formerly did business in Boston. One of them placed this sign over the door: "P. Flaherty, Bootmaker, from Paris." His rival saw that this was a strong card, and determined to play one equally strong if not stronger. So he had a sign put over his door which reads as follows: "J. Mahoney, Bootmaker. Never in Paris, But as Good."

—In November, 1887, a woman, aged seventy years, a resident of Leeds, England, was charged with the larceny of a shoemaker's last, valued at fourpence. The judge, in passing sentence, said that offense was a serious one, inasmuch as it might deprive a patron of the cobbler of his shoes when he most needed them. The defendant was then sentenced to nine months' imprisonment and fined two pounds. Her only daughter was buried the day she went to prison.

—A Florida newspaper says that the killing off of alligators is having a marked effect on the supply of water in the cattle country. When alligators took possession of a water hole they always kept the mud pushed up on the banks, and even when hundreds of cattle went to the pool, and by crowding and pushing filled it with mud, the alligators soon repaired the damage by digging and pushing back the mud. Now the cattle stand around these holes, which are filled with mud and almost entirely dried up, and wait for rain; the only water they get meantime being from the dew-covered grass which they eat at night.

—An interesting investigation as to the comparative length of the index or first finger and the ring finger (the one next the little finger) has been going on for many years. It seems that according to ancient Greek art, an index finger a trifle longer than the ring finger is a characteristic of the higher forms of human beauty. In the Apollo Belvidere there is said to be no appreciable difference in the length of the two fingers. Among Gorillas, Orang Outangs, Bushmen and cognate creatures, the ring finger is the longer, although they do not wear rings. Among Europeans and Americans there is no uniformity in the matter, many having the ring fingers the longer, many others having longer index fingers, and still many others having them of equal length, like the Apollo Belvidere.

Parisians Not All Frivolous.

Grace Greenwood says that all Parisian women are not frivolous, any more than all Boston women are profound. She does not believe that Anglo-Saxons enjoy a monopoly of home virtues and practical piety, and she does believe that the great majority of French wives are loyal, French mothers tender, French grandmothers and elderly maiden ladies devout.—Harper's Bazar.

New York's Annual Mortality.

The health of New York compares very unfavorably with that of London. The annual mortality in the British metropolis is about 20 in 1,000, while in New York it is 26 in 1,000. The population of New York is also much more crowded, there being an average of 16 persons to a dwelling while in London the average is only 7.—St. Louis Republic.

DRAWN IN THE LOTTERY.

A Stock Board Broker and a Store Service Lineman Win Thousands.

"Perhaps you were born under a lucky star. Did you ever have your horoscope cast?" was asked of A. T. Waite, who is employed by the Consolidated Store Service Company, at 120 Sutter street.

"No," he replied, "the events of my life never led me to believe that there was any unusual peculiarity in the heavens when I came into the world. I experienced no particular run of luck until I began investing in the Louisana State Lottery, and even then I did not strike any rich prize until this month. I have been more fortunate in this respect, however, than I hoped to be. A man like me, who has unsuccessfully endeavored to get along in business for himself, and who, when 40 years old, has been obliged to content himself with a small salary from somebody else, ought to feel that his luck has turned at last when he falls in for a cool $5,000 simply through an investment of $1. The evening before the drawing, which took place last week, I went to a Louisiana Lottery agent here to get a ticket. I had been purchasing one or two tickets each month for about a year, and had won small sums, the first ticket I bought bringing me $40 and the others small amounts. I was a little nervous and hurried, and so I took the first ticket I got my fingers on. It was a twentieth, and the next day I saw that the number I held, 71,678, drew the prize of $100,000. Of this $5,000 comes to me."

Mr. Waite is a poor, worthy man, who will know how to moke good use of the coin.

Max Goldman, the stock-broker at No. 325 Pine street, was benefitted to the extent of $2,000 in the May drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery. He was persuaded by a peddler of tickets who entered his office to take two coupons. Both bore the same number, 90,405, and as it drew $10,000 and his coupons were [illegible], Mr. Goldman materially increased his pile of gold.—San Francisco (Cal.) Examiner, June 22.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER XIV.

THE FLOWER TEMPLE.

It was half past eight by my watch when I woke on the morning following our arrival at Milosis, having slept almost exactly twelve hours, and I must say that I did indeed feel better. Ah, what a blessed thing is sleep! and what a difference twelve hours of it or so makes to us after days and nights of toil and danger. It is like going to bed one man and getting up another.

I sat up upon my silken couch—never had I slept upon such a bed before—and the first thing that I saw was Good's eyeglass fixed on me from the recesses of his silken couch. There was nothing else of him to be seen except his eyeglass, but I knew from the look of it that he was awake, and waiting till I woke up to begin.

"I say, Quatermain," he commenced, sure enough, "did you observe her skin? It is as smooth as the back of an ivory hair brush."

"Now, look here, Good," I remonstrated, when there came a knocking at the door, which, on being opened, admitted a functionary, who signified by signs that he was there to lead us to the bath. We gladly consented, and were conducted to a delightful marble chamber, with a pool of running crystal water in the center of it, into which we gayly plunged. When we had bathed we returned to our apartment and dressed, and then went into the central room where we had supped on the previous evening, to find a morning meal already prepared for us, and a capital meal it was, though I should be puzzled to describe the dishes. After breakfast we lounged round and admired the tapestries and carpets and some pieces of statuary that were placed about, wondering the while what was going to happen next. Indeed, by this time our minds were in such a state of complete bewilderment that we were, as a matter of fact, ready for anything that might arrive. As for our sense of astonishment, it was pretty well obliterated. While we were still thus engaged, our friend the captain of the guard presented himself, and with many obeisances signified that we were to follow him, which we did, not without doubts and heart searchings—for we guessed that the time had come when we should have to settle the bill for those confounded hippopotami with our cold eyed friend Agon, the high priest. However, there was no help for it, and personally I took great comfort in the promise of the protection of the sister queens, knowing that if ladies have a will they can generally find a way; so off we started as though we liked it. A minute's walk through a passage and an outer court brought us to the great double gates of the palace that open on to the wide highway which runs up hill through the heart of Milosis to the Temple of the Sun, a mile away, and thence down the slope on the farther side of the temple to the outer wall of the city.

These gates are very large and massive, and an extraordinarily beautiful work in metal. Between them—for one set is placed at the entrance to an interior, and one at that of the exterior wall—is a fosse, forty-five feet in width. This fosse is filled with water and spanned by a drawbridge, which, when lifted, makes the palace nearly impregnable to anything except siege guns. As we came one half of the wide gates were flung open, and we passed over the drawbridge, and presently stood gazing up one of the most imposing, if not the most imposing, roadways in the world. It is 100 feet from curb to curb, and on either side, not cramped and crowded together, as is our European fashion, but each standing in its own grounds, and built equidistant from and in similar style to the rest, are a series of splendid single storied mansions, all of red granite. These are the town houses of the nobles of the court, and stretch away in unbroken lines for a mile or more till the eye is arrested by the glorious vision of the Temple of the Sun that crowns the hill and heads the roadway.

As we stood gazing at this splendid sight, of which more anon, there suddenly dashed up to the gateway four chariots, each drawn by two white horses. The first and last of these chariots were occupied by guards, but the center two were empty, except for the driver, and to these we were conducted. Alphonse and I got into the first, and Sir Henry, Good and Umslopogaas into the one behind, and then suddenly off we went, and we did go. Among the Zu-Vendi it is not usual to trot horses either riding or driving—especially when the journey to be made is a short one—they go at full gallop. As soon as we were seated the driver called out, the horses sprang forward, and we were whirled away at a speed sufficient to take one's breath, and which, till I got accustomed to it, kept me in momentary fear of an upset. As for the wretched Alphonse, he clung with a despairing face to the side of what he called this "devil of a flacre," thinking that every moment was his last. Presently it occurred to him to ask where we were going, and I told him that, so far as I could ascertain, we were going to be sacrificed by burning. You should have seen his face as he grasped the side of the vehicle and cried out in his terror.

But the wild looking charioteer only leaned forward over his flying steeds and shouted; and the air, as it went singing past, bore away the sound of Alphonse's lamentations.

And now before us, in all its marvelous splendor and dazzling loveliness, shone out the Temple of the Sun—the peculiar pride of the Zu-Vendi, to whom it was what Solomon's, or rather Herod's, Temple was to the Jews. The wealth and skill and labor of generations had been given to the building of this wonderful place, which had been only finally completed within the last fifty years.

The building itself is of pure and polished white marble, which shows out in marvelous contrast to the red granite of the frowning city, on whose brow it glistens indeed like an imperial diadem upon the forehead of a dusky queen. The outer surface of the dome and of the twelve petal courts is covered entirely with thin sheets of beaten gold; and from the extreme point of the roof of each of these petals a glorious golden form with a trumpet in its hand and wide spread wings is figured in the very act of soaring into space. I really must leave whoever reads this to imagine the surpassing glory of these golden roofs flashing when the sun strikes—flashing like a thousand fires aflame on a mountain of polished marble—so fiercely that the reflection can be clearly seen from the great peaks of the range a hundred miles away.

It is a marvelous sight, this golden flower upborne upon the cool white marble walls, and I doubt if the world can show such another. What makes the whole effect even more gorgeous is that a belt of 150 feet around the marble wall of the temple is planted with an indigenous species of sunflower, which were at the time when we first saw them a sheet of golden bloom.

The main entrance to this wonderful place is between the two northernmost of the rays or petal courts, and is protected first by the usual bronze gates, and then by doors made of solid marble, beautifully carved with allegorical subjects and overlaid with gold. When these are passed there is only the thickness of the wall, which is, however, twenty-five feet (for the Zu-Vendi build for all time), and another slight door, also of white marble, introduced in order to avoid causing a visible gap in the inner skin of the wall, and you stand in the circular hall under the great dome. Advancing to the central altar you look upon as beautiful a sight as the imagination of man can conceive. You are in the middle of the holy place, and above you the great white marble dome (for the inner skin, like the outer, is of polished marble throughout) arches away in graceful curves something like that of St. Paul's in London, only at a slighter angle, and from the funnel like opening at the exact apex a bright beam of light pours down upon the golden altar. At the east and the west are other altars, and other beams of light stab the sacred twilight to the heart. In every direction, white, mystic, wonderful, open out the ray like courts, each pierced through by a single arrow of light that serves to illumine its lofty silence and dimly to reveal the monuments of the mighty dead.

Overcome at so awe inspiring a sight, the vast loveliness of which thrills the nerves like a glance from beauty's eyes, you turn to the central golden altar, in the midst of which, though you cannot see it now, there burns a pale but steady flame crowned with curls of faint blue smoke. It is of marble overlaid with pure gold, in shape round like the sun, four feet in height and thirty-six in circumference. Here also, hinged to the foundations of the altar, are twelve petals of beaten gold. All night and, except at one hour, all day also, these petals are closed over the altar itself exactly as the petals of a water lily close over the yellow crown in stormy weather, but when the sun at midday pierces through the funnel in the dome and lights upon the golden flower, the petals open and reveal the hidden mystery, only to close again when the ray has passed.

Nor is this all. Standing in semicircles, at equal distances from each other on the north and south of the sacred place, are ten golden angels, or female winged forms, exquisitely shaped and draped. These figures, which are slightly larger than life size, stand with bent heads in an attitude of adoration, their faces shadowed by their wings, and are most imposing and of exceeding beauty.

There is but one thing further that calls for description in this altar, which is, that to the east the flooring in front of it is not of pure white marble, as elsewhere throughout the building, but of solid brass; and this is also the case in front of the other two altars.

At the temple gates our party was received by a guard of soldiers, who appeared to be under the orders of a priest; and by them we were conducted into one of the ray or "petal" courts, as the priests call them, and there left for at least half an hour. Here we conferred together, and realizing that we stood in great danger of our lives, determined if any attempt should be made upon us, to sell them as dearly as we could—Umslopogaas announcing his fixed intention of committing sacrilege on the person of Agon, the high priest, by spitting his venerable head with Inkosi-kaas. From where we stood we could perceive that an immense multitude were pouring into the temple, evidently in expectation of some unusual event, and I could not help fearing that we had to do with it. And here I may explain that every day, when the sunlight falls upon the central altar, and the trumpets sound, a burnt sacrifice is offered to the sun, consisting generally of the carcass of a sheep or an ox, or sometimes of fruit or corn. This event comes off about midday; not always exactly at that hour, but as Za-Vendis is situated not far from the line, although—being so high above the sea it is very temperate—midday and the falling of the sunlight on the altar were generally simultaneous. Today the sacrifice was to take place at about eight minutes past twelve.

Just at 12 o'clock a priest appeared, and made a sign, and the officer of the guard signified to us that we were expected to advance, which we did with the best grace that we could muster, all except Alphonse, whose irrepressible teeth instantly began to chatter. In a few seconds we were out of the court and looking at a vast sea of human faces stretching away to the farthest limits of the great circle, all straining to catch a glimpse of the mysterious strangers who had committed sacrilege; the first strangers, mind you, who, to the knowledge of the multitude, had ever set foot in Za-Vendis since such time that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

As we appeared there was a murmur throughout the vast crowd that went echoing away up the great dome, and we saw a visible blush of excitement grow on the thousands of faces, like a pink light on a stretch of pale cloud, and a very curious effect it was. On we passed down a lane cut through the heart of the human mass, till presently we stood upon the brazen patch of flooring to the east of the central altar, and immediately facing it. For some thirty feet around the golden winged figures the space was roped off, and the multitudes stood outside the ropes.

Within were a circle of white robed gold cinctured priests, holding long golden trumpets in their hands, and immediately in front of us was our friend Agon, the high priest, with his curious cap upon his head. His was the only covered head in that vast assemblage. We took our stand upon the brazen space, little knowing what was prepared for us beneath, but I noticed a curious hissing sound proceeding apparently from the floor for which I could not account. Then came a pause, and I looked round to see if there was any sign of the two queens, Nyleptha and Sorais, but they were not there. To the right of us, however, was a bare space that I guessed was reserved for them.

We waited, and presently a far off trumpet blew, apparently high up in the dome. Then came another murmur from the multitude, and up a long lane, leading to the open space to our right, we saw the two queens walking side by side. Behind them were some nobles of the court, among whom I recognized the great lord Nasta, and behind them again a body of about fifty guards. These last I was very glad to see. Presently they had all arrived and taken their stand, the two queens in front, the nobles to the right and left, and the guards in a double semicircle behind them.

Then came another silence, and Nyleptha looked up and caught my eye; it seemed to me that there was meaning in her glance, and I watched it narrowly. From my eye it traveled down to the brazen flooring, on the outer edge of which we stood. Then followed a slight and almost imperceptible sidelong movement of the head. I did not understand it, and it was repeated. Then I guessed that she meant us to move back off the brazen floor. One more glance and I was sure of it—there was danger in standing on the floor. Sir Henry was placed on one side of me, Umslopogaas on the other. Keeping my eye fixed straight before me I whispered to them first in Zulu and then in English, to draw slowly back inch by inch till half their feet were resting on the marble flooring where the brass ceased. Sir Henry whispered on to Good and Alphonse, and slowly, very, very slowly, we shifted backward; so slowly, indeed, that nobody except Nyleptha and Sorais, who saw everything, seemed to notice the movement. Then I glanced again at Nyleptha and saw that, by an almost imperceptible nod, she indicated approval. All the while Agon's eyes were fixed upon the altar before him, apparently in an ecstasy of contemplation, and mine were fixed upon the small of his back in another sort of ecstasy. Then suddenly he flung up his long arms, and in a solemn and resounding voice commenced a chant, of which for convenience' sake I append a rough, a very rough translation here, though, of course, I did not then comprehend its meaning. I was an invocation to the sun, and ran somewhat as follows:

"There is silence upon the face of the Earth and the waters thereof!
Yea, the silence doth brood on the waters like a nesting bird;
The silence sleepeth also upon the bosom of the profound darkness.
Only high up in the great spaces star doth speak unto star.
The Earth is faint with longing and wet with the tears of her desire;
The star girdled night doth embrace her, but she is not comforted.
She lies enshrouded in mists like a corpse in the grave clothes,
And stretches her pale hands to the east.

(To Be Continued.)

The Secretary of the London Electric Company reports that the stokers struck and stopped the lights because "a gratuitous meal of roast beef was served cold instead of hot."

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—There is a man in Rawlins County, Kan., who is the owner of 60,000 trees all planted by himself on his homestead.

—A Tuscola County, Mich., man has during the past eleven years been tapped 134 times for dropsy and 2,500 pounds of water taken from his body.

—Two ragged Italian children, who were arrested at Chicago while gathering cigar stumps on the streets, explained that they sold the discarded weeds to a fellow-countryman for fifteen cents a pound, and that they were "made into cigarettes."

—American enterprise is felt at Hernosand, Sweden, which has just been provided with the most northern electric light station in the world. The lamps there at extreme times are lighted at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and put out at 12:15 o'clock at night.—Electrical Review.

—A brother of one of the lady teachers who perished during a blizzard in Dakota recently visited that section for the purpose of removing the remains to the old home in the East. In settling up with the school directors where she had been teaching they made him discount her bill twelve per cent. because she had not finished the term.

—The scope of the messenger boy's work appears to be broadening very materially. In New York, the other day, one of them was called upon to escort an intoxicated man from a saloon in Forty-second street to his home, in Harlem. He appears to have performed his duty faithfully—notwithstanding its unpleasant nature—even putting his helpless charge to bed.

Zeb Vance's Great Argument.

Senator Wade Hampton tells this story about Senator "Zeb" Vance's first case in the North Carolina Supreme Court, and he took great pains with it. When the court came to render a decision the Chief Justice quoted Vance's argument in full. As he was proceeding Vance looked proudly around on the other lawyers and cheerfully rubbed his hands. To his mind that was the greatest argument ever presented to a court. The court read Vance's argument through, and then said: "For these reasons we affirm the decision of the court below." Vance was dumbfounded. His own argument was used as a basis of a decision against his client.

AN ASTONISHING RESULT.

A man rescued from a burning coal mine would scarcely cause more interest than does the story of my life. In the spring of 1878 I was taken with sharp pains in the lower part of my bowels in the region of the bladder. Shortly blood appeared mixed with my urine, and a few weeks later I had an attack of brown gravel. The pains and distress extended from my side across the small of my back. I tried a number of doctors. One said it was gravel, another said it was inflammation of the bladder, and another, that I had a stone in my left kidney, but their opinions and treatment failed to help me. One of the most skillful physicians in Troy, who after treating me some weeks advised me to consult an eminent specialist at Albany. For three month's I was under the great man's care, but constantly growing worse. I gave up in despair, and went home to die. I had run down from a robust man of 200 pounds to nearly half that weight in one short year, and all hope seemed gone. One by one my friends came to bid me good bye. Relatives heard of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and urged me to try it. Soon the medicine began to help me, the pains and distress were lessened. I could sleep and take a little nourishment. In two months time I left my bed, the improvement went on so that in four months I was able to do a little work, and in six or seven months I was robust and strong, having gained 80 pounds in weight, and looked like any old vigorous self once more. I was brought back from the very edge of the grave. Many witnesses will substantiate what I say, as it is a most remarkable recovery. I am a wonder to myself. A remedy which can do this for one so near death as I was, should be known everywhere, and if my statements will help spread a knowledge of its virtues to other sufferers from kidney and bladder diseases I shall feel that I am partly repaying you for the great service Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy performed for me in my extremity.

C. W. BROWN, Petersburg, Rensselaer Co., N.Y.

Made at Rondout, N. Y. Price $1; 6 for $5. Redington & Co., agents, San Francisco, Cal.

A fraud may be polished to look like the real, but will soon need another rubbing.

TWO WAYS. CHOOSE WHICH!

There are two usual ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not gripe the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Bitters, he can rely upon the restoration of a regular habit of body, consequently upon a renewal of a healthful tone in the intestinal canal. Besides healthfully relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action of the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

It is not so honorable to decend from a high ancestry as to ascend from a low one.

FROM MONTANA.

HELENA, M. T., Jany. 26th, 1888.

FLEMING BROS.

Gentlemen:—I have taken a great many of DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, and find them to be a wonderful pill—all that you claim for them. They act like a charm in cases of biliousness, sick headache, dysentary, etc. MRS. HENRY WINKLEMAN.

[Box 954.]

Cure sick headache, biliousness, liver complaint, dyspepsia, heartburn, indigestion, malaria, pimples on face and body, impure blood, etc., by using regularly DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, prepared only by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. Price 25 cents. Sold by all druggists. Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Still to ourselves in every place consign'd, our own felicity we make or find.

"Then let the moon usurp the rule of day,
And winking tapers show the sun his way;
For what my senses can perceive,
I need no revelation to believe."

Ladies suffering from any of the weaknesses or ailments peculiar to their sex, and who will use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription according to directions, will experience a genuine revelation in the benefit they will receive. It is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

Too great refinement is false delicacy, and true delicacy is refinement.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are an effectual Cough Remedy. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

THE BALDWIN.

When you visit San Francisco, stop at the famous Baldwin, the best appointed, and in every respect the most desirable hotel in the city. Everything is first-class and guests find every possible comfort and convenience. The location, corner of Market, Powell and Eddy Sts., gives access to a half-dozen street car lines, and is in the center of the business portion of the city. The house has just been refurnished throughout and is certainly a model of elegance.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

MURDERED BY PREJUDICE.

Thousands of men die every day who might be saved. Prejudice has murdered many a man and woman. If it were believed that the sum of disease could be reduced by physic much would be gained. The nightmares of death would not frighten us as it does. In our modern civilization we ought reasonably to expect disease to settle upon us because we do so much to attract it; because we so often and so steadily expose ourselves to it. At the same time we all ought to understand, as a part of our rudimentary education, that to save ourselves from the effects of such exposure some kind of fortification should be built around our vital forces lest the enemy carry us, as it were, by a sudden onslaught. For many years the unprejudiced have used BRANDRETH'S PILLS in this way and they have proved a most effective wall against the approach of disease. Stop the daily murders—we had almost said suicides—by using these Pills. They speak for themselves—as they act. When everything else has failed BRANDRETH'S PILLS have saved lives. They are to be had at every drug store.

The streams of small pleasures fill the lake of happiness, and the deepest wretchedness of life is the continuance of petty pains.

HAPPINESS.

The foundation of all happiness is health. A man with an imperfect digestion may be a millionaire may be the husband of an angel and the father of half a dozen cherubs, and yet be miserable if he be troubled with dyspepsia, or any of the disorders arising from imperfect digestion or a sluggish liver. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are the safest and surest remedy for these morbid conditions. Being purely vegetable, they are perfectly harmless.

It is more honorable to fail than to cease pushing for fear you will fail.

Beware of counterfeits! HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE is extensively imitated. To avoid disappointment be sure and purchase the genuine. E. W. Hoyt & Co., proprietors, Lowell, Mass.

It is less pain to learn in youth than to be ignorant in old age.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents.

Fortunes are made by taking opportunities; character is made by making them.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

How to Cure Skin & Scalp Diseases with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods failed.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing Plaster. 25c.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY. Price, 25 cents a Bottle.

PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors 417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

NOTHING SO GOOD FOR CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM Cold in Head SNUFFLES OR CATARRH

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril, and is agreeable. Price, 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren St., New York

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial! Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

S. F. N. U. (First Series.) No. 318

CONSUMPTION, WASTING DISEASES

And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites: the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging, most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

FULL WEIGHT PURE DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS.

IRRIGATING PUMPS STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS. COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars.

BYRON JACKSON SAN FRANCISCO.

100 FARMS —AT— Proberta, Tehama Co., Cal. —THE— ROSENTHAL COLONY

In the Upper Sacramento Valley.

9,000 Acres Subdivided into 100 Farms of 20 to 160 Acres.

SUITABLE FOR GRAPES, APPLES, Pears, Plums, Prunes, Apricots, Pomegranates, Figs, Quinces, Olives, Nectarines, Nuts, all Berries, Currants, small Grain, Corn, all kinds of Vegetables, Alfalfa, Broom Corn, Sorghum, Sugar Beets, Cotton Jute, Ramie Silk, Live Stock. TERMS: One-third cash, one-third in two years, one-third in 3 years with interest on deferred payment at 8%.

We will plant 20 acre tracts in this colony to Fruit and Vines, and care for same until full bearing on easy terms.

For further information apply to

C. H. STREET & CO., Successors to the IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA. 415 MONTGOMERY ST., S. F., CAL.

Fairbanks'

STANDARD SCALES, Grain Trucks, Bag Holders, Pinch Bars, Coffee Mills, Grocers Supplies and Fittings, Asbestos Packed Cocks, Standard Thermometers, Golden Gate Windmills, Send for Illustrated List to FAIRBANKS & HUTCHINSON, 519 Market Street, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

BURNS AND SCALDS are cured by St. Jacobs Oil used according to DIRECTIONS with each BOTTLE, PROMPTLY AND PERFECTLY. AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS EVERYWHERE. THE CHAS. A. VOGELER CO. BALTO. MD.

TO THE LADIES! Jacobs & Co. MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANTS' WEAR. 113 KEARNY STREET, S. F. Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

A. BERNARD & CO. Manufacturers of Woolen & Hair Mattresses of every description. 154 New Montgomery St., S.F.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

Welcome! Welcome!

Our city was never visited by a more welcome company or one better calculated to speak to our advantage than the visiting teachers who will be here this week attending the annual gathering of the National Educational Association. They are from everywhere, and will obtain and carry home with them an intelligent judgment of our country and our people. Teachers and friends are invited to call at our store any day during their visit—not to buy, but to acquaint themselves with the manner of doing business in a place where nearly all kinds of goods are carried under one roof. Provisions of all kinds, Canned and Dried Fruit, Grain, Feed, Flour and Meals, Woodenware, Tinware, Hardware, Crockery, Glassware, Cutlery, Brooms, Brushes, Baskets, Dry Goods, Notions, Stationery, Ammunition, and miscellaneous goods—all sold at one low price for cash only. The full list of these articles and prices is now ready to hand to all who call, or send to all who write for it (free) to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O

Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute

Staff of Eighteen Experienced and Skillful Physicians and Surgeons.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY.—Patients treated here or at their homes. Many treated at home, through correspondence, as successfully as if here in person. Come and see us, or send ten cents in stamps for our "Invalids' Guide-Book," which gives all particulars. Address: WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

OVER WORKED Women.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and overworked women generally, Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative cordials. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. The treatment of many thousands of such cases, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute has afforded a large experience in adapting remedies for their cure, and is the result of this vast experience. For internal congestion, inflammation and ulceration, it is a specific. It is a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, exhaustion, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

PRICE $1.00, OR SIX BOTTLES FOR $5.00.

Send 10 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large Treatise on Diseases of Women (100 pages, paper-covered). Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets LITTLE LIVER PILLS. SIZE OF PELLETS. ANTI-BILIOUS and CATHARTIC.

SICK HEADACHE, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, and Bilious Attacks, promptly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. 25 cents a vial, by Druggists.

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE — DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD USE DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE. ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made. THE COW BRAND. DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

Paine's Celery Compound

CURES Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, and all affections of the Kidneys.

WEAK NERVES. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.
SATURDAY ..... SEPTEMBER 1, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 12. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 1, 1888. WHOLE NO. 931.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

ANTON VON WERNER.

The Justly-Celebrated Painter Laureate o the German Empire.

England is proud of its soldiers and statesmen; no nation is more eager to perpetuate their memory by the art of the painter or the silent witness of "storied urn and animated bust." Great portrait painters, therefore, are, and always have been, with us. But it must be admitted that contemporary scenes of permanent national and historical interest have hardly, in our own day at least, found a brush worthy to give to posterity the actual manner of their happening as a possession forever. We have great portraits of Gladstone, of Disraeli, of Bright, of Salisbury. But we have no great pictures of Gladstone, of Disraeli, of Bright, of Salisbury, as they appeared in a single great historic scene in Parliament or before the people. Germany is more fortunate. The events of the current half-century have made the national self-consciousness of Germany so real and so intense as to be a potent source of artistic inspiration. There have been moments in recent German history of such supreme and concentrated interest that their interpretation by pencil and brush offered for a great German artist a dignus vindice nodus. The great artist arose in the person of Anton von Werner. Thousands of Englishmen know his pictures who have hardly or never heard his name. Every one knows the "Proclamation of the First Emperor of Germany at Versailles" and the Berlin Congress group. But these are only two of many canvases by the German painter laureate, which are of great and abiding European interest and of no less artistic merit.

I was, therefore, most grateful to a young English pupil of the famous painter who, during my recent visit to Berlin, introduced me to Anton von Werner, and took me one evening to call upon him at his house in the Potsdamer strasse. We entered a large salon with somewhat somber paneling, and illumined by a subdued light. It had the air at once of a reception room and a study. Portfolios, engravings, were crowded on stands, or lay open on chairs and divans. A good many paintings, one could see at a glance, adorned the walls. At the further end of the room, bending over an open desk, which was littered with papers, sat, in the shaded light of a reading lamp, the great painter himself. He rose to greet us cordially, without effusiveness, but without the least self-conscious reserve. A hearty, kindly German greeting it was, and a German grasp of the hand. A man who looked his age (forty-five), but no more; a delightful type of face, delicate in its outline, yet strongly masculine, with the steady, fearless look, and the twinkle of old German humor which form such a strong combination when we find them in blue Teutonic eyes. His full beard and hair are still yellow, and are disorderly, not with the artificial unkemptness of the lackadaisical artist, but the natural carelessness of the hard worker. He wore an old gray tweed suit and old comfortable slippers, which, I think, may have been down at the heels. In less time than it takes to write it we were quite "vertraut" together.—Pall Mall Gazette.

BACHELORS IN LOVE.

A Clever Picture Drawn, of Course, by an Artful Woman.

A bachelor in love loses a dimple or two, grows melancholy, reads poetry and looks at the moon; is nervous about his necktie and his gloves; consults his aunt as to what kind of hats girls most admire; changes the style of his frequently, but is never satisfied.

His countenance is as changeable as his necktie. Now she has smiled, and he is radiant; now she has frowned, and he wears a furrowed brow, and looks in at the apothecary's windows and thinks of laudanum.

If his laundress sends him home a bosom not quite perfect, it grieves him to the heart's core. He passes the most golden-haired damsel without a glance. He goes no more to see burlesques. His bouquets are anonymously sent to the object of his adoration. He is hourly afraid of revealing his condition of heart, but makes it manifest unconsciously to all beholders. Fiendish passions dwell in his breast. He hears that she has been at the opera with young Welkens, and wants to kill him. He says fiercely in society that he approves of dueling, and that, should he call a man out, he would aim at his heart.

He would like very much to work hard and make a fortune, but he can not do it. He horrifies his employer by entering as an item in the ledger, "1,000 Angels." He is seen to clasp his brows suddenly at dinner-time, to the horror of the waiter, who, believing him to be choking, beats him on the back and offers him water. He goes surreptitiously to so-called clairvoyants, who describe "a light-complected young lady, sir, and her face turned your way, and her heart in her hand, if only you can get over the cross betwixt you."

He thinks the cross is young Welkens, and grows dangerous.

Suddenly you see the bachelor in love amazingly altered. He smiles, looks happy, eats comfortably, and nods to his old enemy Welkens. Then you may be sure that he has somewhere in his bosom a certain carte de visite, and that the original of the picture has blushingly advised him to "ask Pa."—N. Y. Ledger.

—Augustus Popinjay (to his country cousin) who is on a visit to the family)—"Do you object to the weed, Bella?" Bella—"No, but pa does. He's at 'em with the hoe early and late."—Burlington Free Press.

Everybody to His Taste.

Scientist—I want a gallon of doubly refined glucose, water and extract of hickory bark.

Grocer—Yes, sir; I have only two gallons left in stock. Won't you take both?

"No; one will do."

"Here you are, sir."

A MOMENT LATER.

Ordinary Citizen—Have you any pure, genuine syrup made by pretty girls in the maple groves of Ohio or Vermont?

Grocer—Yes, sir; got just one gallon left.—Omaha World.

Not the Hatter's Fault.

First Chappy—Say, look ere, old fell. Don't you think my hat is—aw—two devilish small for my head!

Second Chappy—Aw—no—. It cawn't be. It must be your head—because you know it's an English hat, you know.—Judge.

They Came to an Agreement.

Of course the editors and printers were exempt from conscription. This was a great thing, and the newspaper offices always had all the men they needed, and some that were mere hangers on. Once there was a prospect of serious trouble. The printers struck for higher wages.

Several editors put their heads together, and decided upon the cutest plan imaginable. They visited the conscript officer in a body, stated the case, and requested him to conscript the printers, as they were out of a job, and therefore no longer entitled to exemption.

The conscript officer had a long head, and he knew his duty.

"Gentlemen," he said, "you are undoubtedly right. I will go to work at once, and as you are here I will conscript you to begin with."

"Conscript us!" exclaimed the editors.

"Certainly. As you have no printers, you can't get out your papers. So you no longer belong to the exempted class."

This was an unexpected result. The editors asked time for a consultation with their printers. All differences were harmoniously arranged, and in less than fifteen minutes the editors were turning out copy for their employes, who had again taken their stand at their cases.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Smart Man.

Mrs. Mose Schaumburg—I don't like dot new country house vat you bought.

Mr. Mose Schaumburg—Vy not—vat's de madder mit dot house?

"It vas too far away dot railroad depot out."

"Dot ish choost vere you vas a fool, I tell you Rebecca. Ven our friends comes to make us a visit dey vill arrive at our house an hour later, and dey vill have to go avay an hour sooner. Don't you see, now, Rebecca, vy I didn't puy a house near dot railroad depot?"—Texas Siftings.

An Important Distinction.

"Willie," said his mother, with stern reproof in her tone, "I shall certainly have to punish you this time. You promised me faithfully you would never play again with that bad boy, Sammy Shackleford, and here you've been playing ball with him for an hour."

"No, I hain't, mamma!" protested Willie, red faced, breathless and vehement, "I've been playin' against him. He was on the other side."—Chicago Tribune.

Playing in Hard Luck.

Brown—You don't look very happy, Dumley.

Dumley—I've just lost $2 on a bet.

Brown—That's bad.

Dumley—Yes. I had an awful attack of rheumatism this morning and that young squirt of a doctor, Tipsalve, bet me $2 he could cure it before night, and (bitterly) I'll be hanged if he didn't win the money.—New York Sun.

A Bad Break.

Mrs. Caution's nephew has been made a choir boy in a New England church. She got the news in a letter from her sister, and at the breakfast table she remarked: "Jimmy's got a place at last." "What is he doing?" asked Mr. Caution. "He's—he's—let's see," and she took out the letter. "Sally says he is going to do chores in a church."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Older the Negative, Newer the Picture.

"I am going to have some new lithographs," remarked the greatest American actress. "Ah," replied her unsophisticated friend, "you have been sitting for a new photograph, then?" "No, indeed," replied the greatest American actress, "I have just found one I sat for twenty-two years ago."—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

His Lung Trouble.

Brown—You don't look well lately, Robinson.

Robinson—No; I can't sleep at night on account of lung trouble.

Brown—Nonsense; your lungs are all right!

Robinson—Yes, mine are; the trouble is with the baby's.—Life.

Evidence of It.

Jones—I consider Brown a very able man.

Smith—You do?

J.—Yes, sir.

S.—Why, man, he never opens his mouth in company!

J.—That's where he shows his ability.—Boston Courier.

Just in Time.

"Ah, dear!" he said, tenderly, "how can I leave you and go to my cheerless and lonely abode?" "If you make haste, George," replied the girl, with a glance at the clock, "you can go by the last car."—New York Dispatch.

Proof Positive.

Woman (kindly)—You say you are very hungry, my poor man; that you have had but little to eat for several days?

Tramp (very earnestly)—Madam, there is a wooden tooth pick that has lasted me nearly three weeks.—The Epoch.

And Yet We Kick at It.

"Gentleness cannot be kicked into a cow," says an exchange. Neither can tenderness, or there wouldn't be so much tough beef steak.—Dansville Breeze.

A QUEER BED-FELLOW.

Chilled by the Cold, a Bull-Snake Crowds into a Prospector's Bed.

I am encamped in the deep forests on the carboniferous hills of Young County. My temporary shelter is a small cabin of a single room, and of cracks, through which many things can creep. This morning, an hour or two before dawn, a heavy rain-storm descended upon us, and the air grew quite chilly. While lying in my comfortable little bed, listening to the howling of the wind and pouring of the rain, I felt a strange movement in the bed. It was not the movement of an earthquake, or of a whale, or of an elephant; yet I immediately recognized it as a movement of a very moving nature—one that might involve terrible consequences. I felt it again, and it was not only in the bed, but under cover with me. Just at this juncture I felt some thing very slick and of a somewhat cold nature move against my hand. The time for action evidently had come, and I did not deliberate what action to perform, but performed at once. With one fell bound I vacated that bed and landed in the mid-hole of the floor with such a thump that the cabin shook all over. In a moment my lamp was burning, and, seizing a club, I approached the bed and cautiously pulled down the cover. There lay a snake beautifully coiled up, with his head somewhat uplifted, licking out his tongue at me. He was about four feet long. He looked at me and I looked at him. He made no motion as if he would run and neither did I. I thought I spied a gentle and confiding expression in his eye, as if he said: "You need not be alarmed; if you will not hurt me neither will I hurt you. If you will be my friend, I will be yours." I threw my club aside. I perceived that my bedfellow was a bullsnake, almost precisely like the rattlesnake in markings, but in no other respect like that monster. He is without fangs, without poison, and of a gentle, playful and amiable nature. He grows eight or nine feet long. I said unto him that he and I should be friends; that he might not only dwell with me in my cabin, but, that if he liked, he could sleep with me in my bed. Having said that much I carefully spread the cover over him and told him to sleep on. And he did so. But I did not go back to bed to him. I sat by my table and read a few chapters of St. Paul, who, of all authors, is my favorite. How logical, how forceful, how grand and ennobling he is!

On returning from breakfast I brought one of my fellow-workmen with me to show him my friend and bed-fellow. When I drew back the cover there he lay, perfectly quiet and content, but licking out his tongue. My fellow-workman was dumbfounded. I then put the cover back again. A few moments ago my snake descended from the bed in a quiet way, as if entirely at home, and is still probably somewhere in the house. He was probably engaged in hunting mice when the storm came up, and becoming chilled in the changed atmosphere, he found my bed pleasant and concluded to sleep with me.—Texas Cor. Forest and Stream.

FINE TABLE-WARE.

A Dealer Explains Why It Can Be Sold at Low Prices.

"Only seven dollars for that dinner service?"

"Yes, sir."

"It must be of some common make, then," replied the reporter. "Will the print wear out?"

"No, sir. That is what we call underglaze decoration, and the print will last on as long as the dish lasts. The plate is made and baked. Then the printing is put on and the plate is dipped into the glaze and baked again, so you see the print can not rub off. Some of the finest China is decorated in this way, because the rich colors can not be put on the China over the glaze. The rich royal blue that decorates the Crown Derby, Royal Dresden and other valuable china is put on under the glaze. Then the glaze is put on and the other decorations are put on over the glaze."

"Is it fashionable to have dinner services plain or decorated?"

"Decorated English goods and English patterns are the styles now."

"What is the proper style for glass table-ware?"

"Table-ware is all richly cut and is decorated in shades. Some glass-ware is opalescent and some have ivory bisque grounds. Other glasses are etched and cut; some of these are very beautiful, having all kinds of designs on them. Customers very often furnish their own decorations. A prominent yachtsman of this city recently had his glasses all engraved with marine scenes. Every piece had a different scene. They look very handsome. Glass globes, lamp-shades, decanters, water pitchers and ornaments are all made of the opalescent glass. The effect of this ware on a table is very pretty. That is, of course, if a good quality of goods is procured. The different rays of light that are reflected from it are very pleasing. It is not expensive, but one can spend a large amount of money in purchasing unique designs and perfect glasses.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

—During the forty-eight years of the existence of the Foreign Board of the Presbyterian church 453 missionaries have been engaged in the missions east and west of the Mississippi river. The Foreign Board has expended $520,000, the free gift of the churches, besides $520,000 entrusted to it by the Government for educational work.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

A Charitable Society Which Is Doing Much Good in the East.

As for the kind of work accomplished by this remarkable sisterhood, it is too varied and extensive to be recorded in detail. There are Tens that visit the sick, Tens that supply the hospitals and homes with flowers, Tens that support foreign missionaries, Tens that endow beds in hospitals, Tens that provide pleasant country homes for deserving poor and Tens that simply "bridle their tongue," and "endeavor to live in charity with all men," all "In His name."

The cash girls in Macy's are known as "the little doorkeepers," whose unique motto is "Lord, keep Thou the door of my mouth," and there are Heartsease Tens of little children who cultivate pansies for the hospitals. There are the Quiet Tens in schools, and the Courteous Tens, who claim that "King's Daughters should ever display the manners of the court;" the Old Maids' Tens of helpful, unappropriated blessings, and the Old Ladies' Ten, whose youngest member is more than eighty years old, and whose oldest member donned the silver cross on her one hundredth birthday; the Faithful Tens in guilds; the Lock-up-Tens in deaf mutes' homes; and even in the Homes for Incurables, the patients waiting for death have organized themselves into a Considerate Ten, who shall endeavor to make their nurses' labor as light as possible.

One of the Young Ladies' Tens, in Boston, sent loads of sand to the tenement yards in the city for poor children to play in, and the graduating class of a fashionable boarding school, calling themselves the Continuing Ten, have adopted a little girl, and intend to provide for her and give her all the advantages of culture and education which they have received. Musical Tens of the most cultured and gifted ladies in the city devote their talents to the entertainment of the poor, and, also, through their use in charitable concerts, accumulate funds for the support of various missions, thus bringing into use the talent of the wealthy for the benefit of the poor.

One of the King's Daughters, Mrs. R. H. Townsend, of New York, has built an annex to Bellevue Hospital, called the Cottage, at an expense of twelve thousand dollars, and other Daughters of the King have furnished it with all the luxurious appointments found in their own beautiful homes. Carved in the stone wall is the legend, "In His Name," and when Bishop Potter laid the corner stone of the building the trowel was decorated with a purple ribbon, while the keys of the building when delivered to the city commissioners, were tied with the royal color. The center of the organization is Miss G. H. Libbey, 18 Washington Place, New York City.—N. Y. Sun.

CAPUCHIN CATACOMBS.

Will Carleton Describes the Unique Mortuary Place of Palermo.

The most unique curiosity of this city is the Capuchin Catacombs. You enter a plain hall hung with a multitude of small paintings. These are pictorial tragedies, telling the form in which death came to those within. But this was only the ante-room to the great assembly room of death. A mild, innocent-looking, barefooted monk led us into a long corridor, with strong shelves upon each side—arranged not unlike the berths of a steamer, only there were five or six of them in a tier. Upon these shelves lay in full view the skeletons of the departed—many of them clothed as if they were still living. Some of them had white kid gloves upon their hands; one woman was dressed in pink satin, and the poor, grinning skull wore a white lace cap, surrounded by a wreath of pink artificial roses. Two brothers embraced in death; sometimes a whole family were thus reunited.

Often there were suspended near the bodies their photographs while living. There never could be given to mankind a plainer lesson concerning the vanity of all earthly objects. The beauty of womanhood smiled within a few inches of the shrunken bones that formed its doleful wreckage. Handsome and intellectual man-faces apologized for the poor, idiotic-looking remains that lay behind them. A lovely girl of eighteen and a grand-faced old lady of eighty were among the life-and-death contrasts. Many of the dead stood upright, in niches—their own grim statues. Some bowed their blighted heads, as if in deep reflection; others were kneeling as in prayer. Sometimes a group of cronies sat together, as if talking over old times. None but could easily be found by inquiring friends, for each and every one bore a tablet containing his name and the date of his death.

Cardinals in their faded red robes were there; Bishops by the score; lords and ladies by the hundred; and a King and Queen were not wanting to rule over this silent and peaceful colony of the grave. Through not only one but many of these awful corridors our bright-faced monk led us—for there are eight thousand guests in this solemn hostelry. In the middle of the floors were great piles of coffins, heaped up like luggage at a railway station. Some of them were windowed with glass, and showed plainly their ghastly occupants. Other charitably sealed their contents from the eye. This community of the dead years is not without its little ones. In many places lie the skeletons of children, dressed in dainty baby clothes. In fact, there is no lesson in the great text-book of mortality that this unique cemetery does not teach.—Will Carleton, in Philadelphia Press.

BEFORE THE CAMERA.

How Some Customers Try the Patience of the Photographers.

"It would amuse you to see the absurd actions of people who come here to have their pictures taken," said a Bowery photographer the other day. "That is, it would for a year or two. You might get a little wearied by some of their tricks after you had seen them repeated a few thousand times with very little variation. The only way I keep the top of my head fastened together when I am annoyed by some particularly stupid thing, is by trying to remember that it isn't the same person who keeps doing it over and over.

"For instance, here are three 'proofs' which I have just received by mail from a very particular customer. She writes to me to finish from the darkest one of the three. Now, can you tell which is the darkest one?"

The reporter said he couldn't and didn't see how any body could.

"Of course not," said the artist. "The trouble is that the proofs fade rapidly. They are not intended to keep. The lady probably wrote the order and laid the proofs one side for awhile before sealing and sending the letter. The darkest one lay on top in a bright light and speedily faded. Now, when I ask her again, as I will have to, it is most likely that she can't tell which one she picked out, for there isn't much difference between them.

"That is a trifle, though. People come here for their pictures, and after they are seated begin to ask whether they are dressed properly, or whether their hair ought not to be differently arranged. Nine times out of ten a change would be a decided improvement, but unless it is really necessary, or unless it is some specially important job, I don't tell them so. It would only take more of my time and trouble, and I can't afford it; my prices are too low. The higher-priced operators can afford it, and that is one of the principal reasons why they take better pictures than I do. Another reason is, that they have customers who are better posted. I have poorer customers, who are not educated on the subject, and who probably have not had the experience.

"Every body knows that the color of the dress has much to do with the effectiveness of a picture, though we can not yet reproduce colors with a camera, but very few know what colors are best to wear. Much depends on the complexion and on the style of picture that is wanted. Black silk or velvet will take very dark, naturally. Cardinal red takes dark and scarlet takes light. Navy blue, dark green, maroon and seal brown will take dark, while lighter browns and greens and gray and purple will take light, and lavender, yellow and rose color take nearly white. A cream white takes better than a pure white. Children ought almost always to wear light colors when sitting for a photograph.

"That brings up the greatest trouble of a photograph gallery, the taking of children's likenesses. I am very successful for two reasons. First, I like children and they like me, so I can fix their attention. Secondly, I will allow but one person in the operating room with the child. You would be surprised, though, to see how many people generally come with the baby when it is brought here. Most people seem to make it a kind of holiday party. The little one's sisters and cousins and aunts, as well as both parents and one or two grandparents, will often be of the party. Each one has much to say about it, and generally each one tries to soothe the infant and prepare its nerves for an ordeal, as if it were to have a tooth pulled or something like that. The consequence is that the young one usually gets frightened and gives a good deal of trouble, whereas if only one person had come the child would be interested but not excited, and the work would be easy."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

WILL CALL AGAIN.

How Impecunious Detroiters Try to Obtain Their Daily Cud.

"What's tobacco worth to-day?" asked a well-dressed stranger, as he entered the office of a wholesale dealer yesterday.

"What brand?"

The stranger named over three or or four, and the dealer gave him the prices.

"I shall pay cash," said the stranger.

"I'm giving you bottom figures, sir."

"But suppose I double the order?"

"It would be the same."

"Well, let's see," continued the man, as he helped himself to a liberal chew from one of the jars. "I guess those figures are pretty fair. I've got to run up-town, and on my way back I'll leave you an order."

"Very well, sir."

"You didn't seem very enthusiastic over his custom," observed a reporter who heard and saw all.

"He's a g."

"How?"

"Why, he was out of tobacco, had no change with him, and dropped in here simply to get a chew."

"Do you know him?"

"No, but I sized him up in a minute. We have that game played on us every day."

"And don't you kick?"

"Oh, no. It's a trifling loss, and if you exposed one of these frauds he'd be your bitter enemy. Better give 'em a 'chaw' and let 'em go on feeling how smart they are."—Detroit Free Press.

—God gives every bird its food, but does not throw it into the nest.

GENERAL.

—An Atchison (Kas.) woman did a big washing the other day, cooked dinner and whipped a child, and then fell dead from over-exertion.

—George Davis, a colored man of Chicago, will allow a barrel of flour to fall on his head and shoulders from a distance of three feet for two dollars a drop.

—Kansas has a genuine philanthropist. Stephen Richardson, of Harvey County, has planted three miles of peach trees in the public highway for the benefit of travelers.

—Electric rifles are the latest. Instead of the ordinary percussion firing device a dry chloride of silver battery and a primary coil will, so it was lately stated before the American institute, fire the rifle thirty-five thousand times without recharging.

—A Maine newspaper says the price of lumber in New York regulates the price of stumpage in Maine. If spruce is worth $15 a thousand, the Maine man figures this way: Lumber $15 in New York; freight and insurance, $2 a thousand; rafting and milling, $4; cutting and hauling, $4. This leaves $4, and that would be the price of stumpage. If lumber is worth $16 stumping is $5 in Maine.

—The white wild goose of the Pacific slope is a remarkable bird. An editor of a Riverside paper says that he once killed one. It took four bullets from a 44-caliber Sharp's rifle to bring the bird down at a range of seventy-five yards. Each cartridge contains ninety-two grains of powder. All the bullets passed through the heart of the goose and lodged in the skin on the opposite side from where they went in. An attempt was made to boil this bird. "Strange to say, the bullets were cooked to a jelly before any impression was made on the goose."

—Warren B. Johnson, of Webster, Mass., thinks that he can make an interesting book by writing an account of his journey across the continent. On June 1, 1882, being then sixty-two years old, he started for Webster, from Eureka City, Cal., with a horse, a wagon load of provisions, and a cow. In his journey of three thousand miles he took his time, stopping wherever the grandeur of the Rockies or the beauties of the scenery attracted, sometimes staying for ten days in one camp. Two years later, on June 14 1884 he reached his New England home, having seen considerably more of this country than most men who have gone over the same ground.

FEMININE FASHIONS.

Revival of Foot-Trimmings on Skirts and the Rage for Ribbons.

Foot-trimmings on skirts are revived, and occasionally a quite deep flounce is seen. A pretty arrangement for soft silks is a series of pinked-out ruffles about four inches deep, gathered very full and overlapped about half the depth of each, the fluffy ruche thus formed being nearly a quarter of a yard deep. Sometimes there are only three or four ruffles thus arranged, or there may be three or four plaitings laid in double or triple box-plaits. The object is to give a fuller effect at the bottom of the skirt, which is certainly much more becoming than an untrimmed skirt, unless it be very full. The broken outline afforded by a full ruching or plaiting always enhances the beauty of a pretty foot as it peeps in and out, while it softens the defects and apparently diminishes the size of one that needs such advantage.

There seems to be almost a fureur for the use of moire ribbon in narrow widths—from one to two inches. Draperies of plain net—black, white or cream—are striped lengthwise with these narrow ribbons, and several rows are sewed around the bottom, thus forming a planded trimming. Skirts of soft woolen fabrics have several rows—from three to five—around the foot of the skirt, and a similar garniture often finishes the drapery, particularly if it be one of the ample, carelessly-looped style made of plain breadths and draped with reference to the figure of the wearer rather than with a "set" effect. These ribbons are also disposed in perpendicular, horizontal and diagonal lines to form panels or fronts on skirts, and also in trellis and ladder effects.—Demorest's Monthly.

American Skipping Ropes.

"Skipping ropes were formerly imported from France," said a dealer to a reporter, "but now they are nearly all of domestic manufacture. Canada turns out a limited number, owing to the fact that jute is cheaper there; but, on the other hand, the wooden handles can be produced in this country at a considerably less cost than they are able to make them across the line. Different houses have started in to manufacture them in this city at various times, but it was considerable effort to get their hands broken into their work, and at the end of the season they generally found that they could have bought the ropes as cheap as they were able to make them. They are sold all over the country, and range in price from twenty cents to $1.75 apiece."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Judged by His Clothes.

Judge—The witness swears you stole his coat, and have it on. I must, therefore, find you guilty.

Tramp—Oh, well, your honor, if you're going to judge a man by the clothes he wears I s'pose I'll have to give in.—Detroit Free Press.

WEDDINGS IN CHINA.

Strange Customs and Laws Prevailing in All Parts of the Empire.

The instances of marriage where the Chinese bride brings her husband a dot are not so frequent as formerly. Almost always the wooer in reality buys his wife from her father. In addition to this the parents of the girl receive from those of her affianced more or less valuable presents of rice, wine and silks. Children are often betrothed at a very early age. Sometimes friends agree even before the birth of children that in case they are of different sexes on reaching the proper age they shall be married. Such agreements are religiously regarded.

On her part the maiden rises early on her wedding morning, bathes while a band of musicians outside discourse alleged music, clothes herself, breakfasts on food sent by her intended parents-in-law. She only takes a few bites, however, as it is considered a good omen for her to eat abstemiously. Before she takes her place in the sedan chair it is her duty, in company with her mother, to weep copiously. This part of the ceremony is frequently observed even in more civilized lands. The procession then proceeds to the house of the bride, where the groom awaits her at the gate.

It is an unwritten law that every one, poor and rich alike, must remain standing when a wedding procession passes, as it was recently the universal custom in Italy to remove one's hat as a funeral went by. In China even a Mandarin must observe this custom, and if he meets the poorest wedding train, even though he be on horseback, it is his duty to dismount and show this honor to the young couple.

Among strange customs and laws that concern marriage in China may be mentioned the regulation that persons bearing the same name are not allowed to marry. So it comes that the children of two brothers can not wed, while it is perfectly permissible for the children of two sisters or of a brother and sister to marry if so inclined. It is considered dishonorable to marry a widow. This only happens among the very poor classes—with men, because it costs less to marry a widow than a maiden; with the women in order to receive a permanent means of support.—Chicago Herald.

COCTUS FRUIT FLAVORS.

A Pittsburgh Chemist Pronounces Them a Concoction of Ethers.

"And so you think you are eating strawberry ice cream, do you?" said a well-known chemist to a famished gentleman, who was trying to fill up on frozen corn-starch and milk, in a Smithfield street restaurant.

"Well, I think I am," was the doubtful answer. "Do you imagine I am tasteless, or that that part of my digestive apparatus has been badly perverted? I am open to conviction, however. The flavor of this cream is strawberry, or I am easily deceived."

"No, it is not strawberry," replied the chemist, "and I know what I am talking about. I will admit that it has a strawberry taste, and is another striking example of the ingenuity of Yankee manufacturers, who could palm off on an unsuspecting public wooden nutmegs. I will explain what I mean.

"During the summer raspberry, strawberry, peach and other fruit flavors are made directly from the ripe fruit or the seed. In the winter, when berries and fruit are hard to get and the seeds are insignificant, flavoring extracts are made by deftly mixing together several kinds of ethers to make each one. Men are so successful in the selection that the taste is hit exactly; so that during the winter most of the fruit flavors sold at soda fountains and in ice creams are a concoction of ethers."

"Then they are unhealthy?" ejaculated the alarmed companion of the chemist.

"O, no, not necessarily. They are really not injurious, and, in fact, harmless in their effect on the system. Manufacturers are very careful not to allow the public to know this fact, because people would be afraid to use these flavors and business would suffer. Vanilla, orange and lemon extracts are made from the bean and rind of the fruit always. With these exceptions, in cold weather, all the fruit flavors are produced by mixing certain ethers."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Darning Rents in Clothes.

Very frequently a little boy's clothes get sadly torn, and the inexperienced mother does not know how to repair the mischief without making the garment unsightly. If ravelings of the goods are to be had, even a very bad rent can be made almost invisible. But if silk must be used, have it fine and the color of the goods, and you will need a fine needle. If the tear is ragged, put a bit of the goods under it, or of some other goods the same shade. Baste the goods around the rent so as to hold the edges smoothly; thread your needle with the silk, and put the knot on the under side. Commence at least one-fourth of an inch back, and run your needle with the smallest stitches to the same depth on the other side, taking care to keep the thread entirely out of sight. Now go back again, and so on, forward and back, until the rent is closed, taking care not to draw or expose the thread. Now dampen the work, slip a press-board under it, and lay a piece of cloth the color of the goods over it, and press with a warm iron. A press-board is one of the necessaries for the mother who makes her boys' clothes. Mine measures thirty six inches in length, one inch thick, 4½ inches wide at one end, three at the other, with both ends and the sides a little rounded. It is made of hard wood.—Woman's Work.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1.....1888

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES —AND— County Convention.

PURSUANT TO CALL THE DEMOCRATIC Central Committee of Inyo County met at Independence, August 21st, and arranged for the holding of a County Nominating Convention to assemble at INDEPENDENCE on

TUESDAY, September 25, 1888,

for the nomination of candidates for County Officers, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention. Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several Precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, Sept mber 8th,

in accordance with the following Apportionment based on the votes cast for the Democratic Nominee for State Controller at the Gubernatorial Election of 1886, a Delegate for each Precinct voting at said election, 1 for each 10 votes so cast, and 1 for each fraction over one half that number, as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 3 | George's Creek | 1 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Station | 2 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 6 | Keeler | 2 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 4 | Darwin | 3 |
| Fish Springs | 1 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 7 | Panamint | 1 |

Polls are to be open from 2 to 6 o'clock, p m., on Saturday, Sept 8th, at the following places and under charge of the following officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Inspector, David Olds; Judges, C A Wildasinn, C H Parsons. Old's House.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, John Blair; Judges, Geo Clarke, T Hutchinson.

STATION—Depot. Inspector, H A Man; Judges, McNally and Doby.

COTTONWOOD—N Gilbert's. Inspector, Scott Broder; Judges, S P Roberts.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, W G McCrosky; Judges, I P Yancy, W W Yandell.

POLETA—Storey's House at Switch. Inspector, Geo Story; Judges, Rube Merryman, — Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, S J McMurry; Judges, Dennis Hessian, Jack Mallane.

FISH SPRINGS—Hill's old Store. Inspector, Jas Conners; Judges, Jas Lane, D W Nerney.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, G W Brady; Judges, C S Swan, Thos Kelsoe.

GEORGE'S CREEK—Halfway House. Inspector, W I Hunter; Judges, Aaron Reynolds, H Hamilton.

KEYNOT—McDonough's Store. Inspector, Thomas McDonough.

CERRO GORDO—Boland's Store. Inspector, J Hertel; Judges, J Dunphy, Geo Wolf.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Chas Meysan; Judges, A Apple, J G Dodge.

KEELER—Barnes Hotel. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, John Morton, Tim Madden.

OLANCHA—Wm Walker's. Inspector, Wm Walker; Judges, W T Grant, Ed Walker.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, J C Eddy; Judges, John Wilson, Jeremiah Fitzgerald.

LOOKOUT—Store. Inspector, F Fitzgerald; Judges, W Smith.

PANAMINT—Store. Inspector, H G Chickering; Judges, Jas Wall, John Curran.

PRIMARY TEST—Are you a Democrat!

All Democratic Voters in Inyo County are requested to attend the Primaries and assist in the selection of Delegates to the Convention.

By order of County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary.
Dated, Aug 21, 1888 tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of, furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18 tf

PALACE SALOON,

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.

WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS

A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a FIRST CLASS RESORT.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

SECOND ANNUAL FAIR Agricultural District No. 18. STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstake s or a a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD BREDS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best Stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than three | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 15 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

Best stallion, any breed or age Association cup.
Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup.

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII.
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds, 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, wine | 5 00 |
| table | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 5 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibit in of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department,

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department,

CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| On satin and Japanese panels | 5 00 |
| Collect on of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf, two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall panel, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk on flannel | 2 00 |
| on linen | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| beach rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display hand knit work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, outline | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 3 in 5, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 3 in 5, to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year-olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $75.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

C. MULLOLLAND, Secretary. A. R. CONKLIN, President.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES AND CONVENTION.

AT A MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN Central Committee of Inyo county, held at Independence on the 10th day of August, 1888, it was ordered that a Republican County Convention be held in the Town of Independence, on to convene at 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the County and District offices to be filled at the General Election on TUESDAY, November 6th, 1888, also the appointment of a County Central Committee, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said Republican County Convention.

TUESDAY, September 18th, 1888,

The Apportionment of Delegates to said Convention is based upon the number of votes cast for the Republican nominee for Governor at the General Election in 1886—allowing 1 Delegate for each precinct, 1 for each 20 votes, and 1 for a fraction of 12 or more. The several precincts of the county are therefore entitled to representation as follows, to-wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 2 | George's Creek | 2 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Bishop Station | 1 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 4 | Keeler | 1 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 3 | Darwin | 1 |
| Fish Springs | 2 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 4 | Panamint | 1 |

comprising a Nominating Convention of 53 members.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates in accordance with the above apportionment will be held in the several precincts of Inyo county on

SATURDAY, September 8th, 1888,

Polls being open between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., of said day, at the places herein named, and under the direction of the following Primary Election Officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Blaisdell's Store, Inspector, F P Blaisdell; Judges, Thos E Jones, R Hilton.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, A Matlack; Judges, N C Young, W McLaren.

BISHOP STATION—School House. Inspector, J Peregrine; Judges, Jas G McNally, A Plumley.

COTTONWOOD—Inspector, W A Greenley; Judges, N Gilbert.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, J H Stoutenborough; Judges, M C Hall, A Friedline.

POLETA—A O Collins' House. Inspector, A O Collins; Judges, Thos Hughes, Geo Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, L M Newman; Judges, E M Crocker, A McDonald.

FISH SPRINGS—School House. Inspector, A J Wren; Judges, A McKellip, N E Conklin.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, Thos Parker; Judges, W F Matlack, J D Blair.

GEORGE'S CREEK—School House. Inspector, John Kispert; Judges, T B Scovil, John Meyer.

KEYNOT—Laskey Mill. Inspector, John Anton; Judges, Geo St. Clair.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Geo H Palmer; Judges, J J Stewart, M Castro.

CERRO GORDO—Store. Inspector, Wm Crapo; Judges, John Thomas, Fred Wallis.

KEELER—Boland Building. Inspector, John Yandell, Judges, E E Hall, W H Walker.

OLANCHA—A Walker's House. Inspector, A Walker; Judges, H Belows, A Brown.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, Chas Anthony; Judges, Jas McDonald, A J Gould.

LOOKOUT—Company Store. Inspector, J D Chanell; Judges, H P Livingston.

PANAMINT—Company Store. Inspector, E F Rowell; Judges, Wm Horne, — Bennett.

PRIMARY TEST—Are You a Republican, and will you support the Republican Nominees!

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Delegates or proxies be permitted a voice in the Convention unless actual residents and voters in the precincts represented; and we hereby earnestly recommend that the Convention adopt such a rule of qualification for its members.

It is urgently requested that all Republican voters in Inyo county, laying aside all past differences and uniting for the common good of the party, who in good faith intend to support the Republican nominees, shall assemble in their respective Precincts at the time named for primary meetings, and select delegates who will attend the Convention and truly represent their wishes, to the end that nominations may be fairly made and a ticket presented which shall command the united and enthusiastic support of all Republicans in the County.

By order of the Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H. HARDY, Secretary. aug18 1m

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,

District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,

County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM, APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,

C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,

Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

RENO MARBLE WORKS.

W. E. LINDSEY,

—Dealer in—

Gravestones, Monuments, Italian and American Marble, Etc.

—Agent for—

PENRYN AND SCOTCH GRANITE.

Virginia Street, Below Second,
Reno, Nevada.

oct 23-tf

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet, Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House No. 1. | To Mound House No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m. | 5 35 p. m. |
| Dayton | 10 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 a. m. | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Sels Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 10 a. m. |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m. | Lv. 6 50 a. m. |
| | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrive— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m. |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m. | 1 35 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 30 a. m. |
| Alvord | 2 00 p. m. | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m. | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar. 5 55 p. m. | Lv. 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. C. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

Customers supplied on all points of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County, of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

In quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.

Orders Promptly Attended To.

F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.

COUNTY SURVEYOR

—AND—

U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.

—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We are uncompromisingly in favor of the American System of Protection. We protest against its destruction, proposed by the President and his party,—National Republican Platform.

GRAND REPUBLICAN RALLY!

HARRISON & MORTON.

The Republican State Central Committee having determined upon opening the Republican Campaign in California on

Saturday, Sept. 1, 1888,

the County Committee of Inyo has arranged for the holding of Local Meetings on that evening, at the following places, to be addressed by the gentlemen named;

BISHOP CREEK,
A. R. CONKLIN.

INDEPENDENCE,
S. G. GREGG.

LONE PINE,
C. W. CRAIG.

The Republicans of the several towns are requested to make necessary arrangements for holding such meetings.

By order of Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H. HARDY, Secty. aug25

GRAND DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

HON. R. B. TERRY,

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR

CONGRESS,

Will address the People of Inyo County, on the Political Issues of the Day at following times and places:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| BISHOP CREEK | September | 7, 1888 |
| INDEPENDENCE | " | 8, " |
| BIG PINE | " | 9, " |
| LONE PINE | " | 10, " |

Local Democrats will please arrange for the Meetings.

By order County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary. aug25

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2.50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Boggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

A. R. CONKLIN,

Attorney-at-Law,
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.

INDEPENDENCE

PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE

SHAVING SALOON

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 1 . . . . . 1888

Greenly and Broder are shipping some rich ore from Deep Spring.

Tom Webb came in last Wednesday from Long Valley. He reports cattle doing well.

Johnnie Reddy came in from Darwin Thursday. He is visiting friends at Independence.

Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz got back home on Wednesday from a visit of several weeks at San Francisco.

A good many Bishop Creek horsemen are training horses and will compete in the races at Independence.

Mr. J. B. Chamberlain came down from Bishop Creek at the beginning of the week. He stayed in town only about one day.

The interest in the tariff and free trade is very great, for the reason chiefly that this may determine who shall have the offices.

Mr. John Fiehman, of Keeler, was up at Big Pine this week. It is said that John will soon have a partner in his business at Keeler.

Judge Hannah has got back home from his trip to the north. He visited Oregon and Washington Territory and had a very pleasant tour.

Annual membership tickets for Agricultural District No. 18, can be had from the Secretary. Price $5. These tickets entitle the holder to all the privileges of membership for one year.

The Agricultural Association ball at Independence last year was the finest affair of the kind that had ever been seen in the county. No doubt the association Ball this year will be better than the last.

Parties who cannot attend the Fair in person may send goods for exhibition. By addressing packages to the Secretary at Independence goods will be properly exhibited and returned to the owners after the Fair is over.

The examination of Dennis O'Keefe, charged with an attempt to shoot Joseph Agosta at Cerro Gordo, was finished near midnight last Monday. The case was taken under advisement and judgment will be given in a few days.

For many weeks past a good deal of interest has been manifested to know if Mr. J. J. Stewart, of Lone Pine, would be a candidate for the nomination for County Clerk. The question can now be answered:—He will. See his announcement.

There are many people at Reno, Carson and Virginia City, who are much interested in Owens Valley. They ought to attend the Fair at Independence, beginning September 17th. That would give an opportunity to see for themselves what the country can produce.

General Keating, of Virginia City, arrived at Independence a week ago last Thursday. He made a tour of the valley. He said here that he could not have believed any one who would have told him half what should be said in praise of Owens Valley. He went north last Saturday but expects to return here again.

Mr. Webb H. Walker, of Olancha, is a candidate for the nomination of County Treasurer. Webb was a candidate two years ago, and came very near being elected. A change of about a dozen votes would have elected him. This year it is tolerably certain that republicans will stick to their ticket better than they have ever before done in the county.

The Eureka Con. Mining Company, of Nevada, is reported to be in for a big lawsuit. It is reported that the United States Attorney-General has been requested by his superiors in office to institute civil suit against this company to recove $3,670,741. This sum, it is alleged, represents the value of charcoal and cord wood manufactured from cedar, pine and mahogany timber unlawfully cut from public mineral lands in Nevada.

The new sawmill at Big Pine is turning out excellent lumber. It is not only good in quality, but it is cut well. Carpenters find that this lumber works equal to imported lumber. The mill is in a very fine body of timber. Rustic, ceiling and flooring; all kinds of tongued and grooved stuff and surfaced lumber are manufactured. Lumber will be delivered on the cars at Alvord. The mill is doing a good business. Orders are filled promptly. See an advertisement in another column.

Superintendent Keating, of the Savage and Hale and Norcross mines at Virginia City, who was here lately, has given a most favorable report of Owens Valley to the Enterprise; he says it is the ranchers paradise. When General Keating was here at Independence he expressed equal surprise and pleasure at the extent of Owens Valley; the excellence of its soil, and the beauty of the climate and scenery. He regretted deeply not having visited the Valley long ago and promised to be a frequent visitor in future.

Judge Hannah says that up in Washington Territory deer are taken with a frying-pan; fish are raked out of the water with a hand rake, and farmers have trained their hogs to dig post holes. Slivers of pitch pine are fastened to a frying pan; the hunters go out in the night where deer frequent; kindle the pitch and the deer are attracted by the light and come so close that they are easily killed. The fish are driven close to shore by porpoise and can be raked up like hay. A crowbar is driven into the ground; some grain dropped into the hole and the hogs root as deep as necessary for the post holes. The Judge can always back up his stories with good proof.

Big Pine looks like another place. The air of unthrift and slovenliness has gone, and gone forever. It is surprising the change that can be made in a brief time. The new hotel is a model of neatness within and without. Down stairs and up the rooms are large; the hallways are wide; bright carpets and nice furniture make the house cheerful. Other improvements will be made as quick as possible. Among the rest will be the removal of rickety, tumble-down old buildings and the erection of a large livery stable. With such a comfortable hotel in a lovely and healthful locality; fine trout streams and good hunting near by; and easy access to some of the grandest scenery in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, Big Pine is sure to become a favorite resort with tourists and those who want a few weeks rest and recreation in very pleasant surroundings. See the advertisement of the Crocker Brothers.

A Brave Girl.

Some days ago a party were camped in Shepherd's canyon. Miss Emma Duval was walking along the stream not far from the camp. She saw a large rattlesnake on the opposite side of the stream; went back to the camp; got an ax; returned; took off her shoes and stockings; waded the stream and cut the snake in two with the ax. Tam O'Shanter would have given his plush breeks to have seen Miss Duval wade the stream, not to speak of killing the snake.

Date for Execution Fixed.

Last Thursday W. T. C. Elliott was brought into Court and date was fixed for his execution. On being asked if he had anything to say why a date should not be fixed for his execution, he quietly said he was an innocent man. Judge Hannah then fixed September 21st as the day for his execution, between the hours of 12 and 4 p. m. Elliott had a very serious and careworn expression. No bill of exceptions or appeal to the Supreme Court has yet been filed, but doubtless will be.

Mineral Resources.

Advance sheets of the report on "Mineral Resources of the United States" for 1887 have been received. The report shows the enormous value of the mineral products and industries of the country. The remarkable growth of the iron and coal industries is chiefly due to the duties imposed upon foreign products.

Resume of the values of the metallic and non-metallic mineral substances produced in the United States in 1887.

| | |
|---|---|
| Metals | $250,419,283 |
| Mineral substances named in the foregoing table | 281,637,062 |
| | 532,056,345 |
| Estimated value of mineral products unspecified | 6,000,000 |
| Grand total | 538,056,345 |

The great army of workmen engaged in producing these enormous values will have something to say about opening the home markets to the productions of other nations. The working man with a family to support cares more about what pay he will get for his labor than about beautiful theories.

Ball at Big Pine.

A very large gathering attended the party at Crocker's Hotel, at Big Pine, on Tuesday evening. From Independence many went by train and others by private conveyance. Everybody had a desire to give the meeting the form of a hearty welcome to Owens Valley of the Crocker family, and for this reason old and young attended. The welcome given the visitors was not the mere formal reception usual at hotels, but a real kindly welcome, such as makes one feel at home. A large platform was built under large trees at the end of the hotel. This was surrounded by a light frame covered with white cloth. Colored lanterns and chandeliers were suspended from the branches of the trees overhead. It was a beautiful ballroom. No hall inside a building could have been so pleasant for a ball on a warm summer night. Dancing continued till day began to dawn; with the exception of time enough to enjoy a very excellent supper about midnight. If the Crockers are as well satisfied with their visitors as these are with the reception given them, nothing more is wanting in that direction to secure lasting friendship on both sides.

A Later Date Preferred.

"Our farmers and stock raisers are much disappointed at the action of the Directors of the 18th Agricultural District, in appointing the Annual Fair at Independence at so early a date—nearly a month earlier than last year. Our farmers are in the midst of their harvest and will not get through in time to attend the Fair, as many intended to do this year. Had it been fixed for October there would have been quite a cavalcade from Bridgeport, many ladies having arranged to go, and several head of fine stock would have been exhibited. As it is too late now to remedy the matter, we trust the Directors will next year fix the date some later in the season, so there will be no reason why the farmers, who are the backbone and muscle of such exhibitions, should not take an interest in it."—Chronicle Union.

We can assure the people of Mono that if they had made known that a later date for holding the Fair would have suited them better, the Directors would have met their wishes in the matter. It is the wish and intent of the Directors to do everything in connection with the management of the Association to satisfy the people of the entire District. The reason for holding the Fair earlier this year than last, was to give an opportunity for fruit display. If the Fair should be held in October the finer varieties of peaches, nectarines and other delicate fruits would be gone. But this will not prevent fixing a later date next year, if that will suit the people of Mono better.

Train on Fire.

Last Wednesday there were seven flat cars loaded with wood in the down train on the C&C road. A passenger coach was on the rear end of the train. When the train pulled out from Alvord a strong head wind was blowing. Part of the wood on the seven cars was cedar. A cinder from the engine was blown among the fuzzy bark of the cedar on the foremost car of the seven. The strong wind raised the spark to a flame, and in two or three minutes the whole car load of wood was blazing fiercely. The engine was stopped and the train men ran back. By this time a second car was on fire. The two burning cars were detached from the cars behind them, and the engine was then put in motion and took the burning cars away from the remainder of the train. The wind was blowing so strong as to drive the flames away from the cars in front. When distance enough was gained to secure the safety of the rear end of the train the engine was again stopped; the burning cars uncoupled from those in front and the engine again put in motion. When sufficient distance was gained to secure safety an effort was made to connect the burning cars with the cars in front by a wire rope. This was very difficult to do, as both cars were now completely enveloped in flames and the heat was intense. Conductor Eppstein succeeded in hooking on to the cars, but in doing so was scorched severely. The engine was again put in motion and an effort was made to throw the two burning cars from the track. This failed, as the frame work of the cars was so much burned as soon to fall in pieces. The engine was then detached and sent to the next station for help. Section foreman Brady and his men were hurried back as quickly as possible to the scene of the fire. Some new ties and rails were quickly put in place and the train proceeded on its way. The accident caused a delay of five hours. The loss by the fire falls upon the Railroad Company.

Statistics credit Inyo county with a gain in population during 1887 of 551.

Last Monday Judge Hannah gave a decision in a case involving title to property of the late Duncan Campbell, at Big Pine. The action was brought by Mrs. Walker, of Big Pine. The case was dismissed from Court. This confirms the title of the heir of Duncan Campbell and ends all further proceedings in the matter. A. R. Conklin was the attorney for the Campbell estate.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL!

AGRICULTURAL District No. 18.

—AT—

INDEPENDENCE

Friday, Sept. 21, 1888.

—THE FINEST—

BALL

OF THE YEAR.

Music by a Large

ORCHESTRA.

Tickets - - - $2.00

The Ball will be held in the large Hall of the Association.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates.

☞Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sep1-tf

A THOUGHT TO THIS!

The profusion and regularity with which orders pour in upon us with every mail, has a meaning—a meaning that is significant. It shows that there must be something in our goods our prices or our methods which attracts. As it has the power of interesting others, WHY MAY IT NOT INTEREST YOU?

SEND FOR IT

We believe we can safely announce September 1st, as the date of the appearance of our FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK. It will be a large sized volume of over 100 pages, with over 1000 illustrations, and handsomely printed. It is full of facts, figures and information, and is both valuable and interesting. We are confident that those who send for a copy will bear us out in the assertion that is absolutely the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi river. Sent to any address FREE. Send in your names now. Regular customers who do not receive the catalogue will please notify us.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

Below are several lines of goods which we can recommend as being of good value. All are in first-class condition and are a part of our regular stock.

A Model Boot at a nominal price is Hale's Full Stock Calf Boot at $2.50. It is made of first class tannery calfskin with sole leather innersole and counter. Sizes 6 to 10.

Ladies White Merino Vests and Drawers, silk-bound, cat-stitch, 44 cents each.

Ladies Unbleached Balbriggan Hose, full regular made and extra long. Price 16 2-3 cents per pair.

The Stanley Hat for gentlemen is an exceptionally good article. It is a soft hat, has a raw edge and cord band, and comes in black, wine and nutria colors. It holds its shape well and gives good wear.

Gents all-wool knit Undershirts and Drawers—Made especially for us, HALE'S brand being on every garment. The goods are heavy weight, cut full size and both shirt and drawers are ribbed at the bottom. Best value on the coast. Price $1.50 per garment. Colors, scarlet and natural grey.

Boys mudium brown mixed cassimere suits, well made and trimmed. Ages 10 to 18 Price $6.50.

Childrens Knee Pants Suits in dark fancy broken plaid suitings. Ages 4 to 12. Price $2.50.

Figured Lawns in neat designs at 4 cents per yard.

English Challis—a soft and airy fabric with a cream white ground and figured and geometrical designs. It contains a small percentage of wool for drapery purposes. Price 12 yards for $1. Samples sent upon application.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,

BIG PINE.

—DEALERS IN—

ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.

Surfaced lumber of all kinds.

All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER,

sep1-tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

SALE OF FAIR PRIVILEGES.

The exclusive privileges of keeping a bar at race track.

Ice cream stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Confectionery stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Lunch stand at Race Track and Pavilion.

Selling pools on the Fair Grounds.

All during the Annual Fair of the 18th Agricultural District, commencing September 17th, 1888, at Independence, will be sold at the reading room of the Norman House, Independence, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, September 10, 1888. Said sales will be made at public auction to the highest bidder. Terms of sale, cash at sale.

C. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

By order of Directors.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,

10 Spruce Street, New York City,

For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS

Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Republican County Covention.

W. H. WALKER.
Olancha.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

J. J. STEWART,
Lone Pine.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for nomination for Sheriff of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

MARTIN MEE.
Darwin, August 18, 1888.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.

THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain. Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

an25tf

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Self embroidered bust, finished with peony lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information on about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Mens Womens and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates.

☞Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. L. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

ABSURDITIES OF LIFE.

Foolish Things of Which No Sensible Person Would Be Guilty.

It is absurd

Not to go to bed when you are sleepy because it is not a certain hour.

To stand in water up to your knees fishing for trout, when you can buy them in a clean, dry market.

Men committing suicide to get rid of a short life and its evils, which must necessarily terminate in a few years, and thus entering upon one which is to last forever, and the evils of which they do not seem to take the wisest method of avoiding.

People of exquisite sensibility, who can not bear to see an animal put to death, showing the utmost attention to the variety and abundance of their tables.

To buy a horse from a near relation and believe every word he says in praise of the animal he is desirous to dispose of.

The perpetual struggle of affectation to pass for an oddity.

To send your son to travel into foreign countries ignorant of the history, constitution and manners and language of his own.

To tell a person from whom you solicit a loan of money that you are in want of it.

That any man should despair of success in a world so overstocked with fools.

That when a man is indebted to you for a large sum of money, and has no means in his possession, or in prospect of paying you, it being utterly impossible for him to earn it by his own industry, you immure him in prison.

To be passionate in your family and expect them to be placid.

To take offense at the address or carriage of any man with whose mind and conduct we are unacquainted.

To laugh at the appearance and manners of foreigners, to whom we must appear equally ridiculous.

To occupy the attention of a large company by the recital of an occurrance interesting to yourself alone.—Labor World.

First Railroad in Morocco.

The Belgian Embassy which recently visited the Sultan of Morocco at Mequinez presented that barbaric monarch with the first railroad ever seen in his dominions. It was only a miniature affair, which had been brought overland from Tangier on the backs of mules and camels; but a railroad's a railroad for a' that, and it was with the liveliest interest that the Sultan witnessed the first trip of the tiny locomotive and its one car on the track laid for them outside the walls of the capital. From such a small beginning it is hoped that in time a Morocco railway system may be developed.—Illustrated Weekly.

—A good many of the people who are settling in Canada are those who have neglected to do any settling over here.—Yonkers Statesman.

—Nothing will make a healthy man tired quicker than reading a long list of rules for good health.—Martha's Vineyard Herald.

—Reticence, concentration and continuity are characteristics which can not influence one part of a man's life without influencing the rest as well.

FORTUNE ENTERS A TAILOR SHOP.

Had shoemakers always followed the old adage "stick to your last," and had tailors likewise "stuck to the Goose," the world would have lost many a statesman, philosopher, inventor, author and poet. The unsatisfied mind of man has, however, in every age and country, caused them to break away from their arduous and often ill-paid toil, to successfully embark in trade or speculation and sometimes in science, art or literature. F. W. Lebin, a Swedish tailor, of Chicago, is one of these. Some six weeks ago he was told by a friend of the great drawings soon to take place in the Louisana State Lottery and invested in a small way. His venture proved successful, his name being attached to one of the capital prizes. To confirm the report that Mr. Lebin held a winning ticket in the June drawing of this enterprise, a Traveler representative called on him at his residence, 977 Northwestern avenue. He was found, surrounded by his wife and six bright, healthy looking children, sitting upon his table in true tailor style, busy with his needle. In answer to an inquiry as to the truth of the report of his good fortune he replied: "Yes, I held 1-20 of ticket No. 71,678 in the Louisana State Lottery, which drew on June 12 the second capital prize of $100,000. As soon as I learned of my good fortune I forwarded my ticket to the managers at New Orleans and the money came at once by express. I took it from the express office directly to the bank where it is still deposited. I am going to buy me a lot somewhere in the suburbs of the city where I can have a garden and a grass plot for the children to play on, build me a nice little home and try and enjoy life. I shall keep right along working at my trade and send my children to school. With a home of my own and no rent to pay I may soon save enough from my earnings to go into business for myself. Mr. Lebin is but thirty years of age and the start his luck gives him, coupled with his own industry and good sense will doubtless make him one day a leading business man of Chicago.—Chicago (Ills.) Arkansaw Traveler, July 7.

A monster Permesan cheese was one of the amusing features of the Bologna University fetes held last week. The students of Parma presented their Bologna brethren with a cheese weighing 160 pounds, and entirely covered with Latin inscriptions worked in macaroni. This was to be washed down by a huge tunof Berberr wine given by the students of Turin.

SHAKESPEARE SAID:

"Put money in thy purse." Were the sage living in this age, he would say: "Put money in the PACIFIC BANK," as it is the oldest chartered commercial bank on the Pacific Coast, being incorporated over twenty-five years ago.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"When Thou art wroth then Thou dost hide Thy face;
Thou drawest around Thee a thick curtain of shadows.
Then the Earth grows cold and the Heavens are dismayed;
They tremble, and the sound thereof is the sound of thunder;
They weep, and their tears are outpoured in the rain;
They sigh, and the wild winds are the voice of their sighing;
The flowers die, the fruitful fields languish and turn pale;
The old men and the little children go unto their appointed place
When Thou withdrawest Thy light, O Sun!

Say, what art Thou, O Thou matchless Splendor?
Who set Thee on high, O Thou flaming Terror?
When didst Thou begin and when is the day of thy ending?
Thou art the raiment of the living Spirit.
None did place Thee on high, for Thou wast the Beginning.
Thou shalt not be ended when Thy children are forgotten;
Nay, Thou shalt never end, for Thy hours are eternal.
Thou sittest on high within Thy golden house and measurest out the centuries.
O Father of Life! O dark dispelling Sun!"

He ceased this solemn chant, which, though it seems a poor enough thing after going through my mill, is really beautiful and impressive in the original; and then, after a moment's pause, he glanced up toward the funnel sloped opening in the dome and added:

"O Sun, descend upon Thine Altar."

As he spoke a wonderful and beautiful thing happened. Down from on high flashed a splendid living ray of light, cleaving the twilight like a sword of fire. Full upon the closed petals it fell and ran shimmering down their golden sides, and then the glorious flower opened as though beneath the bright influence. Slowly it opened, and as the great petals fell wide and revealed the golden altar on which the fire ever burns, the priests blew a blast upon the trumpets, and from all the people there rose a shout of praise that beat against the domed roof and came echoing down the marble walls. And now the flower altar was open, and the sunlight fell full upon the tongue of sacred flame and beat it down, so that it wavered, sank, and vanished into the hollow recesses whence it rose. As it vanished, the mellow notes of the trumpets roiled out once more. Again the old priest flung up his hands and called aloud:

"We sacrifice to Thee, O Sun."

Once more I caught Nyleptha's eye; it was fixed upon the brazen flooring.

"Look out," I said aloud; and as I said it, I saw Agon bend forward and touch something on the altar. As he did so, the great white sea of faces around us turned red and then white again, and a deep breath went up like a universal sigh. Nyleptha leaned forward and with an involuntary movement covered her eyes with her hand. Sorais turned and whispered to the officer of the royal body guard, and then with a rending sound the whole of the orazen flooring slid from before our feet, and there in its place was suddenly revealed a smooth marble shaft terminating in a most awful raging furnace beneath the altar, big enough and hot enough to heat the iron stern post of a man of war.

With a cry of terror we sprang backward, all except the wretched Alphonse, who was paralyzed with fear and would have fallen into the fiery furnace which had been prepared for us, had not Sir Henry caught him in his strong hand as he was vanishing and dragged him back.

Instantly there arose the most fearful hubbub, and we four got back to back, Alphonse dodging frantically round our little circle in attempt to take shelter under our legs. We all had our revolvers on—for though we had been politely disarmed of our guns on leaving the palace, of course these people did not know what a revolver was. Umslopogaas, too, had his ax, of which no effort had been made to deprive him, and now he whirled it round his head and sent his piercing Zulu war shout echoing up the marble walls in fine defiant fashion. Next second the priests, baffled of their prey, had drawn swords from beneath their white robes and were leaping on us like hounds upon a stag at bay. I saw that, dangerous as action might be, we must act or be lost; so, as the first man came bounding along—and a great tall fellow he was—I sent a heavy revolver ball through him, and down he fell at the mouth of the shaft, and slid, shrieking frantically, into the fiery gulf that had been prepared for us.

I sent a heavy revolver ball through him.

Whether it was his cries, or the to them awful sound and effect of the pistol shot, or what, I know not, but the other priests halted, paralyzed and dismayed, and before they could come on again Sorais had called out something, and we, together with the two queens and most of the courtiers, were being surrounded with a wall of armed men. In a moment it was done, and still the priests hesitated, and the people hung in the balance like a herd of startled buck, as it were, making no sign one way or the other.

The last yell of the burning priest had died away, the fire had finished him, and a great silence fell upon the place.

Then the high priest Agon turned, and his face was as the face of a devil. "Let the sacrifice be sacrificed," he cried to the queens. "Has not sacrilege enough been done by these strangers, and would ye, as queens, throw the cloak of your majesty over evil doers? Are not the creatures sacred to the Sun dead? and is not a priest of the Sun also dead, but now slain by the magic of these strangers, who come as the winds out of heaven, whence we know not, and who are what we know not? Beware, O queens, how ye tamper with the great majesty of the God, even before his high altar. There is a power that is more than your power; there is a justice that is higher than your justice. Beware how ye lift an impious hand against it. Let the sacrifice be sacrificed, O queens."

Then Sorais made answer, in her deep, quiet tones, that always seemed to me to have a suspicion of mockery about them, however serious the theme: "Oh, Agon, thou hast spoken according to thy desire, and thou hast spoken truth. But it is thou who wouldst lift an impious hand against the justice of thy God. Bethink thee the mid day sacrifice is accomplished; the Sun hath claimed his priest as a sacrifice."

This was a novel idea, and the people applauded it.

"Bethink thee, what are these men? They are strangers found floating on the bosom of a lake. Who brought them here? How came they there? How know ye that they also are not servants of the Sun? Is this the hospitality that ye would have our nation show to those whom chance brings to them, to throw them to the flames? Shame on ye! shame on ye! What is hospitality? To receive the stranger and show him favor. To bind up his wounds, and find a pillow for his head and food for him to eat. But thy pillow is the fiery furnace, and thy food the hot savor of the flame. Shame on thee, I say!"

She paused a little to watch the effect of her speech upon the multitude, and seeing that it was favorable, changed her tone from one of remonstrance to one of command.

"Ho! place there," she cried, "place, I say: make way for the queens, and those whom the queens cover with their 'kaf' (mantle)."

"And if I refuse, O queen?" said Agon between his teeth.

"Then will I cut a path with my guards," was the proud answer; "ay, even in the presence of the sanctuary, and through the bodies of thy priests."

Agon turned livid with baffled fury. He glanced at the people as though meditating an appeal to them, but saw clearly that their sympathies were all the other way. The Zu-Vendi are a very curious and sociable people, and great as was their sense of the enormity that we had committed in shooting the sacred hippopotami, they did not like the idea of the only real live strangers they had seen or heard of being consigned to a fiery furnace, thereby putting an end forever to their chance of extracting knowledge and information from and gossiping about us. Agon saw this and hesitated, and then for the first time Nyleptha spoke in her soft sweet voice.

"Bethink thee, Agon," she said, "as my sister queen hath said, these men may also be servants of the Sun. For themselves they cannot speak, for their tongues are tied. Let the matter be adjourned till such time as they have learned our language. Who can be condemned without a hearing? When these men can plead for themselves, then it will be time to put them to the proof."

Here was a clever loophole of escape, and the vindictive old priest took it, little as he liked it.

"So be it, O queens," he said. "Let the men go in peace, and when they have learned our tongue then let them speak. And I, even I, will make humble supplication at the altar lest pestilence fall on the land by cause of the sacrilege."

These words were received with a murmur of applause, and in another minute we were marching out of the temple surrounded by the royal guards.

But it was not till long afterward that we learned the exact substance of what had passed, and how hardly our lives had been wrung out of the cruel gripe of the Zu-Vendi priesthood, in the face of which even the queens were practically powerless. Had it not been for their strenuous efforts to protect us we should have been slain even before we set foot in the Temple of the Sun. The attempt to drop us bodily into the fiery pit as an offering was a last artifice to attain this end when several others quite unsuspected by us had already failed.

CHAPTER XV.

SORAIS' SONG.

After our escape from Agon and his pious crew we returned to our quarters in the palace and had a very good time. The two queens, the nobles and the people vied with each other in doing us honor and showering gifts upon us. As for that painful little incident of the hippopotami it sank into oblivion, where we were quite content to have it. Every day deputations and individuals waited on us to examine our guns and clothing, our chain shirts and our instruments, especially our watches, with which they were much delighted. In short, we became quite the rage, so much so that some of the fashionable young swells among the Zu-Vendi began to copy the cut of some of our clothes, notably Sir Henry's shooting jacket. One day, indeed, a deputation waited on us and, as usual, Good donned his full dress uniform for the occasion. This deputation seemed somehow to be of a different class to those who generally came to visit us. They were little, insignificant looking men of an excessively polite, not to say servile, demeanor, and their attention appeared to be chiefly taken up with observing the details of Good's full dress uniform, of which they took copious notes and measurements. Good was much flattered at the time, not suspecting that he had to deal with the six leading tailors of Milosis. A fortnight afterwards, however, when on attending court as usual he had the pleasure of seeing some seven or eight Zu-Vendi "mashers" arrayed in all the glory of a very fair imitation of his full dress uniform, he changed his mind. I shall never forget his face of astonishment and disgust. It was after this, chiefly in order to avoid remark, and also because our clothes were wearing out and had to be saved up, we resolved to adopt the native dress; and a very comfortable one we found it, though I am bound to say that I looked sufficiently ludicrous in it, and as for Alphonse! Only Umslopogaas would have none of these things; when his moocha was worn out the fierce old Zulu made him a new one, and went about unconcerned as grim and naked as his own battle ax.

Meanwhile we pursued our study of the language steadily and made very good progress. On the morning following our adventure in the temple three grave and reverend seigniors presented themselves armed with manuscript books, ink horns and feather pens and indicated that they had been sent to teach us, and, with the exception of Umslopogaas, we all buckled to with a will, doing four hours a day. As for Umslopogaas he would have none of that either. He did not wish to learn that "woman's talk," not he, and when one of the teachers advanced on him with a book and an ink horn and waved them before him in a mild, persuasive way, much as a church warden invitingly shakes the offertory bag under the nose of a rich but niggardly parishioner, he sprang up with a fierce oath and flashed Inkosi-kaas before the eyes of our learned friend, and there was an end of the attempt to teach him Zu-Vendi.

Thus we spent our mornings in useful occupation, which grew more and more interesting as we proceeded, and the afternoons were given up to recreation. Sometimes we made trips, notably one to the gold mines and another to the marble quarries, both of which I wish I had space and time to describe, and sometimes we went out hunting buck with dogs trained for that purpose, and a very exciting sport it is, as the country is full of agricultural inclosures, and our horses were magnificent. This is not to be wondered at, seeing that the royal stables were at our command, in addition to which we had four splendid saddle horses given to us by Nyleptha.

In the evenings it was customary for Sir Henry, Good and myself to dine, or rather sup, with their majesties—not every night, indeed, but about three or four times a week, whenever they had not much company or the affairs of state would allow of it. And I am bound to say that those little suppers were quite the most charming things of their sort that I ever had to do with. How true is the saying that the very highest in rank are always the most simple and kindly. It is from your half and half sort of people that you get pomposity and vulgarity, the difference between the two being very much what one sees every day in England between the old, out at elbows, broken down county family and the overbearing, purse proud people who come and "take the place." I really think that Nyleptha's greatest charm is her sweet simplicity, and her kindly, genuine interest even in little things. She is the simplest woman I ever knew, and where her passions are not involved one of the sweetest; but she can look queenly enough when she likes and be as fierce as any savage, too.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

COPPER JEWELRY.

The Latest Wrinkle Affected by Fashionable Young Men.

A dealer in men's furnishings: "Copper is coming into fashion. What do I mean? Well, look at this lot of canes and umbrellas that I have just imported. You will notice that each one of them has a piece of ordinary copper wire around the handle.

"God and silver have become so common as heads for these articles that people demand something new for a change, and you see the result before you. Just now great simplicity is affected in this respect, but I haven't the slightest doubt that when this metal becomes popular, as I believe it will, we shall see very elaborate personal ornaments made of it.

"Indeed, I have often wondered why copper was not more generally used before this among civilized people as a material for ornaments. Its peculiar color harmonizes perfectly with dark materials and complexions, and it is comparatively free from oxidization. Barbarous? Not a bit of it! True, the aborigines made use of copper to adorn their persons, and in that they showed excellent judgment. In matters of taste we might frequently take a lesson from the savages."—Jewelers' Weekly.

Unavoidable Assets.

Stranger, just arrived in town (stepping into bank)—I am looking for Mr. Gawn. He's an old friend of mine. I supposed he was still cashier of this bank. Has he left your employ?

President of bank (looking dejectedly at empty safe)—Yes, sir. He has left our employ. That's about all he did leave.—Chicago Tribune.

Had Heard It Before.

"Maude," he said softly, as he pulled out the tremulo stop in his larynx, "will you marry me?"

"No," she answered with all the earnestness of sincere conviction.

He paused as if in deep thought, and then said:

"Strange, strange, how a simple word revives scenes and impressions that have passed away. I am almost certain that I have heard that before."—Merchant Traveler.

TWO WAYS. CHOOSE WHICH!

There are two usual ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not gripe the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Bitters, he can rely upon the restoration of a regular habit of body, consequently upon a renewal of a healthful tone in the intestinal canal. Besides healthfully relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action of the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

A fashion note says red is the prevailing color. The writer probably got this impression while at St. Louis or Chicago during the convention reason.

FROM FLORIDA.

FLEMING BROS.

Gentlemen:—Enclosed find one dollar for which send me the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS. The druggist here keeps the counterfeit, but I must have the genuine. We have been using your pills for thirty-three years and have found them better than any other. We use them in case of chills and fever, dysentary, bad colds, biliousness, headache and kindred troubles. We highly recommend them to all sufferers.

Floral City, Fla., Oct. 28th, 1887.

MRS. F. D. HAMBRICK.

In case of sick headache, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, and costiveness, DR. C. MCLANE'S Celebrated Liver PILLS never fail to give relief—for both sexes and all ages, they are compounded with regard to even the most delicate constitutions. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents. Prepared only by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. Look out for an imitation made in St. Louis which is often palmed off on innocent purchasers as ours.

Some people object to laying up treasures in heaven for fear that they will never be in position to prove property.

A PRIZE OF $100,000

Is a good thing to get, and the man who wins it by superior skill, or by an unexpected turn of Fortune's wheel, is to be congratulated. But he who escapes from the clutches of that dread monster, Consumption, and wins back health and happiness, is far more fortunate. The chances of winning $100,000 are small, but every consumptive may be absolutely sure of recovery, if he takes Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in time. For all scrofulous diseases (consumption is one of them), it is an unfailing remedy. All druggists.

Not less than fifty persons are said to have lost their lives in the Niagara Rapids. Shoot the rapids!

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50 cents; SOAP, 25 cents; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster.

TRULY A HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

240 BEDFORD AV., BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 12, 1884.

I have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for the last twenty years. They are truly a household remedy. If one of my children has a cold and wheezes, I put an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER on the chest and one between the shoulder blades. If any of the children have croupy coughs, or coughs of any kind, I place the plaster close up around the throat, the soothing effect is apparent almost always in two hours. If they have a disordered stomach, a plaster placed just below the chest bones makes digestion perfect in half a day. If there is any looseness of the bowels, accompanied by coldness of the skin, two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS applied over the stomach cure in from two to five hours. I notice particularly that these plasters never abraid the skin or cause the slightest irritation. From my own experience I know they never fail for rheumatism, pains in the back or lumbago.

C. MIDDLEBROOK.

We were not surprised when the hotel waiter said he was for old Tip every time.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR EXPENSES.

You can do it easily, and you will not have to deprive yourself of a single comfort; on the contrary, you will enjoy life more than ever. How can you accomplish this result? Easily. Cut down your doctor's bills. When you lose your appetite, and become bilious and constipated, and therefore low-spirited, don't rush off to the family physician for a prescription; or, on the other hand, wait until you are sick abed before doing anything at all, but just go to the druggists and for twenty-five cents get a supply of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Take them as directed, and our word for it, your unpleasant symptoms will disappear as if by magic. You will have no big doctor's bill to pay, and everybody interested (except the doctor) will feel happy.

Keep petticoats out of politics, exclaims the Rochester Union. We judge from this that the Union is opposed to Jeff Davis taking the stump for Cleveland.

THE THROAT.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" act directly on the organs of the voice. They have an extraordinary effect in all disorders of the Throat. Speakers and Singers find the Troches useful. Sold only in boxes.

A MODEL HOTEL.

Within the past few months the Baldwin Hotel has been refurnished and refitted throughout, making it the most elegant house in the country. Besides the convenience and elegance of its appointments, the table is pronounced by all to be unrivaled, making it in all, everything that can be desired. Our readers when visiting San Francisco should, by all means, stop at the Baldwin.

It has been discovered that a flea uses only one eye at a time. Moral: Keep a single eye to business, and you'll get there every time.

SHE COULDN'T UNDERSTAND IT.

"What in the world has happened to you since the last time I saw you?" asked one lady of another when they met on the street the other day; "I can't understand it. Then you were pale, haggard and low-spirited, and I remember you said that you hardly cared whether you lived or died. To-day you look ever so much younger, and its very evident from your beaming face that your low spirits have taken flight." "Yes, indeed," was the reply; "and shall I tell you what drove them away? It was Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was a martyr to functional derangement until I began taking the 'Prescription.' Now I am as well as I ever was in my life. No woman who suffers as I did ought to let an hour pass before procuring this wonderful remedy."

There is a doctor named Pitcher in Chicago. If this Pitcher goes to the well too often he will be broken. He should go to the sick.

CONSUMPTION, WASTING DISEASES

And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites: the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

Four useful and attractive book-marks will be sent to any address on receipt of 2c stamp by E. W. Hoyt & Co., Lowell, Mass., Prop's of HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE and RUBIFOAM.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

GET READY!

Now is the time you should prepare to lay in Winter supplies for remote places—'tis none too early. New Canned and Dried Fruits are coming to hand rapidly. Prices are low and quality fine. You must decide to buy supplies for cash if you intend to get ahead in the world. Sugar Peas of best quality are $1.15 to $1.30 per dozen, instead of $1.50 as last year. Best Corn is $1.25 to $1.50. Fruits are ten per cent lower, notwithstanding that Sugar is so much higher. Many things are lower and we shall be pleased to quote the closest price on everything to cash buyers. Our Eastern goods are coming to hand, too, at low freight rates. Rock Candy Syrup, the finest in the world, our own brand, and but little higher than the common grades; everybody praises it, and 'tis no wander. You ought to try a few kegs or cans. Ask for full list. Address Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

IRRIGATING PUMPS. STEAM ENGINES AND BOILERS, COMPLETE POWER AND PUMPING PLANTS. Low prices, prompt delivery. Write for Circulars.

BYRON JACKSON SAN FRANCISCO.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial! Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses' feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

R. H. McDONALD PRES'T. ESTABLISHED 1863. Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast. F. V. McDONALD, CASHIER.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00. SURPLUS $700,000.00. AV. RESOURCES $4,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1st, 1888.

PACIFIC BANK,

JULY 2d, 1888.

The usual Semi-Annual Dividend of 4 PER CENT.

Is now due and payable to shareholders of the Pacific Bank.

We take pleasure in informing our shareholders that the close of the first half of 1888 finds our institution in a most prosperous condition.

In addition to paying the regular dividend, we have been enabled to add another $50,000 to the Surplus Fund.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

MONROE GREENWOOD. WM. M. DEWOLF. C. H. STREET. (Formerly Sec'y & Land Officer of Immigration Asso.)

C. H. STREET & CO.

Successors to the IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.

415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F., CAL.

We are offering the following in 20, 40, 80 or 160 acre Farms.

| | | | ACRES. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rosenthal Colony. | Tehama County, | | 9,000 |
| Monte Vista " | Shasta | " | 15,000 |
| Dehesia " | " | " | 1,320 |
| Lutheran " | " | " | 6,000 |
| Shingletown " | " | " | 16,000 |
| Anderson " | " | " | 1,920 |
| Miramonte " | Kern | " | 2,640 |
| Greenwood " | San Luis Obispo | | 500 |
| Waukena " | Tulare | | 11,000 |
| Point Reys " | Marin | | 13,000 |

—ALSO—

Other lands for general farming, fruit growing or stock raising.

A HOME FOR EVERYBODY—SECURE A home in the country, while retaining your present residence, position and salary; 10, 20 or more acres of land, with or without a house, on the installment plan in one of our colonies; we will plant the same to your order with fruit trees or raisin grapes and will keep it in good condition until full bearing; these lands lie north or south of San Francisco, in the coast or interior counties, near or distant from railroad or town and vary in price. For full particulars inquire of C. H. STREET & CO., successors to the Immigration Association of California, 415 Montgomery street.

Send for particulars and full descriptions.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors 417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

ASTHMA CURED. German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, at Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

Flag Handkerchiefs

PURE SILK—75 CENTS.

Wolf & Frank

Shirts, Underwear, Neckwear, Hosiery, Suspenders, Collars, Cuffs, etc.

Shirts to Order.....$1.00.

323 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List mailed free.

To introduce, will send a pair of splendid (22x28 inch) 3-Colored IDEAL CRAYON-LITHO. PORTRAITS Cleveland-Thurman or Harrison-Morton with 1in. Oak Frame for order for 50c. GEO. P. HOGSON, Cincinnati, O. Send 2c. for List of Cameos complete. AGENTS WANTED.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, O. Trade Mark. I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists

SEAL OF North Carolina PLUG CUT SMOKING TOBACCO

Has made the Pipe a popular institution—being composed of a quality of leaf best adapted for smoking, and cut ready for immediate use, it is preferable to the best brands of light pressed plug. A single trial will convert every consumer—they will use no other.

* If your dealer does not keep it, he will get it for you, if he values your trade.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

TO THE LADIES! Jacobs & Co. MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANTS' WEAR. 113 KEARNY STREET, S. F. Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

GENERAL AGENTS WANTED! $100 to $500 a month easily made selling the Farmers' Friend, a bag holder and scales combined. Don't miss this. Send for circulars. E. E. BAIR, Manager Puget Sound Mfg. Co., Tacoma, Wash. Ter.

An Active Agent WANTED IN EACH COUNTY FOR THE Two BEST CAMPAIGN BOOKS in the market. Address, F. PENSON, Room 77, Flood Building, San Francisco.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 319

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE — DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD USE

DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE. ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.

THE COW BRAND. DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

Paine's Celery Compound

For The NERVOUS The DEBILITATED The AGED.

A NERVE TONIC. Celery and Coca, the prominent ingredients, are the best and safest Nerve Tonics. It strengthens and quiets the nervous system, curing Nervous Weakness, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, &c.

AN ALTERATIVE. It drives out the poisonous humors of the blood purifying and enriching it, and so overcoming those diseases resulting from impure or impoverished blood.

A LAXATIVE. Acting mildly but surely on the bowels it cures habitual constipation, and promotes a regular habit. It strengthens the stomach, and aids digestion.

A DIURETIC. In its composition the best and most active diuretics of the Materia Medica are combined scientifically with other effective remedies for diseases of the kidneys. It can be relied on to give quick relief and speedy cure.

Hundreds of testimonials have been received from persons who have used this remedy with remarkable benefit. Send for circulars, giving full particulars.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Prop's BURLINGTON, VT.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides, being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

OUR TRADE MARK. CHURCH & CO'S SODA. ON EVERY PACKAGE.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net. Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... SEPTEMBER 8, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 13. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 8, 1888. WHOLE NO. 932.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

COMMODORE KITTSON.

The Famous Pioneer Going to the Legislature on a Dog Sledge.

While at Pembina in 1850 Mr. Kittson established a line of "Pembina carts," which were used to convey furs from that country to Mendota on the Mississippi river and return with goods, taking the place of the voyageurs who had previous to that time transported these articles on their backs in small packs. The shipment of furs was for some twenty years made in those carts. The Pembina cart was a two-wheeled concern made entirely of wood and leather, without a particle of iron, and would carry about six hundred pounds. They cost about fifteen dollars, and were made by Canadians. In this cart was fastened an ox or Indian pony, geared with broad straps of buffalo hide. One driver could manage several of the carts by simply guiding the leading ox, the rest being tied to the tail of the preceding cart. No grease was ever used on the axles, and their creaking was frightful and on still days could be heard for miles. The drivers of these carts were swarthy, half or quarter breeds, usually clad in a suit of coarse blue cloth, with a profusion of brass buttons and a red sash around their waists, into which were stuck a couple of bowie knives.

The distance from Pembina to Mendota was about five hundred miles by the trail of those days. The caravan would generally start in June as soon as there was grass enough for the cattle, and the down trip would consume about forty days. At night the caravan would be drawn up in a circle and the men slept on the ground. Sentinels were posted to watch for Indians. The men subsisted on game and dried meat. Mr. Kittson made many trips with these trains, and while engaged with him J. J. Hill, now president of the Manitoba road, drove many of the trains. He was engaged in the trade for himself at one time and managed his own line of carts. Mr. Hill is a very dark, swarthy man, and as he dressed in buckskin leggins and a blue blouse, and wore a mass of black hair all over his face, old settlers say it was difficult to tell him from one of his half-breed drivers.

In 1859 Mr. Kittson was elected to the Territorial Legislature from Pembina, and made the trip to St. Paul in the middle of winter on snow sledges, the only means of travel in those days. He made the trip in sixteen days. His cariole was drawn by three fine dogs, harnessed tastefully, with jingling bells, and driven tandem. They could make a mile in 2:40 when put to their best speed. They usually traveled thirty or forty miles a day on a pound of pemmican. Mr. Kittson was of robust health, and enjoyed the hardships of those early days when he was laying the foundation of his great fortune.—N. Y. Times.

FEDERAL DEVELOPMENT.

A Type of Government of Which the United States is the Best.

A remarkable phenomenon of the last hundred years is the impetus that has been given to the development of federal institutions. There are to-day contemporaneously existing no less than eight distinct federal governments.

First and foremost is the United States of America, where we have an example of the Federal Union in the most perfect form yet attained. Then comes Switzerland, of less importance than the United States of America, but most nearly approaching it in perfection. Again we have the German Empire, that great factor in European politics, which is truly a Federal Union, but a cumbrous one and full of anomalies. Next in importance comes the Dominion of Canada, which is the only country forming a Federal Union and at the same time a colony. Lastly comes the Argentine Republic, Mexico and the States of Columbia and Venezuela.

This is a very remarkable list when we consider that never before the present century did more than two Federal Unions ever coexist, and that very rarely, and that even those unions were far from satisfying the true requirements of federation. Only three well-marked federations existed prior to the foundation of the United States of America. The first belongs to the ancient world, and to the second and third centuries B. C.—namely, the Achæan League—which is interesting, if for no other reason than that Hamilton, the master architect of the American constitution, longed to know more about it. The second is Swiss, which, taking its origin as the old League of Upper Germany in the thirteenth century, has lasted in varying forms to the present day. The third is the United Netherlands, which arose at the end of sixteenth century and lasted to the end of the eighteenth.

The task of any one who has to construct a federal government in the future will be comparatively easy, for the constitution of the United States of America will always stand as his model.—Westminister Review.

The Man Makes Himself.

Polite and civil manners are not lost even in the workshop; it pays to be pleasant and courteous at all times and in all places. Your employer will respect you for it, and your fellow-workmen will honor you. A man's surroundings lower him only as he lowers his surroundings. The blacksmith and moulder may be as true gentlemen as the clerk or the proprietor. Honest labor is no degrader. Man makes or mars his own character, and is alone responsible for the result.—Boston Budget.

LIFE IN HONDURAS.

Primitive People Who Believe in Throwing Off Work and Worry.

I do not need to tell you what an enormous difference there is between San Francisco and all its gayety and a place like this, where we live in a brush hut and eat corn-cakes (tortillas) and brown beans. Our camp is in the village of San Martin. Evidently there has been no change in the people's way of living since the time of—well, let us say Columbus, to be on the safe side. The women to-day grind the corn in the same little machine that they made use of then. A stone slab, on which the corn is placed after having been soaked in lye-water, and a stone rolling-pin form the whole outfit.

From morning till night one hears the noise of this crude working. When the corn, mixed with water, has become a dough, a pancake is made of it and baked over the fire. This is the tortilla. The corn is allowed to remain in the water so long that it gets entirely soaked through with lye, and then afterward it is not properly cleansed. The effect of lye on the system must be felt to be appreciated.

The baking ovens are half-round structures built of adobe, and all the cooking utensils are earthenware. Occasionally we have meat, and sometimes we shoot birds, but the natives around here live mainly on tortillas and beans. I have observed that the people are, for the most part, honest. One finds little downright stealing. They live in one place generation after generation. They are lazy; and if they have made money enough the first three days of the week to last them for the next four, you may be sure they will do no more work. They work when they must, never when they feel like it. The latter case is unknown. When they think it about time to stop work, they stop. Our American way of a day's work for a day's pay is something entirely and absolutely new to them. Clocks are unknown, but they tell the time accurately by the sun; and they do have a great deal of sun, as a rule 94 degrees in the huts at noon. Neither the men nor the women are good looking, but I understand that in some of the other departments as, for instance, Olancho (the republic of Honduras is divided into seven departments), the race stands higher both physically and intellectually. They do not seem to marry. They believe in the doctrine of free love. There are no priests for miles around. Of course, in Choluteca, the capital of this department, there are some, but their visits are few and far between.

The maxim of these people, and they live up to it, seems to be "manana" (to-morrow). Every thing is manana or, as we would put it in English: "Do not do to-day what you can put off till to-morrow."

However, if their manana only meant manana; but it generally means—some time before Christmas.

We are a novelty here, and we and every thing we brought with us attract general attention. Outside our hut lies a quantity of lumber, and before we rise in the morning the planks are filled by a curious crowd, desirous of catching the first glimpse of us. Our ablutions, which we have to make outside the house, attract special attention, and seem to be a source of astonishment to all.—George H. Meincke, in San Francisco Chronicle.

PRINTERS AS EDITORS.

From Amos Cumming's Speech at the Childs Dinner in Philadelphia.

The type-setter and the proof-reader become editors unconsciously. The evolution from the case into editorial life is as the evolution of a butterfly from a chrysalis. There is nothing marvelous about it. The true typo will develop into the true editor if time and opportunity serve. No careless or incompetent printer have ever become a competent editor. I have seen many a man taken from the case and thrown into an editorial room, and all but one became successful and accomplished reporters, editors and correspondents. The qualities that make a man an efficient compositor are the very qualities requisite to make him an influential editor. His ticket to newspaper prosperity is unpunched by collegiate education, but it is a ticket readily recognized by the people, and one that frequently passes its owner into wealth and fame. The born printer, Mr. Chairman, is a born editor. Some say that a new era is dawning in journalism, that men educated in collegiate schools are assuming the helm; that æsthetic methods are to be applied to the columns of the newspapers dotting the land like mushrooms in a sheep pasture, that a web of newspaper trusts is to cover the country and secure the patronage of the people, and that the old journals must follow suit or go to the wall. All this may go for what it is worth. The past shows that the people have recognized the printing office as the true school of journalism, and it will hold good in the future and as long as a typo union lives and flourishes on the free soil of the Republic.

Train Men to Be Honest.

If you examine into the history of rogues, you will find that they are as truly manufactured articles as any thing else, and it is just because our present (English) system of political economy gives so large a stimulus to that manufacture that you may know it to be a false one. We had better seek for a system which will develop honest men than for one which will deal cunningly with vagabonds. Let us reform our schools and we shall find little reform needed in our prisons.—From John Ruskin's "Unto This Last."

MINES AND MINING.

Some Valuable Information Imparted by a Veteran Assayer.

Since the beginning of time the base has been plentiful, the precious rare. The average ton of iron ore yields 1000 pounds of metal, of lead ore 600 pounds, of copper 200 pounds, of silver three pounds, and of gold less than one of the 32,000 ounces is shining gold. That order of things has never been reversed, yet with a gravity that well becomes the colossal proportions of their veracity (?), men speak of great ledges of precious metal ores that yield 60 per cent of pure silver, or something less of fine gold, and, with a degree of credulity less becoming, other men believe, and, believing, buy shares in those mines upon which rests the ends of the rainbow. The product of fabulously rich mines is usually marketed by mail, but the output of the mines that produce the world's supply of gold and silver is moved in long trains of cars. It is true that an occasional car load of selected ore yields thousands of dollars, but the train loads yields less than $500 per car, and possibly there is one car of the first to five train loads of the latter. Established truths are safe guides and should not be forgotten. Instance the following: The $400,000,000 of gold and silver produced by the Comstock mines of Nevada came from ores having an average value of about $48 per ton. The average value of Leadville ores, which have yielded $135,000,000, was and is less than $30 per ton. In Gilpin County, Colo., whence came more than $70,000,000, the average of all ores, is under $40 per ton, and the number of princely fortunes acquired in the three localities mentioned is a matter of history. Danger of overproduction. None at all. There has been an overproduction of paper mines, but the men who make money dealing in that species of property don't produce much money metal. There has been an overproduction of bonds and mortgages, also, and for some months they have formed a considerable percentage of our exports. The day may come when Europe will not care to exchange gold for large blocks of American securities, and if so the outward flow will be so strong that our present supply will shrink rapidly. No, there is no reason to fear an overproduction of gold and silver. It takes hard work to produce the money metals—very much harder work than to issue bonds, and most men like easy jobs. Presumably, that is the reason why the face value of bonds and mortgages, issued every year, exceeds the value of gold and silver taken from American mines.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CONTEST OF DIGITS.

Two Angry Tyrolese Youths Settle a Dispute in a Singular Way.

The spirit of emulation is one of the strongest in the human breast. In obedience to it men freely risk life, reputation, and even honor itself. A tourist in the Tyrol watched two hot-headed youths, who, having got into some dispute over money matters, had agreed to settle it by a resort to what, in that country, is called "fingerhackeln."

This game, or rather struggle, is a simple trial of strength of arm and biceps. The table is cleared, and the two competitors seated opposite each other, with the table between them, stretch out their right hands so as to let them meet in the center. Each, bending the middle finger in the shape of a hook, intwines it with that of his rival. At a given signal each begins to pull, the object being to drag the antagonist across the board.

Both were strapping young fellows, each eager to show off his prowess, and the fact that they were well-known adepts at it, rendered the struggle doubly interesting. Victory swayed hither and thither; the most prodigious efforts were made to wrest the slightest advantage from the foe, the subtlest ruses coming into play, the most impossible contortions of the body undergone; and yet the issue seemed as far from decision as at the very outset.

With set teeth, rigid features, and heaving breasts, the two young fellows tug and pull, and neither will give in. Their hands are of an angry red, the veins swollen to double their size, while drops of perspiration on their foreheads tell of their almost superhuman exertions.

Watching the face of one, the observer all at once saw a look of agonizing pain shoot across it. His hand dropped; the struggle was at an end. Poor fellow! his finger is maimed for life; for the principal muscle has been rent in the fierce struggle. His antagonist, by a sudden jerk—one of the numerous stratagems of fingerhackeln—has succeeded in unbending his adversary's finger.

One very frequently sees in the Tyrol a man with a finger bent nearly double on the right hand. If you ask the cause, you will invariably be told that it happened while "fingerhackeln."—Chicago News.

—"Yes," said the sweet girl graduate in a burst of confidence, "my education is now complete, but still I am not altogether happy. Mamma and papa, unfortunately, have a habit of pronouncing their words so badly and they know so little of polite literature and the sciences, you know, that it really is quite a hardship for me to associate with them."—Boston Transcript.

—A Maine baby has been christened Anna Versary, because she was born on the anniversary of the parents' marriage.

A MINUTE'S WORK.

Some of the Things That Can Be Done in Sixty Seconds.

"Well, well, don't fret: I'll be there in a minute."

But, my friend, a minute means a good deal, notwithstanding you effect to hold it of no consequence. Did you ever stop to think what may happen in a minute? No. Well, while you are murdering a minute for yourself and one for me, before you get ready to sit down to the business we have in hand, I will amuse you by telling you things that may happen meantime.

In a minute we shall be whirled around on the outside of the earth by its diurnal motion, a distance of thirteen miles. At the same time we shall have gone along with the earth, in its grand journey around the sun, 1,080 miles. Pretty quick traveling you say? Why, that is slow work compared with the rate of travel of that ray of light which just now reflected from that mirror made you wink. A minute ago that ray was 11,160,000 miles away.

In a minute, over all the world, about eighty new-born infants have each raised a wail of protest at the fates for thrusting existence upon them, while as many more human beings, weary with the struggle of life, have opened their lips to utter their last sigh.

In a minute the lowest sound your ear can catch has been made by 996 vibrations, while the highest tone reached you after making 2,228,000 vibrations.

In a minute an express train goes a mile, and a Cleveland street car 32 rods; the fastest trotting horse, 147 9-13 rods, and an average pedestrian of the genus homo has got over 16 rods.

In each minute in the United States, night and day, all the year round, twenty-four barrels of beer have to go down 12,096 throats, and 4,830 bushels of grain have come to bin.

If there were a box kept at the city hall in the city of Cleveland into which every minute a sum sufficient to pay the interest on the city debt had to be dropped, the sum so dropped each minute of the whole year would be eighty-seven cents.

How about the National finances? Well, sir, in the same way, each minute, night and day, by the official reports for the year 1886, the United States collected $639 and spent $461. $178 more than necessary. The interest on the public debt was $96 a minute, or just exactly equal to the amount of silver mined in that time.

Now, in the residue of figures I give, you will remember that they represent so much for every minute in the year. All the preceding figures should be so considered. And remember, also, that we are all the time, hereafter, talking about facts connected with the whole United States.

The telephone is used 595 times, the telegraph 136 times. Of tobacco, 925 pounds is raised, and part of it has been used in making 6,673 cigars, and some more of it has gone up in the smoke of 2,292 cigarettes.

But I am afraid that you will forget that we are talking about a minute, sixty seconds of time. No? Well, then, every minute 600 pounds of wool grow in this country, and we have to dig sixty-one tons of anthracite coal and 200 tons of bituminous coal, while of pig-iron we turn out twelve tons and of steel rails three tons.

In this minute you have kept me waiting fifteen kegs of nails have been made, twelve bales of cotton should have come from the fields and thirty-six bushels of grain gone into 149 gallons of spirits, while $66 in gold should have been dug out of the earth. In the same time the United States Mint turned out gold and silver coin to the value of $121, and forty-two acres of the public domain have been sold or given away.—Cleveland Press.

Hearts That Are Always Young.

A pleasant, cheerful, generous, charitable-minded woman is never old. Her heart is as young at sixty or seventy as it was at eighteen or twenty; and they who are old at sixty or seventy are not made old by time. They are made old by the ravages of passion, and feelings of an unsocial and ungenerous nature, which have cankered their minds, wrinkled their spirits and withered their souls. They are heartless, dull, cold, indifferent; they want the well-spring of youthful affection, which is always cheerful, always active, always engaged in some labor of love that is calculated to promote and distribute enjoyment. There is an old age of the heart that is possessed by many who have no suspicion that there is any thing old about them, and there is a youth which never grows old, a lover who is ever a boy, a Psyche who is ever a girl.—N. Y. Ledger.

An Atrocious Memory.

The conversation had turned on the husband's shortcomings.

"You have a bad memory, Maria—an atrocious memory," said the husband, wrathfully.

"A bad memory, John?" replied the wife, "how can you say so? You know I never forget any thing, and you know every word I have said of you is true. There isn't a woman alive with a more accurate memory than mine."

"That's the trouble with it, Maria," replied John, as he jammed his hat down over his eyes and started down town through the pelting rain, "you remember millions and millions of things you ought to forget. Darn such a memory!"—Chicago Tribune.

—"Are there too many doctors?" asks an exchange. No, there are not half enough, but there are too many men pretending to be doctors who are not.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EXAMINING RECRUITS.

Obstacles in the Way of Getting Into Uncle Sam's Army.

It is not so easy for a man to get into the United States army. He must go through as rigid an examination as a life insurance company would insist on, and even if he passes that he is not certain to be admitted, as defective eyesight or imperfect hearing, that would not hurt a man's prospects or longevity, keep him out of the army. The recruiting officers need to know as much as a surgeon. Besides that, they acquire a knowledge of human nature which helps them pick out the best men. Hardly half the applicants for enlistment are received, and as a result of this careful culling, and the reenlistment of the best of the old men, the physical and the moral standard of the army is constantly rising.

The most careful examination is made of the chest and heart. A table has been prepared giving the mean chest measurement and mobility for each inch of height. A recruit five feet four should weigh 128 pounds, have a mean chest measurement of thirty-four inches, and a mobility of two inches. At five feet height his weight should be 141 pounds, his mean chest 34½ inches, and his mobility two and one-half inches. Each inch in height over five feet four should mean an increase in weight of two pounds, with five pounds extra for each inch over five feet seven. After five feet seven there should be an increase of half an inch in the mean chest measurement for each inch in height. The table gives the weight, height and chest mobility up to 6 feet 3, where the weight should be 190 pounds, the mean chest 38 inches, and the mobility 2½ inches. It would be ground for rejection if the man should be under weight, or if his mean chest or chest mobility were too small. The measurements of the chest are made by having the recruit raise his arms above his head. The tape is circled around the chest under the arm pits. As the arms are lowered and the air expelled, the measure is taken. Then a full inspiration, and the measure is taken again at the same point. The difference is the mobility. A mobility of over three inches shows that the chest is in good expansive condition.

The recruit hops around the room first on one leg and then on the other. Upon his return the recruiting officer feels his pulse, to see how much it has quickened through the exercise. The glands, muscles and bones are examined, and occasionally measurements are taken of the arms, legs and stomach. The recruit then goes through the positions required in drilling, and he flops his arms, legs, hands, feet and fingers around to show the officer that they work freely. The examination extends to every part of the body, and is as thorough as it can be made.—N. Y. Sun.

AMERICAN BONAPARTES.

Members of the Historical Corsican Family Residing in Washington.

Two striking figures have become familiar to people along the fashionable part of Rhode Island avenue and out Fourteenth street. They are always on horseback, sweeping along at a brisk trot or canter, and whisking around corners with a reckless grace.

The one is a man of striking appearance, in high military boots and with the strong face of a soldier. His heavy shoulders bend forward in an un-American fashion for riding, but his strong limbs and the bold carriage of his head attest that he would be an erect figure dismounted, and when his horse comes to a stand he sits his saddle as erect as a statue. His large, round head is set firmly, and his heavy black mustache, brushed straight out on either side and waxed at the ends in the military style of France, and a black goatee, drawn down and waxed in the same style, give him a fierce expression, and bring to mind a historic portrait. His mount is a blood bay of large build, which carries him at a sweeping trot.

The companion who gallops on a smaller animal at his side is a little old lady, with an abundance of iron gray hair, and features that always attract attention. She is a daring rider as well as a good one, and she often presses her horse to a more reckless pace than is his wont. Sometimes they are accompanied by a young girl, apparently their daughter. Nearly every day in the winter, when less enthusiastic horsemen restricted their equestrian exercises to the quadrangle of the riding academy, these two would face the cutting wind with a dash that showed them seasoned to the sport.

The man's striking resemblance to Napoleon III. marks him at once for one of that stock. They are Colonel Jerome Bonaparte and Mme. Bonaparte. It is Mme. Bonaparte's love of this exercise that swings her husband so often into the saddle. This active out-door life gives her a youthful color that disputes the accusation of her gray hair. The Colonel's hair is tinged with gray. Any one at all familiar with the portrait of the last Emperor of France is struck with the resemblance between the two faces. Colonel Bonaparte rides a better horse, but he is not as graceful a rider as his wife.—Washington Letter.

Silence Is Golden.

They were sitting in an easy chair out on the porch.

He—Darling.

She—Darling.

He—Sweet.

She—Sweet.

He—Precious—precious.

She—Precious—ah, but, George, dear, do not let us disturb the solemn stillness—the wide silence of the night, with conversation.—N. Y. Sun.

SHOES FOR CRIPPLES.

A Queer Little New York Cobbler Who Does a Rushing Business.

There's a funny little man who runs a queer little shoe shop in East Broadway. It is a "hole in the wall," and might properly be called a den. It is not a tidy place, either, but it makes no difference to its pinch-faced occupant, for he gets a lot of money by making boots and shoes for cripples. He does nothing else, and seems to enjoy a monopoly of the custom of people with deformed feet.

"How much do you charge for such a pair of shoes?" asked a reporter, as he picked up a Congress gaiter ornamented with a 5-inch heel and a 2-inch sole.

"Twelve dollars; but," he added, "I usually get $15. This pair of shoes, however, is for a poor man who can't afford to pay the regular price. Sometimes I get $20 for a pair, but not often."

The little shoemaker said that a person desiring a shoe comes in and removes his foot covering, then he measures the distance between the bottom of the shoe and the floor to determine how much cork is needed in the sole. The measuring of the foot proper does not differ much from the measuring of ordinary feet. He makes only three measurements—one at the ball of the foot, one at the heel and one at the toe. Certain afflicted persons wish their shoes made with space between the heel and the sole on the idea that it gives the foot a spring it would not possess were the sole and heel one piece. Each customer has his peculiarities.

The man had just finished three pairs for a gentleman in the wholesale liquor business in this city, who formerly had his shoes made in Paris, London and Vienna without getting satisfaction. That gentleman has a short foot, but so deftly is it clothed that even his intimate friends do not know that he is deformed.

Instead of putting the cork which raises the foot on the outside he places it inside, thus making the boot well proportioned. The wearer's foot rests easily, the heel half way up the leg with a curved, sloping support for the instep and the toes about half way down the middle of the foot. The little man said there were many persons who have one foot shorter than the other, and if their shoes were made to fit the short foot it would give them the appearance of having had their toes amputated.

"There's nothing easier," remarked the little man, "than to prevent this by making the shoe for the short foot as long as the shoe for the normal foot, and filling in the space between the end of the toes and the end of the shoe with light cork."

More trouble is experienced in constructing shoes for club-footed people than any other. This is principally because the foot is turned in and upward, so that the sole is presented to the rear and the person has to walk on the side of his foot. Measurements of such feet can not be successfully taken. A casting has to be made of the foot and then a last formed from that; the sole must be of cork and the upper carefully fitted into every curve and wrinkle in the foot. It requires much skill to make a shoe for a man whose foot has been cut off just above the ankle, for he is obliged to make a leg as well as a last.

The queer little cobbler was unable to say how many men with deformed feet had come under his eye, but he knew there were thousands of them.

Some cripples wear ordinary shoes, while others use the old-fashioned iron lifts; but these are cumbersome and even dangerous, for the wearer may trip and stumble.

"Yes, I do a big business," said the cobbler, "and it keeps four assistants pretty busy filling orders. People who are afflicted can't go into a shoe store and purchase ready-made monstrosities, and so they come to me."—N. Y. Telegram.

A WATCH SPRING NEST.

How a Wise Swiss Bird Built a Habitation for Her Family.

A RETURNED TOURIST:—"This last trip, during my wanderings in Switzerland, I happened to be detained for a day in the little town of Soleure. As the day happened to be a rainy one and there were few attractions for me indoors, I strolled into the little local museum. "The collection of curiosities was not extensive and I found little to interest me. I was about to leave in disgust and seek in the seclusion of my room the comfort which a pipe grants, when suddenly my eye caught something, which turned out to be a veritable curiosity.

"It was a bird's nest, which at first had nothing out of the ordinary in its appearance, and had it not been for a metallic glint on a portion of it I would, no doubt, have passed it by. Upon examining it I found that it was made of—what do you suppose? Watch springs.

"Upon inquiry I found that numbers of imperfect springs are thrown out of the little watch factories which abound in this district. Some bird seems to have considered them excellent material of which to construct her nest and with infinite care worked them together into as perfect a structure of the kind as one could desire to see. The nest was picked up a short time before my visit and was at once placed in the museum. The idea struck me that Switzerland is indeed a great country for watch-making, when the very birds know how to make use of watch springs."—Jewelers' Weekly.

—A pair of clam shells two feet and ten inches long were sold by a Southington, Conn., curio collector for sixty dollars recently.

DR. EATON ON MURDER.

He Tells of the Ways in Which the Sixth Commandment Is Broken.

In a recent sermon upon the Ten Commandments Dr. Charles H. Eaton, of the Church of the Divine Paternity, took the Sixth—"Thou shalt not kill"—as his text. These are some of the things he said:

"Among the popular forms of murder war must be placed first. The training of the world has been such that people have come to think that the law "Thou shalt not kill" only applies to individuals and not to the State. For an individual to murder is a crime, but for the people in a collective capacity to devastate the territory of their neighbors is considered perfectly legitimate. Individual murder is a crime, but wholesale murder is civilization. Wars of defense sometimes become a necessity, but the larger proportion of wars have been and still are aggressive, being waged to gratify the ambition of some ruler or 'to preserve the balance of power,' as it is called in Europe. The pretext is frequently made of defending the interests of oppressed countries or that the wars are waged for religion, but such wars not only cause a great sacrifice of human life, but make many desolate homes and undermine religion itself. However much we seek to glorify the soldier's profession, it is at best a necessity and at the worst a murderous trade.

"Other popular forms of murder arise from the narrow attic, the foul basement and the crowded factory, amid the cries of men, women and children, whose lives are being crushed out by a condition for which somebody is responsible. Through the burning days of summer, the cold of winter, in hunger and in rags, with white-faced children crying for bread, needle-women toil from twelve to fourteen hours before their daily task is done. The greed which to some extent underlies modern civilization shows itself in the cruel disregard of the ordinary means of protection to workingmen

"In refusing to put a roof over the heads of the workmen, the foreman of the shop said that men were cheaper than shingles, and that there were dozens eager to take the place of any man who should fall by the way.

"Other forms of murder show themselves in constant attacks upon the happiness of the home, upon reputation and in gossip which takes away a good name and breaks down health by persecution.

"The spirit of the commandment also includes the murder of the soul, and this kind of murder may be practiced on ourselves or on others. There are some things worse than physical death.

"If the spirit of the sixth commandment were obeyed, the greater portion of the world's sin would disappear, human sacrifices would go on no longer, and plots, conspiracies, riots and revolutions would cease; in fact, the spirit of persecution would entirely disappear, prosperity would follow, science enlarge its boundaries, and manhood and womanhood would be ennobled."—N. Y. Herald.

AMERICAN ORATORS.

Characteristics of Great Men Renowned for Talking.

Patrick Henry was in early life an utter failure. His father set him up in a small store, which did not succeed, and then the youth married the daughter of an inn-keeper and for awhile tended bar. Later on he became a petty lawyer. But it was a long time before an occasion presented itself which displayed his wonderful genius. Thenceforth, however, he stood at the head of the profession, and soon became the leader of the patriots of Virginia.

James Otis was the only one of the great American orators who suffered the loss of reason, which was due to a blow on the head received in a public affray occasioned by political discussion. During this unfortunate condition he destroyed all his papers, and soon afterward he was struck by lightning, being the only statesman that met such a fate.

John B. Gough was brought out by accident. He did not know what was in him until the hour of utterance came. Gough talked about that very occurrence, and he smiled at the picture he drew of himself—a miserable drunkard who happened into a temperance meeting and was induced to speak. It was the beginning of that reform which he advocated with such fascinating eloquence.

William Henry Seward's speeches are remarkably complete, and are admirable for the eloquence of style as well as for argument. They were written out with elaborate care before delivery.

John Randolph was noted for his withering sarcasm, and was by some considered insane. His speeches were seldom reported, and his fame chiefly rests on tradition.

The most finished of American orators was Edward Everett, but he lacked the magnetic power by which Roscoe Conkling held an audience.

Alexander Hamilton's speeches were not fully reported, and his fame rests upon tradition. He was, however, highly eloquent, and his last effort in behalf of the liberty of the press awoke a general admiration.

Webster's oratory was characterized by robust thought, simple but powerful language, and a bold presentation of national matters.—Chicago News.

—Old lady (in Pennsylvania railroad station)—"Is this the car ter Shamokin, mister?" Brakeman—"No, ma'am; if you want to smoke, take the car ahead."—Epoch.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8.....1888

Every day the issue between the two great political parties is being more sharply defined. Republicans are more closely pressing their opponents to a defense of free trade; but farmers, mechanics and all other workingmen cannot see in that anything but injury to themselves. It is reasonably certain that if this were not a matter that will decide the fate of an election there would be as general an agreement between all the States in favor of protective tariff as there now is in California in favor of exclusion of the Chinese. The day is not far distant when the free trade doctrine in America will have as few defenders as slavery has now. It is a fact capable of proof that in any country possessing such boundless resources as the United States free trade could not live except joined with slavery. The abolition of slavery was the strongest protective measure ever taken in the United States.

The Republicans of Alpine county have nominated Cyrus Coleman as Assemblyman from this district. We have personal knowledge that Mr. Coleman is well qualified for the office. We know that he is capable, diligent, and of strict integrity. He has been tried in the Assembly more than once and proved his fitness. If it shall be agreed that Alpine should select an Assemblyman the district will be well served by Mr. Coleman. See a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Republicans of Alpine

Last Monday a bill was passed in the House of Representatives which provides for the total exclusion of the Chinese. The bill was at once taken up in the Senate. Senators Stewart, Sherman, Mitchell and Dolph all spoke in favor of the bill. Senator Butler, of South Carolina, made a good deal of rather captious objection, but there was no doubt that the bill would pass. If this measure shall be approved by the President it will free the Pacific Coast from the Chinese curse.

DEMOCRATIC ## PRIMARIES
AND
County Convention.

PURSUANT TO CALL THE DEMOCRATIC Central Committee of Inyo County met at Independence, August 21st, and arranged for the holding of a County Nominating Convention to assemble at INDEPENDENCE on

TUESDAY, September 25, 1888,

for the nomination of candidates for County Officers, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention. Primaries for the selection of Delegates to said Convention were ordered to be held in the several Precincts of the county on

SATURDAY, Sept mber 8th,

in accordance with the following Apportionment based on the votes cast for the Democratic Nominee for State Controller at the Gubernatorial Election of 1886, a Delegat for each Precinct voting at said election, 1 for each 10 votes so cast, and 1 for each fraction over one half that number, as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 3 | George's Creek | 1 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Station | 2 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 6 | Keeler | 2 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 4 | Darwin | 3 |
| Fish Springs | 1 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 7 | Panamint | 1 |

Polls are to be open from 2 to 6 o'clock, p. m., on Saturday, Sept 8th at the following places and under charge of the following officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Inspector, David Olds; Judges, C A Wildasinn, C H Parsons. Old's House.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, John Blair; Judges, Geo Clarke, T Hutchinson.

STATION—Depot. Inspector, H A Man; Judges, McNally and Deby.

COTTONWOOD—N Gilbert's. Inspector, Scott Broder; Judges, S P Roberts.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, W G McCrosky; Judges, I P Vaney, W W Yandell.

POLETA—Storey's House at Switch. Inspector, Geo Story; Judges, Rube Merryman, — Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, S J McMurry; Judges, Dennis Hession, Jack Mullane.

FISH SPRINGS—Hill's old Store. Inspector, Jas Conners; Judges, Jas Lane, D W Nerney.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, G W Brady; Judges, C S Swain, Thos Kelso.

GEORGE'S CREEK—Half-way House. Inspector, W I Hunter; Judges, Aaron Reynolds, H Hamilton.

KEYNOT—McDonough's Store. Inspector, Thomas McDonough

CERRO GORDO—Boland's Store. Inspector, J Hertel; Judges, J Dunphy, Geo Wist.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Chas Meysan; Judges, A Apple, J G Dodge.

KEELER—Barnes Hotel. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, John Morton, Tim Madden.

OLANCHA—Wm Walker's. Inspector, Wm Walker; Judges, W T Grant, Ed Walker.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, J C Eldy; Judges John Wilson, Jeremiah Fitzgerald.

LOOKOUT—Store. Inspector, F Fitzgerald; Judges, W Gesmith.

PANAMINT—Store. Inspector, H G Chickering; Judges, Jas Wall, John Curran.

PRIMARY TEST—Are you a Democrat?

All Democratic Voters in Inyo County are requested to attend the Primaries and assist in the selection of Delegates to the Convention.

By order of County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary.
Dated, Aug. 21, 1888 tf

SECOND
ANNUAL FAIR
Agricultural District
No. 18.
STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
Composed Of the Counties of
ALPINE, MONO & INYO.
TO BE HELD AT
Independence
Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing for premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best Stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTER.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year-old | 10 00 |
| Best roadster team | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | 10 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than three | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $25 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 10 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, any breed or age Association cup | |
| Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup | |

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI.
POULTRY ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $ 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 10 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early Rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ½ doz watermelon | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ½ doz cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| best variety of jellies | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.
CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| grapes, white | 5 00 |
| " purple | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.
CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.
CLASS I.

Sixth Department.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting done in district | $ 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil satin and Japanese tancis | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.
CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, piece | 2 00 |
| wall panel, or banner | 2 00 |
| silk on flannel | 2 00 |
| on linen | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand in design | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| beach rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| best display fancy work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| overlay of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, outline | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| Hand knit stockings | 2 00 |
| JUVENILE. | |
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.
CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $ 5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above list.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ¾ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 2 in 3, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 2 in 3 to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $100.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m. sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN, President.
C. MULLOLLAND, Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN
PRIMARIES
AND ## CONVENTION.

AT A MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN Central Committee of Inyo county, held at Independence on the 10th day of August, 1888 it was ordered that a Republican County Convention be held in the Town of Independence, on to convene at 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the County and District offices to be filled at the General Election on TUESDAY, November 6th, 1888, also the appointment of a County Central Committee, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said Republican County Convention.

TUESDAY, September 18th 1888,

The Apportionment of Delegates to said Convention is based upon the number of votes cast for the Republican nominee for Governor at the General Election in 1886—allowing 1 Delegate for each precinct 1 for each 20 votes, and 1 for a fraction of 12 or more. The several precincts of the county are therefore entitled to representation as follows, to-wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 2 | George's Creek | 2 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Bishop Station | 1 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 4 | Keeler | 1 |
| Poleta | 1 | Olancha | 1 |
| Big Pine | 3 | Darwin | 1 |
| Fish Springs | 2 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 4 | Panamint | 1 |

comprising a Nominating Convention of 33 members.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates in accordance with the above apportionment will be held in the several precincts of Inyo county on

SATURDAY, September 8th 1888,

Polls being open between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., of said day, at the places herein named, and under the direction of the following Primary Election Officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Blaisdell's Store. Inspector, F P Blaisdell; Judges, Thos E Jones, R Hilton.

LINCOLN—School House. Inspector, A Matlack; Judges, N C Young, W McLaren.

BISHOP STATION—School House. Inspector, J Peregrine; Judges, Jas G McNally, A Plumley.

COTTONWOOD—Inspector, W A Greenley; Judges, N Gilbert.

BISHOP CREEK—School House. Inspector, J H Stoutenborough; Judges, M C Hall, A Friedline.

POLETA—A O Collins' House. Inspector, A O Collins; Judges, Thos Hughes, Geo Collins.

BIG PINE—School House. Inspector, L M Newman; Judges, E M Crocker, A McDonald.

FISH SPRINGS—School House. Inspector, A J Wien; Judges, A McKellip, N E Conklin.

INDEPENDENCE—School House. Inspector, Thos Parker; Judges, W F Matlack, J D Blair.

GEORGE'S CREEK—School House. Inspector, John Kisperit; Judges, T B Scovil, John Meyer.

KEYNOT—Laskey Mill. Inspector, John Anton; Judges, Ge St. Clair.

LONE PINE—School House. Inspector, Geo H Palmer; Judges, J J Stewart, M Castro.

CERRO GORDO—Store. Inspector, Wm Crapo; Judges, John Thomas, Fred Wallis.

KEELER—Boland Building. Inspector, John Yandell; Judges, E E Hall, W H Walker.

OLANCHA—A Walker's House. Inspector, A Walker; Judges, H Behlons, A Brown.

DARWIN—School House. Inspector, Chas Anthony; Judges, J L McDonald, A J Gould.

LOOKOUT—Company Store. Inspector, J D Chandler; Judges, H P Livingston.

PANAMINT—Company Store. Inspector, E F Rowell; Judges, Wm Horne, — Bennett.

PRIMARY TEST—Are You a Republican, and will you support the Republican Nominees?

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Delegates or proxies be permitted a voice in the Convention unless actual residents and voters in the precincts represented; and we hereby earnestly recommend that the Convention adopt such a rule of qualification for its members.

It is urgently requested that all Republican voters in Inyo county, laying aside all past differences and uniting for the common good of the party, who in good faith intend to support the Republican nominees, shall assemble in their respective Precincts at the time named for primary meetings, and select delegates who will attend the Convention and truly represent their wishes, to the end that nominations may be fairly made and a ticket presented which shall command the united and enthusiastic support of all Republicans in the county.

By order of the Committee,
S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H HARDY, Secretary. aug18 1m

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. PLAIN, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Independence Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND GUIFFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1 | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | Arrive— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a m | 5 45 p m |
| Layton | | 9 45 a m | 4 85 p m |
| Wabuska | | 12 15 a m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | | 4 30 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Mina | | 5 50 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodaville | | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | | 8 10 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Ar | 8 40 p m | Lv 6 30 a m |
| | | No. 3 Leave— | No. 4 Arrive— |
| Belleville | | 7 35 a m | 7 25 p m |
| Sodaville | | 11 05 a m | 3 55 p m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10 p m | 11 0 a m |
| Averill | | 2 00 p m | 10 05 a m |
| Independence | | 3 30 p m | 9 05 a m |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p m | 8 5 a m |
| Keeler | Ar | 7 35 p m | Lv 7 0 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T R R, which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (36 miles); Bodie (67 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENNER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful beer garden for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Catherine Wallace deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said Administrator at the Law Office of A. R. Conklin, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo.

JAMES J. WALLACE,
Administrator of the estate of Catherine Wallace, deceased.
Dated at Independence, July 6th 1888.

ICE! ICE ICE!

We are now prepared to furnish a first-class quality of

ICE

in quantities to suit either at Bishop Creek, or on the cars at Bishop Station, at

2 Cts. per Pound.
Orders Promptly Attended To.
F. K. ANDREWS & CO.
Laws, Inyo Co., Cal.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

INYO MEAT MARKET,
MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18tf

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb18tf

GRAND
DEMOCRATIC ## RALLY.

HON. R. B. TERRY,
DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS,

Will address the People of Inyo County, on the Political Issues of the Day at following times and places:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| BISHOP CREEK | September | 7, 1888 |
| INDEPENDENCE | " | 8, " |
| BIG PINE | " | 9, " |
| LONE PINE | " | 10, " |

Local Democrats will please arrange for the Meetings.

By order County Committee,
A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary. aug28

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8 . . . . . 1888

BORN.

LEVY—At San Francisco, September 1, 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levy, a daughter.

GOODALE—At Fish Spring, September 21, 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Goodale, a son.

A lot of ore is being shipped from the Defiance mine, at Darwin.

Mrs. Holland is reported to be much better the past few days.

Mr. N. G. Fairman came in from Panamint on Thursday morning.

There will be a large audience at the pavilion to hear Hon. R. B. Terry.

Several miners are working claims and taking out fairly good ore at Panamint.

Mr. W. A. Hampton has returned to Independence from a trip to Davisville.

Mrs. S. D. Thurston went north last Tuesday on her way to San Francisco.

Six carloads of ore from Cerro Gordo were shipped by Boland & Gorman this week.

A meeting of the Fair Directors will be held this—Saturday—afternoon at four o'clock.

Mr. A. J. Johnson, nephew of W. T. C. Elliott, arrived at Independence last Monday from Oregon.

Everybody who can get away from Independence will attend the fair at Bishop Creek next week.

The Fair privileges will be sold on Monday afternoon at the Norman House. See the advertisement.

Last Sunday Tom Goodale was made happy by the birth of another son. The mother and boy are doing well.

Four inch water pipe is being laid to the race track. This will enable the Directors to have the track put in excellent condition.

Mr. James R. Moffett has again been appointed Marshall of the race track and fair grounds at Independence during the fair.

A good deal of ore and other material has been collected at the mill at Panamint. It is intended to start the mill early next week.

At a meeting of the Fair Directors held last Tuesday it was ordered that races heretofore fixed at three heats in five be changed to two in three.

No one should fall into the mistake of thinking they have nothing worth bringing to the fair. Every farmer and every housekeeper can show something of interest.

Last Tuesday the remains of J. C. Hampton, who lost his life on the City of Chester arrived at Virginia City. Next day there was a very large funeral conducted by the Masonic Knights Templar.

A large audience met A. R. Conklin at Bishop Creek last Saturday evening. His speech was a plain statement of facts pertaining to the political issues and his hearers listened to him attentively.

Mrs. James Holland, of Lone Pine, has been very ill for some weeks past. On several occasions Dr. Woodin has been telegraphed for to Independence, her friends thinking she was dying.

On application of counsel for W. T. C. Elliott an extension of time has been granted till October 8th, consequently the sentence will not be executed at the time fixed by the Superior Court, viz, September 21st.

From Bishop Creek fifteen horses will come to Independence to try their chances at the races. At least five horses will come from Mono county. From the South Fork of Kern river several horses will come to take part in the sport.

Over at Deep Spring Samuel Chalmers continues to open up his mine and is getting out ore to ship to England. He sank one hundred feet on the ledge and is now drifting. He reports the ledge getting larger and yielding more ore.

Hon. R. B. Terry has telegraphed that he will not be able to get to Independence till next Monday evening, September 10th. On that evening he will deliver an address at Independence. Notice will be given when he can be at Lone Pine, Bishop Creek and other places.

At the beginning of the week the hoisting works of the Lucky Jim mine, at Darwin, caught fire and were totally destroyed. It is not known how the fire originated. The works had not been used for some time, the mine being operated by tunnels. The fire will not hinder work at the mine.

Last Sunday a boy aged about twelve years, son of Mrs. W. K. Miller, of Lone Pine, had a very serious accident. The boy was riding very fast, when he got thrown from his horse and his head struck a stone. The skull was crushed and it was expected he would die. The boy has since recovered consciousness and may recover.

At the Methodist Conference recently held at Reno, Nev. Rev. Edward McEvers was appointed to Independence. He is described by Mr. De La Matyr, formerly stationed here, as a man of much ability; a fine scholar and preacher. Mr. McEvers has a wife and two children and the family expect to arrive here about the middle of next week. The new pastor will probably preach at Independence on Sunday week. If so due notice will be given.

David S. Terry and his wife have been sent to jail; he for six months and she for thirty days. The woman grossly insulted Judge Field in open Court. Terry drew a large dirk and threatened to murder an officer of the Court. The brutality and shamelessness of this man and woman have been rarely excelled by people supposed to be civilized and educated. Terry is the same savage bully in old age that he was when he killed Broderick, so many years ago.

Last Tuesday Ed. Ober started from Big Pine for Sacramento with his company of Indian baseball players. The State Association gave funds for the expenses of Ed. and his Indians and they will play at the State Fair. From Sacramento Ed. expects to take his men to San Francisco and other parts of the State and play against any amateur clubs who may be willing to meet them. During the past two years Ed. has given a good deal of time to training the Indians.

Great Projects.

James D. Schuyler visited Independence at the end of last week. Mr. Schuyler is a Civil Engineer and is the designer of the celebrated Sweetwater dam, near San Diego. He had been in the mountains at the headwaters of Kern river for some weeks past, with eight assistants, making surveys for the construction of immense reservoirs. At one point he will recommend the building of a dam two hundred and fifty feet high. This can be done by running tunnels into the mountain, filling the cavities with giant powder and blowing down a whole mountain side, that will fill a narrow gorge to the required depth. Above the gorge is a nearly level valley that will make the largest reservoir in the world. Tunnels will be cut in the solid rock at different elevations so that the water can be drawn off as wanted. The streams from Mt. Whitney and other high mountains will supply the new lake with water. From the lake ditches will convey the water down into the San Joaquin Valley. This is an immense project and if completed will attract visitors from many lands, and will fertilize thousands of acres that would be quickly covered with orange groves and with every desirable product of the earth. Two and a half years ago the editor of this paper met Mr. Scuyler at San Francisco. A good deal was then said about Owens Valley that was not forgotten by Mr. Schuyler, and led him to make his visit here. He said the country more than met his expectations. He saw and heard enough to satisfy him that in Owens Valley capital can be invested to good purpose. He came through the mountains here on horseback, no light trip for a man who weighs over three hundred pounds. He sent back his horse with an attendant and went from here to San Francisco by rail. It is quite probable that he will be here again not a great while hence.

Claims the Assemblyman.

At a meeting of the Republican County Central Committee of Alpine county held at Woodfords, this 25th day of August, 1888, pursuant to due notice given, the following proceedings were adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, the Republicans of Alpine county have not in the past asked for a direct representative from this county in the Legislature, but have loyally and without question supported the choice of candidates of Mono and Inyo counties, and

WHEREAS, the Republicans do now believe, and of right, that they are justly entitled to name the joint candidate from this county, therefore

Resolved, that this Committee duly representing the Republicans of Alpine county now proceed to nominate a joint candidate for the Assembly for the 72d District of California, and earnestly ask the Republicans of Inyo and Mono counties to endorse such candidate and give to him the same loyal support that the Republicans of this county have always given to the candidates from said counties.

Whereupon Cyrus Coleman was unanimously nominated as such joint candidate for the Assembly and the Secretary instructed to notify the Republican Central Committees of Inyo and Mono counties of these proceedings.

FRANK SMITH, Sec.
Rep. Co. Cen. Com., Alpine Co.

Legal Argument.

Last week in the Superior Court up at Bridgeport, Mono county, R. S. Miner and C. Schuman, attorneys, had a lively set to. Mr. Schuman offered an objection to a question put by Mr. Miner to a witness. Mr. Miner said it looked to him that objections were made for the purpose of disconcerting witnesses, counsel &c. Mr. Schuman replied that it was false, and Mr. Miner could take it any way he pleased. Mr. Miner was pleased to give Mr. Schuman a belt on the ear and there was a lively scrimmage for a few minutes. The combatants were separated. First blood for Miner. Both attorneys were fined fifty dollars for contempt of Court.

Meteorological Summary for July, 1888. Keeler, Cal.

Mean reduced barometer.....29.810 inches.
Mean temperature .....80°
Highest temperature.....100°
Lowest temperature.....60°
Monthly range of temperature.....40°
Mean relative humidity 26 per cent.
Mean dew point, 40 per cent.
Prevailing direction of wind, S.
Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 39 miles S. 29th.
Precipitation .....0.10
Number of clear days.....27
Number of fair days .....3
Number of cloudy days.....1

D. C. GRUNOW,
Private, Signal Corps.

Finding Water.

Henry Melone and C. F. Fuller started to prospect for water recently. They opened a cut at the foot of the mountains near Black Rock and after running a short distance struck about forty inches of water. Mr. Melone believes the flow can be doubled by tunneling into the mountain a short distance. There is plenty of excellent land to run the water upon. All along the foot of the Sierra Nevada mountains are plenty of indications that water can be found with but little trouble.

Be On Time

It is earnestly requested that all goods intended for exhibition at the pavilion during the Fair be brought there at an early a date as possible. It is a very great deal of work to get everything put in proper place and order; and if goods are not delivered until the last hour much confusion is caused and it is nearly impossible to get goods displayed to the best advantage. Those who get their articles on hand first will secure good positions.

A Relic of Antiquity.

Began ten years ago, puttered at from time to time but never pushed vigorously, and for years together seemingly abandoned entirely, the Big Pine ditch is at last to be completed. The Crocker Brothers have taken hold of it. A recent survey shows that the canal was laid out on Hogarth's line of beauty, being sixteen feet too low in the middle from where it rises with a graceful curve to either end. The Crockers expect to finish the canal some time this fall.

Messrs. James F. Moore and H. G. Kimmick arrived at Independence on Wednesday. They are from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and are making a tour of the Pacific Coast. They came from Oregon here and will stay some days yet.

Long double-decked tables have been made for the reading room of the Norman House for the accommodation of commercial travelers to display their goods. Merchants now go to the room when the agents have their good arranged upon these tables and in a few minutes can make their selections and give their orders.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL!

AGRICULTURAL

District No. 18.

—AT—

INDEPENDENCE

Friday, Sept. 21, 1888.

—THE FINEST—

BALL

OF THE YEAR.

Music by a Large

ORCHESTRA.

Tickets - - - $2.00

The Ball will be held in the large Hall of the Association.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sep1-tf

A THOUGHT TO THIS!

The profusion and regularity with which orders pour in upon us with every mail, has a meaning—a meaning that is significant. It shows that there must be something in our goods our prices or our methods which attracts. As it has the power of interesting others, WHY MAY IT NOT INTEREST YOU?

SEND FOR IT

We believe we can safely announce September 1st, as the date of the appearance of our FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK. It will be a large sized volume of over 100 pages, with over 1000 illustrations, and handsomely printed. It is full of facts, figures and information, and is both valuable and interesting. We are confident that those who send for a copy will bear us out in the assertion that is absolutely the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi river. Sent to any address FREE. Send in your names now. Regular customers who do not receive the catalogue will please notify us.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

Below are several lines of goods which we can recommend as being of good value. All are in first-class condition and are a part of our regular stock.

A Model Boot at a nominal price is Hale's Full Stock Calf Boot at $2.50. It is made of first class tannery calfskin with sole leather innersole and counter. Sizes 6 to 10.

Ladies White Merino Vests and Drawers, silk-bound, catstitch, 44 cents each.

Ladies Unbleached Balbriggan Hose, full regular made and extra long. Price 16 2-3 cents per pair.

The Stanley Hat for gentlemen is an exceptionally good article. It is a soft hat, has a raw edge and cord band, and comes in black, wine and nutria colors. It holds its shape well and gives good wear.

Gents all-wool knit Undershirts and Drawers—Made especially for us, HALE'S brand being on every garment. The goods are heavy weight, cut full size and both shirt and drawers are ribbed at the bottom. Best value on the coast. Price $1.50 per garment. Colors, scarlet and natural grey.

Boys mudium brown mixed cassimere suits, well made and trimmed. Ages 10 to 18 Price $6.50.

Childrens Knee Pants Suits in dark fancy broken plaid suitings. Ages 4 to 12. Price $2.50.

Figured Lawns in neat designs at 4 cents per yard.

English Challis—a soft and airy fabric with a cream white ground and figured and geometrical designs. It contains a small percentage of wool for drapery purposes. Price 12 yards for $1. Samples sent upon application.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1-tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

SALE OF FAIR PRIVILEGES.

The exclusive privileges of keeping a bar at race track.
Ice cream stand at Race Track and Pavilion.
Confectionery stand at Race Track and Pavilion.
Lunch stand at Race Track and Pavilion.
Selling pools on the Fair Grounds.

All during the Annual Fair of the 18th Agricultural District, commencing September 17th, 1888, at Independence, will be sold at the reading room of the Norman House, Independence, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Monday, September 10, 1888. Said sales will be made at public auction to the highest bidder. Terms of sale, cash at sale.

C. MULHOLLAND,
By order of Directors. Secretary.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1888.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
☞ All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR TREASURER

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Republican County Covention.
W. H. WALKER.
Olancha.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
J. J. STEWART,
Lone Pine.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for nomination for Sheriff of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
MARTIN MEE.
Darwin, August 18, 1888.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
W. W. COLLINS.
Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.
GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.
THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

TO ADVERTISERS
A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.
To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
☞ Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 20, 1884.
n47tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.
n25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 12c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered busk, flushed with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. L. MAINS, Prop.
feb12tf

WHANGDOODLE BAXTER.

The Silver-Tongued Colored Orator Lectures on the Subject of Worry.

BERLUBBED AWJIENCE: De subjec' ob my discuss on dis heah ercashun am "Worry."

Man am de cweature ob sorrer. When he am in de heydey ob his youf his perseshuns consist mostly ob a few marbles and a sore toe. When he grows older he am weighed down wid cares and he am filled wid patent medicines, and when he am done got old all dat he has am a will and de rheumatiz.

Yes, berlubbed bredderen and sistern, man walketh forth for pleasure and enjoyment, and behold! he steps on de bananer peel ob disappointment, and de sidewalk flies up and smites him on de small ob his back.

Hit's not work what makes 'em curl up in de corner and die. Hit's de worry what makes men die young. My advice ter yer am ter do like a man what I read about. Wienebber he ate berries he put on a par ob magnifyin' glasses so dat dey would look bigger and more temptin'. Dat's de way yer wants ter do wid yer pleasures, but yer don't wanter to put on no magnifyin' glasses when yer looks at yer troubles. Yer wants ter look at dem fru de wrong end ob a spy-glass, so dat dey will seem ter be a long way off.

Dar am seberal remedies for worry. Pashience am a good one. I knows dat pashience am mightily like castor ile—hit's easier to prescribe hit den ter take hit—but you will be better for hit afterward. I has read in de Good Book dat Job was de most pashient man, but he didn't hab no cause ter brag. He nebber had ter wait till his wife put on her bonnet. Dat's what tries a man's paschience. I'se had four wives, and so I knows what I'se talkin' about. We am all more or less wicked, but de man what kin eat his dinner during fly time widout swearin', he has more paschience in a minit den Job had in a week. De pusson who sets upon de eggs ob borrowed trouble will some ob dese days hatch out de genuine chickens. While singin' de sockdology Uncle Mose will take up de kerlecshun —A French writer classes all women by the size of their thumbs. Those with large thumbs are said to be more likely to possess native intelligence while the small thumbs indicate feeling.

—Mr. R. (furnisher and decorator)—"Now, sir, your house has the magnificence of an oriental potentate, except, of course, the—er—seraglio." Mrs. Michael Van Flanigan (proudly to her husband)—"Mike, dear, spare no expense, let us have one."—Life.

—What irregularities there must have been to cause this! In the room of a railway depot in Iowa is the following placard over the clock: "This is a clock; it is running; it is Chicago time; it is right; it is set every day at ten o'clock. Now keep your mouth shut."

—Nancy Hanks Lincoln, the mother of Abraham Lincoln, is buried on the outskirts of Lincoln City, Ind. A plain slab of marble about four feet high, almost covered with grass and dogweed, marks her grave. On the stone is the inscription: "Erected by a friend of her martyred son, 1879."

—A Maltese cat and a large rattlesnake had a fight in a yard at Albany, Ga. Every time the snake would attempt to strike with its wicked looking fangs, the cat would give it a vigorous slap on the side of the head and it would be withdrawn. This lasted for fully an hour, when at last the cat pounced upon the snake and killed it.

—Friend—"Was your uncle's will satisfactory to you, Brown?" Brown—"Perfectly so; I'm a lucky dog! He left his entire fortune to an insane asylum." Friend—"You mean that you are the unlucky dog." Brown—"No, I don't; the other relations are going to contest the will and I'm to be the attorney."—Life.

—The health of New York compares very unfavorably with that of London. The annual mortality in the British metropolis is about 20 in 1,000, while in New York it is 26 in 1,000. The population of New York is also much more crowded, there being an average of 16 persons to a dwelling, while in London the average is only 7.

A BIRTHDAY PRIZE.

Mr. Crichlow's Lucky Experience With The Louisiana State Lottery.

Mr. J. A. Crichlow, a young man who has made a host of friends since his arrival from Tallahassee, Fla., a few weeks ago, celebrated his 31st anniversary on Friday last and on that date he received from The Louisiana State Lottery a roll of crisp $10 bills, amounting to $5,000 which he had caught in the June drawing. In chatting about his lucky dealings with this lottery to-day Mr. Crichlow said he had at intervals patronized the institution for the past ten years, and his drawings prior to this one amounted to over $600. On May 17th he left Florida and came to Santa Fe for the benefit of his health, friends having recommended the pure air of this region for a slight lung trouble, with which he was afflicted. Prior to leaving the South he wrote to a party in New Orleans for a ticket and secured No. 71,678. The drawing came off June 12th, and a few days later he received notice that he had drawn a big prize. Accordingly ticket No. 71,678 was forwarded to New Orleans through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express Company, and one-twentieth of the second capital prize of $100,000 was promptly paid by the lottery company, and on Friday it came to hand here and was turned over to the Mr. Crichlow. This gentleman says he has always had great faith in the fairness and business like methods governing this institution, and in the future as in the past he means to have a few chances in each monthly drawing. Mr. Crichlow is being generally congratulated by his friends over his success.

Rev. Dr. Meany, at whose suggestion Mr. Crichlow came to Santa Fe in search of health, speaks in the highest terms of this young gentleman. He knows his family intimately, and says they are among the most respected people of Florida.—Santa Fe (N. Mex.) New Mexican, July 3rd.

Allan Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

For instance, never shall I forget that scene when I for the first time was sure that she was really in love with Curtis. It came about in this way—all through Good's weakness for ladies' society. When we had been employed for some three months in learning Zu-Vendi it struck Master Good that he was getting rather tired of the old gentlemen who did us the honor to lead us in the way that we should go, so he proceeded, without saying a word to anybody else, to inform them that it was a peculiar fact, but that we could not make any real progress in the deeper intricacies of a foreign language unless we were taught by ladies—young ladies, he was careful to explain. In his own country, he pointed out, it was habitual to choose the very best looking and most charming girls who could be found to instruct any strangers who happened to come that way, etc.

All of this the old gentlemen swallowed open mouthed. There was, they admitted, reason in what he said, since the contemplation of the beautiful, as their philosophy taught, induced a certain porosity of mind similar to that produced upon the physical body by the healthful influences of sun and air; consequently it was probable that we might absorb the Zu-Vendi tongue a little faster if suitable teachers could be found. Another thing was that as the female sex was naturally loquacious, good practice would be gained in the viva voce department of our studies.

To all of this Good gravely assented, and the learned gentlemen departed, assuring him that their orders were to fall in with our wishes in every way, and that, if possible, our views should be met.

Imagine, therefore, the surprise and disgust of myself, and I trust and believe Sir Henry, when, on entering the room where we were accustomed to carry on our studies, the following morning, we found, instead of our usual venerable tutors, three of the best looking young women whom Milosis could produce—and that is saying a good deal—who blushed and smiled and courtesied, and gave us to understand that they were there to carry on our instruction. Then Good, as we gazed at one another in bewilderment, thought fit to explain, saying that it had slipped his memory before—but the old gentleman had told him, on the previous evening, that it was absolutely necessary that our further education should be carried on by the other sex. I was overwhelmed, and appealed to Sir Henry for advice in such a crisis.

"Well," he said, "you see the ladies are here, ain't they? If we sent them away, don't you think it might hurt their feelings, eh? One doesn't like to be rough, you see; and they look regular blues, don't they, eh?"

By this time Good had already begun his lessons with the handsomest of the three, and so with a sigh I yielded. That day everything went very well; the young ladies were certainly very clever, and they only smiled when we blundered. I never saw Good so attentive to his books before, and even Sir Henry appeared to tackle Zu-Vendi with a renewed zest. "Ah," thought I, "will it always be thus?"

Next day we were much more lively; our work was pleasingly interspersed with questions about our native country, what the ladies were like there, etc., all of which we answered as best we could in Zu-Vendi, and I heard Good assuring his teacher that her loveliness was to the beauties of Europe as the sun to the moon; to which she replied with a little toss of the head that she was a plain teaching woman and nothing else, and that it was not kind "to deceive a poor girl so." Then we had a little singing that was really charming, so natural and unaffected. The Zu-Vendi love songs are most touching. On the third day we were all quite intimate. Good narrated some of his previous love affairs to his fair teacher, and so moved was she that her sighs mingled with his own. I discoursed with mine, a merry, blue eyed girl, upon Zu-Vendian art, and never saw that she was waiting for an opportunity to drop a specimen of the cockroach tribe down my back, while in the corner Sir Henry and his governess appeared, so far as I could judge, to be going through a lesson framed on the great educational principles laid down by Wackford Squeers, Esq., though in a very modified or rather spiritualized form. The lady softly repeated the Zu-Vendi word for "hand," and he took hers; "eyes," and he gazed deep into her brown orbs; "lips," and—but just at that moment my young lady dropped the cockroach down my back and ran away laughing. Now, if there is one thing I loath more than another it is cockroaches, and moved quite beyond myself, and yet laughing at her impudence, I took up the cushion she had been sitting on and threw it after her. Imagine then my shame, my horror and my distress, when the door opened, and, attended by two guards only, in walked Nyleptha. The cushion could not be recalled (it missed the girl and hit one of the guards on the head), but I instantly and ineffectually tried to look as though I had not thrown it. Good ceased his sighing, and began to murder Zu-Vendi at the top of his voice, and Sir Henry whistled and looked silly. As for the poor girls, they were utterly dumfounded.

And Nyleptha! she drew herself up till her frame seemed to tower even above that of the tall guards, and her face went first red and then pale as death.

"Guards," she said, in a quiet, choked voice, and pointing at the fair but unconscious disciple of Wackford Squeers, "slay me that woman."

The men hesitated, as well they might.

"Will ye do my bidding?" she said, again in the same voice, "or will ye not?"

Then they advanced upon the girl with uplifted spears. By this time Sir Henry had recovered himself, and saw that the comedy was likely to turn into a tragedy.

"Stand back!" he said, in a voice of thunder, at the same time getting in front of the terrified girl. "Shame on thee, Nyleptha—shame! Thou shalt not kill her."

"Doubtless thou hast good reason to try to protect her. Thou couldst hardly do less in honor," answered the infuriated queen; "but she shall die—she shall die!" and she stamped her little foot.

"It is well," he answered; "then I will die with her. I am thy servant, O queen; do with me even as thou wilt," and he bowed towards her, and fixed his clear eyes contemptuously on her face.

"I could wish to slay thee, too," she answered; "for thou dost make a mock of me;" and then feeling that she was mastered, and I suppose not knowing what else to do, she burst into such a storm of tears, and looked so royally lovely in her passionate distress that, old as I am, I must say I envied Curtis his task of supporting her. It was rather odd to see him holding her in his arms considering what had just passed; a thought that seemed to occur to herself, for presently she wrenched herself free and went, leaving us all much disturbed.

Presently, however, one of the guards returned with a message to the girls that they were, on pain of death, to leave the city and return to their homes in the country, and that no further harm would come to them; and accordingly they went, one of them remarking philosophically that it could not be helped, and that it was a satisfaction to know that they had taught us a little serviceable Zu-Vendi. Mine was an exceedingly nice girl, and, overlooking the cockroach, I made her a present of my favorite lucky sixpence with a hole in it when she went away. After that our former masters resumed their course of instruction, needless to say to my great relief.

That night, when in fear and trembling we attended the royal supper table, we found that Nyleptha was laid up with a bad headache. That headache lasted for three whole days; but on the fourth she was present at supper as usual, and with the most gracious and sweet smile gave Sir Henry her hand to lead her to the table. No allusion was made to the little affair described above beyond her saying, with a charming air of innocence, that when she came to see us at our studies the other day she had been seized with a giddiness from which she had only now recovered. She supposed, she added, with the touch of the humor that was common to her, that it was the sight of people working so hard which had affected her.

In reply Sir Henry said, dryly, that he had thought she did not look quite herself on that day, whereat she flashed one of those quick glances of hers at him, which, if he had the feelings of a man, must have gone through him like a knife, and the subject dropped entirely. Indeed, after supper was over Nyleptha condescended to put us through an examination to see what we had learned, and to express herself well satisfied with the results. Indeed, she proceeded to give us, especially Sir Henry, a lesson on her own account, and very interesting we found it.

And all the while that we talked, or rather tried to talk, and laughed, Sorais would sit there in her carven ivory chair, and look at us and read us all like a book, only from time to time saying a few words, and smiling that quick ominous smile of hers which was more like a flash of summer lightning on a black cloud than anything else. And as near to her as he dared would sit Good, worshiping through his eye glass, for he really was getting seriously devoted to this sombre beauty, of whom, speaking personally, I felt terribly afraid. I watched her keenly, and soon I found out that for all her apparent impassibility she was at least bitterly jealous of Nyleptha. Another thing I found out, and the discovery filled me with dismay, and that was, that she also was growing devoted to Sir Henry Curtis. Of course I could not be sure; it is not easy to read so cold and haughty a woman, but I noticed one or two little things, and, as elephant hunters know, dried grass shows which way the wind has set.

And so another three months passed over us, by which time we had all attained to a very considerable mastery of the Zu-Vendi language, which is an easy one to learn. And as the time went on we became great favorites with the people, and even with the courtiers, gaining an enormous reputation for cleverness, because, as I think I have said, Sir Henry was able to show them how to make glass, which was a national want; and also, by the help of a twenty year almanac that we had with us, to predict various heavenly combinations which were quite unsuspected by the native astronomers. We even succeeded in demonstrating the principle of the steam engine to a gathering of the learned men, who were filled with amazement; and several other things of the same sort we did. And so it came about that the people made up their minds that we must on no account be allowed to go out of the country (which indeed was an apparent impossibility even if we had wished it), and we were advanced to great honor and made officers of the body guards of the sister queens, while permanent quarters were assigned to us in the palace, and our opinion was asked upon questions of national policy.

But like as the sky seemed, there was a cloud, and a big one, on the horizon. We had, indeed, heard no more of those confounded hippopotami; but it is not on that account to be supposed that our sacrilege was forgotten, or the enmity of the great and powerful priesthood headed by Agon appeased. On the contrary, it was burning the more fiercely because it was necessarily suppressed, and what had perhaps begun in bigotry was ending in downright direct hatred born of jealousy. Hitherto the priests had been the wise men of the land, and were on this account, as well as from superstitious causes, looked on with peculiar veneration. But our arrival, with our outlandish wisdom and our strange inventions and hints of unimagined things, dealt a serious blow to this state of affairs, and, among the educated Zu-Vendi, went far toward destroying the priestly prestige. A still worse affront to them, however, was the favor with which we were regarded, and the trust that was reposed in us. All these things tended to make us excessively obnoxious to the great sacerdotal clan, the most powerful because the most united faction in the kingdom.

Another source of imminent danger to us was the rising envy of some of the great lords, headed by Nasta, whose antagonism to us had at best been but thinly veiled, and which now threatened to break out into open flame. Nasta had for some years been a candidate for Nyleptha's hand in marriage; and when we appeared on the scene, fancy, from all I could gather, that though there were still many obstacles in his path, success was by no means out of his reach. But now all this had changed; the coy Nyleptha smiled no more in his direction, and he was not slow to guess the cause. Infuriated and alarmed, he turned his attention to Sorais, only to find that he might as well try to woo a mountain side. With a bitter jest or two about his fickleness, that door was closed on him forever. So Nasta bethought him of the 30,000 wild swordsmen who would pour down at his bidding through the northern mountain passes, and no doubt vowed to adorn the gates of Milosis with our heads.

But first he determined, as we learned, to make one more attempt, and to demand the hand of Nyleptha in the open court after the formal annual ceremony of the signing of the laws that had been proclaimed by the queens during the year.

Of this astounding fact Nyleptha heard with simulated nonchalance, and with a little trembling of the voice herself informed us of it as we sat at supper on the night preceding the great ceremony of the law signing.

Sir Henry bit his lip, and, do what he could to prevent it, plainly showed his agitation.

"And what answer will the queen be pleased to give to the great lord?" asked I, in a jesting manner.

"Answer, Macumazahn" (for we had elected to pass by our Zulu names in Zu-Vendi), she said, with a pretty shrug of her ivory shoulder. "Nay, I know not; what is a poor woman to do when the wooer has 30,000 swords wherewith to urge his love?" and from under her long lashes she glanced at Curtis.

Just then we rose from the table to adjourn into another room. "Quatermain, a word, quick!" said Sir Henry to me. "Listen; I have never spoken about it, but surely you have guessed—I love Nyleptha. What am I to do?"

Fortunately, I had more or less already taken the question into consideration, and was therefore able to give such answer as seemed the wisest to me.

"You must speak to Nyleptha to-night," I said. "Now is your time—now or never. Listen; in the sitting room get near to her, and whisper to her to meet you at midnight by the Rademas statue at the end of the great hall. I will keep watch for you there. Now or never, Curtis."

We passed on into the other room. Nyleptha was sitting, her hands before her, and a sad, anxious look upon her lovely face. A little way off was Sorais talking to Good in her slow, measured tones.

The time went on; in another quarter of an hour I knew that, according to their habit, the queens would retire. As yet Sir Henry had had no chance of saying a word in private; indeed, though we saw much of the royal sisters it was by no means easy to see them alone. I racked my brains, and at last an idea came to me.

"Will the queen be pleased," I said, bowing low before Sorais, "to sing unto her servants? Our hearts are heavy this night. Sing to us, O Lady of the Night" (Sorais' favorite name among the people).

"My songs, Macumazahn, are not such as to lighten the heavy heart, yet will I sing if it pleases thee," she answered, and she rose and went a few paces to a table, whereon lay an instrument not unlike a zither, and struck a few wandering chords.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

—"I think," said the minister, who was visiting the parishioner, "that it is easier to coax children than to drive them. Gentle words are more effective than harsh ones." "I think so, too," said the lady, tenderly. Then she raised her window and suddenly shouted to her boy: "Johnnie, if you don't come in out of that mud-puddle I'll break your back!"—Columbus Dispatch.

—It is reported that a "devil fish" or ocean vampire, weighing fully two tons, was recently caught in a fishing seine on the Mexican coast near Tampico. When dead and spread out on the beach it presented every appearance of an enormous bat or vampire. It was fifteen feet long and seventeen feet wide from the edges of the pectoral fins, and its mouth was five feet across.

—An office boy, fourteen years old, recently ran off with $25 belonging to a London firm. In count he made this statement: "Some time ago I went to see Buffalo Bill's 'Wild West' and made up my mind to go to America, and as soon as I got the check cashed I started off, but, not having enough money to take me to America, I followed the show. I still intend to go to America, and, even if I shall get ten years for this offence, I shall go afterward."

—There is at Lone Pine, Inyo County, Cal., a rock that might be easily passed off for a petrified elephant. A photograph of the rock shows as like as possible to the photograph of an elephant. The trunk, the eyes, the head and body are all as well formed in the photograph as if the camera had been turned to a living animal. The wrinkles and folds in the skin of an elephant and the color are all repeated in the rock. The symmetry and proportions of the living animal are reproduced in this remarkable freak of nature.

HELPING THE RIGHT SIDE.

To help the right side is not only commendable in a general point of view, but is judicious and prudent when that help is enlisted in behalf of the right side of the body, just over the lower ribs in the region of the liver. The most efficient help is afforded by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an anti-bilious medicine of incomparable efficacy. Inaction of the liver is accompanied by constipation, sick-headache, furred tongue, nausea, occasional vertigo, an unpleasant breath, yellowness of the skin and ball of the eye. The author of these symptoms, liver complaint, routed by the Bitters is accompanied by them in its flight. Fever and ague, which always involves the liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, debility and kidney troubles are all maladies to the early relief and final cure of which this standard medicine is adapted. Don't use it by fits and starts, but systematically, that its full effects may result in a perfect restoration of health.

The same papers that are in the habit of saying "funeral obsequires" refer to the Thurman ensign as a "bandana handkerchief."

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Do you suppose the clock feels any richer after it has made a ten-strike?

A PROMINENT MERCHANT IN TROUBLE.

Old moneybags mopes in his office all day,
As snappish and cross as a bear;
The clerks know enough to keep out of his way,
Lest the merchant should grumble and swear.
Even Tabby, the cat, is in fear of a cuff,
Or a kick if she ventures too near;
They all know the master is apt to be rough,
And his freaks unexpected and queer.

What makes the old fellow so surly and grim,
And behave so confoundedly mean?
There's certainly something the matter with him—
Is it stomach, or liver, or spleen?
We've guessed it—his liver is sluggish and bad,
His blood is disordered and foul.
It's enough to make any one hopelessly mad,
And greet his best friend with a growl.

The world wide remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, will correct a disordered liver and purify the blood, tone your system and build up your flesh and strength.

The officers and crews of schooners are the only persons who can serve two masters.

THE MODEL HOTEL OF SAN FRANCISCO—THE BALDWIN.

This magnificent hotel, contains a world of comfort. It is noted for the elegance of its appointments, and the excellence of its cuisine. Wealth, science and art are here combined, to render enjoyment of guests perfect. Each department is managed with the most diligent watchfulness, so that the most exacting guest cannot fail to be satisfied. From the elegantly furnished rooms to the bountiously supplied table, everything is as near perfection as possible. The central location of the Baldwin, makes it convenient for those visiting the city either on business or pleasure.

Why is a doctor like a broken windlass? Because he can draw nothing from the well.

The spooks and goblins that delight
To fill with terror all the night;
That stalk abroad in hideous dreams
With which dyspepsia's fancy teems,
Will never trouble with their ills
The man who trusts in Pierce's Pills.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets:—vegetable, harmless, painless, sure!

The regular diner-out "goeth about like a lion seeking what he may devour.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, sleeplessness, etc. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

One touch of rumor makes the whole world chin.

WHAT IT MEANS.

To the man or woman who has never been ill, the word "health" is meaningless. But to the one who has suffered and despaired, health appears as a priceless boon. To the thousands of unfortunate women who are suffering from some of the many forms of weaknesses or irregularities peculiar to their sex, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy restoration of this "priceless boon."

You can't expect a physician out of patients to be in a good humor.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. CATES & CO., Proprietors
417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 320

ALWAYS SAFE AND SURE.

It is safe to take BRANDRETH'S PILLS at any time, but to get the best results they should be taken on an empty stomach before going to bed. For Constipation or Dyspepsia one or two taken every night will, in a short time, perform an absolute cure. It is well to take a purgative at least once or twice a month as a preventive of disease. BRANDRETH'S PILLS are entirely vegetable, and the safest and most effective purgative ever introduced to the public. They have been used in this country for over fifty years.

Tennis suits are made loud this season to go with the racquet.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are excellent for the relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are exceedingly effective. Sold only in boxes. Price 25c.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging, most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & HAINES, Gabler, Roenisch Pianos; Burdett organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CAMPAIGN HANDKERCHIEFS,
Republican Flag,
DEMOCRATIC BANDANAS.
PURE SILK.....75 CENTS.
COTTON.....10 CENTS.
Cleveland or Harrison Campaign Buttons, 25 Cents Each.

Wolf & Frank
MENS' FURNISHING GOODS,
232 KEARNY STREET, S. F.
Orders by mail promptly filled.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is Probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER
This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits.
John I. Thompson Sons & Co., TROY, N. Y.

H. BERNHAND & CO.
Manufacturers of Woolen & Hair Mattresses of every description. 151 New Montgomery St., S. F.

C. H. STREET & CO.
Successors to the IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.
415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F., CAL.

We are offering the following in 20, 40, 80 or 160 acre Farms.

| | | | ACRES. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rosenthal Colony, | Tehama | County, | 9,000 |
| Monte Vista " | Shasta | " | 1,500 |
| Dehesia " | " | " | 1,420 |
| Lutheran " | " | " | 6,000 |
| Shingletown " | " | " | 16,000 |
| Anderson " | " | " | 1,920 |
| Miramonte " | Fresno | " | 2,640 |
| Greenwood " | San Luis Obispo | | 500 |
| Waukena " | Tulare | | 11,000 |
| Point Keys " | Marin | | 14,000 |

—ALSO—

Other lands for general farming, fruit growing or stock raising.

A HOME FOR EVERYBODY—SECURE A home on easy terms in the country, while retaining your present residence, position and salary; 10, 20 or more acres of land, with or without a house, on the installment plan in one of our colonies; we will plant the same to your order with fruit trees or raisin grapes and will keep it in good condition until full bearing; with or without irrigation; these lands lie north or south of San Francisco, in the coast or interior counties, near or distant from railroad or town and vary in price. C. H. STREET & CO., successors to the Immigration Association of California, 415 Montgomery street.
Send for particulars and full descriptions.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent on receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

WELL DRILLS
FOR EVERY PURPOSE.
Sold on Trial!
Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by
GOULDS & AUSTIN,
167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

PIANOS, 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

BIG G Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, O. Trade Mark

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists

Sugar Lower again.

The recent advance in Sugar is not maintained. Price to-day (July 30th) is 6¾ cents for Golden C and 7⅞ finest Granulated, with usual advance for half-barrels and boxes. We keep the best, and fill all cash orders at lowest rates on day received. Coffee is also lower than on July 1st. Sugar Corn or Sugar Peas, worth $1.50 to $1.60, we offer at $1.20 to $1.30 per dozen. Dried Fruit is coming in. Dark grades are very low. We fill orders for this class at 5c a pound in Peaches or Apricots; also quote 5c for cooking Raisins, Pears, Figs or Plums, and for choice new Bleached and Evaporated up to 12½c and 15c. If you have Fruit—that is, Dried Fruit—for this market send it along! We can do as well as anyone, and will be very prompt in reporting sales. Send Eggs, Butter, Grain, Hides, Beans, Cheese, or any goods we trade in. Interior Butter has to come into competition with Eastern grades, and sells low, but fine Coast Dairies are in good demand. We fill orders for large or small amounts, and you need not wait till you get a large sum. We will take the same pains with your demands as if you bought a thousand dollars worth at a time. Give your postoffice address and shipping directions every time, and if you have no Home Circle send for one to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

TO THE LADIES!
Jacobs & Co.
MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANT'S WEAR.
113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.
Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

An Active Agent
WANTED IN EACH COUNTY FOR THE Two BEST CAMPAIGN BOOKS in the market. Address, F. PERSON, Room 77, Flood Building, San Francisco.

Fairbanks'

STANDARD SCALES,
Grain Trucks, Bag Holders, Pinch Bars, Coffee Mills, Grocers Supplies and Fittings, Asbestos Packed Cocks, Standard Thermometers, Golden Gate Windmills,
Send for Illustrated List to
FAIRBANKS & HUTCHINSON,
519 Market Street,
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

"SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" PLUG CUT

SMOKING TOBACCO.
Selected with great care from the choicest tobacco regions of North Carolina.
Smokes Cool—Lasts Long—Does not blow out the Pipe.
It is the undisputed leader of Plug Cut Smoking Tobacco throughout the world.

CALCUTTA GRAIN BAGS
In Lots to Suit AT LOWEST MARKET RATES.
Quotations Furnished on Application.
GRANGERS' BUSINESS ASSOCIATION,
No. 108 Davis Street, - - - - San Francisco, Cal.

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

A PLEASANT
REMEDIAL HOME.
FULL STAFF OF EXPERIENCED PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS.
Many CHRONIC DISEASES Successfully Treated without a Personal Consultation.

WE obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the application, to the practice of medicine, of well-established principles of modern science. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of invalids, however distant they may reside. Write and describe your symptoms, inclosing ten cents in stamps, and a complete treatise, on your particular disease, will be sent you, with our opinion as to its nature and curability.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

NASAL, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES. The treatment of Diseases of the Air Passages and Lungs, such as Chronic Catarrh in the Head, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption, both through correspondence and at our institutions, constitutes an important specialty.
We publish three separate books on Nasal, Throat and Lung Diseases, which give much valuable information, viz: (1) A Treatise on Consumption, Laryngitis and Bronchitis; price, post-paid, ten cents. (2) A Treatise on Asthma, or Phthisic, giving new and successful treatment; price, post-paid, ten cents. (3) A Treatise on Chronic Catarrh in the Head; price, post-paid, two cents.

DISEASES OF DIGESTION. Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Obstinate Constipation, Chronic Diarrhea, Tape-worms, and kindred affections, are among those chronic diseases in the successful treatment of which our specialists have attained great success. Our Complete Treatise on Diseases of the Digestive Organs will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

KIDNEY DISEASES. BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES, and kindred maladies, have been very largely treated, and cures effected in thousands of cases which had been pronounced beyond hope. These diseases are readily diagnosticated, or determined, by chemical analysis of the urine, without a personal examination of patients, who can, therefore, generally be successfully treated at their homes. The study and practice of chemical analysis and microscopical examination of the urine in our consideration of cases, with reference to correct diagnosis, in which our institution long ago became famous, has naturally led to a very extensive practice in diseases of the urinary organs.

CAUTION. These diseases should be treated only by a specialist thoroughly familiar with them, and who is competent to ascertain the exact condition and stage of advancement which the disease has made (which can only be ascertained by a careful chemical and microscopical examination of the urine), for medicines which are curative in one stage or condition do positive injury in others.
Being in constant receipt of numerous inquiries for a complete work on the nature and curability of these maladies, written in a style to be easily understood, we have published a large, Illustrated Treatise on these diseases, which will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

BLADDER DISEASES. INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, STONE IN THE BLADDER, Gravel, Enlarged Prostate Gland, Retention of Urine, and kindred affections, may be included among those in the cure of which our specialists have achieved extraordinary success. These are fully treated of in our Illustrated Pamphlet on Urinary Diseases. Sent by mail for 10 cts. in stamps.

STRICTURE. STRICTURES AND URINARY FISTULAS.—Hundreds of cases of the worst form of strictures, many of them greatly aggravated by the careless use of instruments in the hands of inexperienced physicians and surgeons, causing false passages, urinary fistulæ, and other complications, annually consult us for relief and cure. That no case of this class is too difficult for the skill of our specialists is proved by cures reported in our illustrated treatise on these maladies, to which we refer with pride. To intrust this class of cases to physicians of small experience, is a dangerous proceeding. Many a man has been ruined for life by so doing, while thousands annually lose their lives through unskillful treatment. Send particulars of your case and ten cents in stamps for a large, Illustrated Treatise containing many testimonials.

NERVOUS DISEASES. Epileptic Convulsions, or Fits, Paralysis, or Palsy, Locomotor Ataxia, St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, and threatened insanity, Nervous Debility, and every variety of nervous affection, are treated by our specialists for these diseases with unusual success. See numerous cases reported in our different illustrated pamphlets on nervous diseases, any one of which will be sent for ten cents in postage stamps, when request for them is accompanied with a statement of a case for consultation, so that we may know which one of our Treatises to send.

DISEASES OF WOMEN. We have a Special Department, devoted exclusively to the treatment of Diseases of Women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not already baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full Council of skilled specialists. Rooms for ladies in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute are very private. Send ten cents in stamps for our Complete Treatise on Diseases of Women, illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates (160 pages).

RADICAL CURE OF RUPTURE. HERNIA (Breach), or RUPTURE, no matter of how long standing, or of what size, is promptly and permanently cured by our specialists, without the knife and without dependence upon trusses. Abundant references. Send ten cents for our Illustrated Treatise.
PILES, FISTULÆ, and other diseases affecting the lower bowels, are treated with wonderful success. The worst cases of pile tumors, are permanently cured in fifteen to twenty days. Send ten cents for Illustrated Treatise.

WEAK MEN. Organic weakness, nervous debility, premature decline of the manly

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... SEPTEMBER 15, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 14. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 15, 1888. WHOLE NO. 933.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

OLD-TIME PUNISHMENTS.

Days When Laws Were More Cruel Than They Are To-day.

In 1637 Dorothy Talby, for beating her husband, was ordered bound and chained to a post.

In the last half of the eighteenth century it appears to have been a capital crime for negroes to steal.

In 1638 the assistants of Salem, Mass., ordered two men to sit in stocks on lecture day for traveling on the Sabbath.

Mr. Southwick, for returning after having been banished, was whipped through the towns of Boston, Roxbury and Dedham.

On May 3, 1669, Thomas Mule was whipped for saying that one Higginson preached lies, and that his instruction was the doctrine of devils.

At Springfield, Mass., in October, 1767, one Elnathan Muggin was found guilty of passing counterfeit money and was sentenced to have his ears cropped.

John Gray, of Cordwainer, who endeavored to spread the small-pox, was sentenced to three months imprisonment and to pay a fine of six pounds and costs.

In 1762 Jeremiah Dexter, of Walpole, pursuant to sentence, stood in the pillory of that town for two hours for "uttering" two counterfeit milled dollars.

Andrew Cayto received forty-nine stripes at the public whipping post in Boston for house-robbing; thirty-nine for robbing one house and ten for robbing another.

On December 6, 1787, William Clark was executed at Northampton for burglary. The same day Charles Rose and Jonathan Bly were executed at Lennox for robbery.

Josiah Southwick, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Buffum, and other quakers, for making disturbances in meeting houses were whipped at the cart's tail through the town of Salem.

The Boston Chronicle, of November 20, 1769, narrates the fact that one Lindsay was branded with hot iron for forgery. The officers put a letter "F" on the palm of his hand.

In New York during the month of January, 1761, Joseph Bennett, John Jenkins, Owen McCarthy and John Wright were publicly whipped at the cart's tail for petty larceny.

In 1767 a negro wench was executed by hanging for stealing sundry articles out of the house of Mr. Forbes; and one John Douglass was burned with a letter "S" for stealing a copper kettle.

At a session of court held at Norristown, Pa., October 11, 1786, Philip Hoosenagle was found guilty of burglary, and it was with great difficulty that he was prevailed upon to accept hard labor instead of hanging.

On March 12, 1715, one Mecum, of Newport, R. I., was executed for murder, and his body was hung in chains on Miantonamy hill, where the remains of an Indian were then hanging, who had been executed September 12, 1712.

In 1649 women were prosecuted for scolding, and in May, 1762, the General Court of Massachusetts ordered that "scolds and raiders should be gagged or set in a ducking stool and dipped over head and ears three times."

At Ipswich, Mass., June 16, 1763, Francis Brown, for stealing a large quantity of goods, was found guilty on second trial, and was sentenced to sit on the gallows an hour with a rope around his neck, to be whipped thirty stripes, and pay treble damage.

In Boston, in 1762, the then noted Dr. Seth Hudson and Joshua Howe stood a second time in the pillory for the space of one hour, and the former received twenty and the latter thirty-nine stripes for stealing, and were compelled to pay triple damages (30 pounds) and costs.

In 1644, Mary, wife of Thomas Oliver, was sentenced to be publicly whipped for reproaching the magistrates; in 1646 she slandered the elders and was sentenced to have a cleft stick put on her tongue for half an hour. She finally, in 1850, left the colony, after having caused much trouble in the church and to the authorities.

In 1788, at the Supreme Judicial Court, held at Salem, Mass., James Ray, a thief, laughed out at the judge when he was sentenced to sit on the gallows with a rope around his neck for an hour, and to be whipped with thirty-nine stripes. The judge had not finished the sentence when he was interrupted by Ray's boisterousness. He concluded the sentence with three years to Castle island (Boston Harbor), when Ray grew pale, his head dropped on his breast, and he said he would rather die than work.—Chicago News.

Individual Stationery.

Individual stationery is a notion that spreads like witch grass in the ground. Each woman must have something that is characteristic of herself, something original, something by which her private letter paper may anywhere be known. A favorite fancy is a black and white sketch in broad outline, done with light strokes, and not too large or conspicuous, just an odd bit of something to catch the reader's eye stowed away in one corner. A woman who can handle a pencil has the advantage here. She will have a thorny rose, or a heap of sea shells, or a couple of tennis rackets hurling cupids toward each other, or a yacht in a stiff breeze, or a blue stocking bending over a writing desk, or any one of fifty oddities else heading her letter paper. Girls in want of pin money are earning large sums doing these things for richer friends. They are never pretty, nor even tolerable, unless they are done with a half dozen free strokes, and then they are some times very pretty indeed.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—The late Vice-President Wheeler gave away between forty and fifty thousand dollars during the closing years of his life.

—In the Stewart will case at New York, Mr. Ansley testified that Mrs. Stewart distributed nearly $1,500,000 among her relatives before she died.

—Fred Douglass has a fortune of $300,000, and there are said to be more than one hundred colored men in Washington who are worth $25,000 or more.

—General Patrick Collins, who presided over the St. Louis convention, got his schooling in Ohio while working hard in a coal mine and on a farm. At sixteen he became an apprentice in Boston, and on the expiration of his apprenticeship had $1,100 to his credit.

—Munemitsu Mutsu, the new Japanese Minister to this country, is about forty-five years of age. He is extremely learned and possesses great executive ability. In 1877 he was imprisoned near Tokio for his connection with the Sigo rebellion. His sentence was for twelve years, but at the end of five years the Government released him, having discovered that his offense was less flagrant than at first supposed.

—Dr. Lyman Abbott, who has accepted the call to Plymouth pulpit, is a man with remarkable capacity for work. In his personal appearance he is just the opposite of his famous predecessor. He is tall and thin, with delicately-cut features and a flowing beard. One thing in common with Mr. Beecher is the big slouch hat or wide-awake that adorns his head.

—Brother Simpson (examining a neighbor's horse behind the church sheds)—"I ain't a-tryin' to work up no hoss trade on the holy Sab'th. 'Tain't my style o' doin' business. Sunday's for relig'ous dooties. But I say, if you'll bring that thar mare o' yourn round to-morrer mornin' I'll swap even, and throw in that old ram o' mine. I will. I swan I will!"—Harper's Bazar.

—Eli Perkins, the alleged humorist, was lately paid in his own coin, according to the Albany Journal. He wrote to Mr. Caldwell, the general manager of the Michigan Central railroad, for a pass over the Nickel Plate road. Caldwell is a dignified gentleman, who seldom condescends to a joke. Perkins wrote what was intended to be a funny letter, closing with: "Inclosed find five dollars—if you can!" Mr. Caldwell's reply acknowledged the receipt of the letter briefly, and closed by saying: "Inclosed find pass as requested—if you can!" Mr. Perkins paid his fare.

—Alexander Graham Bell, the telephone millionaire, has only just turned his fortieth year, and yet his hair and beard are streaked with gray. Mr. Bell is a Scotchman, and has only been in this country since 1872. He was very poor when he landed, but he is very rich now, and his poor relations in Scotland have profited by his generosity. Mrs. Bell is a deaf-mute, but she understands lip-reading so well that her husband converses with her the same as he would if she were not so afflicted, and no one who hears them suspects that she can not speak and hear as other people.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE."

—In a Temperance Hotel.—Guest—"Is there a chance for a man to get any spirits here?" Clerk—"No sir, not the ghost of a chance."—Critic.

—A Cape Cod farmer says: "This larnin' ev'ry girl to play on the pianner, and ev'ry boy to be a book-keeper, will make pertaters five dollars a bushel afore many years."

—Farmer's Wife (limping into the house)—"That brindle cow kicked me, John, an' I'm afraid my leg is broken." Farmer—"Gash ding that critter! Is the milk spilled."—Texas Siftings.

—Husband—"That gas ought to be turned down. It is singing away there in lively style." Wife (laughingly)—"Singing, eh? In what meter is the music? Can you tell me?" Husband (crossly)—"Yes. Gas meter."—Lowell Citizen.

—A country girl, coming from the field, was told by her cousin that she "looked as fresh as a daisy kissed with dew." "Well, it wasn't any feller by that name, but it was Steve Jones that kissed me; I told him that everyone in town would find it out."

—It is an excellent plan, the American Cultivator says, as soon as potatoes are well up to go over the piece and throw a handful of a mixture of salt and ashes on each hill. The preparation is soon washed down into the ground by rains. It repels insects, makes the potatoes fair and smooth and helps to draw moisture to the potato during a dry time.

—"Yes," said old Mrs. Loosetongue, "I know when it's best to keep still about certain things, and running 'round talking 'bout my neighbors is something I won't do. There's enough I could tell if I wanted to, but I won't. If folks want to know that that stuck-up Mrs. Lofty has an own brother in State's prison they can find it out from somebody besides me. I'll not tell it to anybody. I ain't a talkin' person, I ain't."

—"Fain would I write a poem on the delights of fishing; but, ah, me! I can not find a word to rhyme with angleworm,'" sighed Pisistratus, as he gazed thoughtfully into the dark, sullen waters. "But why must you put that word at the end of a line?" queried Eucalyptus. "Because an angleworm is always at the end of a line," hissed Pisistratus between his set teeth; and for a long time it was so still that one could distinctly hear a peach blow.—Puck

CHIROGRAPHIC FACTS

Notes Concerning the Handwriting of Some Great Men and Women.

Poe wrote an exceedingly beautiful hand, and was pronounced "the first of geniuses who had written legibly." N. P. Willis wrote a very dashing hand; Leigh Hunt, a graceful one; Gray, Tom Moore and Buchanan Read a pleasant running hand. Keats' handwriting was bold but rather clerky, not the kind of a hand we might expect from the author of the "Eve of St. Agnes." Sir Walter Scott wrote a hand that will disappoint all admirers of his works; it is entirely devoid of character, being formed in his early manhood by copying law papers. Paul H. Hayne wrote a very dainty hand, with many quaint and curious little flourishes. Longfellow's hand did not display much character; Bryant's would make the fortune of a clerk, but it is not the graceful hand we expect in a poet. Father Ryan, author of "The Conquered Banner," wrote a very beautiful hand, while Ralph Waldo Emerson's was sprawling and decidedly bad; but that of Oliver Holmes is highly finished, with a charming and picturesque quaintness.

Chesterfield, who wrote a most graceful hand, declared that "every man who has the use of his eyes and right hand can write whatever hand he pleases." This is going a little too far. If Byron, who had "the use of his eyes and his right hand," could have written "whatever hand he pleased," is it natural to suppose that he could have written his wretched schoolboy scrawl? or would Macaulay have written his sprawling hand? or would Napoleon I. have written the worst hand on record?—so bad that his letters to Josephine from Germany were sometimes mistaken for maps of the seat of war. In marked contrast were the signatures of the three Napoleons. The first wrote a mere scrawl, no letter formed, no words completely written out; the second wrote a large, fair, handsome hand; while the third wrote a neat, running, easy and legible hand.

Washington wrote a firm, dignified and manly hand; Cromwell, a large, bold and steady hand; Henry VIII. a strong and determined hand, while that of Charles II. was a running scrawl.

Before Queen Elizabeth ascended the throne her handwriting was clear, regular and beautiful. A melancholy change took place after she became Queen. The letters grew thin and spiteful, the lines irregular—a cross old maid's copy of her former hand. Mary, Queen of Scots, wrote a graceful, feminine hand, indicating sweetness and nobility. Queen Victoria's signature is well formed, each letter being carefully written.

Some handwritings are unpardonably bad. Among these may be mentioned that of J. Fenimore Cooper. It looks as if written with a stick instead of a pen; that of Reverdy Johnson, which was an illegible, ill-formed scratch; that of Horace Greeley, which was almost unreadable. James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd, wrote like one more familiar with the shears than with the pen; Charles Dickens wrote a very poor hand.—B. L. Didier, in Collector.

IN A HEMP HACIENDA.

Peculiar Sights and Customs in a Queer Corner at Yucatan.

There are no less than three hundred peons and workmen employed on this estate, and every body seems busy and happy. Every servant we met saluted us with a cheery buenos dias (good day), and when we left all added to their regretful farewell an earnest "To God I commend you." Outside the hacienda walls the homes of the laborers are scattered along the road, curious elliptical huts with stone walls and thatched roofs. At sunset, when the chapel bell sounded for oracion or evening prayer, all the peons and workmen, male and female, gathered about with reverent faces. When it was finished they came in procession, one by one, and wished their masters and ourselves buenos noches (good night). In every portion of Yucatan this is the universal custom, servants and children never failing to give this salutation of peace as the last stroke of the vesper bell dies upon the air. We had intended to go on that night but yielded to earnest entreaties to remain—the more readily, perhaps, because every one of us was suffering horribly from garripotas (wood-ticks), with which the whole peninsula abounds. They are tiny creatures, but produce an unbearable itching, festering bodily in the wounds they make. It is impossible to travel here without encountering them, and the only remedy is to keep one's self well saturated with petroleum, and to change one's clothes every time a tree is passed.

For dinner, in addition to the usual eggs, frejoles and tortillas, we had turtle-soup, roast pig, claret and honey. Let me tell you how that pig was cooked, in the national way derived from their forefathers—the same manner in which Bernal Diaz says those respectable people cooked men and women—"by a sort of oven made with heated stones, which are put under ground." A hole was dug in the courtyard, a large fire kindled in it, and kept burning until it was heated like an oven. Two clean stones were placed in the bottom, the dressed pig laid upon them, and covered with leaves and bushes, packed down with stones so closely as barely to allow the smoke to escape. The result was a barbecue of finest flavor, which even an enemy to pork must admire.—Philadelphia Record.

YUCATECAN ETIQUETTE.

Some of the Commendable Traits of Our Spanish-American Neighbors.

Yucatan gentlemen higher in the social scale than John the Baptist are less extravagant in their expressions of gallantry. In saluting ladies they still observe the Spanish form a los pies de usted, "at your feet;" to which figure of speech the correct response is Beso a usted la mano, "I kiss the hand to you." In closing an ordinary letter of business or friendship every body in this part of the world always adds B. S. M., meaning beso sus manos, "I kiss your hands." The Spanish-American, like his Latin brethren across the sea, talks quite as much with hands and eyes as with his tongue, and shrugs his shoulders as frequently as a Frenchman. One of the prettiest of the many gestures in general use here is called the beso soplado—throwing kisses by gathering the fingers of the right hand into a close group, touching the lips, then throwing them out like a fan, at the same time blowing on the hand as it is outstretched toward the person for whom the demonstration is intended, thus signifying that five kisses are given at once.

Gentlemen manifest their appreciation of female beauty by gazing intently into the faces of the ladies, whether in the street, in the church or at the opera. This custom, which elsewhere would be resented as an impertinence, is here accepted, as it is meant, merely as a flattering tribute to the fair one's charms. Between acts of the opera men rise to their feet, and with leveled glasses, pay admiring homage to those dark-eyed senoritas whose beauty has attracted them. Then the pretty language of the fan comes into play, and the well-pleased maidens carry away blissful memories of gallant knights and "eyes that spake again."

In ascending a stairway the lady takes the gentleman's arm, as at the North; but in descending he always goes a step or two ahead, holding her firmly by the hand, to avoid accidents, with as much solicitude as if she were an invalid or a cripple. The same careful attention is offered to the veriest stranger, as naturally, and with far more regularity and promptitude than our own countrymen show in relinquishing a seat in a crowded car to one of the weaker sex. On leaving the house after having made a friendly call, the salutation with the hand the oft-repeated bow and the "a los pies de usted," are continued just as long as one is in sight, and instead of finding any thing tedious and wearisome in this long-drawn-out civility, one feels as if he had been transported back to the days of chivalry.

One highly commendable trait of Yucatecan character is that they will never say any thing disagreeable to you, either on their own account or in repeating the gossip to others. For instance, in alluding to one's age, the greatest delicacy is always exercised. If one is considerably advanced in years he is spoken of as viejito—"a little old." A girl may remain unwedded thirty years or more before she is considered a soltera, or, in plain English, an old maid; and after that nothing more offensive is ever said than that she is "very fastidiosa," "very difficult to please," and they sometimes add that she is "good to dress the saints," meaning that, having no family of her own to make garments for, she may devote her time to the holy work of making vestments for the sacred images.—Fannie B. Ward, in Troy (N. Y.) Times.

OUR COAL PRODUCTION.

An Increasing Output Indicated by Official Figures.

The following statistics of coal production in the United States are furnished from the department at Washington:

The total production of all kinds of commercial coal in 1887 was 123,965,255 short tons (increase over 1886, 16,283,046 tons), valued at the mines at $173,530,996 (increase, $26,418,241). This may be divided into Pennsylvania anthracite, 39,506,255 short tons (increase, 2,809,780 short tons), or 35,273,442 long tons (increase, 2,508,732 long tons), valued at $79,365,244 (increase, $7,807,118); all other coals, including bituminous, brown coal, lignite, small lots of anthracite produced in Colorado and Arkansas, and 6,000 tons of graphitic coal mined in Rhode Island, amounting in the aggregate to 84,459,000 short tons (increase, 13,473,266 tons), valued at $94,165,752 (increase, $18,611,123).

The colliery consumption at the individual mines varies from nothing to 8 per cent. of the total output of the mines, being greatest at special Pennsylvania anthracite mines and lowest at those bituminous mines where the coal bed lies nearly horizontal and where no steam-power or ventilating furnaces are used. The averages for the different States vary from 2 1-10 to 6 1-7 per cent.

The total output of the mines, including colliery consumption, was: Pennsylvania anthracite, 37,578,747 long tons (increase over 1886, 2,725,670 long tons), or 42,088,197 short tons (increase, 3,052,751 short tons); all other coals, 87,837,360 short tons (increase, 14,129,403 tons), making the total output of all coals from mines in the United States, exclusive of slack coal thrown on the dumps, 129,925,557 short tons (increase, 17,182,154 tons), valued as follows: Anthracite, $84,552,181 (increase, $8,433,061); bituminous, $97,939,656 (increase, $19,458,600); total value, $182,491,837 (increase, $27,891,661). The above figures show a notable increase in 1887 over 1886 in the aggregate output and value of both anthracite and bituminous coal.—Chicago Tribune.

CLOTHES FOR SOLDIERS.

How Uncle Sam Supplies His Army With Good Goods at Cost.

The largest clothing, boot and shoe store in this country is run by the United States though they sell things down at cost prices and there is no profit in it. Every army recruiting station is a branch store where supplies are dealt out. It is different from ordinary stores, in that the United States treasury furnishes the money that buys the boots, hats, blankets and clothes, and the money that pays from the United States also comes from the Treasury. Besides his pay each soldier in the regular army has an allowance for clothing which varies from $178.85 to $228.49 for his five years' term. This is only from $35.77 to $45.69 a year. If the soldiers had to go around and buy their own clothing at ordinary rates they would not have a new coat more than once every other year, and they would have to sleep in their underclothes to keep warm.

So the United States have gone into the business of supplying their ordinary things to soldiers at the bottom price at which the contracts for them can be made. There is no rent nor salesmen's salaries nor insurance nor profit to be paid by the Government. As a result, the prices at which clothing is sold to the soldiers are so low that many working-men who are paid four times as much wages as the soldiers are not glad as well. The blue coats cost $3.38. They are made of good material, well cut, and are better fitting than the uniform of the average policeman, for which he pays several times what the soldier pays. His caps cost 49 cents. His stockings cost 9 cents a pair, and they are better than those the Bowery boys sell for a quarter, while the 49-cent caps are as good as any man could wear. For his blue trousers the soldier pays $2. They are so cheap that he can buy half a dozen pairs with his month's pay, which is more than many working men who look down on soldiers can do.

The two bits of extravagance are the flannel shirts and the blankets. The shirts cost thirty-eight cents more than the trousers, but they are as good shirts as can be bought at any price, and they do not shrink into a woolly ball when they are washed. The blankets are sold for $4.28. It is easy enough to go to almost any dry goods shop and buy cheaper blankets than the soldiers have, but these blankets are wool and weigh six pounds. One pair of them is enough in cold weather, and they are warmer than several pairs of cheap blankets. The United States consider the health of their soldiers, and though they economize on the caps and trousers they supply the best woolen shirts and blankets.

There are various kinds of shoes, that sell from $1.76 to $3.04. Then there are heavy stockings that sell for more than the nine cents that the summer stockings bring. There are underclothes for sale, that are of such a good quality that the officers wear them in preference to the underclothing that they can buy in the usual way.

The United States go further and supply all the necessities of the soldiers at cost prices, and their cost rates are frequently lower than those at which a private storekeeper could buy, as the United States buy in large quantities and are sure pay. It also tends to increase a manufacturer's outside trade if he gets large garment contracts, and a big manufacturer, with a large stock on hand, can afford to sell to the United States at cost. If he sold at the same rate to private sellers they might cut retail rates, while the United States sell to nobody but soldiers.

When a recruit is sworn in the sergeant takes him into the clothing-room and fits him up with a full outfit. The cost of it is taken from his pay, though at the rates at which the Government sells it does not take him long to pay up. No one may buy clothing in this way from the Government except soldiers, and it is a crime for any clothing to be given or sold to any one else. If the Government were to sell to everybody at the same rate the business of the furnishing goods stores in the neighborhood of recruiting stations would be ruined.—N. Y. Sun.

Hanged with a Woman's Hair.

Among the strange things which have found their way into the rooms of the Natural History Society is a sparrow which was hanged by a woman's hair. It was discovered by T. A. Lamson, of 24 Florence street. Near his house is a large number of pine trees, and he saw at the end of a limb on one of these trees a sparrow suspended from a branch. He could see nothing by which the bird was hung, and it was a very curious sight. His son, who was called, went up into the tree and carefully sawed off a small portion of the limb. The whole secret was then revealed. On the twig was a neatly built nest, in which there were three speckled eggs. When examined they were found to be cold, which showed the home had been broken up for some time. The male sparrow was hung by a woman's hair which was placed around his neck just as neatly as though it had been done by human hands. The other end was fastened to the nest, being a part of it. The eggs were on one side of the nest, while on the other side was a hole just large enough for the bird to go through.

It may be, perhaps, that he had been attacked by an enemy and took this way of escaping, only to meet his death. In going through the nest the hair might have caught around the "chippers" neck, and thus caused the bird to choke to death.—Worcester (Mass.) Spy.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Popping the question would be just as light and easy a question as popping corn if it wasn't for the atonement.—Binghamton Leader.

—A tarantula escaped from the bottle in which an embryo naturalist was bringing it away from Hot Springs the other day, and for an half hour or more was decidedly the most important passenger on a crowded car.

—Mr. Gotham—"Would you like to see 'Pygmalion' to-night, Miss Porcine?" Miss Porcine (of Cincinnati)—"Yes, very much, Mr. Gotham. I believe in encouraging any thing connected with the great hog industry."—Puck.

—The maximum cost of feeding a Chinese passenger from China to San Francisco is twelve cents a day, but the Canadian Pacific steamship Abyssina recently brought over 1,500 Celestials at an average cost of 4¾ cents a day. It was mostly rice and not much of it.

—The oldest house in Indiana, the old Moore mansion, situated on the Utica pike, near Four Mile Springs, was recently torn down. It was built in 1800, of stone and brick, and for many years past has had the reputation of being haunted.

—Of all the mean things said by men, to and about women, commend us to that crabbed parson who told the sisters of his flock that "Christ appeared first to women after the resurrection, just so as the news might spread faster."

—Scientists are of the opinion that the newly discovered cities of Arizona are those sought by Cortez and the early Spanish adventurers in their expeditions after gold. The cities are seven in number, and give evidence of former civilization and wealth.

—A speed trial between the telegraph and telephone from New York to Boston was lately undertaken at the Sun office in New York City. The contest lasted for ten minutes; 330 words were delivered in Boston, ready for the printer, by the telegraph, and 346 words by telephone. But many of the telephone words were incorrectly received. So the telegraph was the winner.

—Within the Antartic Circle there has never been found a flowering plant. In the Arctic region there are 762 kinds of flowers; fifty of these are confined to the Arctic region. They are really Polar flowers. The colors of these Polar flowers are not as bright and varied as our own, most of them being white or yellow, as if borrowing these hardy hues from their snowy bergs and golden stars.

—Brown (to Dumley, who has had a bout at billiards with Robinson)—"What do you think, Dumley, of Robinson's game?" Dumley—"He's a fair player, but mighty lucky." Brown (a little later, to Robinson)—"What do you think, Robinson, of Dumley's billiards?" Robinson—"He plays a fair game, but is one of the luckiest men I ever saw."—Drake's Magazine.

—Omaha man—"Think law is a useless relic of barbarism, eh?" Enthusiastic Socialist—"It's worse, it is a curse; there should be no law; men don't need law, and they would get along much better without it. But I am in a hurry; have an engagement to meet the committee to-night." "What committee?" "The committee to draft oath-bound, iron-clad, obey or-die laws to govern our Socialistic organizations."—Omaha World.

—In 1742 there flourished in Boston an original sort of a character, Thomas Fleet, who was a printer and the most popular auctioneer of his day. Among other rare bargains he offered at public sale was this: "A negro woman to be sold by the printer of this paper; the very best negro woman in this town, who has had the smallpox and the measles; is as hearty as a shore, as brisk as a bird, and will work like a beaver."

—"Don't be a clam" is a warning that meets one very frequently now-a-days. Well, why not? What's the matter with a clam? He's all right. If he fulfills his mission and makes the most of himself, what more could be expected and what more could any person do? The clam is as well born, as well bred, and as respectable as the oyster, yet nobody thinks of speaking disrespectful of the oyster. What has the clam done that it should be made a term of derision? Nobody ever heard of a clam getting drunk, lying, cheating at cards, abusing dumb animals, putting a little dog's eyes out, or doing any of the thousand things by which men distinguish themselves from brutes. The clam is yet to be heard from. Perhaps he would say, "Don't be a man."—Indianapolis Journal.

Clugston Departed in Haste.

"Matilda," fervently exclaimed the lovelorn youth, "I can no longer endure this suspense and uncertainty. I must know my fate this night. For months I have carried your image in my heart. You have been first in my waking thoughts, last in the reveries that have filled my midnight vigils, and your lovely face has been ever present in my restless dreams when sleep has kindly sought to ease the burden that oppresses me. You have been the—the——"

"The lode-star of your existence and the Ultima Thule of all your hopes, Mr. Clugston," suggested Matilda, observing that the young man hesitated.

"Why, how did you know what I was going to say?" he demanded in astonishment.

"I got it from Lula Bilderback and Mary Jane Wheelhouse," replied Matilda; "it's the same thing you said to them. I can repeat the whole speech, Mr. Clugston."—Chicago Tribune.

A MODEL FACTORY.

The Almost Perfect Management of a Large English Institution.

Lord Meath, in a recent magazine article, describes a model factory that exists in England—he does not tell where. It is provided with club rooms, reading rooms, gymnasium and all sorts of appliances for the comfort and health of the employes. It is surrounded with flower beds, lawns, fish ponds and fountains. In one of the flats a well-attended undenominational religious service is held by a chaplain attached to the factory. The owner, who pays for all these "extras," lives close to his business and is on terms of familiar acquaintance with his people. Every employe who serves faithfully a certain number of years receives a pension when overtaken by age, infirmity or accident. In unusually good years the extra profits are fairly divided between capital and labor. The concern is in fact one whose owner has managed to establish a state of things in which capitalist and workman are in good Christian relations to each other, mutually helpful, trusting one another, all alike fully interested in the common concern. There is nothing very novel in or about this "model factory." In Great Britain and the United States there are a number of notable institutions conducted on a similar basis, though they are but a small number in proportion to those conducted on what are called "business principles," i. e., upon the system in which employer and employed are each bent on getting the most from and giving the least to one another. We call attention to this particularly "model factory" because the financial report from it bears out the lesson taught by almost all others carried on in the same way. The lesson is that that way pays best. Lord Meath says: "The manager informed me that the proprietor, who is a thorough man of business, and who looked most closely into his affairs, was persuaded that the money expended on the introduction of these unusual amenities into factory life had been most profitably invested, and that it returned him a large interest, not only in the good feeling which existed between him and his work-people, but in hard cash."—Toronto Globe.

LAMM'S EXPLOSIVE.

A New Substance Which is Far More Powerful Than Dynamite.

"Bellite," the new explosive which has beeen invented by M. Lamm, of Stockholm, seems destined to knock dynamite, and perhaps melinite, out of the field. A select party of scientific men and journalists went down to the Argenteuil quarries for the purpose of witnessing some experiments with the new explosive, which were made for the first time in France, under the superintendence of M. Lamm himself. The party included General Fredericks, of the Russian Embassy, and was chaperoned by M. Herlitz. A tremendous lump of rock was drilled, and the "bellite" being put in the hole was caused to explode by contact with fulminating mercury. The explosion was not loud, nor did the debris fly dangerously into the air, as is the case with blasting by dynamite. On the contrary, the rock gave way in huge flakes. Experiments were then made to show the safety of the explosive as compared with the matter used by the "Invincibles." "Bellite" was placed on an iron rail and was struck with a sledge-hammer, when it merely became heated, but did not explode. A small cartouche of the material was placed on a strong iron rail and ignited. It reduced the rail into fragments, some of which flew into perilous proximity to persons who were placidly looking on from what they considered a safe distance. A shell was next filled with "bellite," and blew a wooden-raftered hut to pieces. The new explosive is evidently efficient for blasting purposes, and its inventor hopes to be able to demonstrate its availability for military use likewise. "Bellite" is composed of about four parts of nitrate of ammonium and one part of a mixture of binito and trinitrobenzine with saltpetre. It smells like pitch, and is made up into capsules which look like thick wax candles, and are covered with glazed paper. The stuff itself resembles sulphur in appearance.—London Telegraph.

—Perfect equality in matrimony was the belief of a late resident of Jamaica, L. I. As he married a young woman with means of her own, he charged her one-half of the family living expenses. If he contributed to the church or the improvement of the village, just one-half of that sum did he transfer from his wife's account to his own. He reduced the system to such fineness that when he gave his wife a shawl in remembrance of the anniversary of their marriage, her bank account suffered to exactly one-half of the price of the shawl.

—A late fad in social circles in Chicago is news classes among young ladies. A large party meets twice a week in the afternoon, and the teacher, a lady of great culture, discusses with them the news of the day. She takes a newspaper, and selecting matters of foreign and domestic interests, discusses and explains them in a most entertaining manner, the members of the class asking questions, making comments and suggestions freely.

—The largest sum ever known to have been paid for a single book was $50,000, which the German government gave for a vellum missal, originally presented to King Henry VIII. by Pope Leo X. Charles II. gave it to an ancestor of the Duke of Hamilton, and it became the property of the German government at the sale of the Duke's library a few years ago.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15.....1888

In discussing matters of public interest it should be remembered that stuperation is not argument and carries no conviction to fair minded persons; that a senile and prejudiced attack has the effect of a sick horse in the traces and serves to retard progress. The best interests of parties will be served by holding up to a gentlemanly standard and not resorting to base subterfuges, catchpenny libels and mudslinging. Such a course is an insult to the understanding and demeans and belittles any press that will so seek to dupe an intelligent people who are as well read on the events of the day as the Grub street writers of such articles.

The Retaliation bill, in which President Cleveland asked for power to enforce a law in relation to the landing of Canadian goods in American ports, passed the House by a vote of 176 to 4. Some striking speeches were made, notably one by Amos Cummings. The Retaliation bill has grown out of the Fisheries question and shows an evident intention on the part of the President to protect American rights. The support he has received in this measure from Congress attests the feeling of the American people in the matter.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DEMOCRATIC County Convention.

PURSUANT TO CALL THE DEMOCRATIC Central Committee of Inyo County met at Independence, August 21st, and arranged for the holding of a County Nominating Convention to assemble at INDEPENDENCE on

TUESDAY, September 25, 1888,

for the nomination of candidates for County Officers, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnishee in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. Ex 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations — a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SECOND

ANNUAL FAIR

Agricultural District

No. 18.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Composed Of the Counties of

ALPINE, MONO & INYO.

TO BE HELD AT

Independence

Commencing Monday, September 17th, and Continuing Five Days.

A. R. CONKLIN.....President.
C. MULHOLLAND.....Secretary.
O. I. MAIRS.....Treasurer.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

A. R. CONKLIN, NATHAN RHINE,
WM. WALKER, W. S. ENOS,
W. K. MILLER, HARVEY BOONE,
J. S. GORMAN, JOHN SHEPHERD.

First Department.

In this department the same animal shall not be entered more than once, except in sweepstakes or as a member of a family exhibited with its sire or dam. Any stallion, mare, gelding or colt competing in a race will not be excluded from competing premiums in their respective classes.

CLASS I.
THOROUGHBRED HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion | $20 00 |
| Second best stallion | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Stallion, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Stallion, 2 year old | 15 00 |
| Best Stallion, 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Colt under 1 year | 5 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 10 00 |

CLASS III.
ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Roadster, 3 years and upward | 20 00 |
| Best Roadster, 2 year old | 10 00 |
| Best Roadster colt | 10 00 |

Will have to be shown to harness.

CLASS IV.
HORSES OF ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $20 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 10 00 |
| Best colt | 5 00 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best mare, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best mare, 1 year old | 5 00 |
| Best mare and family, not less than to go | 20 00 |

CLASS V.
DRAFT HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, 3 years old and upward | $25 00 |
| Best stallion 2 years old | 15 00 |
| Best stallion 1 year old | 7 50 |
| Best mare, 3 years old and upward | 10 00 |
| Best mare and colt | 5 00 |
| Best matched team | 10 00 |
| Best mare and 3 colts | 10 00 |

CLASS V.
TEAMS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best matched carriage team | 10 00 |
| Best matched buggy team | 15 00 |

CLASS VII.
SADDLE ANIMALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best, any age | |
| Second best | |

CLASS VIII.
SWEEPSTAKES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best stallion, any breed or age Association cup. | |
| Best mare, any breed or age, Association cup. | |

CLASS IX.
JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Jack, 2 years old and upward | 15 00 |
| Best Jack 1 year old | 10 00 |

CLASS X.
MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best span owned by one person, 3 years or over | 10 00 |
| Best span under 3 years | 10 00 |

CLASS XI.
CATTLE—BULLS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best bull, any breed 3 years old and upward | 20 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best bull, any breed, 1 year old | 5 00 |

CLASS XII
COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best cow, 3 years old and upward | $15 00 |
| Best cow, 2 years old | 10 00 |
| Best cow and calf | 10 00 |
| Best cow and 2 calves | 15 00 |
| Best milch cow, quantity and quality of milk | 20 00 |

CLASS XIII.
SHEEP.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of sheep | 10 00 |

CLASS XIV.
GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of Angora goats | 20 00 |

CLASS XV.
SWINE

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of hogs | 10 00 |

CLASS XVI
POULTRY ETC

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of fowls, any age or breed | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best pair of bronze turkeys | 5 00 |

Second Department.

All products exhibited in this Department must have been produced in Nevada, or in California east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and by the exhibitor.

CLASS I.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 100 pounds of flour | $ 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of wheat | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of barley | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of oats | 5 00 |
| Best 100 pounds of corn, shelled | 5 00 |
| Best 50 pounds of alfalfa seed | 5 00 |
| Best bale of timothy hay | 5 00 |
| Best bale of alfalfa hay | 5 00 |
| Display of Agricultural Products | 15 00 |
| Second Best | 10 00 |

CLASS II.
VEGETABLES, ROOTS, ETC.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of sweet potatoes | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds Early rose potatoes | 2 00 |
| 100 pounds any variety of potatoes | 2 00 |
| 12 parsnips | 2 00 |
| 12 carrots | 2 00 |
| 12 pounds turnips | 2 00 |
| 12 beets | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds tomatoes, any variety | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. cabbage | 2 00 |
| 50 pounds any variety onions | 2 00 |
| ½ doz. squash | 2 00 |
| pumpkin | 2 00 |
| sample of red peppers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. watermelon | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cucumbers | 2 00 |
| ¼ doz. cantaloupes | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of white beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds of pink beans | 2 00 |
| 10 pounds garden peas | 2 00 |

CLASS III.
DAIRY AND FARM PRODUCE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best 10 pounds of butter in rolls | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best jar of butter, 20 pounds 3 months old | 10 00 |
| single cheese any weight | 10 00 |
| 10 pounds of lard | 2 50 |
| display of honey | 5 00 |
| Apiary display | 10 00 |
| display of bread, all varieties | 2 50 |
| display of cake | 2 50 |
| variety of fruit in jars | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of jellies | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of preserves | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best variety of pickles | 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best Sample of hams and bacon | 10 00 |

Third Department.

CLASS I.
HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of apples | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display pears | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display peaches | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display plums | 5 00 |
| Second best | 2 50 |
| Best display quinces | 5 00 |
| Display wine | 5 00 |
| Display raisins | 5 00 |
| prunes | 5 00 |
| raisins | 7 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| Best exhibition of dried fruits in varieties | 10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fourth Department.

CLASS I.

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display of wine made in district | $10 00 |
| Second best | 5 00 |

Fifth Department.

CLASS I

Sixth Department

| | |
|---|---|
| Best oil painting (one model not art) | $ 7 50 |
| Second best | 5 00 |
| crayon drawing | 5 00 |
| Oil satin and Japanese panel | 5 00 |
| Collection of paintings by any Artist | 5 00 |

Seventh Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Handsomest pillow shams | 2 50 |
| Best patchwork quilt | 2 50 |
| Best crochet quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest crazy quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest knitted quilt | 2 50 |
| Handsomest sofa cushion | 2 00 |
| Handsomest tidy | 2 00 |
| Best embroidered lady's dress | 2 00 |
| children's dress | 2 00 |
| ottoman cover | 2 00 |
| table cover, four corners | 2 00 |
| scarf, two ends | 2 00 |
| lambrequin, pair | 2 00 |
| wall panel or banner | 2 00 |
| silk or flannel | 2 00 |
| on linen | 2 00 |
| Kensington, crewel or wool | 2 00 |
| toilet set, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| lace work, hand made | 2 00 |
| darned net, three or more pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet shawl | 2 00 |
| hand painted table scarf | 2 00 |
| hearth rug | 2 00 |
| Handsomest and best made lady's dress | 5 00 |
| Best display hand knit work | 2 00 |
| Best display of fancy articles | 5 00 |
| display of Spanish needle work | 5 00 |
| embroidery, outline | 2 00 |
| variety of artificial flowers | 2 00 |
| hand knit stockings | 2 00 |

JUVENILE.

| | |
|---|---|
| calico dress made by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand sewing, not less than 4 pieces | 2 00 |
| crochet work by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| patchwork quilt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |
| hand made shirt by girl under 16 | 2 00 |

Eighth Department.

CLASS I

| | |
|---|---|
| Best display gold, silver and lead ores, each | $ 5 00 |
| Cabinet of minerals | 15 00 |
| Second best | 10 00 |

In all exhibits of animals for premiums, other things being equal, blooded stock will be preferred.

All articles included in the above list—except the first department—to be on exhibition at the Pavilion, on the second day and remain during the fair.

Special premiums will be offered for articles exhibited which are not included in the above List.

All entries to be made not later than 6 o'clock p. m. on the day preceding their exhibition. All stock and articles to be exhibited must be on the ground at 9:30 a. m. on the day intended for their exhibition. No animal to leave its stall between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of the day of exhibition without permission of the Park Director. Exhibition will take place at 10 a. m. of each day and close at 4 p. m., with an intermission for lunch.

Speed Programme.

TUESDAY.

RUNNING—For untried horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Two-year-olds, to harness ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

WEDNESDAY.

TROTTING—Double team, mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

LALIES' TOURNAMENT—The most accomplished and graceful lady rider will receive a suitable premium and there will be prizes for all who compete.

RUNNING—Free for all, ½ mile and repeat. Purse, $100.

THURSDAY.

TROTTING—Stallions, best 2 in 3, mile heats. Purse, $100.

RUNNING—saddle horses, ½ mile and repeat free for all. Purse, $50.

FRIDAY.

TROTTING—Free for all, mile, 2 in 3 to harness. Purse, $100.

LADIES TOURNAMENT—Completing Wednesday's riding.

RUNNING—One mile, 2 in 3, free for all. Purse, $100.

SATURDAY.

RUNNING—Consolation purse, free for all beaten horses, ½ mile dash. Purse, $50.

TROTTING—Three-year olds, mile, 2 in 3. Purse, $100.

In all the above races three to enter and two to start. Entrance, 10 per cent of purse. All entries to be made with the Secretary by 4 p. m. of the day preceding the race. All races to be called at 2 p. m. for the first race on the day on which it takes place and the second race at 3 p. m., sharp. This rule will be strictly adhered to. Additional purses will be offered under the above conditions as horses are presented.

California State Agricultural Society rules to govern running races; National Trotting Association rules to govern trotting races.

ADMISSION:

| | |
|---|---|
| To stock ground and pavilion, each | $ 50 |
| Single Season Ticket | 2 50 |
| Membership Ticket, admitting member, wife and minor children | 5 00 |
| Life membership | 30 00 |

A. R. CONKLIN,
President.

C. MULHOLLAND,
Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES AND CONVENTION.

AT A MEETING OF THE REPUBLICAN Central Committee of Inyo county, held at Independence on the 10th day of August, 1888, it was ordered that a Republican County Convention be held in the Town of Independence, on to convene at 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the County and District offices to be filled at the General Election on TUESDAY, November 6th, 1888, also the appointment of a County Central Committee, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said Republican County Convention.

TUESDAY, September 18th, 1888,

The Apportionment of Delegates to said Convention is based upon the number of votes cast for the Republican nominee for Governor at the General Election in 1886—allowing 1 Delegate for each precinct, 1 for each 20 votes, and 1 for a fraction of 12 or more. The several precincts of the county are therefore entitled to representation as follows, to-wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Round Valley | 2 | George's Creek | 2 |
| Lincoln | 3 | Keynot | 1 |
| Bishop Station | 1 | Lone Pine | 3 |
| Cottonwood | 1 | Cerro Gordo | 1 |
| Bishop Creek | 2 | Keeler | 1 |
| Poleta | 1 | Owens lake | 1 |
| Big Pine | 3 | Darwin | 1 |
| Fish Springs | 2 | Lookout | 1 |
| Independence | 4 | Panamint | 1 |

comprising a Nominating Convention of 33 members.

Primaries for the selection of Delegates in accordance with the above apportionment will be held in the several precincts of Inyo county on

SATURDAY, September 8th, 1888,

Polls being open between the hours of 2 and 6 P. M., of said day, at the places here named, and under the direction of the following Primary Election Officers:

ROUND VALLEY—Blaisdell's Store, Inspector, F P Blaisdell; Judges, Thos E Jones, R Hilton.

LINCOLN—School House, Inspector, A Matlack; Judges, N C Young, W McLaren.

BISHOP STATION—School House, Inspector, J Peregrine; Judges, Jas G McNally, A Plumley.

COTTONWOOD—Inspector, W A Greenley; Judges, N Gilbert.

BISHOP CREEK—School House, Inspector, J H Counteenborough; Judges, M C Hall, A Freedline.

POLETA—A O Collins' House, Inspector, A O Collins; Judges, Thos Hughes, Geo Collins.

BIG PINE—School House, Inspector, L M Newman; Judges, E M Crocker, A McDonald.

FISH SPRINGS—School House, Inspector, A J Wren; Judges, A McKellip, N E Conkin.

INDEPENDENCE—School House, Inspector, Thos Parker; Judges, W F Matlack, J D Blair.

GEORGE'S CREEK—School House, Inspector, John Kispert; Judges, T B Scovil, John Meyer.

KEYNOT—Luskey Mill, Inspector, John Anton; Judges, Geo St. Clair.

LONE PINE—School House, Inspector, Geo H Palmer; Judges, J J Stewart, M Castro.

CERRO GORDO—Store, Inspector, Wm Crapo; Judges, John Thomas, Fred Wallis.

KEELER—Boland Building, Inspector, John Yandell, Judges, E B Hall, W H Walker.

OWENS'S LAKE—A Walker's House, Inspector, A Walker; Judges, H Bellows, A Brown.

DARWIN—School House, Inspector, Chas Anthony; Judges, Jas McDonald, A J Gould.

LOOKOUT—Company Store, Inspector, J D Channell; Judges, H F Livingston.

PANAMINT—Company Store, Inspector, E F Rowell; Judges, Wm Horne, — Bennett.

PRIMARY TEST—Are You a Republican, and will you support the Republican Nominees?

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Delegates or proxies be permitted a voice in the Convention unless actual residents and voters in the precincts represented; and we hereby earnestly recommend that the Convention adopt such a rule of qualification for its members.

It is urgently requested that all Republican voters in Inyo county, laying aside all past differences and uniting for the common good of the party, who in good faith intend to support the Republican nominees, shall assemble in their respective Precincts at the time named for primary meetings, and select delegates who will attend the Convention and truly represent their wishes, to the end that nominations may be fairly made and a ticket presented which shall command the united and enthusiastic support of all Republicans in the County.

By order of the Committee,

S. A. DENSMORE, Chairman.
GEO. H. HARDY, Secretary. aug18 1m

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday | January 28th |
| " | February 25th |
| " | March 24th |
| " | April 21st |
| " | May 19th |
| " | June 23rd |
| " | July 21st |
| " | August 18th |
| " | September 15th |
| " | October 13th |
| " | November 17th |
| " | December 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel,

Indepen e . . Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars

Jy1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms to the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of investing fifty or one hundred dollars to advertising and us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 178 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work, either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND GOLDEN PRIZE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888

| STATIONS. | From Mound House No. 1. | To Mound House No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | LEAVE— | ARRIVE— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a m | 5 35 p m |
| Layton | 9 45 a m | 4 35 p m |
| Wabuska | 12 40 a m | 2 25 p m |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p m | 10 40 a m |
| Mottie | 5 50 p m | 9 20 a m |
| Sodaville | 7 0 p m | 8 0 a m |
| Belleville | 8 10 p m | 7 0 a m |
| Candelaria | Ar 8 50 p m | Lv 6 30 a m |
| | No 3 Leaves— | No 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 3 a m | 5 25 p m |
| Zeno | 11 00 a m | 1 55 p m |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p m | 11 0 a m |
| Averill | 2 00 p m | 10 35 a m |
| Independence | 3 30 p m | 9 05 a m |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p m | 8 5 a m |
| Keeler | Ar 6 45 p m | Lv 7 0 a m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T R R, which connects at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles), Bodie (67 miles), Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK

BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points on the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP

C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,

A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every needed article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252-1y

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

ON

SAN FRANCISCO

DRAW DIRECT

ON

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS

Exchange Business

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.

Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000

LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. .....1888

MARRIED.

McLEAN—RITTGERS—At Independence September 8, 1888, by C. Mulholland, J. P., Mr. John G. McLean and Miss Della Rittgers.

DIED.

JENKINS—At Georges Creek, September 11, 1888, Mabel, daughter of W. H. Jenkins, aged 6 years, 1 month and 11 days.

Cloudy weather during the week.

A pleasant shower of rain fell Thursday afternoon.

Too many cooks spoil broth. How about a racetrack?

Don't fail to secure tickets for the Grand Fair Ball.

Billy Grant will engineer the bar at the track next week.

The fair privileges were sold at the Norman House last Monday.

The Pavilion grounds are being cleaned up and put in good condition.

A number of new stock sheds have been erected at the Pavilion grounds.

The Republican County Convention will meet at Independence next Tuesday.

O. I. Mairs received a fine new buggy on Wednesday from Davis & Son, Sacramento.

Mrs. C. H. Parsons, of Round Valley, is visiting with Mrs. Enos at Independence

Quite a number of people from the Darwin country will attend the fair next week.

The double team trot at Bishop Creek was won by Ned and mate, owned by D. Olds.

Riding habits are in demand. There will be prizes for all the ladies at the tournament.

At the Democratic primary at Independence 56 votes were polled. At the Republicad 55.

A force of men has been at work night and day putting the racetrack in condition for next week.

A line of four-inch pipe has been laid to the racetrack and a large sprinkler is kept going constantly.

Mr. Davidson and party returned on Tuesday from a trip to the lower end of the Valley.

Miss Barnes has returned to Independence. She will teach the Fort school during the coming term.

Harvey Boone, of Bodie, was at Bishop Creek during the week. He will attend the fair at Independence next week.

There will be purses for every class of horses that may compete at the District Fair next week.

A large number of Independence people have been at Bishop Creek during the week attending the Eastern Slope Fair.

Mr. J. Wilson came up from Darwin on Thursday to attend the fair. He will remain until after the Democratic Convention.

O. I. Mairs is building a new corral and putting up box stalls for the accommodation of those who bring fast horses to the Fair.

There was an impromptu dance after Mr. Terry's address last Monday evening. It passed off very pleasantly and was much enjoyed.

Woodnut, by Nutwood–Addie, won the stallion trot at the State Fair, the other entries being Stamboul and Guy Wilkes. Best time, 2:16¼.

Irwins three-year-old filly "Biddy Muldoon," by Bismark, did not trot at Bishop Creek, there being nothing to compete with her for the purse.

A surprise party was tendered Mr. D. Crough and family by the people of Camp Independence on Tuesday evening. It was well attended and proved a very enjoyable affair.

Farmers are again reminded that it takes quantity as well as quality to make an impressive and creditable display at an agricultural fair. Bring plenty of everything and make an extensive display.

At Mr. Enos' place at Camp Independence are walnut trees three feet high that have grown from the seed since last April. There are also a number of young mulberry trees that have made astonishing growth.

The railroad surveyors started out from Keeler last Tuesday morning. They are running a working survey from that point to Mojave. Virginia papers state that excursion trains will be run to Los Angeles over the new road on the Fourth of July next.

The Republicans of Mono county will nominate an Assemblyman and ask Alpine to endorse the nominee. Cyrus Coleman has been nominated by the Republicans in the latter county. There is a strong probability that the Democrats of Alpine county will nominate a Representative who will be endorsed by both Mono and Inyo counties.

The Democratic Primary held here last Saturday resulted in the election of five delegates, W. J. Lake, J. Zeigler, A. D. Gilbert, C. S. Swan and D. Stubblefield. There were five ties for the remaining two places. An election will be had to fill the vacancy.

Last Saturday Mr. John G. McLean and Miss Della Rittgers were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. P. H. Mack at Independence. Mr. and Mrs. McLean will make their home at Darwin. Mrs. McLean has lived with her parents at Lone Pine since childhood.

Hotel Arrivals.

The following are the arrivals at the Independence Hotel, H. Levy, Proprietor:

R Barragan, M Diaz, L Padillo, M Romero, James Jenkins, Lone Pine; W T Grant, Olancha; Jesus Eucinus, Mazourka; M Sammorthy, M Faurel, Kings River; S S Andrews, Sunnyside; James Clark, Panamint; William Lee, Jack Willitt, Jake Pfohl, Citrus; A McKillip, Chrysopolis; J H Reddy, M G Reddy, J Wilson, Darwin; A F Rose, Tulare; Dave Wells, Citrus; Silas Reynolds, Eclipse.

Eastern Slope Fair.

The fair at Bishop Creek opened on Monday as favorably as need be desired. The town was full of people.

MONDAY.

The first race was Indian ponies; mile dash; won by Indian Dick. Second race; running, ¼ mile dash for 2 year olds; won by Brown Fierenza, owned by T. K. Hutchinson: time, 54 seconds. Second place, Lady Bell; owned by Oscar Hilton.

Third race; untried horses; ¼ mile dash Won by daisy, owned by Barna Peeler; second place, Jessie James, owned by A. P. Smith, time 54 seconds.

TUESDAY.

First race, ¼ mile dash. There were five to start; Daisy, owned by Barna Peeler; Billy S, owned by W. Collins; Dandy Pat, owned by Charles Burns; Queen, owned by J. M. Horton, and Jessy James owned by A. P. Smith. Won by Daisy; second place, Billy S. time 24 seconds. This was an exceedingly close race; all five of the horses dashed under the wire in a bunch, and it was a nice matter to decide how places should be assigned.

Second race, trot; mile heats. Three started, Ned, owned by D. Olds; Andy, owned by A. Allen; Kingsley, owned by J. M. Horton. Kingsley was not in condition being lame and not fit to compete in a race. Andy was evidently not trained at all; he went into the air every hundred yards or so and waltzed nearly as much as he trotted. When the horse did trot he made good time. Frank Williams drove Ned and jogged along leisurely so as not to distance either of the other horses. Ned took the heat, time, 3:41½.

The second heat differed from the first only in in the matter of time, 3:49.

THE PAVILION.

The display at the pavilion was such as any part of the State might be proud of. The fruits were beautiful; vegetables, grain and other farm products being very fine. The display would have been far more impressive had farmers and fruit raisers put three or four times as much in the pavilion as they did, which would have been very easy for them to do.

The ladies deserve a little censure as well as the farmers. They showed enough to prove their skill and taste, but the display was not so extensive as it should have been.

A few oil paintings were shown by Mrs. Wils. Yandell. These pictures do great credit to the artist and would attract attention in any collection. The coloring is true to nature, a rather rare merit in oil paintings, and the subjects are beautiful and are treated with great delicacy.

Rich Strike.

Within the past few days a very rich strike has been make in the Defiance mine, at Darwin. When work was discontinued at the 600-foot level, the deepest workings in the mine, what appeared to be the foot wall of the main ledge was struck and work discontinued. Recently while at work in the 300-foot level Mr. James McDonald, the Superintendent, concluded to make a cut through this wall; on doing so a body of ore and ledge matter was struck back of any workings that had hitherto been made. A drift was then run through at the 600 foot level and struck a body of galena ore four feet thick in a well defined ledge that has every appearence of permanency. Enough metal is already in sight to warrant the belief that it is the best find yet made in the mine. The ore goes 73 per cent. lead and over one hundred ounces silver per ton. As Darwin is in a great measure dependent upon the Defiance mine the outlook for that place is very encouraging; a large force of men in the preliminary will soon be put to work. The new strike is in the deepest workings in the Darwin District.

Political Meeting.

Hon. R. B. Terry, of Los Angeles, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 6th District, delivered an address at the Pavilion on Monday evening that was listened to by a large and appreciative audience, and was well received. At 7 p. m. the Silver Cornet Band, formed on Edwards St. and marched to the Pavilion. A number of illuminated transparencies with appropriate inscriptions were carried. The speaker was introduced by Mr. A. N. Bell, Chairman of the County Central Committee. He spoke an hour and half and was attentively listened to and enthusiastically applauded. On account of missing train connections Mr. Terry was unable to keep his appointments at Lone Pine and Big Pine. He addressed the people of Bishop Creek on Tuesday evening and went north Thursday. The gentleman certainly made a very good impression and will undoubtedly receive the full support of his party in this county.

Death of Mabel Jenkins.

On Tuesday last Mabel, daughter of Mr. W. H. Jenkins, died at Georges Creek after a short illness of two days. The mother of the little girl died two years ago, since which time his only daughter has been the comfort and solace of her father. In this, his double bereavement, Mr. Jenkins has the heartfelt sympathy of his neighbors and friends. In the midst of their sorrow the afflicted will remember that He who said "Suffer little children to come unto me," gave the comforting promise, "Come unto Me, all ye who are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Bitten By a Rattlesnake.

Ernest Vogie was bitten by a rattlesnake on the index finger of the right hand while in the act of lifting a rock not far from the County Hospital. He did not see the reptile until after he felt its fangs. With great presence of mind he tied up the wound and then walked to the hospital. He there placed his finger in ammonia and placed all the whisky he could down his throat. He then went to his home and repeated the dose. Nevertheless it was thought yesterday that he might have to lose his finger yet.—Enterprise.

An Old Timer.

John E. Bodley, a pioneer of Owens Valley, is in the newspaper business in Minneapolis. In a letter received from him a few days ago he says: "I remember old Lone Pine, the excitement of Cerro Gordo; Kearsarge and Bend City. I took part in all the battles with the redskins at Saline Valley and other places. I intend to make a visit to Owens River Valley to visit the old scenes and meet old friends, if any yet remain. Yours truly,

JNO. E. BODLEY."

Mr. D. Crough has removed his family from the Post to town. He has been engaged to teach the Independence school during the ensuing term.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican Convention.

C. MULHOLLAND.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL!

AGRICULTURAL

District No. 18.

—AT—

INDEPENDENCE

Friday, Sept. 21, 1888.

—THE FINEST—

BALL

OF THE YEAR.

Music by a Large

ORCHESTRA.

Tickets - - - $2.00

The Ball will be held in the large Hall of the Association.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.

BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.

New Furniture.

Low Rates.

☞Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sep1 tf

A THOUGHT TO THIS!

The profusion and regularity with which orders pour in upon us with every mail, has a meaning—a meaning that is significant. It shows that there must be something in our goods our prices or our methods which attracts. As it has the power of interesting others, WHY MAY IT NOT INTEREST YOU?

SEND FOR IT

We believe we can safely announce September 1st, as the date of the appearance of our FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK. It will be a large sized volume of over 100 pages, with over 1000 illustrations, and handsomely printed. It is full of facts, figures and information, and is both valuable and interesting. We are confident that those who send for a copy will bear us out in the assertion that is absolutely the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi river. Sent to any address FREE. Send in your names now. Regular customers who do not receive the catalogue will please notify us.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

Below are several lines of goods which we can recommend as being of good value. All are in first-class condition and are a part of our regular stock.

A Model Boot at a nominal price is Hale's Full Stock Calf Boot at $2.50. It is made of first class tannery calfskin with sole leather innersole and counter. Sizes 6 to 10.

Ladies White Merino Vests and Drawers, silk-bound, catstitch, 44 cents each.

Ladies Unbleached Balbriggan Hose, full regular made and extra long. Price 16 2-3 cents per pair.

The Stanley Hat for gentlemen is an exceptionally good article. It is a soft hat, has a raw edge and cord band, and comes in black, wine and nutria colors. It holds its shape well and gives good wear.

Gents all-wool knit Undershirts and Drawers—Made especially for us, HALE'S brand being on every garment. The goods are heavy weight, cut full size and both shirt and drawers are ribbed at the bottom. Best value on the coast. Price $1.50 per garment. Colors, scarlet and natural grey.

Boys mudium brown mixed cassimere suits, well made and trimmed. Ages 10 to 18 Price $6.50.

Childrens Knee Pants Suits in dark fancy broken plaid suitings. Ages 4 to 12. Price $2.50.

Figured Lawns in neat designs at 4 cents per yard.

English Challis—a soft and airy fabric with a cream white ground and figured and geometrical designs. It contains a small percentage of wool for drapery purposes. Price 12 yards for $1. Samples sent upon application.

HALE BROS & CO.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,

BIG PINE.

—DEALERS IN—

ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.

Surfaced lumber of all kinds.

All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER.

sep1tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications

And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

Livery Accommodations

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1888.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,

10 Spruce Street, New York City.

For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS

Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR TREASURER

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

W. H. WALKER,
Olancha.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

J. J. STEWART,
Lone Pine.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for nomination for Sheriff of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

MARTIN MEE.

Darwin, August 18, 1888.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

J. H. STOUTENBOROUGH.

FOR CLERK.

I RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE MYSELF as a candidate for County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

W. W. COLLINS.

Bishop Creek, July 17, 1888.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE COLLINS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. E. SHEPHERD

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

JAMES B. CHAMBERLAIN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR SHERIFF.

AT THE SOLICITATION OF MANY friends I hereby offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention.

GEORGE H. SHEDD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Republican Convention of Inyo County.

THOMAS C. BOLAND.

FOR CLERK.

I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.

J. J. MOORE.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO HIS Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

☞Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

a476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing

Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

an261f

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 10c. extra. Five books and double shop. Long waist and Workmanship. Silk embroidered buttonhole with pearl lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all lines of Mens Womens and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, Cal.

New House,

New Furniture,

Low Rates.

☞Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

THE AMERICAN CRAZE.

Just Now it is Exemplified in the Several Games of Chance So Liberally Patronized.

The North Takes to Stocks and Grain, While the South Holds to Its Beloved Louisiana State Lottery.

Something About Gen. Jubal Early, the Old Confederate Leader, and His Connection with Lotteries.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 14, 1888.—Last Tuesday morning no one was on the street who could by any possibility remain in-doors. Those who were out walked slowly and hugged the shady side of the street. It was 10 o'clock when an old man pushed aside the swinging doors of a house on St. Charles street and stepped out to the sidewalk.

It was old Gen. Jubal Early of Lynchburg, Va., and the Louisiana Lottery.

Although not a resident of this city, Gen. Early is perhaps as well-known a figure here as he is in Lynchburg, for he comes here every month to superintend the drawings of the state lottery, and so, as he crosses the sunny street with two little cotton bags carried in one hand behind the bent back, every one in sight stops to look at him. People crane their necks out of street-car windows to get a glipse of him; shop-keepers leave their counters to gaze at the bent figure, a confederate Father Time, picking his way across the cobblestones. The old gentleman makes straight for the Academy of Music, which is on the opposite side of the street from the building he has just left—the office of the Louisiana State Lottery.

A party of us had been sitting in the Commercial club the night before discussing everything from politics down or up, to Creole cuisine, when the conservation turned upon the lottery, and the passion of the Latin races for the games of chance. A young man from Iowa remarked that in Louisiana, at least, the lottery seemed to have a legitimate business status, that it was recognized as a factor in the commercial world.

"And why not?" broke in Col. Dan Wilson, twisting his huge bulk about to a more comfortable position in his favorite easy chair. "The lottery has been recognized by the state government for a quarter of a century, and its contributions to the school and general fund of the state have been such that the latter could not very well maintain certain necessary institutions without its aid. The proprietors simply turned the public's inherent passion for chance to the account of the state and themselves, guarantesing the people against fraud by conducting the business of the lottery upon strictly business principles. There is no room for sentiment in this matter. The passion I have spoken of exists everywhere, and the incorporation of the lottery company simply, as I say, protected the people from actual fraud. Previous to this the public had been swindled out of millions of dollars by irresponsible people who conducted lotteries in an underhand and fraudulent way, and who often decamped with the cash without even turning the wheel. It is not strange, then, that a responsible body of men should organize an institution which would stand between the people and the scamps who would cheat them, and it is still less strange that the state, having the interest of the people at heart, to say nothing of substantial actualities, received annually, should not only authorize but foster an institution of this kind. The act under which the lottery was incorporated is an interesting one as showing under what circumstances the lottery came into existence. Here, John, bring me the statutes, that big sheep-skin book," and when the negro had brought the law-book the colonel opened it and read:

ARTICLE 1. The name and title of this corporation shall be the Louisiana State Lottery company, and the domicile thereof shall be in the city of New Orleans, state of Louisiana.

ART. 2. The objects and purposes of this corporation are:

1. The protection of the state against the great losses heretofore incurred by sending large amounts of money to foreign countries for the purchase of lottery tickets and devices, thereby impoverishing our own people.

2. To establish a solvent and reliable home institution for the sale of lottery, policy, and combination tickets, devices, and certificates, fractional parts thereof at terms and prices in just proportion to the prizes drawn, and to insure perfect fairness and justice in the distribution of such prizes.

3. To provide means to raise a fund for educational and charitable purposes for the citizens of Louisiana.

ART. 3. The capital stock of this corporation shall be $1,000,000, represented by ten thousand shares of $100 each.

There were provisions for a board of directors composed of seven stockholders, and the corporation was given all the corporate rights to sue and be sued, etc. The duration of its existence was fixed at twenty-five years. In consideration of the privileges thus granted and guaranteed, the company on its part agreed to the following:

ARTICLE 5. SEC. 1. The corporation shall pay to the state of Louisiana the sum of $40,000 per annum, which sum shall be payable quarterly in advance from and after the 1st day of January, 1869, to the state auditor, who shall deposit the same in the treasury of the state, and which sum shall be credited to the educational fund; and said corporation shall be exempt from all other taxes and licenses of any kind whatever, whether from state, parish, or municipal authorities.

SEC. 2. The corporation shall furnish bonds to the auditor in the sum of $50,000 as security for prompt and punctual payment of the sums set forth in the preceding section.

"And so on, and so on," continued the colonel. "The election of officers is provided for, and the company is given the sole right to maintain a lottery in the state of Louisiana for twenty-five years from January, 1869. About eleven years ago, however, the new state constitution was adopted. By this the monopoly privileges of the company were abrogated and the business thrown open, provided each charter of privileges shall pay not less than $40,000 per annum of money into the treasury of the state, and provided further, that all charters shall cease and expire on the 1st of January, 1895, from which time all lotteries are prohibited in the state.

"The $40,000 per annum now provided by law to be paid by the Louisiana State Lottery company according to the provisions of its charter, granted in the year 1868, shall belong to the charity hospital of New Orleans, and the charter of said company is recognized as a contract binding on the state for the period therein specified, except its monopoly clause, which is hereby abrogated, and all laws contrary to the provisions of this article are hereby declared null and void, provided said company shall file a written renunciation of all its monopoly features in the office of the secretary of state within sixty days after the ratification of this constitution.

"Of the additional sum raised by licenses on lotteries the hospital at Shreveport shall receive $10,000 annually, and the remaining sum shall be divided each year among the several parishes in the state for the benefit of their schools.

"So, sir, you see why the Louisiana state lottery is a recognized factor in Louisiana commerce, and if you can go anywhere on earth and find a set of men whose commercial standing in the community in which they live is any better than that of the lottery directors you are welcome to their acquaintance, and are to be congratulated."

It was proposed that we visit the drawing of the day following, and Col. Wilson extended an invitation to sit with the commissioners on the stage and observe at close range the manner in which the drawing was done. There would be an additional interest, he said, from the fact that it was a grand drawing, with the capital prize of $300,000 in the wheel. This is the way that I came to be crossing St Charles street just as old Jubal Early hobbled along with the two cotton bags in his hand. One of these sacks contained the 833 prizes—that is, the tickets with the amounts printed thereon; the other contained the tickets the numbers of which drew the prizes at the last monthly drawing. Both these bags were filled a month ago, the necks tied with cord and bound with slips of paper, on the inside folds of which are the autographs of Gen. Early and Beauregard, and sealed with wax and stamped with a private signet. They have remained locked in a private vault in the lottery office till the hand of Gen. Early took them up once more and carried them across the street.

People invest in the lottery as a matter of fact. For twenty-nine and one-half days they live in hope, exhilarating, buoyant hope. For half a day they are somewhat disappointed, but, pah! what have they lost? Only a dollar generally, and they try it again. Who knows but they will win next time. Did not Ambrose Patin, the locksmith on Toutone street, win $5,000. To be sure he lost it next week on a cotton-exchange, but that was his own fault; and there was Mme. Sophie Bois, who used to work in the artificial flower store on the Rue Royale. How could she have started that magnificent undertaking establishment on Magazine street if she had not won $1,000 last July! And so another twentieth ticket is bought and we live again in hope for another month. They say, it need never ruin a man—a dollar a month is only two bits a week. That means one pint less of St. Julian a month or a few less cigars, and then look at the possibilities, mon fos! Who would hesitate? No one ever seems disheartened or downcast at his monthly failure to win a prize, though months may stretch into years of investment without returns. The people go to the drawing, listen to hear which number has won the prize, and when it is over tear up their old ticket and start out to purchase new issues.

We followed the old confederate leader into the theatre down the middle aisle and up a temporary incline to the stage where the work of the drawing was to take place. There Waiting him sat General Beauregard and the assistant commissioners, the recording clerk, and the four little boys who, blindfolded, take the prizes and the tickets from the wheels. To the right of the stage stood a "wheel" over four feet in diameter. It was more like a bass-drum than a wheel, the circle being formed of a continuous strip of wood about eighteen inches wide; the sides are of glass. It is held up free from the floor by a stout frame of iron and wood and kept in position by an iron axle, on each end of which was a stout crank. Two negroes dragged upon the stage a pair of large boxes, out of which they took eight large bags, each with a capacity of over a bushel. Each bag was brought to Gen. Early, who carefully examined it, especially the seal, and then cut the strings which bound the neck. Each bag had papers around the neck similar to those around the necks of the small bags brought in by Gen. Early. The autographs on these slips of paper were closely scrutinized. As he finished the inspection of each bag it was lifted by the negroes and emptied into the large wheel through a door in the wooden rim. This operation was closely watched by the old men. When they were all emptied the wheel was just half full of tickets. These tickets are slips of stout paper, four inches long by two inches wide, each one containing a number from 1 to 100,000. The figures are printed in large full-face characters which, when the ticket is held up, can be plainly distinguished by a large part of the audience. Each ticket is tightly rolled and thrust into a tiny hollow cylinder of gutta percha about the thickness of a lead pencil and about an inch and a half long. The last to be put in were those which had been drawn out against the prizes at the last drawing, and which had been preserved separately since that time. The little door was then shut and the darkies were told to "roll." The wheel was vigorously turned both ways several times, the little black cylinders being thoroughly mixed in the operation. The other little bag was then given to Gen. Beauregard, who paid his sole attention to the prize-wheel. This is about two feet in diameter and has a rim of brass instead of wood. The prizes were dumped into the smaller wheel and the door closed. These tickets merely contained the money figures for the various prizes and were inclosed in similar India rubber cylinders. There are 836 of these prizes, divided as to amount in this way:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1 capital prize of $300,000 is | $300,000 |
| 1 capital prize of $100,000 is | 100,000 |
| 1 capital prize of $50,000 is | 50,000 |
| 1 grand prize of $25,000 is | 25,000 |
| 2 large prizes of $10,000 are | 20,000 |
| 5 large prizes of $5,000 are | 25,000 |
| 25 prizes of $1,000 are | 25,000 |
| 100 prizes of $500 are | 50,000 |
| 200 prizes of $300 are | 60,000 |
| 500 prizes of $200 are | 100,000 |

But besides these there are 2,228 other prizes, or rather chances to win money with or having your number drawn out of the big wheel. This is adjusted according to the numbers which draw the $50,000, the $100,000, and the $300,000 prize. These approximate, or terminal prizes, as they are called, are distributed as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| 100 prizes of $500, approximating to $300,000 prize | $50,000 |
| 100 prizes of $300, approximating to $100,000 prize | 30,000 |
| 100 prizes of $200, approximating to $50,000 prize | 20,000 |
| 999 terminals $100, decided by $300,000 prize | 99,900 |
| 999 terminals $100, decided by $100,000 prize | 99,900 |

That is, if your ticket's number is within fifty numbers more or less than the $300,000, $100,000, or $50,000 prizes you will receive $500, $300, or $200 as the case may be, just as a consolation, so to speak. The terminal prizes are awarded to the holders of all tickets the last two numbers of which correspond with the last two numbers of those two capital prize tickets. Thus in all there are 2,134 prizes, amounting to $1,054,800. Gen. Beauregard gives the prize-wheel a whirl and the 836 little black rolls dance around merrily. There is a vast difference between the contents of the two wheels. A pigmy to a giant, a mole-hill to a mountain, a bellows to a cyclone, and yet with the difference in plain sight there are not wanting people to purchase 100,000 tickets a month.

All this time the theatre has been gradually filling up. Silently the people have filed in and found seats for themselves wherever fancy or hearing dictated. There is about the same atmosphere in the house that there would be were they there to witness a play instead of the drawing. Many are acquainted, and they chat with their friends while the preliminaries are being performed. The operation of filling the wheels, opening the sacks has no interest for them. It is an old story to them. They have seen it every month for years. It is not till the commissioners' voices are heard that they pay much attention to what is going on upon the stage. The four small boys on the sofa are squirming about in kittenish play, an older lad has seated himself upon the stage about where the prompter's box would ordinarily be, with his back to the audience. Before him is a small chest, on the upper side of whose opened lid are compartments for the various prizes. A signal is given and a boy comes forward to Gen. Early and another to Gen. Beauregard. The men turn handkerchiefs about the boys' heads so that they can not see. The recording clerk gets his book ready; the tally-man sits with pencil poised above the sheet; Col. Wilson, as assistant, stands by Beauregard; J. A. A. Rousseau is at Early's side. The Generals open the little doors.

"Draw!" says the tally man. Each boy inserts his right hand into his respective wheel, takes out a roll and hands it to the officer, who pulls the rolled ticket from the cylinder and drops the latter in a box before him. Gen. Early unrolls his ticket first.

"Twelve thousand and seventeen," says the old Virginian in a piping voice as he hands the ticket to Mr. Rousseau.

"Two hundred dollars!" says Beauregard, giving his ticket to Col. Wilson.

"Twelve thousand and seventeen," repeats Mr. Rousseau, turning his ticket so that the audience may read the figures.

"Two hundred dollars," says Col. Wilson, also holding his slip up that the figures may be seen. Both assistants then hand the tickets to the boy who sits in front, who rolls them up together and drops them into the proper compartment of the box. The drawing thus proceeds, the number of each ticket being recorded by the clerk, together with the prize, and the number of tickets drawn being kept by the tally man. The audience remains impassive. Some of the ladies are whispering softly to each other. A man with a Jewish cast of face sits in the front row of the parquet, next to the incline leading to the stage. He was the first man in the building. He looks straight at the stage without moving a muscle of his face. He drew a prize twelve years ago, they tell me, and has never missed a month since, attending every drawing, as if it was a ceremony in his synagogue. There are quite a number of ladies present, all in the charming white costumes common to New Orleans. A faint odor of patchouly is wafted to the stage. The fans are the only things stirring. When the drawing had gone on some time Mr. Rousseau repeats:

"Twenty-seven thousand fo' hundred and twenty-five!"

"Ten thousand dollars!" says Gen. Beauregard. Something like a sigh is heard from the Jew in the front row. For every prize of $5,000 or over a special slip is sent by messenger to the lottery office that the holders of the ticket may be looked up immediately. When nineteen drawings have been made the scorer calls out:

"Roll on the next draw!" and both wheels are vigorously rolled about and the tickets thoroughly shuffled. When fifty-nine tickets are drawn the cry is: "Roll and change boys on the next draw." Whereupon the tickets are again rolled and the boys are relaved by their fellows in the rear. The assistant commissioners change also.

The drawing proceeds. The voices of the commissioners break the silence monotonously. Here and there a man in the audience yawns, but they keep their seats bravely, a few of them making notes of the larger prizes. The ladies fan more vigorously, for the heat is becoming more intense. The Jew is as immovable as a sphinx.

"Forty-nine thousand, five hundred and sixty-six," says the quavering voice of Sheridan's old enemy.

Gen. Beauregard paused a second and then said: "Fifty thousand dollars!"

"There is a slight movement in the audience and a low buzz of conversation is heard. A little man with a sallow face and a long black mustache gets out of his seat in one of the back rows and walks out quietly. He is a French tailor on Dryades street. He stops at the door, strikes a match, and lights his cigarette, pauses a moment to blow a cloud of smoke out, and then saunters leisurely down the street.

He has won the prize. Frenchman to the core, he would have lost the same sum with equal nonchalance.

The boys, like little blind gods of fortune that they are, dip in their hands and deal out wealth in blocks large and small, giving this one spending money for a week, and making that one independently rich for the rest of his life; here it is a man already wealthy, there it is one who has felt the damnable grind of poverty all his life; there it goes to a man who will waste it before the night is over, here it enriches a man who will invest it till it repays him a hundred fold. The boys change. Col. Wilson sits down to nurse a rheumatic knee, and his place is taken by J. P. Roux. Rousseau gives way to Ald. Hodgson. The drawing continues. Most of the prizes, of course, are from $200 to $500, and occasion no comment. The announcement of a $1,000 prize causes a stout, handsome lady in the gallery to jump up and impulsively clap her plump, gloved hands. The talmi look on her face showed that she was one of the lucky ones. Two friends press her hands in congratulation and they go off, stopping at a "confiserie" on the way.

"Ninety thousand, fo' hundred, and fo'ty-three!" says Gen. Early.

"Ninety thousand, fo' hundred, and fo'ty-three," says Capt. Hodgson.

"Gen. Beauregard, who had been looking at the ticket in his hand, says in a sharp, distinct tone:

"Three hundred thousand dollars!" This is a little too much even for that audience. Several people rise to their feet and put their hands to their ears to catch the repeat of Mr. Roux. The latter says, taking both tickets in his hand:

"Ticket number 90,443 wins the first prize of $300,000."

The drawing is practically over. The interest ceases when the great capital prize is announced, and most of the people go out. A few remain, however, for the second prize has not been reached. The prizes yet remaining in the smaller wheel could be held in the hollow of a man's hand. Over eight hundred tickets have been taken out of the larger wheel, and still it seems as full as it did before the first order to "roll" was given. Col. Wilson yans capaciously. Gen. Early draws a watch and fob from his pocket. It is twenty minutes after 1. Capt. Hodgson repeats the remark attributed by history to the Governor of North Carolina. Then the $100,000 prize is reached, and the audience goes out as one man—all but the Jew, who sits like Memnon turned to stone. The other prizes are announced to him, and the drawing is over. Then the laborious task of sealing up the tickets begins. It is faithfully supervised by two commissioners, who, with their own hands, put up the tickets, tie and seal the bags, and see them safely stowed away in the boxes. Gen. Early locks the chest, which the boy in front has guarded, and the whole paraphernalia of the lottery is carted under their escort across the street to the vaults of the company. Just before the janitor locks the doors the Jew gravely walks out. He has won no prize, but he is not disappointed.

By the time we have crossed the street the place of sale of the lucky tickets had almost been determined by the clerks. The large prizes had already been located as follows:

No. 99,443 which drew the capital prize, $300,000, was sold in New Orleans, Boston, Mass., Oakland, Cal., Key West, Fla., Galveston and Bonham, Tex., and Guatemala, C. A. No. 71,678, which drew the second capital prize, $100,000, was sold in New Orleans, Boston, Mass., Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles, Cal., Charleston, S. C., Memphis, Tenn., Jackson, Mich., Gainesville, Ga., Babylon, N. Y., Sebago Lake, Me., Hot Springs, Ark., Paris and Blossom, Tex. No. 40,566, drawing third capital prize of $50,000, was sold in New York, New Orleans, San Francisco, Boston, Jackson, Mich., Houma, La., Middleton, Md., and San Marcial, N. M. No. 80,032, drawing $25,000, sold in New York, San Francisco, Kansas City, Mo., Gainesville, Ala., Lynden, Washington Territory, and Vera Cruez, Mex. Nos. 27,425 and 45,212 drew each $10,000, sold in New York, Ormond, Fla., San Francisco, Cal., Washington, D. C., Chicago, Dallas, Texas, and Dow City, Iowa.

The three-story granite building on St. Charles street is owned by the lottery company and presents a busy sight just before and just after the drawing. It is filled with clerks from top to bottom. It has the usual court extending half way into the structure, and containing a fountain with a four-foot aligator, and mass of green foliage and plants. There are about one hundred clerks and fifty folders employed in the work of recording the correspondence, tracing letters and prizes and folding and mailing circulars. The system by which the books are kept and all the complex correspondence is recorded is one that for its thoroughness and exactness would delight the heart of any accountant. The mail received, especially toward the end and the beginning of the month, often amounts to fifteen thousand pieces a day. Remittances by letter are in the hands of one set of clerks who do nothing but separate the receipts and record their amounts. Orders calling for special numbers or requests, the granting of which would violate the regulations of the company, fall into the hands of another relay of clerks. Still a third set record the address of every patron and a fourth directs the envelopes. The envelopes are compared back with the address, and the inclosure is then sealed up and mailed. So perfect is the system of checks that a mistake or a descrepancy cannot pass one set of clerks without being detected. The payment of prizes is made in coin, check, or draft, by another class of clerks. The mailing and folding department is an important one. The printed list of prize drawings has been to every patron by nightfall on the day after the drawings. In order to prevent delay, and also to maintain regular habits among its clerks, the company spreads a series of lunches, beginning at 11 o'clock, to which the clerks go, twenty at a time, till all have dined. It takes a good deal of the manager's time to keep sufficient tickets ordered up. The tickets are ingeniously printed with delicate water-marks that defy counterfeiting. One clerk does nothing but devote his attention to the "old boss" department. This is the dead-letter department of the lottery, where all the unsigned remittances are received. Hundreds of letters unsigned, without any locality clue to the writer's identity, are received every year, and these letters with the money they contain are deposited in two large chests in one of the vaults. Before putting it away for good, however, every effort is made to trace the writer. Several thousands of dollars have now accumulated in this way, and it is rapidly increasing.

The Louisiana lottery is merely another phase of the speculative in American human nature. There is taste in speculation as in other things. We in the north use grain and provisions; here in the south the lottery is the basis. They know the chances and they perceive the advantages of their system. As one creole said to me:

Why should not I buy lottery tickets? I know the scheme is safe. Our best men are stockholders; two of our old generals are the commissioners. There are one hundred thousand tickets and three thousand prizes. Thirty to one. That is not bad. Then, too, the working goes on in plain sight. I once gave a broker in your town $150 to do what he could for me in wheat. Two days later he came to me and said: "You were on the wrong side of the market. You lost." That is all the consolation I had. Here we can see the tickets shuffled and the prizes drawn, and we are willing to take our chances in a thing that we understand and which we have confidence in. "Truly, why not?"—Chicago (Ill.) Times, July 5th.

UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENTS.

No better word of praise or confidence can be given to the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, than the statement that its record is without a blot, and stands as clean as "Truth" itself. No runs have ever been made upon it, no panic has ever impaired its credit.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—Rubbing a bruise in sweet oil, and then in spirits of turpentine, will usually prevent the unsightly black-and-blue spots.

—Mahogany furniture should be washed with warm water and soap; an application of beeswax and sweet oil upon a soft cloth, and polished with chamois, gives a rich finish.

—To Polish Brass or Copper.—Take a wet cloth and pour on a few drops of ammonia, and dip in fine ashes off the top of the oven, and rub well the article to be polished and finish with a chamois skin.

—Many delicate and sickly persons like to drink cocoa, and it is considered very nutritious. Of course, you require milk and sugar when you prepare your cup of cocoa: so many products are needed for that seemingly simple article, a cup of cocoa.

—Lemon Cheese Cake.—One pound of sugar, one-half pound of butter, juice of three lemons, grated rinds of two, yelks of six eggs, whites of four; beat thoroughly, put in a jar and place in a pan of water and boil till thick; turn into a mold; serve cold.

—The annoying dryness of the tongue and pharynx, so common in acute febrile diseases, may be relieved by brushing pure and undiluted glycerine over the affected parts. The great thirst ceases, and the patient's condition is made more comfortable.

—For washing fine blankets, take two gallons of water, add a half cup each of ammonia and alcohol, mixed to a suds with castile soap. They should be sopped up and down in it, rinsed in tepid water, well shaken, and improved by carding with a comb while on the line drying.

—A person suffering with boils should eschew rich pastry, gravies and every kind of meat, except lean mutton. The boils may be brought to a head by using a warm poultice of camomile flowers, or boiled white lily root, by fermentation with hot water, or by stimulating plasters.

—A cheap chamois skin for washing windows will soon repay its cost in time and labor saved, and nothing makes glass look better. To cleanse the skin after use rub plenty of soft soap into it, let it lie an hour or two in a warm solution of soda water, rub clean and rinse in warm water in which soda and hard soap have been dissolved.

—Raspberry Pudding.—Boil a pint of milk and stir into it two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch which have been wet with a little cold milk. Then add two eggs beaten with one-half a cupful of sugar. Put a cupful of raspberry jam in the bottom of a dish and pour the custard over it. Serve while warm with sugar and cream.—Good Housekeeping.

—There are few desserts more acceptable than oranges, cut up and sugared, and chilled for a couple of hours in the refrigerator. Some add to it grated or dessicated cocoanut, but as strawberries and raspberries can not be improved by cooking, so good oranges can not be improved by adding any thing besides sugar, especially so indigestible a thing as a cocoanut.

—Milk heated to much above one hundred degrees Fahrenheit loses for a time a degree of its sweetness and density. The promptness with which its cordial influence is felt is indeed surprising. Some portion of it seems to be digested and appropriated almost immediately, and many who now fancy that they need alcoholic stimulants when exhausted by fatigue will find in this simple draught an equivalent that will be abundantly satisfying and far more enduring in its effects.

—One of the best and simplest remedies for torpid liver or biliousness is a glass of hot water with the juice of half a lemon squeezed in it, but no sugar, night and morning. A person to whom this was recommended tried it and found himself better almost immediately. His daily headaches, which medicine had failed to cure, left him; his appetite improved and he gained several pounds within a few weeks. This is so simple a remedy that any person thus afflicted will do well to give it a trial, as it can not possibly do any harm.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Then suddenly, like the notes of some deep throated bird, her rounded voice rang out in song so wildly sweet, and yet with so eerie and sad a refrain, that it made the very blood stand still. Up, up soared the golden notes, that seemed to melt far away, and then to grow again and travel on, laden with all the sorrow of the world and all the despair of the lost. It was a marvelous song, but I had not time to listen to it properly. However, I got the words of it afterward, and here is a translation of its burden, so far as it admits of being translated at all:

SORAIS' SONG.

As a desolate bird that through darkness its lost way is winging,
As a hand that is helplessly raised when Death's sickle is swinging,
So is life! aye, the life that lends passion and breath to my singing.

As the nightingale's song that is full of a sweetness unspoken,
As a spirit unbarring the gates of the skies for a token,
So is love! aye, the love that shall fall when his pinion is broken.

As the tramp of the legions when trumpets their challenge are sending,
As the shout of the storm god when lightnings
the black sky are rending,
So is power! aye, the power that shall lie in the dust at its ending.

So short is our life; yet with space for all things to forsake us,
A bitter delusion, a dream from which naught
can awake us,
Till Death's dogging footsteps at morn or at eve shall o'ertake us

REFRAIN.

Oh, the world is fair at the dawning—dawning—
dawning,
But the red sun sinks in blood, the red sun sinks in blood.

I only wish that I could write down the music too.

"Now, Curtis, now," I whispered, when she began the second verse, and turned my back.

"Nyleptha," he said—for my nerves were so much on the stretch that I could hear every word, low as it was spoken, even through Sorais' divine notes—"Nyleptha, I must speak with thee this night; upon my life I must. Say me not nay, oh, say me not nay!"

"How can I speak with thee?" she answered, looking fixedly before her; "queens are not like other people. I am surrounded and watched."

"Listen, Nyleptha, thus: I will be before the statue of Rademas in the great hall at midnight. I have the countersign and can pass in. Macumaz he will be there to keep guard, and with him the Zulu. Oh, come, my queen; deny me not."

"It is not seemly," she murmured; "and to-morrow"——

Just then the music began to die in the last wail of the refrain, and Sorais slowly turned her round.

"I will be there," said Nyleptha, hurriedly; "on thy life see that thou fail me not."

CHAPTER XVI.

BEFORE THE STATUE.

It was night—dead night—and the silence lay on the Frowning City like a cloud.

Secretly, as evil doers, Sir Henry Curtis, Umslopogaas and myself threaded our way through the passages towards a by entrance to the great throne chamber. Once we were met by the fierce, rattling challenge of the sentry. I gave the countersign and the man grounded his spear and let us pass. Also, we were officers of the queen's body guard, and in that capacity had a right to come and go unquestioned.

We gained the hall in safety. So empty and so still was it that even when we had passed, the sound of our footsteps yet echoed up the lofty walls, vibrating faintly and still more faintly against the cavern roof, like ghosts of the footsteps of dead men haunting the place that once they trod.

It was an eerie spot, and it oppressed me. The moon was full, and threw great pencils and patches of light through the high, windowless openings in the walls, that lay pure and beautiful upon the blackness of the marble floor, like white flowers on a coffin. One of these silver arrows fell upon the statue of the sleeping Rademas, and of the angel form bent over him, illumining it, and a small circle round it, with a soft, clear light, reminding me of that which Catholics illumine the altars of their cathedrals.

Here by the statue we took our stand and waited—Sir Henry and I close together, Umslopogaas some paces off in the darkness, so that I could only just make out his towering outline leaning on the outline of an ax.

So long did we wait that I almost fell asleep resting against the cold marble, but was suddenly aroused by hearing Curtis give a quick, catching breath. Then from far, far far away there came a little sound, as though the statues that lined the walls were whispering to each other some message of the ages.

It was the faint sweep of a lady's dress. Nearer it grew, and nearer yet. We could see a figure steal from patch to patch of moonlight, and even hear the soft fall of sandaled feet. Another second and I saw the black silhouette of the old Zulu raise its arm in mute salute, and Nyleptha was before us.

Oh, how beautiful she looked as she paused a moment just within the circle of the moonlight! Her hand was pressed upon her heart, and her white bosom heaved beneath it. Round her head a broidered scarf was loosely thrown, partially shadowing the perfect face, and thus rendering it even more lovely; for beauty, dependent as it is to a certain extent upon the imagination, is never so beautiful as when it is half hid. There she stood, radiant but half doubting, stately and yet so sweet. It was but a moment; but I then and there fell in love with her myself, and have remained so to this hour; for indeed she looked more like an angel out of heaven than a loving, passionate, mortal woman. Low we bowed before her, and then she spoke.

"I have come," she whispered, "but it was at great risk. Ye know not how I am watched. The priests watch me. Sorais watches me with those great eyes of hers. My very guards are spies upon me. Nasta watches me too. Oh, let him be careful!" and she stamped her foot. "Let him be careful; I am a woman, and therefore hard to drive. Ay, and I am a queen, too, and can still avenge. Let him be careful, I say, lest in place of giving him my hand I take his head;" and she ended the outburst with a little sob and then smiled up at us bewitchingly and laughed.

"Thou didst bid me come hither, my Lord Incubu" (Curtis had taught her to call him so). "Doubtless it is about business of the state, for I know that thou art ever full of great ideas and plans for my welfare and my people's. So, even as a queen should I have come, though I greatly fear the dark alone;" and again she laughed and gave him a glance from her gray eyes.

At this point I thought it wise to move a little, since secrets "of the state" should not be made public property, but she would not let me go far, peremptorily stopping me within five yards or so, saying that she feared surprise. So it came to pass that, however unwillingly, I heard all that passed.

"Thou knowest, Nyleptha," said Sir Henry, "that it was for none of these things that I asked thee to me at this lonely place. Nyleptha, waste not the time in pleasantry, but listen to me, for—I love thee."

As he said the words I saw her face break up, as it were, and change. The coquetry went out of it, and in its place there shone a great light of love, which seemed to glorify it, and make it like that of the marble angel overhead. I could not help thinking that it must have been a touch of prophetic instinct which made the long dead Rademas limn in the features of the angel of his inspiring vision so strange a likeness of his own descendant. Sir Henry also must have observed and been struck by the likeness, for, catching the look upon Nyleptha's face, he glanced quickly from it to the moonlit statue, and then back again at his beloved.

"Thou sayest thou dost love me," she said, in a low voice, "and thy voice rings true; but how am I to know that thou dost speak the truth? Though," she went on, with proud humility, and in the stately third person which is so largely used by the Zu-Vendi, "I be as nothing in the eyes of my lord"—and she courtesied towards him—"who comes from among a wonderful people, to whom my people are but children, yet here am I a queen and a leader of men, and if I would go to a battle a hundred thousand spears shall sparkle in my train like stars glimmering down the path of the bent moon. And although my beauty be a little thing in the eyes of my lord"—and she lifted her broidered skirt and courtesied again—"yet here among my own people am I held right fair; and ever since I was a woman the great lords of my kingdom have made quarrel concerning me, as though, forsooth," she added, with a flash of passion, "I were a deer to be pulled down by the hungriest wolf, or a horse to be sold to the highest bidder. Let my lord pardon me if I weary my lord, but it hath pleased my lord to say that he loves me, Nyleptha, a queen of the Zu Vendi; and therefore would I say, that though my love and my hand be not much to my lord, yet to me are they all."

"Oh!" she cried, with a sudden and thrilling change of voice, and modifying her dignified mode of address—"oh, how can I know that thou lovest but me? How can I know that thou wilt not wear of me and seek thine own place again, leaving me desolate! Who is there to tell me but that thou lovest some other woman, some fair woman unknown to me, but who yet draws breath beneath this same moon that shines on me to-night? Tell me how am I to know?" And she clasped her hands and stretched them out towards him, and looked appealingly into his face.

"Nyleptha," answered Sir Henry, adopting the Zu-Vendi way of speech, "I have told thee that I love thee; how am I to tell thee how much I love thee? Is there, then, a measure for love? Yet will I try. I say not that I have never looked upon another woman with favor, but this I say, that I love thee with all my life and with all my strength; that I love thee now, and shall love thee till I grow cold in death, aye, and as I believe, beyond my death, and on and on forever; I say that thy voice is music to my ear, and thy touch as water to a thirsty land; that when thou art there the world is beautiful, and when I see thee not it is as though the light was dead. Oh, Nyleptha, I will never leave thee! Here and now, for thy dear sake, I will forget my people and my father's house; yea, I renounce them all. By thy side will I live, Nyleptha, and at thy side will I die."

He paused and gazed at her earnestly, but she hung her head like a lily, and said never a word.

Before the statue.

"Look!" he went on, pointing to the statue on which the moonlight played so brightly. "Thou seest that angel woman who rests her hand upon the forehead of the sleeping man; and thou seest how at her touch his soul flames up and shines out through his flesh even as a lamp at the touch of the fire; so is it with me and thee, Nyleptha. Thou hast awakened my soul and called it forth, and now, Nyleptha, it is not mine, not mine, but thine, and thine only. There is no more for me to say; in thy hands is my life." And he leaned back against the pedestal of the statue, looking very pale and his eyes shining, but proud and handsome as a god.

Slowly, slowly she raised her head, and fixed her wonderful eyes, all alight with the greatness of her passion, full upon his face as though to read his very soul. Then at last she spoke, low indeed, but clearly as a silver bell:

"Of a truth, weak woman that I am, I do believe thee. Ill will be the day for thee, and for me also, if it be my fate to learn that I have believed a lie. And now hearken unto me, O man, who hath wandered here from far to steal my heart and make me all thine own. I put my hand upon thine hand thus, and thus I, whose lips have never kissed before, do kiss thee on the brow; and now by my hand, and by that first and holy kiss, ay, by my people's weal and by my throne that like enough I shall lose for thee, by the name of my high house, by the sacred stone and by the eternal majesty of the Sun, I swear that for thee will I live and die. And I swear that I will love thee and thee only till death, ay, and beyond—if, as thou sayest, there be a beyond—and that thy will shall be my will, and thy ways my ways.

"Oh, see, see, my lord! thou knowest not how humble is she who loves; I, who am a queen, I kneel before thee; even at thy feet I do my homage;" and the lovely impassioned creature flung herself down on her knees on the cold marble before him. And after that I really do not know what happened, for I could stand it no longer, and cleared off to refresh myself with a little of old Umslopogaas' society, leaving them to settle it their own way, and a very long time they were about it.

Some three-quarters of an hour afterward the "pair of doves" came strolling toward us, Curtis looking slightly silly, and Nyleptha remarking calmly that the moonlight made very pretty effects on the marble. Then, for she was in a most gracious mood, she took my hand and said that I was "her lord's" dear friend, and therefore most dear to her—not a word for my own sake, you see. Next she lifted Umslopogaas' ax and examined it curiously, saying significantly as she did so that he might soon have cause to use it in defense of her.

After that she nodded prettily to us all, and casting one tender glance at her lover, glided off into the darkness like a beautiful vision.

When we got back to our quarters, which we did without accident, Curtis asked me, jocularly, what I was thinking about.

"I am wondering," I answered, "on what principle it is arranged that some people should find beautiful queens to fall in love with them, while others find nobody at all, or worse than nobody, and I am also wondering how many brave men's lives this night's work will cost." It was rather nasty of me, perhaps, but somehow all the feelings do not evaporate with age, and I could not help being a little jealous of my old friend's luck. Vanity, my sons, vanity of vanities!

(To Be Continued.)

Lord Aveland has intimated to his tenants in Lincolnshire, England, his intention to remit 20 per cent. of the current half year's rent, in consequence of the agricultural depression.

The South Pole Expedition planned several years ago by Dr. Neumayer of the marine observatory at Hamburg, is likely to start in the spring.

—Amber cream is an excellent, easily prepared dessert—in favor when milk and eggs are plentiful. Soak half a box of gelatine in one quart of milk for ten minutes. Let it come to a boil and stir in the yelks of six eggs, beaten, with seven heaping teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar. Cook until it is like soft custard. When it has been off the stove just five minutes, put in the beaten whites, flavor and mold.

"TARIFF AND WAGES"—A NOVEL DISCUSSION.

Geo. W. Elliott, A. M., Rochester, N. Y., has just published in book form, through Moulton, Wenborne & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., the very original and interesting dialogue discussion between "PAUL (a young graduate) AND HIS FATHER," an American farmer, which appeared serially three years ago in The American Rural Home, and attracted wide attention. The father is a thoroughly well posted man of affairs, who is theoretically a free-trader, but practically, as an American, a strong defender of a judicious tariff. He thus treats both sides very fairly and gives each, in a dialogue, a chance to be heard. He discusses general principles and under his theory that selfishness must be the secret of success of international commercial policy, and self-sacrifice the secret of success in national commercial policy, he makes out a strong defense of simple protection. In the matter of wages, he holds that wages begins and ends with production, and hence if judicious protection stimulates production, as he holds, then a judicious tariff maintains the source of wages. This book makes men and boys think. It unfolds the dark mysteries of the tariff simply and should have a wide reading. Mr. Elliott, as advertising manager of H. H. Warner & Co.'s safe cure house, Rochester, N. Y., has had unusual opportunities to see the effects of different commercial policies in eight sections of the globe. In cloth, 50 cts.; in paper, 25 cts.; prepaid by Moulton, Wenborne & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Do not allow idleness to deceive you; for while you give him to-day he steals to-morrow from you.

HELPING THE RIGH

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY . . . SEPTEMBER 22, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 15. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 22, 1888. WHOLE NO. 934.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

HER BEAUTIFUL DRIVING.

A Humane Woman Wants to Know What Ailed Her Horse.

"Woman coming driving a horse!" The word was quickly passed along the street. Children screamed and scattered right and left, strong men shuddered and grew pale and some drew back into doorways. Suddenly she dashed around the corner. Then she was gone. A policeman crawled out of the street with a broken leg and ruined countenance.

She dashed on down the street. Those who were warned in time got out of the way; the others were borne down. The truck drivers and ice-wagon men hurried into side streets. The passengers got off a horse-car and lifted it from the track and gave her the right of way. Was she insane or any thing of that kind? Oh, no, not at all. She was all right—simply one of those ladies who "like to drive," and "can handle a horse better than any man they ever saw," "dearly love horses," and all that sort of thing.

Occasionally she turns a corner and snaps off a lamp-post or draws under a shade tree. The horse is breathing pretty hard, so to take his attention from his lungs she stirs him up with the whip. Then she comes to a hill and agitates the whip all the way to the top. She is so fond of riding fast when she drives. And this horse just loves to go if you only let him know what you want of him. She lets him know all right enough. She allows the horse to rest once in awhile of course—not long at a time, but, then, when we consider that she always stays for that purpose at the intersection of two narrow streets and right across the car-track, perhaps it is long enough. Then she always drives fast enough to make up the lost time. She's doing it now. See the steam fire engine get out of her way. There goes the wheel off a hose cart—those hose carts can't stand every thing. Then there are a few more hills and the horse again gets his attention drawn from the condition of his lungs. At Tenth street the horse lies down exhausted.

"Oh, dear," she says as a policeman approaches, "I really don't know what's the matter with my horse—I never saw him lie down this way before. I've driven him from One-Hundred-and-Twenty-third street, and he came all right to here. He must be balky or something of that kind."

"Is it a question of life or death, madam?" asks the policeman, as he approaches cautiously.

"Oh, dear, yes, pretty nearly. I am going to the meeting of the Woman's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and I don't see what they can do if their president isn't there. Can't you poke him in the side a little with that stick you've got?"—Fred H. Carruth, in N. Y. Tribune.

RIBBONS ON GOWNS.

They Were Never in Greater Demand by Parisian Dames of Fashion.

Ribbons were never in greater request in Paris than they are at present. They serve to transform the bodice of average length of waist into one pseudo-Empire in style. If you happen to catch a front view only, you fancy you have at last come across one of the much-discussed short waists; one glance, however, at the back assures you of your mistake. The broad piece of ribbon above, which the material sets full over the bosom, is sewn into the side seams up close to the armpits, from whence it is drawn down into a point, the back piece being cut nearly if not quite as long as usual.

Black silk dresses are much worn with colored sashes, now arranged in the way just described or simply knotted round the waist. Light blue, mauve, lilac, green and the slightly bluish shades of pink are the favorites for the purpose.

Red is much less worn than it was, and is reserved more especially for juvenile frocks, or those of quite young girls. Moss and green ribbons are used to brighten up gray and other neutrals such as stone-color, fawn and beige; also as an admirable finish to Pompadour toilets, which continue to hold their own against Empire influences.

A pale pink moire gown, figured with colored bouquets, and made with a long pointed bodice, plain tunic open in front, and elbow sleeves, is cut three-quarters high and supplemented by a fichu of cream-colored gauze trimmed with apple-green leaves. It was worn at a wedding in conjunction with a tiny bonnet made entirely of roses and tied on with apple-green strings.

On the same occasion I noted another in striped Louis XV. silk—bands of cream-white satin brocaded with rose-pink flowers and pale-blue watered silk placed alternately, the trimmed shirt open in front so as to show a pink petticoat fastened with white lace. Also a train of silver-gray damask combined with an under-skirt of the same material and design in pinkish cream; an exquisite arrangement in mauve; pale pale mauve brocaded for the train and bodice and satin to match for the tablier and plastron, embroidered with large pansies in several tints of lilac, mauve and violets, and two half-mourning costumes, without trains. The first, composed of a double-skirt of pearl-gray satin, slightly draped and a black satin cuirass ruched with white guipure down the front and on the hips; the second in silver gray Sicilienne—a redingote and fan-plaited skirt, with a half-breadth of white watered silk down the center and white lapels and cuffs on the coat, bound with a black watered silk sash. —Paris Letter.

—There is a clump of thirty orange trees near Lakeland, Fla., that yields annually over one hundred thousand oranges.

STREAMS OF MERCURY.

How Quicksilver Is Produced from the Mines of California.

By the advice of the gatekeeper we first went upon the "Hill." They told us that by the foot trail it was but a short distance, while by the wagon trail it was about three miles. After thirty minutes' up-hill work we reached what is called English Camp. This is a village of Cornish miners, and is a colony as distinct and separate from its surrounding neighbors as if it were planted on an island in mid-ocean. They have their church, school and public hall.

From here we kept onward and upward to Spanish camp, which, as its name indicates, is a similar camp to English camp, except that its population is composed of Spaniards. We did not tarry here long enough to make much acquaintance with this village, but passed on by the old deserted Washington shaft to the American shaft, where we camped. The officer in charge of the American shaft took charge of us and showed us through his department. In this shaft the water is four hundred feet deep, and they keep a pump running day and night to keep it to that level. By the kindness of one of the employers those of the party that were not too timid of being under ground and wading in a little mud were favored with a trip of five hundred feet through an old deserted tunnel. It was in this dismal place that our guide told us an old legend of the early mining days.

As the story runs, a youthful native became enamored of a dusky maiden, but the cruel parents saw fit to frown upon his suit, and the dutiful daughter acquiesced in their decision and would have no more of him. Out of revenge for his slighted love he murdered the parents and stole away the maiden, and carried her to this deserted shaft, where he had previously prepared a strong room and plenty of provisions for a long siege. The friends of the kidnaped girl sought her far and wide, but found no trace of her. He kept her here for several weeks, until his fiendish heart had tired of its revenge, when he fled to unknown parts and has never been heard from since. Before leaving he hung an old skirt at the mouth of the shaft with a note telling the friends of the girl her place of concealment, from which she was rescued more dead than alive.

The entire mountain is honeycombed with miles and miles of tunnels, cuts and cross-cuts, there being upward of thirty miles of underground work.

There are the Washington, American, Buena Vista, St. Isabel and Randol shafts, all excepting the first being connected by tunnels and underground ways. Some of these shafts are over 2,000 feet deep, and one of them is 500 feet below the sea level. In this the temperature is very high, the miners being compeled to work in almost a nude condition, and to change shifts very often. Of late some of the shafts have been bothered with an accumulation of gases that are very unwholesome to the laborer, and it is feared that it will seriously impede the workings of the mines.

The mining of quicksilver is far from being as profitable as in years past, and it is only by the application of the most improved methods that it is made to pay at present prices. The reduction works are situated at the base of the hill and cover an immense area, and there is enough here to consume an entire day in sight-seeing. All the ore from the various shafts is wagoned to the brow of the hill, and then let down to the works, by means of an inclined cable railway, right into the upper story of the building, thereby saving the hauling of it a long distance, and also the elevating of it to the top of the works, where it begins its journey in the reduction process. The furnaces are run day and night, Sunday or Monday. Every hour they dump in a carload of ore at the top, and take a load of rock from the bottom. A small stream of pure quicksilver is constantly running into an iron basin, from which it is ladled out into a scoop balanced for ninety pounds, from which it is funneled into an iron flask and tightly sealed.

The novice is very much surprised after viewing the white heat of the furnace and seeing the solid ore thrown in, to go to the base of the furnace and see the melted silver stream running out, to find that he can hold his hand in the liquid without being burned. Again he is surprised to see his guide drop a heay iron bolt into the liquid and find that the solid iron floats like cork. The most surprising thing to the stranger is to view all those shafts, pumping-engine, hoisting-works, hundreds of men employed in mining, teams and cars used in mining and transporting ore from the mines to the furnaces, acres of furnaces and miles of piping, and nothing to show for this great outlay of labor and capital but a tiny stream of bright silver that you would guess you could carry away in a bucket at night.—San Jose (Cal.) Herald.

—In reply to the question why a woman table-servant is called a waitress, and a woman poet is simply a poet, and not a poetess, the Critic replies: "Why we should thus make fish of the one and flesh of the other, as it were, we do not know, yet the fact remains that we should. We should call the late Mrs. Jackson a poet, Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge an editor, Mrs. Putnam-Jacobi a doctor, Miss Grant a sculptor, a woman who preached a preacher, one who taught a teacher; and one who stood behind our chair and served our meals a waitress. Perhaps we oughtn't to, but we should."

NEW YORK'S RODENTS.

How and Where the Countless Millions of Gotham's Rats Live.

"Manhattan Island," said a native who is an infallible authority on all things, in New (and old) York, "is inhabited by 100,000,000 creatures, mostly rats." Rat baiting contests are of frequent occurrence in all Eastern cities. Harry Jennings, the celebrated rat catcher and dog fancier of this city, says that the New York rat is the largest and strongest of the species and the best fighter. He says that he could select fifty rats out of the cellars which he visits daily that would give the best dog in the world a hard fight. He thinks that the Scotch terrier is the best rat dog. The black and tan is fully as quick but not so strong. The Dachshund, a short-legged, ungainly creature, is stronger than either and slower. Their strong jaws end the life of the rat so easily that it robs the sport of its interest. The genuine Gotham rodent has still a few retiring habits, and prefers secret haunts, like a hermit, but he certainly believes in fearless publicity. You meet more rats in the open streets of New York than you will find in London, or even in Paris or Amsterdam, the paradise of the race.

The miles of riverside accommodation in and around New York afford luxurious board and lodging for our nimble fellow-citizens. Between the rock and soil, and the pier piles the rat colony flourish and keep up the population. They intermarry just like other natives, and the infusion of foreign blood has helped to develop the rare intellectual qualities of the Empire City rat. Each river and canal boat that goes up the country in spring carries a few adventurers from New York to brighten up the rustics in Wayback County. Each foreign ship that anchors in the North river debarks a band of sturdy immigrants from European ports, which, in turn, are supplied from the interior. The Hanoverian rat is of noble, some say of royal lineage, and has had even a lion's share in populating our free and open country. The rat is by choice a vegetarian. He is not a tectotaler, or at least he insists on experiments before he decides. Watch near one of the bonded stores where wines and liquors are landed. Soar around the malting houses in breweries and you will see a sleek-coated, bright-eyed tippler sally forth, reckless of danger, as full as a keg and as happy as a President. He shoots ahead for a few paces, stops dead, and lifts up his nose to sniff the breeze. Then you will see his sides swell out round, as if he was bursting with jollity. All of a sudden he careens over to the left, and only after a severe mental effort does he square himself up for another trot homewards.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

HABITS OF OSTRICHES.

Glimpses of the Great Birds Kept in California for Their Plumage.

It is too bad to say any thing against these magnificent creatures, but their big eyes and grinning look reveal an ugly disposition. They will strike with their feet and trample whenever they have a chance. Contrary to my expectations the ostriches are very clean in appearance, and the feathers in their natural state are beautiful and rich. They are not packed down close to the body, but very loose, so that the wind blows through them, fanning the body and keeping it cool. This shows more than any thing else that they belong to a hot climate. The chicks are plucked at seven months of age and the large birds every six months.

The head, which is wonderfully small compared to the great size of the body, is very queer, consisting of hardly any thing except two big eyes and a wide, deep bill, splitting the head back to the neck. The top of the head is flat and often sunken; there absolutely seems to be no room for brains. As authority has placed the size of the brain to be in proportion only of 1 to 1,500, while the eagle's is 1 to 160 and the parrot's as 1 to 45. Notwithstanding their brainless heads they show an intelligence that overthrows all laws of phrenology. When hatching their young they carefully break the thick shells of the eggs, and show the greatest tenderness and affection for the chicks.

Although viciously disposed they beg for food most winningly. First they toss their wings about, as if to drive off flies. They open their mouths and follow you along the fence, reaching out their long necks. If you wait a little to test their importunity they will sit down and raise their wings, sway their bodies, and pound their heads from side to side. Now reward one by throwing him a big orange and he will quickly gulp it down whole. While it is retained in the neck, slowly working down, he will stretch his mouth with another, and so on until you can see four or five bunches where the oranges are working down his neck at the same time. They drink water in the same gulping manner, seizing it in big mouthfuls like a solid substance. Their chief food is alfalfa, given all the year round, with corn occasionally, in the proportion of a pound to each large bird. This grass is cut fresh and chopped with a revolving knife. A bushel basketful daily answers for two birds. It is also the principal food used in Australia and Africa, but known under a different name—viz., lucern, which Webster gives as the only proper name for it in this country. This herb of the clover, new only in the United States, grows very rank, and, being green all the year, the ostriches, by feeding upon it, thrive amazingly.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

BALLOT REFORM.

The System of Voting Adopted by the State of Massachusetts.

Probably not one in a hundred of readers ever had an opportunity to observe an election in which the grossest forms of corruption and fraud are practiced. These evils are at the worst in the slums of great cities.

A voter approaches the polls through a throng of rowdy ballot-distributors and "ward-heelers." He is beset by these men who offer him "tickets" and follow him up until his vote has been deposited. In many cases the ballots they offer are fraudulent. For while "Republican Ticket" or "Democratic Ticket" is conspicuously printed upon the ballot, one or more names, perhaps all the names, are different from those of the actual candidates, and a person casting one of these ballots votes for men whom he does not wish to be elected.

This is only one of the several evils which have led to an agitation in favor of the "Australian system" of voting, which, with modifications, is that employed in England and in Canada. At least two States of the Union have now adopted the principle, and laws to change radically the method of voting will go into effect as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

The principle is, after all, a very simple one. All the ballots are printed, not by parties, but by the State, and they are all alike. Each ballot contains the names of all candidates nominated, and the names are arranged in alphabetical order. In order to vote for a candidate, the person puts a cross opposite that candidate's name.

For example, in Massachusetts, the Legislature of which State has passed a law introducing this system, the ballot, or a part of it, will look something like this when it is ready to be voted:

| FOR GOVERNOR: [Vote for one.] | |
|---|---|
| JOHN ADAMS (Federal) | |
| JOHN HANCOCK (National Union) | X |
| CHARLES SUMNER (Free Soil) | |
| HENRY WILSON (American) | |
| FOR REPRESENTATIVES. [Vote for three.] | |
| HENRY BASCOM (Republican) | |
| JOHN H. BLANDING (Prohibition) | X |
| THOMAS T. CANDAGE (Prohibition) | X |
| EDWARD E. ESTERN (Democrat) | |
| FRANK GORE (Republican) | |
| THOMAS S. GORE (Democrat) | |
| HENRY L. Q. HOBBS (Democrat) | |
| OBED N. NATHAN (Republican) | |
| JOSIAH WILKINS (Prohibition) | X |

This ballot is printed on the inside pages of a folded sheet, so that when the voter has marked the names as above indicated the ballot is folded up and is so passed in to be deposited in the ballot-box. There are many provisions of the law to adapt the machinery of voting to this system, but it is not necessary to mention them here. What has been said is enough to show how men will vote, and that is, for the general public, the important thing.

Now what will be gained by this change of system, in the interest of purity of elections and good politics? Many things. First, there can be no ballot-box stuffing, since each voter will receive only one ballot, and that one will be numbered.

Secondly, the ballot will be really secret, as it ought to be, and every voter will be free from intimidation.

Again, each voter will be secured against the fraud of forged and purposely incorrect ballots, and a heavy blow will be dealt to the practice of trading off one part of the ticket against another, which is one of the worst forms of electoral corruption by party "workers."

Once more, the corruption of ballot-distributors and workers at the polls will be destroyed completely, and men may hope to vote freely and in peace. —Youth's Companion.

Evolution of the Dinner Pail.

The original dinner pail was a common little tin pail with a cover. Meat, bread, pie, pickles and all other solids were put in it together and no liquids could be taken unless in a bottle. Then somebody devised a pail with two compartments, one pail fitting into another, and one of them for coffee. Then some other genius got up a pail with four or six parts, all fitting into each other and making it possible to carry four or six articles separate from each other. All this was discounted by the fellow who got up a pail in which the coffee could be heated by alcohol at an expense of a cent. A warming compartment was got up by another man by the use of water and lime, in which the former was made to slake the latter, some heat being the result. In other complicated dinner pails lamps are fitted for supplying the convenient heat at dinner time.—Good Housekeeping.

—The "opsiometer" is a new instrument for testing the eyesight. It consists of a mahogany case with two front eyeholes, behind which different lenses are fitted, and the person whose sight is to be tested looks through the holes and and lenses at printed matter behind.

—Papa (of Calvanistic faith, has just heard that Mollie was at the theater last evening)—"Good morning, daughter of Satan." Mollie—"Good morning, father."—Life.

AN ARAB WEDDING.

Ceremonies Attending a Marriage in the Sahara Desert.

I had the good fortune to see a grand Arab wedding. The Caid had planned the marriage of his daughter to a Sheik—frankly one of the ugliest men I have ever seen—who was already the possessor of four wives. From what whispers could be heard from the mysterious recesses of the harem, the bride was a lovely girl of fourteen, her repugnance having delayed the marriage some ten days. After the ceremony, while the bride was being conveyed to the bridegroom's home in a sort of howdah of brocaded silk, her cries and lamentations could plainly be heard above the din of the pistols and matchlocks and the voices of some thirty maidens, who, surrounding the camel that bore her, gave utterance to a strange noise made by tapping the mouth with open hand while crying out, the effect produced being somewhat like the cry of an Indian. These maidens had on this occasion yashmaks made mostly of light green gauze studded with golden stars, which partly concealed the face of some of the loveliest women and girls. Their eyes, indeed, equaled those of a gazelle, but seemed to have a mournful vacancy and to be any thing but windows of the soul. Arab etiquette prevented me from advancing too near. What with the embroidery, the gold and colored garments, it made up a whole of bizarre but most striking effect. On went the procession to make a tour on the desert, surrounded by this frenzied band of relatives, while the marriage feast—kids and sheep roasted whole—was being cooked. On their return, preparations were made for what I had so much longed to see, the celebrated "fantaisie arabe." Imagine about forty Arabs, superbly mounted and armed, casting aside the burnoose of every day to appear in their holiday jackets of every hue and texture imaginable; horse housings of velvet and gold, with tassels and embroidery everywhere; the heels of their long red leather boots decked with the Arab spur, five inches long, which is really only an ornament; flashing arms, a long gun, two long carved daggers, a brace of pistols attached to a cord round the neck, so that they can be flung over the shoulder after being discharged, a long sword, damascened with gold, fastened to the saddle-bow—in such guise they career headlong at a great burst of speed, the rein held loosely by the little finger, using gun, pistols and sword in turn in mimic warfare. Cries of defiance arise from the men, and loud approbation from the women, as some skillful cavalier performs some more daring feat than any of his comrades; till finally, amid a whirlwind of dust, horses and men, half mad with excitement, stop by degrees from the sheer violence of their exertions.

At the feast I was placed beside the Caid, who looked approvingly at me as I squatted down cross-legged, and followed the others in tearing, strip by strip, the meat from the steaming animal. As a bonne bouche, my host crammed his hand down the animal's throat, tearing out the tongue, and sharing it with me. After sundry dishes, highly spiced with pimento and pepper, there came the cous-cous, the great national dish that is eaten every day. It is taken by the hand and thrown in the mouth. We finished with dates, sweetmeats and coffee of delicious flavor. Their manner of preparing the beverage is, after roasting the berry and beating it into powder, to put it into a tin pot with water enough for one; after being made to boil, it is served, grounds and all; but the aroma is perfection.—E. P. Sanguinetti, in Harper's Magazine.

POETRY OF NATURE.

Our Intelligence Inferior in Some Respects to the Dumb Animals.

Since nature is so broad and so deep, so general and so particular, so infinitely great and so infinitely small, we do well to remember that the warmest, most constant lover is limited in his capacity for knowledge and appreciation. Nor can we be quite sure that man's intelligence toward nature is at every point superior to that of his humble fellow creatures, the dumb animals. By how much were we gainers could we but come at the private observations and reflections of those privileged but silent pensioners of nature, the beasts and birds! Who could read us so sweet a prelection on the pastoral fields as the gentle, Junoeyed creature who ruminates in them from sunrise to dewfall, and all through the night hours to daylight again? How I would love to hear the bobolink speak out boldly, and tell us about the delicious privacies of the June meadow, in which he has his undiscoverable nest, and whose floating superfices is made up of pannicled grasses, fringed daisies, buttercups, with a dash here and there of dappled gypsy lilies. Who could give so well the inventory of the cabinet curiosities on the lake beach as could that toiling little specialist the tip up, who is forever patrolling and peering along the wet shingle? I am not ashamed to own that I would like to know what truth the crawfish finds at the bottom of his well in midsummer, or what cool, liquid, never roiled contemplation dwells in the breast of the water rat whom I lately saw swimming with a sheaf of green stuff in his mouth, and phenomenally disappearing under the creek bank. O, for a half hour's intelligent eavesdropping at the beehive, or to overhear the golden speculations of the humming laborers who work all day in the mealy drift of the maize flower! If the chipmunk would but open to us his budget of arboreal gossip! and then, if we could but learn from the bill of the hermit thrush the diviner secret counsels of the forest.—Edith M. Thomas, in Book Buyer.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—A new perfume is named "Opoponax," and is highly esteemed in Paris. It has a modified odor of carrots, and is chiefly made from that vegetable.

—What may be of great value in ship-building and watchmaking is the discovery that steel, mixed with twenty-four per cent. of manganese becomes non-magnetic.

—The fabric known as Chinese grass cloth is made from the fiber of nettles. The cloth is peculiarly glossy and transparent, and as belting for machinery has double the strength of leather.

—Electric rifles are the latest. Instead of the ordinary percussion firing device, a dry chloride of silver battery and a primary coil will, so it was lately stated before the American Institute, fire the rifle 35,000 times without recharging.

—Experiments are being made on Prussian railroads with axle-boxes fitted with bearings of vegetable parchment in place of brass. The claim is made that these compressed paper bearings make a tough material that is superior to metal.

—According to the Electrical Review, medicine may be introduced into the human system by electricity. The electrodes of a battery are saturated with the medicine and applied locally to the skin. Experiments show that there is an actual absorption of the medicine into the system.

—Russian observations have shown that teeth decay in a quite regular order, the lower third molar being the first attacked, then the upper, then the lower fourth molar, and so on, the lower, incisors and canine teeth being the last affected. Upper teeth, as a rule, are more durable than lower, right than left, those of dark persons than those of blondes, those of short persons than those of the tall.

—Investigations made by Sohncke have led to the conclusion that the electricity which is discharged during a thunder storm is produced by the friction of water and ice—that is, the ice is electrified by friction with water; just before a thunder storm, water clouds (cumuli) and ice clouds (cirri, cirrosrati) appear simultaneously in the sky, and the friction of these particles of ice and water is, according to this theory, a sufficient cause of the electricity which is generated.

—Artificial sponge-rearing is being practiced in Styria. From a report to the Austrian Board of Trade it appears that the "sponge-farmer," by taking small pieces of living sponge and "planting" them in favorable spots, has obtained large specimens in the course of three years. It is stated that 4,000 sponges cost no more for cultivation and interest on capital than 225 francs (forty-five dollars.) and the Austro-Hungarian Government has authorized the protection of this new industry on the coast of Dalmatia.

—It has been estimated that the walls of a building in which fifty thousand bricks are used require nearly five thousand gallons of water in the construction; this being stored in the pores and spaces of the bricks and mortar until dispelled in the form of vapor. It can not be too well known that until this large quantity of water is so dispelled, the house is not habitable. The town of Basle, in Switzerland, has recently adopted a wise regulation which forbids the occupation of newly-built houses until four months after their completion.

A Most Emphatic Refusal.

A fast young man decided to make to a young lady a formal offer of his hand and heart—all he was worth—hoping for a cordial reception. He cautiously prefaced his declarations with a few questions, for he had no intention of "throwing himself away." Did she love him well enough to live in a cottage with him? Was she a good cook? Did she think it a wife's duty to make home happy? Would she consult his tastes and wishes concerning her associates and pursuits in life? Was she economical? Could she make her own clothes, etc? The young lady said that before she answered his questions she would assure him of some negative virtues she possessed. She never drank, smoked or chewed; never owed a bill to her laundress or tailor; never stayed out all night playing billiards; never lounged on the street corners and ogled giddy girls; never "stood in" with the boys for cigars and wine suppers. "Now," said she, rising indignantly, "I am assured, by those who know, that you do all these things, and it is rather absurd for you to expect all the virtues in me, while you do not possess any yourself. I can never be your wife;" and she bowed him out and left him on the cold doorstep, a madder if not a wiser man.—Health Journal.

How Paper Bottles Are Made.

One of the most interesting of the many uses to which paper has been put is the manufacture of paper bottles. We have long ago had paper boxes, barrels and car wheels, and more recently paper pails, wash-basins and other vessels; but now comes a further evolution of paper in the shape of paper bottles, which are already quite extensively used for containing such substances as ink, bluing, shoe-dressing, glue, etc., and they would seem to be equally well adapted for containing a large variety of articles. They are made by rolling glued sheets of paper into long cylinders, which are then cut into suitable lengths, tops and bottoms are fitted in, the inside coated with a water-proof compound, and all this done by machinery almost as quickly as one can count.—Pall Mall Gazette.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

(Wethout ary apology.)

I GOT to thinkin' of him—as sometimes a feller will—
Of the night he give a lecture to the folks in Shelbyville,
An' we set up until daylight, as them lecterers sometimes do—
A-talkin' of a hundred things that mightn't int'rest you;
I mind the things he rattled off that night, in boyish glee,
Recitations he recited to a audience of me;
How I laughed until the lan'lord come an' ast us to be still—
So I got to thinkin' of him an' that night at Shelbyville.

Then he'd kind o' quit his nonsense an' we'd settle down a spell,
Tell Jim, 'ud turn upon me an' begin agin—"Dev' tell
'Bout the time I went to Franklin fer the Baptist college folks?"
An' I'd stretch my mouth acrost my face, all ready fer the jokes;
But he'd branch off in a story 'bout the "Merry Workers" band,
That, 'niess you knowed the "Workers," you c'd hardly understand;
I c'd hear myself a-swallerin', the room 'ud seem so still—
So I got to thinkin' of him an' that night at Shelbyville.

I got to thinkin' of him—like 'twas jest a year ago—
Fer time, that flies so fast in dreams, in alminieks is slow;
He was workin' like a beaver, lecturn' here an' lecturn' there,
An' a writin' on the railroad cars, in taverns—ever'where,
Printin' poems in the papers, speakin' pieces at the fairs,
An' him an' me a travelin', now an' then, around in pairs;
An' he seemed to think 'at he was no account at all—but still,
I got to thinkin' of him, an' that night at Shelbyville.

I got to thinkin' of him—an' the happy "Days gone by,"
Tell the sweet "Old fashioned Roses" seemed to bloom agin—and die;
An' I hear him talk agin about "My bride that is to be,"
When he'd come to "Grigsby station" jest to have a night weth me;
I kin see him sittin' down agin, to give the Prince a rock,
When "The frost was on the pumpkin an' the corn was in the shock;"
An' I hear a laughing voice I loved, with music in its trill—
So I got to thinkin' of him, an' that night in Shelbyville.

So I set here an' I wonder ef I know jest what it means,
When I see 'em print his poetry in all the magazines;
An' I see him on the platform with the James and Howells set,
An' hear the people sayin', "He's the best one of 'em yet;"
An' I keep a winkin' back the tears that make my fool eyes shine,
Fer I couldn't feel no prouder ef he'd ben a boy of mine;
Fer he's jest the same old Riley, an' he'll be the same Jim still,
As he was the night 'at him an' me set up at Shelbyville.

—Robert J. Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

Afraid of Daylight.

"Do you realize, young man," he said solemnly, "that when you lie down at night you may be called before the morning dawns?"

"No, sir," replied the young man, "I feel quite safe at night; but when I get up in the morning I realize that I may be called before the setting sun lights up the western sky."

"Just so."

"Just exactly so, sir; I'm a baseball umpire."—New York Sun.

A Weather Expert.

Passenger (to stranger)—So you think we are to have a hot summer, sir?

Stranger (pounding the seat)—Think? I don't think anything about it—I know so! The whole country, sir, will sizzle until snow flies!

Passenger—You seem to be positive.

Stranger—Positive? Why, I am as sure of it as I am that I run the finest hotel in the Dogskill Mountain! Put that card in your pocket; it may save your life!—Life.

Education in Missouri.

"What are you doing now, Boozby?"

"Teaching school."

"Teaching school! Why, you can't spell a word of two syllables."

"I know that, but I can lick any two pupils together."—Lincoln Journal.

Easy to Compute.

"What's my bill?" inquired a Chicago delegate of the hotel clerk.

"Number of room?"

"I didn't have a room. I slept on the billiard table."

"Oh, sixty cents an hour, please."—Time.

A Wider Experience.

Dumley (who has given Featherly a cigar from his private box)—I've smoked worse cigars than these, Featherly.

Featherly—Ye-es, Dumley, I s'pose you have; but you must remember that you are an older man than I am.—Life.

Just His Luck.

Passenger—What's wrong?

Brakeman—The train behind us can't slow up. There'll be an awful collision.

Passenger—And I'll be killed. That's just like my luck. I was foolish enough to buy a return ticket.—Detroit Free Press.

A Question of Time.

Young Sappy—I was knocked senseless by a polo ball two years ago.

Old Sappy—How long before you expect to recover?—Exchange.

Easily Explained.

Employer—You come to your work later and later, young man. Can you explain it?

Clerk—Yes, sir. I go to bed later and later.—New Haven News.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22.....1888

HERE AND THERE.

Modern needles first came into use in 1545.

Harvard distributed $53,000 to indigent students last year.

In the time of King Edward II the price of the Bible in England was £37.

Electric lights are now being used by submarine divers with great effect.

A phrenologist has been making money of late in Washington examining the bumps on senatorial heads.

Most of the London churches have offered up prayers for the recovery of the crown prince of Germany.

Volapuk is publicly taught in France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Austria, Russia, and Denmark.

The Grand Army has increased from 60,634 in 1880 to 372,674 in 1887. The gain in the past year and a quarter was 46,157.

An immense hunting expedition is about to start for Masailand, the ground of Rider Haggard's last novel, "Allan Quatermain."

The hospital Saturday fund in London amounts to $50,000 this year. Collections are made every Saturday in workshops and factories.

Several German firms have given notice to houses in Bradford, where there are so many Germans, that they will adopt Voltpuk in corresponding with English manufacturers.

The London Times says that a few weeks ago some excavations at Pompeii brought to light a set of surgical instruments, many of which resemble instruments in use at the present day.

John Edman, an Ohio man, proposes to start a daily newspaper in the Finnish language at Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 1. It will be the only daily in that language published in the United States.

A Maine man as an experiment slipped the fleece from a pet Newfoundland dog and had it carded and spun into yarn. It yielded four skeins of jet black yarn, weighing two and one-quarter pounds, and was as soft as wool.

A solid lump of coal, containing eighty-seven cubic feet and weighing 6,351 pounds, was exhibited at the Texas state fair recently held at Dallas. It was the largest block of coal ever taken from a mine in the United States.

It is said that the most acceptable of all holiday presents to a lady from her husband or brother, or any friend who has a right to give it, is a long, narrow strip of tinted paper on which is written: "Pay to the order of —— $—, —o."

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, an American couple, have been traveling for four months through Europe on a tandem cycle. Their joint expenses by this mode of traveling have been limited to twenty-six shillings a day, sightseeing fees included.

Mr. Jesse Haworth, of Bowdon, Cheshire, has presented to the British museum the throne chair of Queen Hatasu, of the eighteenth Egyptian dynasty, B. C. 1600. This is the oldest piece of furniture in the world, the date of which is known.

An example of economy was that of Ignatz Freund in his Detroit store, who lighted the gas jets one after another with a single match until it burned his fingers, and then dropped it into a pile of cotton, the result of which was a general panic and a damage of $1,500.

In France 131,734,827 francs are expended on public instruction, and 12,036,655 on the fine arts. There is an elementary school for every 472 inhabitants, and a primary attendance of 3,888,086. Of the entire appropriation this year 81,460,000 francs were set down for primary education.

Recently a consignment of 18,870 boxes of raisins from Fresno, Cal., were shipped via the Sunset route to New York. The weight of the consignment was 417,000 pounds, and it occupied a special train of twenty cars. It was the largest single shipment of freight ever made from California, and regular rates were paid.

A Philadelphia merchant says that, in opening the mail in the morning, he always reserves for the last those letters which have "The Honorable" prefixed to the address. His experience has been that in nine cases out of ten they are written by persons who ask some favor, and make use of the prefix in a mild attempt at flattery.

In Buenos Ayres there is a bank which has a paid up capital of $57,000,000, deposits of $35,000,000, and a line of discounts amounting to $60,000,000. The Argentine Republic imports $50,000,000 worth of goods, and of this sum the United States gets only $5,000,000. The country is already a powerful competitor in the market of the world for dressed beef and wheat.

A Chicago clergyman, in a recent sermon on the vice of great cities, gave a severe rap at certain eminent divines who have been in the habit of visiting the slums to obtain secular evidence of their iniquity. "I have not personally visited the vile places of the city for the purpose of afterward preaching about them," said he; "that is too thin." Whereupon the congregation audibly smiled.

Indications now point to the existence of a sub-marine volcanic crater between the Canary Islands and the coast of Portugal. From a cable laying steamer in 39 degs. 25 mins. north, 9 degs. 54 mins. west, the water was found to measure 1,300 fathoms under the bow and 800 under the stern, showing the ship to be over the edge of a deep depression in the ocean bottom. The well known great inequalities in the bed of the Sea of Lisbon are thought to be due to a submarine chain of mountains.

LITERARY NOTES.

The serials in Harper's for 1888 are to be by William Black and W. D. Howells.

Mr. Chamberlain, it is said, will write a book on his American trip when he returns to England.

Mrs. Frank Leslie intends to arrange for the publication of a Spanish-American newspaper in the City of Mexico.

In Robert Louis Stevenson's "Chapter on Dreams," in Scribner's for January he will tell of some of the phantoms which disturbed his boyhood and gave him the bent which has made him a writer of romances.

Sister Frances M. Clare, better known as the Nun of Kenmare, has written and Belford, Clarke & Co. have published a little work with the title "Anti-Poverty and Progress." It is in the nature of a reply to the land theories of Henry George, with special reference to the case of Dr. McGlynn.

Swinburne, who contributes to the Athenæum a rather enigmatic little poem headed "May, 1885," will have in the Nineteenth Century for January an article called "Dethroning Tennyson." It sets forth that he has been intrusted with the papers of a lady languishing in Hanwell asylum who devoted many years to proving that Tennyson's poems were written by Darwin.

Mme. Limouzin will shortly give to the world a volume in which she will put all her enemies in the pillory. The book will be called by its ambitious authoress "Les Chatiments," unless the heirs of Victor Hugo choose to object to such a profanation, and it will no doubt prove to future chroniclers and historians a curious if not valuable "human document" concerning men and manners under the third republic.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Salt dissolved in alcohol will remove grease spots from cloth.

Rub the tea kettle with kerosene and polish with a dry flannel cloth.

Camp chairs are now covered with plush and bordered with tiny tassels of silk.

Flour should be kept in a barrel, with a flour scoop to dip it and a sieve to sift it.

Ceilings that have been smoked by a kerosene lamp should be washed off with soda water.

The surest test of a frozen orange is its weight. If it is heavy in the hand it has not been frozen.

Cold sliced potatoes fry and taste better by sprinkling a teaspoonful of flour over them while frying.

Drain pipes and all places that are sour or impure may be cleansed with lime water or carbolic acid.

Bent whalebones can be restored and used again by simply soaking in water a few hours, then drying them.

For a cold on the chest, a flannel rag wrung out in boiling water and sprinkled with turpentine, laid on the chest, gives the greatest relief.

When a felon first begins to make its appearance, take a lemon, cut off one end, put the finger in, and the longer it is kept there the better.

When the rubber rollers of your wringer become sticky, as they very often do after wringing flannel, rub with kerosene and wipe dry and they will be nice and smooth.

For a cough, boil one ounce of flax seed in a pint of water, strain and add a little honey, one ounce of rock candy and the juice of three lemons; mix and boil well. Drink as hot as possible.

To clean carpets, go over them once a week with a broom dipped in hot water, to which a little turpentine has been added. Wring a cloth in the hot water and wipe under pieces of furniture to be moved.

To test cake in the oven, never insert a broom splinter, but draw it gently forward and put the ear close to the loaf; if it is not done there will be a little sputtering sound. When it is thoroughly baked there will be no sound.

GASTRONOMICAL TIDBITS.

A very palatable imitation of mock turtle soup is made out of the ordinary black bean.

Epicures rise in meeting and declare the only way to enjoy reed birds is stewed in cream.

It is late in the day for an exchange to dwell upon the difference between smelts and frost fish.

Just why so many French cooks destroy tomato soup by a flavor of ham has yet to be explained.

Alarmists are spreading the usual tales of probable extinction of canvas back ducks and terrapin.

Foolish men continue to get into disputes as to the alleged superiority of different kinds of oysters.

Philadelphians long ago ceased to deny the allegation that they eat sparrows "as a regular thing" for game.

Only the brave deserve the fair, and only home made mince pies are ever made as the gastronomic law directs.

The government has put a duty on imported plum pudding, and there is a great howl from the Anglomaniacs.

The fashionable buckwheat cake is about the size of a trade dollar, and, to be facetious, contains more of the wheat than the buck.

Thousands of people at this season are not happy at a dinner at which there is turkey unless they get the delicacy of the bird, which is a wing.

Between some hotels' cranberry sauce and ordinary red ink there is very little difference, and anti slang diners may well say to the waiter: "What are you giving us?"

A Washington correspondent would have us believe pumpkin is the almost invariable dessert at this season at a White House dinner. This, if true, would indicate the "eternal fitness of things," at least in one direction.

CURIOUS THINGS OF LIFE.

A Russian miser learned to bark in order to avoid the expense of keeping a watch dog.

An Atchison (Kas.) man recently acted as pall bearer at a funeral and usher at a wedding the same day.

James Judge, of Kenosha, Wis., although totally blind, is one of the most skillful plumbers in the town.

Mrs. Crobar is a powerful lover in a Saginaw, Mich., church society, where the Rev Mr. Broadax hews a branch from the tree of evil every Sunday.

Charles Miller attempted a masquerade at Columbus dressed in a convict's striped suit. A policeman arrested him on suspicion, locked him up, and he was refused bail.

A citizen of Fremont, Neb., who got drunk and froze his feet so that they had to be amputated, has just recovered $2,000 damages from the man who sold him the liquor.

Floyd Tafts, of Westmore, Vt., is but 7 years old, and weighs only 115 pounds, but he is able to shoulder two bushels of corn with ease and to lift his grandfather, who weighs 175 pounds, from the floor without exerting himself.

In order to try the extent to which a tragic actress is moved by the whirl of stage passion, Sarah Bernhardt's pulse was once tested at the wings immediately after a scene of great intensity. It ticked as regularly and normally as an eight day clock.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Amelia B. Edwards, the novelist, writes "Ph. D." and "LL. D." after her name.

The queen of Roumania has written a Christmas story for one of the newspapers published in her capital.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps is suffering from an affection of the eyes and is obliged to do her literary work by the aid of an amanuensis. She is living quietly at Andover, Mass.

The queen regent of Spain is gaining a great hold on the affection of her subjects, and is said to be a wonderful woman, charming in manner and possessing great administrative ability.

There is a lady in Jackson, Miss., so deeply affected by the loss of her husband, whose death occurred recently, that every day she writes him a long letter, and, with her own hands, places it on his grave.

This remark upon Jenny Lind appears in an English paper: "If ever an angel leaning over the crystal battlements happened to let a voice slip out of its possession it fell upon the cradle of Jenny Lind."

Lady Burdett Coutts denies that she has any intention of visiting America, and adds that she is afraid that a journey to this country would probably be made unpleasant by newspaper comments. At a recent wedding the venerable old lady wore a cloak entirely composed of ostrich feathers.

A Cure for the Nose Bleed.

An old English charm for curing nose bleed is a curious one. If a person is subject to nose bleed he may effect a cure by going to a person of the opposite sex and requesting him or her to purchase a piece of lace, such as may be specified, for the person making the request. When the lace is brought the person must take it and neither pay for it nor return thanks for it. He must make a necktie out of the lace and wear it for nine days, and he will never have the nose bleed again.—Philadelphia Call.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Norvin Green estimates Jay Gould's fortune at $60,000,000. This is moderate.

A number of Americans propose to erect a statue of Gen. Washington in Paris.

Marshall P. Wilder has arranged a professional trip to China, Japan and India for 1888.

Explorer Greely does not believe that the north pole will ever be reached except by balloon.

Not one of the four presidents of the French republic since its origin in 1870 was born in Paris.

M. Grevy saw twelve cabinets, with 129 ministers, serve under him while president of France.

Andrew D. White, of Cornell, says poker will soon be a necessary part of a classical education.

M. Grevy slept soundly for eight hours the night after his resignation—for the first time in six weeks.

Congressman Scott will spend $25,000 during the winter on social entertainments at his Washington home.

Mohini M. Chatterjee, the young Brahmin philosopher who came to this country last year, has returned to India.

Morell Mackenzie has received £2,500 up to the present time for his attendance on the prince imperial of Germany.

Gens. Sherman and Sheridan will review the state military exercises at the centennial celebration in Ohio next September.

The Court Journal says that Kaiser William wants to abdicate in favor of his son the coronation to take place in May.

The first words of Rev. Joseph Parker upon his arrival in Liverpool were that he should never come to America again.

The Duke of Newcastle will winter in Florida and pay a flying visit to Philadelphia. He is young, unmarried and has a cork leg.

Louis Kossuth, now well on his 86th year, is in capital health of mind and body, and constantly busies himself with literary work.

It appears that Bismarck has an elder brother, who has been register prefect of Mingard since 1841, and is about to retire, aged 77.

M. E. Ingalls, of Cincinnati, carries an insurance of $500,000 on his life—the largest sum carried, it is said, by any resident of that city.

At the ball of the Pelican club, where Sullivan lately sparred before the Prince of Wales, the Pelicans all appeared in Pelican waistcoats.

Complaint is made in Washington that William Walter Phelps is wearing the same rusty brown suit which became a chestnut some years ago.

Sam Small announces that he has given up his labors as an evangelist, and is now a preacher in the Methodist church South at Washington, D. C.

Samuel Spencer, who has been made president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at a salary of $25,000 a year, was a rodman earning a scant salary a few years ago. He is not yet 40 years old.

The new French president belongs to a family of Scotch origin. The original name was Cairn, the French diminutive of which would be Cairnot, or little carn. This was soon corrupted into Carnot.

Prince Regent Luitpold, of Bavaria, was bitten in the hand while hunting by a dog, which it is feared was mad. Fortunately the wounds are not deep, and do not deprive the prince of the use of his hand.

Carter Harrison wants all the American women to dress as per the Chinese rule. "We would then have our better halves dressed," he says, "to please an artistic eye, without the present waste of female health and strength."

Announcement is made that within three weeks Maurice Bernhardt, who was almost as well known in New York as his divine and adorable mother's tiger cat, will lead to the matrimonial altar the celebrated beauty, "Princess Terka Jobowska."

The other morning early a little curly headed girl of 6 or 7 years went to the Maine state house and asked an officer, "Is Governor Bodwell dead?" "Yes," was the reply. "Oh, he used to give me candy!" she exclaimed, and turned away crying bitterly.

Mr. Labouchere is down on the tall hat. He says: "I do so loathe it that if the present ministry would deal it a coup de grace by invariably appearing in pot hats I almost think that gratitude would oblige me to turn Tory—even at the risk of having my head shaved in by a Tory constable."

John B. Alley, of Massachusetts, is said to be worth considerably over $10,000,000. He is the richest Republican in the old Bay state and is fond of politics. The greater part of his fortune was made in speculation and he is constantly adding to it. Mr. Alley is 70 years old.

The remains of President Carnot's illustrious grandfather are in the cemetery at Magdeburg, and an attempt will now be made to have them brought home to France. He died an exile, proscribed by the restored Bourbons for having voted for the killing of Louis XVI.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine, Miss Blaine and Miss Dodge (Gail Hamilton) have gone to Marseilles. Mr. Blaine thinks seriously of going to Algiers, whence he may sail for Naples. He has left his heavy baggage at Paris. It is said that he may, on his return to Paris, put up with Mr. and Mrs. Morton.

MISCELLANEOUS.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Price direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.
JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,
MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including
Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18-tf

LUMBER. LUMBER.
SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.
CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.
SPRATT & CREASER,
apl-tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well-known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.
P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

DEMOCRATIC County Convention.

PURSUANT TO CALL THE DEMOCRATIC Central Committee of Inyo County met at Independence, August 21st, and arranged for the holding of a County Nominating Convention to assemble at INDEPENDENCE on

TUESDAY, September 25, 1888,

for the nomination of candidates for County officers, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such Convention.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Independence Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars
jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons, in every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertisement send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R
TAKING EFFECT
Tusedav. April 1:0h, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House..... | 9 15 a. m | 5 35 p. m |
| Layton..... | 10 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska ..... | 12 45 a. m | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne ..... | 4 50 p. m | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning..... | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m |
| Sodа Springs..... | 7 0 p. m. | 8 10 a. m |
| Belleville..... | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m |
| Candelaria..... | Ar. 8 30 p. m | Lv. 6 30 a. m |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Belleville..... | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m |
| Benton ..... | 11 00 a. m | 1:45 p. m |
| Bishop Creek ..... | 1 10p. m. | 11:30 a. m |
| Alvord ..... | 2.00 p. m | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence..... | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine..... | 4 15 p. m | 8 5 a. m |
| Keeler..... | Ar 5:05 p. m. | Lv 7:30 a. m |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.
All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.
Customers supplied on all points
Of the C. & C. Railroad.
Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS
Wagons Painted.
The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.,
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
MY STOCK
Consisting of most everyone article, is well calculated to suit the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO
—
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $35,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - $11,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22. ... ....1888

Eighteenth Dist. Fair.

The second annual fair of the 18th Agricultural District opened at Independence last Monday. The first day was devoted entirely to arranging exhibits at the pavilion. Much more space for exhibits was provided than last year and the showing as a whole was decidedly better. The value of the Fair as a means of education was seen in the improvement in all lines of exhibits over last year. Mr. C. A. Walter had a very fine exhibit of the products of his farm, including apples, pears, peaches, plums, wheat, oats, barley, corn on the ear and shelled, many varieties of vegetables and roots, growing tobacco, dried fruit of several varieties and other products of the field and orchard. This display was arranged with excellent taste; it was very large and made a fine showing.

Mr. S. A. Densmore had a fine display, particularly of fruits. The apples were splendid and included many varieties; the peaches attracted a crowd of admirers. It is rather late for nectarines but a box was shown that nearly equalled the peaches for size. In prunes French, German and Hungarian were shown, all being very fine. The corn, wheat, oats, roots and vegetables were excellent. A beautiful display of dried fruits of many kinds was included in this display.

Mr. John Baxter had a beautiful showing of fruits. His peaches were such as excited constant admiration; his apples were the largest of their several kinds and the many varieties were all beautiful. Very fine samples of grain of different kinds were included in this display, as well as many roots and vegetables. Mrs. Baxter made a fine display of butter, some fresh and some several months old; the latter is keeping well; in fact appears to be as good as when made.

Mr. Jacob Vagt made an excellent display of farm produce. A fine feature of this was a large showing of stocks of corn with the ear on. This reached well up toward the roof of the building, the leaves streaming out like banners. The ears were as thick as the arm of a man. Squashes and pumpkins grown by the son of Mr. Vagt, a boy of ten years, were of huge dimensions. The display also included a fine showing of hams, bacon, eggs and other farm produce. Mr. Vagt does not give so much attention to fruit raising as some of his neighbors but he made a fine display of apples pears, peaches and other fruits.

Mr. J. W. Symmes makes a specialty of fruit raising. His display of apples, pears peaches, plums, prunes of several varieties grapes, including table, wine and raisin varieties, was very large and not less beautiful. Most of his summer peaches of the finer varieties were sent to market some weeks ago, but yet he made a showing of peaches that would be classed as very fine at any time in any country. The several kinds of grapes would gain by comparison with grapes grown in any other part of the State.

Mr. Joseph Seely made a beautiful display of peaches, pears apples and other fruits from Lone Pine. That is one of the best fruit growing sections of Owens Valley and all the kinds and varieties are very fine.

The Baker ranch, at Big Pine, is noted for the excellence of its productions. Mrs. Mrs. Baker had a lovely display of apples, pears and peaches. This fruit was much admired. Potatoes, onions and other products from the same place were all first-class. The display of table grapes from the Baker ranch was particularly fine.

Mr. John Hay sent in a remarkable exhibit of peaches. These were grown up in the foothills of the Inyo Mountains, near Alvord. These peaches are very large and fine flavored; they are striped with very dark and pale green bands, and were unlike any other peaches shown. Mr. J. Turner sent some very fine peaches from Big Pine.

Home made hams and bacon, equal to the best imported were shown by Messrs. C. Walters and J. Vagt.

The dried fruits shown by Walters, Vagt; Baxter and others were beautiful. Raisins were shown that would convince the most skeptical that Owens Valley can beat the world in this production. Mrs. J. Brown made a fine display of jellies and canned fruits. In the Walter display jellies made a very noticeable feature. Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Densmore had very fine displays of jellies. Miss Alice Stecker showed her skill in the same direction by a fine display. Olancha was represented by huge peaches, pears and apples. The fruit of that section is noted for its beauty and excellence. H. L. Clark's display of vegetables was particularly noticeable. E. Robinson made a fine display of peaches, pears grapes and apples. Fred Albers made a fine showing of butter, lard, bread and other farm products. Mrs. F. J. Reynolds showed butter in various forms and all good. A. Matlick made an exhibit of fine cheese. H. Levy made an exhibit which proves what excellent bread and cake is served at the Independence Hotel. Mr. John Baxter made a large display of grain of various kinds and all of very fine quality. Mrs. A. R. Conklin made a very fine display of varieties of pears; this is a fruit that is especially well suited to Owens Valley. A beautiful feature of the whole exhibit was sheaves of wheat, oats and barley disposed around the hall. Bunches of corn stalks, with the ears attached and stripped of the husks also made a very nice effect when placed at intervals about the hall and the sheaves of golden grain between. A large sheaf of evergreen millet was shown by Mr. Densmore. This valuable grass is evidently well suited to our soil and climate; it makes fine fodder and is likely to be planted extensively.

The largest display of minerals was made by Mr. W. L. Hunter. This collection included specimens of all the ores of the precious metals. Many very fine specimens of gold and silver ores from Mexico were shown. Beautiful opals, amethysts and other precious stones are in the collection. This exhibit would well repay close study; it is extensive and contains many rare and beautiful specimens of ores. Mr. W. Russell made an exhibit of very large and beutiful specimens of bromide of silver ore from Benton. The lovely blue color of this ore makes it most desirable for cabinet specimens; it is rich in silver, running into the hundreds of dollars per ton. A very fine specimen of galena was shown from the recent strike in the Defiance mine, at Darwin. This ore goes 74 per cent lead and 90 ounces silver per ton.

The display of marble from the Inyo marble quarry was very beautiful. Mr. Al. Staudinger had a large collection of samples of his work on exhibition. A miniature monument, made of eight different varieties of marble is very handsome.

Late as it is in the season a nice display of raspberries was made by Mr. Joseph Seely, of Lone Pine. The same party also made a fine display of almonds.

Mrs. Schabbell made the best showing of walnuts. This display proved that the walnut tree does well in Owens Valley.

The display of needle work of all kinds was much better this year than last. Not only was it more extensive, but many of the articles shown were much better than any exhibited last year.

Mr. W. Muth-Rasmussen made a beautiful display of honey and of materials and machinery used by bee-keepers. A part of this exhibit was the product of one hive of bees for the present season; this contained 168 sections weighing 158 pounds.

Miss Rachel Bell showed some very fine old lace, one piece made in 1700 and the rest in 1720. Save being yellow from age it is in perfect preservation. It was made by an ancestress of Miss Bell on the mother's side. Miss Maggie Conklin showed some silver were over 200 years old. Judge Hannah showed handsome quilts made by his late wife many years ago but still in perfect preservation.

FINE ART.

In painting and fine art this was very much the best exhibition yet made in Inyo county. Miss Marcia Stevens. Miss O'Hara Miss Vorie, Miss Conklin and Mr. Keller each had a number of pictures on exhibition. Many of these pictures were such as would do no discredit to the artists no matter where they could be shown. Owens Valley affords unsurpassed scenery, and this was the inspiration for a few beautiful landscape pictures. The pupils of Miss Stevens had an exhibition of their pictures; and these were of such beauty and excellence as won unstinted praise and admiration from all visitors. As a whole the exhibit in fine art was most creditable and something we may all be proud of.

As might be expected the showing of preserves of all kinds and of canned fruits was very extensive. Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. Baxter, Miss Lena Thomsen, Miss Stecker, Miss Rachel Bell and Mrs. Densmore, each of these had beautiful displays of preserves and fruit in glass jars. There were other displays equally good in kind but not so extensive as those named.

STOCK.

The display of horses was much better than last year. The number exhibited was greater and already it could be easily seen that we are on the way to produce first-class animals of all kinds. Mr. Ed. Crocker of Big Pine showed a remarkably fine draft stallion. Mr. Sanger and Mr. Enos also showed draft stallions of the first-class. In roadster, carriage and buggy teams the showing was highly creditable to the district. Several beautiful teams were shown in each of these classes. Mr. T. Webb received first premium for roadster team, Mr. John Lucas for buggy team and Mr. E. Robinson for carriage team.

THE RACES.

The first race of the season was ½ mile and repeat; two-year-olds, purse $100. Three started; Sam, owned by Boots Conklin; Dolly Webster, owned by W. E. Noonan, and Milo, owned by P. La Barge. Sam took two straight heats and the race

The second race was a ½ mile dash, untried horses. Four started. Brown Bell, entered by Ed Rose; Bay Jack, entered by J. M. Horton; Clipper, entered by J. W. P. Laird, and Jessy James, entered by A. P. Smith. This was considered a "dead thing" for Jessy, and the boys got in the pools on that "layout." But all the same Jessy got left, Bell coming in ahead after a close contest.

On Wednesday the opening race was for double teams, mile and repeat; purse $100. The entries were Ned and Pete, by Frank Williams. George and Tom, by Boots Conklin and Theo T. and mate by I. H. Mulholland. Here was another "dead thing." Ned is a well known trotting horse with a good record. Pete is a very fine young horse, but not so well trained as Ned. George and Tom were put in to make up the race. Everybody conceded the race to Ned and Pete. In the pools this team was the favorite at long odds; the boys thinking all they could buy as so much money clear gain. Conklin had the pole at starting; Williams was second and Mulholland on the outside. The little bay mare and the gray looked insignificant beside the two other teams. Immediately after passing the wire the little team stepped away from their competitors; Mulholland took the inside on the first turn; the little mares trotted beautifully, and before the half mile was passed were a long way in the lead. Down the home stretch Mulholland let his team come, apparently just to show what they could do; the others being a long way behind when the winners went under the wire their competitors were so far behind that both were distanced. This ended the race in one heat. The result was so totally unexpected, except by a few who knew well what the little team could do, that the crowd was taken completely by surprise and greeted the winner with loud cheers.

The next race was ½ mile and repeat, running. There were three to start. Billy S. by Frank Williams, Brown Bell, by J. M. Horton, and Bismark, by G. Sanger. The contest was between Billy S and Brown Bell. Bell pushed Billy very hard down the home stretch and Williams won the heat with little to spare. Bismark saved his distance. The second heat was harder and closer than the first. Down the home stretch Williams and Ed Rose, who rode Bell, sent their horses at top speed. Billy was again in the lead going under the wire, and took the second heat and race.

For Thursday the first race was ¼ mile and repeat, for saddle horses. The contestants were Little Maud, owned by H. J. Robinson; Bird, by J. G. Birchim and Sandy by J. M. Horton. The contest was between Bird and Sandy, the latter took two straight heats and the race—time, first heat 56¼, second 56.

The next race was trotting by stallions, mile heats, two in three. D. Olds entered Ned, W. S. Morton, Ted and John Keegan, Manning. The last named did not start. In the first heat Ted was distanced; Ned took the heat and race.

The next race was a ¼ mile dash. C. Burns entered Dandy Pat; J. M. Horton entered Brown Bell and Frank Williams entered Billy S. Pat was an unknown stranger. A good deal of interest was taken in this race. Much difficulty was had in getting a start, the horses being fractious. Mr. Miller, who was starter, made them try till they came to the score in a line, when he sent them off. It was a beautiful race, with Pat in the lead, but pushed very close by Billy S, Bell not far behind. Pat won, 24½ seconds. Dandy Pat is a good quarter horse and a very pretty animal.

The next race was trotting, free for all, mile heats. There were but two to start, Ned, entered by Frank Williams, and Pete, entered by J. C. Harley. The judges declared the first heat dead. In the second heat Pete broke very badly several times and was distanced, Ned taking the heat and race.

The next race caused a great deal of excitement; and the matter is not yet at rest. The race was running, mile heats, two in three. The judges were Ed Crocker, N. T. Piper and James McKenzie. Gustave Sanger entered Sidewinder; H. J. Robinson entered Emma T and J. C. Eldy entered Darby. Emma T was brought from the Sacramento valley, and to the public here was entirely unknown. The evening preceding the race a good deal of money had gone into the pool box; some parties going large odds on Emma against the field. Next morning it had leaked out that Emma was a flyer and betting was very languid, though a few took the odds offered. A great deal of difficulty was had in starting, Emma being fractious. At length the horses got away, their noses going under the wire at almost the same instant. Before the first turn was passed Emma was three lengths in the lead; Darby about as much behind Sidewinder. All the way along the back stretch it looked a sure thing for Emma to take the heat. But on nearing the turn the lung power and endurance of the mountain horses began to show in their favor. Sidewinder closed up slowly on Emma, Darby holding his own. When the home stretch was reached Naylor, who was riding Sidewinder, began to think there was a chance for him to win the heat. He laid the whip to Winder vigorously and passed the mare. Darby was closing up on her slowly. Nearing the distance flag it was plain that Naylor had the heat safe. This was so entirely unexpected that the excitement was intense, and the crowd roared when Naylor went under the wire nearly two lengths ahead. Darby had a "tail holt" of the mare. The knowing ones had gone into the pool box on a "dead thing," and now there were several long faces around the stand. The next heat caused all the trouble. Many attempts were made to send the horses off. There was a great deal of jockeying. The crowd got greatly excited, and when the word "go" was at last given, riders, judges and starters were all more or less muddled and uncertain. Just as the word "go" was given some shouted "come back." Sidewinder and Darby did'nt start and the mare cantered around the track alone. The uproar was now very great. The mare passed under the wire and her owner claimed the heat and race; alleging that both the other horses were distanced. In the excitement following the first heat it had been forgotten to place a distance judge for the second heat. The friends of the other horses claimed that they could not be distanced, as there was no distance judge, and no flag had fallen. The judges took this view of the case and gave the heat to Emma. A long wrangle followed. Mr. Robinson finally consented to run another heat. The horses were got off without much trouble. In this heat Emma and Winder kept close together most of the way. On the back stretch Darby was at one time all of twenty lengths behind. The other two were going for all that were in them. Nearing the last turn the power and endurance of Darby began to be seen, he rapidly closed up the great gap between himself and the others and all three entered the home stretch in a bunch. The mare was now badly tired and it was no longer a question of her winning the heat, but whether the Winder or Darby should have it. The rider of Darby knew his horse could stand punishment and he brought down the whip as quick and hard as he could lay it on. Darby was gaining on Winder at every jump; Naylor now laid on the whip without mercy, and he had need, for when both horses went under the wire Darby had his head up in line with the rump of the Winder. The mare was several lengths behind. This was the second heat for Sidewinder. Another long wrangle followed. The judges finally awarded the race to Sidewinder. Mr. Robinson entered a protest. The judges ordered the pools to be paid.

On Saturday the first race was one-half mile dash for beaten horses, a consolation purse of $50. The entries were Bird, Jessy James and Emma T. When the starting flag fell Emma did not start; Bird and Jessy came on and the latter won the race.

The next race was trotting, mile heats, 2 in 3, for three-year-olds, purse, $100. Only two started, Biddy Muldoon, owned by J. C. Irwin, and Valentine, owned by J. S. Gorman. Biddy took both heats and the purse.

The next race was ¾ mile dash, purse, $50. The contestants were Sandy, Bird and Brown Bell. The latter took the race; the struggle was not close.

In the Ladies Tournament equal purses were given to Miss James, Miss Olds and Miss Conklin. The judges awarded first place to Miss James, second to Miss Olds and third to Miss Conklin. All three are very graceful riders.

In the trial of saddle horses the first premium was given to Mr. James R. Moffett for Pinto and the second to Mr. J. Harley for Cleveland. The performance of these animals was most remarkable. On a full run each horse would stop suddenly, or wheel suddenly at the touch of a rein. Each would rest on his hind feet and whirl about as if on a pivot. Neither horse appeared to be at all excited, but to know and instantly do the will of his rider at the slightest touch.

Republican Nominees.

The Republican County Convention met at Independence last Tuesday. On the evening preceding a majority of the delegates had agreed upon nominees; and when the meeting was called to order there was nothing to do but name the candidates and take a formal vote on each. Thomas C. Boland was nominated for Sheriff; W. W. Collins for County Clerk; W. H. Walker for Treasurer. George M. Gill was nominated by acclamation for District Attorney; and Thomas Parker was nominated in the same way for Coroner; there being no other candidates for those offices. Delegates were appointed to confer with other delegates from Alpine and Mono counties on the nomination of a candidate for the Assembly. County Central and Executive Committees were appointed; candidates for Supervisors from the various districts were chosen by the delegates.

Lost.

A pair of cuffs with buttons attached were lost between Georges Creek and town. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving the articles at the Norman House, Independence.

Last Friday a fine gold watch chain was lost at the track, or between there and town, or at the Pavilion grounds. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving the chain at the Norman House, Independence, or with the owner, J. M. Horton, at Bishop Creek.

Mrs. Hugh Jones, formerly of Benton has gone to Darwin to live. Mr. Jones is employed at the Defiance mine.

The premium list will be published in full next week.

Rev. Hugh McEvers and his family are living at the parsonage at Independence. Mr. McEvers has been appointed for one year to the service of the south end of Owens Valley. Regular services will be held from this time forward, of which due notice will be given.

Mr. H. A. Man, agent at Bishop Station, has resigned and expects to leave as soon as a successor shall come to relieve him. Mr. Man has been agent several years and has many friends who will much regret his going away. His brother is Superintendent of the Missouri Pacific railway and he may take a position on that road; but he intends first to take a vacation for a few weeks.

MARRIED.

DIAZ—PORCHA—At Independence, September 21, 1888, by Judge Hannah, Mr. A. Diaz and Miss Rosa Porcha, both of Lone Pine.

WIMBERLY—SMITH—At Independence, September 22, 1888, by Judge Hannah, Mr. Robert Wimberly and Miss Minnie Smith.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

A special election will be had at the school house at Independence on Monday afternoon [to day] to select two delegates to the Democratic County Convention. These delegates are to be elected to fill vacancies left by ties at the regular election for delegates.

A. N. BELL, Chairman.
J. J. GUNN, Secretary.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Inyo Marble Company, of California, will be held at the office of the Company, Room 35, 508 California Street, San Francisco, California, on Tuesday the 18th day of September, 1888, at the hour of 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors to serve for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

Transfer books closed, Friday 14th inst at 3 p. m.

By order of the Board of Directors.
O. TURKLINE, Secretary.

POSTPONEMENT.

By order of the Board of Directors the above meeting was postponed until Tuesday, October 2, 1888. O. TURKLINE, Secretary.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

A THOUGHT TO THIS!

The profusion and regularity with which orders pour in upon us with every mail, has a meaning—a meaning that is significant. It shows that there must be something in our goods our prices or our methods which attracts. As it has the power of interesting others, WHY MAY IT NOT INTEREST YOU?

SEND FOR IT

We believe we can safely announce September 1st, as the date of the appearance of our FALL AND WINTER FASHION BOOK. It will be a large sized volume of over 100 pages, with over 1000 illustrations, and handsomely printed. It is full of facts, figures and information, and is both valuable and interesting. We are confident that those who send for a copy will bear us out in the assertion that is absolutely the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi river. Sent to any address FREE. Send in your names now. Regular customers who do not receive the catalogue will please notify us.

IMPORTANT ITEMS.

Below are several lines of goods which we can recommend as being of good value. All are in first-class condition and are a part of our regular stock.

A Model Boot at a nominal price is Hale's Full Stock Calf Boot at $2.50. It is made of first class tannery calfskin with sole leather innersole and counter. Sizes 6 to 10.

Ladies White Merino Vests and Drawers, silk-bound, catstitch, 44 cents each.

Ladies Unbleached Balbriggan Hose, full regular made and extra long. Price 16 2-3 cents per pair.

The Stanley Hat for gentlemen is an exceptionally good article. It is a soft hat, has a raw edge and cord band, and comes in black, wine and nutria colors. It holds its shape well and gives good wear.

Gents all-wool knit Undershirts and Drawers—Made especially for us, HALE'S brand being on every garment. The goods are heavy weight, cut full size and both shirt and drawers are ribbed at the bottom. Best value on the coast. Price $1.50 per garment. Colors, scarlet and natural grey.

Boys mudium brown mixed cassimere suits, well made and trimmed. Ages 10 to 18 Price $6.50.

Childrens Knee Pants Suits in dark fancy broken plaid suitings. Ages 4 to 12. Price $2.50.

Figured Lawns in neat designs at 4 cents per yard.

English Challis—a soft and airy fabric with a cream white ground and figured and geometrical designs. It contains a small percentage of wool for drapery purposes. Price 12 yards for $1. Samples sent upon application.

HALE BROS & CO.
Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR SHERIFF.
I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF A CANdidate for nomination for Sheriff of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. MARTIN MEE.
Darwin, August 18, 1888.

FOR SHERIFF.
I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. J. E. SHEPHERD.

FOR SHERIFF.
I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES JONES.

FOR SHERIFF.
I HEREBY ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A candidate for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention. JAMES R. ELDRED.

FOR CLERK.
I HEREBY DECLARE MYSELF A CANdidate for the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
P. H. MACK.

FOR TREASURER.
I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic County Convention.
J. J. MOORE.

TO ADVERTISERS
A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.
To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.
Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.
I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!
THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise
A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.
ORDERS SOLICITED
Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.
MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.
MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev.,
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co's.
n25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS' Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast
Excellent Cordinet or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 10c. extra. Five hooks and double-Clasp. Fine in fit and Workmanship. Superbly embroidered best, finished with pearly lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money or 10c. of postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items and kinds of Ladies' Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE.
Independence, - - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. P. MAINS, Prop.
feb12tf

Presentation to the Queen.

I don't suppose one lady or gentleman out of 5,000 in England ever dreams of being presented to the queen. It is, of course, quite proper to the whole 5,000 to do so. But it is quite unnecessary. Some people think that by being presented at court they get invited to state balls and concerts and to entertainments given by the Prince of Wales. There is a great mistake in regard to this. Here is where the error is. No one can be invited to a state entertainment unless he or she has been presented at court. Presentation is a sine qua non. But it is not the only thing necessary. There are other considerations which have to be taken into account. I don't fancy that more than one person out of 100 who are presented at court ever gets an invitation to a state ball or concert at Buckingham palace, or to a Prince of Wales garden party at Marlborough house.

The other ninety-nine might have been presented, so far as being asked to state entertainments is concerned. For American ladies or gentlemen to rush over to England and spend a lot of money on court dresses, in the hope that the day after the drawing room they will be asked to dinner with the queen, or to luncheon with the Prince of Wales, is a fondly cherished delusion from which time will soon awaken them. Presentation has grown so common in these days that it is a wonder to me that any sensible person, not compelled to undergo the ordeal, care to submit themselves to it. After all, cui bono? Is the game worth the candle? It is a pretty sight, no doubt; but if curiosity be the motive, what becomes of the respect to the queen? It is quite useless to say anything. Americans will keep on flocking to the drawing rooms and levees and giving the legation something to do.—The Argonaut.

Ecuador and Its Capital.

The road to Quito is a mountain path fit only for mules, and not passable six months in the year. The custom house is built of pine from Maine and corrugated iron from Pennsylvania. The Guayaquil steamers were built in Baltimore. Ice factories abound; fresh water is brought twenty miles and peddled in casks. The finest pineapples in the world come from this country, and excellent hats and hammocks. All the Panama hats we wear which are genuine are made in Guayaquil. It is 320 miles from this place to Quito, and freight costs $1 per 100 pounds to be sent up. It takes twenty-four men in two divisions to carry a piano up. Nevertheless, American goods, after they get up to Quito, compete with the native manufactures. Nearly all the furniture in Quito is brought from the United States in parts, and in that highest and oldest city in America many of the people sleep on Grand Rapids (Mich.) beds. Twelve breweries in Quito import their hops chiefly from America, and the sugar used there is mainly refined in our country. Ecuador has 1,000,000 inhabitants, but only forty-seven postoffices. No interior postage is charged on newspapers of any kind; but there is no newspaper outside of Guayaquil in Ecuador.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Horrible Custom in Spain.

A horrible custom prevails in southern Spain of exhibiting corpses, dressed in all the finery obtainable, in the windows. The people stand and gaze with as much interest as if the ghastly spectacle was one which gave them great pleasure, and remarks and even jokes are passed freely among them. A short time since a young girl who was about to be married sickened and died of virulent smallpox. Her parents dressed her in all her bridal finery, orange wreath and veil included, and laid her, disfigured as she was, in the window, to be gazed at by all passers by. After this one can hardly wonder at the fearful prevalence of smallpox and such like diseases in the southern part of the peninsula.—C...

STRUCK IT RICH.

Col. J. D. Houston Hits The Louisiana Lottery for $5 000.

As stated yesterday Col. J. D. Houston, one of our most highly respected citizens, was the lucky holder of one-twentieth of ticket 71,678 that drew the second capital prize in The Louisiana State Lottery this month. The day that Col. Houston found himself made comparatively rich he left the Valley on an important business mission and has just returned.

Yesterday afternoon a Sentinel reporter had the following interview with the Colonel shortly after returning from Little Rock:

"I heard you were the fortunate holder of one-twentieth of ticket 71,678 that drew $100,000 in the June drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery?"

"A word explanatory. When I deposited the ticket for collection with the cashier of the Hot Springs Valley bank of this city, Mr. Rapley, I especially cautioned against publicity of the matter, as I deprecated an ostentatious parade of my name therewith in print. Not that from an exemplary standpoint I attached even the suspicion of moral criminality to the act, but the notoriety it would give me, would be in the highest degree offensive to me. It is due to the officers of the Valley bank to state that the affair leaked out in New Orleans, such is the systematic order of the institution, it is almost impossible for the holder of a ticket to escape recognition. The ticket was promptly forwarded, the return ($5,000) was received without any delay whatever, and placed to my credit in the Hot Springs Valley bank of this city."

"Is this your first win?"

"I have regularly invested small amounts for several years, winning at different times, sums ranging from $5 to $300, some of which have been cashed by the Hot Springs Valley bank. In examination of my book, which I keep in this business, I find myself ahead on the May drawing over the duration mentioned, $300. I drew a prize in the May drawing which was cashed on presentation to the Valley bank. It is quite unnecessary for me to state that I have the most absolute faith in the spotless honor of Gens. Beauregard and Early, as well as profound admiration for them personally, and that my success has in no manner enhanced an opinion that already reached the confines of respect and confidence. I have reluctantly consented to this interview, you may state, but, as the affair has assumed significance, I have struck my colors and yielded to this reportorial crucifixion."—Hot Springs (Ark.) Sentinel, June.

Allan Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

(CONTINUED.)

On the following morning Good was informed of the happy occurrence, and positively rippled with smiles that, originating somewhere about the mouth, slowly traveled up his face like the rings in a duck pond, till they flowed over the brim of his eyeglass and went where sweet smiles go. The fact of the matter, however, was that not only was Good rejoiced about the thing on its own merits, but also for personal reasons. He adored Sorais quite as earnestly as Sir Henry adored Nyleptha, and his adoration had not altogether prospered. Indeed, it had seemed to him and to me also that the dark Cleopatra like queen favored Curtis in her own curious, inscrutable way much more than Good. Therefore it was a relief to him to learn that his unconscious rival was permanently and satisfactorily attached in another direction. His face fell a little, however, when he was told that the whole thing was to be kept as secret as the dead, above all from Sorais for the present, inasmuch as the political convulsion which would follow such an announcement at the moment would be altogether too great to face, and would very possibly, if prematurely made, shake Nyleptha from her throne.

That morning we again attended in the throne hall, and I could not help smiling to myself when I compared the visit to our last, and reflecting that if the walls could speak they would have strange tales to tell.

What actresses women are! There, high upon her golden throne, draped in her blazoned "kaf" or robe of state, sat the fair Nyleptha; and when Sir Henry came in a little late, dressed in the full uniform of an officer of her guard, and humbly bent himself before her, she merely acknowledged his salute with a careless nod and turned her head coldly aside. It was a very large court, for not only did the ceremony of the signing of the laws attract many outside of those whose duty it was to attend, but also the rumor that Nasta was going to publicly ask the hand of Nyleptha in marriage had gone abroad, with the result that the great hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. There were our friends the priests in force, headed by Agon, who regarded us with a vindictive eye; and a most imposing band they were, with their long white embroidered obes girt with a golden chain from which hung the fishlike scales. There, too, were a number of the lords, each with a band of brilliantly attired attendants, and prominent among them was Nasta, stroking his black beard meditatively and looking unusually unpleasant. It was a splendid and impressive sight, especially when the officer having read out each law it was handed to the queens to sign, whereon the trumpets blared out and the queens' guard grounded their spears with a crash in salute. This reading and signing of the laws took a long time, but at last it came to an end, the last one reciting that "whereas certain distinguished strangers, etc.," and proceeding to confer on the three of us the rank of "lords," together with certain military commands and large estates bestowed by the queens. When it was read the trumpets blared and the spears clashed down as usual; but I saw some of the lords turn and whisper to each other, while Nasta ground his teeth. They did not like the favor that was shown to us, which, under all the circumstances, was not perhaps unnatural.

Then there came a pause, and Nasta stepped forward, and bowing humbly, though with no humility in his eye, craved a boon at the hands of the Queen Nyleptha.

Nyleptha turned a little pale, but bowed graciously, and prayed the "well beloved lord" to speak on, whereon in a few straightforward, soldier like words he asked her hand in marriage.

Then, before she could find words to answer, the High Priest Agon took up the tale, and in a speech of real eloquence and power pointed out the many advantages of the proposed alliance—how it would consolidate the kingdom; for Nasta's dominions, of which he was virtually king, were to Zu-Vendis much what Scotland used to be to England; how it would gratify the wild mountaineers and be popular among the soldiery, for Nasta was a famous general; how it would set her dynasty firmly on the throne, and would gain the blessing and approval of the "Sun," i. e., of the office of high priest, and so on. Many of his arguments were undoubtedly valid; and there was, looking at it from a political point of view, everything to be said for the marriage. But, unfortunately, it is difficult to play the game of politics with the persons of young and lovely queens as though they were ivory effigies of themselves on a chess board. Nyleptha's face, while Agon spouted away, was a perfect study: she smiled, indeed, but beneath the smile it set like a stone, and her eyes began to flash ominously.

At last he stopped, and she prepared herself to answer. Before she did so, however, Sorais leaned toward her and said, in a voice sufficiently loud for me to catch what she said, "Bethink thee well, my sister, ere thou dost speak, for methinks that our thrones may hang upon thy words."

Nyleptha made no answer, and with a shrug and a smile, Sorais leaned back again and listened.

"Of a truth a great honor has been done to me," she said, "that my poor hand should not only have been asked in marriage, but that Agon here should be so swift to pronounce the blessing of the Sun upon my union. Methinks that in another minute he would have wed us fast ere the bride had said her say. Nasta, I thank thee, and I will bethink me of thy words, but now as yet I have no mind for marriage; that is a cup of which none know the taste until they begin to drink it. Again I thank thee, Nasta," and she made as though she would rise.

The great lord's face turned almost as black as his beard with fury, for he knew that the words amounted to a final refusal of his suit.

"Thanks be to the queen for her gracious words," he said, restraining himself with difficulty and looking anything but grateful, "my heart shall surely treasure them. And now I crave another boon, namely, the royal leave to withdraw myself to my own poor cities in the north until such time as the queen shall say my suit nay or yea. Mayhap," he added, with a sneer, "the queen will be pleased to visit me there, and to bring with her these stranger lords," and he scowled darkly toward us. "It is but a poor country and a rough, but we are a hardy race of mountaineers, and there shall be gathered 30,000 swordsmen to shout a welcome to her."

This speech, which was almost a declaration of rebellion, was received in complete silence, but Nyleptha flushed up and answered it with spirit.

"Oh, surely, Nasta, I will come, and the strange lords in my train, and for every man of thy mountaineers who calls thee prince will I bring two from the lowlands who call me queen, and we will see which is the stanchest breed. Till then farewell."

The trumpets blared out, the queens rose, and the great assembly broke up in murmuring confusion, and for myself I went home with a heavy heart, foreseeing civil war.

After this there was quiet for a few weeks. Curtis and the queen did not often meet, and exercised the utmost caution not to allow the true relation in which they stood to each other to leak out; but, do what they would, rumors as hard to trace as a buzzing fly in a dark room, and yet quite as audible, began to hum round and round, and at last to settle on her throne.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE STORM BREAKS.

And now it was that the trouble which at first had been but a cloud as large as a man's hand began to loom very black and big upon our horizon, namely, Sorais' preference for Sir Henry. I saw the storm drawing nearer and nearer; and so, poor fellow, did he. The affection of so lovely and highly placed a woman was not a thing that could in a general way be considered a calamity by any man; but, situated as Curtis was, it was a grievous burden to bear.

To begin with, Nyleptha, though altogether charming, was, it must be admitted, of a rather jealous disposition, and was somewhat apt to visit on her lover's head her indignation at the marks of what Alphonse would have called the "distinguished consideration" with which her royal sister favored him. Then the enforced secrecy of his relations to Nyleptha prevented Curtis from taking some opportunity of putting a stop, or trying to put a stop, to this false condition of affairs, by telling Sorais, in a casual but confidential way, that he was going to marry her sister. A third sting in Sir Henry's honey was that he knew that Good was honestly and sincerely attached to the ominous looking, but most attractive, Lady of the Night. Indeed, poor Bougwan was wasting himself to a shadow of his fat and jolly self about her, his face getting so thin that his eyeglass would scarcely stick in it; while she, with a sort of careless coquetry, just gave him encouragement enough to keep him going, thinking, no doubt, that he might be useful as a stalking horse. I tried to give him a hint, in as delicate a way as I could, but he flew into a huff and would not listen to me; so I determined to let ill alone, for fear of making it worse. Poor Good! he really was very ludicrous in his distress, and went in for all sorts of absurdities, under the belief that he was advancing his suit. One of them was the writing—with the assistance of one of the grave and reverend seigniors who instructed us, and who, whatever may have been the measure of his erudition, did not understand how to scan a line—of a most interminable Zu-Vendi love song, of which the continually recurring refrain was something about "I will kiss thee; oh yes, I will kiss thee!" Now among the Zu-Vendi it is a common and most harmless thing for young men to serenade ladies at night, as I believe they do in the southern countries of Europe, and sing all sorts of nonsensical songs to them.

Availing himself of this custom, Good bethought him that he would serenade Sorais, whose private apartments, together with those of her maidens, were exactly opposite our own, on the farther side of a narrow court yard which divided one section of the great palace from another. Accordingly, having armed himself with a native zither, on which, being an adept with the light guitar, he had easily learned to strum, he proceeded at midnight—the fashionable hour for this sort of caterwauling—to make night hideous with his amorous yells. I was fast a leep when they began, but they soon woke me up—for Good possesses a tremendous voice and has no notion of time—and I ran to my window place to see what was the matter. And there, standing in the full moonlight in the court yard, I perceived Good, adorned with an enormous ostrich feather headdress and a flowing silken cloak, which it is the right thing to wear upon these occasions, and shouting out the abominable song which he and the old gentleman had evolved, to a jerky, jingling accompaniment. From the direction of the quarters of the maids of honor came a succession of faint sniggerings; but the apartments of Sorais herself—whom I devoutly pitied if she happened to be there—were silent as the grave. There was absolutely no end to that awful song, with its eternal "I will kiss thee!" and at last neither I nor Sir Henry, whom I had summoned to enjoy the sight, could stand it any longer; so, remembering the dear old story, I put my head to the window opening and shouted, "For Heaven's sake, Good, don't go on talking about it, but kiss her and let's all go to sleep!" That checked him off, and we had no more serenading.

The whole thing formed a laughable incident in a tragic business.

Well, the more Sir Henry held off the more Sorais came on, as is not uncommon in such cases, till at last things got very queer indeed. Evidently she was, by some strange perversity of mind, quite blinded to the true state of the case; and I, for one, greatly dreaded the moment of her awakening. Sorais was a dangerous woman to be mixed up with, either with or without one's own consent. At last the evil moment came, as I saw it must come. One fine day, Good having gone out hawking, Sir Henry and I were sitting quietly talking over the situation, especially with reference to Sorais, when a court messenger arrived with a written note, which we with some difficulty deciphered, and which was to the effect that "the Queen Sorais commanded the attendance of the Lord Incubu in her private apartments, whither he would be conducted by the bearer."

"On my word!" groaned Sir Henry. "Can't you go instead, old fellow?"

"Not if I know it," I said with vigor. "I had rather face a wounded elephant with a shot gun. Wash up your own dirty dishes, my boy. If you will be so fascinating you must take the consequences. Ain't you just in for it now, that's all?"

"You remind me of when I was going to be flogged at school and the other boys came to console me," he said, gloomily. "What right has this confounded queen to command my attendance, I should like to know? I won't go."

"But you must; you are one of her officers and bound to obey her, and she knows it. And after all it will soon be over."

"That's just what they used to say," he said again. "I only hope she won't put a knife into me. I believe that she is quite capable of it." And off he started very faintheartedly, and no wonder.

I sat and waited, and at the end of about forty-five minutes he returned, looking a good deal worse than when he went.

"Give me something to drink," he said hoarsely.

I got him a cup of wine, and asked what was the matter.

"What is the matter? Why, if ever there was trouble there's trouble now. You know when I left you? Well, I was shown straight into Sorais' private chamber, and a wonderful place it is; and there she sat, quite alone, upon a silken couch at the end of the room, playing gently upon that zither of hers. I stood before her, and for a while she took no notice of me, but kept on playing and singing a little, and very sweet music it was. At last she looked up and smiled.

"'So thou art come' she said. 'I thought that perchance thou hadst gone about the Queen Nyleptha's business. Thou art ever on her business, and I doubt not a good servant and a true.'

"To this I merely bowed and said I was there to receive the queen's word.

"'Ah, yes, I would talk with thee, but be thou seated. I cannot lift my neck so high,' and she made room for me beside her on the couch, placing herself with her back against the end, so as to have a view of my face.

"'It is not meet,' I said, 'that I should make myself equal with the queen.'

"'I said be seated,' was her answer; so I sat down, and she set to work to look at me with those dark eyes of hers. There she sat, like an incarnate spirit of beauty, hardly talking at all, and when she did, very low, but all the while looking at me. There was a white flower in her black hair, and I tried to keep my eyes on it and count the petals, but it was of no use. At last, whether it was her gaze, or the perfume on her hair, or what I do not know, but I began to feel as though I was being mesmerized. At last she roused herself.

"'Incubu,' she said, 'lovest thou power?'

"I replied that I supposed all men loved power of one sort or another.

"'Thou shalt have it,' she said. 'Lovest thou wealth?'

"I said I liked wealth for what it brought.

"'Thou shalt have it,' she said. 'And lovest thou beauty?'

(To Be Continued.)

Horseshoes of India Rubber.

The proposed substitution of india rubber for metal in the manufacture of horseshoes is based upon various supposed advantages, one of these being that the former enables a horse to go easily over all kinds of roads and rough or slippery ground without slipping. The contrivance brought forward for this purpose is such as to obviate in one instance the necessity of using an iron shoe which can be moved momentarily when the horse is not traveling, and can also be used when the horse is shod with an iron shoe.—Mechanical News.

A Changeable Landscape.

A weather prognosticator and amateur artist of Prague has painted a landscape colored with the salts of cobalt. These colors are very sensitive in moisture and are made still more so by mixing with gelatine. With an increasing amount of moisture in the atmosphere, the blue heavens of the picture assume a dirty red hue and the green grass and foliage, as well as the background, etc., are also strikingly changed in color.—Philadelphia Times.

HELPING THE RIGHT SIDE.

To help the right side is not only commendable in a general point of view, but is judicious and prudent when that help is enlisted in behalf of the right side of the body, just over the lower ribs in the region of the liver. The most efficient help is afforded by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an anti-bilious medicine of incomparable efficacy. Inaction of the liver is accompanied by constipation, sick headache, furred tongue, nausea, occasional vertigo, an unpleasant breath, yellowness of the skin and ball of the eye. The author of these symptoms, liver complaint, routed by the Bitters is accompanied by them in its flight. Fever and ague, which always involves the liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, debility and kidney troubles are all maladies to the early relief and final cure of which this standard medicine is adapted. Don't use it by fits and starts, but systematically, that its full effects may result in a perfect restoration of health.

"Mother, may I not make a cake?"
"No, my darling daughter.
Your father'd eat and you'd be held Responsible for slaughter.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Czar of all the Russias has at least one consolation in the midst of all his troubles—he is not bothered by life insurance agents.

BEAUTY WITHOUT PAINT.

"What makes my skin so dark and muddy?
My cheeks were once so smooth and ruddy!
I use the best cosmetics made,"
Is what a lovely maiden said.

"That's not the cure, my charming Miss,"
The doctor said—"remember this:
If you your skin would keep from taint,
Discard the powder and the paint.

"The proper thing for all such ills
Is this," remarked the man of pills:
"Enrich the blood and make it pure—
In this you'll find the only cure."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do this without fail. It has no equal. All druggists.

Stranger—You don't look very happy, friend. Met with some heavy loss? Other Stranger—No sir; I have just retired from business to enjoy life.

The great Baldwin Hotel, corner Market, Eddy and Powell streets, San Francisco, has recently been refurnished in the most elaborate style. Visitors to San Francisco should stop there and test the merits of a model hotel.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, sleeplessness, etc. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

Reno county corn stands thirteen feet tall in its stalkings.

HOW INTELLIGENT WOMEN DECIDE.

When the question has to be met as to what is the best course to adopt to secure a sure, safe and agreeable remedy for those organic diseases and weaknesses which afflict the female sex, there is but one wise decision, viz., a course of self-treatment with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is an unfailing specific for periodical pains, misplacement, internal inflammation, and all functional disorders that render the lives of so many women miserable and joyless. They who try it, praise it. Of druggists.

Men will work harder for a day's pleasure than they will for a week's wages.

Our readers when visiting San Francisco, should always stop at the Baldwin Hotel. It is first-class in every particular.

If afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

Children will no longer forget to clean their teeth, if parents give them RUBIFOAM to use. It is perfectly harmless, prevents decay, and is pleasant to use. Large bottles 25 cents.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY. Price, 25 cents a Bottle. PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

TRUE ESTIMATE OF VALUE.

Remember that when we assert the value of BRANDRETH'S PILLS we at the same time refer you to the thousand of testimonials we have published supporting all and even more than we claim. The best evidence of their value lies in these testimonials. The PILLS have been in use in this country for over fifty years and in that time have surely been well tested. We never heard complaint of them. They are harmless, being vegetable, and always do their work well.

"Oh, come off!" is the familiar strain in which fashion now addresses the bustle.

The famous Baldwin, is now considered the model Hotel of San Francisco. Under the immediate management of Mr. Baldwin himself and his chosen assistants, the house is conducted on a plan which makes it a model of comfort and convenience to all guests.

"Can a young man marry comfortably on $500 a year?" asks a correspondent. Yes, he can, but he will be deuced uncomfortable afterward.

By its mild, soothing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of nasal catarrh also "cold in the head," coryza, and catarrhal headaches. 50 cents, by druggists.

"I nevah, no, nevah, had the headache, old chappie." "No, Oscar, of course not; headache is a brain dispenser, don't cher know."

Those complaining of Sore Throat or Hoarseness should use "Brown's Bronchial Troches." The effect is extraordinary, particularly when used by singers and speakers for clearing the voice. Sold only in boxes.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

WHY?

WHY do I have this drowsy, lifeless feeling? WHY do I have Backache? WHY Neuralgia and Rheumatism? WHY does Scrofulous taint and Erysipelas show itself?

BECAUSE your blood is filled with Poison, which must be Completely Eradicated before you can regain health. You must go to the root of the matter. Put the Kidneys—the great and only blood purifying organs—in complete order, which is complete health, and with and WARNER'S SAFE PILLS you Cure is Certain.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

WHY do we know this? BECAUSE tens of thousands of grateful men and women in all parts of the world have voluntarily written to us to this effect.

There is no stand-still in disease. You are either growing Better or Worse. How is it with YOU?

WHY not to-day resort to that medicine which has veritably Cured Millions, and which will cure you if you will give it a chance?

All of Warner's preparations are Purely Vegetable. They are made on honor. They are time-tried They are No New Discovery, Untried and Worthless; on the contrary, they have stood the test—they have proved their superiority. They stand alone in pre-eminent merit, and YOU KNOW IT.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors
417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

C. H. STREET & CO.

Successors to the IMMIGRATION ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.

415 MONTGOMERY STREET, S. F., CAL.

We are offering the following in 20, 40, 80 or 160 acre Farms.

| | | | | ACRES. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rosenthal Colony, | Tehama County, | | | 9,000 |
| Monte Vista | " | Shasta | " | 1,500 |
| Dehesia | " | " | " | 1,420 |
| Lutheran | " | " | " | 6,000 |
| Shingletown | " | " | " | 16,000 |
| Anderson | " | " | " | 1,920 |
| Miramonte | " | Kern | " | 2,640 |
| Greenwood | " | San Luis Obispo | | 500 |
| Waukena | " | Tulare | | 11,000 |
| Point Reys | " | Marin | | 14,000 |

—ALSO—

Other lands for general farming, fruit growing or stock raising.

A HOME AND INCOME—SECURE A home on easy terms in the country, while retaining your present residence, position and salary; 10, 20 or more acres of land, with or without a house, on the installment plan in one of our colonies; we will plant the same to your order with fruit trees or raisin grapes and will keep it in good condition until full bearing; with or without irrigation; these lands lie north or south of San Francisco, in the coast or interior counties, near or distant from railroad or town and vary in price. C. H. STREET & CO., successors to the Immigration Association of California, 415 Montgomery street.

Send for particulars and full descriptions.

AN OFF YEAR!

As predicted, this is likely to be an off year in Dried Fruit so far as high prices are concerned. New Fruit is now coming in, and is extra fine. We are offering Peaches, Apricots, Pears Nectarines and some other Fruit at from 5c to 12½c, according to color and quality, that we will undertake to say is 25 per cent cheaper than you will buy it elsewhere in this town. By ordering direct from us you save Three Profits! The commission house, the jobbers and retailers. We are always overstocked, direct from growers, and have to find a market wherever we can. We are very careful in selecting, according to price named, and will not allow our customers to be imposed on if we know it. We have a full line of goods now in every department, and are ready for Fall trade. The finest Green Coffee at 18c, and choice Costa Rica at 18c; these prices cannot be guaranteed, as the Coffee market is strong. Sugar is fluctuating almost daily, but we ask no profit above refinery price of anyone. In Underwear and Men's Working or Sunday Shirts we offer excellent value—not the cheap, worthless goods you see quoted at low prices, but full-size, full-quality goods that will give satisfaction. Try a single order with us and be convinced. Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 322

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS.

"SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" PLUG CUT

SMOKING TOBACCO.

Selected with great care from the choicest tobacco regions of North Carolina.

Smokes Cool—Lasts Long—Does no blow out the Pipe.

It is the undisputed leader of Plug Cut Smoking Tobacco throughout the world.

WELL DRILLS

FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large Illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by

GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, hand instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

DWIGHT'S SODA — THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —

DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD

USE

DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.

THE COW BRAND. DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

Paine's Celery Compound

WEAK NERVES

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is a Nerve Tonic which never fails. Containing Celery and Coca, these wonderful nerve stimulants, it speedily cures all nervous disorders.

RHEUMATISM

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND purifies the blood. It drives out the lactic acid, which causes Rheumatism, and restores the blood-making organs to a healthy condition. It is the true remedy for Rheumatism.

KIDNEY COMPLAINTS

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND quickly restores the liver and kidneys to perfect health. This curative power, combined with its nerve tonics, makes it the best remedy for all kidney complaints.

DYSPEPSIA

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND strengthens the stomach, and quiets the nerves of the digestive organs. This is why it cures even the worst cases of Dyspepsia.

CONSTIPATION

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is not a cathartic. It is a laxative, giving easy and natural action to the bowels. Regularity surely follows its use.

CURES Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, and all affections of the Kidneys.

Recommended by professional and business men. Send for book.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Prop's BURLINGTON, VT.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba, etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

OUR TRADE MARK — CHURCH & CO'S SODA — ON EVERY PACKAGE.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

CALCUTTA GRAIN BAGS

In Lots to Suit AT LOWEST MARKET RATES.

Quotations Furnished on Application.

GRANGERS' BUSINESS ASSOCIATION,

No. 108 Davis Street, - - - San Francisco, Cal.

REWARD!

$1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledged the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles, and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents.

AGENTS! AN ACTIVE AGENT WANTED in each county for the two best campaign books in the market—Harrison and Morton and Cleveland and Thurman. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building corner Fourth and Market streets.

Agents!

ACTIVE AGENTS WANTED for "The Life of General Sheridan"; a popular hero; a popular book at a popular price. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, cor. Fourth and Market streets.

WOVEN WIRE MATTRESSES AND IRON BEDS. H. BERNHARD & CO. Manufacturers of Woolen & Hair Mattresses of every description. 154 New Montgomery St., S.F.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and vital strength, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. PIERCE thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the ## Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills, alternating with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is unsurp

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... SEPTEMBER 29, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 16. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., SEPTEMBER 29, 1888. WHOLE NO. 935.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

CAUGHT BY SUN-FLASHES.

How the Heliograph Aided in the Capture of Geronimo's Apaches.

At this stage of the campaign General Miles decided to make use of the signal service, and to this end requested the Chief Signal Officer to provide him with a detail of men from the corps to report to the commanding General of the Department of Arizona for military signal duty in the field. Signal stations were located on the highest peaks along the line of communication. Each station was equipped with from two to four operators, according to the amount of business which passed through it. In addition to these operators there were lookout men who swept the surrounding country and neighboring peaks with powerful field-glasses. While on duty, operators and lookout men were guarded by a detachment of infantry, the numerical strength of which depended upon the location of the station, having reference to its liability to attack by hostiles.

Messages were transmitted from peak to peak and down in the valleys by what is known as the heliographic system of signals. The heliograph, or sun-writer, consists of an arrangement of mirrors mounted on a tripod, and so adjusted as to enable the operator to throw a flash of reflected sunlight on a distant point with mathematical exactness. In making signals long and short sun-flashes take the places of the "dots" and "dashes" of the magnetic sounder, the same call being used for both instruments. In a clear atmosphere signals made by this instrument can be easily read by the naked eye at a distance of eighty miles, and by an expert operator at the rate of fifteen words per minute.

To and fro across the valleys and lower mountain ranges flitted the messages which told of the recent whereabouts of the hostiles, and close upon the heels of those messages came others ordering the troops in pursuit.

I presume it would be a difficult task to try to imagine the surprise that the Indians felt when they suddenly saw that they could not move without finding that almost immediately their trail would be cut by scouting cavalry. They saw the light of the heliographs flashing across the valleys, but they did not at first comprehend its true significance. At last they began to associate those flashes with the fact that they were constantly being pressed and harassed, and within two weeks from the date of the establishment of the heliograph they fled southward across the Sonora border, there to remain until chased back again by Captain Lawton to the place of surrender.

For nearly two months following the flight of the hostiles into Mexico not a sound came back from the shadows of the Sierra Madres, into whose depths pursued and pursuer had disappeared. At last, on a scorching hot morning near the close of August, a Mexican courier galloped into Bisbee—a mining town near the border—with the intelligence that Geronimo and band were in the mountains about twelve miles from Fronteras, Mex., wishing to treat with the authorities of Sonora.

There was a heliograph station at Bisbee, and the information furnished by the "Greaser" was flashed promptly to Fort Bowie, seventy-five miles away. Within two hours from the time of the arrival of the Mexican courier at Bisbee five troops of cavalry were making forced marches on Fronteras. When Geronimo had escaped from the net that the United States troops sought to weave around him at Fronteras and was flying eastward, pursued by all the cavalry in the field, a whisper passed along the line that negotiations had been opened looking to the surrender of the hostiles. Consequently all signal-men were on the tip-toe of expectancy.

One evening about the last of August the operators at a station in the Swisshelm mountains were nodding lazily under the shelter of their tent-fly, when suddenly from the highest peak in the Chiricahua range came the flash of a heliograph, and the following message was received:

"Send a buckboard to meet me at Scott White's ranch. I shall be in Bowie to-night and shall bring some Indians with me."

This is the modest manner in which General Miles announced the surrender of Geronimo. That the employment of the heliograph was a most important factor in bringing the campaign to a speedy and successful issue is generally conceded.—Sergt. Whitney, in Louisville Courier-Journal.

Two Parlor Paradoxes.

Two interesting physical experiments are amusing French scientific men. In the first a lighted candle is placed behind a bottle, and the latter is blown upon with the breath from a distance of about a foot. The meeting of the air currents set in motion around the bottle quickly extinguishes the flame, though extinction would be impossible if a flat board or sheet of cardboard were substituted for the bottle. For the second experiment two bottles are placed on a table, with a space of half an inch between them. The candle is set behind this space, and from the same distance as before, on the opposite side, the breath is blown smartly against the flame. Not only will the latter continue burning, but it will incline slightly toward the operator, as if through the effect of suction. This phenomenon, analogous to the first, is due to the fact that a portion of the air can not pass between the bottles, and is forced around them and back towards the experimenter.—Mechanical News.

—Toronto will try to get the next Pan-Presbyterian council, in 1892.

CONCERNING EGGS.

An Expert Candler's Interesting Chat About the Egg Business.

A man busily engaged in holding eggs up before a candle attracted the attention of a reporter in Third avenue, near Forty-seventh street, the other evening. An interview was the result, and here it is:

"What are you doing?"

"Candling eggs. You see I pick up each egg and hold it before the candle. The light shines through it. I can see at a glance whether it is cracked or spoiled. If it is cracked I set it aside to be sold at a low rate. Bakers and confectioners and some prudent families buy cracked eggs, and they are as good as any eggs not cracked, but they must be used within twenty-four hours."

"Is not that an old-fashioned way of testing eggs?"

"Yes; but experience proves it to be the best, and it is quick. An expert can candle 30,000 eggs a day. It has been tried to test eggs by water. A good egg will sink and a bad egg will float, but you can not find out a specked egg that way."

"What makes specked eggs?"

"Lying in one position. An egg should not be left many days in one position. If an egg is turned every day it will keep a very long time. An experiment was once tried by G. H. Dennis, president of the Duchess County Creamery, as to how long an egg could be kept good. He kept one on his desk nine months and turned it every day and it kept good."

"How long are the best eggs kept before they get upon the tables of the best hotels?"

"It takes about four days, because they are bought in bulk in the country and must be carefully assorted before being placed on the market."

"How are imported eggs kept from spoiling on the voyage?"

"They are carefully watched and turned. They come in cases easy to handle, and an expert learns to handle them quickly. It adds about one-fourth cent a dozen to the cost, but we can pay that and the freight and yet sell eggs that come from France and Germany cheaper than we can sell western eggs, and some think they are better. We can get them here in about twelve days from France. England also gets many eggs from Germany and France."

"How about desiccated eggs, or canned eggs?"

"Some use them and say they are good and cheap. The process is now brought to perfection in this country. Mr. Dennis tried it on a large scale, but it would not pay. There is, in fact, no need of it, so long as people know how to keep their eggs good by turning them. The present mode of packing each egg in a separate paper compartment facilitates turning, and insures a constant supply of good eggs. True, they must be handled carefully in transporting, but that soon gets to be an easy habit. Of course, the baggage smashers do not go near the egg crates."

"Why don't we eat duck eggs and goose eggs? Why should substantially all the eggs in the market be hen eggs?"

"Because people prefer hen eggs, just as they prefer cow's milk to the milk of any other animal. Few people like the flavor of duck eggs or goose eggs. But hens' eggs are universally liked, and they are good, strong, easily digested food, often relished by the sick. As a rule, the imported eggs are nicer and more carefully selected than domestic eggs, and we get them on the table even quicker than the eggs that come from Kansas or Minnesota."

"How about the variation in the price of eggs?"

"The wholesale price varies from 16 1-2 cents to 31 cents a dozen. They are generally cheaper in the summer, because the supply is greater. They do not spoil so rapidly in winter, but there are not so many of them. The larger supply of the summer makes up for the loss by spoiling."

"What food makes hens lay the best eggs?"

"Grains, fresh liver and ground oyster shells. A good hen will lay an egg every other day on an average. At that rate a hen is the most profitable of live stock on the farm. President Dennis ciphered it out once, and sent out circulars to farmers to convince them that no product of the farm pays better than eggs."—N. Y. Sun.

Some Alloys of Gold.

A new alloy of gold and platinum, upon which Mr. W. C. Roberts Austen has been engaged for some time, takes fire on being thrown into the water, and the gold is released as a black powder, differing from ordinary gold in its property of readily forming auric hydride. This abnormal form of gold, which becomes normal metallic gold on heating, is said to have been long utilized by the Japanese. They obtain it from its alloy with copper, with which they form ornamental metallic designs upon knife handles, etc., and then release the dark-colored gold by a pickling process. In this way, they have produced an appearance of transparency in a metallic representation of water, at a place where in the design a duck was represented plunging half its body below the surface of a stream. —Arkansaw Traveler.

—An Akron, O., woman's house was entered recently, and among other things carried off were five thimbles, presents to the owner. Afterwards the thief learned that his victim was charitable, and therefore he returned the thimbles, together with giving his reason for so doing

THE SHYSTER LAWYER.

A Story Whose Probability Will Not be Questioned by His Friends.

It was night. The streets, deserted by all save an occasional pedestrian with a stolen umbrella, were swept at intervals by fierce gusts of wind, and the rain came down with a steady pour which threatened an overflow.

A lawyer sits in his easy chair reading a newspaper. The marble clock on the mantel has just struck ten, and he is about to throw down his paper and follow his wife to bed, when—

"Ah! ha! I've struck it!"

His eye had lighted upon a five-line local item to the effect that Bloody Bill Bunkum, of 4290 Atwater street east, had been arrested for stealing a grindstone, but was discharged at the police court for lack of evidence.

The lawyer rushed for his boots and hat and coat. There was business in both optics.

"What! going out?" called his wife.

"Yes."

"In this awful storm?"

"I must. My duty as a leading member of the Detroit bar calls me. A noble citizen has been basely slandered and libeled by a newspaper. I must see him ere I sleep."

"And get the case?"

"Yes."

"On a divy?"

"Exactly."

"Go, my husband, but be discreet. Don't let anybody drop on the fact that you are shystering for cases. You are supposed to be a way-up lawyer, demanding a cash fee when you take the case; but if others shyster why not you? Go hunt out the slandered Bloody Bill Bunkum and take his case on the whack."

---

It is an hour later. A figure wrapped in oil-skins and covered by an umbrella knocks at the door of No. 4290.

No answer.

Knock! knock! knock!

"What the bloody 'eavens is wanted?" demands a voice from an up-stairs window.

"Are you Bloody Bill Bunkum?"

"I ar'. What of it?"

"I must see you at once. There's money in it."

Bill felt his way down stairs and opened the door and asked:

"Now, then, what bloody thief are you?"

"I am not a thief. I am a leading member of the Detroit bar. Hush! Don't speak so loud."

"Come up-stairs. Now, what is it? Want me to swear to an alibi?"

"No. Do you know that you have been grossly slandered?"

"I do. When I was up in court the judge himself said he believed I ought to be in State prison."

"I mean by the papers. Why, the Free Press has damaged your character $10,000 worth."

"No!"

"Yes, it has. It says, or at least, strongly hints, that you stole a grindstone."

"Which the same is in my back yard at the present minute."

"Did you steal it?"

"Of course. I can be confidential with a lawyer."

"But it wasn't proved?"

"Oh, no. I had two witnesses to swear that I was in Toledo for that hull month."

"And you were discharged?"

"I was. The Judge wanted to send me up, and the jury looked cross-eyed at me, and the prosecuting attorney called me a jail-bird, but I got free, bless the law."

"And now the Free Press jumps on your character and seeks to ruin you. You must begin a libel suit."

"I have no money."

"But I'll foot all the costs and take it for half what we can get."

"But the paper told the truth."

"But it can't prove it. Bloody Bill Bunkum, think of your wife."

"I will, sir."

"And your children."

"Yes, sir."

"And of your standing in the community. Do you want the finger of scorn pointed at you on the streets?"

"Never!"

"And have your children taunted about grindstones?"

"Never, some more!"

"Then we will sue the Free Press for libel and whack up on the verdict, which won't be less than $5,000. Here, sign this agreement. Some of us now keep them on hand in blank. Now, then, a last word: Keep sober, if possible. Talk about the slander. Tell every body how it prevents your getting work. Have your wife ready to testify that you can't sleep from mental worry. Get some one to call your children names. Dig a hole and bury that grindstone, and look out for the police. If it wasn't for the police and the newspapers men like us would be rich."

"Yes, sir."

"That is all. Good night. Go to your bed with the assurance that all will be well and the case will be rushed."

---

Verdict for the defendant.—Detroit Free Press.

Unreasonable Expectations.

Mr. Jerusalem Cohn—Now shust look at yourselluff. Dot vas the most sdylish bair of pants dot efer you went anyvhere.

—Mr. Chatham Greene—Wall, I dunno. They seem to me a little small for the style.

Mr. Jerusalem Cohn—Too small, vas it? Vy, dot cloding fits you peautiful. You don'd suppose it vas stylish to put four yards of five-dollar goots in a dree-tollar bair of vants, vas it?—Puck.

CRADLES FOR BABIES.

Some Singular Prisons Prepared for Infants in Distant Lands.

The Chinese have a queer institution which they call the winter cradle. It is shaped somewhat like an hour glass and stands on end. There is an opening above and below, and the waist, which is contracted, serves to keep the celestial baby on his feet. Day after day little almond-shaped eyes peep over this top of the cradle and little hands play with miniature dragons and other toys until the nurse puts in an appearance. Some of these winter cradles are made of wicker-work and are beautifully painted by Chinese women artists. It is almost impossible for one to be upset; but now and then, when two are placed together and the occupants declare war and measure arms, two cradles roll over the floor to noises that "bring down the house."

The Lapp baby very often has a snow cradle, for when the indulgent mother attends church she makes a hole in the snow outside and deposits the young Laplander therein. It is no uncommon sight to see a circle of these snow cradles in front of a Lapp chapel, and now and then a lot of fierce-looking dogs are on guard to keep off the wolves that might meditate a raid on the baby contingent. The Lapp cradle in material differs essentially from that used by the Bushman baby, whose mother digs a hole in the hot sand and chucks him therein in the shadow of some lonely bush. Sometimes the cradle is ready to hand in the shape of an ostrich nest, and now and then some feathers left by the mighty bird help to soften the nest of the future Bushman warrior.

There is a tribe in the palm region of the Amazon that cradles the young in palm leaves. A single leaf turned up around the edges by some native process makes an excellent cradle, and now and then it is made to do service as a bath tub. Strong cords are formed from the sinews of another species of palm, and by these this natural cradle is swung alongside a tree, and the wind rocks the little tot to sleep. Long ago the Amazonian mothers discovered that it is not wise to leave baby and cradle under a cocoa palm, for the mischievous monkey delighted to drop nuts downward with unerring precision. An older child is stationed near by to watch the baby during the siesta, and the chatter of the monkeys overhead is enough to cause a speedy migration.

Patagonian babies are kept in cradles made of flat pieces of board. Two pieces of guanaco skin are so arranged across the cradle that the child is firmly fastened inside, and can be carried thus suspended from a saddle bow without danger. In the rude huts of this people these cradles are hung hammockwise to the rafters, and amid the smoke that darkens everything, including his very nature, as it seems, the Patagonian infant passes the first stages of babyhood. When the village migrates the cradle is swung from the saddle, and in swimming a stream it floats like a canoe on the surface, while the horse is almost entirely submerged. Sir Francis Head, who saw a good deal of Patagonian life years ago, leaves on record the statement that the Patagonian baby in his queer cradle is one of the best natured representatives of the infant world.

One would hardly go to Kaffirland for a fantastic cradle, and one almost as queer as as it is fantastic at that. Yet he would find such a one there. The Kaffir baby, when he comes into the world, is put into a cradle or bag made of antelope skin, with the hair on. This baby castle, narrow toward the bottom, widens to within a few inches of the opening, when it again suddenly contracts. The skin is turned inward, giving the young Kaffir as soft a bed as some found in the cradles of royalty. Four long strips of antelope skin are attached to the cradle, and enable the mother to swing it on her back after a peculiar fashion.—Drake's Magazine.

Don't Learn to Carve.

Never learn to carve, young man. There is no fun in it. A knowledge of the art saddles you with a responsibility, which, while it may procure you invitations to dinner, sits heavily on the soul and brings wrinkles into the forehead. If you do not perform the work artistically, you are criticised. If a tough fowl gets away from you and takes refuge in a lady's lap, you are laughed at and make an enemy of the fair one whose dress you soil or spoil. You offend Jones if you send the choicest out to Smith, and vice versa. You must send the best away and reserve only the least to be desired for yourself. The waiters make you the subject of their remarks, and by putting their heads together and jerking their thumbs over their shoulders in your direction embarrass you dreadfully; you know by the fiendish leer on their faces that they have set you down as a blacksmith. If the room is warm you are thrown into a violent perspiration; your collar wilts, necktie gets awry, your appetite leaves you, and when your labors are finished you begin your dinner with the air of one who has been in a pugilistic mill and come out second best. Don't learn to carve.—Nebraska State Journal.

Knew How It Was Herself.

"When you speak of the early closing movement, Miss Craycraft," exclaimed the caller, with enthusiasm, "you touch on a topic in which I am deeply interested. I am in favor of any thing that will shorten the dreary hours of working-men and women."

"I am glad to hear you say so, Mr. Slowgo," said the young lady, as she looked hopefully at the clock. "I am a working-woman myself." — Chicago Tribune.

GREAT MEN'S NEIGHBORS

Some Stories of Longfellow, Hawthorne and Other Noted Writers.

A "society" woman at whose table Longfellow was dining asked him: "Oh, Mr. Longfellow, have you ever published a book?" This was after two-thirds of his life-work was done. Hawthorne says that in his later years he met many people who knew him well as the ex-surveyor of the Port of Salem, but who never knew that he had written any thing, and had not even heard that there was such a book as "The Scarlet Letter." Even the genial "Autocrat" is not appreciated by every body in his own town. One day an American gentleman went into a barber's shop as Dr. Holmes was going out. "Do you know who that was that just went out?" asked the barber. Being curious to see what account of Dr. Holmes the barber would give, the visitor shook his head. "Why," said the barber, "that's old Dr. Holmes." "And who is Dr. Holmes?" "Oh; he's been a doctor here a good many years. I believe he ain't practicin' any more, but he's thought a great deal of."

A crushing remark was once made by a would-be flatterer to Mr. W. D. Howells, the American novelist. Shortly after the publication of "The Lady of the Aroostook," "A Foregone Conclusion," and "Venetian Life," a lady asked that gentleman for his autograph, whereupon he wrote some impromptu verses in her album. She read them over, and then gave an encouraging smile. "Oh, Mr. Howells," she exclaimed, "I should think you might do something for the papers and magazines; I've seen much worse things than that in print!"

When even Dickens and Thackeray met with experiences somewhat similar to this, the small fry can scarcely hope to escape. Men well known in other walks of life are scarcely less fortunate than the novelist. Take, for instance, the story told by a clergyman as being part of a conversation held by him with an Englishman to whom he pointed out General Grant's residence in New York. The Englishman asking: "What name?" and seeming to attain no further light, the clergyman repeated it to him and said: "Of course, you have heard of General Grant? He was our President for eight years, ending in 1877."

"Ah!" remarked the Englishman, still with no evidence of recalling a fact previously known.

"Then, too," proceeded the clergyman, "he was a great General, and was in command of 1,000,000 men at the close of the war. You remember our late war, of course?"

"Well, no," was the answer. "Beg pardon, but I have just arrived in this country, and was so long at sea that I have not heard the latest news. I was at sea sixteen days, really."

This gentleman was scarcely abreast with the times, and his ignorance reminds one of Mark Twain's famous question to a railway carriage bore: "Adam? What's his other name?"

It is really surprising how few eminent Americans are known to the average "general reader" in England. In America, the names of many of our prominent men must be familiar, in consequence of the frequency and familiarity with which their actions are discussed in the columns of most of the great newspapers. One is surprised, indeed, to see English affairs dealt with as if England were only some two hundred or three hundred miles from New York.

Greatness is paid homage to by some people in peculiar ways. Every body must remember the story told in connection with Victor Hugo. The great poet was startled one morning by the intrusion of three Englishmen. "Victor Hugo," said one, consulting a pocket-book. The poet bowed, thinking that he should be asked for his autograph next. After the visitors had stared for a few seconds the pocket-book was again consulted. "Eleven o'clock; the lions!" said the spokesman. Then the party bowed and walked out of the room.—Chambers' Journal.

PAPER UNDERWEAR.

Chinese Paper-Makers Compete With the Manufacturers of Muslin.

Paper fabric will actually take the place of genuine cloth to some extent. In a modification of what used to be called the Fedora front, to be worn by a fashionable girl, the chemisette, or at least a portion of it disclosed between the front edges of the jacket, is composed of paper, stamped and cut in imitation of lace and embroidery. This innovation was premeditated to the extent that an order was sent to China more than a year ago for the manufacture of the stuff in the fibrous sort of paper produced only in that country. Thus it is that the masculine example of paper collars and cuffs has been followed, in an idealized manner, by a feminine acceptance of paper chemisettes. The paper looks exactly like soft, unlaundried linen, and is quite tough enough, it is well to say, to prevent easy accidents in the way of rents. Patterns are ingenious imitations, not only of plain, fine muslin, but of lace. That is timely, because there is a tendency to use lace more generously with demi-toilets for the afternoon. Some ladies are returning to the handsome real laces so long laid aside, while the merchants still find their best profit in the fine hand-woven imitation laces so long popular. Gauzes, net, blonde and silk muslins, together with ribbons, are combined with frills and jabots of lace in plastrons, vests and fichus of various kinds. Even for full dress toilets the senorita jackets are worn with a full blouse of cream-white China crape.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

A MIGRATORY WIDOW.

Memories of Married Life Related by a Matrimonially-Inclined Woman.

A weather-beaten woman, of melancholy and discouraged mein, sat in front of a drummer on a railroad train. She was clad in rusty mourning, and her appearance indicated that her loss was recent. When near Chicago she turned to the drummer and said:

"What place we coming to next?"

"Chicago, madam."

"Lemme see; that's in Illinoy, ain't it?"

"Yes—certainly."

"I'd ort to know, but I'd forgot I ben in Illinoy. I buried my first husband there 'bout twenty years ago."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, and from Illinoy I went to Ioway. I buried my second man out in Ioway, and I ain't been there since. That was eighteen years ago. Went down to South Carliny from Ioway."

"Oh! did you? I've been there."

"You hev? Ever been to a place called Black Snake Forks? No? Well, Hen Dodson lays there."

"Who was Mr. Dodson?"

"My third man, and a right smart fellow he was. He had a cousin named Hi Dagget. Ever run across Hi?"

"I think not."

"You'd know it if you had. Every body liked Hi. Him and me was married in Georgy, and he is buried nine miles from Atlanty."

"Oh! indeed! And do you live in Georgia now?"

"Land no! Ain't set foot there for more'n a dozen years. I went from Georgy away up to Minnesoty, and I met Tom Hixon up there."

"Tom Hixon?"

"Yes; him and me lived most a year there after we was married; then a blamed old white maule we had kicked Tom so fatally that I buried him one cold day under the snow up near St. Paul and sold off and went out to Kansas, near Atchison, and tuk up a quarter section o' land jinin' a real smart man's, named Dill."

"And you"—

"Yes, I married Dill, and he took chills and fever 'fore three months and left me a widder 'fore the year was out. I tell you I've had mighty bad luck."

"I should think so."

"That's what I have. There was Ben Barber; after me and him was married out in Californy we got along splendid, and was making money fast, when, all of a sudden, Ben goes head-first down a 900-foot shaft, and, of course, I was a widder 'fore the poor man ever struck bottom."

"Then you left California?"

"Yes; I stayed there eight or nine months, and then Bob he wanted to—"

"Bob who?"

"Oh! Bob White! He was Ben's partner, and he never give me no peace till I married him. He is buried in the Black Hills."

"Great Cæser!" cried the drummer, "do you make a business of going around the country burying husbands?"

The "widder" put her handkerchief to her eyes, and said in keen rebuke:

"That's a purty way to talk to a poor lone widder, that's got her husband's cawpse in the baggage-car ahead, a-takin' him out to Dakoty to lay him aside of his other kin folks. You'd ort to be 'shamed to be so onfeelin'!"—Judge.

A WONDERFUL MULE.

Though Made of Brass He Is Supposed to Cure Every Disease.

A friend, recently returned from Pekin, tells us that he saw a method of cure which may be new to some of our readers. In a temple outside one of the city gates is to be found a brass mule of life size supposed to have wonderful healing properties. Patients suffering from every imaginable disease seek this temple to obtain a cure. The method pursued is as follows: Supposing you suffer from sciatica, you go with all speed to this famous temple, and having discovered the particular part of the brass mule corresponding to the painful region of your own body, you first rub the animal a certain number of times, and then with the same hand shampoo your own disabled member, and then—well, then the pain goes. The special feature of this method of cure is its delightful simplicity. Is your tooth aching?—just scrub the mule's teeth and afterward your own, and voila! the cure is complete. Have you an ulcer of the cornea? pass the tips of your fingers to and fro over the particular eyeball of the mule, and then, with well-regulated pressure, rub repeatedly the afflicted eye. But we are forgetting; the mule has unhappily lost his sight during the many years he has been engaged in his benevolent work—the eyeballs, we are told, having been gradually worn away as the result of constant friction until now you have only the empty orbits to operate upon. Yet don't be distressed, dear reader, the success is guaranteed to be as real as it was formerly. Is the cure always certain? some would-be applicant may inquire. Well, the temple is covered with laudatory tablets in honor of the mule. Isn't this testimony enough? and if you want more the animal is patched in all directions with fresh pieces of brass, put on to cover holes produced by the constant friction of eager patients; and a new perfectly whole mule stands ready at hand, awaiting the day when his old colleague, having fallen to piecies, shall give him an opportunity of likewise benefitting posterity. — China Medical Missionary Journal.

—A man in Florida has trained his dogs to fish for him. They go into the water and help pull the net ashore.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—The total Chinese territory, including China proper and her contiguous possessions, is put at 4,533,300 square miles.

—Sicily's sulphur is estimated at about 30,00,000 tons, from which the world draws 400,000 tons yearly.

—London is said to have eight homes for poor working girls at which breakfast, dinner and tea cost only one dollar a week, and room not over one dollar more. They are said to be well managed and liberally supported by charitable people.

—Glasgow will soon be the second city of the United Kingdom. Its boundaries are to be extended so as to include a number of populous suburban towns, and it is estimated that it will then have a population of nearly eight hundred thousand.

—The guides to the intricate recesses of the Catacombs under Rome sometimes use a card, which they fasten at points along their way as a guide to their return. For want of such guidance explorers of these inner recesses have sometimes perished.

—A French company, with a capital of seventeen million dollars, is said to be waiting for permission from the Russian Government to begin work on a canal that will unite the Sea of Azov and the Black sea. The canal will be 118 kilometers long, will take five years to construct, and will benefit the southeastern districts, which produce grain, salt, minerals and fuel.

—The fever bacillus and other deadly germs find a permanent home in Bengal and destroy a large proportion of the natives in childhood or before they reach their prime. The survivors are an attenuated race, with slender bodies, but of bright intelligence and marvelously patient of mental labor.

—The promoters of a "burial reform" movement in England demand "coffins of the most perishable and lightest material, all lasting substances being rejected; interment as early as possible; the pall to be discarded as an unnecessary and baneful covering, and burial in plain earth with total disuse of vaults and bricked graves." Burial vaults are especially condemned as tending to the spread of disease, and as injurious to the health of persons attending burials.

—The Sultan of Morocco has such ideas of the dignity of rank that when he rides in the carriage presented to him by Queen Victoria he compels the coachman to walk on foot, because no one must sit on a more elevated place than the Emperor. He imagines that he has a taste for geography, but it has been necessary to construct especial maps for him, so that Morocco occupies three-fourths of the globe.

—In Paris masters and mistresses, it is alleged by a correspondent, dreading the criticism of the servants' hall, and desiring comfort in the dining-room, have dispensed with the services of waiters; instead a miniature electric railway is laid down on the dining-table and continued on the same level to a kitchen through an aperture in the wall. Dishes come in, and after having made the round, go out on a sort of small truck. The truck can be stopped anywhere, and does its work admirably, and any amount of art may be lavished on it to make it beautiful.

—The old saying that "beefsteak is better medicine than quinine" is receiving able support from many white men on the Congo. Stanley regarded Boma as a particularly unhealthful place, but it has lost a part of its bad reputation since cattle were introduced and European vegetables began to thrive in the gardens. The thirty white men at this settlement have not been called upon to attend the funeral of a European for a year. Their herd has multiplied until they are able to have fresh meat on their table every day, which they think a great improvement on the tinned meats and canned vegetables upon which Stanley and his followers relied for strength to lay the foundations of the Congo enterprise.

WOOD-PULP FOR PAPER.

An Industry to Which Timber Country May Be Very Profitably Devoted.

The rapid development of wood-pulp manufacture in Maine is an intimation to the South and West that there is a new industry to which their great forest areas may be, in part, very profitably devoted. For, apparently, it doesn't matter much what species of wood is used in the production of pulp; possibly spruce is preferred in the extreme Northeast quite as much on account of its convenience as for any reason. At any rate, it is quite certain that poplar, hemlock, cypress and several other common woods would answer the purposes of the business acceptably; and it is also contended that white pine would do. What may be regarded as a specially attractive feature of the wood-pulp industry, from the standpoint of economy, is the fact that it utilizes the waste incident to timber-cutting on a large scale. Only the limbs of the fallen timber are taken; so there is no competition possible with lumber manufacturers, rail-splitters or others having use merely for the bodies of the trees. The only domain trenched upon is that of fire-wood, more particularly in the corded form; but surely there could be no grievous losses in this direction to the fuel supply. For, naturally, the demand on behalf of wood-pulp manufacture would center itself where the timber is most abundant and cheapest; and in this way large quantities of felled timber, now left to feed forest fires or decay on the spot, would be turned to profitable account commercially.—Age of Steel.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20..... ....1888

The Secretary of the 18th Agricultural District has compared the entries under all headings for the District Fair this year, with the entries for last year; and has found that in every department of the fair the exhibits this year were much greater in quantity than the exhibits of last year. All who attended both fairs are agreed that there was also a very marked improvement in the quality of most exhibits. The attendance at the fair was also much greater than last year. The gate receipts this year were nearly double the receipts of last year. These are matters of record, about which there can be no dispute. It is a further fact, that in recent years no larger gathering of people has met in Inyo county than attended this fair. Misrepresentation has been indulged in; but there were plenty of fair minded men present who will admit that nothing but strict truth is here stated. There was not sufficient hotel accommodation for the large crowd; but in the end everybody was provided for in some way. Mr. Rhine gave the use of mattresses and bed clothing for a large number of men who slept comfortably in his warehouse. Many more found comfortable quarters on cots and mattresses in Mairs' hall. Private houses gave the best accommodation they had to ladies, and in these ways the crowd were provided for. It is very evident that much greater interest was taken in the fair this year than last. This interest is increasing, and will continue to do so. Every material interest of the District is stimulated and promoted by these fairs; and though farmers spend some money, they find it a good investment by the knowledge gained, and the impulse given to greater activity and effort to excel in all their productions. The 18th District is firmly established, strong and prosperous; and has a long and useful career before it. It was created for the benefit of the public; its Directors and other officers have that end in view in all their actions, and every year will add strength and usefulness to it and increase public confidence in it.

THERE'S HOPE FOR EVERYONE.

Speaker Carlisle was a country school teacher.

Judge Kelley, father of the house, was a jeweler.

Senator Pasco was a school teacher at $40 a month.

Tom Reed, of Maine, was a paymaster in the navy.

Dougherty, of Florida, was a sailor before the mast.

Anderson, of Kansas, was a Presbyterian clergyman.

Judge Chipman, of Michigan, was a mine prospector.

Leland Stanford was a country lawyer in Wisconsin.

Senator Kenna was once a coal miner at $1.20 a day.

Senator Dawes was a school teacher and country editor.

Ben Butterworth used to be a plantation boss in Virginia.

Senator Morrill, of Vermont, kept a country grocery store.

Delegate Caine, of Utah, was many years a theatre manager.

Taulbee, the tall Kentucky member, was a divinity student.

Robertson, the new Louisiana member, is a college professor.

James B. White, of Indiana, was a calico printer and tailor.

Congressman Outerwaite was principal of a city school five years.

Civil Service Commissioner Oberly was a Chicago Times reporter.

Judge Tarsney, a Michigan congressman, was a steamboat engineer.

Justice Blatchford was Governor W. H. Seward's private secretary.

Senator Plumb was a typesetter. Hitt, of Illinois, was a stenographer.

Senator Sawyer "bought his time" when 18 years old and ran a saw mill.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, mined with a pick and shovel in California.

Senator Cullom was famous as a corn husker in early days in Illinois.

W. H. F. Lee, son of Robert E. Lee, and now a congressman, is a farmer.

Darlington, a Pennsylvania member, was a reporter on Philadelphia dailies.

Clifton R. Breckenridge, of the ways and means committee, was a bookkeeper.

Beutelle, of Maine, was a sea captain. Plumb, of Illinois, was a grocery clerk.

Senator Allison was an abstract clerk. Guenther, of Wisconsin, was a druggist.

Romeis, of Ohio, was a baggage master. Deacon White, of New York, was a miller.

Secretary Bayard was a clerk in New York. Pidcock, of New Jersey, was a civil engineer.

John McShane, the millionaire Omaha congressman, was a cowboy without a cent in 1871.

Felton, the California multi-millionaire, was a chore boy on a farm in Erie county, N. Y.

Bancroft, the historian, once thought of entering the ministry, and preached several sermons.

Solicitor General Jenks used to be a surveyor. Pennington, of Delaware, was a school teacher.

Samuel J. Randall, whom nobody supposed had a war record, was a private in a company of cavalry.

A balk line handicap billiard tournament will begin in St. Louis Jan. 3. The contestants and their handicap are as follows: Slosson, 400; Schaeffer, 400; Carter, 270; Cotton, 200; Moulds, 165; Day, 165; Gallagher, 260; Ives, 155; Donavan, 150; Thatcher, 155.

PREMIUM LIST 18TH DISTRICT.

HORSES.

STANDARD TROTTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| G. Sanger.....Stallion Roderick..... | $20 00 |

ROADSTERS.

| | |
|---|---|
| M Muldoon...Stallion Bismarck..... | 20 00 |
| J Vagt.....Stallion Young Muldoon..... | 10 00 |

ROADSTER TEAM.

| | |
|---|---|
| Thomas Webb....Bird and Dust..... | 10 00 |

ALL WORK.

| | |
|---|---|
| A R Conklin....Lord Manning..... | 15 00 |
| G Sanger....Stallion Riley..... | 20 00 |
| Wm Noonan....Stallion Milo..... | 10 00 |
| F McIver....Colt..... | 10 00 |
| G Sanger....Best Family..... | 20 00 |

DRAFT.

| | |
|---|---|
| W S Enos....Stallion Sullivan..... | 20 00 |
| E Robinson....Stallion Sam..... | 15 00 |
| W S Enos....Donald Denny, Jr..... | 7 50 |
| W S Enos, span, Lady Clyde and Young Clyde..... | 10 00 |
| G Sanger....Mare Dolly..... | 10 00 |

BUGGY TEAM.

| | |
|---|---|
| John Lucas....Rachael and Reuben ... | 15 00 |

CARRIAGE TEAM.

| | |
|---|---|
| E Robinson....Dandy and Business.... | 10 00 |

SADDLE HORSES.

| | |
|---|---|
| J Moffet....Pinto..... | 15 00 |
| Miss Nettie Olds....Cleveland, 2d prem. | 10 00 |

SWEEPSTAKES.

| | |
|---|---|
| G Sanger....Stallion Roderick..... | Asso. Cup. |
| G Sanger....Mare Jessie..... | Asso. Cup. |

JACKS.

| | |
|---|---|
| J F Shepherd....Grover Jr..... | $15 00 |
| W S Enos....Grover, 2d prem..... | 10 00 |

MULES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mrs M Lewis....Tom and Johnnie..... | 10 00 |
| J E Shepherd....Lou and Stella..... | 10 00 |

COWS.

| | |
|---|---|
| A N Bell....Cherry ..... | 15 00 |
| C A Walter.....—— ..... | 10 00 |
| A N Bell, milch cow, Cherry..... | 20 00 |
| A N Bell, cow and calf, Silkie and calf.. | 10 00 |

GOATS.

| | |
|---|---|
| H Bellows....Angora Goats..... | 20 00 |

HOGS.

| | |
|---|---|
| John Baxter, best display..... | 10 00 |

CHICKENS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Fred Schabbell, best display..... | 5 00 |
| John Baxter, 2d best display..... | 2 50 |
| Fred Scabbell, bronzed turkeys ..... | 5 00 |

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

| | |
|---|---|
| C A Walter, best agricultural display.. | $15 00 |
| John Baxter, 2d premium..... | 10 00 |
| John Baxter, best sack oats..... | 5 00 |
| A N Bell, best 100 lbs flour..... | 5 00 |
| C A Walter, best 100 lbs shelled corn.... | 5 00 |
| C A Walter, best 50 lbs alfalfa seed .... | 5 00 |
| W L Hunter, best 100 lbs wheat..... | 5 00 |
| W L Hunter, sack rye..... | 2 00 |
| Jacob Vagt, best barley..... | 5 00 |
| W J Lake, 50 lbs early rose potatoes.... | 2 00 |
| W J Lake, 100 lbs any variety..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Fanny Baker, 10 lbs tometoes..... | 2 00 |
| J W Symmes, watermelons..... | 2 00 |
| John Kispert, egg plant ..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, sweet potatoes..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, beets..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, peppers..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, 10 lbs white beans..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, 10 lbs pink beans ..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, 10 lbs garden peas..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, canteloupes..... | 2 00 |
| Fred Schabbell, squash..... | 2 00 |
| Jacob Vagt, pumpkins..... | 2 00 |
| H L Clark, cabbage..... | 2 00 |
| H L Clark, cucumbers ..... | 2 00 |
| A N Bell, carrots..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Fanny Baker, onions..... | 2 00 |
| S A Densmore, celery ..... | 2 00 |
| John Shepherd, baled hay, timothy ..... | 5 00 |
| John Shepherd, baled hay, alfalfa ..... | 5 00 |
| C A Walter, grass seed..... | 2 00 |
| John Shepherd, seed ..... | 2 00 |
| C A Walter, tobacco plant..... | 1 00 |
| John Baxter, butter in rolls ..... | 10 00 |
| Mrs F J Reynolds, butter in rolls, 2d p.. | 5 00 |
| Mrs F J Reynolds, butter, pickled..... | 10 00 |
| Mrs J Brown, best lard..... | 2 50 |
| Lena Thompson, best jelly ..... | 7 50 |
| Mrs J Brown, 2d premium ..... | 5 00 |
| Lena Thompson, best preserves ..... | 7 50 |
| Alice Stecker, 2d premium..... | 5 00 |
| Lena Thompson, pickles..... | 7 50 |
| Ray Bell, 2d premium ..... | 5 00 |
| A Matack, cheese, 1st premium ..... | 10 00 |
| C A Walter, ham..... | 5 00 |
| Jacob Vagt, bacon ..... | 5 00 |
| Mrs J Brown, fruit in jars, 1st premium. | 10 00 |
| Alice Stecker, fruit in jars, 2d premium. | 5 00 |
| W Muth Rasmussen, honey ..... | 5 00 |
| W Muth Rasmussen, apiary display .... | 10 00 |
| H Levy, best bread..... | 2 50 |
| H Levy, best cake..... | 2 50 |

FRUIT.

| | |
|---|---|
| John Baxter, apples, 1st premium..... | 5 00 |
| John Kispert, apples, 2d premium..... | 2 50 |
| J W Symmes, pears, 1st premium..... | 5 00 |
| S A Densmore, pears, 2d premium..... | 2 50 |
| S A Densmore, peaches ..... | 5 00 |
| Mrs F Baker, peaches, 2d..... | 2 50 |
| S A Densmore, plums..... | 5 00 |
| E Robinson, plums, 2d..... | 2 50 |
| S A Densmore, quinces ..... | 5 00 |
| S A Densmore, prunes..... | 5 00 |
| S A Densmore, nectarines..... | 2 00 |
| J Kispert, wine grapes..... | 5 00 |
| J W Symmes, raisin grapes..... | 5 00 |
| C A Walter, display dried fruit..... | 10 00 |
| John Baxter, display dried fruit, 2d..... | 5 00 |
| S A Densmore, bottled wine..... | 10 00 |

FINE ART.

| | |
|---|---|
| Lilian O'Hara, best oil painting..... | 7 50 |
| Miss Voris, 2d premium ..... | 5 00 |
| Marcie Stevens, crayon drawing..... | 5 00 |
| Lilian O'Hara, painting on satin ..... | 2 50 |
| Marcia Stevens, japanese panels..... | 2 50 |
| Miss Maggie Conklin, best collection paintings..... | 5 00 |

NEEDLE WORK, KNITTING &C.

| | |
|---|---|
| Lena Thompson, crazy quilt..... | 2 50 |
| Lena Thompson, embroidered dress..... | 2 00 |
| Lena Thompson, hearth rug ..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Rhine, knitted quilt..... | 2 00 |
| Carmalita Gonzales, crochet shawl..... | 2 00 |
| Lena Thompson, paper flowers..... | 2 00 |
| Addie Lewis, display fancy articles.... | 5 00 |
| Lena Thompson, best made dress ..... | 5 00 |
| Katie Reddy, spanish needlework..... | 5 00 |
| Mrs Irwin, silk hose, knitted..... | 2 00 |
| Annie Thomsen, crewel work ..... | 2 50 |
| J A Hannah, patchwork quilt..... | 2 50 |
| Mrs A W Eibeshutz, toilet set ..... | 2 00 |
| J A Hannah, sofa cushion ..... | 2 00 |
| Addie Lewis, tidy ..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Rhine, table scarf..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Rhine, table cover ..... | 2 00 |
| Cora Craig, child's dress..... | 2 00 |
| Maud Russell, child's splasher..... | 2 00 |

ORES AND MINERALS.

| | |
|---|---|
| W L Hunter, cabinet of ores and minerals | 15 00 |
| W H Russell, silver ores ..... | 5 00 |
| A Staudinger, marble work..... | 10 00 |
| Jessie Skinner, collection of coins..... | 2 00 |

SPECIAL.

| | |
|---|---|
| Ray Bell, old lace..... | 2 00 |
| Maggie Conklin, eggs and curios ..... | 2 00 |
| Mrs Payne, knitting and alum work .... | 2 00 |

Congressman Farquhar was a typesetter, and the first president of the first typographical union in the United States.

Justice Bradley taught a district school every winter from his 16th to his 21st year and was for some time a surveyor.

Senator Blodgett, of New Jersey, was a locomotive engineer. His predecessor, Gen. Sewell, was once a sailor before the mast.

Senator Dolph was an orderly sergeant in a company raised to protect settlers crossing the plains in 1862 from attacks of Indians.

President Cleveland once compiled the American Herd Book and received $60 for the service. For a time he managed a hotel.

Senator Riddleberger has been editor of three papers, The Shenandoah Democrat, The Teuton Legion, and The Virginia Democrat.

Frank Lawler, another Chicago member, was a brickmaker, a news agent, learned the ship carpenter's trade, and is now a saloon keeper.

Senator Sabin, with his trousers tucked in his boots, used to stand on the streets of Springfield, Mass., all day to sell cordwood that he had chopped and hauled twelve miles.

Justice Field was intended for the missionary service. His sister Emilia took him to Smyrna when 13 years old, to have him learn the Oriental languages, and he spent eleven years there in study.

An Oxford Student's Life.

Life at Oxford is no more expensive for a student than any one of the great colleges of the United States. I asked Mr. Warburton about the cost of student life here, and he was able, reporter like, to give me the exact figures. He said that a student could live well and have everything that he should have with an income of $1,500 a year. There are plenty of students who are getting along on half that. Two thousand dollars a year would be a most liberal estimate. The students that were classed as rich were the sons of wealthy families who allowed them £1,000 a year pocket money. Of course there was a fast set at Oxford, as there is in every university town. The members of this set spend money recklessly and often get into debt, but their expenses have nothing to do with any proper estimate of the cost of student life here. The standard of examination for admission to Oxford is no higher than at our best colleges. The requirements after that are very much less. An under graduate of ordinary abilities can finish the course in any one of the colleges here within three years, and in the three years he will study six months only in each year.

The scholastic year consists of three terms of only eight weeks each. They have six weeks' holiday at Christmas. It is easy to see from the short period of study and the predominance given to classical studies that not much of a general education can be obtained at Oxford. Strangers who come to Oxford often ask where the university is, not seeming to understand that there are thirty colleges comprised in the university system at Oxford. While they are generally classed together and pursue the same lines of study, yet they are separate and distinct organizations. Some of the colleges are very rich and some are very poor.—T. C. Crawford in New York World.

The British Pitman's Dog.

There are few things more touching than the love of the British collier for his dog. To him the animal is more than wife or children; he loves them, too, in his way, but it is on his four footed friend that his not too tender heart lavishes its chief affections. And the dog reciprocates this regard; between the two there exists a closeness of understanding which serve almost in the place of language to convey thoughts from the one to the other. The pitman expects, however, that his faithful companion shall be ready to fight to the death at any moment. Even if the dog is not that way inclined, he must accommodate himself to his master's humor, and cheerfully submit to be mangled for the honor and glory of the family. Not only, either, must he enter the lists; it is equally incumbent on him to come out a winner. "Go it lad," exclaimed a Yorkshire miner as he looses his pet at another pitman's champion; "if thee gives in I'll shoot thee." And he would, no doubt, have carried out this threat had not the battle ended abruptly through police interference.

It appears, therefore, that the miner's love is strictly governed by the proved worth of its object. Accustomed to fighting himself, the worthy fellow believes that the deadliest sin of all is to yield before being placed absolutely hors de combat. It is a true British instinct, and eminently praiseworthy in its way; of such stuff are heroes made. "A peerage or Westminster abbey," were the alternatives Nelson placed before himself when entering the combat. "The best of food or a dose of lead" are those presented to his canine hero by the British miner. The dogs seem to perfectly understand and to appreciate these conditions; one or the other is invariably killed in the fight.—London Globe.

Gloucester's Mackerel Fishing.

Each schooner uses two seine boats about thirty-five feet in length, and two seines, one of 175 fathoms, for shoal water, and one of 250 fathoms, for deep water seining. Each seine is about thirty fathoms deep. In this fishing the most tremendous excitement occurs when a school of mackerel is discovered breaking the surface of the water into millions of snow white flecks and spumes. A dory with two men hold one seine end taut. The seine boat, manned by twelve to fourteen men, pays out the seine with the mightiest speed, as nearly as possible surrounding the school, and circling around to the dory, where the seine is drawn together, the lower line pursed close, and frequently within this meshy pound tens of thousands of gleaming squirming fish may be seen. These are flung aboard with ordinaay scoop nets, the entire operation being very similar to shad seining on the Delaware and Chesapeake. The mackerel are split, the jib, or insides, removed; they are plowed to make them appear deceptively fat, and are then pickled in barrels or run into market fresh.—Edgar L. Wakeman in New York Mail and Express.

A Sociological Power.

The genesis of voluntary attention is to be found in its utility. When the conditions of life become at all hard, and especially if they become so by more or less sudden changes, the power of adaptation to them is dependent upon voluntary attention to details; upon consideration of something besides the immediately attractive and useful. The savage is lazy, is inspired only by chase, by war, by play; his interest is in the unknown, the unforeseen, the chance. He is not capable of continuous labor. In half civilized communities work is repugnant. Voluntary attention is a factor of civilization, and is maintained with effort. The most constant characteristic of criminals is lack of power to pursue a steady calling; and the Italian anthropologists regard this as a reversion to primitive habits. Voluntary attention thus came in, and is maintained as a sociological power.—Prof. Th. Ribot.

The Medicine Mania.

Some people, especially among the lower, middle and working classes, are confirmed medicine takers. They read the advertisements of "patent" nostrums, which profess to cure every ill under the sun from agues to ulcers, and implicitly believe the statements which they contain. The ignorant medicine taker never pauses to consider that if a tithe of the pretensions so blatantly proclaimed had any foundation in fact, the existence of cultivated and learned bodies, such as the college of physicians and the college of surgeons, would be no longer necessary. Not only does he believe everything which the advertisers tell him, but he becomes an advocate of the remedies to his friends, and thus, like the snowball which increases as the schoolboy rolls it in the drift, the mischief insensibly increases, until in time it assumes colossal proportions.—Time.

Thirty-five per cent. of the population of Mexico are said to be Indians.

Paul Philippoteaux, the painter of the Gettysburg and Niagara Falls cycloramas, has just finished a work upon which he has been engaged for two years, consisting of thirty pictures of scenes in the life of Gen. Grant, beginning with his infancy and ending with his funeral. They are to be exhibited first at Boston and then throughout the country.

Mr. Frederick Villiers, the well known war correspondent and artist of The London Graphic, has entered the lecture field. He went with Mr. Archibald Forbes through the Franco-German, Servian and Russo-Turkish wars and has a great fund of interesting experiences, which he relates with graphic eloquence.

SPORTING AND ATHLETIC.

There are forty-three stallions listed who have trotted in 2:20 or better.

Kilrain's backer will not permit him to box before the Prince of Wales.

Isaac Murphy will ride for Lucky Baldwin next year. His salary will be $12,500.

A walking match, square heel and toe, will take place in Kansas City during Christmas week.

The $4,500 stakes in the unfinished Carney-McAuliffe fight have been drawn and the fight declared off.

Duncan C. Ross is on his way to Havana, where he is to have a sword contest with a celebrated Spanish bull fighter.

The fastest heat trotted in a race this year was won by a 5-year old, and the fastest debutante in the 2:30 list is a 3-year old. The horses referred to are Patron, 2:14¼, and Sable Wilkes, 2:18.

A horse owning company is about to be started at Victoria, Australia, and it is intended to devote $35,000 to the purchase of two English sires, and to buy forty brood mares at an average of $2,500.

McLaughlin beat Garrison by twelve winning mounts. The final result was: McLaughlin, 119; Garrison, 107. C. Wood, who leads the English jockeys for the year, had 147 winning mounts, but he had twice as many mounts.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, was a gold prospector in California in '49, and sheriff of Tuolumne county later.

MISCELLANEOUS

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,

Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18tf

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,

BIG PINE.

—DEALERS IN—

ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING.
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.

Surfaced lumber of all kinds.

All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings

Furnished.

All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.

JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Saturday..... | January 28th |
| " ..... | February 25th |
| " ..... | March 24th |
| " ..... | April 21st |
| " ..... | May 19th |
| " ..... | June 23rd |
| " ..... | July 21st |
| " ..... | August 18th |
| " ..... | September 15th |
| " ..... | October 13th |
| " ..... | November 17th |
| " ..... | ecember 15th |

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,

SHINGLES,

SASH AND BLINDS,

LATH,

RUSTIC

MOULDINGS,

DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep1 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5 00 per evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.

Indepen - - - Ca.

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,

APARTMENTS,

—AND—

—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M.D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)

Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.

Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,

COUNTY CLERK,

—AND—

Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,

INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table lately fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of spending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no special ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | | From Mound House. No. 1. | | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Leave— | | Arrives— |
| Mound House | | 9 15 a m | | 5 35 p. m |
| Dayton | | 10 45 a. m. | | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | | 12 45 a m | | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | | 4 20 p m. | | 10 40 a. m. |
| Lamuta | | 5:50 p. m. | | 9 20 a. m |
| Soda Springs | | 7 0 p m. | | 8:10 a. m |
| Believille | | 8 12 p. m. | | 7 05 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. | 8.50 p. m | Lv. | 6.30 a. m |
| | | No. 3 Leave— | | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | | 7 30 a m. | | 5 25 p. m |
| Benton | | 11 00 a m | | 1:45 p. m |
| Bishop Creek | | 1 10p. m. | | 11:30 a. m. |
| Alvord | | 2.00 p. m | | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | | 3 30 p. m. | | 9.05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | | 4 15 p. m. | | 8 15 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar | 5:05 p. m. | Lv. | 7.20 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Granteville and Belmont

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D A BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

Customers supplied on all points

Of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO
Bishop Creek, Cal

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,

Horseshoeing, General Iron

—AND—

WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.

For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.

Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)

Merchant,

INDEPENDENCE

INYO CO., CAL.

Wholesale and Retail

....DEALER IN....

General Merchandise

MY STOCK

Consisting of most everything a article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n252m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE

BANKER,

Independence, Cal

SELL EXCHANGE

ON

SAN FRANCISCO

DRAW DIRECT

ON

NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds

GENERAL BANKING

—AND—

Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main

Deutsche Vollmachten ausgestellt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt

AGENT FOR

Wells Fargo & Co's Express

MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $35,000,000

LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - - $11,000,000

NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. E. KUPP, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29 ..... 1888

Miss Delfina Diaz, of Lone Pine, has gone to San Jose on a visit.

George Lewis is at Keeler working on improvements at the Soda Works.

The Conklin Brothers are removing the last of their cattle from Menache for the winter.

Superintendent B. Lasky is at the Keynot with a force of men at work upon that valuable property.

Mr. Will Hampton has gone to Davisville on a business trip and will probably be absent about two weeks.

It is expected that there will be racing purses offered at Bishop Creek on Thanksgiving. Let us know in time.

R. S. Miner Esq., of Mono county, has been selected as the Democratic nominee for the Assembly from this District.

Mr. W. S. Enos has gone to Long Valley to bring down the cattle he has had pasturing there. He expects to be back in about two weeks.

Mr. Barna Peeler, of Bishop Creek, has bought a fine thoroughbred stallion. The animal came from Reno a few days ago by rail. Mr. Peeler expects to raise first-class running horses.

Doctor Bishop, of Reno, has men and horses at work clearing sagebrush land on the line of the Eastside canal. Sixteen horses are kept busy every day. A large tract of land will be ready for farming next Spring.

Last week a medicine case was lost at the racetrack, or between there and town. The case had in it about a dozen phials containing medicines. The finder will please leave the same at the INDEPENDENT office.

There has been a rumor that the Silver Cornet Band propose disbanding. The town people should make every effort to prevent this, as the success of every public entertainment depends so much upon the band.

Mr. C. H. Parsons has rented his farm in Round Valley to Mr. Jones, who came here recently with a large band of horses from Nevada. Mr. Parsons and family expect to spend the fall and winter at Independence.

Mr. Ben Williams, of Bishop Creek, has secured a lot next to the Independence Hotel, where he will put up a building and establish the manufacture of soda water, sarsaparilla, ginger ale and other drinks of like character.

Rev. E. McEvers will preach at Lone Pine on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at Independence at 7 o'clock in the evening. Sunday School at the M. E. Church at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

Read the new advertisement of Hale Brothers, Sacramento. Every new customer of this firm remains a constant patron. The House does not deal in showy goods, practice flash advertising or charge extortionate prices. All their goods are strictly first-class; they advertise not one word but what is true, nor do they ever charge one cent beyond very reasonable profit.

Supervisors Meeting.

The Board of Supervisors will meet next Monday to fix the tax levy for the ensuing year. The Board will at the same time receive and consider a report from Road Viewers in Road District No. 3. This is for making a road from Rawson's ranch to a point one mile east from Bishop Creek.

School Opening.

The school at Independence will open for the fall term next Monday. A change in school books will be made from those now in use to the books printed by the State. Scholars are expected to go to the school next Monday morning prepared to give their orders to the teacher for the new books. The old books will be used until the new shall be received.

Nominated.

The Republicans of San Joaquin county have nominated Paul M. Bennett Esq. for District Attorney. Mr. Bennett was formerly a resident of Inyo county and is well and favorably known by all the older settlers in Owens Valley. He practiced his profession successfully for many years in this town and was recognized as a gentleman of rare legal ability. His old Inyo friends wish him success in his political venture.

Honorable Mention.

In every department of the fair so much was shown that it was not possible to provide premiums for all. The judges are forced to made selections for first choice, even among things that, taken separately, appear the best of their kind. Among horses, farm products, fruits—fresh, dried and preserved, paintings, drawings and needlework of all kinds, the judges of all classes made lists of entries well worthy of special mention. These lists are too long for publication here, but will be entered upon the records and published in the report of the State Agricultural Association and so become matters of history.

The Assembly Muddle.

There is trouble over the nomination of a Republican candidate for the Assembly Mono county has nominated Harvey Boone. This was accomplished by popular vote under the Crawford plan of nominating candidates. Alpine county has nominated Cyrus Coleman. Both counties ask Inyo to endorse their nominees. The action of Inyo will decide the matter. Since the formation of the Assembly district as it now stands Mono and Inyo have each had one representative in the Assembly. Alpine has not yet had any since the present district was formed. When at Independence last week Mr. Boone alleged that an attempt would be made to deprive both Mono and Alpine of the representation and secure it for Inyo. It is to be hoped that he is mistaken; such action would be unjust and dishonorable, and would be sternly rebuked and repudiated by a large majority of the Republicans of Inyo county. Even if such an unmanly attempt should succeed, and the delegates from Inyo force a candidate upon the delegates from the other counties of the District, it would cause a rupture between the Republicans of the three counties that would take years to heal. Justice should not be violated, nor the harmony of a party in three counties disturbed to gratify paltry personal ambition.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Democratic County Convention met at Independence on Tuesday last pursuant to advertised call and was brought to order by A. N. Bell, Chairman of the County Central Committee.

C. S. Swan was elected by acclamation to fill the chair, Irv. H. Mulholland being chosen secretary.

Ordered that a committee on credentials be appointed by the chair. The appointees were Wm. Coats, G. Sanger, W. J. Lake, J. E. Reynolds and J. C. Eddy.

A committee on permanent organization and order of business was appointed as follows: D. Olds, T. K. Hutchison, D. Stubblefield, John Lucas and John Barnes.

Ordered that a committee on platform and resolutions be appointed. The chair named the following. J. E. Reynolds, R. P. Hessian, T. Webb, John Wilson and I. P. Yaney.

Whereupon the Convention adjourned until one o'clock p. m.

The Convention reconvened at one p. m. Chairman Swan presiding.

The Committee on Credentials reported as follows: The credentials of the following delegates are true and correct:

Round Valley—C. H. Parsons, D. Olds, S. White, proxy Parsons.

Lincoln—G. M. Clarke, proxy Hutchison T. K. Hutchison, T. W. Carroll.

Bishop Creek—I. P. Yaney, proxy Alexander, Jasper Williams, W. L. Zimmerman W. G. McCrosky, W. L. Coats, W. O. Meroney, proxy Yaney.

Laws—Barton McGee, J. McCrosky.

Big Pine—R. P. Hessian, D. J. Hessian, J. Mullane, G. Sanger.

Poleta—J. S. Collins, proxy Mullane.

Cottonwood—S. P. Roberts.

Fish Spring—D. W. Kenny, proxy R. P. Hessian.

Independence—W. J. Lake, J. W Murphy, E. Robinson, C. S. Swan, J. Zeigler, D. Stubblefield, A. D. Gilbert.

Georges Creek—H. Hamilton.

Lone Pine—J. E. Reynolds, John Lucas, C. Meysan.

Keynot—T. McDonough.

Keeler—John Barnes, T. Madden, proxy Barnes.

Cerro Gordo—R. B. Nickerson, proxy White Smith.

Darwin—J. A McKenzie, proxy Eddy, John Wilson, J. C. Eddy, proxy Mulholland.

Lookout—F. Fitzgerald, proxy Meysan.

Panamint—P. Gallagher, proxy Webb.

Olancha—W. Walker, proxy Gunn.

W. L. COATS,
Chairman.

The report was accepted and committee discharged.

Report of Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business, accepted as follows:

Chairman—

Secretary—Irv. H Mulholland.

That the candidates for the several offices shall pay the following amounts:

Sheriff—$25
Clerk—$20
Dist. Atty—$10
Treasurer—$10
Coroner—$5
Surveyor—$5

Report of Committee on Platform and Resolutions read and approved.

Ordered that all nominees of the Convention shall pay an amount that shall be equal to the first payment.

C. S. Swan was elected Chairman by acclamation.

Ordered that a committee of five on Finance be appointed, whereupon the Chair appointed the following: Irv. H. Mulholland, I. P. Yaney, R. P. Hessian, John Barnes and J. C. Eddy.

Nominations for Sheriff were declared open and J. J. Gunn and White Smith were appointed tellers.

James Jones, of Big Pine, was placed in nomination by D. Olds, of Round Valley, seconded by Roberts, of Cottonwood.

J. R. Eldred, of Bishop Creek, nominated by T. K. Hutchison, of Lincoln, seconded by John Alexander, of Independence.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Eldred 24, Jones 18, whereupon Eldred was declared the nominee by acclamation.

A recess of half an hour was then taken.

On reassembling the name of P. H. Mack was brought before the Convention for Clerk, he receiving the nomination by acclamation.

J. J. Moore received the nomination for Treasurer by acclamation.

Moved and carried that G. M. Gill be endorsed for District Attorney.

Nominations for surveyor were passed.

G. W. Brady received the nomination for Coroner by acclamation.

Ordered that the delegates at large elect an Executive Committee. Also the delegates from each precinct nominate a member of the County Central Committee for such precinct.

Irv. H. Mulholland was nominated for permanent secretary of the County Central Committee by E. Robinson and elected by acclamation.

Convention adjourned for one hour.

On reconvening the following were elected as an Executive Committee. W. J. Lake, J. J. Gunn, E. Robinson, J. W. Murphy and J. White Smith.

The following were presented and elected as members of the County Central Committee:

Round Valley—C. H. Parsons
Lincoln—T. K. Hutchison
Bishop Creek—I. P. Yaney
Laws—Barton McGee
Big Pine—R. P. Hessian
Fish Spring—James Lane
Cottonwood—S. P. Roberts
Poleta—George Storey Independence—D. Stubblefield
Georges Creek—W. L. Hunter
Lone Pine—John Lucas
Keynot—T. McDonough
Keeler—John Barnes
Cerro Gordo—R. B. Nickerson
Darwin—J. A. McKenzie
Lookout—F. Fitzgerald
Panamint—H. G. Cuickering
Olancha—Ed. Walker

Whereupon the Convention adjourned sine die.

C. S. SWAN, Chairman.
IRV. H. MULHOLLAND, Secretary.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sep1-tf

The Elliott Case.

Mr. Thomas E. Hayden, counsel for W. T. C. Elliott, in a letter to Governor Waterman asking the Governor to interfere and stay the execution of Elliott, has made charges that are altogether unwarrantable by the facts. In his letter to the Governor Mr. Hayden says: "We have, by an extension of time granted by a Judge of the Supreme Court of your State, until October 8th in which to prepare a bill of exceptions involving all the testimony in the case. We are industriously preparing it. The Judgment was rendered July 24th. On the 10th or 11th, less than sixty days after the judgment was rendered, we filed in the Clerk's office, of Inyo county, a notice of appeal from the order of the Court overruling our motion for a new trial, also a notice of appeal from the judgment in the case. On the same day we served the notice of appeal on the District Attorney and also on another attorney who appeared for and assisted in the prosecution. * * Our trouble in this case is that living so far from Independence, Inyo county, I at Reno, Kittrell at Modesto in your own State—we cannot be there to confront any technical solecisms that are fallen into by the Judge and officers of the Court, who indulge in that rural astuteness that grasps at an imagined technicality and disregards the fundamental principles of law etc. etc."

Now the facts are that Sheriff Gregg telegraphed Mr. Hayden September 12th that the notice of appeal was filed with the County Clerk of Inyo on that date. Mr. Hayden did not write his letter to Governor Waterman until the 13th of September, and after he had been informed that the appeal was filed. The most ignorant pettifogger in law ought to know that execution in capital cases is stayed when an appeal is taken. Execution had been stayed but Mr. Hayden thought he must ask the Governor to do what had already been accomplished according to law. When Mr. Hayden states that his intention to take an appeal should have stopped the fixing of a day for execution he betrays ignorance of the law. Under section 1217 of the Penal Code the Judge was compelled to fix the day for execution not later than sixty days after judgment was given. The Judge fixed the day at the longest period allowed by law. Mr. Hayden again showed ignorance of the law when he wrote to Governor Waterman instead of perfecting his appeal, which was all that was necessary to stay the execution. He had all the courtesy possible shown to him, even to the extent of straining the law in favor of himself and his client by allowing him to take the records of the trial away from the County Court House. The Private Secretary of the Governor, in his reply to the letter of Mr. Hayden, says: "Fearing from the tenor of your letter, and the charges made by you against Judge Hannah, that the official intended to ride rough shod over yourself, and illegally and tyranically invade the rights of your client, I telegraphed to S. G. Gregg, Sheriff of Inyo County, as follows: 'In the matter of the people vs. Elliott, I am ordered by the Governor to officially inform you that the Attorney-General has given it as his opinion that the filing of the notice of appeal in said case perfects the appeal and stops the execution of the death sentence.' To which he (the Sheriff) replied: 'The law is so construed by this Court.' Judging from this there was no disposition on the part of Judge Hannah to take any advantage of your client. Yours Truly,

M. D. BORUCK,
Private Secretary."

This reply of Secretary Boruck shows the gross misrepresentation made by Mr. Hayden of Judge Hannah and the officers of the Court. All who were present at the trial of Elliott know well that Mr. Hayden and his associate counsel, Mr. Kittrell, were allowed every latitude possible under the law in the defense of their client. On every occasion not absolutely in violation of law Judge Hannah ruled in their favor. Mr. Hayden will not deny that from the bench and bar of Inyo he received the most courteous treatment all the time of his stay here. Gentleman will decide if Mr. Hayden has made a proper return for that courtesy by such misrepresentation.

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President—

ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET.

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,

NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—

JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.

REEL B. TERRY,
Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.

CAMPBELL P. BERRY .....Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY..Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.

FRED. BERRINGER.....Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A. CAMINETTI.....Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.

C. A. JENKINS.....Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

P. J MURPHY.....Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

N. BOWDEN.....Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

BYRON WATERS..Of San Bernardino.

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman.....R. S. MINER.
Sheriff.....J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk.....P. H. MACK.
Treasurer.....J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney..Endorsed..G. M. GILL
Surveyor.....———
Coroner.....G. W. BRADY

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney,
INYO CO., CAL.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods. Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S
CHEMICAL FLUID
NON-POISONOUS
SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.
(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from striking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO
Successors to FALKNER, BELL & CO.,
No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Inyo Marble Company, of California, will be held at the office of the Company, Room 36, 508 California Street, San Francisco, California, on Tuesday, the 18th day of September, 1888, at the hour of 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors to serve for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

Transfer books closed, Friday 14th inst at 3 p. m.

By order of the Board of Directors.
O. TURKLINE, Secretary.

PO TPONEMENT.

By order of the Board of Directors the above meeting was pastponed until Tuesday, October 2, 1888.
O. TURKLINE, Secretary.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 26, 1888.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

☞All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. ☞ 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations — a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC

☞Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies'
Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain, Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise

A Full Line
CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:
HAWTHORNE NEV.
BRANCHES:
Wabuska, Nev..
CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.
AGENCIES:
WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au25tf

TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.

New House,
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"To this I replied that I was very fond of statuary and architecture, or something of that sort, at which she frowned, and there was a pause. By this time my nerves were on such a stretch that I was shaking like a leaf. I knew that something awful was going to happen, but she held me under a kind of spell, and I could not help myself.

"'Incubu,' she said at length 'wouldst thou be a king? Listen, wouldst thou be a king? Behold, stranger, I am minded to make thee king of all Zu-Vendisay and husband of Sorais of the Night. Nay, peace, and hear me. To no man among my people had I thus opened out my secret heart, but thou art an outlander, and therefore do I speak without shame, knowing all I have to offer and how hard it had been to thee to ask. See, a crown lies at thy feet, my lord Incubu, and with that fortune a woman whom some have wished to woo. Now mayst thou answer.'

"'Oh, Sorais,' I said, 'pray do not speak thus'—you see I had not time to pick and choose my words—'because you are putting us both in an awkward position. I am going to marry your sister Nyleptha, Sorais, and I love her.'

"Next moment it struck me that I had said an awful thing, and I looked up to see the results. When I spoke, Sorais' face was hidden in her hands, and as my words reached her she slowly raised it, and I shrank back dismayed. It was ashy white, and her eyes were flaming. She got on to her feet and seemed to be choking, but the awful thing was that she was so quiet about it all. Once she looked at a side table on which lay a dagger, and from it to me, as though she thought of killing me; but she did not take it up. At last she spoke one word, and one only—

"'Go!'

"And I went, and glad enough I was to get out of it, and here I am. Give me another cup of wine, there's a good fellow, and tell me what is to be done."

I shook my head, for the affair was indeed serious. As one of the poets says,

Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned, more especially if the woman is a queen and a Sorais, and indeed I feared the very worst, including imminent danger to ourselves.

"Nyleptha must be told of all this at once," I said, "and perhaps I had better tell her; she might receive your account with suspicion. Who is captain of her guard to-night?"

"Good."

"Very well, then, there will be no chance of her being got at. Don't look surprised. I don't think that her sister would stick at that. I suppose one must tell Good of what has happened."

"Oh, I don't know," said Sir Henry. "It would hurt his feelings, poor fellow! You see, he takes a lively personal interest in Sorais."

"That's true; and after all perhaps there is no need to tell him. He will find out the truth soon enough. Now, you mark my words: Sorais will throw in her lot with Nasta, who is sulking up in the north there, and there will be such a war as has not been known in Zu-Vendis for centuries. Look there!" and I pointed to two court messengers who were speeding away from the door of Sorais' private apartments. "Now follow me," and I ran up a stairway into an outlook tower that rose from the roof of our quarters, taking the spy glass with me, and looked out over the palace wall. The first thing we saw was one of the messengers speeding towards the temple, bearing, without doubt, the queen's word to the High Priest Agon, but for the other I searched in vain. Presently, however, I spied a horseman rushing furiously through the northern gate of the city, and in him I recognized the other messenger.

"Ah!" I said, "Sorais is a woman of spirit. She is acting at once, and will strike quick and hard. You have insulted her, my boy, and blood will flow in rivers before the stain is washed away, and yours with it if she can get hold of you. Well, I'm off to Nyleptha. Just stop where you are, old fellow, and try to get your nerves straight again. You'll need them all, I can tell you, unless I have observed human nature in the rough for fifty years for nothing." And off I went accordingly.

I gained audience of the queen without trouble. She was expecting Curtis, and was not best pleased to see my mahogany colored face instead.

"Is there aught wrong with my lord, Macumazahn, that he waits not upon me? Say, is he sick?"

I said that he was well enough, and then, without further ado, I plunged into my story and told it from beginning to end. Oh, what a rage she flew into! It was a sight to see her, she looked so lovely.

"How darest thou come to me with such a tale!" she cried. "It is a lie to say that my lord was making love to Sorais, my sister."

"Pardon me, O queen," I answered; "I said that Sorais was making love to your lord."

"Spin me no spiders' webs of words. Is not the thing the same thing? The one giveth, the other taketh; but the gift passes, and what matters it which is the most guilty? Sorais—oh, I hate her!—Sorais is a queen and my sister. She had not stooped so low had he not shown the way. Oh, truly hath the poet said that man is like a snake, whom to touch is poison, and whom none can hold."

"The remark, O queen, is excellent, but methinks thou hast misread the poet. Nyleptha," I went on, "thou knowest well that thy words are empty foolishness—that this is no time for folly."

"How darest thou?" she broke in, stamping her foot. "Has my false lord sent thee to me to insult me also? Who art thou, stranger, thou shouldst speak to me, the queen, after this sort? How darest thou?"

"Yea, I dare. Listen. The moments which thou dost waste in idle anger may well cost thee thy crown and all of us our lives. Already Sorais' horsemen go forth and call to arms. In three days' time Nasta will rouse himself in his fastnesses like a lion in the evening, and his growling will be heard throughout the north. 'The Lady of the Night'" (Sorais) "hath a sweet voice, and she will not sing in vain. Her banner will be borne from range to range and valley to valley, and warriors will spring up in its track like dust beneath a whirlwind; half the army will echo her war cry; and in every town and hamlet of this wide land the priests will call out against the foreigner, and will preach her cause as holy. I have spoken, O queen."

Nyleptha was quite calm now; her jealous anger had passed; and putting off the character of a lovely, headstrong lady, she, with a rapidity and completeness that distinguished her, put on that of a queen and a woman of business. The transformation was sudden but entire.

"Thy words are very wise, Macumazahn. Forgive me my folly. Ah, what a queen I should be if only I had no heart! To be heartless—that is to conquer all. Passion is like the lightning; it is beautiful, and it links the earth to heaven, but alas, it blinds!

"And thou thinkest that my sister Sorais would levy war upon me. So be it. She shall not prevail against me. I, too, have my friends and my retainers. There are many, I say, who will s'out 'Nyleptha!' when my pennon runs up on peak and pinnacle, and the light of my watch fires leaps to-night from crag to crag bearing the message of my war. I will break her strength and scatter her armies. Eternal night shall be the portion of the 'Lady of the Night.' Give me that parchment and the ink. So. Now summon me the officer in the ante room. He is a trusty man."

I did as I was bid, and the man, a veteran their tribesmen and retainers. Sealed orders were dispatched to the rulers of far off cities, and some twenty messengers were sent off before nightfall with instructions to ride early and late till they reached the distant chiefs to whom their letters were addressed; also many spies were set to work. All the afternoon and evening we labored, assisted by some confidential scribes, Nyleptha showing an energy and resource of mind that astonished me, and it was 8 o'clock before we got back to our quarters. Here we heard from Alphonse, who was deeply aggrieved because our non-return had spoiled his dinner (for he had turned cook again now), that Good had come back from his hawking and gone on duty. As instructions had already been given to the officer of the outer guard to double the sentries at the gate, and as we had no reason to fear any immediate danger, we did not think it worth while to hunt him up and tell him anything of what had passed, which at best was, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, one of those tasks one prefers to postpone; so, after swallowing our food, we turned in to get some much needed rest. Before we did so, however, it occurred to Curtis to tell old Umslopogaas to keep a lookout in the neighborhood of Nyleptha's private apartments. Umslopogaas was now well known about the place, and by the queen's order allowed to pass whither he would by the guards; a permission of which he often availed himself by roaming about the palace during the still hours in a nocturnal fashion that he favored, and which is by no means uncommon among black men generally. His presence in the corridors would not, therefore, be likely to excite remark. Without any comment the Zulu took up his ax and departed, and we also departed to bed.

I seemed to have been asleep but a few minutes when I was awakened by a peculiar sensation of uneasiness. I felt that somebody was in the room and looking at me, and instantly sat up, to see to my surprise that it was already dawn, and that there, standing at the foot of my couch, and looking peculiarly grim and gaunt in the gray light, was Umslopogaas himself.

"How long hast thou been there?" I asked, testily, for it is not pleasant to be aroused in such a fashion.

"Mayhap the half of an hour, Macumazahn. I have a word for thee."

"Speak on," I said, now wide enough awake.

"As I was bid, I went last night to the place of the White Queen, and hid myself behind a pillar in the second anteroom, beyond which is the sleeping place of the queen. Bougwan (Good) was in the first anteroom alone, and outside the curtain of that room was a sentry; but I had a mind to see if I could pass in unseen, and I did, gliding behind them both. There I waited for many hours, when suddenly I perceived a dark figure coming secretly toward me. It was the figure of a woman, and in her hand she held a dagger. Behind that figure crept another, unseen by the woman. It was Bougwan following in her tracks. His shoes were off, and for so fat a man he followed very well. The woman passed me, and the starlight shone upon her face."

"Who was it?" I asked, impatiently.

"The face was the face of the 'Lady of the Night,' and of a truth she is well named.

"I waited, and Bougwan passed me also. Then I followed. So we went slowly and without a sound up the long chamber; first the woman, then Bougwan, and then I; and the woman saw not Bougwan, and Bougwan saw not me. At last the 'Lady of the Night' came to the curtains that shut off the sleeping place of the White Queen, and put out her left hand to part them. She passed through, and so did Bougwan, and so did I. At the far end of the room is the bed of the queen, and on it she lay very fast asleep. I could hear her breathe, and see one white arm lying on the coverlid like a streak of snow on the dry grass. The 'Lady of the Night' doubled herself thus, and with the long knife lifted crept towards the bed. So straight did she gaze thereat that she never thought to look behind her. When she was quite close Bougwan touched her on the arm, and she caught her breath and turned, and I saw the knife flash, and heard it strike. Well was it for Bougwan that he had the skin of and quiet looking gentleman of the guard, named Kara, entered, bowing low.

"Take this parchment," said Nyleptha; "it is thy warrant, and guard every place of in and out going in the apartments of my sister Sorais, 'Lady of the Night,' and a queen of the Zu-Vendi. Let none come in and none go out, or thy life shall pay the cost."

The man looked startled, but he merely said, "The queen's word shall be done" and departed. Then Nyleptha sent a messenger to Sir Henry, and presently he arrived, looking uncommonly uncomfortable. I thought that another outburst was about to follow, but wonderful are the ways of women. She said not a word about Sorais and his supposed inconstancy, greeting him with a friendly nod and stating simply that she required his advice upon high matters. All the same there was a look in her eye and a sort of suppressed energy in her manner toward him that made me think she had not forgotten the affair, but was keeping it for a private occasion.

Just after Curtis arrived the officer returned, and reported that Sorais was gone. The bird had flown to the temple, stating that she was going, as was sometimes the custom among Zu-Vendi ladies of rank, to spend the night in meditation before the altar. We looked at each other significantly. The blow had fallen very soon.

Then we set to work.

Generals who could be trusted were summoned from their quarters, and as much of the state affairs as was thought desirable was told to each, strict injunctions being given to them to get all their available force together. The same was done with such of the more powerful lords as Nyleptha knew she could rely on, several of whom left that very day for distant parts of the country to gather up iron on him, or he had been pierced. Then for the first time he saw who the woman was, and without a word he fell back astonished and unable to speak. She, too, was astonished, and spoke not; but suddenly she laid her finger on her lip, thus, and walked toward and through the curtain, and with her went Bougwan. So close did she pass to me that her dress touched me, and I was nigh to slaying her as she went. In the first outer room she spoke to Bougwan in a whisper, and clasping her hands thus she pleaded with him, but what she said I know not. And so they passed on to the second outer room, she pleading, and he shaking his head, and saying, 'Nay nay, nay.' And it seemed to me that he was about to call the guard, when she stopped talking and looked at him with great eyes, and I saw that he was bewitched by her beauty. Then she stretched out her hand, and he kissed it, whereon I gathered myself together to advance and take her, seeing that now had Bougwan become a woman, and no longer knew the good from the evil, when behold! she was gone."

"Gone!" I ejaculated.

"Ay, gone; and there stood Bougwan staring at the wall like one asleep, and presently he went too, and I waited a while and came away also."

"Art thou sure, Umslopogaas," said I, "that thou hast not been a dreamer this night?"

In reply he opened his left hand, and produced about three inches of the blade of a dagger of the finest steel. "If I be, Macumazahn, behold what the dream left with me. The knife broke upon Bougwan's bosom, and as I passed I picked this up in the sleeping place of the White Queen."

To be Continued.

Chicago has some appropriately named citizens. A man named Anguish is a dealer in green fruit, while a Mr. Culcher represents a Boston firm that manufactures buttons.

The Rage for Ribbons.

There is a rage for velvet or moire ribbon garnitures abroad. They are used upon every style of dress from lawn to Lyons satin, to drape skirts, to trim whole costumes, to decorate matinees, tea-gowns, "hammock toilets," wraps, bonnets, parasols, and to run through the open-work meshes of fancy lace. The ribbons are also used with a lavish hand upon white lace dresses and for braces, shoulder knots and bretelles. Lattice straps of velvet arranged across the chest over guimps and smocked plastrons of crepe lisse or tulle, with dog collar and Swiss girdle to match, are made to enrich the dainty summer dresses, even those of the most inexpensive kinds. Velvet bodices, with short sleeves trimmed with white lace, cut in a deep square or V-shape in the neck, are worn with diaphanous toilets of every description, except those made with a long train. Rows of watered ribbon set on in straight lines are seen upon many of the plainly cut skirts of walking and visiting dresses recently sent from London and Paris.—N. Y. Post

Camphor-Making in Japan.

Camphor is made in Japan in this way: After a tree is felled it is cut up into chips, which are laid in a tub or a large iron not partially filled with water and placed over a slow fire. Through holes in the bottom of the tub steam slowly rises, and heating the chips generates oil and camphor. Of course, the tubs with the chips has a closely-fitting cover. From this cover a bamboo pipe leads to a succession of other tubs with bamboo connections, and the last of these tubs is divided into two compartments, one above the other, the dividing floor being perforated with small holes to allow the water and the oil to pass to the lower compartment. The upper compartment is supplied with a straw layer, which catches and holds the camphor in crystal in deposit as it passes to the cooling process. The camphor is then separated from the straw, packed in wooden tubs, and is ready for market. The oil is used by the natives for illuminating and medical purposes.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

As Miss Angelina, who lives at the South End, came down to breakfast the other morning, looking a trifle pale but happy, her mother, looking sternly at the daughter, cleared her throat and remarked in a serious tone of voice:

"My dear, Edwin staid much later than usual last night, did he not?"

"O, no, mother."

"Be careful, my child; I am quite sure of it."

"No, indeed, mother, he didn't stay at all late. Why, what makes you think he did?"

"Because I happened to be awake when he was going out, and I heard him whisper to you at the door, 'Just one!'"—Boston Transcript.

A VERY LUCKY MAN.

Jacob Pohley Wins $30,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery.

"Is this Mr. Pohley?"

"I think I am Mr. Pohley. There isn't really any doubt of it in my mind, but until a week ago I was plain Jacob Pohley, and the change to 'Mister' is a trifle sudden. Everybody who has read of my good fortune calls me 'Mister.' I suppose you are a reporter?"

"Yes. Tell me of your good luck."

"Well, I bought a couple of coupons for The Louisiana State Lottery from a man on the street and they were loaded—loaded right to the muzzle."

"How much did you catch?"

"Just $30,000!" and Mr. Pohley toyed carelessly with his watch chain, giving the reporter a chance to recover his breath. "That was all—just $30,000. He emphasized the "just" and repeated the figures with great satisfaction.

"Have you received your $30,000?"

"Yes, indeed: and it isn't going to get very far away from me. I am going to put it into real estate. Very likely I will continue my present business of cigar solicitor. I'll give my four children a good education, and my wife, who is very much excited and greatly pleased over my good fortune, will have a much better time now. I have been buying tickets for some time in the Louisana State Lottery, and 'caught on' once before, but not to the extent of just $30,000."

Mr. Pohley has a very pleasant home on San Pablo avenue, Berkeley, and his neighbors rejoice in his good luck.—San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle, July 28th.

CASH ADVANCED.

Farmers, merchants and brokers at times find themselves so placed as to be forced to raise money on short notice. To such we would say go to the PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, where a large amount of money is always on hand, which will be let out on good securities and easy terms.

—An author was recently asked for a list of the best hundred books. With calm courtesy he replied that he had not yet written quite a hundred.—Western Rural.

—Teacher (to class)—"In this stanza, what is meant by the line: 'The shades of night were falling fast?'" Bright scholar—"The people were pulling down the blinds."—Puck.

—Mr. Cumso—"I saw an obese woman as I came—" Mrs. Cumso (interrupting)—"Well, I think it's about time they stopped the immigration of these vile foreigners."—America.

HAMBURG FIGS (Medicated) are a crystallized fruit Cathartic.

HAMBURG FIGS are a discovery of the greatest interest to the medical profession.

HAMBURG FIGS are a boon to every household.

HAMBURG FIGS are a most delicious laxative, or purgative, prepared from fruit and vegetables.

HAMBURG FIGS are so perfectly harmless that they may be administered with entire safety to an infant.

HAMBURG FIGS are so efficacious to adults that a single dose will prove their value.

HAMBURG FIGS are so elegantly prepared that they need only to be presented to the public to become a necessity in every household throughout the land.

HAMBURG FIGS, 25 cents a box. Dose, one Fig.

Dujardin's Life Essence has a marked effect on the sexual organs, restoring the torpid nerves, and soothing irritability. It is the only reliable and effective remedy that we have. It is very palatable also. Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

—You can know something of the inner nature of a man by noting his favorite amusements. An evil-hearted person naturally turns now and then to some sinful or questionable diversion and the zest of his enjoyment will betray him, no matter how correct his ordinary, outward life may be.—Interior.

—Don't judge a man by the clothes he wears. God made one and the tailor the other. Don't judge him by his family, for Cain belonged to a good family. Don't judge a man by his failure in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed. Don't judge a man by the house he lives in, for the lizard and the rat often inhabit the grander structures.—Wharton (Tex.) Independent.

—Divorce yourself from fret, worry and grumbling or talking about your health. Never ask persons about their health or stories of pet ailments; as all such talk is a welcome to the complaints and a call for them to come to you and abide with you. Nine-tenths of the ills that bother people come from the fret and inquisitiveness—thus absorbing the aches of action. Trust your stomach and your brain as friends, and they will escort you past hundreds of funerals and to fun, frolic and usefulness.—Advance Thought.

HELPING THE RIGHT SIDE.

To help the right side is not only commendable in a general point of view, but is judicious and prudent when that help is enlisted in behalf of the right side of the body, just over the lower ribs in the region of the liver. The most efficient help is afforded by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an anti-bilious medicine of incomparable efficacy. Inaction of the liver is accompanied by constipation, sick-headache, furred tongue, nausea, occasional vertigo, an unpleasant breath, yellowness of the skin and ball of the eye. The author of these symptoms, liver complaint, routed by the Bitters is accompanied by them in its flight. Fever and ague, which always involves the liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, debility and kidney troubles are all maladies to the early relief and final cure of which this standard medicine is adapted. Don't use it by fits and starts, but systematically, that its full effects may result in a perfect restoration of health.

Who thinks at midnight morn will ever dawn?
Who knows, far out at sea, that anywhere s land? And yet a shore
Hath set behind us and will rise before.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The master car-builders have decided that if railway cars are to be heated by steam the pressure should be very low.

WAS AMERICA EVER DISCOVERED?

At the time when Columbus started in search of the New World, nearly ever man, woman and child in Europe insisted that there was no New World to discover. When he came back, crowned with success, a large proportion of these good people adhered to their theory; and if they were alive to-day many of them would doubtless insist that America had never been discovered at all. A man will give up anything in the world more readily than a pet theory. For example, look at the individuals who still maintain that consumption is incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands upon thousands of cases, and will cure thousands more, but these people can't give up their point. Nevertheless the "Discovery" will cure any case of consumption, if taken in time.

Paper pipes have been used for a church organ at Milan and give great sweetness of tone.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and Blood Diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

SARSAPARILLA YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors
417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 323.

Saccharine, which was to be used for a substitute for sugar, appears to cause nausea and dyspeptic symptoms.

PENALTIES OF IMPRUDENCE.

Summer is at hand—the time of year when old heads and young become imprudent, get over-heated, cool off suddenly, catch cold, headache, nervous disorders, and a thousand and one other troubles. Preaching prudence is played out. The only thing to do is—after you have contracted one or more of these pains—to cure yourself as quickly as possible. Small pains are not to be neglected except at the risk of serious consequences. Remove them at once. It can be done by an application of one or more of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, recognized the world over as the best external remedy ever made. Mind you, don't neglect your little ills. They outgrow everything else and if let alone cost you more than you can ever know. Remember ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS.

THE BALDWIN.

Since the elaborate refurnishing of the Baldwin Hotel and the popular management of its well known proprietor, Mr. E. J. Balwin and his competent assistants, the house has attained a wide spread popularity, which it well deserves. It is the model hotel of San Francisco.

"Emmensite" is the name of a non-explosive by which it is claimed that with a gun forty feet long a projectile can be thrown twenty-seven miles.

For constipation, "liver complaint," or biliousness, sick headache, and all diseases arising from a disordered condition of the liver and stomach, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets—a gentle laxative or active cathartic, according to size of dose.

Galvanized lemon-squeezers poison the juice by the zinc which it dissolves from them.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, Sleeplessness, etc. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

Photographs have been taken by the light from a fireplace.

Chronic nasal catarrh positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy.

Chaussier dried a man in a kiln and there resulted only twelve pounds of solid matter.

COUGHS.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are a sure remedy for Coughs and Sore Throat. 25 cts. a box.

HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE is fast establishing a reputation abroad. That reminds us, a St. Louis druggist sends annually to his old home in Germany a supply of this exquisite perfume.

When visiting San Francisco, stop at the famous Baldwin Hotel, cor. Market, Powell and Eddy Sts. It is the best first-class hotel in the city.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

AGENTS! AN ACTIVE AGENT WANTED in each county for the two best campaign books in the market—Harrison and Morton, and Cleveland and Thurman. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, corner Fourth and Market streets.

AGENTS! ACTIVE AGENTS WANTED for "The Life of General Sheridan"; a popular hero; a popular book at a popular price. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, cor Fourth and Market streets.

PATENT TYPE FOUNDERS OUTSIDES

Palmer & Rey, 405 and 407 Sansome St., S. F., Cal. Makers of Printing Presses.

Upright Steam Engines and Boilers. Stereotypers, Electrotypers, Zincographers, Wood Engravers.

Also Makers and Patentees of the Automatic Stereo News Plates.

Printers of Patent Outsides, Insides and Supplements. All orders promptly attended to.

REWARD! $1000 Will be paid for each and every grain of poisonous substances found in Wisdom's Robertine, acknowledge the most delightful and only really harmless toilet article ever produced for beautifying and preserving the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all blemishes and roughness of the skin. Used and endorsed by the elite of society and the stage. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per bottle. White and Flesh. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, Agents.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

1 has been before the public now about ten years, and in that time has proved itself to be all that it has been represented.

2 It is purely vegetable, contains nothing harmful, and DOES purify the blood and CURE disease, as it puts the kidneys, the only blood-purifying organs, in complete health.

3 It Cures Permanently. We have tens of thousands of testimonials to this effect from people who were cured years ago and who are well to-day.

It is a Scientific Specific, was not put upon the market until thoroughly tested, and has the endorsement of Prof. S. A. Lattimore, M. A., Ph., LL. D., Official Analyst of foods and medicines, N. Y. State Board of Health, and scores of eminent chemists, physicians and professional experts. 4

H. H. Warner & Co., do not cure everything from one bottle, they having a specific for each important disease. Fight shy of any preparation which claims in fallibility. 5

The testimonials printed by H. H. Warner & Co. are, so far as they know, positively genuine. For the past five years they have had a standing offer of $5,000 for proof to the contrary. If you are sick and want to get well, use 6

CAMPAIGN HANDKERCHIEFS, Republican Flags, DEMOCRATIC BANDANAS.

PURE SILK.....75 CENTS
COTTON.....10 CENTS.

Cleveland or Harrison Campaign Buttons, 25 Cents Each.

Wolf & Frank

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS, 232 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Orders by mail promptly filled.

TO THE LADIES!

Jacobs & Co.

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANT'S WEAR. 113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

ASTHMA CURED

German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. Dr. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —
DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD
USE
DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.
ABSOLUTELY PURE.
ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.

THE COW BRAND.

Paine's Celery Compound

For The NERVOUS
The DEBILITATED
The AGED.

A NERVE TONIC.
Celery and Coca, the prominent ingredients, are the best and safest Nerve Tonics. It strengthens and quiets the nervous system, curing Nervous Weakness, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, &c.

AN ALTERATIVE.
It drives out the poisonous humors of the blood purifying and enriching it, and so overcoming those diseases resulting from impure or impoverished blood.

A LAXATIVE.
Acting mildly but surely on the bowels it cures habitual constipation, and promotes a regular habit. It strengthens the stomach, and aids digestion.

A DIURETIC.
In its composition the best and most active diuretics of the Materia Medica are combined scientifically with other effective remedies for diseases of the kidneys. It can be relied on to give quick relief and speedy cure.

Hundreds of testimonials have been received from persons who have used this remedy with remarkable benefit. Send for circulars, giving full particulars.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Prop'r
BURLINGTON, VT.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.

PACIFIC BANK

Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $ 700,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.

Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.

R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1st, 1888.

PACIFIC BANK,
JULY 2d, 1888.
The usual Semi-Annual Dividend of
4 PER CENT.
Is now due and payable to shareholders of the Pacific Bank.

We take pleasure in informing our shareholders that the close of the first half of 1888 finds our institution in a most prosperous condition.

In addition to paying the regular dividend, we have been enabled to add another $50,000 to the Surplus Fund.

R. H McDONALD, Pres't.

"SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" PLUG CUT

SMOKING TOBACCO.
Selected with great care from the choicest tobacco regions of North Carolina,
Smokes Cool—Lasts Long—Does not blow out the Pipe.
It is the undisputed leader of Plug Cut Smoking Tobacco throughout the world.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by

GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

"You suit me in Dry Goods and Shoes better than I can suit myself when I come to town." H. E. Livingston, August 1, 1888.

"The Goods you sent came through safely and give good satisfaction. I will order again." M. E. L. Salinas, July 26th.

"The Tea I got from you at 35c is as good as I pay 75c for here." R. M. Marshfield, Or., June 20th.

"Send me about 40 to 45 yards of Marysville Red Flannel, same as you sent me before at 60c. We have to pay $1 per yard here for same quality." Missoula, M. T., July 31st. J. A. P.

"My goods came to hand in good time. Were well packed. Not a piece of the Crockery or Glassware broken. Many thanks. I will send for a large order of family supplies for Winter use in October." Austin, Nev., August 3, 1888. J. W.

The above are only a few of the many letters which we receive from those who have been our patrons for years. It is gratifying to us to know that our labors are appreciated by those we strive so hard to please. We shall certainly increase our sales 50 per cent this year, and, if the readers of this paper will help us, may be able to double, which shall be to their benefit. The more we buy the cheaper we can sell. Send for new Price List. Sample free. Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, S. F. Cal.

A Good Chance!

WANTED—An Active, Energetic Man or Lady, to represent us in their county for the fastest and best selling line of subscription books ever published. Also bibles, albums, etc. Liberal Salary or Commission to right party. Address with stamp, W. F. Gibson & Co., 1003½ Broadway, Oakland, Cal.

STEINWAY, KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Prevents Contagion. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, O. Trade Mark.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... OCTOBER 6, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 17. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 6, 1888. WHOLE NO. 936.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Basic slag, the refuse of steel works when freed from iron and reduced to powder, proves to be a valuable fertilizer.

—"Do they miss me at home?" is the favorite song of the Burlingtonian whose wife and grown up daughters are fond of pegging plates and chunks of coal at him.—Burlington Free Press.

—Some laborious statistician figures it out that in each minute in the United States, night and day, all the year round, twenty-four barrels of beer have to go down 12,096 throats, and 4,830 bushels of grain have come to bin.

—William Penn, when laying out the city of Philadelphia in 1682, is said to have modeled it on a design of ancient Babylon, and expressed a desire that Philadelphia should be a "green country town, which would never be burnt up and always wholesome."

—Sacramento, Cal., is virtually a city without laws. In a trial a few days ago the fact was brought out that the ordinances now used were never ordered or accepted by the City Trustees, or appeared, as required by law, in any newspaper, and there is no record to show that they were adopted.

—Uncouth Young Man—"May I kiss you, Miss Jones?" Miss Jones (indignantly)—"What do you mean, sir?" U. Y. M. (surprised)—"Don't you know what a kiss is yet? Well, you are the funniest girl I ever saw. Guess you'd better study the dictionary awhile. Good evening."—Toledo Bee.

—"Well, James," said the chiropodist, "we must keep up with the times. Look at this new sign." "Capital!" exclaimed the assistant. "That will surely catch the public." Then he went out and tacked up a sign that read: "Corns Removed While You Wait."—Detroit Free Press.

—According to the Engineering and Mining Journal, the Panama Canal uses about 100,000 tons of coal a year, and buys almost exclusively the best so-called "smokeless" Welsh coal. Owing to the great number of engines at work on some sections of the canal and the heavy atmosphere, the "smoke nuisance" is very great, and the use of anthracite has been suggested.

—A nine-year-old girl, spending the summer in a country boarding-house, was a favorite with her fellow-boarders on account of her beauty and sprightliness. One of them was so devoted that his attentions became annoying to her. One day she said to her mother, "Do you think Mr. Brown ought to call me a puny devil?" "Why, no, my dear, of course not. But are you sure he did?" "He called me an imp; and I looked in the dictionary to see what it meant, and it said a 'puny devil.'"—Home Life.

—A true story of the perplexity of a graduate of the Boston English High School over a word that he found occurring with vexatious frequency in the foot-notes of a work that he read recently: "Do you know," he asked, "who Ibid, the author, was? I've been reading a book that has lots of extracts from his writings in it, and I can't find his name in any encyclopedia." The young man was told that he was a relative of the distinguished author, Anon, who has written some of the most beautiful things in the English language.—Boston Transcript.

—A lawyer living in a town near Waterbury Conn., states a fact which well illustrates the thrift and frugality which characterize many of the old families which have not been touched by modern extravagance and love of display. In that town three estates have been settled within a few months aggregating property to the amount of $700,000, and yet he says if all the household furniture of those three families had been sold at the best possible price the amount received for it would not have amounted at the outside to over $300. It is too often the habit now to have thousand-dollar furnishings for hundred-dollar estates.

A POWERFUL MAGNET.

The Almost Incredible Force Necessary to Overcome Its Attraction.

A most interesting electrical experiment has recently been made at the engineering station of the United States army at Willett's Point, L. I., by Major W. R. King, of the Engineer Corps, by which he transformed two fifteen-inch Rodman guns, weighing 50,000 pounds each, into an immense electro-magnet. The guns were placed side by side, and joined at the breech by a number of pieces of railroad iron. The guns were then wrapt separately by fine insulated copper wire, over eight miles of it being used. The wire used was an old torpedo cable consist- of forty small insulated wires bound together into a cable of about three-eighths of an inch in diameter. The electricity was obtained from a twenty-arc light Weston dynamo.

A number of experiments were made with this most powerful magnet, and it was found that a force of 20,600 pounds was necessary to overcome the magnet's attraction and draw the armature from it. A string of four fifteen-inch shells, weighing 320 pounds each, was suspended from one of the guns. It was discovered in the course of the experiments that there was a point in the bore of the guns, and seven and one-half inches from the muzzle, where the magnet repelled instead of attracting. Small pieces of iron were propelled from it with force, while a shell placed at that point was rolled slowly out of the gun until it dropped from the muzzle and was caught by the attracting force at the mouth of the gun.

It is thought that the power of the magnet would have been greatly increased if more wire had been used in the wrapping and if more railroad iron had been used in connecting the guns at the breech.—N. Y. Mail.

RUSSIAN STUDENTS.

How They Are Watched and Persecuted by Government Spies.

It is not a pleasant thing to be a student in a Russian college or high school. If the students have a grievance, it is not to the newspapers of Russia that they send their complaints, for no Russian editor would dare to print them. The news is forwarded to the London Times. At this moment people of England and the United States know more of what has recently passed in the University of Moscow than do the inhabitants of Moscow who live within half a mile of the institution.

A Moscow student wrote lately to the Times to explain the riots which have broken out in several university towns between the students and the police authorities. He says that Russian students, since the accession of the present Czar, have been watched and worried as if they were inmates of a reformatory prison. They do not enjoy the freedom of a peasant.

Rules of the most minute description are laid down for them, extending even to the cut of their hair, the style of their clothes, the choice of their companions, and the nature of their amusements, to say nothing of the sleepless espionage of their reading, writing and conversation. Detectives are ever on the alert to catch delinquents, and the slightest infraction of the most trifling rule is followed by the penalty.

The consequence of this policy is that every college is in a chronic state of suppressed rebellion, which a very small matter may kindle into activity. The last Moscow riot originated at an evening concert given by the students, which was, as a matter of course, attended by police inspectors, one of whom had made himself particularly odious to all the students of the Empire by his superserviceable zeal.

This man publicly reprimanded one of the law students, who replied to him. The inspector responded. An altercation arose, in the course of which the student, amid the applause of the whole body of his comrades, seven hundred in number, boxed the inspector's ears.

The next day a higher officer of police continued and increased the excitement by addressing the students on the affair, and pretending that the applause which had followed the boxing of the ears was an expression of the students' sympathy with the person boxed. A storm of hisses greeted this absurd remark, and finally the students were provoked to open riot. There were tumultuous proceedings of many kinds, until the young men were charged by a division of mounted Cossacks, and all their attemps to meet were forcibly prevented by armed men.

But the affair quieted down, and the classes went on as usual, except that the University was surrounded by bands of Cossacks, and every door within the building was guarded by a policeman. Not one word of these events was published in the Moscow press, and nothing was known of them except to eye-witnesses.—Youth's Companion.

RANK IN BURMAH.

It is Indicated by the Number of Umbrellas a Man Carries.

The number of umbrellas which may be carried before each noble, to denote his rank, is accurately defined by imperial grant, this being the Burmese form of letters patent of nobility. These umbrellas are single, whereas in the regal sunshine concentrated honor is implied by multiplied canopies, as shown in one of the pyramidal form found in the palace of Mandalay.

Of the golden umbrella as an ecclesiastical distinction special mention is made in a curious letter which, in the year 1802, was addressed by the great high priest of Burmah to the Buddhist priesthood of Ceylon, on the occasion of the arrival in Burmah of six Cingalese priests, who had journeyed thither to desire ordination to the highest order of the priesthood. The letter tells of the magnificent ceremonial with which the event was celebrated by the order of the king, "Lord of the White Elephants," and how the candidates had been placed on golden howdahs, borne by the stateliest elephants, and thus led in procession through the streets of Amarapoora, attended by all the great dignitaries of the empire and preceded by all the insignia of royalty, while over each priest were held two superb golden umbrellas, shining like the morning sun.

So prominent is the position assigned in Burmah to this quaint symbol that it generally attracts the special notice of travelers. Thus, when, in 1870, Mr. Cushing visited the Province of Kiang Tung and was admitted to an audience with the tsaubwa or ruler of the province, he tells us how, on entering a fine hall, with four rows of pillars, he preceived the gilded throne on a raised dais, between the central pillars. On either side were seated a row of high dignitaries, those of the highest rank being provided with velvet cushions, and all around the throne were grouped white, yellow and golden umbrellas and other emblems of princely rank.

In like manner in China, whenever you chance to meet any great man on his way to pay an official visit or on his travels, you can tell his true rank by a glance at the great symbolic red umbrella, which is carried before him among many other insignia of State, such as banners and huge fans, borne on tall poles and displaying dragons and representations of the sun.—English Illustrated Magazine.

—The idea of zinc pads under a draught horse's collar was original with an Englishman, and he sold his knowledge to a Yankee for a glass of of beer.

HUNTING WILD BOARS.

A Burmese Sport Which is Dangerous as Well as Exciting.

Wild boars were reported to us by a neighboring farmer as having been seen in a large patch of canes by the river. As these wild hogs do a great deal of damage to the growing crops, the farmers are always prompt in letting the white hunters know whenever the pests make their appearance. So off we started for the fray very early one morning before sunrise, this being the correct time to enjoy the sport. The beaters were previously sent forward to surround the brake. We were mounted on tats, diminutive but stout ponies, which are far better suited for this sport than horses are. Our weapons of offense consisted of light yet strong, well-balanced lances or spears, ranging from five feet upward in length, made out of bamboos or lancewood, which latter somewhat resembles ash in general toughness. These spears are fitted with steel heads ground to a sharp point, not barbed. A keen-bladed hunting-knife, to administer the coup de grace if necessary, completed our outfit. Most of these knives came from India, where very fine cutlery is made, the steel being finely tempered and flexible. I possessed an invaluable one, which I had brought from Afghanistan, captured from a hill chief during one of the wars in that country. A griffin, as a new arrival is called in India, has to take several lessons in the use and management of this boar-spear, when mounted, before he can venture to take part in the danger and excitement of pig-sticking. It is a hazardous sport at the best, but doubly so for a new-comer. When we reached the place, which was just beyond one side of the brake where the boars were lying perdu, we ordered the beaters to go ahead. They formed a semi-circular line around three sides of the brake a few paces only from each other, then proceeded slowly through the canes, the circle gradually straightening, beating sticks together, and shouting. The boars, alarmed, ran out of their concealment by the only way open, which was the side where their mounted enemies awaited their coming. When the tusked monsters appeared each cavalier selected his boar, and rode with couched spear full at him. If the boar was missed, or only slightly wounded, he in turn became the assailant, and it required much skill in horsemanship to avoid the savage onslaught. He will, with one vigorous push, rip up your pony's belly, perhaps mangling one of your legs with his tusks, which are quite as dangerous weapons against you as your spear is to him. The whole secret of successful pig-sticking lies in the knack and practiced adroitness with which the boar is manipulated. You must not gallop at the boar full tilt with spear held firm; you would not be able to stand the shock. The spear would probably be shivered into splinters or broken off short in your hand, and you roughly hurled from your saddle on to the earth, where the infuriated hog would soon gore you to death. You must be careful on striking the boar dexterously to withdraw the spear by a quick turn of the wrist as you gallop on. A skillful hunter will, with one well-aimed thrust, pierce the boar's heart, killing him instantly. We managed to kill the whole drove, numbering seven, that morning, without any casualty to ourselves. The tusks are very handsome and are made into a variety of articles, such as hilts of daggers, handles of hunting and carving knives, paper knives, inkstands, and candlesticks inlaid with silver. The workers in ivory carve with much good taste and execution, the figures especially being well done and lifelike. It is interesting to watch these men at work; they squat on their hams, curving their limbs around and holding the ivory between their feet, using their toes, which are long and flexible, as fingers. Thus their hands are left free to use in the actual work of carving. They take a long time to carve any work of special importance. A fine set of ivory chessmen, carved in character, each one a finished representative of the piece, often takes over a year to complete. Some handsome sets have even taken longer. But time with Orientals is not valued. The workman is making his living and putting in his alloted span of existence upon earth, and that is all he cares for.—Charles Aubrey, in San Francisco Chronicle.

Copperas as a Fertilizer.

Favorable reports from France regarding copperas as a fertilizer have caused considerable inquiry of late. Copperas has been recommended from abroad as a valuable dressing for different crops. It is claimed that copperas prevents mildew, and a very weak solution destroys moss, etc., the spores of mildew. An explanation of the favorable effect of copperas is that it increases the power of the plant for assimilation; there is a large percentage of fiber and nitrogen, but the increased crops are not due to a supply of sulphuric acid by the copperas, as super-phosphates containing an abundance of the acid proved to have less effect. One of the Connecticut station bulletins cites an instance where copperas was used as an experiment in this country on corn with good results. The chemist of the station, while approving of more experiments in this direction, does not believe that copperas will be found generally helpful. He points out that it will be injurious to plants when applied in too large quantities, but that it may be found of advantage on rich garden land that has had an abundance of other fertilizer material for many years. The general belief in this country is that copperas as a fertilizer has little if any value.—N. Y. World.

USES OF PARAFFINE.

How Mineral Oils Have Served to Lessen Many Kinds of Labor.

There seems no end to the multitudious fashions in which mineral oils come to the aid of man. And yet how very recently have these uses been discovered. But a few years have elapsed since the days when the red Indians of North and South America, the tribes on the shores of the Caspian and Red Seas, in short, primitive man, wherever dirty black grease, oozing through dark mud, smoothed the water of sluggish streams—brought their sick, suffering from cutaneous and rheumatic diseases, to be healed. Accident and experience had taught them this value of that floating oil, but that was all.

The so-called fire-worshipers (attracted by the weird flames which sometimes played on the mountain side, kindled by the spontaneous ignition of gases) had indeed erected a temple at Baku, where the sacred fire was fed direct from the soil; but it had not then occured to enterprising men that the oil which floated on the lake, and which, when ignited by means of blazing straw, produced such fairy-like illumination, could be turned to account; nor could the wildest dreams of the earliest oil prospectors on the Caspian or in the United States have conceived the possibility of a commercial success so amazing as that of the oil traffic which has been developed within the last thirty years. Paraffine has well nigh supplanted the various oils and greases previously in use throughout the whole world, even to the remotest Hawaiian, Tahitian or Fiji isles, where the cocoa palm has ever afforded the purest of vegetable oil.

Nor as an illuminant alone has the kindly earth-oil been turned to use. It has revealed such precious properties of soothing and healing, such excelence as lubricating oil for machinery; it has yielded such varied preparations of vasaline for wounds and for toilet purposes, that merely to catalogue these would be a task. And now, to all previous services another is added—perhaps the most domestic of all. Mineral oil offers to be the ready benefactor of that great body of women whose lives are embittered by the ever-recurring toil of the wash-tub.

It seems that by the addition of a very small amount of mineral oil to boiling water and soap almost all manual labor in clothes washing is dispensed with; for at the end of half an hour the clothes will be so clean that little further is required save to rinse them out in two or three hot and cold waters. The smell of paraffine is not pleasant during the boiling process, but after the final rinsing no trace of it, it is said, remains, and the clothes are easier to iron. Henceforth all temptation to use deleterious bleaching powders must surely be at an end, for nothing can be cheaper or simpler in its application than this use of mineral oil, which has no injurious effect whatever on any animal or vegetable fiber.—St. James' Gazette.

KILLED BY A COBRA.

A Snake-Charmer Falls a Martyr to His Faith in His Own Powers.

India has just lost a snake-charmer, one Kondajee Mubojee, who fell a martyr to his belief in his own powers. A lad six years old, named Vittoo Heoree, was bitten by a cobra at Mazagon, Bombay, and, as usual, a snake-charmer was at once sent for. Koudajee arrived at the spot in half an hour, but the boy was already dead. The snake-charmer inquired where the cobra had taken refuge, and, on a woodpile being pointed out, he removed the wood, found and seized the snake, and endeavored to make it bite the boy, declaring if it did so the child would at once be restored to life. For two hours he persevered, but the snake refused to strike the body, and, at last, irritated beyond endurance, turned and bit Kondajee in the hand.

The snake-charmer calmly placed the snake in a copper vessel and then sat down. A vehicle was sent for and the man placed inside, but by the time he reached home he was dead. The story testifies strongly to the belief of snake-charmers of India in their power over the snakes, and to the existence of a superstition that the second bite of a snake will restore the life that the first has taken away. The apathy of the Hindoo is evident by the fact that the snake-charmer used no effort whatever to save his own life. Whether he thought that he was proof against its ill-effects was not stated in the evidence given at the inquest held on the body of the child; but it is clear that he had no belief in the virtues of any antidote or mode of treatment.

It is most probable that he was confident in the powers of the drugs, ointments or charms he had previously used to protect him, for the evidence of the spectators showed that upon finding the snake in the woodpile, he had seized it without the slightest hesitation. It is certainly singular that a man accustomed to handle snakes should have been so convinced that their bite had power to restore life as well as to cause death.—London Standard.

—The ambitious youth who achieves a measure of fame never hides his light under a bushel, but he frequently gets himself into a peck of trouble.—Boston Gazette.

—A favorite amusement of the Pope is said to be that of catching birds in a huge net which has been made especially for him. After having played with the birds he sets them at liberty.

MINNIE VS. MINERVA.

"Love me and I will bring you as my dower
Knowledge and wisdom and perpetual power.
So speaks Minerva of the azure eyes,
Wooing me boldy to be overwise.

Now, Minnie, who is not a Grecian myth,
But a young lady by the name of Smith,
Never says "Love me" in so bold a way,
But when I rise to leave her begs me stay;
Blushes, or pales a little, and lets down
Her long black lashes o'er her eyes of brown.

And so I linger; though I must admit
Delicious nonsense is her highest wit;
And what she doesn't know would fill more books
Than Boston's library holds in all its nooks.
Yet the good humor of her turned-up face
Outshines Minerva's mass of marble grace;
And in the race for this weak heart of mine
Between fair Minnie and Minerva fine,
Although to jilt a goddess were a sin,
I'm very much afraid that Minnie'll win.

—Henry W. Austin, in The Century.

STARTLING TALES.

A Very Good Bear and Equally as Good Snake Story.

How a Hunter Was Saved From an Awful Death—Caught in a Hollow Log Between Two Bears—A Narrow Escape.

A few days ago I sat in the cabin of John C——, one of the most widely known of all the Pike County hunters. The pine floor of the cabin was covered with the skins of many wild animals and the antlers of deer were suspended in almost every corner of the room. On the shelf were the rattles of fully one hundred snakes, many of the skins of which were in use as straps, rude clothes-lines and the like. The bleached skeleton of a bear stood guard at a gate outside, propped up by a slender little fence around it, while the undressed bodies of a dozen hawks were nailed to adjacent outbuildings. The hunter was oiling his gun and naturally fell into a reminiscent mood, during which he told a score of startling tales. One of these, a story of a monstrous snake, whose skin shone resplendently in the sunlight, I here transcribe almost as John related it to me.

"The snake what wore that skin," he said, "saved my wuthless life." I rose and looked closer at the handsome but repulsive object. It was fully seven feet long. "It's shrunk consid'ble now," he went on. "The snake what wore that skin lacked one inch of bein' eight feet long. No slouch of a snake, you bet.

"Well, it was a year ago las' spring up on the little creek—jus' about the time when the air and yearth commencit to git warm and snakes come out to sun theirselves."

Here the hunter's wife came quietly into the room and took a seat upon a couch in the corner. She was a deeply religious woman, and I suppose she had an idea that her presence in some occult way gave an additional credibility to the story of her husband's preservation from an awful death through the instrumentality of a snake.

"I wuz out gunnin' one day," said the hunter, slowly, "and when I got to the ledge hangin' over the little creek—kin show you the very place 'fore you go 'way—I set down onto the rock, my legs hangin' over. That's a frightsom' prespis, that is. I measured it with a string I bought over at Hawley on purpus an' she measured the string where them feet is marked on the floor thar—an' it was ninety-four feet an' some inches—say, ninety-three feet, allowin' for the stretchin' of the string. Well, as I say, I was sittin' thar with my feet hangin' down waitin' fur any thing that might come along and thinkin' about plantin' corn over in that lot side of the shed, when all of a suddent I heard a rustlin' right behin' me. I turned roun' mighty quick, you kin bet, an' there was that darn snake.

"Well, I draw'd the ramrod from my gun and struck at it—bit it oncet, but it came right at me. I thought then it was ten or twelve feet long, stid of only seven, it looked so frightsome an' I allas did hate a snake awful. Well, ye see I hadn't had no time to git up, and so there I sat with my legs hangin' over that ledge and nothin' 'tween them and the rocks down below but ninety-three feet of air. An' that durn critter was onto me 'fore I knew it. Well, I was a little bit scared; tried to git up, but my foot slipped like, an' so still sittin' there I kept strikin' at that snake. 'Fore long I seen a good chance and grabbed mister snake by the tail to throw him down the ledge. Then, I tell ye, I thought my last day had come. The sudden throw with my left han', an' my feet not bein' braced 'gainst nothin', the weight of the snake pulled me of'n the ledge quicker'n lightnin'—"

"Mercy! Did you fall down that ninety-three-foot precipice?" I asked, with some excitement.

"No. That's the curus part of the whole perceedings. I mos' forgot to tell ye, there wuz a tree big as my leg growin' right straight outen the rock level like aside of me. Ye see the snake curled right roun' that tree like a whip-lash, and when I slipped offen the ledge I hung on to the snake's tail. Now, I tell ye that did stretch some. My! Took my bre'th away, and I broke out all over in a cold sweat, and jus' fur a minnit I thought I mus' pustuvly leggo. Then I thought, suddint like, cos I know there was sharp, broken rocks down below, an' it wuz a long way to em', an' if I did leggo I would be sure killed. Then I sez: 'Ole man, you mus' hang on somehow.' After a little I got my wind and begun to feel a little more stren'th, but all the time that tail seemed to be stretchin' an' the snake slidin' slow roun' the tree an' somehow I couldn't git my lef' han' onto the tree, an' I didn't daro pull myself up, ye see, by the snake's tail fur fear it might break. Well, 'fore long I got a sliver of bark off the lower side of the tree, an' then the way I tantalized that snake was a caution. The critter bit my lef' han' twict. It makes me laugh now—but it didn't then—to think how he'd strike at that bark, an' then when I'd hold it just a little further off he'd draw up his body and squirm a leetle further along the tree, an' at every squirm his tail would draw up a little mite—'bout half a inch. All this time I waz thinkin' a great deal about lots of things and her (pointing over his shoulder at Mrs. ——). Well, 'fore long—but it seemed to me like it was two hours, only I knew it wasn't afterwards by the sun—the tail had drawed up so fur that I could swing my lef' han' onto the tree. Then ye better believe I waz soon up onto the top of the ledge. When I got my gun I shot the snake, and there's his skin."

The next day was rainy, and my host told me the full particulars of how he killed two bears last spring. It appears that the bears were killed toward the latter part of February and in rather a singular manner. He had been out nearly all day tramping in the wet snow, which was very heavy there, but had at this time partly melted, and he had seen no trace of "large game." As it began to rain about three o'clock in the afternoon he determined to find as sheltered a nook as possible, eat his lunch, and then make his way home. Just as he had arrived at this conclusion, he came upon a large, hollow sycamore log, or, rather, the greater part of a trunk, lying prostrate across a little piece of level ground by the side of the creek, the waters of which had evidently undermined its roots years before. He looked the surroundings over and then unrolled his lunch, crawled into the ample opening at the upper or little end of the trunk, from which the branches had been torn away no doubt when the tree crashed down and further rotted by years of rain and sun. Lying prone upon the bottom of the big wooden tube, his rifle by his side, he not only enjoyed the simple corn bread and ham with which his better half had provided him, but got very acceptable rest. How long he had lain there when he was aroused he says he doesn't exactly know. He thinks that on his tramp, the hearty food, and the lulling patter of the rain upon his shelter made him sleepy, and he may have dozed a little.

Suddenly he felt the hollow old shell vibrate, heard a muffled, scraping, shuffling sound, and raising his head quickly from where it had rested upon his folded arms he saw the aperature at the further end of the log suddenly closed. There was a subdued sniffling and then a loud snort. He knew in an instant that it was nothing less than a bear, which had come in at what might be called the front entrance of his place of refuge, and he judged it to be a bear of very good size. The bear, too, was evidently aware that the sycamore had some other tenant and remained ominously still. Slowly bringing his gun from alongside his body to his shoulder he took careful aim by the faint streak of light that showed between the bear's body and that concave surface of the tree trunk and fired. There was a violent motion that shook the old sycamore from end to end, a loud "woof, woof," and then all was still.

The hunter, happy over his unexpected good luck, started to back from his end of the log with an idea of going around and drawing his victim's carcass from the other end, but just as he made the first movement toward doing so he heard a commotion behind him. Turning his head as far as possible to one side he looked back and his blood almost froze at seeing another bear within a yard of the circular opening. Acting upon the impulse he crept two or three feet further into the log.

The bear came to the opening and paused. The hunter's mind was now a swiftly-turning kaleidoscope of thoughts. His gun was not loaded, and in his cramped and narrow quarters he could not run a charge home. To emerge feet foremost under the very nose of a large bear was suicidal. If the bear would only turn away—but no; it was already pushing its way into the tunnel, which now became almost totally dark. Could the now desperate man creep forward, push the presumably dead bear from the other end of the log, and so make his escape? Doubtful. Still he crept forward, slowly, painfully, endeavoring, though vainly, in the meantime to load his rifle. He could hear the bear behind him laboriously squeezing its huge body into the cylinder, could hear the rattling and tearing of its claws upon the half-rotted wood, and could almost feel its breath.

"I felt almost as unpleasant," he said, "as I did when I was hangin' by that durn snake's tail over the ninety-three foot ledge."

Suddenly the strained nerves give a great throb. In drawing the knife his hand happened to strike the prison wall almost above his head. It sounds thin! He thrusts his knife into—through it—the soft rotted wood comes down in fragments, and dust in his face and eyes. There is hope. The bear is slowly but surely forcing its way toward him. How eagerly he thrusts his knife and twists it in the unfeeling wounds in the sycamore shell. He strikes upward with his clenched fists and tears furiously with his fingers until they bleed. A large piece comes rattling down. He tears, pounds, cuts, slashes more vigorously than ever. Yes, it is large enough! He draws himself up and emerges from what threatened to be his tomb, the place of a horrible and revolting death, and is safe.

And now he began reloading his rifle, and the second bear, as it crawled through the log and sniffed a moment at the hole from which the hunter emerged, was shot through the head. "Them bears," he said, "as he mopped his face, "weighed almost 'zactly eight hundred pounds—one a leetle more 'an four hundred, an' one a leetle less."—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

PALLAS' SAND GROUSE.

England's Invasion by Numerous Arrivals from the Steppes of Tartary.

Quite one of the most interesting and important events in ornithology which has taken place for many years, is the sudden irruption into Britain and Europe of Pallas' sand grouse, a remarkable game bird from the steppes of Tartary. One or two like irruptions have hitherto taken place in England, but in extent the present offers to rival all others. Only conjecture can account for the sudden arrival of these graceful birds, but their coming is probably explained by the fact that in their natural haunts they have few enemies, that they are constantly overstepping the "limits of population," and are withal capable of swift and sustained flight. Recently the advanced guard of a large flock of sand grouse moving westward made their appearance on our shores, and others arrive daily, until now they have dispersed themselves over many counties. A flock of about a dozen of these singular birds was seen, this being followed by a second flight of forty, which struck the eastern sea-board about Spurn. Six were shot on plow near Downham, all in perfect plumage and good condition; and a flight of forty birds visited a farm at Rosehill, Hoddesdon, where they were first seen at 6 p. m. feeding in a plowed field, and from whence they made off in a northwesterly direction. Other flocks have made their appearance in Oxfordshire, and a brace of birds were shot by a game-keeper from a flock of seven on the Clinton estate, near Nottingham.

The sand grouse are remarkable in every respect. They are about as large as pigeons, with long, pointed wings and tail. The color of the upper plumage is of a desert yellow, passing into light bay crossed with black; the head and throat are orange, and the under parts gray and black. Their legs somewhat resemble those of the ptarmigan, being covered with close, hair-like feathers right down to the soles, but the very remarkable toeless foot, more like a fox's pad, is perhaps the most singular feature in "paradoxus." Scientifically, the bird has affinities with the pigeons, plovers and grouse; and it is these facts and its sudden irruptions that have caused so much interest to center about it both to scientific men and generally lovers of birds. Prior to 1859 there was no authentic instance of Pallas' sand grouse having visited Britain, but in that year a male was taken in Norfolk. Subsequently there was no further occurrence until the year of the great invasion, 1863. This altogether novel invasion excited great interest at the time of its occurrence, and it was then, as now, hoped that the species having lived so long in the country and in such numbers, might become permanently resident. This hope was quite warranted from the fact that the invasion was represented by between three hundred and four hundred pairs of birds, and in the two ovaries of the females were found eggs in various stages of development.—Pall Mall Budget.

The Cause of Tyrotoxicon.

When such virulent diseases as farcy and glanders are produced in close, ill-ventilated stables by the absorption of the poisonous matters given off from the horses, and are wholly prevented when, by sufficient air space and thorough ventilation, the atmosphere is made pure, it should be clear that the milk from cows that are kept in impure air, and are forced to breath all the unwholesome emanations from their own bodies, can not fail to be loaded with these injurious impurities. It is know that the milk secretion affords an outlet for various abnormal products from the system. The odor of decaying turnips breathed by the cows even affects the milk as much as if the turnips had been eaten, and it has been known that the putrid emanations from a dead horse, blown by the winds into a stable, has made the milk unfit for use. All these facts give a much more reasonable clew to the mysterious poison than the ill-defined and vague "improper care of the milk and unskillful manufacture." And it is in this direction, we believe, that the means of discovery and prevention must be sought.—N. Y. Times.

Author and Publisher.

On a railway train. Two men discussing a book that has just been handed to them by the newsboy.

First Man—That's a great book, sir, a masterpiece of work.

Second Man—I wonder how it is selling?

First Man—Selling like whisky at a Kentucky picnic. Never saw any thing like it. You see, I am the publisher, and ought to know.

Second Man—Your information delights me. I am the author.

First Man (with fallen countenance)—Well, that is, it hasn't had much of a sale yet, but I think it will have. Big risk, you know, getting out this sort of book.—Arkansaw Traveler.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6 ..... 1888

The seventa volume of Alden's Cyclopedia of Universal Literature contains biographical sketches of about 100 authors, of all ages and countries, with copious extracts from their writings. The following are a few of the names included in the volume: Andrew J. Downing, the most famous writer on Landscape gardening; Joseph Rodman Drake, author of "The Culprit Fay;" John W. Draper, the American scientist and historian; Professor Henry Drummond, whose recent work, "Natural Law in the Spiritual World" has been pronounced "almost a revelation;" John Dryden, the famous British poet; Paul Du Chaillu, the noted traveler in Africa and Scandinavia; Madame Duvenant, ["George Sand"] the famous French authoress; Johnathan Edwards, the New England theologian; Ebenezer Elliott, the "Corn-Law Rhymer;" Ralph Waldo Emerson, the philosopher and poet; Thos. Dunn English, author of "Ben Bolt" and other popular ballads and poems; Epictetus, Epicurus and Euripides, the Greek classic authors; Erasmus, wit scholar and reformer; Eusebius, the "Father of Ecclesiastical History;" Marian Evans, known as "George Eliot; William M. Evarts and Edward Everett, statesmen and orators; John Evelynn, whose "Diary" is one of the most famous in English literature; Faber and Ferrar, both famous in Christian Literature, and Farraday, the most Christian of scientists. The scope of the Cyclopedia is broader than that of any work in the language. The publishers descriptive catalogue of standard books will be sent free to any applicant. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York, or 216 Clark St., Chicago.

The terrible outrage that was perpetrated in San Francisco last week is almost a necessary consequence of bossism in politics. "Bosses" control conventions and nominate candidates for office, from Governor and Supreme Court Judges down to Justices of the Peace and Constables. The "bosses" control the creatures they have put in office, and the army of bullies and ruffians, tools of the "bosses," have no fear of punishment for their crimes, consequently will go to the length of committing murder if necessary to secure the election of delegates and make nominations, as was done in San Francisco last week. It is of no avail for the good men of any party to protest against these outrages, and to disclaim responsibility for them. All members of a party are responsible for the acts done by the men they follow as leaders and who mold and control party management. If any man would free himself from the guilt of crimes committed by political leaders he must cease to follow them. Let the candidates known to be favored by the "bosses," or even suspected of being favored by them, be overwhelmingly defeated at the polls, and there is an end of "boss" rule. No matter how high the character of any man may be, the acceptance of a nomination at the hands of men known to be corrupt casts suspicion upon him and lowers him in the public estimation. There is no mistake about this being the opinion of great numbers of men in both of the great political parties. The men who are Democrats or Republicans from principle, and who want to do only the right, are agreed upon this. Where party management is given over to men without character, to adventurers and drunken blackguards, it is hard to elect candidates nominated by them, even where condidates are honorable men, and are fully qualified for the offices they seek, and where their party is in a strong majority. It is high time that ruffianism and blackguardism should cease to control politics; that those who are fit only to associate with the vilest men and women should be permitted to dictate who shall fill offices of trust and honor. The blackguard who aims at party management succeeds only by boundless impudence on his own part and a disinclination on the part of decent men to contend with him. But in every community decent men far outnumber the blackguards, and a little effort on the part of such, quietly but firmly exerted, will give that decency and dignity to politics now so conspicuous by their absence.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer.
INYO CO., CAL.

Election Proclamation.

Pursuant to law and a Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California, made and done at Sacramento on the 29th day of September, A. D. 1888

Notice Is Hereby Given

By the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, that a General Election will be held throughout the said County of Inyo, on

Tuesday, November 6th, 1888.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the morning and will be kept open until 7 o'clock on the said 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, during which time the follow ng officers are to be elected, to wit:

Eight Electors of President and Vice President of the United States.

One Representative to the Congress of the United States from the Sixth Congressional District composed of the counties of San Benito, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego.

One member of the Assembly from the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

Also one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice Niles Searles appointed.

One Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice E. W. McKinstry, resigned.

And the Governor of the State of California hereby offers a reward of

One Hundred Dollars

for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

And the following officers of Inyo county are to be elected at the same time, viz.:

One Sheriff;
One County Clerk;
One District Attorney;
One County Treasurer;
One Coroner;
One County Surveyor;
One Supervisor for District No. 2;
One Supervisor for District No. 4;
One Supervisor for District No. 5;
Two Justices of the Peace for each Township in Inyo county.
Two Constables for each Township in Inyo county.
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 1;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 2;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 3;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 4;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 5;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 6;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 7.

Said election to be held at the places, and the election to be conducted by the election officers hereby appointed, and hereinafter named, as follows, to wit:

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 1

Polls to be held at the store of F. P. Blaisdell, at Round Valley. Inspector, F. P. Blaisdell; Judges, James Nevins and Richard Hilton

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 2

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Aveno. Inspector, A. Matlick; Judges, Moses Brockman and William McLaren.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 3

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Station. Inspector, G. A. Tinde; Judges, James Peregrine and Joseph McNaly.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 4

Polls to be held at the residence of Nathan Gilbert. Inspector, W. A. Greenly; Judges, S. P. Roberts and Nathan Gilbert.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 5

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Creek. Inspector, L. P. Springstead; Judges, B. H. Yancy and W. W. Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 6

Polls to be held at the residence of George Story, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. Inspector, A. O. Collins; Judges, George Story and R. Merriman.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 7

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Big Pine. Inspector, S. J. McMurry; Judges, L. M. Newman and J. M. Hay.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 8

Polls to be held at the residence of the Conklin Brothers. Inspector, James Lane; Judges, N. E. Conklin and O. H. P. Lane.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 9

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Independence. Inspector, W. J. Lake; Judges, J. Zeigler and J. D. Blair.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 10

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Georges Creek. Inspector, W. L. Hunter; Judges, John Kispert and John Meyer.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 12

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas McDonough, in Araatra Canyon. Inspector Thomas McDonough; Judges, George St. Clair and Frank Miranda.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 13

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse in Lone Pine. Inspector, John Lucas; Judges, J. J. Siewart and R. C. Spear.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 14

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas Roland, at Cerro Gordo. Inspector, John Thomas; Judges, William Crapo and George Weist.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 15

Polls to be held in a building adjoining the store of Thomas Roland in Keeler. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, E. F. Hall and John Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 16

Polls to be held at the house of William Walker, at Olancha. Inspector, A. Walker; Judges, H. Belows and William Walker.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 17

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Darwin. Inspector, Charles Anthony; Judges Martin Mee and N. S. Thompson.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 18

Polls to be held at the store of Frank Fitzgerald, at Lookout. Inspector, J. D. Channel; Judges, Frank Fitzgerald and W. C. Smith.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 21

Polls to be held at the office of the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, at Panamint. Inspector H. G. Chickering; Judges, John Curran and E. Rowell.

Dated this 2d day of October, A D 1888

J. D. HARGER,
Chairman.

Attest: P. H. MACK,
Clerk.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.
sept 1 tf

HER CHATELAINE.

She wears upon her chatelaine,
Like scalps and trophies of the slain,
Full five and twenty coins of old,
Of jeweled silver and of gold;
With pencil case and gay tablet
And dainty, dangling vinaigrette,
Each shining on its slender chain,
She wears them on her chatelaine

But high upon a silver ring
There hangs a grewsome silver thing,
A grinning goblin quaint and old,
With eyes of fire and claws of gold
Who seems to glare at me and glance
In one unearthly, endless dance,
And mocks me with his calm disdain,
Upon my lady's chatelaine.

He nestles on her willowy waist,
With crimson girdle interlaced;
He hears each breath and sigh and start,
He feels each flttering of her heart,
And still his weird and wizen face
Peers from without the creamy lace
That clusters on her silken dress
And maps her precious loveliness.

Oh, if the smiles so gay and free
Bestowed on him were given me,
But for one glance so fond and sweet
I'd lay a kingdom at her feet;
He takes it as his right does he—
No right doth he pertain to me,
I wish that I his place could gain
To swing upon her chatelaine.

—London Society.

VISIT TO THE SEGUIN SCHOOL.

Something About the Institution Where Feeble Minded Children Are Trained.

When observing the unfortunate children born physically and mentally undeveloped it would seem that there is little to be done for them, as in many instances their mind is a blank. They are brought to the Seguin school showing all the terrible signs of idiocy; unable to articulate coherently, without a ray of intelligence, not knowing how to use feet or hands, and with mouths hanging open.

During the life of the late Dr. Edouard Seguin he made idiocy a study and became the first successful teacher of children whose mental and physical development had been arrested. His definition of idiocy is "An arrested development of body and mind, or both, and not an absence or paralysis of the intellectual faculties. The idiot is an infant whose mind, and often his bodily powers, have remained in the infantile condition, and he can be successfully treated by a training similar, but more protracted, than that by which the ordinary infant is developed into an active and intelligent child."

A morning passed among the ten children now under treatment in the Seguin school convinces one of how much can be done in transforming these poor creatures into normal children; those who have been under tuition for two or three years are not even peculiar; are helpful and eager to learn, and have so altered in their expression as not to be recognized as the same beings. Mrs. Seguin says: "Three of my pupils, and those not the most promising in the beginning, have, after three years of instruction, been so far restored that one has entered a school of high reputation, and is making good progress among children of excellent intellectual ability; another made a European tour without an especial attendant, and a third, under extraordinary difficulties, has become a most lovable and interesting child."

The first lesson in the morning was counting and making change with money, which was accomplished readily by the pupils somewhat advanced. All kinds of coins were laid on the table, and these were distributed in different sums, which the scholars counted and made change with as requested.

An exercise in articulation and reading illustrated how these feeble minded people were taught to talk and control the voice. Exercises in writing with a pen and on the typewriter then followed. The eyes and hands and feet must be taught their duties. First the child is persuaded to use his hands—to string beads, to button his boots and dress himself. Object lessons of many kinds are gone through, and personal attention is given by the teacher until there is the desired results. There are five expert teachers for ten pupils in the school.

Geography is taught by maps which fit together, each state forming a separate piece. The child learns the shape of each state and where it belongs. All about the products of the state, its capital, and rivers are also made familiar. Drawing and knitting train the eye and steady the hands. A little fellow 6 years old drew boats and birds with colored chalks on a blackboard; four months ago he could not put on his shoes nor control his hand to button them.

It requires several months to teach the feeble minded child that what he does is of consequence and will be appreciated. He is so sensitive that he is apt to cry if looked at, and to tremble if he is touched in passing. From this pitiable condition he is brought to a condition of self assurance, and, by patience and skill, from idiocy to intelligence. Gymnastic exercises enter largely into the treatment, as does open air diversions. All kinds of games are played, and in dominoes and the favorite "Go Bang" the teachers were sometimes beaten by the pupils.—New York Evening Sun.

Curiosities of Magnetism.

Most well informed people are doubtless aware that the globe on which they live is a great ball of magnetism, but comparatively few have an adequate idea of the influence this property is continually exerting on all sides, that many common but inexplicable paenomena can be traced directly to this source. Statistics go to show that in the matter of steel rails, as many as thirteen will become crystalized and break where they go to make up a railroad track running east and west, before one of those on a north and south track is similarly affected. This is entirely due to the magnetism generated by friction, and the fact that the polarity of the magnetic current is in the former instance resisted in the headlong rush of the train, whereas in the latter case it is undisturbed.

Another strange effect of this peculiar and occult force is that exerted on the watches of train men. A timepiece carried by the conductor running a train twenty miles an hour, however accurate it may be, will, if the speed of the train is increased to, say, fifty miles, become useless until regulated. The magnetism generated by the flight of a train may be said to be in proportion to the speed with which it is propelled, and the delicate parts of a watch, numbering all the way from 400 to 1,000 pieces, and peculiarly susceptible to this influence by reason of the hammering and polishing they have received, are not slow to feel the effect.—Boston Budget.

Longest Balloon Voyage on Record.

Professor John Wise, a world famed aeronaut, sailed through the air in July, 1859, from St. Louis, Mo., to Henderson, Jefferson county, N. Y.—a distance in a straight line of 835 miles. He laid claim to 1,050 miles, by reason of the many turns taken during the trip, which took his balloon out of a direct course into circles and curves. This voyage is the longest recorded in balloon history.

The balloon was in the air over night—a period of about twenty hours. Professor Wise tried more than once, but without success, to equal or exceed the famous trip mentioned. Finally, a few years ago, he left St. Louis in a balloon on a long trip for the last time. He has never been heard from. A reporter who went with him was found dead some weeks later on the shore of Lake Michigan. By reason of this and other disasters the suggestion of a long air voyage gives rise in the public mind to a keen sense of the perils which attend every attempt to stay in the sky over night.—St. Nicholas.

Pen Picture of Whittier.

The amiable poet is erect in stature, firm and graceful in all his movements, and the very soul in kindness. There is nothing in his appearance to indicate that either age or illness have mingled one bitter drop in life's big cup of happiness. His hair and beard, white as the snows that gather on his native hills, contrast pleasantly with the dark eyes that glance from beneath projecting brows. He wears no mustache, and thus thin lips forming a small but determined mouth are exposed to view. A high and massive forehead suggests breadth and vigor of mind. His whole face is the embodiment of gentleness, grace and intellectual strength.

I saw him when he was dressed to receive guests, and surely I never met a better dressed or more refined looking old man. He was, as is his wont, in black broadcloth, and while I did not discover either precision or exactness in style of garment, there was by no means any departure from prevailing custom to warrant anybody in saying that he was in the unpretentious garb of a Quaker. His most enthusiastic admirer could not have wished to see him better arrayed, and I actually was struck with the appropriateness of his apparel. Indeed, I do not hope ever again to see another such a fine looking, finely dressed man at 80.—E. F. Burns in Boston Globe.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPectfully invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt to furnish in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of Pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,
MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.
dec18tf

LUMBER. LUMBER.
SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER,
sept1tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.
FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address, and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.
Indepen e - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars.
Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS,
CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from 50 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet, Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tusedav, April 1t0h, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound house. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House..... | 9.15 a. m. | 5.35 p. m |
| Dayton..... | 10.45 a. m. | 4.35 p. m, |
| Wabuska ..... | 12.45 a. m | 2.25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne ..... | 4.30 p. m. | 10.40 a. m. |
| Luning ..... | 5.50 p. m. | 9.20 a. m |
| Sodа Springs..... | 7.0 p. m. | 8.10 a. m |
| Belleville..... | 8.10 p. m. | 7.0 a. m |
| Candelaria..... | Ar. 8.30 p. m | Lv. 6.30 a. m |
| | No. 3 | No. 4 |
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Belleville..... | 7.30 a. m. | 5.25 p. m |
| Benton ..... | 11.00 a. m. | 1.15 p. m |
| Bishop Creek ..... | 1.10 p. m. | 11.30 a. m |
| Alvord ..... | 2.00 p. m. | 10.35 a. m. |
| Independence..... | 3.30 p. m. | 9.05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine..... | 4.15 p. m. | 8.15 a. m |
| Keeler..... | Ar. 5.05 p. m. | Lv. 7.30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Mercha t,
INDEPENDENCE!
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK
Consisting of most every nee a article, is well calculated to satisf the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in th future to retain the extensiv patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n25 2m6

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.

DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, } Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6 .....1888

Public school will begin at Georges Creek next Monday.

The Band will give a social at the Pavilion this [Saturday] evening. Admission, One dollar.

The election proclamation published in another column gives the names of all the election officers and the places where the polls will be held.

A. J. Davis is putting up a new building on Market street to be used as boot and shoe store and residence. Mr. Davis has won a good business by doing first-class work and keeping only the best goods.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shepherd left home last Monday on a trip to Stockton and other places west of the mountains. Mr. Shepherd will go to San Francisco to attend a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Masons.

An immense amount of firewood is being hauled on the C. & C. railroad and piled at Lone Pine. Every train that comes down has a number of carloods, and this has been continued for many weeks past.

Mr. F. McIver has sent to Napa for several thousand grape cuttings. These will be set out next spring on land watered by the Eastside canal. All along that water way there will be great activity next spring.

Quail are reported to be much more plentiful this year than last. In the neighborhood of Independence there are numerous flocks of the birds. The season for quail shooting is from September 10th to March first.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Conklin, Miss M. Conklin and Emily Pat left town on Thursday morning for San Francisco. Mr. Conklin expects to be back about three weeks hence; the family will spend the winter in the City.

Inspectors and Judges of elections should be careful to observe that on the day of election the polls must open at 6 o'clock in the morning and be kept open until 7 o'clock in the evening. Formerly sunrise and sunset was the time for opening and closing the polls, but this has been changed as above.

In ten days two men and two teams of eight horses each cleared 160 acres of sage brush land on the claim of Dr. Bishop, on the line of the Eastside canal. The land was thoroughly cleared and leveled and is now ready for plowing. The remainder of the tract can be as easily cleared as what is already done.

Last Tuesday morning Mr. C. S. Swan began work on the head-gate of the Eastside canal. The work will require about twenty thousand feet of lumber. The gate is sixty feet wide on the bottom and will be about eight feet deep. Mr. Swan intends to camp at the place till the work shall be done.

Last Saturday evening Mr. Roeper, father of Julius Roeper, received a serious hurt. He was driving a team near Mr. Baxter's place, at the north end of town, when a gun was fired, which so frightened the animals that they ran away. Mr. Roeper was thrown from the wagon and his ankle broken. The wagon was wrecked. Mr. Roeper is an old man and it may be a long time before he recovers from so serious a hurt.

D. O. Mills and H. M. Yerington came down over the line of the C. & C. railroad last Wednesday by special train. The visit may have something to do with the extension of the road, but all gossip about the matter is vain and useless. Some rumor has been current during the past week in regard to this extension, and about a road being built this way from Mojave. The rumor deserves no more attention than all else we have heard during the past three or four years.

Good News.

Last Monday evening Mr. A. N. Bell received the following telegram from San Francisco:

"President Cleveland has signed Scott's Chinese Exclusion Bill. Fire your guns; light your fires. White labor has found its proper protection. Unparalled enthusiasm here. Wire result of demonstration tonight. W. D. ENGLISH."

May Lundy Mine Sold

George W. Butterfield of Lundy, has arrived home from London, where he negociated a sale of the May Lundy mine. He was accompanied by Dr. O'Connor, a capitalist of Glasgow, who has come to close the sale. We have yet received no particulars of the transaction. We congratulate our Lundy friends on the favorable outlook for this valuable mine, and that section of country. May Lundy's "boom" be at hand.—Chronicle Union.

Premiums.

All parties who were awarded premiums at the fair of the 18th District will please call at the office of the Secretary at Independence and drafts for the amounts will be given, payable by the Treasurer. If inconvenient to call please write a receipt as follows, and mail to the Secretary, C. Mulholland, Independence, and a draft will be sent by return mail.

[Date]————1888.

Received from C. Mulholland, Secretary of Agricultural District No. 18, a draft for $——, premium awarded for————.

[Signed]————.

Meteorological Summary for September 1888. Keeler, Cal.

| | |
|---|---|
| Mean reduced barometer | 29.839 inches. |
| Mean temperature | 78° |
| Highest temperature | 96° |
| Lowest temperature | 59° |
| Monthly range of temperature | 37° |
| Mean dew point, 44° | |
| Mean relative humidity 32 per cent. | |
| Prevailing direction of wind, S. & S. E. | |
| Maximum velocity of wind, direction and date, 34 miles S. 15th. | |
| Precipitation | 0.06 |
| Number of clear days | 18 |
| Number of fair days | 10 |
| Number of cloudy days | 2 |

The dew point, or more properly the temperature of the dew point, (being always below the air temperature) is the point to which the temperature must fall at any time in order that the moisture in the air may condense as dew if above 32° F., or frost if the temperature is below 32° F. The relative humidity, for any hour in the day, is expressed by 0 (absolute dryness) and 100 (perfect saturation), both inclusive, and represents the ratio the amount of aqueous vapor actually in the air at the time of observation bears to the amount in the air at the time of perfect saturation.

D. C. GRUNOW,
Private, Signal Corps.

Supervisors' Proceedings.

MONDAY, October 1, 1888.

The Board of Supervisors met at Independence on the above date. Present, Supervisors Harger, Eddy, Eldred and Robinson. Absent, Supervisor Boland. Chairman J. D. Harger presiding.

The Board considered the matter of the tax levy for the year 1888 and adjourned till next day.

TUESDAY, October 2, 1888.

The Board met at 9 o'clock a. m., all the members present. Chairman Harger presiding.

The Board continued in the consideration of the tax levy.

After full consideration the Board fixed the following rate of assessment, viz.: On each $100 of value $2.50, to be apportioned to the various funds as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| State Fund | $ .504 |
| Salary " | .500 |
| Bond " | .490 |
| Gen. Exp. | .440 |
| School " | .276 |
| Co. Rd " | .120 |
| Bridge " | .120 |
| Hospital | .050 |

The length of the Carson and Colorado railroad in Inyo county was declared to be 74¼ miles and the assessed value $2,137.14 per mile.

The number of miles of track and the assessed value of said railway lying in the various school districts is as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Station District | 6¾ miles, | | $14,425 69 |
| Bishop Creek " | 4 | " | 8,548 56 |
| Warm Spring " | 8 | " | 17,097 12 |
| Big Pine " | 7 | " | 14,959 98 |
| Fish Spring " | 14½ | " | 30,988 54 |
| Milton " | 7½ | " | 16,028 56 |
| Independence " | 4½ | " | 9,617 13 |
| Union " | 7 | " | 14,959 98 |
| Lone Pine " | 15 | " | 32,057 44 |
| | 74¼ | " | $158,683 00 |

The number of miles in each Road District and assessed value are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| District No. 2, 6¼ miles | $13,357 13 |
| " No. 3, 13 miles | 27,782 82 |
| " No. 4, 19 miles | 40,665 66 |
| " No. 5, 14 miles | 29,919 96 |
| " No. 6, 22 miles | 47,016 43 |

Having received the election proclamation from the Governor the Board prepared and ordered the publication of the election proclamation published in another column.

WEDNESDAY, October 3, 1888.

The Board met in special session to consider matters pertaining to Road District No. 3.

All the members present, Chairman Harger presiding.

The consideration of a report from road viewers in the 3d District was postponed till next regular meeting.

The following bills were allowed:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| J. D. Harger, per diem & mileage | | $20 10 |
| J. R. Eldred, | " " | 19 80 |
| E. Robinson, | " " | 6 30 |
| T. Boland, | " " | 15 60 |
| J. C. Eddy, | " " | 16 80 |

The Board adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, October 3, 1888.

The Board met in regular session, all the members present. Chairman Harger presiding.

It was ordered that a tax of twenty cents be levied on each $100 of valuation in Irving School District, to be placed to the credit of the school building fund.

A tax of $5.25 was ordered to be placed upon each $1,000 in Bishop Creek School District for school purposes.

For Warm Spring School District a tax was ordered of $4.85 on each $1,000.

For Big Pine a tax was ordered of $1.75 on each $1,000 for school purposes.

For Independence a tax was ordered of $5.45 on each $1,000 for school purposes.

For Union District a tax was ordered of 2.60 on each $1,000 for school purposes.

The following bills were allowed:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| J. D. Harger, per diem & mileage | | $32 10 |
| J. R. Eldred, | " " | 31 80 |
| E. Robinson, | " " | 18 30 |
| T. Boland, | " " | 21 60 |
| J. C. Eddy, | " " | 34 60 |

The Board adjourned.

Vandever's Views.

The following extracts from a letter from Congressman Vandever will explain why he does not visit the various parts of the District during the campaign. "I can fix no time for coming home. The turn of affairs within the past few days, relating to the Chinese and the Fisheries questions, tend to complicate the situation. This, superadded to the Tariff Bill, sets our Democratic friends on their heads, and they are striving, by hook or by crook, to extricate themselves from a dilemma—Adjournment is little thought of by them and there is no telling what they intend. It does not seem to me that I ought to desert my post of duty here at this time. I assure you that I am anxious enough to return home and enter upon the canvas in person; I must cast myself upon the magnanimity of my friends to carry on the canvass, without my presence, until I can honorably be relieved from duty here.

My advices from different parts of the District are of the most assuring kind. The large augmentation of population, it is thought, will result far more favorably to the Republicans than to the Democrats. There seems to be numerous changes from the ranks of the Democrats to the ranks of the Republicans. I suggest, however, to our friends to relax no effort to make our victory certain and overwhelming on the Pacific Coast. Among nearly two hundred articles placed on the free list by the Mills bill as it passed the House, is included wool lumber, olive oil, minerals of various kinds, many of our fruits, and a great reduction of duty on others, especially on raisins. It is simply sheer misrepresentation to contend before a California audience, that the Mills bill as endorsed by the Democratic party, is not a free trade measure in regard to our products.

I feel myself under the highest obligations to the Republicans of my District for the cordiality and unanimity of the endorsement they accorded me in a renomination. Our District is not by any means destitute of able men; we have them by the score, who could probably accomplish more for the people than I have yet accomplished. I claim, however, for myself an honest purpose and determination to do the best I am capable of for the people who have made me their Representative. I am glad to learn of the organization of your Tippecanoe Club. Perhaps you may be interested in knowing that my first Presidential vote was cast for William Henry Harrison in 1840, I then residing in Illinois. My hope and prayer is to be spared to vote for his grandson this good year of grace, and that I may witness his inauguration next March as president of the United States."

Cause of Disappointment.

As happens at all fairs some cases of disappointment occurred with the awarding of premiums at the late fair of the 18th District. If parties will give strict attention to the published premium list few cases of disappointment will arise. In one case a premium was claimed for a two-year-old draft mare. In the published list no such premium was provided for; but there was a premium for a two-year-old mare of all work. Here the owner of the animal entered his mare in the wrong class and, of course, could not get a premium. Another person claimed second premium for quinces but in the premium list there was no second premium for quinces. Another thought a premium should have been given for darned net work shown; but the premium list called for three pieces, while there was but one on exhibition. These are examples showing how the premium list was disregarded in these cases. The officers of the Association and the judges appointed to award premiums must be governed by the published premium list; to go outside of that would lead to endless confusion. Very few such cases occurred, and in every case the parties expressed satisfaction when their attention was directed to the premium list. In all departments of the fair exhibitors will do well in future to give strict attention to the published list when making their entries.

To Whom It May Concern

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Jan. 20, 1886.

I take great pleasure in recommending to all public officers and all others in whatever capacity they may act in the business or calling of detectives, to ferret out and arrest fugitives from justice, and others deemed guilty of crime, the bearer of this, Mr. W. J. CARROLL, of Harney Valley, State of Oregon, and formerly of California, but more recently of Idaho Territory. I knew Mr. Carroll for four years in California from 1856 to 1860, inclusive; and during that time he arrested many of the most daring criminals in the Northwest, both in Oregon and California, under circumstances of great danger to himself, and evincing unusual ability, tact, perseverance and knowledge of the detective's art in every variety of crime; but more especially in those which required years of experience. He was at the time Deputy Sheriff of Sierra county, also Deputy U. S. Marshal. I am confident in his ability to execute and perform any duty of this nature that may be placed in his charge.

Respectfully, ALANSON SMITH,
Late acting U. S. District Attorney (for four years) of the Territory of Idaho, and formerly of the law firm of Mitchell, Dolph & Smith, Portland, Oregon.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Jan. 20, 1886.

Mr. CARROLL, above named, has been in my Court as interpreter and witness, and although I have no intimate knowledge of him, I know him to be reliable and trustworthy, and have heard him well spoken of as an officer. NORMAN BUCK,
Associate Justice, Idaho Ter.

Rate of Taxation.

The Supervisors this week fixed the rate of taxation for the ensuing fiscal year. The rate is reduced fifty cents on each one hundred dollars from the rate of last year. The Board his fixed the new rate at two and one half per cent. on the hundred. The new canals nearing completion and the large amounts of taxable property that these will bring into existence will lower the rate of taxation so much within two or three years that Inyo will be one of the lightest taxed counties in the State.

PROPOSALS FOR COUNTY PRINTING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at the office of the County Clerk, until Tuesday, November 8th, 1888, at 12 o'clock M. for the purpose of letting contracts for County Printing for the year beginning January 1, 1889, and ending December 31, 1889, as follows:

1st: Printing and publishing delinquent tax list.
2d: Reports of Auditor and Treasurer.
3d: Notices of contracts to be let by Inyo county.
4th: Notices of special meetings of the Board of Supervisors.
5th: Proceeding of Board of Supervisors.
6th: Notices of meetings of the Board of Education and all other legal notices required to be published by County Officers.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for County Printing," and must be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $500. Said bids will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, November 8, 1888.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. E. ROBINSON,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman pro tem

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—

GROVER CLEVELAND,

Of New York.

For Vice-President—

ALLEN G. THURMAN,

Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET.

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,

NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—

JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.

REEL B. TERRY,

Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.

CAMPBELL P. BERRY.....Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY..Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.

FRED. BERRINGER.....Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A. CAMINETTI.....Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.

C. A. JENKINS.....Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

P. J. MURPHY.....Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

N. BOWDEN.....Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

BYRON WATERS...Of San Bernardino.

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman.....R. S. MINER.
Sheriff.....J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk.....P. H. MACK.
Treasurer.....J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney..Endorsed..G. M. GILL
Surveyor.....————
Coroner.....G. W. BRADY

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods, Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S

CHEMICAL FLUID

NON-POISONOUS

SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.

(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from striking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO

Successors to FALKNER, BELL & CO.,

No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Inyo Marble Company, of California, will be held at the office of the Company, Room 36, 508 California Street, San Francisco, California, on Tuesday, the 18th day of September, 1888, at the hour of 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors to serve for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

Transfer books closed, Friday 14th inst at 3 p. m.

By order of the Board of Directors.
O. TURKLINE, Secretary.

POSTPONEMENT.

By order of the Board of Directors the above meeting was postponed until Tuesday, October 2, 1888. O. TURKLINE,
Secretary.

S. G. GREGG,

Sheriff and Tax Collector,

INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.

Bee Keeper.

Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.

Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK

Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.

ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.

Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon,

Bishop Creek, Cal.

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,

A. N. BELL, Prop.

TRY BELL'S

EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,

Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT

Watchmaker & Jeweler,

LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,

10 Spruce Street, New York City.

For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS

Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8¼ x 11¼ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton. O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

Livery Accommodations

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATE AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson

Sewing Machine.

New No. 8.

"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.

Old Machines Exchanged for.

Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

F. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.

Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,

Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,

PROVISIONS

Tobacco, Cigars,

WINES AND LIQUORS

FLOUR & GRAI

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.

Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.

n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths

AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,

—AND—

Board by the Day, Week, or the Month

MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles

OF

Fashionable Clothing Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc

AT

L. WOOD'S

CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE

Is Where You Get

WORTH OF YOUR MONEY

KNAPP & LAWS

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

General Merchandise

A Full Line

CONSTANTLY ON HAND.

ORDERS SOLICITED

Prompt Attention and Low Prices Guaranteed.

MERCHANTABLE PRODUCE AT MARKET rates taken in exchange for goods.

MAIN OFFICE:

HAWTHORNE NEV.

BRANCHES:

Wabuska, Nev.,

CORSTRUCTION C. & C. R. R.

AGENCIES:

WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
U. S. STAGE CO.,
HAWTHORNE LIME KILNS,
HAWTHORNE BRICK YARD,
Liverpool, London & Globe and Hartford Insurance Co.'s.

au251f

TOM BOLAND,

KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in GENERAL MERCHANDISE, GROCERIES MINERS Supplies

PROVISIONS,

&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.

Excellent Cardinal or Drab

SATEEN CORSETS,

44 cts.

By mail 11c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.

More Important Still

Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.

WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.

400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House,

New Furniture,

Low Rates.

Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.

feb12tf

FORMS OF SALUTATIONS.

How Persons Greet Each Other in All Parts of the World.

The most common form of salutation among the Anglo-Saxons is shaking hands.

Men usually greet women by raising the hat, but no two men were ever found who observed the courtesy in the same manner.

There is no authorized manner for a lady to return a man's salute. Novelty is what the fair sex seeks, and each one has her own little way.

Peasants in Spain greet strangers they meet by generously offering him one-half the bread he carries. It is never accepted without great astonishment to the donnor.

Among the French, and especially with the Belgians, men think nothing of embracing each other in public. A father and son, or other near relations, often kiss in public.

The Japanese show respect on meeting by bending the knee, though in the street they only make a feint of so doing. This is the general salute, but there are many others which are required from inferiors on encountering those of higher positions.

In India the Buddhists salute by lowering the palm of the right hand and bringing it up toward the face, at the same time saying: "Ram, ram chair." The Mohammedans do the same, but simply say: "Salaam." This is only done in either case by members of the same faith. The salutation is always made, too, with the right hand, to use the left being considered an insult.

The Chinese have a regular code of salutations, eight in number, which define the proper amount of respect to be paid to different individuals. The one which is most familiar to San Franciscans is that when at the new year the Chinaman clasps his hands together, and, gently bowing, wishes his friend the compliments of the season. Two curious greetings which these people have among themselves are those of asking each other: "Have you eaten rice?" and "Is your stomach in good order?"

A stranger coming among the Moors for the first time would, perhaps, be astonished and a little frightened by seeing one of them riding at full gallop toward him, as if he were intending to execute a cavalry charge. His fears might, perhaps, be increased when this horseman, when almost close to his apparent victim, suddenly reined up and discharged his pistol over his head. Recovering from his astonishment, however, he would find that this is the Moorish way of welcoming a stranger.

In Germany, however, the regulations are somewhat more stringent. A soldier, on meeting the Emperor, has to stand still, face about, and remain with hand raised for from ten to twenty paces before His Majesty approaches to the same distance after he has passed. In Belgium an officer has to do the same thing for the King, and subalterns for Generals, though ten paces only are required for the latter case. Soldiers carrying any thing so that their hands are occupied, salute with their eyes—that is, they turn their heads in the direction of the person coming and going.—Chicago News.

An improved method of distributing oil on the waters has been patented in Germany. It consists of a rocket to which is attached a cylinder filled with oil. It is said that the rocket can be fired with accuracy from the ship, and that, when it explodes, the oil is scattered just where it is wanted. Several interesting experiments have recently been made between Bremen and New York. In one the rocket was fired a distance of 1,500 feet and less distances. By the explosion of five rockets at a distance of from 1,200 to 1,500 feet from the ship, a space of 1,500 to 2,000 square feet of water was covered with oil, and the waves were at once smoothed. The rocket was fired 900 feet against a gale. The importance of the invention to deep-water sailors consists in the certainty of explosion of the rocket at a sufficient distance to leave the vessel in calm water during a gale.—N. Y. Post.

A Fortunate Speculation.

There are two men at Sebago Lake who were evidently born under a lucky star. These two men are David W. Stanley, of the firm of Stanley & Libby, coat manufacturers, and George E. Whitney, the obliging postmaster at the Lake. For the past six months these men have invested a dollar a month in The Louisiana State Lottery and of the six tickets four have drawn prizes, all small ones except the last.

These two men put in a dollar each last month and mutually agreed that should one draw a prize he would divide with the other. So each purchased their ticket and awaited developments. When the figures were published it was found that Stanley's ticket had drawn a twentieth part of the capital prize of $100,000, and Mr. Whitney's ticket drew an "approximation" prize of $10.

The other day, promptly on time, Mr. Stanley received a check for $5,000 which he cashed and immediately he carried out his agreement to the letter and gave the postmaster $2,500.

Mr. Stanley owns and runs a small coat-making establishment and employs about twenty hands. He will probably enlarge his business now and consequently will give employment to more of the villagers. Mr. Stanley drives his "coat cart" through the surrounding country having his goods made in the different villages. He now contemplates staying right at home.

Mr. Whitney has been postmaster about two years and is one of President Cleveland's appointees. The income from his little office is not very large, in fact just about a living, so that his windfall is a good thing for him, he says. He contemplates starting a country store as soon as it is settled who shall occupy the President's chair for the next term. These two men's luck is a by-word in the village but no one begrudges them their good fortune.—Portland (Me.) Express, July 11.

Alian Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

(CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER XVIII.

WAR! RED WAR.

Telling Umslopogaas to wait, I tumbled into my clothes and went off with him to Sir Henry's room, where the Zulu repeated his story word for word. It was a sight to watch Curtis' face as he heard it.

"Great heavens!" he said; "here have I been snoring away while Nyleptha was nearly murdered—and all through me, too. What a fiend that Sorais must be! It would have served her well if Umslopogaas had cut her down in the act."

"Ay," said the Zulu. "Fear not; I should have slain her ere she struck; I was but waiting the moment."

I said nothing; but I could not help thinking that many a thousand doomed lives would have been saved if he had meted out to Sorais the fate she meant for her sister. And, as the issue proved, I was right.

After he had told his tale Umslopogaas went off unconcernedly to get his morning meal, and Sir Henry and I fell to talking.

At first he was very bitter against Good, who, he said, was no longer to be trusted, having designedly allowed Sorais to escape by some secret stair when it was his duty to have handed her over to justice. Indeed he spoke in the most unmeasured terms on the matter. I let him run on a while, reflecting to myself how easy we find it to be hard on the weaknesses of others, and how tender we are to our own.

"Really, my dear fellow," I said at length, "one would never think, to hear you talk, that you were the man who had an interview with this same lady yesterday and found it rather difficult to resist her fascinations, notwithstanding your ties to one of the loveliest and most loving women in the whole world. Now suppose that it was Nyleptha who had tried to murder Sorais, and you had caught her, and she had pleaded with you, would you have been so very eager to hand her over to an open shame and to death by fire? Just look at the matter through Good's eye-glass for a minute before you denounce an old friend as a scoundrel."

He listened to this jobation submissively, and then frankly acknowledged that he had spoken harshly. It is one of the best points in Sir Henry's character that he is always ready to admit it when he is in the wrong.

But, though I spoke up thus for Good, I was not blind to the fact, however natural his behavior might be, it was obvious that he was being involved in a very awkward and disgraceful complication. A foul and wicked murder had been attempted, and he had let the murderess escape, and thereby, among other things, allowed her to gain a complete ascendancy over himself. In fact he was in a fair way to become her tool—and no more dreadful fate can befall a man than to become the tool of an unscrupulous woman, or indeed of any woman. There is but one end to it: when he is broken, or has served her purpose, he is thrown away—turned out on the world to hunt for his lost self respect. While I was pondering thus and wondering what was to be done—for the whole subject was a thorny one—I suddenly heard a great clamor in the court yard outside and distinguished the voices of Umslopogaas and Alphonse, the former cursing furiously and the latter yelling in terror.

Hurrying out to see what was the matter, I was met by a ludicrous sight. The little Frenchman was running up the courtyard at an extraordinary speed, and after him sped Umslopogaas like a great greyhound. Just as I came out he caught him, and lifting him right off his legs, carried him some paces to a beautiful but very dense flowering shrub which bore a flower not unlike the gardenia, but was covered with short thorns. Next, despite his howls and struggles, he with one mighty thrust plunged poor Alphonse head first into the bush, so that nothing but the calves of his legs and his heels remained in evidence. Then, satisfied with what he had done, the Zulu folded his arms and stood grimly contemplating the Frenchman's kicks, and listening to his yells, which were awful.

"What art thou doing?" I said, running up. "Wouldst thou kill the man? Pull him out of the bush!"

With a savage grunt he obeyed, seizing the wretched Alphonse by the ankle, and with a jerk that must have nearly dislocated it, tearing him out of the heart of the shrub. Never did I see such a sight as he presented, his clothes half torn off his back, and bleeding as he was in every direction from the sharp thorns. There he lay, and yelled and rolled, and there was no getting anything out of him.

At last, however, he got up, and ensconcing himself behind me, cursed old Umslopogaas by every saint in the calendar, vowing by the blood of his heroic grandfather that he would poison him and "have his revenge."

At last I got the truth of the matter. It appeared that Alphonse habitually cooked Umslopogaas' porridge, which the latter ate for breakfast in the corner of the court yard, just as he would have done at home in Zululand, from a gourd, and with a wooden spoon. Now Umslopogaas had, like many Zulus, a great horror of fish, which he considered a species of water snake; so Alphonse, who was as fond of playing tricks as a monkey, and who was also a consummate cook, determined to make him eat some. Accordingly he grated up a white fish very finely and mixed it with the Zulu's porridge, who swallowed it nearly all down in ignorance of what he was eating. But unfortunately for Alphonse he could not restrain his joy at this sight and came capering and peeping round, till at last Umslopogaas, who was clever in his way, suspected something, and after a careful examination of the remains of his porridge, discovered "the buffalo heifer's" trick, and in revenge served him as I have said. Indeed, the little man was fortunate not to get a broken neck for his pains; for, as one would have thought, he might have learned from the episode of his display of axmanship that le monsieur noir was an ill person to play practical jokes on.

This incident was unimportant enough in itself, but I narrate it because it led to serious consequences. As soon as he had stanched the bleeding from his scratches and washed himself, Alphonse went off, still cursing, to recover his temper, a process which I knew from experience would take a very long time. When he had gone, I gave Umslopogaas a jobation, and told him that I was ashamed of his behavior.

"Ah, well, Macumazahn," he said, "you must be gentle with me, for here is not my place. I am weary of it—weary to death of eating and drinking, of sleeping and giving in marriage. I love not this soft life in stone houses that takes the heart out of a man, and turns his strength to water and his flesh to fat. I love not the white robes and the delicate women, the blowing of trumpets and the flying of hawks. When we fought the Masai at the kraal yonder, ah, then life was worth the living; but here is never a blow struck in anger, and I begin to think I shall go the way of my fathers and lift Inkosi-kaas no more," and he held up the ax and gazed at it in sorrow.

"Ah," I said, "that is thy complaint, is it? Thou hast the blood sickness, hast thou! and the Woodpecker wants a tree. And at thy age, too. Shame on thee, Umslopogaas!"

"Ay, Macumazahn, mine is a red trade, yet it is better and more honest than some. Better is it to slay a man in fair fight than to suck out his heart's blood in buying and selling and usury, after your white fashion. Many a man have I slain, yet is there never a one that I should fear to look in the face again; ay, many are they who once were friends, and whom I should be right glad to sniff with. But there! there! thou hast thy ways, and I mine, each to his own people and his own place. The high veldt ox will die in the fat bush country, and so it is with me, Macumazahn. I am rough, I know it, and when my blood is warm I know not what to do, but yet wilt thou be sorry when the night swallows me and I am utterly lost in the blackness; for in thy heart thou lovest me, my father, Macumazahn the fox, though I be but a broken down Zulu wardog—a chief for whom there is no room in his own kraal, an outcast and a wanderer in strange places; ay, I love thee, Macumazahn, for we have grown gray together, and there is that between us that cannot be seen, and yet is too strong for breaking;" and he took his snuff box, which was made of an old brass cartridge, from the slit in his ear, where he always carried it, and handed it to me for me to help myself.

I took the pinch of snuff with some emotion. It was quite true I was much attached to the bloodthirsty old ruffian. I don't know what was the charm of his character, but it had a charm; perhaps it was its fierce honesty and directness; perhaps one admired his almost superhuman skill and strength, or it may have been simply that he was so absolutely unique. Frankly, with all my experience of savages, I never knew a man quite like him, he was so wise, and yet such a child with it all; and though it seems laughable to say so, like the hero of the Yankee parody, he "had a tender heart." Anyway, I was very fond of him, though I should never have thought of telling him so.

"Ay, old wolf," I said, "thine is a strange love. Thou wouldst split me to the chin if I stood in thy path to-morrow."

"Thou speakest truth, Macumazahn; that would I if it came in the way of duty, but I should love thee all the same when the blow had gone fairly home. Is there any chance of some fighting here, Macumazahn?" he went on, in an insinuating voice. "Methought that what I saw last night did show that the two great queens were vexed one with another, else had the 'Lady of the Night' not brought that dagger with her."

I agreed with him that it showed that more or less pique and irritation existed between the ladies, and told him how things stood, and that they were quarreling over Incuba.

"Ah, is it so?" he exclaimed, springing up in delight; "then will there be war as sure as the rivers rise in the rains—war to the end! Women love the last blow as well as the last word, and when they fight for love they are pitiless as a wounded buffalo. Say then, Macumazahn, a woman will swim through blood to her desire, and think naught of it. With these eyes have I seen it once, and twice also. Ah, Macumazahn, we shall see fine place of houses burning yet, and hear the battle cries come ringing up the street. After all, I have not wandered for nothing. Can this folk fight, think ye?"

Just then Sir Henry joined us, and Good arrived, too, from another direction, looking very pale and hollow eyed. The moment Umslopogaas saw the latter he stopped his bloodthirsty talk and greeted him.

"Ah, Bougwan," he cried, "greeting to thee, Inkoos, thou art surely weary. Didst thou hunt too much yesterday?" Then, without waiting for an answer, he went on:

"Listen, Bougwan, and I will tell thee a story; it is about a woman, therefore wilt thou hear it; is it not so?

"There was a man, and he had a brother, and there was a woman who loved the man's brother, and was beloved of the man. The man's brother had a favorite wife, and loved not the woman, and he made a mock of her. Then the woman, being very cunning and fierce hearted for revenge, took counsel with herself, and said to the man, I love thee, and if thou wilt make war upon thy brother I will marry thee.' And he knew it was a lie, yet because of his great love of the woman, who was very fair, did he listen to her words and made war. And when many people had been killed his brother sent to him, saying, 'Why slayest thou me? What hurt have I done unto thee? From my youth up have I not loved thee? When thou wast little did I not nurture thee, and have we not gone down to war together and divided the cattle, girl by girl, ox by ox, and cow by cow? Why slayest thou me, my brother, son of my own mother?

"Then the man's heart was heavy, and he knew that his path was evil; and he put aside the tempting woman, and ceased to make war on his brother, and lived at peace in the same kraal with him. And after a time the woman came to him, and said, 'I have lost the past, I will be thy wife.' And in his heart he knew that it was a lie, and that she thought the evil thing, yet because of his love did he take her to wife.

"And the very night that they were wed, when the man was plunged into a deep sleep, did the woman arise and take his ax from his hand, and creep into the hut of his brother and slay him in his rest. Then did she slink back like a gorged lioness, and place the thong of the red ax back upon his wrist and go her ways.

"And at the dawning the people came shouting, 'Lousta is slain in the night!' and they came unto the hut of the man, and there he lay asleep, and by him was the red ax. Then did they remember the war, and say, 'Lo! he hath of a surety slain his brother, and they would have taken and killed him, but he rose and fled swiftly, and as he fleeted by he slew the woman.

"But death could not wipe out the evil she had done, and on him rested the weight of all her sin. Therefore is he an outcast, and his name a scorn among his own people; for on him, and him only, resteth the burden of he who betrayed. And therefore does he wander afar, without a kraal, and without an ox or a wife, and therefore will he die afar like a stricken buck, and his name be accursed from generation to generation, in that the people say that he slew his brother, Lousta, by treachery in the night time."

The old Zulu paused, and I saw that he was deeply agitated by his own story. Presently he lifted his head, which he had bowed to his breast, and went on:

"I was that man, Bougwan. Ou! I was that man; and now hark thou! Even as I am, so wilt thou be—a tool, a plaything, an ox of burden to carry the evil deeds of another. Listen! When thou didst creep after the 'Lady of the Night' I was hard upon thy track. When she struck thee with the knife in the sleeping place of the White Queen I was there also. When thou didst let her slip away like a snake in the stones I saw thee; and I knew that she had bewitched thee, and that a true man had abandoned the truth, and he who aforetime loved a straight path had taken a crooked way. Forgive me, my father, if my words are sharp, but out of a full heart are they spoken. See her no more, so shalt thou go down with honor to the grave. Else because of the beauty of a woman that weareth as a garment of fur shalt thou be even as I am, and perchance with more cause. I have said."

Throughout this long and eloquent address Good had been perfectly silent, but when the tale began to shape itself so aptly to his own case he colored up, and when he had learned that what had passed between him and Sorais had been overseen he was evidently much distressed. And now, when at last he spoke, it was in a tone of humility quite foreign to him.

To be Continued.

CONSTIPATION

Is responsible for many of the more serious ailments with which you are afflicted. HAMBURG FIGS are a specific for the cure of Habitual Constipation, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache and Piles. To travelers by sea and land they will be found invaluable; they are positively unfailing in their action, and this is the only medicine ever offered to the public that is acceptable to the taste, and so pleasant that children will eat the FIGS as eagerly as candy. Price, 25 cents a box. Dose, one FIG.

In any case where the system requires building up, DUJARDIN'S LIFE ESSENCE never fails. It will succeed where everthing else has failed in bracing up organic function. Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

—To rise from an easy place you must make it a hard place. It is working above inclination that counts.

—Rural young ladies, when out promenading with their best beloved, prefer the bridal path to the public highway.

—A baby's life is a constant series of surprises—both to the baby himself and to the people who have him in charge.—Somerville Journal.

—A boy in his composition affirmed that pins frequently saved people's lives—by not being swallowed. So many political theories may save our country—by not being swallowed.—Western Plowman.

—Keep your promise to the letter, be prompt and exact, and it will save you much trouble and care through life, and win you the respect and trust of your friends.

—Men's lives should be like the days, more beautiful in the evening; or, like the seasons, aglow with promise, and the autumn rich with golden sheaves, where good deeds and words have ripened on the field.

—Almost all of us live more in the future than in the present. Those who live mostly in the past are on the high road to worse sorrow than they know. To the healthy-minded future has always the treasure to which the present holds the key.

—Husband (hurriedly swallowing his breakfast)—"Any thing new in the paper this morning, dear?" Wife—"Yes. There was a terrible riot on the Polo grounds yesterday." Husband—(choking with excitement)—"You don't say so! What was it?" Wife—"During a ball game they knocked the pitcher out of the box and pounded him all over the field, finally injuring a player so he died on third."—Time.

—The person of wide experience and culture is likely to be distinguished by a broad toleration of those whose manner of life may be different from his own. Personalities are the ruin of the best conversation, but many people are driven to indulgence in them by their conviction that people who do or say any thing out of the common course are so very odd. "Every body is queer, but thee and me," said an old "Friend" to his wife, "and sometimes I think thee is a little queer."—Standard.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefitted and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquility reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

The fancies of men change, and he that loves today hateth to-morrow; but let reason be thy schoolmistress, which shall ever guide thee aright.—Sir W. Raleigh.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

If you hate your enemies you will contract such a vicious habit of mind as, by degrees, will break out upon those who are your friends, or those who are different to you.—Plutarch.

A BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER.

For many years the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have offered, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents. This wonderful remedy has fairly attained a world-wide reputation. If you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery and inflamed; if there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice being changed and has a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility, you are suffering from nasal catarrh. The more complicated your disease, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

Photographing in colors seems to be the object of considerable experimenting, but so far with little or no success.

DISGUSTING SKIN DISEASES.

What spectacle is more disgusting than that of a man or woman with skin disease which shows itself in pimples and blotches on hands, arms, face and neck? It is simply impure blood. See what BRANDRETH'S PILLS did for a chronic case:

For four years I was in the Mounted Infantry in the U. S. Army, residing during that time principally in Texas. Almost all of that time I had a cronic skin disease, characterized by an eruption over the entire surface of my legs and thighs, arms and chest. The doctors termed it eczema. I had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when BRANDRETH'S PILLS were recommended to me. I concluded to try them, and did so, and I have thanked God daily since then that I did so. I think I used them altogether for about three months, and, by that time, was completely cured and have never had any trouble since. My skin is as clear as any one's. GEORGE CHAPMAN.

Pincenning, Mich., December 8, 1885.

Visitors to San Francisco should always stop at the Baldwin Hotel, if they desire all the comforts and conveniences afforded by a first-class house.

"It's never too late to mend." Which is why so many people postpone mending indefinitely.

When a threatening lung disorder,
Shows its first proclivity,
Do not let it cross the border—
Quell it with activity.

Many a patent, young or olden,
Owes a quick recovery
All to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

When a cat gives an entertainment from the top of a wall, it isn't the cat we object to, its the waul.

For Throat Troubles and Coughs, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches." They possess real merit.

A WONDERFUL FOOD AND MEDICINE.

Known and used by Physicians all over the world. SCOTT'S EMULSION not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food that builds up the wasted body. "I have been using Scott's Emulsion for several years, and am pleased with its action. My patients say it is pleasant and palatable, and all grow stronger and gain flesh from the use of it. I use it in all cases of Wasting Diseases, and it is specially useful for children when nutrient medication is needed, as in Marasmus."—T. W. PIERCE, M. D., Knoxville, Ala.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 324.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

More than three fourths of the bakers in the United States are of German birth, German bread, as it were.

Would you know the keen delight
Of a wholesome appetite,
Cure-trained by colic's dire,
Headache's curse, or fever's fire,
Thoughts morose, or icy chills?
Then use Dr. Pierce's pills.

Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets—the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills; 25 cents a vial.

That which makes the happiness of the domestic circle, which will recompense Paradise, taking from it its thorns, is forbearance.

Few things so add to beauty's face as pearly teeth and fragrant breath. Use RUBIFOAM and these are yours to enjoy always. Large bottles 25 cents. All druggists.

The Baldwin Hotel, San Francisco, is now a model house in every respect.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

How to Cure Skin & Scalp DISEASES with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods failed.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing Plaster. 25c.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY.

Price, 25 cents a Bottle.

PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

The OLDEST MEDICINE in the WORLD is Probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's CELEBRATED EYE WATER

This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century, and notwithstanding the many other preparations that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. John I. Thompson Sons & Co., TROY, N. Y.

POWDERED 98 CAUSTIC SODA TREE WASH. Carbolic Sheep Wash.

T. W. JACKSON & CO., 104 Market St., Mfg. Agents.

Write for Catalogue and Prices of "RUSHFORD" TUBULAR STEEL AXLE FREIGHTING AND RANCH WAGONS

—Imported only by—

BULL & GRANT FARM IMPL'T CO. 330 Montgomery St., (Safe Deposit Building.)

WOVEN WIRE MATTRESSES AND IRON BEDS. H. BERNHARD & CO. Manufacturers of Woolen & Hair Mattresses of every description. 154 New Montgomery St., S.F.

TO THE LADIES! Jacobs & Co. MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANT'S WEAR. 113 KEARNY STREET, S. F. Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

AGENTS! AN ACTIVE AGENT WANTED in each county for the two best campaign books in the market—Harrison and Morton, and Cleveland and Thurman. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, corner Fourth and Market streets.

AGENTS! ACTIVE AGENTS WANTED for "The Life of General Sheridan"; a popular hero; a popular book at a popular price. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, cor. Fourth and Market streets.

ST. JACOBS OIL For Rheumatism. BRAND NEW, STRONG PROOFS

22 Years. Newton, Ill., May 23, 1888. From 1863 to 1885—about 22 years—I suffered with rheumatism of the hip. I was cured by the use of St. Jacobs Oil. T. O. DODD.

15 Years. Maple Hill, Mich., May 5, 1885. Mr. JOHN J. SMITH, Ensley, Michigan, was afflicted with rheumatism 15 years, his case was pronounced incurable by two physicians, yet was cured by St. Jacobs Oil and has remained so two years. S. MCKEARY, Druggist.

Since 1885. No. Branch, Mich., May 21, 1888. Fall of 1885 was taken with Inflammatory Rheumatism and suffered two weeks; was cured by one bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. Mrs. J. R. VANDECAR.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

WE QUOTE:

(August 27th, Subject to Market Changes.)

| | |
|---|---|
| White Sugar in barrels | 7 c |
| Brown Sugar in barrels | 5½c |
| Green Coffee | 16 |
| Finest Costa Rica Coffee | 18c |
| Finest Java Coff e | 22c |
| Best Rice | 5½ to 5¾c |
| Ground Coffee | 15 to 25 |
| Roast Coffee (best) | 20 to 25c |
| Japan (green) Tea | 16 to 50 |
| Japan (basket fired) Tea | 25 to 60c |
| English Breakfast | 25 to 75c |
| Corn Starch | 6¼ to 7c |
| Crackers (soda) | 4½ to 5½c |
| Crackers (pilot bread) | 3 to 4c |
| Crackers and Sweet Cakes | 9 to 12c |
| Butter, pickle roll | 60c |
| Butter, common grade | 40 to 50c |
| Butter, solid, per pound | 18 to 30c |
| Cheese, per pound | 11 to 13c |
| Syrup in barrels | 25 to 30c |
| Syrup in 5 gallon kegs | $1 75 to 2 25 |
| Salt, Liverpool, per ton | $19 to 20 |
| Salt, meat and stock | $9 to 10 |
| Sulphur, per ton | $33 |
| Dried Peaches | 5 to 11c |
| Dried Apples | 5½ to 9 |
| Dried Apricots | 6 to 12½c |
| Dried Pears | 3 to 8c |
| Sugar Corn, best, per dozen | $1 20 to 1 50 |
| Sugar Peas | $1 20 to 1 35 |

We carry a large variety of the above goods and many others, comprising nearly everything used in the household, and sell at lowest cash prices. Send for full list to Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Romish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Pos. Street, San Francisco.

CAMPAIGN HANDKERCHIEFS, Republican Flags, DEMOCRATIC BANDANAS.

PURE SILK ..... 75 CENTS
COTTON ..... 10 CENTS.

Cleveland or Harrison Campaign Buttons, 25 Cents Each.

Wolf & Frank

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS, 232 KEARNY STREET, S. F.

Orders by mail promptly filled.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

CHARLES S. EATON, General Agent for HAZELTON BROS., —AND— HEMME & LONG PIANOS Sold on Easy INSTALLMENTS.

Also dealer in Sheet Music and Musical Merchandise.

735 Market Street, : : : : : : San Francisco, Cal.

Send for Catalogues of Pianos and Sheet Music.

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —

DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD

USE

DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made. THE COW BRAND.

DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

Paine's Celery Compound

CURES Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, and all affections of the Kidneys.

WEAK NERVES. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is a Nerve Tonic which never fails. Containing Celery and Coca, those wonderful nerve stimulants, it speedily cures all nervous disorders.

RHEUMATISM. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND purifies the blood. It drives out the lactic acid which causes Rheumatism, and restores the blood-making organs to a healthy condition. It is the true remedy for Rheumatism.

KIDNEY COMPLAINTS. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND quickly restores the liver and kidneys to perfect health. This curative power, combined with its nerve tonics, makes it the best remedy for all kidney complaints.

DYSPEPSIA. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND strengthens the stomach, and quiets the nerves of the digestive organs. This is why it cures even the worse cases of Dyspepsia.

CONSTIPATION. PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is not a cathartic. It is a laxative, giving easy and natural action to the bowels. Regularity surely follows its use.

Recommended by professional and business men. Send for book.

Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Prop's BURLINGTON, VT.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons, which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

OUR TRADE MARK

CHURCH & CO'S SODA

ON EVERY PACKAGE.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

400,000 subscribers already? Why not MAKE IT A MILLION? To introduce it into a million families we offer the PHILADELPHIA LADIES' HOME JOURNAL AND PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPER FROM NOW to JANUARY, 1889

Four Months—balance of this year,

ON RECEIPT OF ONLY 10 CENTS Silver or Stamps.

Finest and most costly illustrations by the best artists in the country.

Pure and Safe Fiction only. Domestic Stories.

We have engaged for the coming season the most popular and best known writers in America to write Expressly for our columns, original copyrighted matter.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Josiah Allen's Wife, Mary J. Holmes, Marion Harland, Rose Terry Cooke, Will Carleton, Robert J. Burdette, Eliza R. Parker, Kate Upson Clarke, Mrs. John Sherwood, Florine Thayer McCray, Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, Christine Terhune Herrick.

Artistic Needlework—Finely Illustrated. Everything new and original. Edited by an expert. Patterns guaranteed correct and reliable and so clearly explained and illustrated that a novice would have no difficulty in working them.

Interior Decorations—By MRS. A. R. RAMSEY, Profusely Illustrated. New Ideas and Original Designs

New Fashions—By MRS. JAMES H. LAMBERT.

Hints on Home Dressmaking—By EMMA M. HOOPER.

Instructive articles on "How to Appear Well in Society," "How to Talk Well and Improve your Grammar."

Breakfast and Dinner Parties—Home Cooking, Dainties and Desserts. Teas, Suppers, Luncheons and Receptions. Gives explicitly all the little details women want to know. Tells how to entertain guests, how to serve refreshments, what to have, and and how to make it.

How Women Can Make Money—By ELLA RODMAN CHURCH.

Talks With Mothers—By eminent physicians.

Greatly ENLARGED and IMPROVED. Handsomely printed on fine paper and profusely illustrated. 20 Pages.

CURTIS PUBLISHING CO., PHILA., PA.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... OCTOBER 13, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 18. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 13, 1888. WHOLE NO. 937.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

SLEEPING AFTER MEALS.

A Widespread but Mistaken Belief—Rest for the Brain.

There is a widespread superstition, cherished by the great majority of the people, that to sleep immediately after they have taken food is to endanger health, to favor the onset of apoplexy, etc.—a superstition based on the assumption that during sleep the brain is normally congested. There is, no doubt, such a thing as congestive sleep, but during normal sleep the brain is anæmic. When a person has taken a fairly abundant lunch or dinner the stomach demands a special influx of blood wherewith to accomplish its work of digestion; no organ can more easily comply with that demand than the brain, which, when in full activity, is suffused with a maximum amount of the vital fluid.

But a derivation of blood from the brain to the stomach can only take place, except in exceptionally full blooded and vigorous persons, on the condition that the cerebral functions be meanwhile partially or wholly suspended. Hence many people after taking dinner feel indisposed for mental action, and not a few long for sleep. The already partially anæmic brain would fain yield up to the stomach a still further supply of blood and yield itself up to refreshing sleep. Doing so it gains new strength; meanwhile digestion proceeds energetically, and soon body and mind are again equipped to continue in full force the battle of life. But superstition, the child of ignorance, intervenes, declares that sleep during digestion is dangerous, admonishes the would be sleepers to struggle against their perilous inclination, and, though telling them that after dinner they may sit awhile, assures them of the adage, "after supper walk a mile."

The millions of its victims continue, therefore, the strife to which it condemns them, and ignore the suggestions offered to them by the lower animals, who have always practiced the lessons of sound physiology by sleeping after feeding whenever they are allowed to do so. Hence the human brain and human stomach of such victims contend with each other during the digestive process; the brain, impelled by superstition, strives to work and demands blood to work with, while the stomach, stimulated by its contents, strives to carry on its marvelous chemistry, and demands an ample supply of blood for the purpose. The result of the struggle is that neither is able to do its work well; the brain is enfeebled by being denied its natural rest during the digestive process, and the healthy function of the stomach degenerates into dyspepsia.—Westminster Review.

A Case of Self Abnegation.

Charles Lamb's devotion to his insane sister was one of those instances of self abnegation which are as a silver lining to the darker and more sinister traits of human nature, but it is, perhaps, more than equaled in some respects by an instance of unselfish devotion on the part of a man in one of the institutions near New York such as is rare outside of the pages of fiction. It is the case of a man and wife. They lived happily together, but by one of those strange visitations of fate the happy wife became insane. Cases are not rare where a husband has shown devotion to an insane wife. There are others in which the husband has sought to play the role of Mr. Rochester in "Jane Eyre," and ignore a tie which he speciously argued had been sundered by a stroke of fate, though in most, if not all, of our states, at least, insanity subsequent to marriage is regarded as a disease, and no more a ground for divorce than consumption or any other ailment.

But in this case the husband forsook his home in New York, where he had lived on a small income received from wealthy parents in Europe, and sought and secured a position as bookkeeper in the workhouse close by the insane asylum where his wife was confined, receiving no salary for his services, and remains there now, amid forbidden surroundings, simply that he may be near his stricken wife, who smiles vacantly at him or talks with pathetic volubility and earnestness of her fixed delusions across that dark mental gulf which separates the Gehenna of madness from the relative paradise of sanity. His only thought is to soften the blow to his wife as much as possible, to ameliorate as far as may be her sufferings, a pathetic attempt to make the hand of fate seem like velvet instead of iron. For seven years he has remained faithful in his devotion to his mentally dead wife, sepulchred, so to speak, as a hopeless lunatic in the cemetery of the mind, an insane asylum, a man not, perhaps, endowed with the intellectual qualities which command the admiration of men, but illumined by unselfish devotion as with a sacred nimbus.—Oscar Willoughby Riggs.

When the Mountains Were Made.

The chief beauty of Mount Desert Island is in its mountains. From a little distance they seem to rise grandly out of the very blue of the sea. The highest, Mount Green, reaches an elevation of nearly 2,000 feet. As you approach the sunshine flooding their rounded peaks gives them a bronzed, metallic appearance. But from a league away their real beauty and grandeur break lovingly upon the vision. Verdure clad in places, again showing massive bulwarks of rock, and from each height sloping in graceful undulations to the sea, a rare and winsome charm, as well as a broad and stalwart majesty, possesses them. Wherever one may be within sight of the splendid masses it is impossible to cease their contemplation. Thus musing on them in the spirit of geologic conjecture and revelry, I half unconsciously asked my skipper if he had any idea of their age.

"A lee-tle up'ard 'n a hundred year," he answered promptly. I looked at him with amazement, and it nettled him.

"A lee-tle up'ard 'n a hundred year!" he repeated stolidly, setting his teeth hard upon his tobacco and eyeing me askance, as if with initatory feelings of resentment at my unaccountable ignorance. "Them ar thirteen mountings ain't thar fur nuthin'. Them ar thirteen self same mountings riz plum' up outen the bay the very day they d'clar'd 'pendence to these Yoonited States! Them as seed it lived right hereabout."

"But, captain," I pleaded, aghast at this startling revelation, "you know De Monts and Champlain discovered the island just 284 years ago; named it 'L'Isle des Monts Deserts,' from the dreary appearance of the tops of those very mountains; and Briard and Masse, the French Jesuits, established a mission over there on the western shore ofOme's Sound!"

In tones of awful scorn my skipper merely answered: "Did, did they? Wall, I s'pose sech scallops comes from schoolin'. I say no man livin' was in these parts afore my forefathers; an' them that's dead and doubted"—this with contemptuous grief—"seed with their own eyes them thirteen mountings hist up their heads. Howsumdever, there's no argerin with sneerers!"—Edgar L. Wakeman's Letter.

His Preference.

"Of all seasons of the year, Dr. Diagnosis," he said to a young physician who was helping her look at the moon, "which do you most prefer?"

"I think I prefer the watermelon season," he replied in a low business tone of voice.—The Epoch.

MEANS OF SUBSISTENCE.

MEN WHO PREDICT THE EXTINCTION OF HUMANIY BY STARVATION.

Facts More Convincing Than Theories. The Whole Matter of Food Supply Revolutionized—The Coming Man May Die of Overeating.

It seems strange that at a time when food of all kinds is cheaper and more plenty than it ever was before in the history of the world, and when famine nowhere exists, men of mind and learning should be predicting the extincion of humanity by starvation. Still the matter has recently been discussed by Mr. Frederick B. Hawley in the Quarterly Journal of Economics and by Mr. Edward Atkinson in The Forum. Both writers refer at length to the writings of Malthus and Ricardo, the first of whom taught that there is a tendency of population to increase faster than the means of subsistence—the first increasing in a geometrical and the last in an arithmetical ratio—and the second of whom showed that land cultivated for a series of years yielded diminishing returns in proportion to the amount of labor and capital expended upon it.

It is certainly difficult to refute the propositions of Malthus and Ricardo by arguments. They were acute reasoners and plausible writers. Facts, however, are more convincing than theories. The population of the world is much greater than when these men wrote and food is cheaper and more plenty. Science as applied to the raising of crops and to transportation has revolutionized the whole matter of the supply of food. Fifty years ago wise men informed their sons that the time would soon come when they could eat white bread but half the time, for the reason that wheat enough could not be cut to supply the material to make it. There was then no implement for harvesting wheat but the sickle. But the horse harvester and self binder soon made wheat cheaper than corn was when the prediction was made.

THE PAST AND THE PRESENT.

Forty years ago a man with a hand hoe—the only implement used—could only plant and cultivate four acres of corn. By the aid of machines one man now finds no difficulty in planting and tending forty acres. Experiments are now being made with machines for harvesting and thrashing corn, and within five years' time they will be brought to perfection and in general use. Potatoes are now planted, cultivated, dug, sorted and bagged by machinery. The machine has done more for the field than for the shop in the matter of increasing production.

Skill in breeding and feeding has reduced the time necessary to prepare a steer for the market from four years to about eighteen months. A few years ago it was estimated that the product of five acres of land was necessary to support a cow or steer. Now the product of one acre, preserved in a silo, will keep the animal. Silage is the coming food for all animals kept on farms for the purpose of producing meat.

Producing new varieties of small fruits and melons and improving their cultivation have added much to the food supply of the world. Fruit is now almost as common on tables as bread. Melons, oranges, strawberries and grapes form parts of the poor man's breakfast. Sugar is one of the cheapest articles of food, and the country is "flowing with honey," strained for its waxen comb and costing but four cents per pound. During the past few years grapes during their season have been about as cheap as potatoes, and the prospect is that they will soon be included among the most common articles of food.

PRESERVATION OF PERISHABLE FOODS.

The process of canning fresh fruit, vegetables, fish and meat has prevented about half the amount of these articles annually produced from going to waste and rendered their preservation practical for years. Cars and vessels fitted up as refrigerators now carry food products classed as perishable round the world. We can dine on fresh salmon caught in the Columbia river ten years ago, green turtle captured in the West Indies at the same time, and pineapples raised in South America.

Huxley tells us that the "harvest of the sea" has but just commenced, and our own Seth Green has apparently demonstrated that "water farming" is more profitable than land farming. He thinks that all will soon be convinced that an acre of water is capable of producing as much food as an acre of land.

Grain producing territory large enough to form an empire has just been brought into notice in several parts of the world. Agricultural experts state that Siberia is capable of supplying all the people in continental Europe with grain. A like statement is made in regard to Canada. Most of the land in the world once classed as "desert" has been found to be very productive. The first settlers in California thought the most of the soil would produce nothing. The state is now exporting vast quantities of food.

There is no danger that the coming man will starve. It is more likely that he will die of overeating, thinking that it is his duty to do his part in "disposing of the surplus." Possibly the last man will laugh himself into an untimely grave while reading the absurd theories of Malthus and noticing how his predictions came out.—Chicago Times.

The Value of Advertising.

"If you will tramp the city over and take notice of the business places you will find that where the show windows are finest, the stock of goods the freshest and the salesmen the quickest to make sales." The speaker was a joker and we checked him to ask what kind of a patent medicine 'ad' he was going to spring on us. We were fooled, for in all seriousness he continued: "There you will find an advertiser." We all agreed, and another friend said he had another way of telling. "If you will ride from Ashland avenue to State street and count the mercantile houses having electrical lights I will venture that you can find the 'ads' of nine out of ten by searching the morning and evening papers."

We were standing in a cigar store and the proprietor said he could go us one better. "Two years ago my patrons were so few that I scarcely made a living. One day two men got in a quarrel in my store and one shot the other, not fatally, but seriously. The patrol came, thousands gathered in front of the door, the reporters wrote up the affair elaborately and my little store and myself came in for a share of the publicity. The next day hundreds dropped in as they passed to see the scene of the shooting. Many of them bought cigars. From that day on my store was 'advertised,' and for a year I made more money than in three years previous. I now keep a small 'ad' in several papers and you see my clerks are busy."—Chicago Journal.

A Day of Hard Luck.

Jones (to Robinson, weary and footsore)—Been fishing, Robinson?

Robinson—Ya'as.

Jones—Catch anything?

Robinson—Naw; didn't even catch the last train home.—New York Sun.

UP THE GLEN

Up the glen there is sylvan laughter,
Tinkle of water and trill of song;
There, in the hush that follows after,
Dewdrops glisten and moonbeam throng;
Oh, there is weird, wild beauty then—
Up the glen. —Avis Gray.

Herbert Spencer's Inquisitiveness.

"Herbert Spencer," said an Englishman now in this country, who knows a good deal of the great individual's habits, "is one of the most minutely observant men imaginable. He takes an odd interest in the most trivial personal peculiarities of a stranger, and is apparently possessed of a consummate curiosity as to the motives of apparently unimportant acts. When he meets a new acquaintance he plies the person, be it man or woman with innumerable questions. He will ask such persons as to their dress and habits of daily life. If he notices any peculiarity of conduct at table he unhesitatingly thrusts a question at the object of his curiosity. He has lived for over twenty years quietly with a family in a London suburb, where he sees only such persons as it pleases him to know."—New York Press.

To Build a Chimney.

To build a chimney that will draw forever and not fill up with soot, you must build it large enough—sixteen inches square; use good brick, and clay instead of lime up to the comb; plaster it inside with clay mixed with salt; for chimney tops use the very best of brick, wet them and lay them in cement mortar. The chimney should not be built tight to beams and rafters; there is where the cracks in your chimneys come, and where most of the fires originate, as the chimney sometimes gets red hot. A chimney built from cellar up is better and less dangerous than one hung on the wall. Don't get your stovepipe hole too close to the ceiling—eighteen inches from it.—Scientific American.

Skilled Chinese Woodworkers.

A skilled Chinese woodworker, who has arrived in New York to take charge of the fancy work on a Chinese town hall now being built in Mott street, puts on airs to the extent of saying that American cabinetmakers could not earn their tobacco money in China, as most of their work, while grand to the eye, was coarse in construction. Any skillful Chinese woodworker, he said, could make a bedstead that would be worth $10,000 in China, but it wouldn't pay to make such a one here, as it would take three years' time and no American would be willing to pay such a price for a bedstead, except as a curiosity. In China, he said, bedsteads are valued as ornaments, as pianos are here.—Chicago Herald.

A Very Remarkable Difference.

When doctors disagree who shall decide? A bit of enterprise on the part of The Boston Globe disclosed a remarkable difference of opinion among the physicians of that city. A reporter, in perfect health, visited ten prominent Boston doctors and stated nonexistent symptoms and requested a diagnosis. The man's appearance physically was perfect. But notwithstanding this, each doctor diagnosed the case in a different way, and each doctor gave the imaginary invalid a different prescription. The diagnoses and prescriptions, together with the interview with each doctor and a statement as to the reporter's elegant health, were published in The Globe.—Detroit Free Press.

All Americans Discontented.

It is the opinion of an Englishman who has recently visited this country that all says, "are discontented because they cannot Americans are discontented. "The poor," he enjoy the good things which wealth alone can buy; the wealthy are discontented because they have enjoyed all these good things and find them flat, stale and unprofitable; while the moderately well-to-do are discontented because they have neither the social freedom enjoyed by the poor nor the social consideration paid to the rich."—New York Tribune.

Magazines for Binding.

If magazines are to be bound, it is better to have them untrimmed, so that the margins in the bound volume may be as wide as possible. The binder has to shave off the edges to make them even when he binds the book, and if they have already been trimmed once by the magazine binder, there is likely to be little margin left. Even even if the magazines are not to be bound, most subscribers prefer them uncut. Many people like to cut the leaves with a paper knife as they read.—The Writer.

A Careful Financier.

"I say, Fred, lend me a dollar, will you?" A dollar bill is produced. The borrower looks at it a moment thoughtfully, and then exclaims:

"By the way, Fred, I just remembered that there are counterfeit one dollar bills in circulation. To prevent mistakes, suppose you take this back and lend me a two instead. Thanks! A fellow can never be too careful in money matters, you know. So long! see you later;"—Boston Transcript.

Feline Sagacity.

"Bridget, has Johnnie come home from school yet?"

"Yis, sorr."

"Have you seen him?"

"No, sorr."

"Then how do you know he's home?"

"'Cause the cat's hidin' under the stove, sorr."—Time.

A Narrow Escape.

"How many deaths?" asked the hospital physician, while going his rounds.

"Nine."

"Why, I ordered medicine for ten."

"Yes, but one wouldn't take it."—Exchange.

Diamond Measure.

"How do you suppose Mr. Poorcase manages to get diamonds for his wife?" asked a lady of her husband.

"Oh, buys them by the quartz, I presume."—Detroit Free Press.

Of Greater Value.

Chicago Citizen (to lawyer)—Why do you charge me $200 for a divorce, Mr. Blank? It only cost me $5 to get married.

Lawyer—Why do you pay $200 for a diamond and $5 for a Rhine stone?—New York Sun.

No Interest in Archery.

Reports from England of the futile efforts made to revive interest in archery show how thoroughly dead the noble pastime is. Of course, that settles the question of its popularity in this country.—Chicago Herald.

The Mexican state of Morelos offers a premium for the establishment of new industries and grants exemption from taxation for the same for the term of five years.

By the new salute in the French army soldiers touch the hair with the hand reversed, showing the palm, and officers touch the brim of the kepi.

A PUEBLO SUN DANCE.

CELEBRATING THE FEAST OF A SAINT IN NEW MEXICO.

An Interesting Event at the Pueblo of San Buena Ventura de Cochiti—A Curious Dance of Mystic Meaning—The Movements.

Two hundred mounted Pueblos, aligned as perfectly as a crack cavalry regiment on parade, formed three sides of a hollow square. The fourth side was the high wall of the old church yard, now buried under a drift of expectant humanity. Pueblos from Santo Domingo, San Felipe, Isleta, San Juan, Nambe, Tesuque, Pojoaque, and even distant Acoma, Navajoes from the western end of the territory, four "Americans" and forty or fifty neighboring Mexicans were among the crowd. Close by the cross over the gate was the long, faded robe and the beautiful, classic face of the priest from Pena Blanca, whose delicately chiseled Gallic features looked anachronistic enough among those swarthy proselytes. He had held mass in the old church that morning, and now the first dance of the day was to be el faile del padre, in his honor.

We had not long to wait. Directly the pum! pum! pum! of a huge yellow tomtom, big as a mature beer barrel, came around the corner of the church, presently followed by the tomtom itself and its athletic persecutor. Around the drummer clustered the chorus—a dozen men in snowy shirts and with snowy drawers descending into the embrace of beautiful brown buckskin calzones, which also covered the tops of their moccasins. They were chanting loudly a weird refrain in the Juerez tongue, keeping perfect time with feet and arms. They were closely followed by the dancers—a strange and grotesque half hundred, truly. At their head marched the bearer of the holy Flag of the Sun. He was a stalwart aboriginal gentleman, clothed upon with all the pomp and circumstance of a St. Louis drum major, but without the ramrod which is popularly supposed to stiffen the spine of that awful dignitary. The banner was a priceless bit of work in beaded buckskin; bearing, with its pole, the general shape of a gigantic feather, and fringed and tufted at sides and top with eagle feathers. The dancers were equally divided as to sex, and an attractive set in face and form. The women wore their usual modest dress to the knees, but had omitted their everyday buckskin boots and moccasins, and their shapely shins and arms were bare. Their beautiful black hair, carefully combed, hung down their backs, unrestrained by ribbon or ornament. Around their necks they wore a dazzling profusion of necklaces, costly corals, silver beads alternating with silver crosses and long strings of priceless turquois—their proximity to the only turquois mine in the Western hemisphere stands them in good stead—were a dozen strands deep on those pretty brown necks. Their heavy jet bangs—the Aztecs were banging their hair before Cortez sailed from Spain—waved as they came hopping along on alternate feet. Each had a bright vermilion patch on either cheek bone, and each held in either hand a sprig of sacred cedar. But the most remarkable feature of the female half of the ballet was the headdress. Over the middle of her crown, each woman wore a board, fitted to her head, and rising eighteen inches above it. The board was bright with an ornamental top and a capital T sawed out of the middle. The projections at the top of the board were prettily tufted.

The men were more picturesquely arrayed. Each was naked to the waist, and painted over the trunk and arms with a dull blue. Around the waist and falling nearly to the knees was an elaborate dancing skirt woven of mouse colored stuff, handsomely decked with bead work, and with a fine macreme sash pendent on the right side. To this skirt, behind, was attached a beautiful fox skin, with its long brush dangling nearly to the ground. The moccasins and leggins completed the dress, but there were further accessories. Each man had fastened to the top of his head a little bunch of feathers or a sprig of cedar; each had around his biceps a four-inch armlet of buckskin painted green and white, and several skeins of bright yarn and strings of sleigh bells were tied around the calzones just below the knee. None of them were facially painted, none had the customary headkerchief or queue, nor the every day white cotton drawers. Each held in his left hand a branch of evergreen, and in his right a rattle, made of a dry gourd, with a wooden handle. Over their bare chests rattled beads only less prodigal than those worn by the women. The men were all young or youngish and, as a rule, very good looking fellows. At the rear the procession tapered down to half a dozen boys and girls, the smallest not over 4 years old, but dressed just like their elders, and equally expert in the intricacies of the curious dance.

When the fifty dancers were all inside the square, in a long row by pairs—first two women and then two men—they ceased their advance, which had been made at a madding pace of a half a mile per hour, but continued to "mark time," as an army man would say, to the unfaltering bump of the yellow drum and the long winded sing song of the chorus. The step, whether advancing, retreating or standing still, is the same—a simple variation of the universal hop jump remembered by every one who has ever seen an aboriginal dance anywhere. Starting on tiptoe, the dancer raised his right foot quickly to a height of from three to six inches above the ground, at the same time—or perhaps an instant later—giving a tiny hop, which lifted the left foot high enough to put a toothpick between it and the ground. This hitch is almost imperceptible in itself, but it is never omitted, and makes a notable impression upon the character of the step as a whole. Then the right foot went down in a similar hyphenated fashion, and the left foot went up, and so on. The soft pat of the moccasined feet of the men and the bare soles of the women was audible only in the aggregate.

After a little marching and countermarching around the space reserved for them, the dancers again came down to the footlights—so to speak—and, by a quick turn, formed in four parallel rows, facing outward. In the center were the two rows of women, and on each side a row of men. In this position they danced in mark time fashion, moving their arms alternately up and down with their legs. The men used their rattles meantime, each at stated intervals thrusting his right arm out in shoulder striker style, and giving at the same time a loud "Ay! ay!" All swayed their bodies from side to side, also, in graceful wise. The time kept by all was absolutely perfect, and the figures reminded me of a Virginia reel to the tune the old cow died of. Up and down between the open lines of the dancers gamboled three tall, erect fellows, who were among the most important characters of the day. They were naked save for their G-string, plastered with mud from head to foot, and with uncanny strings dangling from knees to wrists. Each had a bristling knot of corn husks knotted to his hair behind, and carried a similar scare crow in his hand. They were the clowns of the occasion, and called out many grunts and squeaks of approbation by their fantastic pigeon wings, grimaces and other monkey shines.—Chochiti (N. M.) Cor. Globe-Democrat.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

A Hindoo girls' high school has been started at Allahabad.

Miss Kittie C. Wilkins, of Idaho, is the owner of between 700 and 800 horses.

Lucy Larcon has a placid face, quiet eyes and gray tinted hair, knotted in curls at her neck.

Mrs. Frank Leslie has been most cordially adopted by the literary and artistic set in London.

Miss Alice B. Farley, of Port Hudson, La., is one of the most successful cotton growers in the state.

Mrs. Levi P. Morton was born and raised on Staten Island. Her maiden name was Ann Street.

Kate Claxton is much reduced financially, and is trying to sell some oil paintings left her by her father.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe has learned to speak French, Italian and modern Greek since her marriage.

Grace Imogene Upham is suing the Chicago City railway for $30,000 damages for injuries received while alighting from a car.

Mrs. Carnegie made a fine collection of photographic views during the coaching tour from London to Cluny castle.

Lillie Devereux Blake thinks that "every married woman should have an equal share of the family income."

Miss Lucy A. Plympton, of Albany, will be a delegate to the International Geological congress at London in September.

Mrs. Crawford, the Paris correspondent of The London Daily News, has been admitted to the National Association of Journalists.

Mlle. Klumpke, the first female house surgeon in Paris, was married recently to Dr. Dejernie, an eminent young French physician.

Miss Frances Wetmore, who has been appointed government physician for the Island of Hilo, makes her visits on horseback and answers every call.

Mrs. M. W. Ravenhill, of New York, beats the record of youthful grandmothers so far reported. She was 32 years old when her granddaughter was born.

Miss Emma Black, the rival of the beautiful Miss Chamberlain, is engaged to be married to an American at Buda Pesth. Miss Black refused the place accepted by Mrs. Hamersley.

A number of ladies in Philadelphia get their bonnets very cheaply by having a clever girl milliner out of employment come to the house. They pay her $5 a day, and in one day she trims up the bonnets and hats for all the women in the family.

Lady Philippa Howard, who is going to wed a London physician, is the fourth of the present Duke of Norfolk's sisters. She is 36 years of age. Two of the Ladies Howard are nuns. It is considered a great mesalliance in England for a duke's daughter to marry a medical man.

Princess Laetitia Bonaparte will receive some beautiful wedding presents from the citizens of Turin. The artists of that famous Italian center intend to combine all their skill to produce a lovely casket, and twenty-four ladies of that city are planning to furnish the bride's boudoir with gorgeous furniture and hangings.

Miss Adelaide Thompson of Philadelphia, who is worth over $3,000,000, and who is now over 60 years of age, is attracting as much attention this season at Long Branch as ever. This is her twenty-second season at Long Branch, and she is occupying the same room at the hotel that she has had every season.

Mrs. Buckner, wife of the governor of Kentucky, wears as ornaments a conch shell necpin and sleeve buttons which, in addition to their beauty, have the charm of a romantic history, having been purchased by her relative, Gen. George Washington, from a shipwrecked and destitute sailor and by him worn on the coat in which he was inaugurated. They are beautifully preserved and the coloring is exquisite.

Mme Mutsu, wife of the Japanese minister in Washington, is one of the favorite ladies of the mikado's court. She is petite and slender in person and gentle in manner and has the dead black hair, clear olive complexion and kindling black eyes of the Oriental. Her white teeth are perfect and there is not a line of care or weariness in her mobile face. She has an only daughter, who is 14 years old. She dresses with a refined taste and has all her gowns from Paris.

GASTRONOMICAL TID BITS.

There is nothing quite so good for making athletes of children now as green apple pie.

Interest in children rapidly decreases when they are seen in public places sucking oranges.

It doesn't seem to matter what the stock is for mulligatawny soup so long as the curry gets in.

Fried hominy is said by one of the Newport caterers to be improved by sprinkling with nutmeg.

Pineapples are about done now for the season, and this will leave a void at many Sunday night teas.

Bishop Taylor recently said: "I would rather spend the next twenty years in Africa than in heaven."

The report that Gen. Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, is to visit the United States in the fall, is denied.

Grecian epicures enveloped their hands in a kind of glove, so that they could pick out the food while burning hot.

Ducklings, with or without apple sauce, are now seasonable and in order, and in table d'hote, at all events, make a change.

The Lutherans in this country have begun a thorough revision and a translation of the Augsburg Confession and of Luther's Small Catechism.

"Parisienne potatoes" at some hotels really taste as if they had been prepared to eat in France and had come to this country in a sailing vessel.

Stewed pears and rice would seem to be almost a standard dish at summer hotels, where the boarders will surely get enough of one good thing.

The official call for the seventy-ninth annual meeting of the A. B. C. F. M. has just been issued. The meeting will be held in Cleveland, Oct. 2-5.

The receipts of the American board for the ten months ending with June, 1888, were $430,000, an advance of $73,000 for the corresponding time in 1887.

The Pool of Bethesda has been satisfactorily identified at Jerusalem, according to the statement of the chairman of the Palestine Exploration fund.

The Rev. Dr. Walter M. Barrows has resigned his position as secretary of the American Home Missionary society, and accepted a call to the Second Congregational church of Rockford, Ills.

The Roman Catholic statistics for New England are as follows: Priests, 906; seminarians 233; churches, 602; chapels and stations, 133; colleges, 7; academies, 38; parochial schools, 205; pupils, 69,105; charitable institutions, 36; population, 1,185,000.

AWAY FROM MY LOVED HILLS.

Away from my loved hills, away from all
That is most dear to my unhappy soul,
I go in sadness. Nor can I control
My anxious thoughts, nor check the tears that fall.
Vain is that pale delusion which we call
Philosophy. It never can console
The heart's distress, nor lighter make the dole
For fortune's woundings, be they great or small.
Yet, be it only some new grief to find,
Or to bring back some dear reward of pain,
The trial shall be made. Not all in vain
Shall be the patient battle of the mind,
And though I know not what the days will bring,
In hope I gird me for my journeying.
—Robert Burns Wilson in New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Living in Its Past Glory.

Nothing too extravagant can be said in favor of the sublime beauty of Italy, nor too many eulogies bestowed on its historical and artistic treasures, which the accumulations of ages have here heaped up in rich profusion, but neither can too much be said respecting the utter contrast between the country and its inhabitants. They cannot realize that the progress of time has brought to the inevitable end their national glories, nor that a country to thrive must possess something besides history, but are so conceited that nothing on earth can disabuse them of the idea that they are still the seat and center of all greatness. They rest on the reputations and claim all the glory earned by their ancestors from Adam down, and fondly fancy other countries are groping in the twilight of civilization as compared with their own, and foreigners come to this worn out, king ridden, rat trap of a place in the same spirit that the Greeks of old called on the gods of Olympus. They, centuries ago, ceased to give birth to Cæsars, Michael Angelos or Dantes. A crabbed but shrewd German has likened them unto "the maggots, coming descent from the lion merely because they swarmed out of the corruption of his dead carcass."—Florence Cor. Chicago Times.

Confidence in the Bartender.

Did you ever think how very much talk is hurled at a bartender? He has to listen to all kinds of people talking on all kinds of subjects. Frequent drinking makes a glib tongue, and matters that might be regarded as state secrets outside the pale of the bar room are there discussed with a shocking lack of reserve. The funny part of it is that the bartender is taken seriously into the discussion and his opinions are treated as of great respect and authority by persons who, when sober, have no companionship with the mixer of drinks. Think of a man taking his business affairs, his family affairs, his love affairs, to be submitted to the judgment of a bartender, and you will have in mind what actually happens very, very often. Place a white aproned man behind a whisky bar, and he becomes, in many instances, the leader in thought and expression of those who exchange money for drinks over the two feet of walnut board that separates them.—Bartender in Globe-Democrat.

Manufacturing Imitation Mummies.

A gentleman from Portland, Ore., who has just returned from an extended foreign tour, was asked why he had not brought home from Egypt, among other curios, a mummy. He said there was a great deal of fraud in the mummy business. Persons purchasing mummies, of course, like to get them as well preserved and natural looking as possible, and, as those found are generally in a more or less dilapidated condition, venders have engaged in the business of manufacturing bogus mummies. They bargain with tramps, beggars and such people for their carcasses, paying therefor a sum sufficient to make their remaining days short and sweet. These fellows are preserved and pickled, and then smoked until they are good imitations of the genuine mummy. Whole rows of these articles can be seen in a smoke house at once. When sufficiently dry they are wrapped in mummy cloth and sold to Americans chiefly, bringing a high price.—Cleveland Leader.

Bathers in Oiled Silk.

The latest fad among bathers is to wear costumes lined with oiled silk. This was told as a secret by a young lady to whom was propounded the interrogatory why she was able to stay in the water so long. You see, the oiled silk prevents the water from penetrating, and enables the bather to stay in the water a long time without becoming cold. This new innovation was gotten up through a wager between two ladies as to which could stay in the longest; and one of them, through natural ingenuity, bethought herself of oiled silk, and won the wager. While her rival emerged from the briny with chattering teeth, the other bobbed up in the water serenely and smiling.—San Francisco Post.

American Lamps in Paris.

When people prate of novelties found only in Paris, confound them by stating that the tall lamps which decorate fashionable drawing rooms are unknown to the conservative Parisian households. Two of these "piano lamps," as they are sometimes called, were carried over as gifts in June and set up in one of the most elegant apartments in Paris, where they instantly created a sensation. French taste has been forced to admit that American taste is to the front in the matter of lamps at least.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He Had Become Wise.

"Haven't you got a garden of your own?" asked a Central Market butcher of a colored man.

"No, sah."

"But you've got a place for one."

"Yes, sah."

"Rather lazy, aren't you?"

"No, sah. I'ze simply got experience."

"How?"

"Not to attempt to raise any garden truck in Detroit dat I can't bring into house an' lock up at night."—Detroit Free Press.

He Was Too Funny.

Charlie (dejectedly)—Say, Tom, I've lost my best girl.

Tom—No? How did it happen?

Charlie—Aw, I was altogether too funny for her.

Tom—Too funny? What do you mean?

Charlie—Well, you see, she was crazy to have a pet dog, so I gave her a pug, and told her I selected that kind because it matched her nose so perfectly. See? Confound a funny man, anyhow.—Washington Critic.

Off for the Springs.

Wife—John, dear, why do they call the place a "spa?"

Husband—Simply because it is where they relieve you of all your spa cash.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

A Good Suggestion.

In pulling out a sheet of paper from the middle of a pile, give it a quick jerk, and the chances are that the papers above and below will not be much disturbed.—"R. I." in The Writer.

Of all the twenty-six barons who signed the Magna Charta, only three could write their own names.

As many as 3,000,000 women in the United States work for money.

Summer in Boston.

PRETTY GIRLS.

In the summer tennis shoes are worn by girls, instead of gaiters,
When at the mountains, or the shore, they flirt with student waiters.

A FAMILY PARTY.

In the summer, husband, wife and children, with a big lunch basket,
Go down the harbor for a day's enjoyment, at Nantasket.

THEY GET OUT OF TOWN.

In the summer, there's a rush to reach the various watering places,
And city duns of debtors cannot find the slightest traces.

'TIS EVER THUS.

In the summer, picnic parties spend the day in sylvan bowers,
And have their finery destroyed by sudden thunder showers.

NOT FUNNY FOR HIM.

In the summer bugs and ants and flies become of men the eaters,
And 'tis fun to watch the bald man pulverizing the muskeeters.

ALWAYS THE WAY.

In the summer all the big men get the little bathing dresses,
And the little men the big ones, source prolific of distresses.

IN INNOCUOUS DESUETUDE.

In the summer many overcoats, fur trimmed and storm defying,
A prey to ravages of moths on "Uncle's" shelves are lying.

THE MECCAS.

In the summer when we get a taste of equatorial weather,
Ice cream saloons are places where the girls delight to gather.

—Boston Courier.

Travers' Wit.

Henry Clews in his new book, tells several good anecdotes of the witty stutterer, William R. Travers, some of which, though not all are new, are worth reproducing.

A. T. Stewart, the world renowned retail dry goods merchant, was elected on one occasion to preside at a meeting of citizens during the war period, Travers being among the number present. When Mr. Stewart took his gold pencil case from his pocket and rapped with its head on the table for the meeting to come to order, Travers called out, in an audible tone, "C-cash!" which brought down the house, and no one laughed more heartily than Mr. Stewart, although it was a severe thrust at himself.

His wit, like that of Tom Hood, did not forsake him, even in his last hours.

While on his deathbed at Bermuda a friend called to see him, and said: "What a nice place Bermuda is for rest and change." Travers replied: "Y-y-yes, th-the waiters g-g-get th-th-the ch-change and th-the h-h-hotel keepers th-the r-r-rest."

An Exciting Moment.

"Yo see it waz like dis: It waz de nint' inungs an' each side wuz thirty-two runs. Jimmy wuz at de bat. He got onter Reddy's curve an' hit der ball a welt out ter center field. Tommy Scully giv' a jump fer it, but it went t'rough his fingers an' we winned de game."—Life.

Common Ground.

Small Boy—What's the score?

Gentleman (returning from game)—Six to 1.

Small Boy—Favor of Detroit?

Gentleman—Yes.

The small boy smiles and the gentleman smiles in sympathy. What is there remarkable about that conversation? Oh, nothing, except that the conversation actually occurred and the small boy was a ragged street urchin without a cent to bless himself with, while the man was one of Detroit's millionaires. The mutual smile showed that baseball maketh the whole world kin.—Detroit Free Press.

The Trials of a Brummer.

The country storekeeper carefully examined the samples of cloth while the drummer patiently waited. A customer came, the storekeeper waited on him, then went back to examine the samples, to pull out and untwist the threads. Another customer, and more examination; still another customer, and as the storekeeper began again he said:

"Are these samples in style?"

"They were," replied the discouraged drummer, "when you began to look at them, but that was so long ago that I can't answer for them now."—Detroit Free Press.

A Natural Supposition.

"Papa, what do they have that crowbar strapped up there for?" said the small boy in the railway car.

"That, my boy," replied pater familias, sinking hot and frantic into his seat with a sprained wrist and half his thumbnail gone after a three minute wrestle with the car window, "that, I suppose, is for the brakemen to open these blanked windows with."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Our Village Industrial Competition.

Husband (just home from the city)—My angel!—Crying?—Whatever's the matter?

Wife—They've awarded me—prize medal—(sobbing)—f' my sponge cake!

Husband (soothingly)—And I'm quite sure it deserv'——

Wife (hysterically)—Oh—but—'t said—'twas—for the best specimen o' concrete!—Punch.

Learned It by Bar.

A young lady in this city who teaches a Sunday school class of 8-year-olds recently asked them the question: "What is an altar?" "I know," said one irrepressible; "it's a place where they burn insects."—Augusta (Me.) Journal.

Tall Corn.

Corn is so tall in Kansas this year that strangers passing through on night trains, looking out on the cornfields by moonlight, talk of the dense oak and maple forests they are passing through.—Leavenworth Times.

Particular.

"No, indeed," said the young lady from Boston, adjusting her eyeglasses, "I never ride in those Roberttail cars."—New York Evening Sun.

The Dry Season.

It's been so wet in some parts of West Virginia that farmers will have to harvest their crops with strainers.—Washington Critic.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13 ..... 1888

The monotony of village life is enough to drive young people to dissipation and old people to insanity. The young as a rule are given no education beyond the simple text books of the common schools. In the ordinary village home there is no conversation about anything but the most commonplace things. Multitudes of young people have grown up without ever hearing even five minutes rational talk about the mental or spiritual nature of human beings. It is only by mere chance if a young person brought up in many villages in California ever hears a remark that would lead to asking whether or not there is anything human beings need care about other than money can buy. It should not excite wonder if in such surroundings the young sometimes appear to have lost the old-fashioned faith in the immortality of the soul; a final calling to account for every act and word; and in very desperation from the dullness of their every day lives yield themselves up to the delirium of passion. The narrowness; the horrible sameness; the dull monotony; the pettiness and meanness of village life cause more of the errors of the young than the innate weakness of human nature. In California Church influence is weaker than in any other so-called Christian country. There is very little church going from any sense of duty. Unless the young are interested they will not go to church at all. Many older people are no different. Unfortunately there are but few churches where old or young who are indifferent about religion will be much interested in the usual services. The older people who came here from the East with the faith and habits resulting from early religious training are disappearing. The survivors themselves are becoming indifferent. The young are growing up in a condition of heathenism. The restraining influence of religion is unknown to them and they are not given anything else to take its place; if anything could take the place of humble faith in God and the glorious hope of an immortality in communion with Him. With the loss of the ancient faith of Greece and Rome their glory, their power, their civilization were lost. As Pompeii and Herculaneum were covered by the ashes of Versuvius, so were those two great civilizations covered and destroyed by the barbarians who swept over people no longer nerved to heroism by religious faith and fervor, but sunk in indifference and sensual indulgence. If our own civilization would not meet the fate of those that have gone before it, something more must be done in the education of the young than is now practiced. In the public school under our system of education the text books occupy all the time of teacher and pupils; if the young are to have any religious or moral training they must get it at home, or not at all. Without such training there is little to inspire the young to lives of virtue; to self restraint and unselfishness. Without such training the only sin is exposure and the only good is the pleasure that may be seized in the passing hour.

Holman's Suspension Bill.

The bill introduced by Mr. Holman on August 28th entitled "A bill to suspend all laws touching the disposal of public lands except the homestead law, and for other purposes," came up for action in the House of Representatives on the 21st ult., and was most thoroughly pruned. The entire first section of the bill, as originally presented by Mr. Holman, was stricken out, which removed nearly all of the provision against which objections were directed, leaving only that portion relating to railroad grants. The public land laws will continue to be executed as heretofore. Persons who have made pre-emption filings and timber culture entries may legally perfect title. Those who made homestead entries with the understanding that they could commute the same to cash at any time after the expiration of six months from the date of entry, will be permitted to complete the same in accordance with the terms of their contracts, and persons who have accepted pledges of the Government redeemable in public land for waivers of valid and valuable claims, may continue to locate their scrip. The people of the great Northwest are to be congratulated upon the escape they have experienced, as nothing could have more seriously hindered the growth of that section than the bill as introduced. The bill was so changed that the title was found inapplicable and "A bill relating to railroad land grants" was substituted. It simply provides that during the pending of measures now before Congress in relation to the forfeiture of certain lands heretofore granted by Congress to railroad corporations and thereafter, no act done or performed by any such corporation shall in any wise enlarge the right or claim of any such corporation to any lands covered by any such grant, or diminish any right now existing in the United States to declare the forfeiture thereof. This provision shall not be construed to in any wise affect or diminish or waive any right now existing on behalf of the United States to declare the forfeiture of any of the lands embraced in any such grant.

Election Proclamation.

Pursuant to law and a Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California, made and done at Sacramento on the 29th day of September, A. D. 1888,

Notice Is Hereby Given

By the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, that a General Election will be held throughout the said County of Inyo, on

Tuesday, November 6th, 1888.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the morning and will be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m. on the said 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, during which time the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

Eight Electors of President and Vice President of the United States.

One Representative to the Congress of the United States from the Sixth Congressional District composed of the counties of San Benito, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego.

One member of the Assembly from the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

Also one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice Niles Searles appointed.

One Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice E. W. McKinstry, resigned.

And the Governor of the State of California hereby offers a reward of

One Hundred Dollars

for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part 1 of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

And the following officers of Inyo county are to be elected at the same time, viz.:

One Sheriff;
One County Clerk;
One District Attorney;
One County Treasurer;
One Coroner;
One County Surveyor;
One Supervisor for District No. 2;
One Supervisor for District No. 4;
One Supervisor for District No. 5;
Two Justices of the Peace for each Township in Inyo county.
Two Constables for each Township in Inyo county.
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 1;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 2;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 3;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 4;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 5;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 6;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 7.

Said election to be held at the places, and the election to be conducted by the election officers hereby appointed, and hereinafter named, as follows, to wit:

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 1

Polls to be held at the store of F. P. Blaisdell, at Round Valley. Inspector, F. P. Blaisdell; Judges, James Nevins and Richard Hilten

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 2

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Avena. Inspector, A. Matlick; Judges, Moses Brockman and William McLaren.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 3

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Station. Inspector, G. A. Thede; Judges, James Peregrine and Joseph McNally.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 4

Polls to be held at the residence of Nathan Gilbert. Inspector, W. A. Greenly; Judges, S. P. Roberts and Nathan Gilbert.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 5

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Creek. Inspector L. P. Springstead; Judges, B. H. Yancy and W. W. Yantell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 6

Polls to be held at the residence of George Story, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. Inspector, A. O. Collins; Judges, George Story and R. Merryman.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 7

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Big Pine. Inspector, S. J. McMurry; Judges, L. M. Newman and J. M. Hay.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 8

Polls to be held at the residence of the Conklin Brothers. Inspector, James Lane; Judges, N. E. Conklin and O. H. P. Love.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 9

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Independence. Inspector, W. J. Lake; Judges, J. Zeigler and J. D. Blair.

ELEETION PRECINCT NO. 10

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Georges Creek. Inspector, W. L. Hunter; Judges, John Kispert and John Meyer.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 12

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas McDonough, in Arastra Canyon. Inspector Thomas McDonough; Judges, George St. Clair and Frank Miranda.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 13

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse in Lone Pine. Inspector, John Lucas; Judges, J. J. Stewart and R. C. Spear.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 14

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas Boland at Cerro Gordo. Inspector, John Thomas; Judges, William Crapo and George Weist.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 15

Polls to be held in a building adjoining the store of Thomas Boland in Keeler. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, E. F. Hall and John Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 16

Polls to be held at the house of William Walker, at Olancha. Inspector, A. Walker; Judges, H. Bellows and William Walker.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 17.

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Darwin. Inspector, Charles Anthony; Judges, Martin Mee and N. S. Thompson.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 18

Polls to be held at the store of Frank Fitzgerald, at Lookout. Inspector, J. D. Channell Judges, Frank Fitzgerald and W. C. Smith.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 21

Polls to be held at the office of the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, at Panamint. Inspector H. G. Chickering; Judges, John Curran and E. Rowell.

Dated this 2d day of October, A D 1888

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House,
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sept 1f

How to Catch a Tiger.

The author of "Three Years of a Wanderer's Life" says that he once saw three young tigers, larger than Newfoundland dogs, loose on the deck of a British India steamer, crowded with several hundred Mecca pilgrims. The cage in which they were confined was large, and barred on each side, with a partition running along its middle, which had a drop door. The man who had charge of the animals would drive them over to one side of the cage, close the partition and clean out the other side at his leisure; then barring up the clean side, he would open the partition and drive the tigers back, while he went through the same performance on the other side. One morning he neglected to put up the bars on the side he had finished, and so drove the tigers out of the opposite side of the open cage. The animals, on obtaining their liberty, took different directions, and, crouching in the nearest corners, lay snarling and exposing their teeth, showing unmistakable signs of a most dangerous fear. That side of the deck was deserted and the crowd gazed in interest at a respectful distance.

Mr. Fleuse, the third officer, the second officer and the keeper each placed themselves before a tiger, barring their exit, should they attempt to move away. Fleuse inquired if the tigers had been fed that day. They had not; they had always been fed on living fowls. Fleuse called for three chickens from the hen coop. Taking these he threw one in the face of each tiger. The chickens seemed simply motionless, glued to the spot, so instantaneous was the fixing of teeth and claws. Fleuse then went deliberately up to a tiger, coolly took the loose skin of the back of the neck with one hand and the root of the tail with the other, and putting out his full strength, dragged the heavy brute along the deck to the cage and forced it through the open bars. The chicken diversion acted perfectly. The brute had no object but that of retaining its prey. It growled fearfully; its eyes blazed; its teeth crushed through the chicken; its unsheathed claws clasped and pierced its quivering body. Red hot irons would hardly have made it loosen its grip of the bird. Then the keeper and the others helped Fleuse in carrying the remaining tigers into the cage.—The Argonaut.

Beethoven's Lock of Hair.

A Mrs. Helm wrote to Beethoven when he had already lived half a century, and most sentimentally asked him for a souvenir—if possible, a lock of his hair—and he was cruel enough to cut some gray hair from a goat and to send it to her in a locket which she had transmitted to him for the purpose. There would not have been much harm in it, because Mrs. Helm in perfect good faith wore the locket, and since it is faith only that renders you happy, she, thinking that she wore the cherished hair on her heart, was happy. But after her delusion had lasted for years a friend of Beethoven, to whom he had laughingly confided the whole story, suddenly revealed the secret to the very lady who was the victim of the hoax, and she with bitter tears wrote to Beethoven, telling him how cruel it was to take such unfair advantage of her admiration for and her unbounded good faith in him, and to render a friend, a sincere adorer, if she might say so, ridiculous before all her friends, to whom she had often shown the relic with all veneration possible, and now it came out that it was all a goat's hair.

She pleaded her case so well that Beethoven, touched with her resignation—she did not cry for vengeance, but submitted meekly—repented of his joke and sent her some of his real venerable gray hair, which made her happy. Ce que femme veut Dieu le veut. Have you ever known an exception to the rule? It is just because they always pose as victims that they excite our pity and adroitly make us the weaker sex, and we have always to do their will.—Temple Bar.

Plants and the Electric Light.

According to a Berlin paper some disagreeable results have followed the electric lighting of the Winter palace at St. Petersburg, the intense brilliancy of the light having been found to cause direct destruction among the ornamental plants used for the decoration of the banqueting halls. It appears that the complete illumination of the rooms for a single night is enough to cause the leaves to turn yellow and dry up, and ultimately to fall off. The damage to the celebrated collection of palms at the palace is especially serious. It is supposed that the injury is principally due to the sudden change from the sunless days of the northern winter and from the subdued light of the plant houses to the blinding light of the banqueting halls. It has been shown beyond a doubt that the rapidity of the injurious action and the amount are directly proportional to the intensity of the illumination, and plants standing in niches or other places partially shielded from the light are found to remain uninjured. There is no doubt that the injurious effects of the light are greatly intensified by the dry, artificially heated atmosphere of the rooms, and that they would be minimized, if not entirely obviated, if the plants could be surrounded by a steamy atmosphere, such as that in which they are grown.—Boston Post.

A Left Handed Barber.

I ran across a novelty in the way of barbers not long ago. This was an artist who uses his left hand in guiding the razor. I was greatly surprised and did not recover until he had removed my beard. While he was dressing my hair I summoned sufficient courage to ask him a few questions. "I have traveled a great deal," he said, "and I have never met a left handed barber. I am beginning to think that I am the only one in the country. Yes, men consider it very lucky to be shaved by me. I could tell you of a number of prominent gentleman who, after losing heavily at poker, came to me in the hope of changing their luck. Then there are others who never think of sitting in a game without first coming to me for a shave. Last summer I had more than I could do. Sporting men and gamblers who followed the races invariably rushed in here before going down to the track to play the horses. Did I bring them good luck? Of course I did. At the end of the season there was not one of my customers who was not a big winner."—"Rambler" in Brooklyn Eagle.

BASEBALL TALK.

Healy says he will not pitch for Indianapolis next year.

Kelly's work in right field is pronounced the finest ever seen in San Francisco.

Billy McLean, of Philadelphia, is mentioned as one of the probable League umpires next year.

Mullane is a great pitcher, the superior, one might add, of any who has twirled a ball in this state.—San Francisco Call.

Capt. Anson says he is willing to concede that Caruthers is Clarkson's superior outside of the box, "but he can't pitch such ball as Clarkson."

California exchanges say Dave Foutz's arm has commenced to draw up as Charley Sweeney's did, and it is probably lost, as far as good pitching is concerned.

Official expressions from both the Philadelphia and Athletic clubs indicate that twenty-five cents will continue to be the price of admission to ball games in the Quaker City.

Toronto will have a great nine next season, despite the departure of several players. They will have Decker, c. and r. f.; Oldfielder, c. and r. f.; Atkinson, Cashman, p.; Hartnett, 1b.; Kearns, 2b.; Rickley, 3b.; McLaughlin, s. s. and captain; Burke, l. f.; Lally, c. f. and p.; Connors, r. f.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON
Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR
Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,
MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec13tf

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
" .....February 25th
" .....March 24th
" .....April 21st
" .....May 19th
" .....June 23rd
" .....July 21st
" .....August 18th
" .....September 15th
" .....October 13th
" .....November 17th
" .....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 331, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

115 GREAT STREET. 117
SMITH & STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide. (24 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

FREE $85 solid GOLD WATCH sold for $85.00 till lately. Best $85 watch in the world. Perfect time keeper. Warranted. Heavy solid Gold Hunting Cases. Elegant and magnificent. Both ladies' and gents' sizes with works and cases of equal value ONE PERSON in each locality can secure one FREE. How is this possible? We answer—we want one person in each locality, to keep in their homes, and show to those who call, a complete line of our valuable and very useful HOUSEHOLD SAMPLES. These samples, as well as the watch, we send free, and after you have kept them in your home for 2 months and shown them to those who may have called, they become your own property; it is possible to make this great offer, sending the SOLID GOLD watch and 4 COSTLY samples free, as the showing of the samples in any locality, always results in a large trade for us, after our samples have been in a locality for a month or two we usually get from $2000 to $5000 in trade from the surrounding country. This, the most wonderful offer ever known, is made in order that our samples may be placed at once where they can be seen, all over America. Write at once, and make sure of the chance. Reader it will be hardly any trouble for you to show the samples to those who may call at your home and your reward will be most satisfactory. A postal card on which to write address but 1 cent and after you know all, if you do not care to go further, why no harm is done. But if you do send your address at once, you can secure FREE one of the best solid gold watches in the world and our large line of COSTLY SAMPLES. We pay all express, freight, etc. Address GEO. STINSON & CO., Box 812, PORTLAND, MAINE.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
AT
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
AND AT
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.
DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.
Matched and Dressed Flooring.
sept 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!
We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time, or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine

Independence Hotel.
Independence - - Cal
H. LEVY, Proprietor.
FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.
Free Bus To and From The Cars.
Jy1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU (10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.)

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND GOLDEN PRIZE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R
TAKING EFFECT
Tuseday, April 1tOh, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House..... | 9.15 a. m. | 5.35 p. m. |
| Dayton..... | 10.45 a. m. | 4.35 p. m. |
| Wabuska..... | 12.45 a. m. | 2.25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne..... | 4.30 p. m. | 10.40 a. m. |
| Luning..... | 5.50 p. m. | 9.20 a. m. |
| Sodа Springs..... | 7.00 p. m. | 8.10 a. m. |
| Belleville..... | 8.10 p. m. | 7.05 a. m. |
| Candelaria..... | Ar. 8.50 p. m. | Lv. 6.30 a. m. |
| | No. 3. | No. 4. |
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Belleville..... | 7.30 a. m. | 5.25 p. m. |
| Benton..... | 11.00 a. m. | 1.45 p. m. |
| Bishop Creek..... | 1.10 p. m. | 11.00 a. m. |
| Alvord..... | 2.00 p. m. | 10.35 a. m. |
| Independence..... | 3.30 p. m. | 9.05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine..... | 4.15 p. m. | 8.15 a. m. |
| Keeler..... | Ar. 5.05 p. m. | Lv. 7.30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains on V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (57 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salsbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downeyville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.
R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.
D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS
Wagons Painted.
The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.
PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.
Horseshoeing.....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE,
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every new article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
NATHAN RHINE.
n25tf

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.
AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first-class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13 ..... 1888

Maggie J. Dunn has entered suit for divorce from Robert Dunn.

Mr. Robert O'Neal, of Bishop Creek, was in town on Thursday.

Mrs. W. L. Hunter, of Georges Creek, has been quite ill for some weeks past.

Gus. Walker and Ed. Walker were up from Olancha at the beginning of the week.

Messrs. James Crocker and J. Creaser came down from Big Pine last Wednesday.

The Chronicle-Union says the Great Register of Mono county will contain in all 813 names.

Miles Finlen, tried for the murder of a man named Payne at Virginia City, has been acquitted.

"You are too simple." "Yes, but—" "That's all right." "Who said so?" "Never mind."

Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Yerington and D. A Bender went down to Keeler on a special.

The Supervisors of Mono county have fixed the tax levy at $2 25. This is a reduction of seventy-five cents from the rate of last year.

Last Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. O. I. Mairs left town for Los Angeles, going by way of Mojave. Mr. Mairs intends to get home in time to vote.

A man named Jordan died at the County Hospital last Monday of consumption. Jordan came to Inyo from Mono county; he had long been an invalid.

Mr. Israel Luce has written that he will be at the marble quarry to resume work soon after the coming election. He expects to employ quite a number of men.

John Thomas came down from Cerro Gordo last Tuesday and stayed till Thursday. He is ill from lead poisoning and has gone to San Francisco for medical treatment.

W. Rowan, of Bishop Creek, passed through town on Thursday with a band of twenty-seven horses bound for Los Angeles. They were all fine animals, two to four years old.

Rev. E. McEvers will preach at Lone Pine on Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. At Independence at half past seven in the evening. Sunday School at the M. E. Church at 11 a. m.

Mr. W. S. Eaves returned from Long Valley last Thursday bringing with him six hundred head of cattle. It was a good season on the range and the cattle are looking well.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Rhine left town last Saturday morning for San Francisco. Mr. Rhine expects to be back about two weeks hence. Mrs. Rhine may remain in the City till spring.

Hon. P. Reddy is at Bridgeport as counsel for the Standard Con. Company in a big lawsuit against the Bulwer Company. R. S. Miner Esq. has been retained as counsel for the latter.

B. F. Leete, of Reno, and his son, Ben. Leete, were at Independence some days this week. The young man has made a homestead location near Bishop Creek and intends to perfect title to the land.

The Reno Gazette says that choice butter brings readily in that market from 24 to 25 cents per pound, and seems to think this is a very good price. Here in Owens Valley dairymen grumble when butter will bring no more than 30 cents a pound.

The difference between the Senate and the House of Representatives on the Mills Tariff Bill is irreconcileable. Day after day discussion of the tariff continues in the Senate without indication when it will end. It is not at all likely that any change will be made in the tariff till another Congress shall meet.

The Great Register is now being printed in the INYO INDEPENDENT Job Office. It shows an increase of more than one hundred names over the list of two years ago. The total number this year will considerably exceed nine hundred.

Rumor has it that when D. O. Mills returned to Carson from his recent visit to Keeler he said it was not likely the Carson & Colorado railroad would be extended to Mojave during the present season. Very little importance should be attached to mere rumors.

The bill of exceptions in the Elliott case has been filed. It covers 645 closely written pages of legal cap. This, with the other records in the case, will make 1700 folios that must be copied by the County Clerk in ten days, an average of 170 folios per day. Eighty folios is a good day's work for one man to write. The bill contains a good deal of irrelevant matter that may be stricken out by the Court.

Notice to Schools and School Trustees.

I now have a supply of Entomologies and Charts for same. Entomology by mail, postpaid, $1.56. Charts, sets of six, $8.00 Each school should have at least one set of Charts. W. O. MERONEY,
Bishop Creek, Cal.
Agent for Inyo county.

House Moving.

H. L. Clark is about to move the dwelling house on the old Lank place. The building will be removed to a place near the north end of the farm, about one mile nearer Independence than where it stands. The new site is a good location for a garden and orchard, and much more convenient in every way than the old location. The building will be put upon wheels and it is expected that twelve horses can move it.

A Good Catch.

Many circulars are being sent all over the country offering to make fine crayon portraits from small photographs; no charge will be made, the only condition being that when the picture is received it shall be shown to friends and neighbors and the artists recommended. The circulars very strongly urge that such fine pictures should be put in frames worthy of them. Here is where the funny business comes in. After the photograph is sent to the artists notice is given that the picture is nearly ready, and the artists can supply frames cheaper than anybody else. Beautiful frames can be supplied at from $9 to $15. If the money is sent a miserable frame and a rough daub of a picture, the whole not worth a third of the money forwarded, is all the dupe gets in return.

LETTER FROM MR. HAYDON.

RENO, Washoe Co., Nevada,
October 4th, 1888.

EDITOR INYO INDEPENDENT: Dear Sir:—I notice some criticisms in your paper, and in the Bishop Creek Register, upon a letter written by me to Governor Waterman in reference to the Elliott case. I think probably your strictures and my letter both arose out of a misunderstanding of facts. On the day I wrote the letter to his Excellency I received two letters from Independence, one of which informed me that the writer had confered with Hon. Judge Hannah, who had stated that it would require an Executive order [Super sedeas] or something in that nature from the Governor to stay the execution of the warrant for Elliott's execution on the 21st of September. The other letter was to the same effect. I had sent long enough before that time to the Sheriff a notice of appeal to be served which he kindly had notified me had been filed and served. I thought when I received the letters spoken of, and wrote to Governor Waterman, that Judge Hannah was cognizant of the fact that such notice of appeal had been filed and served when he talked with my correspondent and that he held to the opinion that such notice of appeal filed and served did not and would not stay the execution under the warrant. I was surprised and astonished at such an opinion, and I must confess greatly frightened lest my client should be executed before his appeal could be heard. As time was short, only eight days intervening, I wrote three letters that day and night, one to the prisoner, one to Judge Hannah, one to his Excellency, Governor Waterman; the latter letter explained as briefly as possible to him the case and its situation, and the the urgent necessity for prompt and immediate action in the case as I supposed it then stood. I wrote to Judge Hannah explaining the same way, and citing him to the sections of the law as I had done to the Sheriff. I did all of this in the line of my duty as an attorney to prevent a great wrong as I supposed, that menaced my client, never dreaming that it would become a subject of newspaper comment. I felt incensed and outraged under my views of the law and the facts as I supposed they were understood by the Judge, and may have made some expressions not "agreeable to cats polite." I did not know what the opinions of the Judge were except as written, nor of the attorneys there. I did not know but that I might be mistaken in my conclusions of the law, but I did know that there was but short time to find out, and I went to head quarters to do so!

I afterwards concluded, when I heard from Hon. Secretary Boruck what had been done, that my notice of appeal had not been served or filed when Judge Hannah spoke to my correspondent; that he was probably mistaken in what the Judge said or meant; that probably the Judge had kindly intended to jog my memory to file and serve such notice of appeal, and had mentioned to him that if such step was overlooked nothing but an Executive order could stay the execution of the prisoner. I would not write this except for one thing: I dislike to appear ungrateful to any one—your Judge, officers, attorneys and community, all treated me with the utmost kindness and courtesy while there. I appreciated and enjoyed it, and ever since have gratefully remembered my experience among your inhabitants. I have not a harsh or unkind feeling for man, woman, or child in all your borders, and would be the last man to wantonly insult any one, especially those from whom I have experienced nothing but kindness.

While I hold totally adverse views to the great majority of your inhabitants as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant I represent, yet I respect their opinions as sincere, and only regret that I am greatly in the minority.

I have never posed as a great lawyer; am willing to rest on my record. I concede to the Register that Inyo has many abler lawyers than myself; am glad that she has! for then you will allow me, with pardonable vanity, to think she is well provided for!

Permit me to say that this is the first case I have ever had where I have had to defend before two tribunals at the same time—the defendant in Court and myself before the people and press. Respectfully,

THOS. E. HAYDON.

Well Done Doctor.

A gentleman who is interested in the Eastside canal was at Independence recently. His home is at Reno. The following incident is related by the Esmeralda News: "Two men, one an operator of several mines near Silver Peak and the other a resident of Reno whom we shall call "Doctor," met at Belleville while the first was on his way to Bishop Creek and the latter was returning to Reno after a short visit to Inyo county. It seems that the two got to arguing on the political situation, when the doctor made the remark that "it was for the welfare of Americans that Harrison should be elected President of these United States." "To hell with the Americans; they are no better than the Piutes roaming about these hills, or the Chinamen who steal and smoke opium," was the answer he received. No sooner were the vile words uttered by the operator than the doctor jumped to his feet, saying, "You shall not abuse Americans while in my presence," at the same time planting a blow with his right fist under the chin of Mr. Englishman and thereby laying the latter out. Luckily for the Silver Peak man outsiders interfered at this point, for if they had not it is not known how much damage might have been done by the lover of freedom. Hereafter whenever Mr. Englishman has anything to say regarding Americans he will doubtless pick his company.

Sheep License In Mono

The sheep license has been a God-send to Mono county. The Chronicle-Union says the Sheriff has ridden night and day this summer all over that county, from the confines of Alpine and Tuolumne counties to Inyo county, in the collection of the sheep license, and paid to Treasurer Tinkum in the neighborhood of $13,000—enough to pay the salaries of the county officers, and nearly enough to pay the Sheriff's salary for three years to come.

The Inyo Marble Company.

At the second annual meeting of the Inyo Marble Company, at San Francisco on Tuesday of last week, the following officials were elected for the ensuing year: J. M. Keeler, President; E. M. Frank, Vice-President; G. P. Rixford, Treasurer; George W. Luce, Secretary; Israel Luce, General Superintendent. Directors—E. M. Frank, Israel Luce, G. P. Rixford, H. B. Keesing, J. P. Fraser, O. F. von Rhein, W. J. Dutton and Jasper McDonald.

Mr. T. J. Goodale, of Fish Springs, was in town this week. He reports matters flourishing up that way.

The Assemblyman.

The delegates to the joint Republican Assembly Convention for the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo, met at Benton, Mono county, and nominated Hon. Cyrus Coleman, of Alpine, as candidate for Assemblyman. No delegates were present from Mono county. Mr. Harvey Boone, of Bodie, had already been nominated in Mono, and claimed that Alpine had no right to make a nomination, but should have endorsed the nominee from Mono. The Republicans of Alpine allege that Mono has no right to the candidate this term. In support of that allegation they urge the fact that since the 72d District was formed as it now stands Alpine has not named a candidate, while Inyo and Mono have each had one. It is further urged that neither Inyo nor Mono will have any matter of especial interest to either county to come before the next Legislature; while Alpine is very deeply interested in an adjustment of the State Line. It is said that this matter is of vital importance to Alpine county. That unles the State Line be adjusted the county will be unable to maintain its existence. About one hundred thousand dollars worth of taxable property is now paying taxes in Nevada that of right belongs to Alpine. Mr. Boone would be quite acceptable to the Republicans of Inyo; he is esteemed here as a man of honor and ability. Mr. Coleman has already had Legislative experience; he is a man of very high character; his ability secures him influence and his integrity commands respect in any body of which he is a member.

Entitled to Vote.

Last Tuesday the County Clerk telegraphed to the Gvernor asking for information about the right to vote of persons who had been convicted of felony and confined in State Prison. The answer was, that persons who had been but once convicted and served a term in prison, but had been set at liberty before the term for which they had been sentenced had expired, under the system of credits for good conduct, were entitled to registration and the right to vote.

House Burned.

Friday afternoon last the dwelling of H. J. Robinson, at Georges Creek, was destroyed by fire. Mr. Robinson was from home at the time; Mrs Robinson was in the house with her children, but no other person was near. The fire started from a spark from a stove pipe. The building and contents were completely destroyed. Only a few days before the fire Mr. Robinson had effected some insurance upon the property; but his loss much exceeds the value of the insurance.

Will Not Be a Candidate.

It has been rumored that S. G. Gregg would be an independent candidate for Sheriff. Mr. Gregg says positively that he has no such intention, and will not come out as a candidate. He is very grateful to friends for support in the past, but will not now ask a repetition of those favors. He prefers that his Republican and Democratic friends should not be embarrassed by him in a Presidential election.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence Dis rict.

WALTER JAMES SR.

PROPOSALS FOR COUNTY PRINTING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at the office of the County Clerk, until Thursday, November 8th, 1888, at 12 o'clock M, for the purpose of letting contracts for County Printing for the year beginning January 1, 1889, and ending December 31, 1889, as follows:

1st: Printing and publishing delinquent tax list.
2d: Reports of Auditor and Treasurer.
3d: Notices of contracts to be let by Inyo county.
4th: Notices of special meetings of the Board of Supervisors.
5th: Proceeding of Board of Supervisors.
6th: Notices of meetings of the Board of Education and all other legal notices required to be published by County Officers.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for County Printing," and must be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $500.

Said bids will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, November 8, 1888.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. E. ROBINSON,
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk. Chairman pro tem

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—
GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President—
ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,
NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—
JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.
REEL B. TERRY,
Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.
CAMPBELL P. BERRY ..... Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY .. Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.
FRED. BERRINGER ..... Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.
A. CAMINETTI ..... Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.
C. A. JENKINS ..... Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.
P. J. MURPHY ..... Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.
N. BOWDEN ..... Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.
BYRON WATERS ... Of San Bernardino.

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman ..... R. S. MINER.
Sheriff ..... J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk ..... P. H. MACK.
Treasurer ..... J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney Endorsed G. M. GILL
Surveyor ..... ——
Coroner ..... G. W. BRADY

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods, Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S
CHEMICAL FLUID
NON-POISONOUS
SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.
(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from striking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO
Successors to FALKNER, BELL & CO.,
No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!
BISHOP CREEK
Livery, Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r,
Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES
All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.
—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.
Call and Look Over My Stock.
AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.
S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements o our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

TO ADVERTISERS
A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.
To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.
Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.
I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries an canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH S ORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY
TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

Largest General Retail House on the Coast.
Excellent Cardinal or Drab
SATEEN CORSETS,
44 cts.
By mail 15c. extra. Five hooks and double clasp. Fine Model and Workmanship. Silk embroidered bust, finished with pretty lace one inch wide. Sizes 18 to 30. Send money order or postage stamps.
More Important Still
Is to send for large Catalogue (which we forward free of charge) giving full information about ten thousand other interesting items in all kinds of Men's Women's and Children's Wear. Contains over a thousand illustrations, and is one of the finest books of its kind in the country.
WEINSTOCK, LUBIN & CO.
400, 402, 404, 406, 408, 410 K St.
SACRAMENTO, CAL.

LUMBER. LUMBER.
SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.
Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.
CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.
All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.
SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1-tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

NORMAN HOUSE.
Independence, - - Cal.
New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.
Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.
O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

LIGHT AND AIRY.

The Hero of the Future.

"Oh, he's a man with a name renowned,
And a wide spread fame hath he;"
"Hath he written a realistic tale?"
"Not a booklet of his you'll see."
"Hath he discovered the reason why
The wily base balls curve?"
"Indeed, he never hath watched a game;
From 'business' he would not swerve."
"Oh, is he the slugger that's 'killed,' J. S.?
Or the boss stroke of a crew?"
"No: none of these tame and frivolous acts
Would he, sir, stoop to do."
"What is it? Oh, tell me what hath he done?"
"He's honored o'er every cashier;
He's broken the record of every bank,
And skipped with a million clear."
—Morning Journal.

Not So Eminent As Might Be.

The two men had occupied the same seat in a railway coach for half a day, and the train had reached its destination.

"I am indebted to you, sir, for an agreeable conversation that has relieved greatly the monotony of a long journey. May I ask your name?"

"Certainly. My name is Sullivan."

(Jocosely)—"Not Mr. Sullivan of Boston?"

"Yes, I reside in Boston."

"What! Not"——

(Haughtily)—"No, sir! I am a college professor."

"Beg pardon. Permit me to introduce myself. My name is Crowley."

(Smilingly)—"Not Mr. Crowley of New York?"

"Yes, New York is my home."

"What! Not"——

(Hotly)—"No, sir! I am the president of a bank, sir!"

(Coldly)—"Good day, sir!"

(Frigidly)—"Good day!"—Chicago Tribune.

Sea Side Beauty.

Now at the sea side pretty arms
Are to the sun laid bare,
While pretty girls display their charms
And sniff the salty air.

Unheeded comes the dashing wave;
She's upright, calm and mute,
For where she stands no waters lave
Her pretty bathing suit.

At eventide when comes repose,
How changed the lovely dream,
Could one but see her arms and nose
O'er plastered with cold cream.
—Merchant Traveler.

Took Off 100 Per Cent.

"Mr. Isanestein, I love your daughter sincerely and long to make her my wife. May I venture to ask your permission?"

"My young vriend, ven you ask me for my daughter's hand you ask me to make too great a sacrifice"——

"Very well, Mr. Isanestein, I will transfer my affections elsewhere then. Good day."

"Come back, my young vriend, come back! You can have her. But, by chiminy, you don't always get such a bargains effery day!"—Burlington Free Press.

The Sign.

She has been among the lilies,
Where their fragrance rises sweet,
And the air so soft and still is—
There have strayed my darling's feet.

She has been among them lately,
Where they grow so white and tall;
She has touched their blossoms stately,
She, the fairest flower of all!

Something in her face doth show it—
Breathes the tale where'er she goes;
Shall I tell you how I know it?
There is yellow on her nose! —Life.

All Tastes Suited.

Housekeeper—Can you furnish me with a good plain cook?

Intelligent Intelligence Officer—We can give you a very nice colored one, ma'am.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Not Completed Yet.

Reporter—"Can you name the best hundred books, Mr. James?"

Mr. Henry James—"I have only written sixteen books up to date."—Detroit Free Press.

Leads to Worse Things.

"Can a young man marry comfortably on $500 a year?" asks a correspondent. Yes, he can; but he will be denced uncomfortable afterwards.—Burlington Free Press.

Only Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

"Dallas gets $30,000 more in a lamp from The Louisiana State Lottery" was the word which went through the city at the drawing of last month. On inquiry it was found that two gentlemen, both young men, had drawn each $15,000 and meeting one of them yesterday, Mr. Sydney J. Potter, a reporter proceeded to investigate him on the subject thuswise:

"Mr. Potter, when did you buy your ticket."

"On the Saturday night before the drawing."

"What was the number, how much did it draw and did you get the money?"

"Certainly. Which shall I answer first? The number of the ticket was 35,567; it being a twentieth, drew $15,000 and I got the money—had it Friday after the drawing."

"Had you ever bought a ticket before?"

"Oh, yes. I had been playing the lottery for some time, occasionally winning small sums so that I kept a little ahead, the largest amount drawn, however being $100."

"Did you feel surprised when apprised of the fact that you had gotten there with one, or both of your feet?"

"I should smile. I felt all over in spots. The glowing knowledge came to me that I won'dn't have to travel and sell segars for Martinez any more—unless I wanted to—and be absent from my family."

"It is nobody's business particularly, what you are doing with your money, but what are you doing with it, any how?"

"I am buying some real estate—putting it into good solid Dallas dirt, getting a home for the wife and babies, and some other little property that will pay a monthly income and help me to make a living, help me to lay up something for the education of the children when they get old enough, and lay up a nest egg for me and the better half when the silver threads come among the gold on her dear little brow and in the black of mine. And by the by, I desire to say right here, that the money is my wife's. The night I bought the ticket, when I went home, I gave it to her, making a present of it, and it is all hers."—Dallas (Tex.) News, August 1st.

Increased Business.

The PACIFIC BANK, of San Francisco, pursues the even tenor of its way, simply pointing to its $1,000,000 of paid up capital; its $700,000 of surplus fund, (showing an increase of $250,000 within 2½ years); and its regular dividends as large as ever, leaving business men to draw their own inferences.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"I must say," he said with a bitter little laugh, "that I scarcely thought that I should live to be taught my duty by a Zulu, but it just shows what we can come to. I wonder if you fellows can understand how humiliated I feel; and the bitterest part of it is that I deserve it all. Of course I should have handed her over to the guard, but I could not, and that is a fact. I let her go and I promised to say nothing, more is the shame to me. She told me that if I would side with her she would marry me and make me king of this country; but, thank goodness, I did find the heart to say that even to marry her I could not desert my friends. And now you can do what you like; I deserve it all. All I have to say is that I hope you may never love a woman with all your heart and then be so sorely tempted of her," and he turned to go.

"Look here, old fellow," said Sir Henry, "just stop a minute; I have a little tale to tell you, too." And he proceeded to narrate what had taken place the previous day between Sorais and himself.

This was a finishing stroke to poor Good. It is not pleasant to any man to be made a tool of, but when the circumstances are as peculiarly atrocious as in the present case it is about as bitter a pill as anybody can be called upon to swallow.

"Do you know," he said, "I think that between you you fellows have about worked a cure," and he turned and walked away, and I for one felt very sorry for him. Ah, if the moths would always carefully avoid the candle, how few burnt wings there would be!

That day was a court day, when the queens sat in the great hall and received petitions, discussed laws, etc., and thither we adjourned shortly afterwards. On our way we were joined by Good, who was looking exceedingly depressed, and no wonder.

When we got into the hall Nyleptha was already on her throne, and proceeding with business as usual, surrounded by councilors, courtiers, lawyers, priests, and an unusually strong guard. It was, however, easy to see from the air of excitement and expectation on the faces of everybody present that nobody was paying much attention to ordinary affairs, the fact being that the knowledge that civil war was imminent had now got abroad. We saluted Nyleptha and took our accustomed places, and for a little while things went on as usual, when suddenly the trumpets began to call outside the palace, and from the great crowd that was gathered there in anticipation of some unusual event there rose a roar of "Sorais! Sorais!"

Then came the roll of many chariot wheels, and presently the great curtains at the end of the hall were drawn wide, and through them entered the "Lady of the Night" herself. Nor did she come alone. Preceding her was Agon, the high priest, arrayed in his most gorgeous vestments, and on either side were other priests. The reason for their presence was obvious—coming with them it would have been sacrilege to attempt to detain her. Behind her were a number of the great lords, and behind them a small body of picked guards. A glance at Sorais herself was enough to show that her mission was of no peaceful kind, for in place of her gold embroidered "kaf" she wore a shining tunic formed of golden scales, and on her head a little golden helmet. In her hand, too, she bore a toy spear, beautifully made and fashioned of solid silver. Up the hall she came, looking like a lioness in her conscious pride and beauty, and as she approached the spectators fell back bowing and made a path for her. By the sacred stone she halted, and laying her hand on it, she cried out with a loud voice to Nyleptha on the throne, "Hail, O queen!"

"All hail, my sister!" answered Nyleptha. "Draw thou near. Fear not, I give thee safe conduct."

Sorais answered with a haughty look, and swept on up the hall till she stood right before the throne.

"A boon, O queen!" she cried again.

"Speak on, my sister; what is there I can give thee who hath half our kingdom?"

"Thou canst tell me a true word—me and the people of Za Vendis. Art thou, or art thou not, about to take this foreign wolf," and she pointed to Sir Henry with her toy spear, "to be a husband to thee and share thy bed and throne?"

Curtis winced at this, and turning towards Sorais, said to her in a low voice, "Methinks that yesterday thou hadst other names than wolf to call me by, O queen!" and I saw her bite her lips as, like a danger flag, the blood flamed red upon her face. As for Nyleptha, who is nothing if not original, she, seeing that the thing was out, and that there was nothing further to be gained by concealment, answered the question in a novel and effectual manner, inspired thereto, as I firmly believe, by coquetry and a desire to triumph over her rival.

Up she rose, and descending from the throne swept in all the glory of her royal grace on to where her lover stood. There she stopped and untwined the golden snake that was wound around her arm. Then she bade him kneel, and he dropped on one knee on the marble before her; and next, taking the golden snake with both her hands, she bent the pure soft metal round his neck, and when it was fast deliberately kissed him on the brow and called him her "dear lord."

"Thou seest," she said, when the excited murmur of the spectators had died away, addressing her sister as Sir Henry rose to his feet, "I have put my collar round the 'wolf's neck,' and behold! he shall be my watch dog, and that is my answer to thee, Sorais, my sister, and to those with thee. Fear not," she went on, smiling sweetly on her lover, and pointing to the golden snake she had twined round his massive throat. "If my yoke be heavy, yet is it of pure gold, and it shall not gall thee."

Then, turning to the audience, she continued, in a clear proud tone: "Ay, Lady of the Night, lords, priests, and people here gathered together, by this sign do I take the foreigner to husband, even here in the face of ye all. What, am I a queen, and yet not free to choose the man whom I will love? Then should I be lower than the meanest girl in all my provinces. Nay, he hath won my heart, and with it goes my hand and throne and all I have—ay, had he been a beggar instead of a great lord, fairer and stronger than any here, and having more wisdom and knowledge of strange thing, I had given him all; how much more so, then, being what he is!" And she took his hand and gazed proudly on him, and holding it, stood there boldly facing the people. And such was her sweetness, and the power and dignity of her person, and so beautiful she looked standing hand in hand there at her lover's side, so sure of him and of herself, and so ready to risk all things and endure all things for him, that most of those who saw the sight, which I am sure no one of them will ever forget, caught the fire from her eyes and the happy color from her blushing face, and cheered her like wild things. It was a bold stroke for her to make, and it appealed to the imagination; but human nature in Zu-Vendis, as elsewhere, loves that which is bold and not afraid to break a rule, and is moreover peculiarly susceptible to appeals to its poetical side.

And so the people cheered till the roof rang; but "Sorais of the Night" stood there with downcast eyes, for she could not bear to see her sister's triumph, which robbed her of the man whom she had hoped to win; and in the awfulness of her jealous anger she trembled and turned white like an aspen in the wind. I think I have said somewhere of her that she reminded me of the sea on a calm day, having the same aspect of sleeping power about her.

Well, it was all awake now, and, like the face of the furious ocean, it awed and yet fascinated me. A really handsome woman in a royal rage is always a beautiful sight, but such beauty and such a rage I never saw combined before; and I can only say that the effect produced was well worthy of the two.

She lifted her white face, the teeth were set, and there were purple rims beneath her glowing eyes. Thrice she tried to speak, and thrice she failed, but at last her voice came. Raising her silver spear, she shook it, and the light glanced from it and from the golden scales of her cuirass.

"And thinkest thou, Nyleptha," she said, in notes which pealed through the great hall like a clarion—"thinkest thou that I, a queen of the Zu Vendi, will brook that this base outlander shall sit upon my father's throne, and rear up half breeds to fill the place of the great house of the Stairway? Never! never! while there is life in my bosom and a man to follow me and a spear to strike with. Who is on my side?—who?

And stood there boldly facing the people.

"Now hand thou over this foreign wolf, and those who come to prey here with him, to the doom of fire, for have they not committed the deadly sin against the Sun? or, Nyleptha, I give thee war—red war! Ay, I say to thee that the path of thy passion shall be marked out by the blazing of thy towns, and watered with the blood of those who cleave to thee. On thy head rest the burden of the deed, and in thy ears ring the groans of the dying and the cries of the widows and those who are left fatherless forever and forever.

"I tell thee I will tear thee, Nyleptha, the White Queen, from thy throne, and thou shalt be hurled—ay, hurled, even from the topmost stair of the great way to the foot thereof, in that thou hast covered the name of the house of him who built it with black shame. And I tell ye, strangers, all save thou, Bougwan, whom because thou did'st me a service I will save alive if thou wilt leave these men and follow me" (here poor Good shook his head vigorously, and ejaculated, "Can't be done," in English), "that I will wrap you in sheets of gold and hang you yet alive in chains from the four golden trumpets of the four angels that fly east and west, and north and south from the giddiest pinnacles of the temple, so that ye may be a token and a warning to the land. And as for thee, Incubu, thou shalt die in yet another fashion that I will not tell thee now."

She ceased, panting for breath, for her passion shook her like a storm, and a murmur, partly of horror and partly of admiration, ran through the hall. Then Nyleptha answered calmly and with dignity.

"Ill would it become my place and dignity, O sister, so to speak as thou hast spoken, and so to threat as thou hast threatened. Yet if thou wilt make war, then will I strive to bear up against thee; for if my hand seem soft, yet shalt thou find it of iron when its grips thine armles by the throat. Sorais, I fear thee not. I weep for that which thou wilt bring upon our people and thyself, but for myself I say—I fear thee not. Yet thou, who but yesterday didst strive to win my lover and my lord from me, whom today thou dost call a 'foreign wolf,' to be thy lover and thy lord" here there was an immense sensation in the hall), "thou who but last night, as I have learned but since thou didst enter here, didst creep like a snake into my sleeping place—ay, even by a secret way, and wouldst have foully murdered me, thy sister, as I lay asleep"——

"It is false! it is false!" rang out Agon's and a score of other voices.

"It is not false," said I, producing the broken point of the dagger and holding it up. "Where is the haft from which this flew, Sorais?"

"It is not false," cried Good, determined at last to act like a loyal man. "I took her by the queen's bed, and on my breast the dagger broke."

"Who is on my side?" cried Sorais, shaking her silver spear, for she saw that public sympathy was turning against her. "What, Bougwan, thou consent not?" she said, addressing Good, who was standing close to her, in a low, concentrated voice. "Thou pale souled fool! for a reward thou shalt eat out thy heart with love of me and not be satisfied, and thou mightest have been my husband and king! At least I hold thee in chains that cannot be broken.

"War! war! war!" she cried. "Here with my hand upon the sacred stone that shall endure, so runs the prophecy, till the Zu-Vendi set their necks beneath the alien yoke, I declare war to the end. Who follows Sorais of the Night to victory and honor?"

Instantly the whole concourse began to break up in indescribable confusion. Many present hastened to throw in their lot with "The Lady of the Night," but some came from her following to us. Among the former was an under officer of Nyleptha's own guard, who suddenly turned and made a run for the doorway through which Sorais' people were already passing. Umslopogaas, who was present and had taken the whole scene in, seeing with admirable presence of mind that if the soldier got away others would follow his example, seized the man, who drew his sword and struck at him. Thereupon the Zulu sprang back with a shout, and avoiding the sword cuts began to peck at his foe with his terrible ax, till in a few seconds the man's fate overtook him, and he fell with a clash heavily and quite dead upon the marble floor.

This was the first blood spilled in the war.

"Shut the gates!" I shouted, thinking that we might perhaps catch Sorais so. But the order came too late, her guards were already passing through them, and in another minute the streets echoed with the furious galloping of horses and the rolling of chariots.

So, drawing half the people after her, Sorais was soon passing like a whirlwind through the Frowning City on her road to her headquarters at M'Arstuna, a fortress situated 150 miles to the north of Milosis.

And after that the city was alive with the endless tramp of regiments and the preparations for war, and old Umslopogaas once more began to sit in the sunshine and go through a show of sharpening Inkosi-kaas' razor edge.

To be Continued.

HAMBURG FIGS

Are the sovereign remedy in all cases where excessive or insufficient nourishment, sedentary habits, sleeplessness, traveling or pregnancy produce a tendency to Constipation, that bane of the American people. A neglect to remedy this condition may result seriously. HAMBURG FIGS are a fruit laxative lozenge, composed of fruits and vegetables. Although mild, they are very effective, and their continued use keeps the bowels in a healthy and natural condition. Biliousness is the result of an inactive Liver, and its symptoms are manifested by headache furred tongue, loss of appetite and a yellow skin. HAMBURG FIGS are the only purgative that will effectually relieve this condition and remove the impurities that clog the system. HAMBURG FIGS are harmless if their use is continued indefinitely, and a box should always be kept in the house. They are delightful to the taste. Dose, one Fig. Price, 25 cents a box at druggists.

In any irritable condition of the sexual organs, Dujardin's Life Essence is the only remedy. It is quick, safe, sure. Hundreds of testimonials prove its wonderful power in sexual debility. Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

Why He Stole.

"You were up before me about two weeks ago."

"Yes, sah."

"For stealing?"

"Yes, sah."

"And you were fined."

"Dat's so."

"And here you are up again for stealing. What made you repeat your crime?"

"Huh! How does yer 'spect me ter git back de money I paid fur de fine ef I doan steal some more?"—Texas Siftings.

A Seasonable Rhyme.

The apple ripens on the tree,
The lea brings forth her second brood,
And daily by the sounding sea
The collar wilts upon the dude.

The mower's singing in the mead,
The rose the air with fragrance fills,
The wild tomato runs to seed,
The icemen send their little bills.

We daily see the yachtsman trim
His saucy vessel's sheets and tacks;
At evening in bay windows dim
And dinky there are little smacks.
—Boston Courier.

The National Craze.

"Shall we go up?"

"Yes, we will go up."

"No, we will not go up."

"Why will we not go up?"

"Because the elevator boy is around the corner to get the result of the fifth inning, and he will not be back for a quarter of an hour.—Detroit Free Press.

Hopping at Conclusions.

"If you think my legs eccentric,"
Said the grasshopper to the bee,
"And my forehead queerly pointed
Where the brain box ought to be;
That my mouth has feeble motions
Whence dark mysteries do exude,
Please to know I once existed
As a Pythagorean dude." —Judge.

Somewhat Unaccountable.

Passenger (on Pullman car nearing New York)—Porter, what's the matter with this ice water, it's warm?

Porter—Warm, sah? Dat's funny. I put a chunk of ice in de filter, sah, jess 'efo' we left Chicago, deed I did.—New York Sun.

Short and Sweet.

Now the seaside belle
And the ocean shore hummer
Are becoming engaged—
For the summer.
—Detroit Free Press.

An Accommodating Young Man.

Her Father—I can't give her any dowry. I am very poor, Mr. Browne. My little all won't foot up to more than $25,000.

Mr. Browne—Oh, $25,000 is enough for us to begin on, Mr. Jsmyth.—Harper's Bazar.

An Even Temper.

"She's the evenest temper ever you saw,"
He said as he saw me wince—
"She got mad once at seven years old,
An' she's stayed mad ever since."
—Time.

In the Prophet Business.

Biff (to a stranger to Dingeon)—Will it rain?

Stranger—Don't know. (Exit.)

Dingeon—Who was that man?

Biff—Jones, the celebrated weather prophet.—Time.

Never Too Hot.

Though men perspire and the sun's afire,
And the atmosphere aflame,
It is never too hot, by a long, long shot,
For the great American game.
—Boston Courier.

The sweetest of sweet girls who will wait for you is worth her wait in gold.

A WOMAN'S CONFESSION.

"Do you know, Mary, I once actually contemplated suicide?" "You horrify me, Mrs. B. Tell me about it." "I was suffering from chronic weakness. I believed myself the most unhappy woman in the world. I looked ten years older than I really was, and I felt twenty. Life seemed to have nothing in it worth living for." "I have experienced all those symptoms myself. Well?" "Well, I was saved at the eleventh hour from the commission of a deed which I shudder to think of. A friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I did so. In an incredibly short time I felt like a new being. The 'Prescription' cured me, and I owe Dr. Pierce a debt of gratitude which I can never repay."

The man who is tired of life is usually one who has never made any use of it.

A WONDERFUL FOOD AND MEDICINE.

Known and used by Physicians all over the world. SCOTT'S EMULSION not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food that builds up the wasted body. "I have been using Scott's Emulsion for several years, and am pleased with its action. My patients say it is pleasant and palatable, and all grow stronger and gain flesh from the use of it. I use it in all cases of Wasting Diseases, and it is specially useful for children when nutrient medication is needed, as in Marasmus."—T. W. PIERCE, M. D., Knoxville, Ala.

HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE if used constantly on the handkerchief, establishes the reputation of good taste. It is pleasing to all; a potent charm. For sale everywhere.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PERSON CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50 cents; SOAP, 25 cents; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI PAIN PLASTER, the only pain killer plaster.

It takes philosophy to make a man happy in this world. If he can't get philosophy, a couple of hundred thousand dollars will generally do.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefitted and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitter's is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquillity reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

A manse, little friend, is a house, and a romance ought to be a boat house, but it is not. A romance may be said to be generally constructed of moonbeams.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The man who has no base-ball in his soul and is not moved by New York's pennant race is fit for Boston, Browning fad and beans.

A PILL IN TIME, SAVES NINE!

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are preventive as well as curative. A few of these "Little Giants," taken at the right time, with little expense and no inconvenience, will accomplish what many dollars and much sacrifice of time will fail to do after Disease once holds you with his iron grasp. Constipation relieved, the Liver regulated, the Blood purified, will fortify against fevers and all contagious diseases. Persons intending travel, changing diet, water and climate, find invaluable, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In vials convenient to carry.

Old lady (to street gamin)—You don't chew tobacco, do you, little boy? Little boy—No'm; but I kin give yer a cigarette.

WRENCHED HIS BACK.

LYNDONVILLE, ORLEANS CO., N. Y.
April 2, 1885.

About a year ago, I imprudently stepped off the Hudson River cars while they were in motion. In trying to save myself from a fearful fall I wrenched my back terribly. The next day I could not walk, and I suffered pain from my neck to my heels. Various applications were made, but nothing which was done abated my suffering. Being anxious to get up and attend to business, I determined to place three ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one above the other, on my back. In about an hour and a half they caused considerable itching. The pain and soreness sensibly decreased, and I rested pretty well that night. The next morning the itching began to be quite severe under the plasters. To get some relief, I had my back well rubbed crossways over the Plasters. I was surprised within two hours afterwards to find the pain and soreness almost gone. I stayed in bed that day; and the morning afterwards I got up and attended to business.

O. Y. PETTMAN.

George Bull, the book-maker, made $15,000 at the Saratoga race course last Tuesday. Still they say literature doesn't pay.

If all so-called remedies have failed, Dr. Sage's Catarh Remedy cures.

The latest European war cloud is about the size of young Kaiser William's head.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat requires immediate attention, as neglect results in some incurable Lung Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will invariably give relief. Sold only in boxes.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

BIG G Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

For Printing material of all kinds, address Palmer & Rey, 405 and 407 Sansome Street, San Francisco, Cal.

DR. PIERCE'S BODY-BATTERY

$6 PRICE AND UPWARDS. PATENTED Oct. 11, 1887. FOR MAN AND WOMAN.

ELECTRICITY, AS APPLIED BY DR. PIERCE'S NEW GALVANIC CHAIN BELT, will positively cure disease WITHOUT THE AID OF MEDICINE. This belt is the VERY LATEST improvement in Electro-therapeutic science, and is warranted to be far superior to anything of a similar nature ever before invented. It consists of from 26 to 90 DEGREES ELECTRICAL POWER, giving mild, strong or reversible currents which CAN BE INSTANTLY FELT BY THE WEARER. It is a PORTABLE BODY-BATTERY and contains special appliances for both sexes for curing the following complaints:

Nervous Debility, Kidney Complaint, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Constipation, Disease of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Female Weakness, Spinal Diseases, Impotency, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Etc. Thousands cured!

CAUTION. Dr. Pierce's Celebrated Belts and Trusses CANNOT be had from canvassers or peddlers; nor are they sold on any "30 Days' Trial," "Money Refunded" or similar schemes calculated to deceive the public.

For full particulars call at office or send stamp for our free ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET No. 2. Address: MAGNETIC ELECTRIC TRUSS COMPANY, 704 Sacramento street, corner of Kearny, San Francisco, Cal.

Also for sale by J. H. WIDBER, Druggist, corner Third and Market streets, S. F.

RUPTURE IF RUPTURED Send for Pamphlet No. 1.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 325.

WHAT

WARNER'S SAFE CURE CURES: BACK ACHE, BLADDER TROUBLES, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, HEAD ACHE, NERVOUSNESS, INDIGESTION.

There is no doubt of this great remedy's potency. It is no New Discovery unknown and mayhap worthless, but is familiar to the public for years as the only reliable remedy for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver and Stomach. To be well, your blood must be pure, and it never can be pure if the Kidneys, (the only blood purifying organs) are diseased.

DIZZINESS, ACUE, DYSPEPSIA, FEMALE TROUBLES, BAD EYES, IMPOTENCY, DROPSY, CURED WITH WARNER'S SAFE CURE.

Ask your friends and neighbors what WARNER'S SAFE CURE has done for them. Its record is beyond the range of doubt. It has cured millions and we have millions of testimonials to prove our assertions. WARNER'S SAFE CURE will cure you if you will give it a chance.

SARSAPARILLA YELLOW DOCK —AND— Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. CATES & CO., Proprietors
417 Sansome St. San Francisco

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

STEINWAY, BRANCH, CRASE & BACH, Gabler, Boardish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

AGENTS! AN ACTIVE AGENT WANTED in each county for the two best selling books in the market—Harrison and Morton, and Cleveland and Thurman. For terms and territory address F. PERSON, room 77, Flood Building, corner Fourth and Market streets.

POWDERED 98 CAUSTIC SODA TREE WASH. Carbolic Sheep Wash.
T. W. JACKSON & Co., 101 Market St., Mfg. Agents.

ASTHMA CURED
German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00. At Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE forwarded by DR. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

TO THE LADIES!
Jacobs & Co.
MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANTS' WEAR.
113 KEARNY STREET, S. F.
Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application.

Write for Catalogue and Prices of "RUSHFORD" TUBULAR STEEL AXLE FREIGHTING AND RANCH WAGONS
—Imported only by—
BULL & GRANT FARM IMPL'T CO.
330 Montgomery St., (Safe Deposit Building.)

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use 20 years Established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 8 strings, double repeating action; finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

R. H. McDONALD, PRES'T. E. V. McDONALD, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.
PACIFIC BANK
Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $700,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.
Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.
R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.
San Francisco, Cal., July 1st, 1888.

"SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" PLUG CUT

SMOKING TOBACCO.
Selected with great care from the choicest tobacco regions of North Carolina.
Smokes Cool—Lasts Long—Does not blow out the Pipe.
It is the undisputed leader of Plug Cut Smoking Tobacco throughout the world.

FARMERS!

Read and tell your friends about these quotations made Sept. 30:

| | |
|---|---|
| Star Syrup, barrels, 32 gals | 25 |
| Golden Syrup, kegs | $2 00 to 2 25 |
| Finest Drips, kegs | $2 50 to 3 00 |
| Salt for stock | 50 to 1 |
| Japanese Egg Food, ton | $25 |
| Bonemeal, ton | $25 |
| Soap, fined grades | 5 |
| Soap, common grades | 2c to 4 |
| Nails, per keg | $3 00 |
| Baking Powder, per lb | 25 |
| Green Coffee | 16c to 18 |
| Ground Coffee | 16c to 20 |
| Roast Coffee | 20c to 25 |
| Beans, colored | 2½c to 2½ |
| Beans, white | 2½c to 3½ |
| Corned Beef, 2-lb | $2 00 to 2 25 |
| Oysters, large cans | $2 00 |
| Canned Corn, best | $1 30 to 1 40 |
| Sugar Peas | $1 15 to 1 35 |
| Wall Paper, double rolls | 12½c to 20 |
| Candles, per box 120 | $1 40 to 2 50 |
| Fruit Jars, Mason | $1 00 to 1 50 |
| Jellies and Jams | $1 75 to 2 00 |
| Flower, roller | $4 00 to 5 00 |
| Coal Oil, per case | $1 75 to 2 00 |
| Pickles, ½ gal. kegs | $1 40 |

We desire to quote you for best goods and those that will please. Greatest bargains ever heard of in Dry Goods, Wearing Apparel, Notions, Seeds, Hardware, Tinware. It is worth your while to send for our September list. Sample copy free. Address, Smith's Cash Store, No. 118 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!
Investment small, profits large. Send 30c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

CAMPAIGN HANDKERCHIEFS, Republican Flags, DEMOCRATIC BANDANAS.
PURE SILK ..... 75 CENTS
COTTON ..... 10 CENTS.
Cleveland or Harrison Campaign Buttons, 25 Cents Each.
Wolf & Frank
MENS' FURNISHING GOODS
232 KEARNY STREET, S. F.
Orders by m

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... OCTOBER 20, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 19. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 20, 1888. WHOLE NO. 938.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—An English physician has convinced himself that diphtheria has its origin in common mold fungi, which he thinks must acquire virulent properties under special conditions.

—A patented material said to have all the properties of good lignum vitæ is prepared in Leipsic, by M. Stockhardt, from ordinary soft wood. The wood is first impregnated with oil, then subjected to great pressure, causing a considerable increase in density.

—Tests of various kinds of coal have shown that only coke is a sufficiently good electric conductor to be used as an earth connection for lightning rods. Specimens of anthracite and bituminous coal and charcoal were mostly lacking in conductivity.

—Wax is a substance secreted by the bees, and is analagous to the fat of higher animals. To produce a single pound of wax, the bees must consume from fifteen to twenty pounds of honey. This expensive substance is used by the thrifty little insects with the greatest economy.

—A new method of preserving the colors of pressed flowers comes from Germany. It consists in dusting salicylic acid upon the fresh petals, or pressing the flowers between sheets of blotting paper impregnated with a solution of the acid in fourteen times its volume of alcohol. Red colors are particularly well preserved.

—Priceite is a borate of lime, and was named twenty years ago by Profs. Dana Silliman in honor of Prof. Thomas Price of San Francisco. Borax is made by boiling it with carbonate of soda. A discovery of Priceite in large quantity is just reported from Curry County, Oregon. Deposits of the same mineral are found in Turkey and shipped to London, where it sells as "Turkey borate."

—A new tanning agent has been obtained by digesting coal dust with caustic soda at a boil, and neutralizing the resulting liquor with hydrochrolic acid. The inventor calls it pyrofuscine, and considers that while the new process is more complicated than the usual tanning processes, it is fifty per cent. cheaper than the bark process, and twenty to thirty per cent. cheaper than the alum process.

—One of the chief difficulties with electric locomotives has been the trouble and danger of intrusting the delicate and easily disturbed mechanism of such a motor to fresh and unskilled hands. This, however, is believed to have been overcome, in a great measure, by providing a switch board, entirely enclosed, and in which a single motion of the lever causes the motor to move forward or backward, or remain stationary, and regulates the speed at which it shall run.

—A very good and sensitive barometer may be made by gluing together strips of red cedar and seasoned pine. A strip of cedar about thirty inches long, one and one-half inches wide and one-eighth of an inch thick, is cut with the grain, and to one side of it must be glued strips of pine of equal thickness, with the grain running across that of the cedar. This combination is set on end, and will, according to the state of the weather, be found to have bent over on one side or the other, and this may be determined by trial.—Manufacturers' Gazette.

SECRETS OF SUCCESS.

A Self-Made Man Tells How to Acquire Fame and Fortune.

Mr. O. W. Potter, President of the North Chicago Rolling Mills Company, said:

"In my experience good health is important to success. Next, get something to do, and do that something just as well as you know how, and try to know how to do it in the best possible manner, and then improve on that all the time. Make your employer feel that his business is your business, and do that by being always on hand and ready and willing to do your part, and don't wait to be told what your part is, but rather be hunting up work to do, instead of having somebody hunting you up to have you do your work, and when the time for your work to begin has arrived, be at your post and ready for your work, not ready to begin getting ready to work, and use up ten or fifteen minutes of your employer's time in the morning and then as much more at night, by getting ready to walk away at exactly the stroke of the clock; rather be ahead in the morning and behind in the evening than the reverse. Employers don't forget such persons when the time for promotion comes, and if one adopts the being late policy in the catching of trains they will get left, and the same is true in their business "Live within your income always.

"What you save invest in something that will add to your income.

"Let liquor alone. Let tobacco alone. Let Sunday find you at church once during the day sure, and twice won't hurt you any.

"Work all the time and work with all the ability you have, and try to have all the ability there is to be had in the business in which you are engaged, and stick to your business. If it wants you at four o'clock in the morning be there; if at midnight go.

"Don't be too anxious to forget your business when you have closed the door of store, office or shop behind you; if you do, the business may forget you.

"There is no certainty the above prescriptions, however carefully prepared and faithfully complied with, will always insure success, but it is fairly certain that a general disregard of them will not add to one's happiness or prosperity."—Chicago Journal.

AMONG THE ATHENIANS.

Glimpses at Modern Life in the Ancient Capital of Greece.

Life in Athens begins early in the morning. The milkmen cry "gala" before sunrise. At six o'clock on a May morning most of the citizens are about their work, although the people of the metropolis are later risers than those of the country towns. The people's costumes have been modernized, and the poorer men often wear shabby, ill-fitting European clothes, instead of the white fustanella (kilts), gay jacket and red fez which had become the national dress, although it was originally Albanian. In the country the rustic dress is more picturesque. The home-made garments of coarse cloth, of goat-skins and sheepskins are attractive to the eye, even when ragged and stained. Capuchin cloaks are commonly worn by the men in cool weather, the hood being drawn over the head in a storm. These serve as mantles by day and blankets by night. The women in the country are dressed very simply on ordinary occasions, but are perhaps more extravagant in dress for special occasions than in any thing else. Hats and bonnets are almost unknown except in towns; ladies often wear a long veil-like wrap, or the fez, of which the red is very becoming as it lies on their dark hair; women of the lower classes often bind a kerchief about the head. A face-cloth may conceal the lower part of the face from strangers. Women are still kept in half-oriental seclusion. They have a retired gallery in the churches. They may perform hard labor in the fields, but they do not go freely upon the streets. Peasant girls shrink from going out to service, and much domestic work is done by boys. Greek women of the lower classes are seldom beautiful; if they ever have beauty as girls, they lose it under the hardships of their life. They carry heavy burdens. Near Eleusis I met a dozen young women carrying kegs of water, each crouching under the load. The lads, on the other hand, are tall, straight and dignified. Their dress is often like that of their sisters, and more than once I exclaimed at the beauty of a maiden who proved to be a shepherd lad. The Greek ladies of Athens incline to a full habit, and most would appear to better advantage in the more flowing robes of the country dress than in the close-fitting Parisian costume.—Interior.

CURIOUS OLD CUSTOMS.

Superstitions That Seem Comical in the Light of Modern Knowledge.

The Irish have a strange fancy that on St. John's Eve (June 24), while people sleep, their souls wander away from the unconscious bodies to the place where they are to leave them at last; and in England it was thought that whoever sat wakeful to watch, fasting all night in the church porch, would see souls come up and knock softly at the door, in the very order their bodily owners were to die. Both these were varieties of the idea that the supernatural is at the height of its power during the short hours of darkness on this mid-summer night; and many a weird story might, no doubt, be told by those who, over-wrought by want of food and excitement, kept their lonely watch in the church yard. Other customs savored of the purely comic or curious, and, in the light of the present-day knowledge, even a child might well wonder how any one could be found silly enough to do things such as the following, with a full belief in their efficacy: At midnight on St. John's Eve young men would go out armed with a plate to try and catch fern-seed without touching the plant—no easy task, as you will see, if you care to try it. And if successful, what happened? Why, the lucky possessor of the seed fancied he would become invisible to the eyes of his fellows at pleasure! Whether he was ever undeceived the story does not go on to say. Others went out by moolight to gather certain herbs and flowers, said to have magical properties—such as the rose, and Ss. John's wort—but what the properties were, or what next happened to the flowers, I can not tell you. In the middle of the last century the making of a dumb cake for this festival was in high favor among women, and the ceremony was something on this wise: In strict silence two girls made the cake, two more baked it in the oven, and two more broke it to pieces when drawn, hot and tempting, from its hiding place. Another couple distributed the pieces under the pillows of the whole party, who, if they succeeded in holding their tongues for such a long time together, might certainly hope to dream of the future husband. It must be allowed the chances were rather against it.—Chamber's Journal

A Reliable Servant.

"Here is a note I want you to hand to Mrs. Lively when you are sure nobody is looking," said a New York society man to a colored servant at a fashionable Fifth avenue residence.

"Yes, sir," said Sambo, showing his ivories.

"But, mind you, don't whisper a word to a living soul."

"You kin jess rest easy about dat, boss. Yesterday I fotched dat ar same woman a letter from a nudder gemman, an' I ain't said a word 'bout it to nobody yit. You kin jess rest easy 'bout my opening my mouf."—Texas Siftings.

—A new kind of strike occurred in a female seminary at Nashville, Tenn., the other day, where a class of young ladies indignantly struck against instruction from a text-book on history which recited the old story of Jefferson Davis' capture in female attire.

EXCITING SPORT.

Description of a Regulation Bear Hunt In Lapland.

A peasant generally goes out in search of a bear's trail, and, having found it, moves in a ring some miles in circumference, to make sure of having him within it. He then gradually contracts his circles, till he comes to the retreat itself of the animal. Weeks are sometimes expended in this search; the peasantry are then summoned to skall by the Landshoroding, or Governor of the province, and put under the direction of the jogmoestare, or ranger of the district, who marshals them, and commands their movements. The peasants are generally formed into circles, and come armed with whatever weapons they can procure. Though opposed singly to a whole host, the bear often spreads havoc among his assailants. Every ball that enters his huge carcass but adds fire to his fury, and woe to the individual whom his wrath has singled out. It ceases to be a mere pastime, and nothing but the greatest self-possession can save him from a miserable death.

While at Hernosand I saw a representation of an event that took place at a skall in the neighborhood, in 1831, and which shows that bear-hunting must be quite equal to tiger-hunting in excitement and peril. The bear on this occasion was very large; nothing like an American bear, with which an Indian can grapple, but an enormous beast able to carry off a pony under his arm. His temper, probably never very good, had been ruffled by ten shots lodged in different parts of his body; all present intrenched themselves and awaited some desperate effort on his part, should not a lucky shot through the head speedily give him his quietus. At this moment a man, bolder than his companions, advancing before them, the bear rushed upon him, tore the gun from his hands, and began to wound him with his tremendous claws.

The wretched man was unable to contend with his muscular antagonist; already his wounds were letting out his life, when a young Norrlander, unable to look quietly on, rushed to his assistance. Besides the danger which he himself incurred, and which, of course, he had no feeling of, there was some difficulty in shooting the bear without striking the man. As he advanced, the bear rose on his hind legs to meet his new opponent; his victim dropped before him; the Norrlander seized the favorable opportunity, raised his gun with both arms high above his head, to bring it in a horizontal position on a level with the bear's, and, trusting to feeling more than sight, discharged his piece. An immediate death-wound could alone save either from their enemy. The success which the brave man deserved attended him, and the ball passed through the brain of the bear, which fell dead on the wounded man.—N. Y. Ledger.

THE PAPER TRADE.

Recent Discoveries Which Bid Fair to Revolutionize It.

"We now make about every thing, from a shirt to a car wheel out of paper, but we are also making paper out of nearly every thing," said a Yankee manufacturer.

"The most recent invention in our trade—and it is one which bids fair to revolutionize it altogether—is the process of making paper out of cotton. It was recently discovered by a gentleman from Georgia, who has thus opened up another great industry to the South, for the hulls of the cotton seed, hitherto considered utterly worthless—a mere waste, in fact—are now found to be the most valuable for the making of paper pulp.

"The discoverer, after much study, came to the conclusion that the hulls could be made into paper pulp. An analysis of the hull showed that it is composed of nine layers, the two upper ones being black and coarse, while the remaining seven are of very fine fibre, and after being subjected to a certain chemical process can be blanched a fleecy white. About five hundred pounds of these hulls were sent to a paper mill for experiment, and the result was the product of the finest textile pulp that the chemist had ever seen, while the paper woven from the pulp makes a much better and smoother article than ordinary 'news print,' as well as a good quality of writing paper."

"Can paper be made cheaper from this pulp than by the old process?"

"The time and cost of reducing the hulls to pulp is only 50 per cent. of what the present process requires, thus the price of paper will be reduced about one-half, while the quality will be much better. Perhaps I can illustrate the exact difference in this way: To reduce poplar wood to pulp it requires 12 deg. of baume liquid, with 120 pounds of steam pressure, and the time consumed is sixteen hours but with the cottonseed hulls the time is only eight hours, with one-half the liquid and steam pressure.

"In addition, the cotton stalks can be used as well for the manufacture of pulp and by the process stated above can be made to produce a good class of paper."—N. Y. Telegram.

She Knew Him Well.

Miss Clara (blushing)—Do you know, Ethel, that young Mr. Sampson proposed to me last night, and I accepted him?

Miss Ethel (heartily)—I congratulate you sincerely, Clara. Mr. Sampson is a noble young man.

Miss Clara—Do you know him very well?

Miss Ethel—Oh, yes. It was only a few months ago that I promised to be a sister to him.—Time.

PHILOSOPHER DUNDER.

The Wise Old Teuton Makes Some Apt General Observations.

If I vhas to live my life oafer again I expect I do no petter ash pefore. Nopody knows how to live until he vhas aboudt ready to die.

Nopody vhas sooch a good friendt to me dot he can tell me where I should reform onless I get mad mit him. It vhas human nature dot we all believe we vhas good enough.

In trying to get something for nothing in dis world we cheerfully buy two dollars' worth of cigars for der man who gifs us a tecket to a feefty-cent-show.

I doan' see some loafers around midout I wonder dot Nature vhas so foolish. She could shust as well baf used oop dot material to grow fence-rails and hitching posts.

If you find me some man who vhas satisfied mit der weather und der peoples und der world, I show you somepody who vhas ripe for either Heafen or der idiot asylum.

Vhen I like to pound on my drum I forget dot I haf some neighbors who may like to shleep. Vhen I like to shleep myself my neighbor should be put in shail if he plays on der piano.

We like a man who shpeaks der truth by us, und yet shust so soon ash he tells as something unplesant we vhas mad at him.

Vhen I hear a boy whistle I feel safe. I know dot so long as he whistles he doan' put up some shop to shteal my apples or carry off my front gate.

If you take a man's bad luck und trace it back you vhill discover dot he vhas to blame ten times vnere somepody else vhas once, und yet he remembers only dot once.

I doan' like a man to be too liberal tait me, especially a doctor in prescribing large doses.

It vhasn't so much der darkness I vhas afraid of vhen night comes, but maype I do sometings mean or wicked by daylight.

If you keep your eyes open you vhill see dot charity works hard all summer, while most of her beneficiaries sleep in der shade or loafs mit der saloons.

We doan' know some men until dey vhas gone to der bad. Den it vhas we hear afery pody say how shmart und talented dey vhas all der time.

Der best frendt I eafer had became my enemy as soon as I lent him fife dollar mitout security. Dot same man would have mortgaged his house and lot to somepody else und felt dot it vhas poty peesness.

Sometimes it seems to me dot der world vhas too wicked to stand much longer, und dot it vhas hard to find one honest, upright man. I take some liver medicine, und lo! der next day der work vhas good enough und all men vhas all right.

I haf seen a funeral procession a mile long, und two weeks later I haf asked who vhas buried dot day, und nopody could remember. Vhen a man gets through mit der world der world vhas through mit him.

A hypocrite vhas a bad man, und yet sometimes I vhas glad to meet a tief who doan' tell me who he vhas.

Vhen I see a woman cry I feel to praise der wisdom of Nature. If she couldn't shed tears she would pull somepody's hair.—Detroit Free Press.

A REVIVED ANECDOTE.

Sir Walter Raleigh and the Good Virgin Queen Elizabeth.

Bad weather held London in its strong grip, and as her Majesty's state chair had been sent to the chair shop to have a new set of springs put in, it became necessary for the Queen to walk to Parliament, to leave her regular morning order for the state executioner. The gallant Raleigh, who was at that time occupying the exalted station of Escort Extraordinary and Gold-Stick-in-Waiting to the Queen, in accordance with the duties of his office, offered his arm to Elizabeth, and they twain, preceded by six trumpeters, and followed by three pieces of artillery and a thousand small boys, set out in the pouring rain. As umbrellas had not been invented at that period, Raleigh sheltered himself from the torrent beneath the water-proof ruff her Majesty wore about her neck, while Elizabeth was granted the sole satisfaction for the soaking she received by ordering the clerk of the weather to the block. The journey passed without incident worthy of note until the party reached the corner opposite the Parliament buildings, where it was found that a mud-puddle of extraordinary dimensions—a puddle worthy of the Elizabethan age—had gathered unto itself the larger part of the street.

"By my halidom," quoth the Queen, "but this puddle hath extraordinary depth! Methinks 'twere well that we return, and defer the executions until the morrow."

"Not so, my liegess," said Raleigh, turning to one of his retainers and seizing his cloak; "'twere better far that my friend here should sacrifice his habit to thy necessity. Never shall it be said that while a Raleigh stood by, the Queen of England was balked of her determination or wet her ankles in pursuit of her ambition!"

Saying which, the courtier threw his retainer's cloak upon the surface of the puddle, and her Majesty, stepping lightly upon it, reached the other side without wetting her feet. Elizabeth never forgot Raleigh's gallantry; but as for the retainer who lost his habit, he likewise lost his head for saying in the Queen's presence that, "since Raleigh had so many bad habits, he thought it hard that he should lose his to demonstrate what a tailor-made courtier Raleigh could be when he tried."—Harper's Magazine.

JOE BRANT'S WATCH.

The History of a Time-Piece Sent to America by George III.

An ancient silver time-piece, valuable for its historical associations no less than for its antiquity, is owned by Mr. Daniel Minthorn, of Watertown, N. Y. It weighs five and a quarter ounces, and is 250 years old; yet it keeps good time when wound, and has not been repaired since 1847. The watch is of the pattern known as the "British bulls-eye," and is an inch and a half thick. The face is of silver, roughly chased, and has a double row of figures, both the Arabic and Roman numerals appearing. It bears the mark of the maker, Thomas Linhard, of London, and the number 110. A search through ancient directories of the city of London, made by Mr. Minthorn at the Centennial Exposition, revealed the fact that this jeweler did business on Fleet street, between the years 1638 and 1658. The works look as substantial as though turned out yesterday. A tiny chain that winds around a drum takes the place of the spring in modern watches, and the cog-wheels and pivots are all large and heavy. The silver cases are very thick. The works can be removed from the case or box, and when inside are retained in place by a thick crystal that would flatten a bullet.

When Sir William Johnson owned Johnsontown, in Montgomery County, this State, and laid claim to considerable other land, he was a great favorite with King George III. As a mark of his favor the King sent this watch across the water to the nobleman. That was just before the war of the Revolution, and when Joseph Brant, the Indian leader, started on his death-spreading expedition up the Cherry valley, Sir William gave him the time-piece as an incentive to deeds of violence and pillage against the colonists. Thayendanega, as Brant was termed in the Indian tongue, promised to bring back forty white scalps in return for the gift. Settlers were massacred by the score, but Brant's expedition suffered too, and in one of the dashes the patriots made against his gear this watch was captured.

One of the few women who escaped the Indians was Mrs. Mabie, who fled by the light of the burning stacks and barns of her homestead to the woods. She had her two babies under her arms, and all hid under a huge root in the forest on the banks of Oreds Kill Creek. While the Indians were near the heroic mother choked her infants' cries and was forced to throw water in their faces to revive them. After the savages had departed she walked eighteen miles to Schoharie with the babies. One of these was afterward the mother of Daniel Minthorn, the present owner of the watch. The time-piece fell into the hands of Evart Van Epps, a revolutionary officer, and by marriage into the Minthorn family, where it has remained ever since. Two years ago a big monument was unveiled at Brantford, Ont., to the memory of the old Thayendenega. The residents invited Mr. Minthorn to come with his watch and take part in the exercises and offered him $100. The old gentleman refused very indignantly, and wrote to the Monument Committee: "Do you suppose I would assist in a celebration to do honor to a man whose only good deed that I know of was his neglect to scalp my mother?"—N. Y. World

PERFECT MANNERS.

Rules Which Will Make Those Who Observe Them Popular Favorites.

Never try to outshine, but to please.

Never press a favor where it seems undesired.

Never intrude ill-health, pains, losses or misfortunes.

Never unavoidably wound the feelings of a human being.

Never talk or laugh aloud in public places or upon the street.

Never forget that vulgarity has its origin in ignorance or selfishness.

Never urge another to do any thing against his desire unless you see danger before him.

Do not ask another to do what you would not be glad to do under similar circumstances.

Never omit to perform a kind act when it can be done with any reasonable amount of exertion.

Never needlessly wound the vanity of another or dilate unnecessarily upon disagreeable subjects.

Do not make witticisms at the expense of others which you would not wish to have made upon yourself.

Remember that good manners are thoughts filled with kindness and refinement, and then translated into behavior.

Be not ostentatious in dress and deportment; nothing can be more vulgar. See that costumes fit the time and occasion.

Be rude to none; rudeness harms not even the humblest and poorest to whom it is directed but it injures the exhibitors.

Never treat superiors with servility or inferiors with arrogance. Speak as kindly to a day laborer as one occupying a high position.

Always give precedence to elders, visitors and superiors. Offer them the best seat at the table, the best place by the fire and the first of every thing. Go further than mere form and see that they are comfortable and happy.—Des Moines Register.

—Coal is now found in about thirty different States of the Union and seven Territories. In 1887 the little State of Rhode Island supplied 6,000 tons out of the total product of 123,965,225 tons.

—A German chemist has found that chloroform may be detected in the lungs of animals four weeks after death.

SIGNALS FOR THE FARM.

Simple Means of Communication Over an Area of a Mile or So.

A code of signals for use on the farm may be made very useful for communication between persons out of speaking distance. The writer has long used a loud whistle for making signals to his hired men and others about the farm, which have been found quite intelligible and useful after a little training. The common "mile whistles" sold under the claim that they can be heard a mile off are frauds and fit only for children's playthings; but a loud whistle can be made of a brass tube half an inch in diameter, plugged and cut with a file in the required manner. The best whistle, however, is made of the half shell of a common filbert or Barcelona nut sawn lengthwise or across the middle. This is placed between the third and fourth fingers inside the hand, at the space between the knuckle and the next joint, with the opening in the shell between the fingers. The hand is then closed so that an orifice is left between the fingers opening into the nutshell. Then by placing the bent joints of the fingers between the lips and blowing forcibly into the nutshell, a very shrill and loud whistle may be given that can be heard half a mile with ease, and further when a gentle wind is blowing in the direction the sound is to be sent.

It seems that this system of whistle signals or language is by no means a novelty, for a regular vocabulary, so to speak, of whistling sounds has been in use in an Island of the Canary group. The inhabitants of this island (Gomera, which consists mostly of precipitous rocks and deep ravines through which rivers flow,) make use of this code of whistle signals to communicate with each other across the rough country, which can only be traversed by long, circuitous routes, on account of the deep ravines. These people use both fingers and lips when whistling, and can carry on a conversation with neighbors a mile distant by the use of this peculiar language.

This useful addition to the faculty of speech may be made available in many ways by adopting a similar code or key of sounds to that which is used in telegraphy. Thus in our system three short, sharp whistles blown quickly mean that the man or men at work in a distant place are to come to the house or to quit work. One long whistle, gradually tapering off to a finish, means that the foreman must send a man to the barn; one short, sharp whistle, followed by the long, tapering one, calls the team home; two short whistles and the long one from the foreman calls the employer to the field to settle some difficulty; three short whistles and the long one call the foreman and announce meal times. Thus by the use of long and short sounds differently disposed all sorts of directions may be given and information conveyed. Each man employed is provided with a whistle, if he can not use his fingers in the usual way, which makes a loud, piercing sound, and a card of signals; but this is not of much use except at rare intervals.

Flags are usefully employed as signals when the house or barn can be seen from all parts of the farm. A pole with arms such as make up the old-fashioned "semaphore" telegraph may also be used when it can be seen or the persons are too far apart to hear a sound. A triangle made of a steel bar bent with the ends free, and struck with another piece of steel, can be heard more than a mile away. But this and the bell are not sufficiently various in sound for ordinary use. The whistle, on the other hand, may be made to vary quite sufficiently to afford all necessary means of communication over the area of an ordinary farm, and the signals may be so codified as to give intelligent meaings, as in the case of the islanders above referred to.

But it will be most convenient to condense as much as possible the code of signals. Thus the signal come to the house or barn when repeated quickly will mean there is something wrong and haste is required. This will answer for all emergencies. Each man, too, should have his signal, to which he only will answer in person when the men are together or scattered. Some such method of communication will be found very useful, and, as it will tend to save time in the work of the farm, and as time is money, it will be found a means of economy, and therefore worthy of adoption.—N. Y. Times.

Knew Where He Was From.

Judge (to prisoner who has just been brought into court)—What is your name?

Prisoner—Billings.

Judge—Where are you from, Mr. Billings?

Prisoner—I refuse to state, as such information has nothing to do with the case.

Judge—But we will compel you to state, sir.

Prisoner—That will be a dangerous proceeding, I assure you. I shot a judge once.

Judge (musingly)—The prisoner is from Kentucky.—Arkansaw Traveler.

—There are in New York more than 1,000 artesian wells in constant use. Owing to the meagre supply of Croton water, especially during the dry season, large numbers of manufacturers have been obliged to resort to wells, which vary in depth from about 400 to 1,250 feet, and furnish from 8,000 to 90,000 gallons a day. The wells are drilled by the methods in vogue in the oil regions, at a cost ranging from six to twelve dollars a foot, according to the hardness of the rock.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

—Washington has a "Summer home for cats." It is said to be surrounded by a caterwaul.—Norristown Herald.

—In polite circles the word "drunk" or "intoxicated" is no longer used. "Overestimated his capacity" is the proper thing.—Epoch.

—"Look out for number one" is like the baseless fabric of a dream to a widow on the qui vive for a second husband.—Binghamton Republican.

—St. Louis man (witnessing "Julius Cæsar")—"Do you notice, my dear, with what stately grace Brutus moves about?" Wife—"Yes, and he is in his night-gown, too. It's wonderful!"

—Some one says that an umbrella will last much longer if it is placed with the handle downward to dry. To preserve it still longer, attach it to your body with a long chain and padlock.—Norristown Herald.

—It is not always easy to tell whether or not a woman really means what she says; but this rule does not apply when she is expatiating on the accomplishments of her baby. She may be misguided, but she is always perfectly sincere.—Somerville Journal.

—"All the men are not fools, anyhow," snapped Mrs. Curtly to her husband during a little domestic discussion. "No, my dear," replied Mr. C., with true manly politeness. "No, there are a few bachelors left as samples."—Washington Critic.

—Police Protection.—Smith—"How do you like your new house out in the suburbs?" Jones—"The only objection I have to it is that it is so far to the police station in case of burglars." "Why didn't you rent a house near a saloon? You can always find a policeman hanging around there."—Texas Siftings.

—Dominie (to choir leader)—The collection this morning, Mr. Hotwater, was very small, and I am sorry to say that I think the meagreness was largely due to you. Choir Leader—"Largely due to me, sir?" Dominie—"Yes. Hereafter, while the plate is being passed, I wish you would try and make a better selection of music than 'Salvation's Free.'"—N. Y. Sun.

—Mrs. Lenox Hill, Jr. (getting ready to leave town)—"Lenox, where shall I hide these silver spoons, in case thieves break in? Do you think between the mattresses would be a good place?" Mr. Lenox Hill, Jr. (who knows what he is talking about)—"Nonsense! Put them into one of your dress pockets in the closet, and if a burglar finds that, he deserves the spoons!"—Puck.

—Somewhere down East a married pair were in the habit of airing their differences audibly. In these spats the wife, having the longer tongue, was usually the winner. The result was made known in one case to an inquiring neighbor (who asked where he could find Mr. McBlank) in these words: "I don't know; I guess he's up stairs hatin' hisself."—Boston Transcript.

—"The types," observes a Southern Missouri paper apologetically, "made us allude last week to our esteemed townsman, Mr. Polhemus, as a villainous lounger. We wrote 'versatile lawyer.' The error was overlooked by our proof-reader, a gentleman recently from Texas, who assures us, in extenuation of the oversight, that the two terms mean pretty much the same thing where he came from."

—Clergymen should be brief and to the point. A Boston clergyman once had a broad hint to that effect. "We would like to have you short when you marry us," said a prospective bridegroom, "because we are going West." "How soon after the ceremony will you start?" asked the clergyman. "In about a week," was the reply. Then the minister realized he had a reputation as one possessing the gift of continuance.—Harper's Magazine.

PECULIAR INDUSTRY.

Persons Who Make a Living by Buying and Selling Bad Eggs.

There was a lively row in progress in the cellar of one of the large commission houses on Duane street. The belligerents were the porter of the establishment and a stout German woman, who held in either arm a large basket of apparently fresh eggs. The row itself was over the price of the eggs, the woman claiming that they were not worth over forty-two cents per one hundred, while the porter held out stoutly for forty-five cents.

When the woman who failed to gain her point had exhausted her stock of Berlin "billingsgate" the porter explained the situation to a reporter as follows:

"You see," he began, "every barrel of eggs that comes in here has to be 'candled,' and when we find one not up to the mark we throw it aside. These are either spotted, cracked or rotten, as the case may be, and of these, which we call spots, cracks and rots, we have many dozens each week to dispose of. This woman had just bought four hundred cracks and spots at forty-five cents a hundred. What will she do with them? Why, sell them to the ice-cream saloons and bakeries, not to mention the cheap restaurants. She will get from five to ten cents a dozen for them, according to quality. The bulk of the eggs, however, will be made into ice-cream.

"Some of these big ice-cream concerns," he went on, "use these eggs altogether, and I know of some large coffee houses who use them to give their beans a peculiar gloss. As for rotten eggs, the tanneries buy them. There is something in a rotten egg that gives a certain finish to some kinds of leather that nothing else will give. Some of these women make a good living by buying up spoiled eggs, but their trade is being spoiled by the bakeries and restaurants who are now sending their own wagons after them."—N. Y. Herald.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20.....1888

The prospector finds a deposit of ore in a barren wilderness, or on some bleak mountain side. His find is reported everywhere, in nearly every case with the wildest exaggeration. There is a rush for the place; mills and houses are built, and in a few months a town springs up where so lately the solitude was unbroken. In a few years the ore is worked out, the town is deserted, and the region becomes more dreary and forbidding than it was in its original condition. The ruined buildings, the wreck and desolation of a deserted mining town, is one of the most depressing, forlorn and dreary scenes on earth. Nothing compares with it in sadness except the hulk of some wrecked ship rotting on a lonely strand where the sea forever moans around it. The strongest and most cheerful contrast to such a scene is where the hand of the settler has conveyed the fertilizing water on to the desert, converting its barrenness into the bloom of the orchard and the golden treasure of the grain field. Unlike the mining camp, that has a few years of feverish excitement and dies a ghastly wreck; the improvement of the land grows in value and beauty from year to year. Generations follow the original locators, and still the work of reclamation is extended and its value and beauty are increased by time. And yet the mining prospector is the pioneer of the improvement of the land. It is he who penetrates to remote and unknown regions; braves their dangers, endures hardships untold, and makes known to the farmer where land and water may be had. Not only this, but the miner makes a demand for all kinds of farm produce without which the most productive land would be nearly worthless in regions remote from the great centers of population. It was mining prospectors who first discovered Owens Valley; they led the way for the men who followed, but who were discerning enough to see that the soil of this great region will continue to yield treasure uncountable when the vast mineral resources of the surrounding mountains shall all be dug out. Long before that is done the wines and raisins and other products of Owens Valley will be famous where the name of the valley is now unknown; and these will bring a greater revenue into the country than the mining prospector ever hoped for in his wildest dreams.

LETTER FROM J. F. SULLIVAN.

The following letter was received by a prominent Democrat of this place and is published by request.

IN CHAMBERS, NEW CITY HALL,
San Francisco, Oct. 8th, 1888.

DEAR SIR:—In the heat of the presidential election, people forget that a Chief Justice and an Associate Justice are to be chosen for our Supreme Court. Thoughtful people apprehend that the Railroad companies of the State are trying to mould the personnel of our Supreme Court. The American Party is one of the instrumentalities used by them. Until my Sharon decision, though I had already been seven years in public life, no one had ever suggested, nor would a single act of my career, justify the suggestion, that my discharge of the duties of citizenship or of public office, was swayed by considerations of creed or origin or social standing. The rule of law laid down by me in that case had nothing to do with the doctrines of the Catholic Church on the subject of marriage. The rule as stated by me has, since, been declared by our Supreme Court, to be the statute law of California. But the parties aggrieved at that decision have joined forces with the Railroad Companies of the State and called to their aid the religious prejudices of certain people to carry out their avowed purpose to retire me from public life.

P. D. Wigginton, attorney for the Southern Pacific company, and F. M. Pixley, an attorney, said to be on the same pay-roll were commissioned two years ago to create, and direct the action of the American Party conformably to the interests and desires of the Sharon-Railroad combination. The task was religiously performed. In executing their compact all the parties acted harmoniously. They libeled me through the press and by anonymous publications that were as false as they were malicious. They circulated bogus Democratic tickets, with my adversarys name substituted for mine, and they directly bought votes. This year, this combination will support for Chief Justice, Judge Beatty, of the firm of Beatty & Denson, attorneys for the Southern Pacific company, in Sacramento, and for Associate Justice, against me, J. D. Works, attorney for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe R. R. Co., in San Diego, a man only five years in the State as against my thirty-six years residence. To get him acquainted and to give him some prestige the Governor has appointed him to the vacancy for five weeks, contrary to the precedent set by Governor Stoneman when Judge Temple was a candidate two years ago. Gen. Barnes told a friend that in 1886 the Sharon people had "worked every prejudice in the State against Sullivan." They did and with absolute disregard for facts. This year hired emissaries are already at large against me. The truth will bear no statement that may injure me.

Yours sincerely,
J. F. SULLIVAN.

BEER DUELS IN GERMANY.

Privileges of Challenged and Challenger. The Weapons Used in Combat.

The old English custom of "taking wine with a person," each merely sipping from his glass, seems almost a teetotal observance when compared with the corresponding usage of the Kneipe. In the first place, no one must drink solus. If any one ventures to take a solitary swig he is forthwith compelled to drain a full measure to the health of the company generally. The proper course is to drink to some one else, at the same time specifying the quantity the drinker proposes to imbibe. The person honored is bound to accept the challenge, which he may do with a simple "drink away," or some equivalent phrase, when the challenger is bound to drink off within the next five minutes the quantity he has named, and within five minutes more the challenged must drink to him, "in response," the like quantity. If either fail in his obligation excommunication is the result. But the challenged party may not be content simply to accept the challenge. Stirred with noble ardor he may "go higher," doubling the quantity named. The challenger may do the same, and so on until the total quantity reaches a maximum of eight tankards, which are drunk off alternately, one by one, with an interval of five beer minutes between each. The beer drunk by the challenged "in response" is not allowed a "double debt to pay."

Probably some craven soul in the past devised the plan of saving his brains and his pocket by making the same beer which he drank in response to one person also serve the purpose of a challenge to another. This is strictly forbidden by the code (under the usual penalty), unless, indeed, the original challenger has used the words in die welt schieken ("to pass around") in which case A drinks to B; B, with the beer with which he responds to A, drinks also to C. C, responding to B, drinks simultaneously to D, and so on all around the table. Speaking of anything connected with study (Anglice, "talking shop") is tabooed at the Kneipe. If any one offends in this manner he is promptly called to order by the sarcastic remark from one or other of the company, "Gelehrt!" ("You learned man.") This is regarded not merely as a rebuke but a challenge to the duello, the weapons being, as usual, beer tankards. The person rebuked may either simply accept the challenge (this, indeed, he is bound to do in some shape), or he may retort with the still more cutting insinuation, "Doctor!" ("You're a doctor"). This again may be met with "You're a professor," and finally, last and deadliest offense of all, "Papst!" ("You're a pope").

Such insults as these can naturally only be wiped out with—beer; and according to the gravity of the offense the greater is the quantity required. The comparatively soft impeachment of being a learned man can be wiped out with half a tankard; but "doctor" demands a whole tankard, "professor," two tankards, while nothing short of four tankards will rehabilitate the man who has been dubbed a "pope." Each party chooses a second. The tankards are filled and the second of the challenger "makes the weapon equal," i. e., sees that the beer stands at the same level in both). The second of the challenged party gives the word: "Grasp your weapons!" (The combatants raise their tankards). "Knock." (They knock them on the table). "Ready." (They raise them to their lips). "Off." They empty them and bring them down with a bang upon the table; the one who first brings down his tankard fairly emptied being the winner. If either of the combatants has not finished his full quantum within the usual five minutes—excommunication!—Cornhill Magazine.

Development of the Fishing Vessel.

The vessels of our fishermen in early times were diminutive craft of only from five to twelve tons burden, and were pointed at both ends. They were called pinks, or pinkies. Then the pointed prow gave place to a bowsprit and jib, and the vessel, still retaining this pointed stern, became a jigger. Today the fishing vessels sailing out of Gloucester are first class two masted schooners ranging from 75 to 125 tons burden. They are the swiftest, most buoyant and seaworthy, and still the most beautiful and graceful vessels afloat. The average crew for a first class fishing vessel comprises a skipper, or captain, and from fourteen to sixteen men, and it is almost invariably the case that not a man is shipped who is not as perfectly familiar as the skipper himself with every manner of coast and banks fishing, as well as with every conceivable duty as fisherman or seaman.

The stores, or supplies, vary according to the kind of fish sought and the probable length of the cruise; but they are always far superior to those provided for seamen in merchant service. There is no caste, no distinction in food, treatment or fellowship; and the skipper would be ridiculed off the coast whose cabin table was a stranger to fresh butter, pies, eggs, fowl, good biscuit and coffee and the best quality of cured meats; and, as on many of the vessels, large quantities of ice are kept for the purpose of preserving fresh fish for the markets, vegetables and fresh meats are not uncommon even on extended cruises. Aside from the serious toil, dangers and frequent necessary hardships endured, no seafaring men command or deserve better food or treatment.—Edgar L. Wakeman in New York Mail and Express.

RULES FOR GETTING RICH.

The best merchant is he whose business talent is of the highest order and improved to the highest pitch.

Of all quarrels, the most senseless, the most bootless, the most worrying, is a quarrel with your circumstances.

Every man has three characters—that which he exhibits, that which he has and that which he thinks he has.

Half of the heavy hearts and broken spirits and sleepless eyes among our merchants might be spared were they only willing to conform their appearances to their substance.

Many merchants object too much, consult too long, advertise too little, and seldom drive business home to the full period, but content themselves with a mediocrity of success.

Some men seem to take failure quite comfortably; they stop and go on again, without changing their style of living or lowering their heads. That is a feat that no honest business man can admire.

In business there are many who cannot rise, many who cannot help descending, many who of necessity fail, many who earn their bread, and many who only waste it when once in their own hands.

Great merit or great failings will make you respected or despised, but trifles little attentions, mere nothings, either done or neglected, will make you either liked or disliked in the general run of the world.

The true merchant is not the man who best understands his business and contrives to bargain others out of their reasonable profits, but he who best understands his business and never takes advantage of any man's ignorance or any man's necessity.

"Leading articles" in commerce, like leading articles in journalism, are meant to make a character for the whole. But it is questionable whether a merchant is justified in taking such modes of attracting the attention of the public unless he has actural advantages to offer.—New York Mail and Express.

Red riding habits are the latest elegant economy of Parisian equestriennes, who must otherwise sport the color of the entertainer of the time.

Election Proclamation.

Pursuant to law and a Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California, made and done at Sacramento on the 29th day of September, A. D. 1888

Notice Is Hereby Given

By the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, that a General Election will be held throughout the said County of Inyo, on

Tuesday, November 6th, 1888.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the morning and will be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m. on the said 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, during which time the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

Eight Electors of President and Vice-President of the United States.

One Representative to the Congress of the United States from the Sixth Congressional District composed of the counties of San Benito, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego.

One member of the Assembly from the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

Also one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice Niles Searles appointed.

One Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice E. W. McKinstry, resigned.

And the Governor of the State of California hereby offers a reward of

One Hundred Dollars

for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

And the following officers of Inyo county are to be elected at the same time, viz.:

One Sheriff;
One County Clerk;
One District Attorney;
One County Treasurer;
One Coroner;
One County Surveyor;
One Supervisor for District No. 2;
One Supervisor for District No. 4;
One Supervisor for District No. 5;
Two Justices of the Peace for each Township in Inyo county.
Two Constables for each Township in Inyo county.
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 1;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 2;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 3
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 4;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 5;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 6;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 7.

Said election to be held at the places, and the election to be conducted by the election officers hereby appointed, and hereinafter named, as follows, to wit:

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 1

Polls to be held at the store of F. P. Plaisdell, at Round Valley. Inspector, F. P. Plaisdell; Judges, James Nevins and Richard Hilton

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 2

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Averas. Inspector, A. Matlick; Judges, Moses Brockman and William McLaren.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 3

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Station. Inspector, G. A. Thorpe; Judges, James Peregrine and Joseph McNally.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 4

Polls to be held at the residence of Nathan Gilbert. Inspector, W. A. Greenly; Judges, S. P. Roberts and Nathan Gilbert.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 5

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Creek. Inspector, L. P. Springstead; Judges, B. H. Yancy and W. W. Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 6

Polls to be held at the residence of George Story, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. Inspector, A. O. Collins; Judges, George Story and R. Merryman.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 7

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Big Pine. Inspector, S. J. McMurry; Judges, L. M. Newman and J. M. Hay.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 8

Polls to be held at the residence of the Conklin Brothers. Inspector, James Lane; Judges, N. E. Conklin and O. H. P. Love.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 9

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Independence. Inspector, W. J. Lake; Judges, J. Zeigler and I. D. Blair.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 10

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Georges Creek. Inspector, W. L. Hunter; Judges, John Kisper and John Meyer.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 12

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas McDonough, in Arastra Canyon. Inspector, Thomas McDonough; Judges, George St. Clair and Frank Miranda.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 13

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse in Lone Pine. Inspector, John Lucas; Judges, J. J. Stewart and R. C. Spear.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 14

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas Poland at Cerro Gordo. Inspector, John Thomas; Judges, William Cripo and George Weist.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 15

Polls to be held in a building adjoining the store of Thomas Boland in Keeler. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, E. F. Hall and John Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 16

Polls to be held at the house of William Walker, at Olancha. Inspector, A. Walker; Judges, H. Belows and William Walker.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 17

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Darwin. Inspector, Charles Anthony; Judges, Martin Mee and N. S. Thompson.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 18

Polls to be held at the store of Frank Fitzgerald, at Lookout. Inspector, J. D. Channell Judges, Frank Fitzgerald and W. C. Smith.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 21

Polls to be held at the office of the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, at Panamint. Inspector, H. G. Chickering; Judges, John Curran and E. Rowell.

Dated this 2d day of October, A. D. 1888

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sept 1 tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,
MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef, Mutton, Pork, Lard, Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18tf

Lodge 221, F. & A. M.

Regular meetings of Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., for the year 1888, will be held at the Lodge room at Independence as follows:

Saturday.....January 28th
".....February 25th
".....March 24th
".....April 21st
".....May 19th
".....June 23rd
".....July 21st
".....August 18th
".....September 15th
".....October 13th
".....November 17th
".....December 15th

JOHN SHEPHERD, W. M.
P. H. MACK, Sec.

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide 124 pages; price only 25 cents (postage stamps).

FREE $85 solid GOLD WATCH Sold for $400 until lately. Best $85 watch in the world. Perfect time Keeper. Warranted Heavy Solid Gold Hunting Cases, Elegant and magnificent. Both ladies and gents size with works and cases of equal value ONE PERSON in each locality can secure one FREE. How is this possible? We answer—we want one person in each locality to keep in their homes, and show to those who call, a complete line of our valuable and very useful HOUSEHOLD SAMPLES. These samples as well as the watch, we send free, and after you have kept them in your home for 2 months and shown them to those who may have called, they become your own property. It is possible to make this great offer, sending the SOLID GOLD watch and COSTLY samples free, as the showing of the samples to any locality, always results in a large trade for us, after our samples have been in a locality for a month or two we usually get from $2000 to $5000 in trade from the surrounding country. This, the most wonderful offer ever known, is made in order that our samples may be placed at once where they can be seen, all over America. Write at once, and make sure of the chance. Reader it will be hardly any trouble for you to show the samples to those who may call at your home and your reward will be most satisfactory. A postal card on which to write address but 1 cent and after you know all, if you do not care to go further, why no harm is done. But if you do send your address at once, you can secure FREE one of the best solid gold watches in the world and our large line of COSTLY SAMPLES. We pay all express, freight, etc. Address GEO. STINSON & CO., BOX 812, PORTLAND, MAINE.

PROPOSALS FOR COUNTY PRINTING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at the office of the County Clerk, until Thursday, November 8th, 1888, at 12 o'clock M. for the purpose of letting contracts for County Printing for the year beginning January 1, 1889, and ending December 31, 1889, as follows:

1st: Printing and publishing delinquent tax list.
2d: Reports of Auditor and Treasurer.
3d: Notices of contracts to be let by Inyo county.
4th: Notices of special meetings of the Board of Supervisors.
5th: Proceeding of Board of Supervisors.
6th: Notices of meetings of the Board of Education and all other legal notices required to be published by County Officers.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for County Printing," and must be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $500.

Said bids will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, November 8, 1888.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

E. ROBINSON, Chairman pro tem
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. L. MAIRS, Prop.
feb13tf

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,
HAWTHORNE, NEV.,
—DEALERS IN—
LUMBER
OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

sep 11 tf

Working Asses ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we make this offer. To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Independence - - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM, APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy 1 86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo County, Cal.

IRVING J. WOODIN, M D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
☞ NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED. ☜
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms for the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge), what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 174 page pamphlet. Address, GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes.Per liberal: any one can do the work; either sex, young or old, no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us, we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuseday, April 10h, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House..... | 9 15 a m | 5 35 p m |
| Dayton..... | 10 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Watooka ... .... | 12 45 a m | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne ..... | 4 50 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning..... | 5:50 p. m. | 9:20 a. m |
| Soda Springs..... | 7:0 p m. | 8:10 a. m |
| Belleville..... | 8 10 p. m. | 7:05 a. m. |
| Candelaria..... Ar. | 8.50 p. m | Lv. 6:30 a. m |
| | No. 3. Leave— | No. 4. Arrives— |
| Belleville..... | 7 30 a m. | 5:25 p. m |
| Benton ..... | 11 00 a m | 1:45 p m |
| Bishop Creek ..... | 1 10p. m. | 11:30 a. m. |
| Aiverd ..... | 2:00 p. m | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence..... | 3:30 p. m. | 9:05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine..... | 4 15 p. m. | 8:15 a. m. |
| Keeler..... Ar | 5:05 p. m. | Lv. 7:30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains of V. & T. R. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's. tri weekly stages (leaving Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Downieville, Grantsville and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for out-door parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ Of the C. & C. Rail oad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK.....PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing .....$2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK.

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine.)
Mercha t,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.
—
MY STOCK
Consisting of most every nec a article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.
—
NATHAN RHINE.
n25tf06

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO.
—
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany
—
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT all kinds
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
—
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten gefertigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.
—
AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - - $11,000,000
NATHAN RHINE.

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first-class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20 ..... 1888

BORN.

PARKER—At Independence, October 15, 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker, a daughter.

MARRIED.

FIEHMAN—FIEDLER—At Keeler, October 17th, by Judge John A. Hannah, John Fichman to Miss Louise Fiedler.

DIED.

GLADER—At George's Creek, October 18th, 1888, Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glader, aged 1 year and 16 days.

The funeral will be to-day (Saturday) at 2 o'clock, P. M., friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

Ed. Walker was up from Olancha last Thursday.

A. R. Conklin Esq., of Independence, has been chosen Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order of California.

Jerry Mairs is a candidate for Road Overseer. No man in the District is more interested than Jerry in having the roads in the best possible condition.

There will be religious services at Lone Pine on Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. At Independence at 7 o'clock in the evening. There will be Sunday School at the usual hour.

W. W. Collins, Republican candidate for County Clerk, has been canvassing the south end of the county during the past week.

C. H. Groves is Republican candidate for District Attorney of Humboldt county, Nevada. He formerly taught school in Owens Valley.

J. R. Eldred returned to Independence last Monday from a trip over the southern end of the county. Dick is making a very thorough canvass.

Mrs. W. K. Miller, of Lone Pine, has been very ill for a week or more past. The two Drs. Woodin have been in constant attendance upon her.

"Pap" is a Prohibitionist of the deepest dye. He says if he is elected Sheriff by any other than straight Prohibition votes he won't accept the office.

Henry Carberry, better known as "Mountain Harry," is staying at Independence. Harry is one of the oldest prospectors in the country. Time shows its traces upon him.

Pete Meyers, of Georges Creek, is about to build a slaughter house at Keeler and open a meat market. The camps of Cerro Gordo, Darwin, Lookout and Panamint make a large demand for meat there.

The new sawmill at Big Pine is doing a good business; ten thousand feet of lumber per day was all that had been expected, but the mill cuts twelve thousand feet. The lumber is of good quality and is all in demand around Big Pine as fast as it is cut.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glader died last Thursday at their home at George's Creek. The child was a twin, and a little over one year old. The other twin is a healthy boy. The funeral will be at 2 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon.

Last Wednesday evening a large party attended the wedding of Mr. John Fichman and Miss Louise Fiedler at Keeler. The ceremony was performed by Hon. John A. Hannah, Superior Judge. Mrs. Fichman came from Germany a short time ago. She is sister to Mrs. Lem Meyers, of Big Pine.

A large force of men are work at the Soda Works at Keeler. A large refinery is finished and machinery is being put in. The manufacture of soda from Owens Lake water has now passed beyond the experimental stage and is a permanent industry. The soda can be made in unlimited quantity. The men employed make an important part of the business of Keeler.

Bishop Creek is about to have a long felt want supplied at last. William Pierson, of Bodie, and James McBride have bought pipe and are reported to have secured a water right. It will take but a short time to lay the pipe, then the town will have an abundant supply of pure water under a heavy pressure. Now if the people of Bishop Creek will do a little drainage work the town will be greatly improved.

Items keep traveling around in a remarkable way. The Colusa Sun of last Saturday had an article credited to the Salt Lake Tribune about a great reservoir to be built by James D. Schuyler at the head waters of Kern river, and gave Dan De Quille as author of the article. The item first appeared in the INYO INDEPENDENT about three months ago; it was copied by a Virginia City paper; from that it was copied by the Salt Lake Tribune, and there the Sun found it and now it has come back where it started.

Notice to Schools and School Trustees.

I now have a supply of Entomologies and Charts for same. Entomology by mail, postpaid, $1.50. Charts, sets of six, $8.00. Each school should have at least one set of Charts.

W. O. MERONEY,
Bishop Creek, Cal.
Agent for Inyo county.

Victory at Last.

Last Monday in the United States District Court at San Francisco, Judge Sawyer gave a decision in a case raised to test the Constitutionality of the Chinese Exclusion Bill. The Judge has decided that the law is in all its provisions Constitutional. It is estimated that this decision will affect about 33,000 Chinese, as there are over 30,000 certificates still outstanding, and it is believed that there are about 3,000 Chinamen in their native country who had lived here before the Restriction Act was passed, and who before the passage of the Exclusion Bill would have been entitled to re-enter the country under the claim of being "prior residents." About 600 Chinese have arrived in this port since the passage of the Exclusion Act and about 700 others are now on the way from China. The Court declares that the language of the Act is clear and exact, and capable of bearing but one construction. It began to operate from the moment it was approved by the President, and though the petitioners in these cases were upon the high seas at the time the Act was approved it nevertheless operates upon them.

MINING NOTES.

At Panamint twenty men are at work. Nearly all are prospecting claims on their own account. It is said that everybody is getting out ore and making fair wages. A run has been finished at the mill but the result has not been reported. It is believed however that the returns will be very satisfactory.

At Lookout Frank Fitzgerald is doing very well. He is getting out a good deal of ore, nearly all of which is rich enough to ship. He is also concentrating tailings and flue dust at the rate of ten tons per day; this is concentrated to four tons and shipped. It pays well.

The Defiance mine, at Darwin, continues to look very well. A ledge is now opened that runs about four feet wide, and more than half of this is pure galena ore. For the first time in the history of the mine native silver is now found in the ledge. Ore shipments are now made regularly.

More silver ore is being shipped from Cerro Gordo than from all the other camps in the county combined.

At Panamint about thirty men are work. They all appear to be doing well, each man working on his own hook.

Some very promising ore finds have been made during the past ten days in the Inyo mountains, east from Independence. A woodchopper discovered a ledge, the outlook of which is very favorable. Some days later J. W. P. Laird, Register of the Land Office, made a trip to the same locality accompanied by Sam Gruber, an old prospector. They brought in some very rich looking silver ore. Mr. A. Davidson has found some still richer specimens in the same region. In all of these cases there are good indications of the ore bodies being of considerable extent. It has always been held by mining men that the Inyo range is that locality only needed prospecting to develop a very rich mineral region.

There is likely to be a big mining excitement over at Silver Peak. The locality is within the State of Nevada, east from Big Pine. A survey is now being made for a railroad from Silver Peak to the ranch of John Chatovich, a distance of twenty-one miles. There is an abundant supply of water at the Chatovich place, and it is proposed to build mills there. Another proposal is to convey the water in pipes to the mines instead of building a railroad. It is alleged that water pipes could be laid at a less expense than a railroad could be built, and once the pipes were laid there would be no cost for operating expenses as would be the case with a railroad.

Tin.

Some weeks ago Mr. A. J. Davis, of Independence, found ore in the Inyo Mountains not far from Independence Station which he belived to contain tin. He made a rude assay of the ore and obtained a button of the metal. This "button" was sent to C. A. Luckhardt & Co., of San Francisco, for examination. They reported as follows: "The metal proves to be lead, containing 6 8-10 per cent. tin." They also report $1.25 per ton in gold and a trace of silver. The amount of tin in the ore is not enough to make it of much value; but the ledge is evidently large; it is easily worked and convenient to railroad. Mr. Davis now has men at work sinking on the ledge to test the quality of the ore as it goes deeper. The samples already assayed were taken from the surface. If the quantity of tin in the ore should increase but little the mine will be valuable. None of the metals are more diligently sought after than tin; the sources for the supply of the world are very limited and are nearly all controlled in England. The Chicago Times of September 9th last says: "Among the statements made respecting this country is one to the effect that English capitalists are absorbing all the most desirable properties and are working some of them at a loss in order to scare off American capital until they can gain complete control. English capital controls the tin output of India and of course that of Cornwall. If it can control the Black Hills mines it will have a virtual monopoly of the world's supply, there being no other mines of much consequence in the world, unless those in San Bernardino county, California, which are shut off on account of litigation, or those of Mexico turn out to be valuable. The Mexican mines are shortly to be investigated by John C. Jackson, a metallurgical engineer of this city, who recently returned from Alaska. Black Hills tin ore which has been assayed in this city has shown a yield of 5 per cent, which is a good average, though some ores have been found yielding 20 and 30 per cent."

For Supervisor.

The following is the communicated report of a Citizens' Meeting held at Lone Pine.

LONE PINE, October 17, 1888.

The citizens, electors of Lone Pine precinct, irrespective of party, held a meeting on the 9th inst. to consider the matter of nominating a candidate for Supervisor District No. 4, consisting of the precincts of Georges Creek, Lone Pine, Beveridge, Keeler and Cerro Gordo, and it was ascertained that the delegates who nominated Mr. Skinner had not the assent of their constituents, and that said nomination does not represent the will of the majority of the electors, and it was proved that a great injustice was inflicted upon the inhabitants of Lone Pine precinct a year ago by the rejection of the appointment of Dr. Long as County Physician, and it was resolved in said meeting in order to avoid future injustice by said power, to make every effort to unite the electors of said Supervisor District No. 4, irrespective of political parties and to vote for the one who represents the choice of the people, and that Lone Pine precinct is this year by right entitled to the nominee. Then the meeting proceeded to nominate with the following result: J. J. Stewart, 17 votes; John Lubken, 6 votes; W. K. Miller, 5 votes. Accordingly the electors of Lone Pine precinct will vote for J. J. Stewart, and the electors of the above named precincts are respectfully invited to join with Lone Pine in the election of a candidate who will respect and maintain the rights of the people of the county at large, and restrain any unjust attempt to prejudice any part of the county.

CITIZENS.

Mr Coleman Indorsed.

The Bridgeport Chronicle-Union has announced that the Republican County Central Committee of Mono county has endorsed the nomination of Mr. Coleman, of Alpine. This puts beyond any doubt that Mr. Coleman will be elected; each of the counties that make the 72nd District gives a good republican majority. It will be satisfactory to every citizen of the district to have the assurance that Mr. Coleman is a man of unblemished character; of good ability and legislative experience. With Mr. Coleman in the Assembly no District in the State will be better represented than ours.

The Weather Clerk.

More lovely weather never blessed the earth than the Autumn months in Owens Valley. Now, toward the end of October, trees are in full leaf and flowers are blooming as if it were yet June; the alfalfa fields are of the loveliest green, and except the fields covered with stubble or shocks of corn, the landscape betrays no evidence that the year is fading into the sere and yellow leaf. In the early morning the meadow larks sing as joyously as in May; and at the same time the whistle of the quail is heard in every direction. The atmosphere is so clear that it seems to possess the power of a lens to bring distant objects near, and every peak of the Sierra Nevadas is seen with great distinctness against the deep blue of the unclouded sky. To inhale this pure air is a renewal of the bodily vigor and mental elasticity of youth; it has an exhilerating effect, like champaigne. We in this lovely valley and delightful climate can hardly realize that away in the Eastern States the rigors of winter are already felt; and felt, too, with greater severity than we ever experience. In this favored valley to-day lie not less than two hundred thousand acres of land waiting for hands to make it yield an abundance of every product of the field and meadow, the orchard and vineyard. The day is not far distant when well to do people who want homes in a delightful and healthy climate, and where the earth yields good returns to the farmer, will come here and secure these lands. When these people do come the change made in Owens Valley in a very few years will astonish the most sanguine.

A Lucky Prospector.

Prospectors still continue to make rich strikes. The Enterprise says Charley Ordway, formerly of Virginia City, has come in for a good haul down in Arizona. A mine has been sold down there to an English company for £300,000 in which he is so large a shareholder that he will get $500,000. He left Sunday night for Tucson to sign the necessary papers and get his money. He gets his half million in return for a "grub stake" given to a prospector a few years ago.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I am a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District. JERRY MAIRS.

ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA—Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California; location of works Inyo county, California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the 24 day of October, 1888, an assessment (No. 4) of five (5) cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately in United States gold coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 34 day of November, 1888, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before, will be sold on MONDAY, the 34 day of December, 1888, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with cost of advertising and expenses of sale. By order of the Board of Directors. GEORGE W. LUCE, Sec.
Office No. 205 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 242.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
October 15, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that James Edward Shepherd, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make proof on his desert land claim No. 242, for the SW ¼, S ½ of NW ¼, NW ¼ of NW ¼, of Sec. 2, NE ¼ of Sec 3, Tp 14 S, R 35 E, M D M, before the Register and Receiver at Independence on Tuesday, the 27th day of November, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land, viz.: Fred Hoibett, Hiram C. Hamilton, Henry Detels and Henry L. Clark, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
o-m14 Register.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District.

WALTER JAMES SR.

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President—

ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET.

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,

NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—

JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.

REEL B. TERRY,
Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.

CAMPBELL P. BERRY ..... Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY .. Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.

FRED. BERRINGER ..... Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A. CAMINETTI ..... Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.

C. A. JENKINS ..... Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

P. J. MURPHY ..... Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

N. BOWDEN ..... Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

BYRON WATERS ... Of San Bernardino.

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman ..... R. S. MINER.
Sheriff ..... J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk ..... P. H. MACK.
Treasurer ..... J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney .. Endorsed .. G. M. GILL
Surveyor .....
Coroner ..... G. W. BRADY

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 391, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

J. J. MOORE,
County Treasurer,
INYO CO., CAL.

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods, Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S
CHEMICAL FLUID
NON-POISONOUS
SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.
(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from striking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO
Successors to FALKNER, BELL & CO.,
No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,

Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.

Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully

Equal to the Best.

Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.

A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.

All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.

FRED BURKHARDT

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 856 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ills.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.

O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

TO ADVERTISERS

A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.

To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"

Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.

This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really

First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND, Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,

INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

....Consisting of....

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAIN

Together with an Assortment of

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC

Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA

On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad

These valuable Springs offer special

INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS

THE WATER CONTAINS

SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.

And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing

When used for bathing purposes.

THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,

—And a large—

SWIMMING : BATH

Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.

Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE

A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.

Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.

CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY
TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.

LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.

CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.

SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1-tf BIG PINE, Inyo Co., Cal.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated. In Cloth and Gilt Binding, by mail for money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. MARRIAGE, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice. Who may Marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful FEE PICTURES, sent to all. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Sent sealed (in a plain envelope) by DR. WHITTIER, 64 Ladiga St., ST. LOUIS, MO. ASK AND SEND FOR THE GUIDE.

MAKING TIME TABLES.

One of the Most Important Things in the Management of Railroads.

Railroad time-table governing the running of trains on any road of considerable length is one of the most important things in the management. The preparation of such a table is a very ingenious as well as critical bit of work. The means employed are of the simplest sort—common pins and spools of colored threads, in connection with a large sheet of drawing-paper mounted on an easel. This paper is called a time chart.

The chart is ruled either for two, five or ten minutes' time by horizontal lines and perpendicular cross lines. The "time" is marked above the horizontal lines and the distances or stations and terminals down the first perpendicular line. For illustration, 12 midnight is the mark on the first horizontal line and each hour is marked until the twenty-fourth or the following midnight hour is reached on the last horizontal line.

Between the hour lines the space is divided into minutes and graduated as fine as desired. On a two-minute chart the space between the hours is divided into ten minutes' time, and the ten minutes' time into two minutes' time. The hour lines are made heavy and the lesser time lines are of a lighter shade to distinguish them.

One terminus of the road is marked on the first line beside the first time mark 12 midnight. The other stations follow down the perpendicular line until the other terminal is reached. Then all is ready to prepare for the running arrangement, provided the pins and thread are ready.

A blue thread means a passenger train, a red thread a freight train, and if the trains of other roads use part of the track, they are designated by a different colored thread.

It is calculated that the running time shall be, say twenty-five miles an hour, and for the purpose of illustration, the tracing of one passenger train will answer the purpose of explaining them all.

A passenger train leaves the first station say at 8 a. m. A pin is placed on the horizontal line at the 8 a. m. time mark and the end of the blue thread fastened thereto. If the train runs without stopping for fifty miles the blue thread is stretched over opposite the station at which the stop is made, and directly under the 10:00 a. m. time mark another pin is stuck and the time thread wrapped about it to keep it taut.

If this is a stop of say forty minutes, the blue thread is stretched to the 10:40 a. m. mark on a direct line with the same station, and another pin stuck and blue thread wrapped.

The train starts and its entire course is thus timed and distributed along the road. If the railroad has many passenger and freight trains running daily, the time chart, when it is completed, looks like a great spider's web stretched with pins. But little work then remains to transfer the time and stations to the time-table, and the schedule is ready for the printer.—Golden Days.

Poison from Lead Pipes.

It is claimed to be proven, beyond all doubt, that water which circulates or stands in leaden pipes or vessels, not only takes up particles of lead through mechanical action due to friction, but attack the metal, the result of this being generally lead carbonate. According to the most eminent authorities in this line, minute quantities of lead thus introduced into and accumulating in the system, must rank among the causes of anæmia and defective nutrition in large towns.—New York Sun.

Will Get Used to It.

"Why that sad expression, dear," said a bride on the first day of her wedding trip, as she raised her head from her husband's shoulder, "do you regret?"——

"Ah, no, darling," he replied fervently," it was but a fleeting expression. You dropped asleep for a moment and I thought I heard just the faintest suspicion of a snore."—The Epoch.

Two Lucky East-Siders

If a gold mine had been found on the east side of this city, it would not have created more excitement than a few days ago when two lucky men got $30,000 for $2. Yet, strange to say, these lucky men did strike a gold-mine but neither of them realized that they had found gold for two weeks afterward, and then it was through the medium of The News.

The two lucky men were Charles Emerick, who keeps a neat little barber shop at 68 Columbia St., and his friend Joe Vansteenburgh, who has a tidy, well stocked cigar store directly opposite at 69. They are both long-time residents of Columbia Street.

Their story is best told in the words of Joe Vansteenburgh, as he related it to The News reporter in his cigar store:

"Charlie and I," he said, "have been buying tickets together right along since the 1st of January and never won anything. On the 27th of last month, which was the anniversary of both of our births, he said he thought it would be a lucky day to invest. So I concluded to invest 50 cents, Charley investing $1.50 and secured one-tenth part of Ticket No. 35,567.

"On the night of the 11th, the day after the drawing, Jeweler Henry Rosenberg, who keeps the store next to me, saw a list of the winning numbers in The News and showed it to Charley, who sent for me, and when he told me we had struck the capital prize I thought at first he was joking me. We left the ticket with Mr. Rosenberg to keep in his safe over night. On the following morning we handed the ticket to the Adams Express Company for collection, and in less than 10 days we received the money ($30,000), less $90, collection charges, I received $7,500 and Charley $22 500. We are both going to put nearly all of it into brick and mortar as soon as we get a chance, and after a two weeks' trip through New York and Pennsylvania Charley will open a big shop down town, but I guess I'll remain here. You bet we'll continue to invest in The Louisiana State Lottery and so will everybody around here.—New York (N. Y.) Daily News, July 24.

Allan Quatermain

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

(CONTINUED.)

CHAPTER XIX

A STRANGE WEDDING.

One person, however, did not succeed in getting out in time before the gates were shut, and that was the high priest Agon, who, as we had every reason to believe, was Sorais' great ally and the heart and soul of her party. This cunning and ferocious old man had not forgiven us for those hippopotami, or rather that was what he said. What he meant was that he never would brook the introduction of our wider ways of thought and foreign learning and influence while there was a possibility of stamping us out. Also he knew that we possessed a different system of religion, and no doubt was in daily terror of our attempting to introduce it into Za-Vendis. One day he asked me if we had any religion in our country, and I told him that so far as I could remember we had ninety-five different ones. You might have knocked him down with a feather; and really it is difficult not to pity a high priest of a well established cult who is haunted by the possible approach of one or all of ninety-five new religions.

When we knew that Agon was caught, Nyleptha, Sir Henry and I discussed what was to be done with him. I was for closely incarcerating him, but Nyleptha shook her head, saying that it would produce a disastrous effect throughout the country. "Ah!" she added with a stamp of her foot, "if I win, and am once really queen, I will break the power of those priests, with their rights and revels and dark secret ways." I only wished that old Agon could have heard her, it would have frightened him.

"Well," said Henry, "if we are not to imprison him I suppose that we may as well let him go. He's no use here."

Nyleptha looked at him in a curious way, and said, in a dry little voice, "Thinkest thou so, my lord?"

"Eh?" said Curtis. "No, I don't see what is the use of keeping him."

She said nothing, but kept looking at him in a way that was as shy as it was sweet.

Then at last he understood.

"Forgive me, Nyleptha," he said, rather tremulously, "dost thou mean that thou wilt marry me, even now?"

"Nay, I know not; let my lord say," was her rapid answer; "but if my lord wills, the priest is there and the altar is there"—pointing to the entrance to a private chapel—"and am I not ready to do the will of my lord? Listen, oh my lord; in eight days or less thou must leave me and go down to war, for thou shalt lead my armies—and in war, men sometimes fall, and if so, I would for a little space have had thee all my own, if only for memory's sake;" and the tears overflowed her lovely eyes and rolled down her face like heavy drops of dew down the red heart of a rose.

"Mayhap, too," she went on, "I shall lose my crown, and with my crown my life and thine also. Sorais is very strong and very bitter, and if she prevails she will not spare. Who can read the future? Happiness is the world's white bird, that alights seldom, and flies fast and far till one day he is lost in the clouds. Therefore should we hold him fast if by any chance he rests for a little space upon our hand. It is not wise to neglect the present for the future, for who knows what the future will be, Incubu? Let us pluck our flowers while the dew is on them, for when the sun is up they wither, and on the morrow will others bloom that we shall never see." And she lifted her sweet face to him and smiled into his eyes, and once more I felt a horrible pang of jealousy, and turned and went away. They never took much notice of whether I was there or not, thinking, I suppose, that I was an old fool, and that it did not matter one way or the other, and really I believe they were right.

So I went back to our quarters, and ruminated over things in general, and watched old Umslopogaas whetting his ax outside the window, as a vulture whets his beak beside a dying ox.

And in about an hour's time Sir Henry came tearing over, looking very radiant and wildly excited, and found Good and myself, and even Umslopogaas, and asked us if we should like to assist at a real wedding. Of course we said yes, and off we went to the chapel, where we found Agon looking as sulky as any high priest possibly could; and no wonder. It appeared that he and Nyleptha had had a slight difference of opinion about the coming ceremony. He had flatly refused to celebrate it, or to allow any of his priests to do so, whereupon Nyleptha became very angry, and told him that she, as queen, was head of the church, and meant to be obeyed. Indeed, she played the part of a Za-Vendi Henry VIII to perfection, and insisted that if she wanted to be married she would be married, and he should marry her.

He still refused to go through the ceremony, so she clinched her argument thus:

"Well, I cannot execute a high priest, because there is an absurd prejudice against it, and I cannot imprison him, because all his subordinates would raise a crying that would bring the stars down on Za-Vendis and crush it, but I can leave him to contemplate the altar of the Sun without anything to eat, because that is his natural vocation; and if thou wilt not marry me, O Agon! thou shalt be placed before the altar yonder, with naught but a litte water till such time as thou hast reconsidered the matter."

Now, as it happened, Agon had been hurried away that morning without his breakfast, and was already exceedingly hungry, so he presently modified his views and consented to marry them, saying at the same time that he washed his hands of all responsibility in the matter.

So it happened that presently, attended only by two of her favorite maidens, came the Queen Nyleptha, with happy blushing face and downcast eyes, dressed in pure white, without embroidery of any sort, as seems to be the fashion on these occasions in most countries of the world. She did not wear a single ornament, even her gold circlets were removed, and I thought that if possible she looked more lovely than ever without them, as really superbly beautiful women do.

She came, courtesied low to Sir Henry, and then took his hand and led him up before the altar, and after a little pause, in a slow, clear voice uttered the following words, which are customary in Za-Vendis if the bride desires and the man consents:

"Thou dost swear by the Sun that thou wilt take no other woman to wife unless I lay my hand upon her and bid her come?"

"I swear it," added Sir Henry, adding in English, "One is quite enough for me."

Then Agon, who had been sulking in a corner near the altar, came forward and gabbled off something into his beard at such a rate that I could not follow it, but it appeared to be an invocation to the Sun to bless the union and make it fruitful. I observed that Nyleptha listened very closely to every word, and afterward discovered that she was afraid lest Agon should play her a trick, and by going through the invocations backward divorce instead of marry them. At the end of the invocations they were asked, as in our service, if they took each other for husband and wife, and on their assenting, they kissed each other before the altar and the service was over, so far as their rites were concerned. But it seemed to me that there was yet something wanting, and so I produced a prayer book, which has, together with the "Ingoldsby Legends," that I often read when I lie awake at night, accompanied me in all my later wanderings. I gave it to my poor boy Harry years ago, and after his death I found it among his things and took it back again.

"Curtis," I said, "I am not a clergyman, and I do not know if what I am going to propose is allowable—I know it is not legal—but if you and the queen have no objection, I should like to read the English marriage service over you. It is a solemn step which you are taking, and I think that you ought, as far as circumstances will allow, to give it the sanction of your own religion."

"I have thought of that," he said, "and I wish you would. I do not feel half married yet."

Nyleptha raised no objection, fully understanding that her husband wished to celebrate the marriage according to the rites prevailing in his own country, and so I set to work and read the service from "Dearly beloved" to "amazement," as well as I could; and when I came to "I, Henry, take thee, Nyleptha," I translated, and also "I, Nyleptha, take thee, Henry," which she repeated after me very well. Then Sir Henry took a plain gold ring from his little finger and placed it on hers, and so on to the end. The ring had been Curtis' mother's wedding ring, and I could not help thinking how astonished the dear old Yorkshire lady would have been if she could have foreseen that her wedding ring was to serve a similar purpose for Nyleptha, a queen of the Za-Vendi.

As for Agon, he was with difficulty kept calm while this second ceremony was going on, for he at once understood that it was religious in its nature, and doubtless bethought him of the ninety-five new faiths which loomed up so ominously in his eyes. Indeed, he at once set me down as a rival high priest, and hated me accordingly. However, in the end off he went, positively bristling with indignation, and I knew that we might look out for danger from his direction.

And off went Good and I, and old Umslopogaas also, leaving the happy pair to themselves, and very low we all felt. Marriages are supposed to be cheerful things, but my experience is that they are very much the reverse to everybody except, perhaps, the two people chiefly interested. They mean the breaking up of so many old ties as well as the undertaking of so many new ones, and there is always something sad about the passing away of the old order.

So Good and I went and ate in silence, and then indulged in an extra fine flagon of old Za-Vendian to keep our spirits up, and presently one of our attendants came and told a story that gave us something to think about.

It may, perhaps, be remembered that after his quarrel with Umslopogaas, Alphonse had gone off in an exceedingly ill temper to sulk over his scratches. Well, it appears that he walked right past the temple to the Sun, down the wide road on the farther side of the slope it crowns and thence on into the beautiful park or pleasure gardens, which are laid out just beyond the outer wall. After wandering about there for a little he started to return, but was met near the outer gate by Sorais' train of chariots, which were galloping furiously along the great northern road. When she caught sight of Alphonse, Sorais halted her train and called to him. On approaching he was instantly seized and dragged into one of the chariots and carried off, "crying out loudly," as our informant said, and as, from my general knowledge of him, I can well believe.

At first I was much puzzled to know what object Sorais could have in carrying off the poor little Frenchman. She could hardly stoop so low as to try to wreak her fury on one whom she knew was only a servant. It would not be in keeping with her character to do so. At last, however, an idea occurred to me. We three were, as I think I have said, much revered by the people of Za-Vendis at large, both because we were the first strangers they had ever seen, and because we were supposed to be the possessors of almost supernatural wisdom. Indeed, though Sorais cry against the "foreign wolves," or, to translate it more accurately, "foreign hyenas," was sure to go down very well with the nobles and the priests, it was not, as we learned, likely to be particularly effective among the bulk of the population. The Za-Vendi people, like the Athenians of old, are ever seeking for some new thing, and just because we were so new our presence was, on the whole, acceptable to them. Again, Sir Henry's magnificent personal appearance made a deep impression upon a race who possess a greater love of beauty than any other I have ever been acquainted with. Beauty may be prized in other countries, but in Za-Vendis it is almost worshiped, as, indeed, the national love of statuary shows. The people said openly in the market places that there was not a man in the country to touch Curtis in personal appearance, as, with the exception of Sorais, there was no woman who could compete with Nyleptha, and that therefore it was meet that they should marry; and that he had been sent by the Sun as a husband for their queen. Now, from all this it will be seen that the outcry against us was to a considerable extent fictitious, and nobody knew it better than Sorais herself. Consequently it struck me that it might have occurred to her that down in the country and among the country people it would be better to place the reason of her conflict with her sister upon other and more general grounds than Nyleptha's marriage with the stranger. It would be easy in a land where there had been so many civil wars to rake out some old cry that would stir up the recollection of buried feuds, and, indeed, she soon found an effectual one. This being so, it was of great importance to her to have one of the strangers with her whom she could show to the common people as a great outlander, who had been so struck by the justice of her cause that he had elected to leave his companions and follow her standard.

This, no doubt, was the cause of her anxiety to get a hold of Good, whom she would have used till he ceased to be of service and then cast off. But Good having drawn back, she grasped at the opportunity of securing Alphonse, who was not unlike him in personal appearance, though smaller, no doubt with the object of showing him off in the cities and country as the great Bougwan himself. I told Good that I thought that that was her plan, and his face was a sight to see, he was so horrified at the idea.

"What!" he said, "dress up that little wretch to represent me? Why, I shall have to get out of the country! My reputation will be ruined forever."

I consoled him as well as I could but it is not pleasant to be personated all over a strange country by an arrant little coward, and I can quite sympathize with his vexation.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

During the last twenty-four years 2,400 bulls and 1,700 horses have been killed in bull-fights in the City of Mexico. Two picadores have been killed by the bulls in that time.

The total area under cultivation in corn, rye and oats in the United States this year is about one hundred and forty million acres, or nearly two hundred and nineteen thousand square miles.

HAMBURG FIGS

(Medicated) are the greatest fruit Cathartic of modern times. They are a compressed lozenge, composed of fruits and vegetables. Hamburg Figs are an infallible cure for Piles, that distressing complaint arising from a constipated and stagnant condition of the bowels. When Nature's laws are violated, the effect is at once made apparent by a general disorder of the entire system, resulting in impure blood, pimples and blotches on the skin, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia and piles. Hamburg Figs are Nature's assistant, and overcome all unhealthy conditions, leaving the system in perfect order, and by their action as a mild but certain laxative and purgative restoring the body to a condition of perfect health. Hamburg figs are prepared in lozenge form, are delightful to the taste of ladies and children, and are gentle but certain in action. Dose, one Fig; 25 cents a box at druggists.

Dujardin's Life Essence is very valuable where the stomach is unable to extract from the food the albumen and phosphorus. The Life Essence is immediately absorbed, and nourishes the nervous system, without any aid from digestion. Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—Miss Mary Garrett, of Baltimore, manages a twenty million dollar estate.

—Frances McNeill Potter, a niece of President Franklin Pierce, draws a pension of twenty dollars a month.

—Jay Gould receives an average of ten begging letters per day, and seven of them are certain to end with: "And I will always pray God to bless you."

—Jonathan Chace, the Quaker Senator from Rhode Island, has never had a picture taken, and fifty dollars has been offered for a photograph of him, but there are are no takers.

—Ex-Governor Alger, of Michigan, was left an orphan at the age of eleven with a younger brother and sister to care for. He spent seven years on a farm and then read law in an Akron office, supporting himself by doing chores about his employer's house and barn.

—J. J. Cromwell, of New York, who claims to be a direct descendant of Oliver Cromwell, has in his possession a slipper worn by a niece of Cromwell at the coronation of Charles I., of England, in 1625. The slipper shows that the lady who wore it had a dainty and well shaped foot.

—Dr. J. W. Porter, of Kansas City, claims to be be the originator of the standard time system. He says the subject was first brought to his mind in 1878, when he was in the Coast Survey, by noting the variation of clocks and watches. He finally marked off a standard time map, and his theory was unanimously adopted.

—The man who has just become the Earl of Seafield was hard pushed to earn a livelihood a few years ago and was acting as a bailiff in the New Zealand town of Oamaru in 1884, when his father became Earl and he thereby the Viscount Reidhaven. He was "in possession" of a house in his official capacity when the news of his rise in life came, but he refused the offer of a substitute and stuck to his post for two days longer.

—You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people; why not make earnest efforts to confer that pleasure upon others? You will find half the battle gained if you never allow yourself to say any thing gloomy.—Lydia Maria Child.

—Among the ways which men employ to sustain their respectability, none is more common than an exhibition of their social connections. One whose cousin is a Governor, whose uncle is a General, whose brother has been to Congress, can not but stand well in society. Reputation is of the nature of a vine, and our reputable relatives are so much brush or trellis on which we run up.—Beecher.

—To be forever seeing when your boy yields to a temptation, and never discovering when he resists one, is the surest way to promote the faults and discourage the virtues.—Lyman Abbott.

—Good people die and bad people live. The man who is fat with health can't get employment, and the man who is making money hand-over-fist has to give up business on account of ill health.

INVENTIONS OF THE 19TH CENTURY.

The steamboat, the reaper, the sewing machine,
Cars running by night and by day,
Houses lighted by gas and heated by steam,
And bright electricity's ray.

The telegraph's click speeds like lightning released,
Then the telephone comes to excel it;
And, to put on the finish, the last but not least,
Is the famed little Purgative Pellet.

Last but not least is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellet, because it relieves human suffering, adds to the sum of human comfort, and enables the relieved sufferer to enjoy all the blessings and luxuries of the age we live in.

Undeniably True—"My objection to babies," said an old bachelor, "is that they are so insufferably vile dish."

Be afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY. Price, 25 cents a Bottle. PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

A PROMINENT "WOOL" GROWER.

The above well-known "wool" grower has figured prominently in politics for the past 20 years, and his opinion is that "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut is the boss smoke, and don't you forget it.

S. F. N. U. (First Series) No. 326.

Thriftless ambition; that will raven up
Thine own life's means.—Shakespeare.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefitted and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquillity reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

In New York—"Did you see many tandems while you were in Boston, Chawles?" "Not many, Gus. They mostly ride hobbies there, you know."

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Among the more prominent watering places in the United States may be mentioned Saratoga, Newport, Atlantic City and Jay Gould's office.

Yes, he loves you now, 'tis true,
Lass with eyes of violet blue,
Lips as sweet as honey-dew,
Bonny little bride!
Will he love you as to-day,
When your bloom has fled away,
When your golden locks are grey,—
Will his love abide?

Yes, if it is the true kind it will survive all the inevitable wastes and changes of life. But, it is every woman's desire and duty to retain, as long as she can, the attractions that made her charming and beloved in youth. No one can keep her youthful bloom or equable temper if weighed down and suffering from female weakness and disorders. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a remedy for these troubles. Sold by druggists.

Farming is one of the best of occupations for a young man. Even cabbage culture will enable a struggling youth to get a head.

CONCENTRATE YOUR VITALITY.

One of the secrets of health is the concentration of vitality. The recruiting of the vital principle is done effectually by BRANDRETH'S PILLS. "Health finds happiness in the mere sense of existense." BRANDRETH'S PILLS help nature to reassert her own when she has been forced to vacate her stronghold in the body. When an enemy attacks a fort all the forces are concentrated at the point of attack to resist the onslaught. So with the body. BRANDRETH'S PILLS concentrate all one's vitality to throw off the encroaching disease. Get BRANDRETH'S PILLS. Be sure to take no other.

Don't hurry. The man who died in a hurry died in August. There is no more poisonous mixture than hurry diluted with humidity.

AN OFFENSIVE BREATH

Is most distressing, not only to the person afflicted if he have any pride, but to those with whom he comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not only friends but lovers. Bad breath and catarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases as thousands can testify.

Persons extremely reserved are like old enameled watches, which had painted covers that hindered you seeing what o'clock it was.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Limeor Alumn. Sold only in Cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial! Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETIMES

We have things on hand which move slowly, and we are compelled to reduce prices to effect sales. Just now we offer 50 cases of Comb Honey, about 55 pounds to the case, at 7c to 8c per pound. It is certainly worth 10c, but we must sell it. A few cases not so good at 6c. Extra light comb is worth 12c and some ask even more. Young America Cheese, 7 to 8 pounds each, good flavor and good to keep, $1 each. Flat Cheese, poor at 9c to 10c, good 12, and best at 13c; they weigh about 25 pounds each. Sugar Corn—we now offer Winslow at $1 45, and some other makes as good or better at $1 30. Sugar Peas as low as $1 15, and finest at $1 30, per dozen. Dried Apricots, last year's fruit, but Quite Good, at 5 cents, and some Peaches, Plums and Pears even lower. Very fine new Peaches, Plums, Prunes or Nectarines at 8c, in any quantity. Dried Fruit will soon be higher. In Underware, we have a complete assortment of ladies' and gents', including extra sizes of all-wool Marysville Flannels and other California made goods. Flour, Sugar, Hams, Bacon and Lard are higher, but all market changes will be noted in September Home Circle, which please send for by first mail. Sample copies free. Address Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roenisch Pianos; Burdett Organs, band instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

A good housewife never opens the condensed milk can with her husband's razor, nor will a loving husband curry the horse with a nutmeg grater.

BRONCHITIS.—For Hoarseness and Sore Throat, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are a specific.

Fragrance of breath, whiteness of the teeth, and healthy gums, are characteristics of RUBIFOAM, that perfect liquid substitute for tooth powder. We request a trial. Large bottles 25 cents.

"THE STARRY FIRMAMENT ON HIGH," Sang Addison. But hadn't you, for a few years at least, rather look at the firmament from the underside.

YOU CAN DO IT by observing the laws of health and resorting to that cheat the grave medicine WARNER'S SAFE CURE You are out of sorts; a splendid feeling and appetite one day, while the next day life is a burden. If you drift on in this way you are liable to become Insane. Why? Because poisoned blood on the nerve centers wherein the mental faculties are located, paralyses them and the victim becomes non-responsible. There are thousands of people to-day in insane asylums and graves, put there by Kidney Poisoned Blood. Insanity, according to statistics, is increasing faster than any other disease. Is your eyesight failing? Your memory becoming impaired? An all-gone feeling on slight exertion upon you? If so, and YOU know whether this is so or not, do not neglect your case until reason totters and you are an imbecile, but to day while you have reason, use your good sense and judgment by purchasing WARNER'S SAFE CURE and WARNER'S SAFE PILLS; medicines warranted to do as represented, and which will cure you.

TO THE LADIES! Jacobs & Co. MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS OF LADIES', CHILDREN'S & INFANTS' WEAR 113 KEARNY STREET, S. F. Illustrated Catalogues sent free on application

POWDERED 98% CAUSTIC SODA, TREE WASH, Carbolic Sheep Wash. T. W. Jackson & Co., 104 Market St., Mfg. Agents.

ST. JACOBS OIL

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN. CURES Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost-bites. Sold by Druggists and Dealers Everywhere. Fifty Cents. The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Balto., Md.

To introduce it into A MILLION FAMILIES we offer the LADIES' HOME JOURNAL AND PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPER From NOW to JAN'Y, 1889 Four months—balance of this year, ON RECEIPT OF ONLY 10 CENTS Silver or Stamps.

Breakfast and Dinner Parties—Home Cooking, Dainties and Desserts. Teas, Suppers, Luncheons and Receptions. Gives explicitly all the little details women want to know. Tells how to entertain guests, how to serve refreshments, what to have and how to make it. Everything new and original, practical and well tested by experts. Accompanying the recipes will be remarks upon pretty table adjuncts, methods of serving and waiting, garnishing, table manners and etiquette. Children's Page—Illustrated Stories. Flowers and House Plants—finely illustrated articles, edited by ERNS E. REXFORD, with "Answers to Correspondents." Mother's Corner—A page devoted to the care of infants and young children. Interesting letters from subscribers giving views and methods of management. Original articles from the best writers. Illustrated articles on Games and Home-made Toys. Amusements for Sick Children. Illustrated. Kindergarten. Illustrated articles by ANNA W. DARNARD. CURTIS PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia.

CAMPAIGN HANDKERCHIEFS, Republican Flags, DEMOCRATIC BANDANAS. PURE SILK.....75 CENTS. COTTON.....10 CENTS. Cleveland or Harrison Campaign Buttons, 25 Cents Each. Wolf & Frank MENS' FURNISHING GOODS 252 KEARNY STREET, S. F. Orders by mail promptly filled.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D. Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. Trade Mark $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

CHARLES S. EATON, General Agent for HAZELTON BROS., —AND— HEMME & LONG PIANOS Sold on Easy INSTALLMENTS. Also dealer in Sheet Music and Musical Merchandise. 735 Market Street, : : : : : : San Francisco, Cal. Send for Catalogues of Pianos and Sheet Music.

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

—TO MAKE— DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD USE DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS. ABSOLUTELY PURE. ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT. Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made. THE COW BRAND. DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

DIAMOND DYES Brilliant! Durable! Economical! Diamond Dyes excel all others in Strength, Purity, and Fastness. None other are just as good. Beware of imitations, because they are made of cheap and inferior materials and give poor, weak, crocky colors. To be sure of success use only the DIAMOND DYES for coloring Dresses, Stockings, Yarns, Carpets, Feathers, Ribbons, &c., &c. We warrant them to color more goods, package for package, than any other dyes ever made, and to give more brilliant and durable colors. Ask for the DIAMOND, and take no other. Send postal for Dye Book, Sample Card, directions for coloring Photos., making the finest Ink or Bluing (10 cents a quart), etc. Sold by Druggists. Address WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

For Gilding or Bronzing Fancy Articles, USE DIAMOND PAINTS Gold, Silver, Bronze, Copper. Only 10 Cents.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" packages which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole raising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean. CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

OUR TRADE MARK

CHURCH & CO'S SODA

ON EVERY PACKAGE.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY..... OCTOBER 27, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 20. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., OCTOBER 27, 1888. WHOLE NO. 939.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

A DECLINING SPECIES

Something About the Characteristics of the Old-Fashioned Tramp Printer.

No mere machine would ever fill the place of the old-fashioned printer, commonly known as a tramp. He belongs to a separate species of the human race. He has no hesitation in correcting the editor's manuscript, and making him say things he would not say. It is idle for the editor to say he is right. The old-fashioned printer has traveled more and knows better. If the editor, by pertinacity, does finally succeed in getting a passage corrected the way he wants it, it is disagreeable to see the old-fashioned printer slam his rule down on the case and start of with the galley toward the imposing stone with the remark that there are a number of chumps in the West who imagine, because they are able to write a few lines, that they know more than the universe. He doesn't say so, but we instinctively feel that he means us, and necessarily he must be the universe. Whatever may be the politics of the paper on which the old-fashioned printer works, his are invariably the opposite. This is to show that he is not to be coerced. He will borrow a dollar from the proprietor, and then go off and vote against the proprietor's interests, just to show his independence. He can umpire a base-ball game, conduct a class-meeting or give a temperance lecture while he is full up to the neck. He is consistent in one thing. He opposes Chinese labor, and never patronizes a Chinese laundry. It is true that he rarely patronizes any other laundry, but that does not deteriorate from his consistency. He will borrow a quarter from the editor, and then denounce the editor's greenness for lending it to him. He would rather steal a ride on a freight train than to travel on a pass in a palace car. He has a profound hatred for boarding-house keepers, and with not a cent in his pocket does not hesitate to criticise the bill of fare in the most severe terms. Give him a quarter to buy drinks, and he may spend part of it for something to eat; give him a quarter to buy victuals and the money is sure to go for whisky. And yet, with all these contrarities, we should hate to see the old-fashioned printer supplanted by a machine. When almost starving himself he will divide his last penny with a brother printer. Memories of a mother and sister cause him to respect womanhood. And when he lies down to die, it may be in the bottom of a freight car, or in the corner of a fence, with nothing to wrap his shivering form but his dilapidated clothing, a generous heart often ceases to beat with his last breath. Who shall say that in the hereafter there is not a better future for the old-fashioned printer?—Peoria Transcript.

CONTAGION OF YAWNING.

How Tired Travelers Can Amuse Themselves Without Expense.

"Did you ever notice how contagious yawning is?" said a round-faced young man waiting for a Harlem train yesterday afternoon at the Park street station of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Road. "You can make any man yawn if you go about it properly," continued the young man. "I have to travel up and down to Harlem a good deal and I amuse myself that way. Women yawn oftener than men, and fat men oftener than lean men. The best time to make them yawn is early in the morning and late at night. Then all they want is a hint and off they go. One night last week I sat next to an old gentleman. He got on at Chambers street and rode up to Forty-second street. I made him yawn twenty-seven times. Then I was tired, but the old fellow had got into the habit and I thought he would split his jaws he kept them so far apart."

The young man had hardly seated himself in the car before he turned around and stared straight at a workingman opposite, who, of course, looked at him. Then the young man leaned his head lazily against the window, closed his eyes, opened his mouth very wide and began to yawn with great deliberation and an air of utter weariness. The man in the blue overalls became interested and stared intently at the wide-open mouth and the closed eyes. The young man put up his hand with an affectation of covering his month, and then, as if it was no use to try to check an overpowering impulse, he drew his hand away, threw his head still further back and uttered that sound peculiar to the party yawner—ho-ho-no. A moment later the man in the blue overalls gave evidence of a twitching of the jaws, a spasm shot across his cheeks and then his mouth opened and he yawned so wide that it appeared as though he were going to divide and the top of his head would go on up into space. The workingman was now started and all the way up he kept yawning every few moments. Then the young man turned his attention to an old lady opposite with equal success.—N. Y. World.

—"So you've been fishing this afternoon instead of going to school, I hear," said the old man, as he seated himself at the table and glanced birch rods at the boy. "Never mind, sir, you just wait until after supper. What have we got here, wife? I'm as hungry as a wolf." "Brook trout, pa," hastily explained the boy. "I caught 'em." "That so?" said the old man as he helped himself liberally; "but you mustn't neglect your education, my dear boy. That will never do, you know."—Epoch.

—Edmund Burke once told Garrick that all bitter things were hot. "Indeed," said Garrick, "what do you think, Mr. Burke, of bitter cold weather?"

SIZES OF THREAD.

The Mystery of the Numbers of Spool of Cotton, Etc., Explained

Every body knows the sizes of thread. Every seamstress knows whether she wants No. 30 or 60 or 120, and knows, when she hears the number, about what is the size of the strand referred to; but how the numbers happen to be what they are, and just what they mean, not one person in a thousand knows. And yet it is a simple matter to explain was the information accorded a reporter by an employe of one of the largest spool cotton manufactories in the United States. When 840 yards of yarn weigh 7,000 grains, a pound of cotton, the yarn is No. 1. If 1,680 yards weigh a pound it will be No. 2 yarn. For No. 50 yarn it would take fifty multiplied by 840 yards to weigh a pound. This is the whole of the yarn measurement. The early manufactured thread was three-cord, and the thread took its number from the number of the yarn from which it was made. No. 60 yarn made No. 60 thread, though in point of fact the actual caliber of No. 60 thread would equal No. 20 yarn, being three 60 strands.

When the sewing machine came into the market as the great consumer, unreasonable in its work and inexorable in its demands for mechanical accuracy, six-cord cotton had to be made as a smoother product. As thread numbers were already established, they were not altered for the new article, and No. 60 six-cord and No. 60 three-chord are identical in size as well as in number. To effect this the six-cord has to be made of yarn twice as firm as that demanded by the three-cord. The No. 60 six-cord would be six strands of No. 120 yarn. Three-cord spool cotton is made of yarn that is double its number. As simple a thing as thread is, there are 2,000 different kinds made.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Plague of Mice in Australia.

Australia is suffering from a plague of mice. It is said that from Coomebarabran to Coolah there is hardly a residence that is not troubled in this way. The mice come in and eat every thing in the place. At one station two shillings per hundred were offered for their destruction, and during a single night twenty thousand were killed. The price then went down to one shilling. In one hotel in three nights one thousand mice were killed with a mixture of flour and strychnine. At another place the mice ate a whole carcass of a freshly-killed sheep in one night leaving only the bare bones by the morning. At another station a man was kept, whose sole duty was to keep the mice away from the provender during the time the horses were eating it, and this the man found a difficult task. The week before the races at Coolah the the vermin got into the horse boxes at the station and actually ate the bandages from the legs of the race horses. Sleeping people are said to have been attacked by them. The crops were being destroyed. The mice climbed up the stalks and ate the cobs. Many fields, acres in extent, had been abandoned, the corn being eaten completely away. People were at their wits' end to devise the best means for destroying the pest. The mice burrowed in the fields like rabbits in miniature warrens.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Modern Rival of Tell.

In the forest of Esterel a man and woman were at work recently, and not far off a babe—an infant six months old—was lying in its cradle, which had been moved to the front of their cottage in order that the little cherub might inhale the fresh air under the watchful gaze of its parents. Suddenly a noise was heard and an enormous eagle, swooping down from the cerulean sky seized the babe with beak and claws began to soar once more toward the sun, when the distracted father, rushing madly to his hut, took up a gun. Without a moment's hesitation the man pointed his weapon at the cruel bird and fired. The eagle dropped earthward as dead as a door nail and its slayer now achieved another feat which would have won him any amount of applause at Lord's. He held out his hands and caught the child as it fell, the little one escaping without so much as a scratch and returning from its journey into mid-air as "bright as a button." So Tell of immortal renown has a rival. The only drawback is that a skeptic has hinted that if it were carefully examined the majestic bird may prove after all to be only a canard.—Paris Letter to London Telegraph.

—Toto has been expressly forbidden to touch anything upon papa's library desk, and has had the lesson painfully enforced upon several occasions. The other night a discussion arose as to the origin of a certain word. The dictionary was found on papa's desk, but the word was not in it. "It's very strange," says papa. "That word is certainly missing, and yet it ought to be there." Toto, with a tearful earnestness—"I can't help it papa—I really didn't take it."—French.

—When you talk about woman's constancy, don't quote figures, because figures prove that two wives elope to one husband, and that three widows remarry to one widower. Seven-tenths of the broken marriage engagements are broken by the female side. It is man—cruel, tyrannical man—who loves to stick, and sticks to see that her grave is kept green.—Detroit Free Press.

—In good faith the sister in Sweden of a Swede lying in the Marine Hospital, New York, sent Confederate money for his return passage. The woman had been swindled.

SETTING THE TABLE.

How to Do It in a Sensible, Attractive and Labor-Saving Way.

The majority of housewives like to see a nicely-set table and, indeed, many who are not housewives find a well-set table an inviting sight. The dishes may be as plain as they will, yet if placed on the table neatly, always providing they are clean, they present an attractive picture. Many women pay so little attention to this work that the table is never set the same way twice, and consequently, never looks as well as though a little care were exercised in its arrangement. It is just as easy, if not easier, to set a table as well as carelessly, for, as the dishes must be put on any way, it is much better to have one certain way of arranging them and that way adhered to at all times. System is an excellent thing in housework, when not carried too far, and in nothing is it of more importance than in the arrangement of the table. When you know just where to place each article the work is much quicker done. Any woman with a little thought can arrange a table in a sensible, attractive manner, though she may never have done this work before, yet the absence of this very thought is the thing that is to blame for a carelessly arranged table. All know that according to the fitness of things the sugar-bowl should not be at one end of the table and the cream-pitcher at the other end, yet this is seen quite frequently on a carelessly set table. Each housewife has her own particular way of doing this work, which she is positive is the best, but there are a few general rules that can be applied to all.

It is a nice plan to have a cover of canton flannel to place under the table-cloth, as it gives the cloth a much better appearance, bringing out the pattern clearly. It is best to have fine table linen, but as this can not always be afforded, a cheaper grade will be much improved by the use of the canton flannel under cloth. It will also save the wear of the cloth, which is a great deal to recommend it. It deadens the sound of the plate or dish striking the table, which is so annoying to a nervous person, and taking every thing into consideration, there are few things that give better satisfaction to the household. In putting on the table-cloth, be sure that it is even, for there is nothing that will give a table such an untidy appearance as a cloth put on unevenly. Put on the plates evenly, about an inch from the edge. The majority of housewives in putting on plates turn them face down, while a few never do so unless in summer, and then only when there is no netting to cover them from the flies. The latter way is preferable to the former, as they are all ready for use. Place in the plate the napkins folded plain. Fancy folded napkins are only fit for restaurants, and should not be used in the home. Place the knife and fork at the right of plate together or the knife at the right and fork at the left. If individual salts and butters are used, place these in the space between knife and fork at the top of the plate, the butter at the right and salt at the left. Sugar, milk and spoon receiver should always be together, the sugar and milk side by side with the receiver in the center a little in advance of both. If there is a castor it should occupy the center of the table, but as this article is not as much used as formerly, some other article, such as a dish of fruit, sauce, etc., should be used. Pepper, salt and all seasonings group together; bread and butter place side by side. When serving tea, coffee, etc., always put at the right hand of person served, and berries, sauce, etc., at left. These are only a few general rules, but if carried out, using a little thought as to what dishes go together and what separately, and place them accordingly, the table so arranged can not help being attractive.—Boston Budget.

Badly Shaped Mouths.

Half the badly shaped mouths that are the sorrows of the young women of to-day result from their being permitted when they were children to suck their fingers; one of the prettiest women in town has coarse, thick lips, that came from having been allowed to put her thumb in her mouth, when she was going to sleep, while another, whose lips protrude in the center, and whose mouth is large, blames her mother for allowing her to find consolation in her two forefingers. If persuasion will not break a child of this habit, then stronger means should be resorted to, and if necessary its hands should be tied together. Another very unfortunate habit among school girls, and which results in thickening the lips and making them supersensative, is the continual biting of the lower lip. The entire shape of the face is spoiled in this way, for when nature molded it there was not the intention that the lower lip should be larger and a coarse look given to the face.—Troy Times.

—According to Prof. Sargent, the strongest wood in the United States is that of the nutmeg hickory of the Arkansas region, and the weakest the West Indian birch. The most elastic is the tamarack, the white or shellbark hickory standing far below it. The least elastic, and the lowest in specific gravity, is the wood of the Ficus aurea. The highest specific gravity, upon which in general depends value as fuel, is attained by the bluewood of Texas.

—When you make a mistake, don't look back at it long. Take the reason of the thing into your mind, and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom. The past can not be changed. The future is yet in your power.—Hugh White.

A CHAPTER ON EARS

People Who Were Punished by Having Their Listeners Removed.

When jealous Husband Bell cut off the ear of Lothario Murray he revived an obsolete punishment. Though his act was not the result of an antiquarian impulse his object was the same as that of the public executioner two hundred years ago. Any mutilation of the ear which involved a portion of all of it has always been a mark of disgrace. In one of the statues of Edward VI. the penalty affixed for its violation is the "loss of an ear and perpetual infamy." In those days the celluloid ear had not been invented and the loss of one of these members was a public badge of shame for life.

Following the retributive law of Moses, probably the punishment originated in the ecclesiastical courts. It is first mentioned in the trials of offenses against the church and some of the earless clericals were noted men. The sentence to the pillory frequently had the additional punishment of the loss of one or both ears added. Daniel Fooe or Foe, later in life known as Daniel Defoe, wrote a pamphlet called "Th Shortest Way With the Dissenters" and lost his ears. Pope, in his "Dunciad," speaks of the author of "Robinson Crusoe": "Earless on high stood unbashed Defoe."

He was placed in the pillory three times. That instrument being on a raised platform explains the line. In Defoe's case, however, as in many others, his punishment was rather a martyrdom and lifted him in the esteem of those who believed as he did.

Dr. Bastwick, who published more pamphlets than pills, concluded one of his essays with: "From plague, pestilence and famine, from Bishops, priests and deacons, good Lord deliver us." This was so serious an affront that the doctor was sentenced to the pillory and to lose both his ears. The execution of his sentence was a sort of public fete. His friends gathered before the pillory and shouted words of encouragement. His wife climbed upon the pillory and kissed him. When his ears were cut off "she put them in a clean handkerchief" and carried them home. The celebrated Prynne suffered a similar punishment.

The names of lesser criminals have escaped the permanent records, but Blackstone mentions a number of early English parliamentary enactments making the loss of an ear a penalty in law. Fighting in a church or church-yard by acts passed during the fifth and sixth years of the reign of Edward VI. meant the loss of both ears. If the prisoner had no ears—which implies that there were habitual criminals 350 years ago—he was to be branded with the letter F in the cheek. In the second and third years of the same monarch combinations among victualers and artificers to raise the price of provisions or the rate of labor for the third offense were punished by the pillory and the loss of an ear. The statute not only extended to the combinations to raise wages, but to regulate the quantity of work or to lessen the hours of labor. In this degenerate age the coal barons' association, the gas trusts, and other combines, with the different labor unions and walking delegates, if these laws were enforced, would give the public executioner active employment.

In later years loss of an ear or a part of one has also been regarded as implying disgrace. The ear is not easily lost. Any accident that destroys the ear usually destroys the person wearing it. One of the favorite ways of mutilating an enemy in a rough-and-tumble fight is to bite off his ear. In disreputable brawls and low resorts brute instinct makes ear mutilation a fit revenge for almost any wrong. Jack Slade, the notorious desperado, in a fit of rage is said to have cut off the ears of a man he had murdered. He kept them in his pocket and boastfully exhibited them when in a drunken and dangerous mood. When he saw on the poker table a stake he wanted particularly Jack played the ears. Flinging them on the table they beat four aces or a straight flush, for Jack had a pistol in each hand the next instant. He always took the pot on the play.—Chicago News.

—A garden magazine says not one-tenth of the people of the United States ever tasted an apricot, yet they may be successfully grown wherever peaches grow. California is one of the largest apricot-producing States, and the fruit is there produced far beyond the possibility of utilizing it. Large quantities are canned for the markets of the world, but the fruit is abundantly grown in family orchards, from which none finds its way to canneries or other markets.

—A little colony of women near Hackney, London, are engaged in mending bad nutmegs. They fetch the worm-eaten nutmegs from factories, and mend them with nutmeg dust. A good nutmeg is ground very fine, and the dust is mixed with glue or gum. The mixture is then used to fill in the holes; and the mended nutmegs are returned to the manufactory. The women are paid about four cents per gross for the labor.

—Kansas is anxious to annex the strip of land called "No Man's Land," adjoining the State. Not, the newspapers say, "for boom purposes," but for protection. Every thief and murderer who commits a crime in Western and Southern Kansas makes a break for No Man's Land, where he is as safe as the manslayer of old in the city refuge.

—A pretty girl out for a drive might be called a reining beauty

BARRACKS ON FARMS.

The Cheapest and Most Satisfactory Way of Protecting Hay and Grain.

While good barns arranged with all the modern conveniences are somewhat expensive, simple barracks to protect hay, grain and fodder, can be built so cheaply that I wonder that any farmer who has experienced the loss and anxiety caused by stacking, or by threshing from the shock, is willing to do without them. I have lost on a single crop of 600 bushels of wheat, half enough to build barracks to protect it, that would have lasted twenty-five years without repairs. It is a rather serious matter to have a half-built grain stack soaked through, and a severe trial to the patience of the wife to cook for twenty men and then have them driven from their work by rain just as they have got fairly started. I have had the teams driven off when stacking, the stack soaked and the machine on my place a week, with men and horses to board, and the hands summoned four different times to thresh an amount of wheat from the shock which the machine would have threshed from the barracks in eight hours. With a roof to protect your hay or grain each load is safe as soon as in, and you need not wait and watch the clouds if the weather looks unsettled, but go to work at once.

All that is necessary to protect either hay or grain is a good roof supported on posts, well braced, but as an enclosed building can be made very useful for other purposes, it will pay to enclose it. Where lumber can be had for $17.50 per thousand, a building 25 feet by 40 feet can be put up and enclosed for less than $200. Such a building would store grain enough to thresh out 600 or 800 bushels, or between thirty and forty tons of hay. It could be filled with wheat or oats, and after this was threshed it could be filled again with corn fodder. It could easily be arranged with a temporary floor seven feet above the sills, and the lower part used for stabling during the winter or one end for storing tools and the other for a stable. The building can be made with light timber, sills and posts six inches square, girders four by six and nail ties four by four inches. I would make the posts sixteen feet high and would arrange to drive through the center to fill the two ends and then fill the middle space from outside. This building could be used for curing special crops, such as beans, broom-corn or buckwheat, which are gathered between threshing time and the time corn-fodder needs to be housed. About 2,400 feet of siding will be required to cover it and 9,000 shingles. On many farms such a building would pay for itself in less than ten years. In many cases it would be joined to the barn at quite a saving of material, as the end next the barn would require no weather boarding or frame. It would often add to the convenience to arrange it in this way. This barn should not be cheap in the sense of poor material, but its cheapness consists largely in the fact that it is built of light frame timber, and that it requires no finish inside except a temporary floor, which may be made of polls or rails until you can spare money for a better. I advise all farmers who have not shelter for their grain to study this question of barracks or cheap barns.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

New Antiseptic Solution.

The many experiments made by chemists to obtain a substance which would act as a powerful antiseptic without being volatile, and at the same time not destroyable by oxidation, have, it is believed, been successful. It is well known that in these experiments careful tests have been made of the effects on flour paste, and on meat chopped into small pieces and mixed with water, of a very large number of chemical compounds, the result showing that those having the most remarkable antiseptic properties were the compound of fluorine, hydrofluoric acid, the acid and neutral fluorids of sodium, potassium, and ammonia, and the fluosilicates of those bases. Of these various compounds, sodium fluosilicate has proved to be the one which, for powerful antiseptic and unobjectionable properties, is the best suited for general use; it is not poisonous, possesses no smell, and is sparingly soluble in water. The experiments made with it for surgical purposes show that a saturated solution containing 0.61 per cent of the salt is not irritating to wounds, while it possesses greater antiseptic power for animal tissues than one part of perchloride of mercury in one thousand of water, which is a stronger solution than can be generally employed in surgery without poisoning.—Chicago Times.

—"Father, the paper says you 'officiated at the wedding clad in the traditional garb of the clergy.' What does traditional mean?" "Traditional, my son," replied the poor minister, as he looked at his cheap suit of black with a sigh, "refers to things that have been 'handed down.'"—Chicago Tribune.

—"There is a tide in the affairs of men that leads on to fortune," said the poor young man when he married the heiress, but before he had been tied to her a year he found it sometimes led on to misfortune.

—West Virginia has not done much talking heretofore, but now she rises to say she is larger than Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and Delaware combined.

—The customs officer is always a duty-ful man.—Washington Critic.

AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY.

What It Costs to Send Cable Messages to Various Parts of the Globe.

The charges for cable service are so outrageously out of proportion to land service that inexperienced persons are staggered. Now a ten-word message, with its direction and signature, costs only $1 to San Francisco, and, counting the address and signature seven words, not less than $117.98 to Aspinwall, and yet the distance is about the same. The American cable companies are not responsible for these terrific rates, for they have to charge the rates prescribed by the governments or companies they connect with.

Now, to send anywhere across the Atlantic it costs, first of all, 12 cents a word. That is the rate to Great Britain, Ireland, France and Germany, but you have got to add to this 8 cents a word to send to Algeria via Marseilles, $1.70 a word to Aden via Bombay, 14 cents to Bulgaria, $1.20 to Cape Verde Islands, $2.05 to $2.50 to various points in China, $2.61 to Corea, 10 cents to Denmark, 24 to 66 cents to Turkey, 5 cents to Switzerland, and so on. It costs more to send to South America than anywhere else, the tariff to Colombia being $6.68 a word, Ecuador $5.86, Peru, from $3.35 to $5.45, and Uruguay $2.71. You can get an idea of the difference in rates by comparing the rates to China and Australia. It costs $4.05 to send to Northern Australia, and only $2.05 to $2.50 to Chinese cities.

Some people think the present rate to Great Britain high at 12 cents a word. There are some interesting facts connected with cable charges. The first cable tariff between New York and London during August, September and October, 1866, was $100 for twenty words of not more than one hundred letters. Twenty words now cost $2.49. Then you had to pay for twenty words anyway. During the latter part of 1866 the rate was cut down to $50 for twenty words of 100 letters, and since that time it has come down steadily. By looking over the old cable company's tariffs we can find an interesting table:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1866, three months | $100 00 | 20 words | 100 letters |
| 1866 to 1867 | 50 00 | 20 words | 100 letters |
| 1867 to 1868 | 15 00 | 10 words | 50 letters |
| 1868 to 1869 | 16 87 | 10 words | 50 letters |
| To June, 1869 | 10 00 | 10 words | ..... |
| 1869 to 1870 | 7 50 | 10 words | ..... |
| 1870 to 1871 | 10 00 | 10 words | ..... |
| 1871 to 1872 | 10 00 | 10 words | ..... |
| 1872 to 1873 | 1 00 | a word | ..... |
| 1873 to 1874 | 1 00 | a word | ..... |
| One month, 1874 | 1 50 | a word | ..... |

Then the rate came down steadily to 75 cents, 62 cents, 50 cents, 40 cents, 25 cents, and finally to 12 cents, making the rate for ten words with directions about one-third what it used to be to San Francisco.—Boston Herald.

THE SUMMER BOARDER.

Some of the Pleasant Reflections in Which He Is Apt to Indulge.

Where there are no mosquitos there are apt to be bed-bugs.

The prettiest boarder is always mashed before you get there.

The boat always capsizes when you have your best clothes on.

A smile from the landlady's daughter has protracted many a vacation.

The religious girl doesn't miss going to church as much as she had thought.

Never lend to the young widow whose funds did not arrive when expected.

The old maid may be near-sighted, but she doesn't miss much that is going on.

The mother always likes to go to the place where you have asked her daughter.

The landlord who can interest his boarders in farming soon has his crops gathered.

The landlord who doesn't call his well a mineral spring must get his milk very cheap.

It is generally a long ride to the house that is only a few minutes from the station.

The landlord's pretty daughter will nibble at any bait, but she is very hard to catch.

The house where no children are taken is generally already filled with the landlord's.

It is always the cat belonging to the next house that catches the boarder's canary bird.

The man who telegraphs home for more money is probably spending it on some one else.

The timid boarder who never gets enough to eat is apt to attribute it to an increased appetite.

Unless you want to make an enemy never ask a boarder if he has summered at the place before.

The homely girl can never get enough swinging or boating, but she never likes to carry the basket.

The cows are always a long way off when you go out with the landlady's daughter to bring them home.

The pretty boarder never uses a chair to get into the hammock unless her pretty stockings are in the wash.

You may think yourself very shrewd to discover that the fresh milk and vegetables are purchased in the city, but the knowledge won't make you any the happier.

The man who goes to a place where good fishing is announced is apt to lose faith in human nature when he finds that none of the country boys ever try to catch any.—James Jay O'Connell, in Judge.

—A silver crown piece, known as "the petition crown," of the reign of Charles II., fetched $1,775 at a recent sale in England. At the latest previous sale a similar coin had brought only $1,125. A sovereign of Edward VI.'s time brought $525, a 50-shilling piece of the Cromwell era $760, and an Oxford crown $585. A penny of Ethelbald brought $230, and other old pennies $80 and $90 each.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—There are about twice as many women as men in Yucatan, notwithstanding which fact the whole social system of the country seems to be constructed for the especial benefit of the masculine third of the community.

—The old Hohenzollern curse, that no King was to be succeeded by his eldest son and the heir was to have some malformation or damaged limb, has been broken, and even the most superstitious have begun to doubt the spell.

—Favored subjects of the Shah of Persia are permitted, as a special mark of esteem, to be present when he has a tooth pulled, while all persons who would really enjoy the spectacle—those suspected of being unfriendly to him—are cruelly excluded.

—A magnificent engineering work of the fifth century, which had been partially destroyed, has been restored in Ceylon. It is an irrigating reservoir covering an area of 4,425 acres, or about seven square miles, from which water is taken to smaller distributing tanks more than fifty miles away.

—The great donjon tower of the Castle of Nagoya, Japan, is surmounted by two golden dolphins over 200 years old, each valued at $80,000. One was sent to the Vienna Exposition of 1873, and was lost at sea. But some months after they fished it up, and again it glitters from its lofty gable, the pride of Nagoya.

—An improved method of oiling the waters has been patented in Germany. A rocket, to which is attached a cylinder filled with oil, can be fired with accuracy from the ship, and when it explodes the oil is scattered just where it is wanted. By the explosion of five rockets at a distance of from 1,200 to 1,500 feet from a ship a space of 1,500 to 2,000 square feet of water was covered with oil, and the waters were at once smoothed.

—An agitation is going on in India against the slaughter of cows for food for the soldiers. It is pointed out that it takes over 125,000 cows every year to feed the soldiers, and that the Hindoos themselves very rarely touch meat, living upon rice, vegetables and milk. Once even the poorest could have all the milk he wanted for his babies and himself, but now it is impossible for the villagers to get milk even for infants whose mothers' breasts have failed, and the failure of the breasts is due chiefly, also, to the lack of cow's milk. Thousands of children die on this account yearly.

—The bones of our soldiers who fell in Egypt are arriving in this country to be used as manure. A vessel with a cargo of bones reached Aberdeen. The captain said the bones, principally of the camel and giraffe, while being shipped at Alexandria were found to include a number of perfect skeletons. These he rejected, though the cargo is supposed to have contained a quantity of separate human bones. The natives visit the battle-fields and dig up the remains of English soldiers.—London Christian World.

—The new clock placed in the tower of the Glasgow University is a tremendous affair. The main wheels of the striking and quarter trains are twenty inches in diameter. The weight of the hammer that strikes the hours is one hundred and twenty pounds, and it is lifted ten inches. There is an automatic apparatus attached to the clock which stops the quarter peals at night and starts them in the morning. The pendulum is of zinc and iron, to counteract influences of temperature. The bob of the pendulum it cylindrical, and weighs three hundred pounds, and the beat is one and one-half seconds.

BREATHING EXERCISES.

Movements That Are of Great Value in Developing the Lungs.

Standing as erect as possible, with shoulders thrown back and chest forward, the arms hanging close to the body, the head up, with lips firmly closed, inhalation is to be taken as slowly as may be; at the same time the extended arms are to be gradually raised, the back of the hands upward, until they closely approach each other above the head. The movement should be so regulated that the arms will be extended directly over the head at the moment the lungs are completely filled. This position should be maintained from five to thirty seconds before the reverse process is begun. As the arms are gradually lowered, the breath is exhaled slowly, so that the lungs shall be as nearly freed from breath as possible at the time the arms again reach the first position at the side. By these movements the greatest expansion possible is reached, for upon inspiration the weight of the shoulders and pectoral muscles are lifted, allowing the thorax to expand fully, while upon exhalation, in lowering the arms, we utilize the additional force of the pressure upon the upper thorax to render expiration as complete as possible. These deep respirations should be repeated five or six times, and the exercise gone through with several times a day. It is hardly necessary to remark that the clothing must in no way interfere with the exercise. In some cases this exercise is more advantageous when taken lying flat on the back, instead of standing. In this position the inspiratory muscles become rapidly strengthened by opposing the additional pressure exerted by the abdominal organs against the expanding lungs. And, on the other hand, expiration is more perfect and full on account of the pressure of these organs. This is an exercise now advocated by several leading vocal teachers of Europe.—Dr. John L. Davis, in Journal of Health.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

ATURDAY, OCTOBER 27.....1888

When the Chinese Exclusion Bill was signed by the President it was said the law might be rendered worthless by the action of the Federal Judges at San Francisco. It is not much over a month since the law went into effect and already those Judges are admitting Chinese as freely as before it was enacted. There can be no doubt that in enacting the law Congress meant to exclude the Chinese; yet these Judges construe the language of the Act to mean that they shall be admitted. The Judges are men of learning; they have well trained minds; they can reason clearly and correctly; they know as well as other men can know that the law was intended to exclude the Chinese; and yet in the teeth of all this they admit them. It is notorious that a great deal of money is used in connection with this Chinese business. It is not possible for the Federal Judges to escape suspicion of corruption where the means used for the defeat of the law and in defiance of public opinion are so openly and shamelessly fraudulent as in these Chinese cases. Testimony is accepted by these Federal Judges that would be rejected with contempt by all men of plain common sense. The grossest and most palpable perjuries are received as trustworthy evidence for the admittance of Chinese. The greatest evil caused by corrupt Judges is bringing the machinery of the law into contempt and leading to mob violence and anarchy.

In a Big Telegraph Office.

It takes nearly a thousand operators to accomplish a day's business in the Western Union. Some of these work in the daytime and some at night, and others do nothing except relieve the regular staff while, in relays of fifty or seventy-five, they go up stairs for luncheon. Thus there is no pause in the eternal rattle of the machines. The problem of perpetual motion is solved in that room as much as it ever can be solved. The messages that come into the office are treated pretty much in the same way as those that go out. The operators who receive them write them out on blanks and send them whizzing off in a jiffy to the little girls in the grand stand. When they are stamped for identification they are dropped down through a sliding tube to the basement floor. A mirror at the bottom enables one to see directly through six stories and catch glimpses of the pig tails and curly bangs up in the lofty grand stand. As the messages drop they are taken out, slid through steam rollers that copy them and drop them on a revolving, endless belt that takes them off to the routing clerks and the messengers. System is always simple even in its most complicated forms. That is what system means. —New York Tribune.

The Orange Diamond.

A large number of dealers and connoisseurs were attracted to a gallery in Pall Mall when the new monster gem that will be known among notable specimens of precious stones as the Orange diamond came under the hammer for the first time. It was the last lot offered for the day, and was described as "a magnificent colored brilliant, weighing 115 carats (about ten carats heavier than the Koh-i-noor), mounted as a brooch, with a border of very large white brilliants." The stone was found in the Orange river, and is of a decided orange hue. It was cut in London and made into a brooch, being surrounded with a circle of sixteen large white brilliants. The appearance of the gem is striking; instead of sparkling and glowing, it seems to catch the light in large waves, which it sends gliding and dancing over its surface. It was examined with great interest by those present; but when Mr. Foster attempted to find a purchaser nobody offered a bid. As a tentative figure Mr. Foster suggested £5,000, which, amid discouraging silence, he soon reduced to £3,000 and £2,000. Waiting in vain for a short time, Mr. Foster announced that there was no bid, so that the jewel would remain in the hands of its present owner.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Miss Catherine Simonds, who lived near Reading, England, lost her life while hunting. Her horse stumbled in a rabbit hole, Miss Simonds fell and her horse kicked out her brains before she could be rescued.

With his hand hanging in shreds, William Erwin, of Morris Plains, N. J., walked to a hospital, where the wounded member was amputated. He had been hunting rabbits, and his gun was prematurely discharged.

John and Cyrus Mark, of Pueblo, Colo., went duck shooting, and, seeing a flock, were creeping upon them through the brush. Cyrus was just behind his brother. His gun caught in the brush and was discharged, and John fell dead, having received the contents in his back.

James Loveless, a railroad section boss, was riding on a railroad bicycle on the Pemberton and Seashore railroad, when he was overtaken by an extra train, consisting of an engine and Superintendent Bannard's special car, and his machine run down. He was killed outright.

A Phenomenal Accountant.

There is a bookkeeper in a New York wire factory who has merely to glance at broadsides of figures, row after row, filling a whole sheet of legal cap, and declares the result instantly. He doesn't know how he does it, nor does anybody else.—Chicago Herald.

George West, now a millionaire congressman from New York, was a journeyman paper maker in the times when paper was made by the old fashioned hand process. He recently bought the mill in England where he learned his trade.—New York Evening Sun.

POLITICAL PICKINGS.

It costs the United States $2,000,000 a year to carry on the war of 1812 even at this late date.—Chicago News.

There are seven Georgians who, it is believed, would like to succeed Senator Colquitt. Two of them are Congressmen Turner and Crisp.

LOST.

The sunlight is slanting through woodlands uplifting
Their merry green garlands beside the blue sea,
The songs of the happy young reapers are drifting
Out over the harvest fields hither to me.

Once in a miracle morning together
This landscape was limned in our eager young eyes,
While over the far cliffs, all fringy with heather,
We saw a white sail blossom out of the skies.

It bore to our beautiful manse a bright stranger,
As handsome as any young god on a throne,
And, fool that I was! I was dreamless of danger,
Believing your tenderful heart was my own!

Did I reproach you, oh, wonderful woman!
When you surrendered your soul to his lust?
Never! For, knowing your passions were human,
I threw you a rose where you lay in the dust—

I threw you a rose I had kissed and departed
Again to a world that was worthless to me—
Forever from trust and from tenderness parted,
A proud and a passionless cynic to be!

—Will Hubbard Kerman in New York Mercury.

BLOWING OUT THE GAS.

The Victim Not Always Guilty of Absent Mindedness or Ignorance.

Attention is periodically directed to cases of asphyxia resulting from (so it is always termed) "blowing out the gas," the victim being charged with absent mindedness or ignorance which allowed him to extinguish the flame by blowing, and then go to bed to breathe the escaping gas until dead.

It is my conviction that in most of these cases the gas was not blown out. This belief is the result of my experience and observation. These difficulties, I have learned, may easily arise by the dying of the flame when turned low. At my house I have a burner which behaves well during warm weather, but which invariably goes out within a half hour when turned low during cold weather. Once, while living in another house, I retired in the evening and left the gas burning low for my room mate, who had not returned. Instead of returning he stayed with a friend, so the gas received no attention until morning. Then there was no flame, but the gas was escaping. It so happened that the windows were open sufficiently to give me fresh air and save me from the discredit of being listed among those who "blew out the gas." In this case, since the windows were open, it may be that a light breeze blew out the flame, but I have noted cases in which the gas was extinguished, without blowing, in closed rooms.

A little reflection will enable us to see that a low flame may readily go out. When the flame is low, the pressure under which the gas issues from the tip of the burner is very light, hence the flame is weak and the heat maintained therein is low, perhaps, but a little above what is required to sustain combustion. Hence a little breath of air may for an instant reduce such heat to less than the combustion temperature. When this occurs combustion ceases, and there is no heat present to restore it. Of course the gas continues to flow without burning, and may in a few hours suffocate the occupant of the room if he be asleep.

This weak flame may also be extinguished without the breath of air above mentioned. Suppose the pressure of gas be but for an instant interrupted. Then the flow from the burner will for an instant cease and the flame go out; or if for an instant vapor of water issues from the burner, then the flame will go out and the unburned gas afterward fill the room.

Most of these cases of suffocation occur in the rooms of hotels or elsewhere where the victims are strangers and alone. Being thus situated, many timid people prefer to sleep with a burning light. They therefore turn the gas low, and in occasional cases it goes out, as I have explained above.

The moral which I believe you should present to the public is: Either let the gas burn strong or turn it entirely out. Do not turn it low when you go to sleep.—"C. K." in Chicago Journal.

During her twenty years of married life Mrs. John Guest, of Wichita, Kan., has presented her husband with twenty-two children. She has twice given birth to twins and once to triplets.

The store of a man named Windley, at Hunter's Bridge, N. C., was plundered by burglars recently. When he informed his wife of the fact she fainted and died before she could be restored to consciousness.

Lightning struck a basket of eggs in a farm yard near Meriden, Miss., not long ago, and a man who witnessed the descent of the electric fluid solemnly declared that it hatched out chickens from several of the eggs.

There is a man in the Kansas penitentiary who, beginning with a term at Sing Sing years ago, has served his time in regular succession in the penitentiaries of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Kansas.

A darky applied to the county clerk at Smithville, Ga., recently, for a marriage license, but on being informed that it would cost $1.75 he departed without one, saying that "he wasn't in any hurry, nohow, and he guessed they'd be cheaper after a while."

Farmer Liesman, who found a spring on his farm near Holland, Mich., that will make hair grow on most anything, has sold the cow and calf on which he had raised long whiskers to a Chicago museum for $1,300. He will ship some of the water to the animals each week.

A mill in Carlton, Mich., recently burned, and during the entire conflagration the big engine ran steadily, and so in some way was saved from destruction. The working of the engine kept the pumps going, so the boilers were kept supplied with water and there was no explosion.

A drunken laborer named John Davies, at Dowlais, England, on his way home lay down beside the railroad track so close to the rails that, a train coming along, the engine ran over and cut off the heel of his boot. When the train stopped and backed up the man was still asleep, and was indignant at being made to get up and go home.

A Montana paper recently contained this remarkable notice: "Mr. Charles Johnson and Miss Fannie West were married by Rev. S. Hills on Wednesday. So far no trouble has resulted, and those best informed as to the situation say there will be none." The next day the editor apologized and explained that part of an item regarding an incipient strike had got in the wrong place.

George Frey, of Oil City, Pa., wrote a letter to his brother in Michigan a few nights ago, and after sealing it he happened to glance at the clock. It had stopped at 9:45. Mr. Frey set the clock from his watch, and the sound of the ticking seemed to him strangely like a low voice calling out: "I'm gone, I'm gone." In the morning Mr. Frey received a telegram announcing his brother's death, and a subsequent letter contained the information that he died at 9:45 and that his last words were: "I'm gone!"

SOME QUEER MISHAPS.

William Merritt, of Newark, lost the calf of his leg by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting in the Berkshire woods.

Patrick Hannon, of Springfield, Mass., 17 years of age, must do without his right hand in future. He was shooting ducks when his gun burst, and the fingers of that hand went flying after the game.

Capt. Reynolds, of Raddon Court, Latchford, England, lost his life by his gun exploding as he was climbing a fence. The charge shattered his left knee, and amputation did not save him.

James Evanson came into Washington, N. C., from the country to buy an ax. While departing from the store with his purchase he dropped it and it fell on his right foot, completely severing the second toe.

Eclction Proclamation.

Pursuant to law and a Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California, made and done at Sacramento on the 29th day of September, A. D. 1888

Notice Is Hereby Given

By the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, that a General Election will be held throughout the said County of Inyo, on

Tuesday, November 6th, 888.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the morning and will be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m. on the said 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, during which time the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

Eight Electors of President and Vice President of the United States.

One Representative to the Congress of the United States from the Sixth Congressional District composed of the counties of San Benito, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego.

One member of the Assembly from the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

Also one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice Niles Searles appointed.

One Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice E. W. McKinstry, resigned.

And the Governor of the State of California hereby offers a reward of

One Hundred Dollars

for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

And the following officers of Inyo county are to be elected at the same time, viz.:

One Sheriff;
One County Clerk;
One District Attorney;
One County Treasurer;
One Coroner;
One County Surveyor;
One Supervisor for District No. 2;
One Supervisor for District No. 4;
One Supervisor for District No. 5;
Two Justices of the Peace for each Township in Inyo county.
Two Constables for each Township in Inyo county.
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 1;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 2;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 3;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 4;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 5;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 6;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 7.

Said election to be held at the places, and the election to be conducted by the election officers hereby appointed, and hereinafter named, as follows, to wit:

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 1

Polls to be held at the store of F. P. Blaisdell, at Round Valley. Inspector, F. P. Blaisdell; Judges, James Nevins and Richard Hilton.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 2

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Avena. Inspector, A. Matlick; Judges, Moses Brockman and William McLaren.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 3

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Station. Inspector, G. A. Thede; Judges, James Peregrine and Joseph McNally.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 4

Polls to be held at the residence of Nathan Gilbert. Inspector, W. A. Greenly; Judges, S. P. Roberts and Nathan Gilbert.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 5

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Creek. Inspector, L. P. Springstead; Judges, S. H. Yaney and W. W. Yantell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 6

Polls to be held at the residence of George Story, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. Inspector, A. O. Collins; Judges, George Story and R. Merryman.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 7

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Big Pine. Inspector, S. J. McMurry; Judges, I. T. Newman and J. M. Hay.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 8

Polls to be held at the residence of the Conklin Brothers. Inspector, James Lane; Judges, N. E. Conklin and O. H. P. Love.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 9

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Independence. Inspector, W. J. Lake; Judges, J. Zeigler and I. D. Blair.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 10

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Georges Creek. Inspector, W. L. Hunter; Judges, John Kisport and John Meyer.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 12

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas McDonough, in Arastra Canyon. Inspector, Thomas McDonough; Judges, George St. Clair and Frank Miranda.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 13

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse in Lone Pine. Inspector, John Lucas; Judges, J. J. Stewart and R. C. Spear.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 14

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas Poland at Cerro Gordo. Inspector, John Thomas; Judges, William Crapo and George Weist.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 15

Polls to be held in a building adjoining the store of Thomas Roland in Keeler. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, E. F. Hall and John Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 16

Polls to be held at the house of William Walker, at O'ancha. Inspector, A. Walker; Judges, H. Belows and William Walker.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 17

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Darwin. Inspector, Charles Anthony; Judges, Martin Mee and N. S. Thompson.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 18

Polls to be held at the store of Frank Fitzgerald, at Lookout. Inspector, J. D. Channell; Judges, Frank Fitzgerald and W. C. Smith.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 21

Polls to be held at the office of the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, at Panamint. Inspector, H. G. Chickering; Judges, John Curran and E. Rowell.

Dated this 24 day of October, A. D. 1888

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

CROCKER'S HOTEL.
BIG PINE - - CAL.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.
sep1-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt an furnished in a style second to no one on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12-tf

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. E. No. 242.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.,
October 15, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that James Edward Shepherd, of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intent on to make proof on his desert land claim No. 242, for the S½ of S½ of N½ of N½ of N½ of Sec. 2, N½ of Sec. 3, Tp. 14 S., R. 35 E. M. D. M. before the Register and Receiver at Independence on Tuesday, the 27th day of November, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land, viz.: Fred Hobert, Hiram C. Hamilton, Henry Detels and Henry L. Clark, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.
o-m14

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON ENTRIES, CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate terms. Send for circular to HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Every Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide. Contains price only 25 cents (postage stamps)

FREE $85 solid GOLD WATCH Sold for $160 until lately. Best $80 watch in the world. Perfect time-keeper. Warranted. Heavy Solid Gold Hunting Case. Elegant and magnificent, both ladies' and gents' sizes with works and cases of equal value ONE PERSON in each locality can secure one FREE. How is this possible? We answer—we want one person in each locality to keep in their homes, and show to those who call, a complete line of our valuable and very useful HOUSEHOLD SAMPLES. These samples, as well as the watch, we send free, and after you have kept them in your home for 2 months and shown them to those who may have called, they become your own property. It is possible to make this great offer, sending the SOLID GOLD watch and COSTLY samples free, as the showing of the samples in any locality, always results in a large trade for us, after our samples have been in a locality for a month or two we usually get from $5,000 to $8,000 in trade from the surrounding country. This, the most wonderful offer ever known, is made in order that our samples may be placed at once where they can be seen, all over America. Write at once, and make sure of the chance. Reader it will be hardly any trouble for you to show the samples to those who may call at your home and your reward will be most satisfactory. A postal card on which to write us costs but 1 cent and 1 dollar you know all. If you do not care to go further, why no harm is done. But if you do send your address at once, you can secure FREE one of the best solid gold watches in the world and our large line of COSTLY SAMPLES. We pay all express, freight, etc. Address GEO. STINSON & CO., Box 812, PORTLAND, MAINE.

PROPOSALS FOR COUNTY PRINTING.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at the office of the County Clerk, until Thursday, November 8th, 1888, at 12 o'clock M. for the purpose of letting contracts for County Printing for the year beginning January 1, 1889, and ending December 31, 1889, as follows:

1st: Printing and publishing delinquent tax list.
2d: Reports of Auditor and Treasurer.
3d: Notices of contracts to be let by Inyo county.
4th: Notices of special meetings of the Board of Supervisors.
5th: Proceeding of Board of Supervisors.
6th: Notices of meetings of the Board of Education and all other legal notices required to be published by County Officers.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for County Printing," and must be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $500.

Said bids will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, November 8, 1888.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

E. EGBERSON, Chairman pro tem.
Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

NORMAN HOUSE,
Independence, - - Cal.

New House.
New Furniture.
Low Rates.

Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. I. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

nov 11 tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 for every evening and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may see their address and test the business, we make this offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Indepen - - - Cal

H. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL
DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—
Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

Jy-1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.
Office in the "INDEPENDENT" Building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

DR. W. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

F. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUNN, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club rooms to the use of patrons. In every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 If you think of expending fifty or one hundred dollars in advertising send us a copy of your advertisement and we will tell you (free of charge) what will be the best possible investment for you to make. Send 10 cents for our 176 page pamphlet. Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU, 10 SPRUCE STREET, NEW YORK.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Perfectly novel; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us, and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m | 5 35 p. m |
| Dayton | 10 45 a. m. | 4 55 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 a. m | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p. m | 10 40 a. m. |
| Luning | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m |
| Sodaville | 7 0 p. m. | 8 30 a. m |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 05 a. m |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m | Lv. 6 30 a. m |
| | No. 3. Leave— | No. 4 Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 3 a. m. | 5 25 p. m |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m | 1 45 p. m |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 50 a. m |
| Averill | 2 00 p. m | 10 55 a. m |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar 5 05 p. m. | Lv 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains on V. & T. R., which connect at Reno with east and west bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

At HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

At LUNING (125 miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & co's. tri-weekly stages (leave Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dunderville, Grantsville and Belmont.

At CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's. stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO., Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including a beautiful grove for outdoor parties.

Customers supplied on all points.

Of the C. & C. Railroad.

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILLIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by
JACOB KELLER,
Independence.
Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK ..... PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing ..... $2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law
Independence, Cal.
Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—
The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.
All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.
Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.
PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.
Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.
Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.
SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK
Consisting of most every new article is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n2-82

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO

DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany

I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.

Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten gefertigt. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GEHRIG, PROPRIETOR
A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.
All appliances and conveniences are first-class.
Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.
Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.
WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27 ... .....1888

J. C. Flood is dying of Bright's disease in Germany.

Mr. T. C. Boland was in town on Thursday and Friday.

At Lookout the Modoc mines are looking better than at any time for the past eight years.

B. F. Leete and his son, Ben Leete, came down from Bishop Creek yesterday and are still in town.

H. J. Robinson is building a dwelling house on his place at Georges Creek to replace the one recently destroyed by fire.

Superior Judge John A. Hannah has got a pension as a Mexican war veteran. The pension dates back nineteen months.

J. C. Irwin left town last Tuesday morning having in charge a man named Bob Baker who is insane and has been committed to the Stockton Asylum.

Mr. A. R. Conklin got back from San Francisco last Wednesday. Mrs. Conklin, Miss Conklin and Emily Pat will stay in the City some months.

The Great Register is now printed and will be ready for distribution next week. It contains 931 names. This is an increase of 129 names over the Register of two years ago.

There will be religious services at Lone Pine on Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. At Independence at 7 o'clock in the evening. There will be Sunday School at the usual hour.

Charles F. Wooten committed suicide by taking opium at Victoria, B. C., last week. He formerly lived at Virginia City and at one time was amalgamator at the Carson Mint.

Soon after the gates were opened on the Eastside canal last Wednesday telegrams were sent to interested parties at Carson and Reno. Hearty congratulations were exchanged.

The Republicans of Philadelphia have paid a high compliment to the ability and patriotism of Samuel J. Randall. For his devotion to the labor interests of America they have declined to make a nomination against him for Congress and have endorsed his nomination by the Democrats.

In order to be near water Mr. McIver has had his camp three miles from where his men are now at work. This caused a loss of time but there was no help for it. The completion of the head gate and letting water in will enable Mr. McIver to move his camp near to the work, and keep moving as the canal progresses.

Last Sunday a nice little chunk of gold bullion was taken into Lone Pine from the Keynot mine. It was worth about $5,800. The ore yielded about $80 per ton. The old Keynot is a never failing bullion producer and pays well every time. Messrs. George St. Clare and B. Lasky have a lease of the mine.

In the great stallion race trotted at San Francisco last Saturday Stamboul was the winner. The purse was $20,000. Woodnut took the first heat in 2:17 and Stamboul the succeeding three in 2:17, 2:17¾ and 2:17. One hundred thousand dollars changed hands on the result. In a former race at Sacramento Woodnut made better time.

Burglary.

Yesterday an Indian known as John was arrested by Under-Sheriff Thurston for burglary. The Indian broke into the saloon of J. J. Gann the preceding night and took several demijohns of liquor. His hat and shoes were found inside the building and led to his detection and arrest. He will be held for trial.

Notice to Schools and School Trustees.

I now have a supply of Entomologies and Charts for same. Entomology by mail, postpaid, $1 56. Charts, sets of six, $8 00. Each school should have at least one set of Charts.

W. O. MERONEY,
Bishop Creek, Cal.
Agent for Inyo county.

A Terrible Disease.

A very fatal disease is reported among the cattle west of the mountains. It is said to be the terrible Texas fever. This disease is contagious in the highest degree and there is no known cure for it. Where animals have died and been buried cattle have contracted the disease years afterward by eating the grass that grew on the place. The moment that animals are known to be infected they should be killed and the bodies burned. The utmost care should be taken that no infected animals should come into Owens valley. Should the disease get among cattle here the stockmen would be ruined.

The Salt Lake Railroad.

Surveys have been made for the purpose of a railroad from Salt Lake to Mojave, California. The Salt Lake Tribune gives the following report of what was told of the matter by R. E. Collier, Chief of the Surveyors. Two lines were located by Collier and party. The first line begins at Hinckley, on the A. & P. Road, 60 miles east of Mojave, and starting east by north, runs through Black Water, 45 miles from Hinckley, and on to Leache's point 40 miles further. Then the line passes through Death Valley via the Owl-hole summit, and striking the Amargosa river continues on through Ash Meadows and the borax country to Kane Springs, 190 miles from Hinckley. Thence to Feelburg summit is 90 miles, where the two surveying parties met. The second and much more advantageous line parallels the first line, varying in distance from it 20 or 30 miles. The party started south from Kane Springs and managed to lay the line so as to shorten the distance by about 45 miles. Furthermore while the first line grades were as high as 3 per cent. the new line reduced them to a maximum of 100 feet to the mile, with curves at 6 degrees maximum. The approaches to the summits were also made lighter, and the proposed line is brought where construction and maintenance of road-bed will be made easier. So the chances are that the first survey will be discarded. The country passed through is of little use for farming. The rich agricultural valleys lie north and south of the proposed route, but the entire country is rich in mineral wealth, and already, because of the movements of the surveyors, prospectors have begun coming into the country to locate claims, expecting with the older miners that the Union Pacific will push through there next spring and give them a show to reach the smelters.

Water Let In.

Last Wednesday afternoon the headgates were opened and water let into the Eastside Canal. The head of the canal is about 7 miles above Independence Station. The gate is twenty-six feet wide in the clear. The frame work of the gate is a very solid structure. Four sets of timber, each 12x12 inches and 48 feet long are at the bottom. These are all of them joined together by stright braces of 6x12 inches and diagonal braces of 3x12 inches, the whole forming a network of timbers. Anchor timbers 12x12 inches, 10 feet long project into the bank on each side; and these in turn rest against other timbers set at right angles, these are 12x12 inches and 8 feet long. To get all this wood work in place a vast mass of earth had to be moved out and then put back again. This took a great deal of labor. The ground was very wet and the stuff to be moved was a tough, sticky mass full of vegetable roots that made it like so much putty filled with twine. All of this stuff had to be moved by hand; machinery could not be used upon it. The south side of the canal next the opening is lined with stone a considerable distance. This will be a thorough protection against washing away of the bank. The bottom of the canal where it joins the river is two and a half feet below the present surface of the stream, and that is now at low water mark; average high water mark is about four and a half feet above the present level. The present depth of the river at the mouth of the canal is seven and a half feet. The velocity of the current is now about four and a half miles per hour. The mouth of the canal is on the outside of a bend in the river and the current as it sweeps around the opposite point of land is directed straight against the opening. About ten miles of the canal are now completed, the whole work being done in a most thorough manner. A large waste-gate is being put in about two miles below the head-gate; this will be a trifling job compared to the head-gate. It is intended to extend the canal about twenty miles further, making its total length thirty miles. About thirty thousand acres will be irrigated by this work. The Carson & Colorado railroad traverses the tract throughout its entire length. Land locators are now at work clearing and getting ready for planting in the spring. The soil and climate are especially suited to raising raisin grapes and much of the land will be planted with vines. The winter weather in Owens Valley offers no hindrance to outdoor work and from now to the time of setting out vines or putting in crops not a day need be lost from the work of preparing the land. Another year or two will make a wonderful change in the country east of the river; the population of the county will be largely increased and an amount of taxable property will come into existence there that will exceed the whole present assessed valuation of the county. The part of the canal yet to be completed can be made much easier than what has been already made. Mr. McIver, the Superintendent, estimates that where he is now working he can make at least three miles for the cost of one mile above Independence Station. Mr. C. S. Swan is the builder of the canal gates and his work is his best commendation.

Copps' Land Review.

The annual report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office is in the hands of the printer and will be given to the public in a few days.

Like many of his predecessors in office Mr. Stockslager recommends legislation for the prevention of frauds in relation to the acquirement of title to public lands, and expresses, in no uncertain language, the opinion that the pre-emption timber culture, desert land, and homestead law so far as it relates to the commutation clause, should be repealed or greatly modified, and that the public domain should be devoted exclusively to the use and benefit of persons who in good faith desire the same for actual homes.

An enormous array of testimony is introduced tending to show that the laws above mentioned tend to admit of the perpetration of frauds, and are detrimental to the settlement of the country, and operate to defeat the best interests of the Government which demand that the lands shall be actually occupied by bona fide citizens and settlers owning their homes.

The repeal of the pre-emption, desert land and commutation clause of the homestead laws is advocated because they afford opportunities by which unscrupulous speculators, with the aid of conscienceless confederates used as dummy settlers, are enabled to acquire title to vast areas of land to be held for sale at advanced prices or to be leased to families who by reason of their greed are prevented from securing homes of their own. They tend to the erection in this country of a landlord and tenant system similar to those of some European countries, inconsistent with the principles of our Government and to build up a landed aristocracy.

The timber culture law is denounced, not because title to the land is frequently fraudulently obtained under the same, but because it operates to reserve the lands from settlement for a period of years without any equivalent to the Government, and with but little cost to the timber culture entryman. The entry of 160 acres costs but a small sum as fees and commissions. Nothing is required of the entryman for one year, then he must break five acres of the land—at a trifling cost. During the next year he must cultivate the five acres already broken and break another five acres. The next year he is required to plant five acres to timber and cultivate the second five. The next year he must plant the second five acres to timber.

Thus, at a nominal expense the party may for four years exercise complete control of a quarter section of land without violating or evading the law, and sell a relinquishment of his entry for a good round sum, the increase in value rendering the right of entering the land very valuable.

The Registers and Receivers of nearly all the district land offices, in letters to the Commissioner, concur in the opinion that most of the land frauds are perpetrated under the laws named.

It is almost certain that the Commissioner's report, with its convincing testimony, will secure at the next session of Congress, if not at this, a repeal of the pre-emption and timber culture, and at least a modification of the desert land laws.

The May Lundy.

G. W. Butterfield, of Lundy, and Dr. O'Connor, of Glasgow, were here several days this week examining records etc. of mining properties in the Homer District. Dr. O'Connor is the representative, as we have said in a former issue, of an English company which proposes to take hold of the May Lundy mine, in that district. The Doctor is giving the matter a thorough examination, and is a man who is strictly business; and we are pleased to hear that he is very well satisfied with the outlook of the business that has brought him so far from "Merrie England" to investigate for himself and friends.—Chronicle-Union.

A Big Mortgage.

A mortgage of one million six hundred and twenty thousand dollars has been filed in the office of the County Recorder on that portion of the Carson & Colorado railroad known as the third division, from McBride's Station to Keeler. The distance is 108 miles; the mortgage is therefore nearly fifteen thousand dollars per mile. The mortgage is given to the Metropolitan Trust Company, of New York. Why the road is mortgaged is known only to the managers, and it would be idle guessing about their reasons for doing so. It may be worth notice, however, that the part of the road covered by the mortgage is nearly equal in length to the projected extension of the road from Keeler to Mojave. Whether the mortgage has anything to do with the extension time alone will reveal. The corps of surveyors who were sent out some time ago to survey the route through which the extension must run have completed their work to Mojave. The route has long been traveled by teams and, as is very well known, is easy the entire distance. There is not a single difficulty to encounter on the route.

Enterprising.

It would appear that the enterprising people of Southern California, who have pushed that part of the State ahead of all other sections in material prosperity, will keep ahead in scientific attainments also. It is proposed to establish an observatory on Wilson's Peak and place there a telescope that will greatly exceed in power any now in existence, including the Lick telescope now on Mount Hamilton. The lens of the Lick instrument is thirty-six inches in diameter; the lens of the new instrument will be forty-two inches in diameter. The area of the lens of the Lick telescope is 1,017.88— inches; the area of the new lens will be 1,385.45— inches, and the power will be in the same proportion. It will take five years to make this great lens and it will cost $100,000. If the contract shall be made the glass will be cast in Paris and shipped to San Francisco in the rough state and there it will be finished.

A Burying Ground Needed.

A burying ground is needed at Georges Creek. The settlement has increased so much in the last year or two as to make this a necessity; and as the increase in population is certain to be much greater within the next year or two the need will become still more apparent. A location for a burying ground should be made without further delay.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself for Supervisor for the Fourth District, Subject to the will of the people.

JOHN LUBKIN.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

GEORGE H. PALMER, REGULAR REPUBlican nominee for Road Overseer, Sixth District.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I am a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District. JERRY MAIRS.

ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORnia—Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California; location of works Inyo county, California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the 2d day of October, 1888, an assessment (No. 4) of five (5) cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately in United States gold coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the Company, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 3d day of November, 1888, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before will be sold on MONDAY, the 3d day of December, 1888, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with cost of advertising and expenses of sale. By order of the Board of Directors.

GEORGE W. LUCE, Sec.
Office No. 205 Front S., San Francisco, Cal.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District.

WALTER JAMES SR.

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President—

ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET.

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,

NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—

JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.

REEL B. TERRY,
Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.

CAMPBELL P. BERRY.....Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY..Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.

FRED. BERRINGER.....Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A. CAMINETTI.....Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.

C. A. JENKINS.....Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

P. J. MURPHY.....Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

N. BOWDEN.....Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

BYRON WATERS...Of San Bernardino.

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman.....R. S. MINER.
Sheriff.....J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk.....P. H. MACK.
Treasurer.....J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney..Endorsed..G. M. GILL
Surveyor.....——
Coroner.....G. W. BRADY

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BEAIN, R. S.

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods, Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,
Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S
CHEMICAL FLUID
NON-POISONOUS
SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.
(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from sticking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO
Successors to FALKNER, BELL & CO.,
No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.
Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and
Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!
BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 26, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—
Apples,
Pears,
Peaches
& Plums.
Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S
Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.
Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaned.
All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City,
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Pioneer
Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Boggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and
Livery Accommodations
in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

TO ADVERTISERS
A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.
To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List. GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.
Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.
I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO Extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!

THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY
TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer in
GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.
Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.
CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.
All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.
SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1-tf Big Pine, Inyo Co., Cal.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated. in Cloth and Gilt Binding, [illegible] money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive must know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. [illegible] BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its [illegible] may Marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, [illegible] brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PRESCRIPTIONS [illegible] to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read. Sent sealed by A. B. WHITTIER, 84 Lewis Place, St. Louis, Mo. [illegible] AND SEND WITH ORDER.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—The largest marble quarry in the world is that of the Georgia Marble Company in Pickens County.

—The Lancet defines the disease which is known as "The Sightseer's Headache" as "nature's tax levied on the comfort of that great body of busy idlers to which we all at some time or other belong. It is endemic among the frequenters of museums, picture galleries, and exhibitions, varying somewhat perhaps in different cases in its precise causation, but associated always in a manner significant of its origin with the habits of the observant loiterer."

—It is claimed to be proven, beyond all doubt, that waters which circulate orstand in leaden pipes or vessels, not only take up particles of lead through mechanical action due to friction, but attack the mental, the result of this being generally lead carbonate. According to the most eminent authorities in this line, minute quantities of lead thus introduced into and accumulating in the system, must rank among the causes of anæmia and defective nutrition in large towns.

—"It can not be too widely known," writes a medical man, "that cream separated by machinery from pure new milk, before it has cooled, is a full substitute for cod liver oil and that if, during the cold weather, those who have delicate constitutions which need concentrated nutrition but who can not overcome the nausea associated with cod-liver oil, will take this description of cream they will find in most cases, immense and lasting benefit. In several hospitals it has already quite superseded the nauseous oil.

—Some remarkable changes have recently been noted by M. Perrotin on the planet Mars. In a letter to the Academie des Sciences, he reports that the tract of land on both sides of the equator, which has been named Lybia, seems to have been submerged by the sea. It was distinctly seen by him two years ago, when it was bounded on two sides by a sea, and on the others by one of the streaks to which M. Schiaparelli gave the name of canals, but now does not exist. A drawing made by him in 1882 shows the same appearance, which leads him to the conclusion that the inundation, if it be such, is periodic.

FORTUNE'S FAVORITES.

Mobile Prize Winners in The Louisiana State Lottery.

HOW—WHERE—WHEN THEY DID IT, ETC.

The reporter met Mr. Frank McKeon and found him to be a clever gentleman, one of the firm of McKeon & Menken, who own and operate a coffee saloon and restaurant. Mr. McKeon stated to the reporter that it was a fact that he and Mr. Beyle held one-twentieth of ticket No. 53,469 which drew the second capital prize of $100,000 on the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery. He said that they had purchased the ticket about one week before the drawing and had invested often before. "The prize came in good time," he said, "as I needed the money badly, as you know I have had plenty of bad luck. You remember that we were burned out last fall, and I had no work and no place to work at. After the fire we had another misfortune, and that was losing $306 in the recent bank failure. I had almost given up, but hearing of the old adage, "that the darkest hours were just before day," I felt the truth of it keenly when I saw by the official list of drawing that our ticket drew a valuable prize.

After congratulating Mr. McKeon the reporter went to see Mr. J. J. Beyle. He found Mr. Beyle to be a bookkeeper at a very popular house in this city. The reporter asked was it true that he had been the lucky winner of a valuable prize. He said fortunately it is true. I have bought once or twice before and must say that I was a little surprised and glad when my partner Frank McKeon told me we had won. I have no idea what I will do with my share. I will use it to the best advantage possible.

Hearing from good authority that Mr. Lyman H. Faith, a prominent attorney, had been another of the fortunate winners a reporter was sent to his office and found the gentleman there with hands and head full of work. The reporter stated to him that he was told that he had won a five-thousand-dollar prize at the last drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery. Mr. Faith laughed and said the fact is that I was only the attorney of the parties that won the prize, and as the attorney I collected the amount of the prize, and as attorney received my fee. The party that won the prize is not rich, but is able to get along, and the five thousand dollars will help things lots these hot, dull days and I know that the money will be judiciously invested, some in Alabama State bonds, and some in real estate. Oh, yes, the money is collected and safe in bank, and if you desire it, I will show you the bank book with the entry, but I will not tell you who the party or parties are as they do not wish their names known. It is a very unusual thing to employ an attorney to collect prizes from The Louisiana State Lottery, as the company delights in paying all prizes without rebate or discount. In this particular case, however, the parties were willing, for the sake of secrecy to fee an attorney in the matter, for they knew that professional etiquette would prevent his divulging the name of his client. The First National Bank of Mobile collected the prize for Mr. Faith and the Southern Express Company that of Messrs. McKeon and Beyle.—Mobile (Ala) Register, July 15.

THE LONE WOMAN.

No city in the United States can show as many women doing business for themselves and living in comfortable circumstances as San Francisco. And why? Go ask at least one-half of them. They will tell you their money is taken care of for them at the Pacific Bank, whose motto is "True in Trusts."

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

Well, that night Good and I messed, as I have said, in solitary grandeur, feeling very much as though we had just returned from burying a friend instead of marrying one, and next morning the work began in good earnest. The messages and orders which had been dispatched by Nyleptha two days before now began to take effect, and multitudes of armed men came pouring into the city. We saw, as may be imagined, but very little of Nyleptha and not too much of Curtis during those next few days, but Good and I sat daily with the council of generals and loyal lords, drawing up plans of action, arranging commissariat matters, the distribution of commands, and a hundred and one other things. Men came in freely, and all the day long the great roads leading to Milosis were spotted with the banners of lords arriving from their places to rally round Nyleptha.

After the first two days it became clear that we should be able to take the field with about forty thousand infantry and twenty thousand cavalry—a very respectable force, considering how short was the time we had to collect it, and that about half of the regular army had elected to follow Sorais.

But if our force was large, Sorais' was, according to the reports brought in day by day by our spies, much larger. She had taken up her headquarters at a very strong town called M'Arstuna, situated, as I have said, to the north of Milosis, and all the country side was flocking to her standard. Nasta had poured down from his highlands, and was on his way to join her with no less than twenty-five thousand of his mountaineers, the most terrible soldiers to face in all Zu-Vendis. Another mighty lord, named Zelusha, who lived in the great horse breeding district, had come in with twelve thousand cavalry, and so on. Indeed, what between one thing and another, it seemed certain that she would gather a fully armed host of nearly one hundred thousand men.

And then came the news that she was proposing to break up her camp and march on the Frowning City itself, desolating the country as she came. Thereon arose the question whether it would be best to meet her at Milosis or to go out and give her battle. When our opinion was asked upon the subject, Good and I unhesitatingly gave it in favor of an advance. If we were to shut ourselves up in the city and wait to be attacked, it seemed to us that our inaction would be set down to fear. It is so very important, especially on an occasion of this sort, when a very little will suffice to turn men's opinions one way or the other, to be up and doing something. Ardor for a cause will soon evaporate if the cause does not move, but sits down to conquer. Therefore we cast our vote for moving out and giving battle in the open, instead of waiting till we were drawn from our walls like a badger from a hole.

Sir Henry's opinion coincided with ours, and so, needless to say, did that of Nyleptha, who, like a flint, was always ready to flash out fire. A great map of the country was brought and spread out before her. About thirty miles this side of M'Arstuna, where Sorais was, and ninety odd miles from Milosis, the road ran over a neck of land some two and a half miles in width, and flanked on either side by forest clad hills which, without being lofty, would be quite impracticable for a great baggage laden army to cross. She looked earnestly at the map, and then, with a quickness of perception that in some women amounts almost to an instinct, she laid her finger upon this neck of rising ground, and turning to her husband, said, with a proud air of confidence and a toss of the golden head,

"Here shalt thou meet Sorais' armies. I know the spot; here shalt thou meet them, and drive them before thee like the dust before the storm."

But Curtis looked grave and said nothing.

CHAPTER XX.

THE BATTLE OF THE PASS.

It was on the third morning after this incident of the map that Sir Henry and I started. With the exception of a small guard, all the great host had moved on the night before, leaving the Frowning City very silent and empty. Indeed, it was found impossible to leave any garrison, with the exception of a small guard for Nyleptha and about 1,000 men who from sickness or one cause or another were unable to proceed with the army; for as the place was practically impregnable, and as our enemy was in front and not behind us, this did not so much matter.

Good and Umslopogaas had gone on with the army, but Nyleptha accompanied Sir Henry and myself to the city gates, riding a magnificent white horse called Daylight, which was supposed to be the fleetest and most enduring animal in Zu-Vendis. Her face bore traces of recent weeping, but there were no tears in her eyes now, indeed she was bearing up bravely against what must have been a bitter trial to her. At the gate she reined in her horse and bade us farewell. On the previous day she had reviewed and addressed the officers of the great army, speaking to them such high, eloquent words and expressing so complete a confidence in their valor and in their ultimate victory that she quite carried their hearts away, and as she rode from rank to rank they cheered her till the ground shook. And now today the same mood seemed to be on her.

"Fare thee well, Macumazahn!" she said. "Remember, I trust to thy wits, which are as a needle to a spear handle compared to those of my people, to save us from Sorais. I know that thou wilt do thy duty."

I bowed and explained to her my horror of fighting, and my fear lest I should lose my head, at which she laughed gently and turned to Curtis.

"Fare thee well, my lord!" she said. "Come back with victory, and as a king, or on thy soldiers' spears."

Sir Henry said nothing, but turned his horse to go; perhaps he had a bit of a lump in his throat. One gets over it afterwards, but these sort of partings are trying when one has only been married a week.

"Here," added Nyleptha, "will I greet ye when ye return in triumph. And now, my lords, once more farewell!"

Then we rode on, but when we had gone 150 yards or so, we turned and perceived her still sitting on her horse at the same spot, and looking out after us beneath her hand, and that was the last we saw of her. About a mile farther on, however, we heard galloping behind us, and looking round, saw a mounted soldier coming toward us, leading Nyleptha's matchless steed, Daylight.

"The queen sends the white stallion as a farewell gift to her Lord Incubu, and bids me tell my lord that he is the fleetest and the most enduring horse in all the land," said the soldier, bending to his saddle bow before us.

At first Sir Henry did not want to take the horse, saying that he was too good for such rough work, but I persuaded him to do so, thinking that Nyleptha would be hurt if he did not. Little did I guess at the time what service that noble horse would render in our sorest need. It is curious to look back and realize upon what trivial and apparently accidental circumstances great events frequently turn, as easily and as naturally as a door on its hinges.

Well, we took the horse, and a beauty he was; it was a perfect pleasure to see him move; and Curtis having sent back his greetings and thanks, we proceeded on our journey.

By midday we overtook the rear guard of the great army, of which Sir Henry formally took over the command. It was a heavy responsibility, and it oppressed him very much, but the queen's injunctions on the point were such as did not admit of being trifled with. He was beginning to find out that greatness has its responsibilities as well as its glories.

Then we marched on without meeting with any opposition, almost indeed without seeing anybody, for the populations of the towns and villages along our route had for the most part fled, fearing lest they should be caught between the two rival armies and ground to powder like grain between the upper and the nether stones.

On the evening of the fourth day—for the progress of so great a multitude was necessarily slow—we camped two miles this side of the neck or ridge I have spoken of, and our outposts brought us word that Sorais, with all her power, was rolling down upon us, and had camped that night ten miles the further side of the neck.

Accordingly, before dawn we sent forward 1,500 cavalry to seize the position. Scarcely had they occupied it, however, before they were attacked by about as many of Sorais' horsemen, and a very smart little cavalry fight ensued, with a loss to us of about thirty men killed. On the advance of our supports, however, Sorais' force drew off, carrying their dead and wounded with them.

The main body of the army reached the neck about dinner time, and I must say that Nyleptha's judgment had not failed her; it was an admirable place to give battle in, especially to a superior force.

The road ran down a mile or more, through and too broken to admit of the handling of any considerable force, till it reached the crest of a great green wave of land that rolled down a gentle slope to the banks of a little stream, and then rolled away again up a still gentler slope to the plain beyond, the distance from the crest of the land wave down to the stream being a little over half a mile, and from the stream up to the plain beyond a trifle less. The length of this wave of land at its highest point, which corresponded exactly with the width of the neck of land between the wooded hills, was about two miles and a quarter, and it was protected on either side by dense, rocky, bush clad ground that afforded a most valuable cover to the flanks of the army, and rendered it almost impossible for them to be turned.

It was on the higher slope of this neck of land that Curtis encamped his army in the same formation that he had, after consultation with the various generals, Good and myself, determined that they should occupy in the great pitched battle which now appeared to be imminent.

Our force of 60,000 men was, roughly speaking, divided as follows: In the center was a dense body of 20,000 foot soldiers, armed with spears, swords and hippopotamus hide shields, breast and back plates. These formed the chest of the army, and were supported by 5,000 foot and 3,000 horse in reserve. On either side of this chest were stationed 7,000 horse, arranged in deep, majestic squadrons; and beyond, and on either side, but slightly in front of them, again were two bodies, numbering about 7,500 spearmen each, forming the right and left wings of the army, and each supported by a contingent of some 1,500 cavalry. This makes in all 60,000 men.

Curtis commanded in chief, I was in command of the 7,000 horse between the chest and right wing, which was commanded by Good, and the other battalions and squadrons were intrusted to Zu-Vendi generals.

Scarcely had we taken up our positions before Sorais' vast army began to swarm on the opposite slope about a mile in front of us, till the whole place seemed alive with the multitude of her spear points, and the ground shook with the tramp of her battalions. It was evident that the spies had not exaggerated; we were outnumbered by at least a third. At first we expected that Sorais was going to attack us at once, as the clouds of cavalry which hung upon her flanks executed some threatening demonstrations, but she thought better of it, and there was no fight that day. As for the formation of her great forces I cannot now describe it with accuracy, and it would only serve to bewilder if I did, but I may say, generally, that in its leading features it resembled our own, only her reserve was much greater.

Opposite our right wing, and forming Sorais' left wing, was a great army of dark wild looking men, armed with sword and shield only, which, I was informed, was composed of Nasta's 25,000 savage hill-men.

"My word, Good," said I, when I saw them, "you will catch it to-morrow when those gentlemen charge!" whereat Good not unnaturally looked rather anxious.

All day we watched and waited, but nothing happened, and at last night fell, and a thousand watch fires twinkled brightly on the slopes, to wane and die one by one like the stars they resembled, as the hours wore on and the silence gradually gathered more deeply over the opposing hosts.

It was a very wearying night, for in addition to the endless things that had been seen to, there was our gnawing suspense to reckon with. The fray which to-morrow would witness would be so vast, and the slaughter so awful, that stout, indeed, must the heart have been that was not overwhelmed at the prospect.

The time wore away till everything was ready for the coming slaughter; and I lay down and thought, and tried to get a little rest.

And at last up came the red sun, and the huge camps awoke with a clash and a roar, and gathered themselves together for battle. It was a beautiful and awe inspiring scene, and old Umslopogaas, leaning on his ax, contemplated it with grim delight.

(To Be Continued.)

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Prince and Princess Christian are the only members of the royal family who now have apartments in Buckingham Palace, and the Queen does not allow those apartments to be occupied by the persons to whom they are appropriated for more than a certain number of nights in each London season, or for more than three nights in succession, except by special permission.

It is announced that Maxwell's body is to be buried at sea by his family, thus leaving no spot on earth to remind them of the fate of their wayward boy.

In the waste of tissue that precedes consumption, in the slight cought at night or morning, if Dr. Jordan's Life Essence is taken, a valuable life may be saved. Don't neglect a cough, but take Life Essence and stop it at once. Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

HAMBURG FIGS are a crystallized fruit cathartic, composed of fruits and vegetables, and, being in lozenge form, are handy to carry with you. They act mildly, but surely, and by their regulating influence overcome the tendency to constipation from any cause. This is especially true in all cases of sea sickness or car sickness, which is due to a dangerous condition of the digestive organs, over which HAMBURG FIGS exercise a peculiar influence. It is well known that even if the system is in good condition at the beginning, change in food and habits during a journey often produce constipation. HAMBURG FIGS are therefore recommended to all travelers as being the only medicine that is certain in action, handy to have with you, most pleasant and agreeable to the taste, and always harmless. HAMBURG FIGS are sold at 25 cents a box.

DOES WEALTH CORRUPT?

Walter Scott's Theory That Saving, Not Getting, Is the Mother of Riches.

Wealth is said to corrupt our species. We do not believe it. Wealth is one of the great civilizers of man. Wealth corrupts when it is suddenly got, or unjustly distributed; when, owing to monopolies or entails, or some other barbarous system, it is prevented from diffusing itself naturally and justly. But where all have an equal chance; where all start nearly even; where all have a certain degree of instruction to begin with; where superior skill and virtue alone give one man an advantage over another, there wealth is an unmixed blessing.

We ought to rejoice that the desire of wealth is so universal and so strong. It keeps the vast machinery of the world going. It has suggested the most beneficent enterprises and the most useful improvements. We owe to it the fact that a man who can earn one dollar a day can be better lodged, better fed, better clothed, better taught, than kings and nobles could five hundred years ago.

Sir Walter Scott truly says that saving, not getting, is the mother of riches. This truth is wonderfully illustrated in the history of some families once poor but now noted for their wealth.

John Jacob Astor had a brother, not so well known as himself, but who possessed in an eminent degree the peculiar characteristic of the family—the art of saving money. It is told of him by an old New Yorker, that intending to operate upon the feelings of an acquaintance of whom he was about to make some purchases, he gave to the son of the latter, who was playing about the store entrance, a bright penny. The trade having been concluded, the thrifty Astor said to the little fellow: "Johnny, you've played with the penny long enough; give it back to me."

Johnny, much surprised and not a little disheartened, handed over the penny, and Astor, depositing it in his pocket, walked off. He became a very rich man.—N. Y. Ledger.

—A negro farmer in Dougherty county, Ga., has succeeded in making excellent sirup from watermelons, and thus a new use is devised for the surplus crop.

—Hard wood cut in June, July or August, and left untrimmed until the leaves have drawn the sap from the trees, makes the most solid and lasting timber.

—Among the recent mechanical inventions is a nail machine which cuts either a wire or a cut nail with equal facility. The construction of this apparatus is quite simple, as compared with ordinary wire nail machines. With it, cut nails of square section, with either a diamond or a chisel point, may be produced as easily as the common nail, and the change from wire to cut nails may be accomplished in a few minutes.

—Extended observations at Paris and at Munich indicate that the sanitary condition of a locality depends on the amount of water contained in the ground. The years in which there has been a large quantity of ground-water present have invariably been the healthiest years, while those in which there has been smaller quantity have invariably been the unhealthiest periods.

IN LOVE'S HARNESS.

Most women naturally look forward to matrimony as their proper sphere in life, but they should constantly bear in mind that a fair, rosy face, bright eyes, and a healthy, well-developed form, are the best passports to a happy marriage. All those wasting disorders, weaknesses, "dragging-down" sensations, and functional irregularities peculiar to their sex, have an unfailing specific in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

The maiden I marry, I sadly aver,
Both rich and a ninny must be,
For if she's not rich I will not marry her,
And a ninny alone would wed me.

"Am sure I do not know what I should do without Hoyt's GERMAN COLOGNE, it is so invigorating and refreshing." So writes an invalid lady from Concord, N. H.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Doll Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

A man in Galveston ate twenty-three eggs at one meal. The jury said he died from over-feeding.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefitted and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquility reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

Give not reins to your inflamed passions; take time and a little delay. Impetuosity manages all things badly.—Statius.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

The dentist may not be much of a politician, but he knows how to take the stump.

You sturdy oak whose branches wide
Boldly the storms and winds defy,
Not long ago an acorn, small,
Lay dormant 'neath the summer sky.

Not unlike the thrifty oak in its germ, development and growth, is consumption. But even this mighty foe of mankind, positively yields to the wonderful curative properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery if taken early. Don't be blind to your own interests and think yours a hopeless case. This remarkable remedy has rescued thousands. Of druggists.

Talk is cheap in this world, because the supply is so much larger than the demand.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" have a direct influence on the inflamed parts, giving relief in Coughs, Colds, and the various Throat troubles to which Singers and Public Speakers are liable. Sold only in boxes.

CURED OF MALARIA.

22 FLORIDA ST., ELIZABETH, N. J., March 17, 1884.

I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS for the last five years. Some two years ago, after having been sick for upwards of six months with malaria, I found myself with an enlarged spleen, dyspeptic, and constantly troubled with a headache, and my kidneys did not act very well either. Having spent most of my money for medicine and medical advice, I thought to save expense I would use ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, two on the small of my back, one on the spleen or ague cake, and one on the pit of the stomach, just under the breast-bone. I continued using the Plasters about thirty days, changing them every week. At the end of that time I was perfectly well, and have remained so ever since. GEORGE DIXON.

There's a divinity that doth hedge a king, but put three other kings and an ace in the same hand, and there'll be no hedging.

SUIT YOURSELF.

But there is no other remedy for sick headache, dizziness, constipation, biliousness, or to restore a regular, healthy action to the liver, stomach and bowels, equal to those reliable little "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" prepared by Dr. Pierce. Of druggists.

"Conundrum parties" vary the monotony of the usual summer amusements. They are composed of guests "who never give it up."

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial! Investment small, profit large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $5.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Holly, Mich.

ASTHMA CURED
German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

DOES IT PAY

To advertise? We want to know, and which papers pay best. For every cash order of $25 sent within a week after you read this notice in which you order at least five articles from the following list and mention the paper you saw it in and the date of it, we will send you, free gratis for nothing, any one of the articles named, valued at $1, and very, very cheap at that.

| | |
|---|---|
| 11 yards Amoskeag Dress Gingham | $1 00 |
| 14 yards late style Calico | 1 00 |
| 10 yards Canton Flannel | 1 00 |
| 1 handsome wide Bedspread | 1 00 |
| 2 ladies' Undervests or Drawers | 1 00 |
| 8 pounds Cotton Batting | 1 00 |
| 24 spools Cotton, all different | 1 00 |
| 40 dozen Buttons, several kinds | 1 00 |
| 20 pocket Handkerchiefs | 1 00 |
| 12 pairs ladies', men's and children's Hose | 1 00 |
| 25 papers new Garden Seeds | 1 00 |
| 12 useful Brushes, all different | 1 00 |
| 30 pounds good black Figs | 1 00 |
| 25 pounds dried Pears | 1 00 |
| 14 pounds good dried Peaches | 1 00 |
| 15 pounds nice dried Prunes | 1 00 |
| 10, 12 or 20 yards Toweling | 1 00 |
| 16 useful Kitchen Articles | 1 00 |
| 6 pounds green or ground Coffee | 1 00 |
| 5 pounds green or mixed Tea | 1 00 |
| 15 pounds Tea Dust, good quality | 1 00 |
| 20 bars Poor Woman's Soap | 1 00 |
| 35 pounds white or colored Beans | 1 00 |
| 12 cans Spices, all different | 1 00 |
| 9 cans Corn, Peas or Beans | 1 00 |
| 25 pounds shelled Pop Corn | 1 00 |
| 50 pounds Bone Meal or Egg Food | 1 00 |
| 1 Wash Bowl and Pitcher | 1 00 |
| 1 dozen fine engraved Goblets | 1 00 |
| 3 large glass Stew Dishes | 1 00 |
| 8 double rolls Wall Paper | 1 00 |
| 10 pounds fine mixed Candy | 1 00 |
| 5 pounds fancy mixed Candy | 1 00 |
| 1 good Axe and Handle | 1 00 |
| 25 papers assorted Tacks | 1 00 |
| 6 cans Table Fruit, assorted | 1 00 |

You must comply with the conditions, and we will do our part faithfully. Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 327.

ST JACOBS OIL
For Sciatica.
NEW CURRENT TESTIMONY.

7 Years. Chicago, Ill., May 21, 1888. I was given up by doctors 3 years ago and had to use a crutch for Sciatic Rheumatism; suffered about 7 years; first application St. Jacobs Oil relieved; two bottles cured. GEORGE A. ROSE.

Bed-ridden. Beaver Dam, Wis., May 19, '88. Spring of 1887 was taken with Sciatica, suffered two months, was confined to bed, tried several doctors without benefit. Used St. Jacobs Oil and was cured. JANNETTE WEBER.

Lameness. Utica, Fulton Co., Illinois. Three or four years ago was taken with lameness in hip, was in bed part of time, tried several doctors without benefit, was cured by three or four applications of St. Jacobs Oil. WM. HARPER.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK AND Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors, 417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

POWDERED 98% CAUSTIC SODA
TREE WASH,
Carbolic Sheep Wash.
T. W. JACKSON & CO., 104 Market St., Mfg. Agents.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH. Gabler, Rosenish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action, finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd. only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

R. H. McDonald PRES'T. F. V. McDonald, CASHIER.
ESTABLISHED 1863.
Oldest Chartered Bank on the Pacific Coast.
PACIFIC BANK
Capital Stock $1,000,000.00.
Surplus $650,000.00.
Av. Resources $4,356,175.94.
Returning thanks for past favors, we respectfully ask a continuance of the same and solicit accounts of Individuals, Firms and Corporations.
R. H. McDONALD, Pres't.
San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1st, 1888.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

A PROMINENT "WOOL" GROWER.

The above well-known "wool" grower has figured prominently in politics for the past 20 years, and his opinion is that "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut is the boss smoke, and don't you forget it.

DIAMOND DYES
Brilliant! Durable! Economical!

Diamond Dyes excel all others in Strength, Purity, and Fastness. None other are just as good. Beware of imitations, because they are made of cheap and inferior materials and give poor, weak, crocky colors. To be sure of success use only the DIAMOND DYES for coloring Dresses, Stockings, Yarns, Carpets, Feathers, Ribbons, &c., &c. We warrant them to color more goods, package for package, than any other dyes ever made, and to give more brilliant and durable colors. Ask for the DIAMOND, and take no other.

Send postal for Dye Book, Sample Card, directions for coloring Photos., making the finest Ink or Bluing (10 cents a quart), etc. Sold by Druggists. Address
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

For Gilding or Bronzing Fancy Articles, USE DIAMOND PAINTS Gold, Silver, Bronze, Copper. Only 10 Cents.

DWIGHT'S SODA
THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —
DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD
USE
DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.
ABSOLUTELY PURE.
ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.
Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.
THE COW BRAND.
DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

PALMER & REY'S
PRINTERS' SUPPLY HOUSE
405 and 407 Sansome Street,
SAN FRANCISCO.....CALIFORNIA.

Patent Outsides or Insides, Home-Plan Outsides or Insides. Presses Type, Bookbinders' Outfits, Automatic Stereo Plates, etc

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.
AT 12 O'CLOCK.....NOVEMBER 3, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 21. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., NOVEMBER 3, 1888. WHOLE NO. 940.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 20 |

THE VICTOR VANQUISHED.

With the Hottentot and Bushman and the Terra del Fregian
He had fought with frenzied fury, so he said.
At the Patagonian giants he had hurled his proud defiance,
And had painted all the Sandwich Islands red;
He had made all the natives scatter in the jungles of Mahratta,
From the Rio de la Plata to the sources of the Nile;
He swept with his bravado realms of khedive and mikado
And regulated all the earth in true imperial style.

With the catamount and tiger and the Abyssinian lion
He had grappled single handed and had never met defeat;
Every spouting hippopotamus he got his eagle eye on
Was sure to lay out, first or last, a dead brute at his feet.
With his blazing eye a-brightening he would dash about a-frightening,
Just like lubricated lightening lunging through the thunder storm,
Frightening with this facial feature every savage living creature
And make the sizzling atmosphere superfluously warm.

Then his wife came in the grocery store—A sorry interruption—
In the middle of a story on the jungles of Brazil—
How he fought a boa constrictor and came off a bloody victor
When the serpentine devourer chased him with intent to kill
And she took him by the collar, bade the timid suppliant follow,
And we heard the fellow "holler" like a doomed soul for his sins,
"Come," she said, "and have some gumption, I want you for home consumption,
And while I do the washing you must entertain the twins."

—S. W. Foss in Yankee Blade.

A Natural Solution.

An almond eyed washerman boarded a cable car yesterday with his hamper of clothes. As the grip neared the corner where he was to get off, the driver, who is a good natured Irishman, said to a passenger: "Dy'e see that haythen? Watch me and see me throw him."

At the corner the Celestial made a leap, and the driver applied his brake so as to give the grip a lurch. The laundryman turned a somersault in the air, came down on his feet, grinned, and asked:

"What le matter—stling bloke agin?"—Chicago Mail.

Care in Diet.

Mr. Shentpershent (at hotel table, a summer resort)—Mein gracious! Isaac, you little vool! Vat fver you ask for bret?

Little Isaac—I vant bret mit my meat, fadder.

Mr. Shentpershent—Shust hear dat! He vants bret ven bret sell for only fife cents a loaf, an' he gan't eat a kavater off a loaf, an' I pay fife tollars a day at dis hotel. Here, Isaac, eat dis bottle off olives. Dey cost von tollar a bottle.—The Cartoon.

A Conversation Overheard.

"Don't."
"Why? Don't you like it?"
"Yes, but don't."—Life.

English in Karlsbad.

English is wrote at Karlsbad by a "tailer" in this way: "Honorable Sir! I take me the liberty, to make you attentive on my Etablissement. There I please you, to favour me by some uses of clothes, with your visit, and always keep a large choise of englisch, franch, and brunner materials and clothes shall made to measure on the best and newest facon; and I am like ready to full full your esteem wushes."—New York Sun.

An Expert at the National Game.

"Are you a ball player yourself, George?" she asked at the Polo grounds.

He smiled a sweet, superior smile.

"I can give those New Yorkers points on the game," he said.

Then a foul tip came from Johnny Ward's bat and George, the expert, fell over two rows of seats trying to get out of the way.—Time.

Might Overtax His Brain.

Mr. Isaacstein (to school teacher)—How vas dot leedle Jacob getting on mit arithmetic?

School Teacher—He is doing nicely, Mr. Isaacstein; he is in percentage now.

Mr. Isaacstein—Vas dot so? Vell, don'd you teach dot poy noddings less than von hundert per cent. He vas too young yet to study very hard.—New York Sun.

Both After the Same Object.

First New York Man—I see that Australia is complaining about a rabbit pest.

Second New York Man—Yes, they are like us and our street cars.

First New York Man—How is that?

Second New York Man—They say, "The bobtail must go."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Two Ways of Looking at a Thing.

"How old are you, Tommy?"

"Nine when I'm on my feet and 6 when I stand on my head."

"That's funny; how do you make it?"

"Why, if you stand a 9 on its head it's a 6, isn't it?"

Habit.

A photographer in a western county was elected sheriff last fall. He had his first hanging two weeks ago, and just as the drop was about to fall he unconsciously took out his watch, glanced at the condemned man and softly said: "Now, look pleasant, please."—Norristown Herald.

A Liberal Inducement.

Young Man (to jeweler)—Will the watch cost anything extra if I should want a little time on it?

Jeweler—No, sir; you pay me $6 for the watch, and I'll throw the time in.—New York Sun.

A Right to the Title.

Citizen—Why do you write "Col." before your name, Uncle Rastus; you are not a colonel?

Uncle Rastus—No, sah; de "Col." stan's fo' "cullud."—Time.

ALFALFA OR LUCERN.

The Plain Truth About the Much Talked-of Forage Plant.

There is considerable interest just now existing in regard to the forage plant commonly known as alfalfa. This is the Spanish name of lucern, a plant of the leguminous tribe closely resembling clover, and commonly cultivated in Europe for green fodder. It differs from clover, however, in having more woody stalks, slenderer leaves, a purplish flower, and a legume or pod, which is coiled spirally and contains several seeds. It is a native of Spain, and thrives best in hot, somewhat dry climates, and produces enormously when irrigated. In the northern Italian provinces it is commonly grown in this way, and is cut several times in a season, producing in the aggregate sixty to eighty inches of herbage in the growing season. It is perennial, and when kept free from weeds and manured occasionally it continues to yield abundantly for twenty years, never being permitted to seed, however.

It is not a good hay plant unless it is cut quite young and cured with little exposure to the sun, but as a green-fodder plant it is unexcelled. As compared with clover it is sixteen per cent. richer in albuminoids, thirty-three per cent. richer in fat, and eight or nine per cent. poorer in carbo-hydrates, and has twenty per cent. more woody fibre, to which it owes its inferiority as a hay plant. It is an excellent food when cut green for all farm animals, for which use it is extensively cultivated in California, and might be made very valuable in the Southern States.

As it has been made a subject for much discussion recently in the leading agricultural journals, and has been frequently written of with more favor, we think, than it deserves, it is perhaps desirable to mention its disadvantages as compared with the only crop with which it comes into competition, as well as to notice all its valuable characteristics. This we do from personal experience with it, having grown it more than twenty years ago as a forage crop and abandoned its culture as less profitable and convenient than that of red clover for ordinary farm purposes. It has never been extensively grown where clover flourishes, and in such localities has been sown more as an experiment than for use, and when so sown has always fallen into neglect and disuse. It is of no use as a temporary crop grown in rotation, because of its cost and the slowness with which it comes to maturity. It requires a special culture, must be sown alone and upon rich soil in the cleanest condition, for it is quite unable to resist weeds, and when in its first weak, slow growth is quickly smothered and stunted, consequently it is necessary to manure the soil well and to sow the seed in drills twelve or sixteen inches apart and to cultivate crop frequently until it covers the ground. The seed is costly, twenty pounds per acre is required, and the price is twenty-five cents per pound. It can not be grazed as clover may be nor is it more prolific than clover.

These are its disadvantages, and it is easily perceived that as a competitor with clover it can not be profitably substituted for it in ordinary farm culture where clover does its best. And when clover is plowed under after it has served its purpose so well for two or three years it furnishes to the soil a much larger quantity of valuable plant food than is contributed by alfalfa.

Alfalfa flourishes most luxuriantly upon the rich river bottoms of the California valleys, known as tule lands, and upon the rich dry lands of Colorado and other localities of the far West, where the climate is dry and irrigation is practiced. There it is at its best, but the conditions under which it luxuriates being so different from those prevailing elsewhere show plainly that it is not a suitable plan for ordinary farming where clover is at its best. Nevertheless, there are some localities in the eastern part of the continent where it may be found very useful. In Florida and most of the Southern States, for instance, it will find a congenial home and may be used most advantageously for summer feeding as green fodder; but its exacting character in regard to culture should not be lost sight of, for it will refuse to grow under the same conditions in which clover would yield a fair crop and would utterly fail under the common system of culture which prevails in the South.

The manner of preparing the soil for alfalfa is much the same as that for any other spring crop. The land should be deeply plowed, and if not rich enough to bring seventy-five bushels of corn or three tons of timothy and clover per acre it must be made so by liberal manuring. The land must also be cleared of weeds by previous summer fallowing, and this clean culture is indispensable. The soil is brought to a fine tilth by repeated harrowing, and the seed is then drilled in rows twelve to sixteen inches apart some time in May. The ground is repeatedly cultivated during the summer, and if the growth is good a crop of fodder may be mowed in the fall, but it is best to leave it uncut as a protection to the young roots the first winter. Pasturing by pigs is destructive of the crop.—N. Y. Times.

—Take care how you let any machine oil or lubricator come in contact with a cut or scratch on your hand or arm, or serious blood poison may result. In the manufacture of some of these machine oils fat from diseased and decomposed animals is used. All physicians know how poisonous such matter is. The only safeguard is not to let any spot where the skin is broken be touched by any machine oil or lubricator.—The Farmer and Manufacturer.

HOW LOVELY WOMAN DRINKS.

While the Thirsty Horde of Men Look on with Envy.

THE hottest day this summer two young ladies approached the ice water tank in the waiting room of the Staten Island ferry. They wanted a drink of the water. Near by stood a man who also wanted a drink of the water. He'd been out with the boys the night before, and he wanted a drink of it pretty badly.

"You drink first, Flo," said one of them.

"Oh, no, you, Bess."

"Never! Go on, Flo."

"I won't do it. Drink yourself, Bess."

There were now two men waiting.

"I think you're mean—when you know I want you to!"

"I don't care—you've got to drink first, because I won't."

"Well, then, if I must I suppose I must."

There were now four thirsty men in line waiting anxiously.

"My, but it's cold."

"Is it?"

"Awful."

"Don't drink it too fast or it'll make you sick."

"No, 'twon't. I ate three dishes of ice cream with Charlie the other night as fast as I could swallow them, and it didn't make me sick."

There were eight men waiting to get a drink now.

"'Tis cold, isn't it, Bess?"

"Cold as ice."

"I s'pose there's ice in it."

"Of course."

"I'm going to drink real slow.

"That's right—the boat won't be here for a long time."

Sixteen men:

"It hurts my teeth."

"Does it?"

"Yes—makes 'em ache."

"It never does mine."

"It always does mine—real hard."

"That's funny."

"It does though. Don't you want some more?"

The census was taken at this point, and thirty-two men found gazing longingly at the ice water tank.

"Say, I guess I did want some more."

"'Course you did, drink a whole lot."

"Don't you want some more?"

"Yes, after you get through."

"I've got enough—couldn't drink another drop."

"Oh yes, you can."

"No, I can't."

Sixty-four men reported. Those who had first fallen into line were now speechless with thirst.

"I'll just kill myself drinking so much. I know I shall."

"Oh no, you won't."

"But the horrid stuff is so awfully cold."

"That don't make any difference."

The crowd of thirsty men was now too long to count, but a careful estimate placed the number at one hundred and twenty-eight.

"Let me have just a little more."

"Why, you'll kill yourself—I never saw anybody drink ice water so in my life."

"Oh, pshaw, I haven't drunk much. You'll want some more yourself before you go."

"Don't know but what I will—just push down on that thing again, won't you?"

"Oh, here's our boat—hurry up or we'll get left!" and then the dear creatures left the tin cup swinging at the end of the chain and rushed for the gate.

Then that crowd of men fought with one another, and surged around that water cooler, and those who were not too far gone with thirst made remarks short but deep; and perhaps a quarter of them managed to get a drink before the boat started.—New York Tribune.

A Christian Spirit.

Mr. Isaacstein—I sells you dot coat, my frent, for sayventeen tollar; you dake hum along?

Customer—I thought, Isaacstein, that you didn't do business on Saturday. Isn't this your Sunday?

Mr. Isaacstein (in a low, reverent tone of voice)—My frent, to sell a coat like dot for sayventeen tollar vas not peesness, dot vas charity.—Time.

No Excuse for Him.

Leader of Lynching Party—Now, young man, make a full confession or up you go.

Prisoner—I was fooling with a gun. I pointed it at my brother, and——

"You didn't know it was loaded?"

"No."

"Men, pull on the rope and let him swing."—Lincoln Journal.

Consolation.

Invalid—I have been here at these springs, doctor, six weeks, and I don't see that the water has had the slightest effect.

Dr. Candid—You must have patience. There was a man here last season who didn't die until after he had been here two months.—Texas Siftings.

His Chief Suffering.

Old Gentleman (to tramp)—I suppose, my friend, that in the nomadic life you lead there are a great many drawbacks?

Tramp (bitterly)—Yes, sir; there are some drawbacks, of course, but I suffer more from "move ons."—Time.

A Bright Prospect.

Weinstein—Sandmeyer, I vos in luck.

Sandmeyer—How vos dot, Ikey?

Weinstein—I haf bin occepted py Guggenheimer's widow! Mose Guggenheimer vos yust my size, and you know vot a wardrobe dot feller had, Yakey.—Time.

An Indian Sioux.

We understand the Sioux will require a floux more days' consideration of the treaty before they can make up their minds definitely as to what they will dioux. Whioux!—Rochester Post-Express.

A Score.

Hard Up Gent—Say, boss, can't yer give a feller a few cents to help him along?

Mr. Delawney—Why don't you do something faw yaw own living? You had bettah ask for bwains instead of money.

Hard Up Gent—Well, boss, I asked yer for what I thought yer had the most of.—Life.

SUMMER IN ALASKA.

Sights of Indescribable Beauty to Be Seen in Glacier Bay.

At 4:30, while the passengers were asleep, our ship "hove up" her anchor and started for Glacier Bay. Although the mist hovered along the mountains, yet we had most beautiful and superb scenery. On the right and on the left was mountain upon mountain, with lofty cataracts, now a torrent, now a silver thread streaming down into our marvelous river. At twelve m. we were at Chatham Straits, at three Icy Straits, at 6:30 we passed Willoughby Island, and reached the ice-field filled with bergs. While we were at dinner we came alongside a large iceberg of such beauty that the passengers rose from their seats and cheered with enthusiasm at the novelty of the scene. We had greatly feared the mist would obscure our view, but in due time the mist lifted and the great glacier stood out in majestic grandeur, a solid wall of ice two and a half miles long, and from two hundred to three hundred feet high, a frozen Niagara. At 7:50 we had anchored in front of the glacier, a half mile distant, in twelve fathoms of water and close to the shore. Most of the passengers landed, and many of us clambered up the icy peaks. The surface was broken by crevasses, fissures and deep wells. A great quantity of debris, broken rock, gravel, soil, etc., is scattered over it, and imperceptibly borne onward to the ocean. As we climbed from peak to peak in the vast field of ice the utmost caution was necessary to maintain our footing. Pieces of rock thrown down into the crevasses on either side could be heard as they struck the water far below. Amateur photographers were busy getting views, some of which were admirable. This glacier is called "The Muir," in honor of Prof. Muir, the first white man to explore it. Concerning it the professor says: "It is three miles wide at its mouth, ten miles back it is ten miles wide, and near this sixteen branches of the first class unite to form one immense glacier; four of the sixteen are over two miles wide; the distance from the face of the glacier to its furthest removed fountain is about forty miles."

As our vessel approached, an immense iceberg fell with the noise of thunder, and so agitated the waters that our ship danced upon the waves. When we had returned from the top we stood upon the shore watching the vast wall of ice. Now and then a roar as of often repeated artillery, or of pealing thunder would come to our ears. It was the sound of the cracking ice. Presently a gigantic block would lose its hold and drop with the roar of cannon. Then the excited water would heave and swell until, reaching the shore, it forced us to flee up the banks to escape the advancing waves. At length we had to return to the steamer. Here we lay anchored all night. While we had been wholly absorbed with this new delight, our ship's crew was laying in a stock of glacier ice for the round trip. So that we have been drinking ice water cooled with ice two thousand years old, more or less. At 11:45 on the deck of the ship we were able by twilight to read a type of good size. Sunday morning at 4:30 we turned away from the glacier and steamed down the bay.

Steering to the left into Chatham Straits, we arrived at 2:35 p. m. at Davidson Glacier, which sweeps down a gorge sloping to the bay. A fringe of firs hides its water-front. Its terraced walls look like the broken and repeated leaps of a river which has been suddenly arrested in its course and transformed into a solid mass. Northward, as we turn away from the Davidson, another glacier appears, and as we steam away southward two or three are seen upon our left, with lofty walls of blue ice hundreds of feet in height. One is surprised and delighted at the strange blue of the glacier ice. It looks as if it had been bathed in the deepest azure of the skies.—Cor. Baltimore Sun.

Poetry of Childhood.

Poetry comes quite naturally at the age of three. The Listener has heard of a little girl who has not yet reached her third year, who made a very pretty remark the other day. She was driving with her parents and an older child along the shore of a little pond where there were yellow cow-lilies growing in the water.

"Oh," exclaimed the older child, "what kind of flowers are those yellow ones?"

"Why," said the little one, "they're just buttercups tome down to det a dink of water."

—The mosquito. He is here, and there is a large quantity of him. He has blood in his eye, and he got it from your system. He sings with glee while the tormented profane with agony. He swarms like the bee, but he bears no honey on his wings. He is awake at night and wants everybody else to be awake, also. He is to be endured, because he can't be cured of his uncomfortable habits. He will not be troublesome at Christmas. Let us hope.—Hartford Post.

—Smythe is not an admirer of the sex, and, in fact, has the reputation of being a confirmed woman-hater. The other day he attended the funeral of a friend's wife, and followed the remains to the cemetery. "I give you my word," he protested soon after to one of his acquaintances, "that is the first time in my life I ever followed a woman that distance."

—A New Nationality.—Governess—"And what countryman is your papa?" Pupil—"Papa is a bilious subject."—Moonshine.

DUNDER IN TROUBLE.

An Incident Which Made the Old Gentleman Weary and Sick.

"Sergeant, maype you know somepody who likes to buy me oudt?" said Mr. Dunder as he entered the Central Station yesterday with a down-trodden appearance.

"Oh! it's you, is it?" queried Sergeant Bendall as he looked up. "Got into some fresh trouble, I suppose?"

"Sergeant, I vhas broke all oop. If I can sell oudt I doan shtay here two weeks."

"What's the occasion?"

"Vhell, it makes me feel better if I tell you. You know I keep a telephone in my blace; I keep him to shpeak mit my brewer und to some Aldermans. Yesterday a man who vhas as shlick ash grease comes in und says vhas I Carl Dunder? I vhas. All right. Mr. Dunder, der wires vhas crossed und your telephone doan' work. Sorry if you vhas troubled, but I feex him right off. Vhell, he goes mit dot phone und taps on der box, und takes down der trumpet und says:

"'Hello! Central! Hello! hello! hello! y-e-s! I vhas at Carl Dunder's. Can you hear me now? Why, of course if he likes to treat me dot vhas all right. Nice oldt mans, und doan' you forget him! Vhell—all right, goot-pye!'

"Now, Sergeant, I haf to ask him to take a glass of beer, doan' I? If I doan' I vhas no sheatleman, eh?"

"Go on."

"Vhell, aboudt two hours later a second man came in. He vhas shlick, too. Vhas I Carl Dunder? I vhas. All right. Mr. Dunder, dot induction vhas so strong we vhas in a peck of troubles. Let me see how your telephone vhas. Und he goes oop und knocks on dei box und softly says:

"Hello! Bill, vhas dot you? No. Yes. Perhaps. Vhy, I vhas down to Carl Dunder's place. I second der motion. I can get two hoonered votes for him for Alderman. Hasn't treated me yet, but he probably will. Vhell, so long.'

"Now, Sergeant, I haf to set oop der beer, doan' I? I feels tickled, you know, und I like to be a shentlemans."

"I understand. What else?"

"Vhell, some more fellers come, und I doan' suspect nopody until Shake comes home. Den he says it vhas an old shestnut, und dot I vhas soft in der headt. Dot makes me madt all oafer. Pooty queek somepody comes in. Vhas I Carl Dunder? I vhas. All right. Say, Mr. Dunder, vhen you ring on der telephone your number doan' drop in der office. Please allow me. Und he goes oop und rings und calls oudt:

"'Vhas dot you, Nellie. Ah! dere, Nell? Does dot number drop down when I ring? Say, vhas you going oop to der Flats next Soonday? Guess vhere I vas? Not much! You vhas vhay off. I vhas down to Carl——.'

"Vhell, Sergeant, dot vhas all I could shtand. I shump on dot feller und gif him six weeks sickness."

"Good! I honor your pluck!"

"Sergeant, keep quiet. He doan' go avhay oafer half an hour vhen my telephone rings. Vhas I Carl Dunder? I vhas. Dis vhas Supt. Shackson, of der telephone. Mr. Dunder, you haf almost killed one of our regular repairers, und I like to say to you dot it cost you more ash four hoonered dollars!"

"No!"

"Dot vhas so. I doan' shleep two winks last night, und my wife says it vhill all come oudt dot I vhas McGarigle."

"It was a bad mistake."

"Vhell, vhat can I do? Shust like I tells you, nopody vhas two times alike. I vhas all der time shaking mit my boots, und Shake vhas going into consumption. Sergeant, if somepody arrests me let him be very soft und quiet. I vhas so broke oop dot I can't stand some more grief. If you see Mister Shackson tell him how it vhas. Tell him dot I vhas all turned around in dis country, und cafery time I kick at some dead-beat he proves to be a shentlemans. Good-pye, Sergeant! Maype I take some Rough on some Rats und put an end to all dis grief."—Detroit Free Press.

Nautical Conversation.

"Have you seen my beautiful yacht?"

"Have I seen your beautiful whacht?"

"Beautiful yacht."

"Beautiful whacht?"

"Yacht! yacht! yacht!"

"Oh! No, I have nacht."

"If it's nacht too hacht let's tracht down to the spacht where I keep my yacht."

"I wacht that you have nacht gacht a yacht. Great Scacht! I know your placht. You ought to be shacht. I'll nacht stir one jacht. Your yacht is nothing but an old tuchb."—N. Y. Sun.

—The following indorsement was made by a colored preacher on the back of a marriage license returned to the office of the county register: "I,——, did united those parties that was licens, on 27 day of June, 1887, together in matrimony, in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Gost. 1887, at the house of——, in Wilmington, N. C., according to laws of New Hanover Co. Togather in the name of the Son and of the Holy Gost."—Wilmington (N. C.) Star.

—Great Traveler—"Yes, they have some curious customs in Cuba. For instance, Cuban girls won't let their lovers kiss them until after marriage." Omaha Girl—"Very short engagements, I suppose." "No; sometimes the engagements last several years." "And during all that time they won't be kissed?" "Not once." "I don't believe it."—Omaha World.

PISTOLS AND RIFLES.

Valuable Information About Weapons of Sport and Death.

"There have been pistols enough sold in the last ten years to arm the male population of the United States, and if every man and big boy in the country has not got one it must be because the cheap pistols don't last long enough to be handed down as heirlooms." So spoke the manager of a famous house in the fire-arms business on Maiden lane.

"Is the demand for pistols increasing in proportion to the increase of population?"

"I am glad to say that it is not, especially in the South, where it has heretofore been the rule for the male sex to go armed, and where the crack of the revolver has too often been the umpire in argument. The authorities in several Southern States have apparently seen the necessity of placing some restraint on the carrying of deadly weapons, and the preponderance of public sentiment is everywhere against the indiscriminate practice. Texas has enacted a law imposing six months' imprisonment and a fine of $250 for carrying a pistol. In Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Arkansas the sale of pistol cartridges is prohibited. The Northwestern State of Illinois has a very good law, requiring dealers in pistols to keep a record of every sale, and to whom sold, as apothecaries must do when selling poisons. This law, of course, facilitates the procuring of evidence in cases of murder by the use of a pistol."

"Do you approve of cheap pistols?"

"I do not. The purchaser of a pistol desiring a good, durable and trustworthy weapon should not pay less than ten dollars, and from that to fifteen dollars. The vast majority of pistols are however, of the seventy-five cent and one dollar quality. There is probably no danger of explosion in using such weapons. They are not likely to burst as the strain is on the shell and at the breach, and there is ample strength as a general thing to prevent bursting. But such pistols soon wear out. Like the razors Hodge bought at a shilling a dozen, they are manufactured to sell.

"Do many women buy pistols?"

"Some respectable women, living isolated or under circumstances which justify the apprehension that there may be need for a deadly weapon for use in defending themselves or their property, procure pistols. But in such cases they are very apt to lock the weapon up in a drawer, and not be able to get at it when they may happen to need it. As a rule, when a woman buys a pistol she probably has some very serious idea in her head. Under ordinary circumstances the sex has no inclination for such weapons.

"The trade in sporting weapons," added the manager, "is increasing. A good many more shotguns are sold than rifles; and notwithstanding the thirty-five per cent. duty, English shotguns continue in favor, because they are made by hand and have undergone a thorough Government inspection, while the American weapon is made by machinery and is subjected to no Government test whatever. A good English shotgun can be procured at from $25 to $50, a first-class weapon for from $75 to $100, but some English shotguns are sold as low as $10 or $15. Even these are safe, as far as bursting is concerned, owing to the rigid Government inspection. All shotguns imported are not hand-made, as there are two manufacturers in Belgium who use machinery. American shotguns retail for from $10 to $75 and $100 for the better grades, the English hand-made goods being able to undersell the American.

"In rifles, however, the Americans hold the market. Their machine-manufactured rifles can not be equaled by the handiwork of Englishmen, and American rifles are sold all over the world. The demand for sporting rifles has, however, been unfavorably affected by the indiscriminate slaughter of large game in the far West. The class of arms sold to buffalo hunters has almost gone out of the market, owing to the rapid extinction of the buffalo."

"These dealers in arms are in favor of the protection of game?"

"Emphatically so, and every true sportsman is. The extinction of game would mean the cessation of a demand for sporting arms."

"Is game decreasing in the Eastern and Middle States?"

"I should say not, judging from the demand for shotguns and sporting rifles. The game laws are being made more and more stringent, and public sentiment sustains their enforcement. The small game of the Atlantic States is rather on the increase."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

—An Albany newspaper says that there are families in that town who have got the art of keeping up appearances reduced to a science. When they want to make their neighbors think that they have gone into the country they are not content with the old plan of shutting the front blinds and living in the back of the house. They leave their newspapers on the front piazza, apparently neglected; but they take them in at night and read them, at the same time supplying the piazza with old papers for the next day's masquerade.

—Some queer things are seen in the veterinary hospital of Philadelphia. Among others are a pig's easy chair, a padded cell for a lunatic horse, a Turkish bath, a swinging harness in which a horse may live or die without bearing any weight on his legs.

SUB ROSA.

A rose tree blooms by the garden wall
Showering its petals over all;
While underneath on the rustic seat
Each day the dearest girl I meet;
And who she is nobody knows,
For our secret is safe, under the rose!

Under the rose! No prying eyes,
No beam from the street views our paradise;
No caller to interrupt our bliss,
Or happen in as I steal a kiss;
No one but the climbing roses red,
Nodding approval overhead.

But when autumn comes and bleak winds blow,
What we shall do I wish to know!
Within the house we're never alone;
There's her maiden aunt to chaperone
Our tete-a-tetes, and her brother Jim
(How I'd like to cudgel him!)

—Then four younger kids and her sister Min,
Looking in with a knowing grin;
—O bother them all, 'twill never do!
A snug little house for just us two
Will suit me best mid the winter snows
And I'll ask her to-day under the rose!

Alma Pendexter Hayden, in Boston Globe.

OLD AMERICAN VESSELS.

The Eventful History of the Barks Rosseau and True Love.

The oldest vessels in the world to-day are the barks Rosseau and the True Love. Both vessels were built in Philadelphia and have outlived both their owners and their builders. The Rosseau was one of Stephen Girard's fleet, and when she was launched as a full-rigged ship she was the pride of the old merchant. Many years ago Nicholas Vandusen was a prominent ship-builder of this city and had his ship-yard at what is now Shackamaxon street wharf. In 1800 he made a contract with Stephen Girard to build a full-rigged ship, and the Rosseau was constructed and launched the following year.

The Rosseau was considered a very fair-sized vessel in 1801. She was 95 feet long and 28 feet breadth of beam, and registered 305 tons. After doing service for Girard for several years, her rigging was changed and she was known as one of the fastest barks sailing from this port. She made several trips to the whaling grounds of the North Atlantic Ocean, and was one of the most successful whalers in the fleet. Of late years she has been used for miscellaneous hauling, and she is now discharging a cargo at New Bedford, Mass. But few repairs have been made on her, and to-day she is almost as good as when she was launched, eighty-seven years ago.

The bark True Love was built in Philadelphia in 1764, and to-day is the oldest vessel in the commercial world. But little is known of her early career, but her papers prove her age beyond question. All her iron work is hand-forged, and the moldings and interior decorations of the cabin are of a style that plainly shows no machinery was used in their construction. For many years she was engaged in the coasting trade and plied between the West Indies and this city. Some years ago she became a coal carrier and sailed from the Greenwich piers to Eastern ports. She received many hard knocks, but she was staunch and was built to buffet heavy seas by men who understood their business, and she always came out of a storm safely. For the past few few years the True Love has been trading along the coast of England, and she is looked upon as a curiosity in every port she stops.—Philadelphia Record.

DIAMOND CUTTING.

The Various Intricate Processes the Rough Stone Passes Through.

The majority of people who take any interest in diamonds imagine that the cutting of the stone is the most difficult part, but that is a mistake. When it comes to the polishing the most skillful work has to be done. The first process the rough stone passes through is the "cleaving"—which is what most people call cutting. A chisel is used to cleave off the rough parts, and the cleavage is made into diamond dust. Then comes the tedious part. Two diamonds are employed, each cemented into the end of a stick. The stones are then rubbed together with strong pressure.

This requires considerable experience. As it can only be done by hand, it also requires considerable muscle. After this process, the skill of the expert is tried. The gem is placed in a solder setting and is then fastened to a piece of wood about two feet long. A steel wheel eighteen inches in diameter, making twenty-five hundred revolutions a minute, is used as the polisher. The stone in the wood is so arranged as to be balanced on and against the wheel, producing only a slight friction. Diamond dust is used on the wheel. An expert can tell in a minute as soon as the polishing of a facet is completed. Sometimes there are knots in the gems, and their hardness can not be imagined. The forms usually adopted in cutting the diamond are the brilliant, the rose and the table. The first shows the gem to the best advantage. It is composed of a principal face, called the table, surmounted by a number of facets which are cut upon that part of the stone which shows above the setting, and which is called the bezel. The rose, which is very brilliant, is flat below and cut into facets entirely over the upper surface.—Golden Days.

Why He Stole Again.

"You were up before me about two weeks ago.

"Yes, sah."

"For stealing?"

"Yes, sah."

"And you were fined."

"Dat's so."

"And here you are up again for stealing. What made you repeat your crime?"

"Huh! how does yer 'spect me ter git back de money I paid fur de fine ef I doan steal some moah."—Texas Siftings.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY, NOTEMBER 3 ..... 1883

There is a vast commotion in New York over the registration of voters. The law provides that all public offices shall close on Saturday at 12 o'clock noon. Last Saturday about thirty-three thousand persons were enrolled after twelve o'clock. Leading lawyers have declared that the registration office is a public office within the meaning of the law, and should have been closed at 12 o'clock. It is held that the whole list will have to be thrown out.

The English Minister admits having written that unfortunate letter; therefore it would be utterly useless to say that it is a forgery. It appears to be even more mischievous than was at first apprehended. The Minister is very severely blamed in the United States and in England for his indiscretion in writing such a letter on the eve of an election. Very many voters will be influenced by the consideration that England has a deep interest in the election of a particular candidate.

Exports of Fresh Meat.

Since fresh meat is now transported by thousands of tons from North and South America and Australia to England and France, it is interesting to examine the ingenious processes adopted on the ocean steamers engaged in this business to keep the meat at a low temperature during the voyage. The means by which this low temperature is maintained now consists, according to a French authority, of machines for blowing cold air into the meat storerooms in the hold of the vessel, the air being cooled simply by expansion. As every one knows, the old fashioned freezing machines employed the expansion of condensed ammonia gas as a refrigerating agent, conveying the cold current to the place where it was to be used by means of glycerine, or some other liquid not subject to freezing at ordinary temperatures. By the new method, the air is cooled by its own expansion, and then forced directly into the rooms. The air is first drawn into a condensing cylinder, where it is compressed under a pressure of about fifty pounds to the square inch. This greatly reduces its volume and raises its temperature to nearly 300 degs. F.

The next step to carry off the surplus heat, which is done by means of a current of sea water, circulating around the condenser, or rather around a series of tubes, into which the air passes from the condenser. To cool it still more, and cause the deposits of the watery vapor contained in it, the air next passes into another series of tubes, which are exposed to the current of cold air returning from the meat storeroom, and is then drawn into the expansion cylinder. On being allowed to expand here, the temperature of the air falls immediately to about 70 degs. below zero, F., and the last traces of moisture are deposited as snow. Wooden tubes then convey the chilled air to the storerooms, which it reaches at a temperature of about zero, F., and after circulating about the rooms is drawn back by an aspirating shaft to the refrigerating machine.

The thermometer in the storerooms never rises to the freezing point of water, so the meat is kept continually frozen from the day of its shipment, perhaps at Melbourne or the La Plata river, until its arrival in the London docks, where it is found to be indistinguishable from the best fresh beef and mutton. The storerooms are protected against the entrance of heat by conduction from the outside by means of double walls and floors, packed with powdered charcoal.—Boston Budget.

The Vast Number of "Smiths."

Taking into consideration the vast number of Smiths extant in the world, there can be no doubt that the name but seldom implies relationship. Of straight "Smiths" alone, there are 1,503 mentioned in the Directory of 1883; these are all adults, and it is reasonably certain that there is fully an equivalent number of children and youths of the same name, not mentioned. This would make a total of 3,016 "Smiths." Then this is still augmented by the variations of the name—Schmidt, Smyth, Schmit, etc., until it is probable that there are 6,000 of that ubiquitous family in St. Louis alone. The population of St. Louis being 400,000, it is evident that about one sixty-sixth of St. Louisans are Smiths.

The peculiar part lies in the fact that it is but extremely seldom, if ever, that a man and woman bearing that universal name are married. I have noticed this for years, and watched carefully, but I cannot remember ever having seen the names coupled together in the item of marriage licenses in the newspapers, nor have I ever heard of a couple, both of whom bore that name, being united in wedlock. They certainly marry somebody, for the rarest old maid and old bachelor is one bearing the widespread name. It will ever be a mystery why Smiths do not intermarry. At the present rate it is but a question of time when the name will have conquered the world, and everybody will be named "Smith."—Globe-Democrat.

Difference Between Wool and Hair.

The difference between wool and hair is not so great as might be supposed, since very fine hair bears a strong resemblance to very coarse wool, but when the microscope is brought into operation a marked differentiation may be observed. The surface of the hair will appear to be perfectly smooth, as though it were polished, while the surface of a fiber of wool is imbricated, as though the trunk were covered with infinitely small scales. A hair is therefore seen to be an entirely different thing from a fiber of wool, and a further variation is noticed in the fact that hair never curls in the way wool does, for hair—when it is curly at all—curls in long wavy lines, and wool in short, half circles, which almost return into themselves. The texture of wool is also varied by fine lines, from 2,000 to 4,000 in the inch, so by means of the microscope, wool may be easily known from cotton or any other animal or vegetable fiber. Every kind of hair has its own fiber, but fine human hair most nearly resembles the wool of the sheep, having the same imbricated appearance as that of wool. Rabbit fur is most widely different from wool, and a deer hair is almost equally so, microscopic examination showing it to be composed throughout of small cells, extremely peculiar both in form and arrangement.—Globe-Democrat.

HOW A SWORD IS MADE.

FROM THE CRUDE IRON TO THE HIGH TEMPERED BLADE.

Testing the Finished Weapon on a Stone. Process of Preparing the Steel—The "Grind Mill"—Great Skill of the Grinder—Completion.

"Here you are," he said. "See if you can knock a piece out of the sword on that stone."

I took the handle in both hands and struck the stone with all my might. But to my astonishment a piece flew off the stone, while the sword did not show even the least evidence of the blow.

"Every one of these weapons has to stand that test," I was informed, "or we do not put the mark of our firm on it, nor do we deliver it as a first class weapon."

I went all through the factory, which employs over 1,000 men exclusively in the manufacture of fine weapons. They are now filling an order for the German government for a new bayonet. Eight hundred thousand are to be made, and the firm delivers 1,500 a day. The weapon is twelve inches long, and the government pays six marks for each of them when finished.

Before a piece of steel is converted into such an instrument of war it has to go through quite a process. To show me this Mr. Koch took me into a large space at one end of the factory, where I at once noticed pieces of steel varying in length from ten to twenty feet, standing all around the walls. In the center of the room stood a large machine, where one man and a boy were occupied.

THE RAW MATERIAL.

"This is where the steel is cut before it has received a stroke yet toward the shape of a sword, so we might call this the storeroom for raw material." Thus my kind informant began his explanation. The long pieces of steel, which were about 2½ inches wide, were then put under the machine and by the turning of a crank pieces of about twelve inches fell one after the other into a basket. The boy then handed the man another piece of steel, put an empty basket under the machine and carried the short pieces into an adjoining apartment. We followed, and from the number of fires all around I guessed that we must have arrived at the forges. And so it was. Each one of these pieces of steel was put into the fire, and when it was white with heat, a man put it under a steam hammer, which struck the heated steel in rapid succession about twenty times on every particle of its surface. When it was pulled out, the pieces was about eighteen inches long. It was now thrown into a large barrel filled with water. Now the would be sword had gone through the hardening process, and a number of boys gathered them again into baskets to carry them to the rolling department. In the front of each of these rolls I had my attention called to a big coke fire. This fire was stirred up to an enormous heat, and then the pieces of steel were one by one put into the fire. There are two men occupied at each roll, viz.—the roller and his helper. As soon as the steel is hot again it comes under the roll, from where it emerges about one-eighth of an inch thick, and the eventual shape of the sword stamped on it.

Again the pieces of steel are carried off, and this time they go to the center presses, where they are put under a contrivance which cuts the margins off the steel, and when they leave here you can see that the thing looks like a sword. Hitherto, however, you have seen nothing but a dark blue piece of dirty steel, while we now come into the departments where the metal is brightened. There is at first the "grind mill." This is a large place which looks like a barn. From one end of the room to the other I observed rows of immense grindstones, some of them eight feet in diameter.

THE GRINDER'S SKILL.

In this factory I saw forty stones, and in front of each sat a grinder. He has a little wooden seat, wears a woolen shirt, no cap and a pair of overalls. But over the latter up to his knees he has wooden gaiters, made out of four pieces of wood. His feet are also inclosed in wooden shoes. The stones are turned by steam and watered automatically. In the front of this stone the man sits from 6 o'clock in the morning until 12 o'clock at noon. Then he has an hour for dinner, when he sits down again from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the evening. He has a boy who brings him the instruments as he wants them. The grinding department is the most important in the entire factory, and the grinder has to be very skillful. He has to have a keen eye; he must know when to press the steel hard against the stone and when not. A single scraping of the stone too much spoils the whole weapon, and it has to be thrown away. Most of the other work is mechanical, while here it is intelligence that does the work satisfactorily.

From the grinding stone the piece of steel comes bright and sharp. It is now taken to the burnishing rooms. This part of the work is chiefly performed by boys, who vary in age from 12 to 16 years. In this place there are a number of wheels, but they are very small. Some of them are of stone, others are covered with leather, which, if the article has to receive a polish, is covered with a powder which lends the blade a high polish. The knob and the back of the handle are now brilliantly burnished, and the weapon is already very dangerous. But still it is unfinished. The different holes which are made in the handle, the one which fastens the blade on the gun and several others are now bored. This is done, however, by machinery, and takes but a very short time. Then the handle is covered with leather, and now that the blade itself is thoroughly completed, it is taken to the controlling room.

In this department we find, as a rule, a number of old men who have been at work for the firm for long years. They are not able to do actual hard work, but still in this department their services are indispensable. Their duty is, in fact, to examine the article and see whether there is a blemish anywhere. As soon as he detects a flaw he knows where it was done, whether in the burnishing, the grinding, the rolling, or any other department, and the man who is found to have made the mistake has to make it good, or, in other words, he has to pay for the damage.—Solingen (Germany) Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Bigness of Texas.

Texas can produce within its own borders food amply sufficient for the support of 250,000,000 people. It has a climate adapted not only to the productions of the temperate zone, but to those of semi-tropical character as well. It has timber as well as coal, silver, copper and other minerals in almost exhaustless abundance.—Houston Post.

Too Much Worry and Fret.

Is it economy to take so much thought for the morrow as to have none left for today? To plan and worry and fret about something that may not happen to-morrow or next week or next month, and in such worry and fret lose all the possible enjoyment of today, and worse, fix on ourselves more and more the habit of worry and fret—put worry and fret in lines on our faces—put it in prematurely whitened hairs on our heads—put worry and fret in our digestion to work itself out in dyspepsia?—Prentice Mulford in New York Star.

Election Proclamation.

Pursuant to law and a Proclamation of the Governor of the State of California, made and done at Sacramento on the 29th day of September, A. D. 1888

Notice Is Hereby Given

By the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, that a General Election will be held throughout the said County of Inyo, on

Tuesday, November 6th, 888.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the morning and will be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m. on the said 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, during which time the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

Eight Electors of President and Vice President of the United States.

One Representative to the Congress of the United States from the Sixth Congressional District composed of the counties of San Benito, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and San Diego.

One member of the Assembly from the counties of Alpine, Mono and Inyo.

Also one Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice Niles Searles appointed.

One Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the unexpired term ending January 1, 1891, vice E. W. McKinstry resigned.

And the Governor of the State of California hereby offers a reward of

One Hundred Dollars

for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

And the following officers of Inyo county are to be elected at the same time, viz.:

One Sheriff;
One County Clerk;
One District Attorney;
One County Treasurer;
One Coroner;
One County Surveyor;
One Supervisor for District No. 2;
One Supervisor for District No. 4;
One Supervisor for District No. 5;
Two Justices of the Peace for each Township in Inyo county.
Two Constables for each Township in Inyo county.
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 1;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 2;
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 3
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 4
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 5
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 6
One Road Overseer for Road District No. 7

Said election to be held at the places, and the election to be conducted by the election officers hereby appointed, and hereinafter named, as follows, to wit:

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 1

Polls to be held at the store of F. P. Blair, at Round Valley. Inspector, F. P. Blair; Judges, James Nevins and Richard Hilton.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 2

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Aveno. Inspector, A. Matlick; Judges, Moses Brockman and William McLaren.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 3

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop. Inspector, G. A. Theler; Judges, James Pereyrine and Joseph McNally.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 4

Polls to be held at the residence of Nathan Gilbert. Inspector, W. A. Greenly; Judges, J. Roberts and Nathan Gilbert.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 5

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Bishop Creek. Inspector, L. P. Springstead; Judges, H. Yancy and W. W. Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 6

Polls to be held at the residence of George Gore, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. Inspector, A. O. Collins; Judges, George Storm and R. Merryman.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 7

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Big Pine. Inspector, S. J. McMurry; Judges, J. Newman and J. M. Hay.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 8

Polls to be held at the residence of the Cow Creek Ranchers. Inspector, James Lane; Judges, N. E. Cosklin and O. H. P. Love.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 9

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Independence. Inspector, W. J. Lake; Judges, J. Zeigler and I. D. Blair.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 10

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at George Creek. Inspector, W. L. Hunter; Judges, Job Kisperz and John Meyer.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 12

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas McDonough, in Aravaipa Canyon. Inspector, Thomas McDonough; Judges, George St. Clair and Frank Miranda.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 13

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse in Lone Pine. Inspector, John Lucas; Judges, J. Stewart and R. C. Spear.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 14

Polls to be held at the store of Thomas Boland at Cerro Gordo. Inspector, John Thomas; Judges, William Crapo and George Weist.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 15

Polls to be held in a building adjoining the store of Thomas Boland in Keeler. Inspector, John Barnes; Judges, E. F. Hall and John Yandell.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 16

Polls to be held at the house of Willis Walker, at Olancha. Inspector, A. Walker; Judges, H. Belows and William Walker.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 17

Polls to be held at the schoolhouse at Darwin. Inspector, Charles Anthony; Judges, Martin Mee and N. S. Thompson.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 18

Polls to be held at the store of Frank Fitzgerald, at Lookout. Inspector, J. D. Channer; Judges, Frank Fitzgerald and W. C. Smith.

ELECTION PRECINCT NO. 21

Polls to be held at the office of the Inyo Consolidated Mining Company, at Panamint. Inspector, H. G. Chickering; Judges, John Cowan and E. Rowell.

Dated this 2d day of October, A. D. 1888.

J. D. HARGER, Chairman.

Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

CROCKER'S HOTEL
BIG PINE - - CAL

New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates

☞ Splendid hunting and fishing near by, in fact, it is a veritable paradise for tourists and pleasure seekers.

Special attention given to the wants of every guest.

CROCKER BROS., Props.

sept1-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

IRWIN'S SALOON

Cor. Edwards and Market Streets,
Independence . Cal.

THE PUBLIC GENERALLY ARE RESPECTFULLY invited to call and inspect my establishment, which has been entirely rebuilt and furnished in a style second to none on this side of the mountains. A SPLENDID NEW BILLIARD TABLE provided for the amusement of patrons.

THE BAR

Is supplied with the most celebrated brands of pure Wines and Liquors and the Finest Havana Cigars.

JOHN C. IRWIN, Proprietor.
feb12-1

INYO MEAT MARKET,

MAIRS & ENOS.

Keep constantly on hand the very choicest of all kinds of meats, including

Beef,
Mutton,
Pork,
Lard,
Sausage.

I make a specialty of furnishing meats by the quantity for the mines and outside camps.

Highest market price paid for beef cattle.

All meats will be sold at the lowest possible living rates.

dec18-tf

DESERT LAND FINAL PROOF.

D. S. No. 212.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., October 15, 1888.

Notice is hereby given that James Edward Shepherd of Independence, Inyo county, California, has filed notice of his intention to make final proof on his desert land claim No. 242, for the SW¼, S½ of NW¼, NW¼ of NW¼, of Sec. 2, NE¼ of Sec. 3, Tp. 14 S., R. 35 E., M. D. M., before the Register and Receiver at Independence, on Tuesday, the 27th day of November, 1888.

He names the following witnesses to prove the complete irrigation and reclamation of said land, viz.: Fred Herbert, Hiram C. Hamilton, Henry Betels and Harry L. Clark, all of Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD, Register.

o-m14

LANDS—MINES

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES, $1.00
REPORT ON MINERAL CONTESTS, &c., $3.00
Procuring Land Patents, Filing Arguments, and Conducting Contests, on Moderate Terms. Send for circular to HENRY N. COPP, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WASHINGTON, D. C.
☞ Settler should have Copp's Settler's Guide.

FREE

$85 solid GOLD WATCH Sold for $3.00 until lately. Best $85 watch in the world. Let this keeper. Warranted. Heavy Solid Gold Hunting Case. Elegant and magnificent. Both ladies' and gents' size with works and cases of equal value ONE PERSON in each locality can secure one FREE. How is this possible? We answer—we want one person in each locality to keep in their homes as a sample one of our valuable and very useful GOLD-EDGED SAMPLES. These samples, as well as the watch, we send free, and after you have kept them in your home for 3 months and shown them to those who may have called, they become your own property, it is possible to make this great offer, sending the SOLID GOLD watch and COSTLY samples free, as the showing of the samples to any locality, always results in a large trade for us after our samples have been in a locality for a month or two we usually get from $5,000 to $8,000 in trade from the surrounding country. This, the most wonderful offer ever known, is made in order that our samples may be placed at once where they can be seen, all over America. Write at once, and make sure of the chance. Reader it will be hardly any trouble for you to show the samples to those who may call at your home and your reward will be most satisfactory. A postal card on which to write us costs but 1 cent and after you know all, if you do not care to go further, who can blame you? But if you do send your address at once, you can secure FREE one of the best solid gold watches in the world and our large line of COSTLY SAMPLES. We pay all express, freight, etc. Address GEO. STINSON & CO., BOX 342, PORTLAND, MAINE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Inyo, State of California, at the office of the County Clerk, until Thursday, November 8th, 1888, at 12 o'clock M. for the purpose of letting the entire work of County Printing for the year beginning January 1, 1889, and ending December 31, 1889, as follows:

1st: Printing and publishing delinquent tax list.
2d: Reports of Auditor and Treasurer.
3d: Notices and contracts to be let by Inyo county.
4th: Notices of special meetings of the Board of Supervisors.
5th: Proceeding of Board of Supervisors.
6th: Notices of meetings of the Board of Education and all other legal notices required to be published by county officers.

Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for county Printing," and must be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $500. Said bids will be opened between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, November 8, 1888.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

E. ROBINSON, Chairman pro tem.

Attest: P. H. MACK, Clerk.

NORMAN HOUSE,

Independence, - - Cal.

New House,
New Furniture,
Low Rates.

☞ Special attention will be given to secure the comfort of guests.

O. L. MAIRS, Prop.
feb12tf

MISCELLANEOUS

J. FORBES. W. D. TOBEY.

FORBES & TOBEY,

HAWTHORNE, NEV.,

—DEALERS IN—

LUMBER

OF ALL KINDS.

DOORS,
SHINGLES,
SASH AND BLINDS,
LATH,
RUSTIC
MOULDINGS,
DRESSED LUMBER.

Matched and Dressed Flooring.

nov 11-tf

Working Classes ATTENTION!

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with employment at home, the whole of the time or for their spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $5.00 per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting all their time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this may send their address and test the business, we will send one dollar to pay for the trouble of writing, full particulars and outfit free. Address GEORGE STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Independence Hotel.

Independence, Cal

B. LEVY, Proprietor.

FIRST CLASS HOTEL

DINING ROOM,
APARTMENTS,
—AND—
—THE BAR—

Will be found acceptable to all patrons.

Free Bus To and From The Cars.

feb1-86

JUSTICE OF PEACE,
C. MULHOLLAND.

Office in the "Independent" Building, Independence, Inyo county, Cal.

WM. J. WOODIN, M. D.,
Physician & Surgeon,
(COUNTY PHYSICIAN)
Louise L. Woodin, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.
NIGHT CALLS ATTENDED.
Office and residence at the Reddy place, Independence.

P. H. MACK,
COUNTY CLERK,
—AND—
Ex-officio Auditor and Recorder,
INYO CO., CAL.

PALACE SALOON,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
J. J. GUSS, Proprietor.
WINES, LIQUORS, CIGARS
A fine new billiard table; nicely fitted up club room to the use of patrons, in every respect a
FIRST-CLASS RESORT.

Deep SEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done quietly living at home should at once send their address to Hallet and Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free, full information how either sex of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All succeed.

$50 Buys a lot of Xmas goods or one hundred dollars' worth of anything sold by a city jobber. Teachers, students, or any one who will tell you of a chance to dig, will find the best possible investment for your time. Send 10 cents for our 17 page pamphlet. Address E. G. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce Street, New York.

Invention has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Persons of either sex; any one can do the work; no especial ability required. Capital not needed; we are started free. Put this out and return to us, and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Railroad Time Table.

CARSON & COLORADO R R

TAKING EFFECT

Tuesday, April 10th, 1888.

| STATIONS. | From Mound House. No. 1. | To Mound House. No. 2. |
|---|---|---|
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Mound House | 9 15 a. m | 5 35 p. m |
| Layton | 10 45 a. m. | 4 35 p. m. |
| Wabuska | 12 45 a. m | 2 25 p. m. |
| Hawthorne | 4 50 p. m. | 10 40 a. m. |
| Gardnerville | 5 50 p. m. | 9 20 a. m. |
| Genoa Springs | 7 0 p. m. | 8 10 a. m |
| Belleville | 8 10 p. m. | 7 0 a. m. |
| Candelaria | Ar. 8 50 p. m | Lv. 6 30 a. m |
| | No. 3. | No. 4. |
| | Leave— | Arrives— |
| Belleville | 7 30 a. m. | 5 25 p. m |
| Benton | 11 00 a. m | 1 45 p. m |
| Bishop Creek | 1 10 p. m. | 11 30 a. m. |
| Averill | 2 00 p. m | 10 35 a. m. |
| Independence | 3 30 p. m. | 9 05 a. m. |
| Lone Pine | 4 15 p. m | 8 5 a. m. |
| Keeler | Ar 5 05 p. m. | Lv 7 30 a. m. |

Trains 1 and 2 run daily.
Train 3 runs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.
Train 4 runs Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Passenger trains make close connection at Mound House with express trains on V. & T. R., which connect at Reno with east and west-bound trains of Central Pacific Railroad.

Stage Connections:

AT HAWTHORNE with United States Stage Company's coaches for Aurora (26 miles); Bodie (37 miles); Lundy and Bridgeport.

AT LANDING (12½ miles from Mound House) with Gilmer, Salisbury & Co's tri-weekly stages (Sundays, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays) for Dayton, Virginia City, Gold Hill and Belmont.

AT CANDELARIA with U. S. Stage Co's stages for Columbus (8 miles), Silver Peak, Montezuma, Alida Valley, Gold Mountain, etc.

H. M. YERINGTON,
General Superintendent.

R. J. LAWS, Assistant Superintendent.

D. A. BENDER,
General Freight and Passenger Agent.

BISHOP CREEK
BREWERY,

MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.,
Proprietors.

All the appliances and conveniences of First Class Brewery, including an ocean tank cove for outdoor parties.

☞ Customers supplied on all points ☜
☞ On the C. & C. Railroad. ☜

Send orders to
MUNZINGER, PHILIPPAY & CO.
Bishop Creek, Cal.

HOUSE PAINTING,
SIGN WRITING,
PAPER HANGING,
GRAINING,
GILDING ON
WOOD AND GLASS

Wagons Painted.

The best of materials used and satisfaction guaranteed by

JACOB KELLER,
Independence.

Former Superintendent of the Painting Department of the Pullman Palace Car works at Chicago.

BLACKSMITHING,
Horseshoeing, General Iron
—AND—
WAGON WORK.

PIONEER BLACKSMITH SHOP
C. Main St. & Depot Ave.,
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.
W. F. MATLACK ..... PROPRIETOR.

Horseshoeing ..... $2 50 for Cash.
For particulars, call and see
W. F. MATLACK

A. R. CONKLIN,
Attorney-at-Law.
Independence, Cal.

Will practice in all the Courts of the States of California and Nevada.

S. P. M'KNIGHT, C. E.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
—AND—
U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor
For California and Nevada.
—BISHOP CREEK, INYO CO., CAL.—

The obtaining of United States mineral patents a specialty.

All kinds of surveying given the most careful and accurate attention.

Boot & Shoe Shop,
A. J. DAVIS, Prop'r.
Main Street, Independence.

Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes Made to Order.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

Repairs promptly made at Reasonable Rates.

Fine Dress Boots for Gents' wear. Ladies' Slippers and Shoes in fashionable styles.

SEND IN YOUR ORDERS.

NATHAN RHINE.

NATHAN RHINE,
(Successor to Harris & Rhine,)
Merchant,
INDEPENDENCE
INYO CO., CAL.,
Wholesale and Retail
....DEALER IN....
General Merchandise.

MY STOCK

Consisting of most every new article, is well calculated to satisfy the wants of everybody; and, as in the past, it will be our aim in the future to retain the extensive patronage enjoyed heretofore.

NATHAN RHINE.
n2582

BANKING AND EXCHANGE.

NATHAN RHINE
BANKER,
Independence, Cal
SELL EXCHANGE
—ON—
SAN FRANCISCO
—
DRAW DIRECT
—ON—
NEW YORK,
LONDON, England
BERLIN, FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany.
—
I AM PREPARED TO TRANSACT
GENERAL BANKING
—AND—
Exchange Business.
——
Wechsel in beliebigen Summen auf Berlin und Frankfurt am Main.
Deutsche Vollmachten geleistet. Geldsendungen von und nach Deutschland besorgt.

AGENT FOR
Wells Fargo & Co's Express
MUTUAL
Life Insurance Co.
OF NEW YORK.
Capital - - - $55,000,000
LIVERPOOL
And LONDON and GLOBE
Insurance Company
Capital - - 21,000,000
NATHAN RHINE

PIONEER BREWERY.
INDEPENDENCE
PHILIP GENRIG, PROPRIETOR

A stream of pure water from the everlasting snows of the Sierra Nevadas flows through the brewery.

All appliances and conveniences are first-class.

Orders filled for all points on the C. & C. road.
Bottled beer, $2.25 per dozen.
Beer in kegs, 60 cents a gallon.

INDEPENDENCE
SHAVING SALOON.

Shaving, Hair-Cutting, etc., done in the best manner.

WM. H. HUFF, Prop'r.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY. NOVEMBER 3 .. .....1888

Keynot make music in Lone Pine.

That little poker never fails to burn somebody's fingers.

Mr. and Mrs. O. I. Mairs returned home last Monday from a trip to San Francisco.

A certain portion of town assumed a decided carmine appearance on Thursday night.

Seed rye is selling at Independence for two and one half dollars per one hundred pounds.

Mr. S. H. Bigland, representative of the San Francisco Bulletin, was at Independence this week.

Ben. Lisky was up from Lone Pine last Thursday after a lot of mares that he had at the Enos ranch.

Electric light masts have been erected at Virginia City and the streets will be lighted up by electricity at night.

Liquor dealers should give careful attention to the warning of the District Attorney, published in another column.

Jack Carey, a well known old timer of the Comstock, died at Virginia City last week. He was a Mexican war veteran.

Juries have been summoned to try the cases of S. A. Middleton and R. E. Barnes, both charged with assault with deadly weapons.

J. J. Gann went to Darwin last Wednesday to help take care of Martin Mee. He will stay with his friend till recovery is assured or the end comes.

C. C. Eisele was installed at the beginning of the week as clerk at the Independence Hotel. Eisele is a model clerk for politeness and attention to guests.

Late as it is in the season Mr. C. A. Walter, of Camp Independence, is yet able to treat a friend to a lovely bouquet of flowers and some ripe strawberries.

William Donahue, of Candelaria, is reported to be of unsound mind. It is said that he has never been right since his brother Tom was killed by Doc. Callison.

Frank Pixley has once for all severed his connection with the American party. Frank never could continue a member of a party that consisted of more than one member.

At last report Martin Mee was said to be very ill. His recovery is regarded as extremely doubtful. Doctor Woodin has done all that medical skill can accomplish for his relief.

Copies of the Great Register, tally sheets and other necessary papers, have been forwarded to all the voting precincts in the county in time to reach their destination before election.

The total number of names on the Great Register is nine hundred and thirty-five. Inyo will poll a larger vote than at any election since the flush times of Panamint and Cerro Gordo.

The Kern County Californian says that Indiarubber trees are being planted extensively in Merced county. They seem to be suited to the soil and climate and are thriving well.

Charley Walter and Sam. Gruber went over to the Inyo mountains last Thursday to prospect one of the claims on the lead recently discovered by a wood chopper out from Independence Station.

A lawsuit was begun at Bridgeport, Mono county, on October 3, between the Bulwer and Standard mining companies, of Bodie. The case was not finished at the beginning of the present week.

Mr. John Shepherd and Mrs. Shepherd returned home last Monday after an absence of several weeks. They visited their daughter, Mrs. Butler, at Tehama while gone and found her very happy in her new home.

At Aurora, Nevada, there was a fire on Wednesday of last week that destroyed Wingate's hotel, a saloon and a grocery store. The hotel was a brick building and cost $40,000. It was owned by Williams & McCord.

Over at Deep Spring Sam. Chalmers appears to be opening up a good copper mine. He writes that about the middle of the present month he will have a lot of good ore ready for shipment. The vein gets wider as he goes down upon it.

John W. Scheffer died at San Francisco last Tuesday night. He was grand lecturer for the Grand Lodge of Masons of California. Deceased was an earnest worker in many ways for the good of his fellow men. He was aged about 53 years.

The Indian who broke into the building of J. J. Gann last week was examined on Saturday and committed for trial. On Monday he was tried in the Superior Court and admitted the truth of the charge. He was sentenced to State Prison at Folsom for one year.

A. R. Conklin was summoned by telegraph to attend the funeral of the late John W. Shaffer, at San Francisco. The funeral will be conducted by the Masonic Grand Lodge and will take place to-morrow. Mr. Conklin expects to be back about ten days hence.

November third and not a single frosty night yet. Rosebuds and strawberries still to be had. Days of glorious sunshine; nights calm and beautiful. Delightful at all seasons, the climate of Owens Valley in the autumn is beyond all comparison the finest in the world.

A few months ago O. F. Parish, the principal witness against R. E. Barnes, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, disappeared suddenly from Independence and has not since been seen in the county. The absence of this witness will have a very material effect on the trial.

A new style of bonfire is made by soaking brick in kerosene. Eighteen bricks soaked in the oil two days absorbed two gallons of kerosene and then made a bonfire that burned brightly for an hour and five minutes. The Enterprise says the plan was very successful in Virginia City and is much less dangerous than the usual fire of wood.

A gentleman from Los Gatos who located a section of land south of Independence two years ago was in Owens Valley this week. After carefully looking over the valley and studying the present outlook for the country he said he would not take twenty-five dollars per acre for his location. He has not yet expended a dollar upon the land.

Liquor On Election Day.

My attention has been called to the fact that the purport and intent of an act entitled "An Act to prevent the sale of intoxicating beverages on election day," has been generally missunderstood or disregarded, and the custom of shutting the front doors of saloons on election day and selling (or giving away) the usual amount of intoxicating beverages to persons entering through the rear, if not universally prevalent, exists nevertheless, contrary to the provisions of the statute. The evils resulting from this condition are apparent to all observers, not the least of which is that the highest function of American citizenship is not in such cases exercised with that mature deliberation which the importance of the occasion and the rights of fellow citizens demand. I therefore give the text of the statute for the guidance of those who desire to be governed by its provisions, and those who may wish to see it enforced:

SEC. 1. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons keeping a public house, saloon, or drinking place, either licensed or unlicensed, to sell, give away or furnish spirituous or malt liquors, wine, or any other intoxicating beverages, or any part of any day set apart, or to be set apart, for any general or special election, by the citizens, in any election district or precinct in any of the counties within the State, where an election is in progress, during the hours when by law in said district or precinct the election polls are required to be open.

SEC. 2. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

A violation of the provisions of the foregoing statute is punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months or by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment. I deem the observance of this statute to be of equal importance with other laws calculated to maintain the purity of elections.

P. W. FORBES,
District Attorney.

What climate Does

Country physicians are, as a rule, hard worked men. Last Monday Dr. Woodin was telegraphed to go to Big Pine. He left Independence at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and made a twenty-six mile drive to the residence of Sam. McMurry whose son Andrew was very sick. The doctor stayed with his patient till late in the night and then drove back to Independence, having left his patient much better. After resting a little while the doctor again started and drove to Darwin, a distance of fifty-six miles, to visit Martin Mee, who is also very ill. He staid with Mr. Mee a few hours and then drove back to Independence. A drive of 164 miles over dusty roads without rest is no trifle. A few years ago Dr. Woodin left New York, apparently dying of consumption. The climate of Owens Valley has made him able to stand such work as this; he is as rugged as a bear and as tough as a wildcat.

An Election Lie Nailed.

INDEPENDENCE, Nov. 1.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:—Deliberate falsehoods on the eve of election should be "tricks that are vain" in the present age of enlightened politics, but it is sometimes best to promptly nail them. Refuting again the lie than any candidate ever applied by word or letter to the American party representatives for formal indorsement, we will add that none on either side in any manner ever sought the compliment or had any right to expect it. If the unsolicited action of honest Americans is not acceptable to voters tinged with foreign ideas it is a matter they may condemn as they please, but their work does not, at this stage of the game, discourage Americans.

J. W. LACEY.

President Co. Com. Com.

A Favorable Impression.

Hon. Cyrus Coleman, of Alpine county, the Republican candidate for the Assembly from this district, arrived from Alpine on last Saturday evening and remained at Bridgeport until Tuesday, when he went to Bodie, Vernon and Lundy. Here he made the acquaintance of a large number of citizens, who were favorably impressed, and there is no doubt of his polling a full Republican vote in this county. We have known Mr. Coleman for the last twenty-four years, and can vouch for his honesty and integrity; and we know he will be a useful member of the Assembly in which he has already served two terms, having represented Alpine and Eldorado counties. Chronicle Union

A Good Market

The City of Los Angeles has far outgrown the capacity of the surrounding country to produce many articles of prime necessity. Butter, cheese and eggs, potatoes and other vegetable are shipped there in great quantities. Some of these supplies are sent all the way from Iowa and other States in that region. Owens Valley could very readily supply a city like Los Angeles with these and other products, and the distance to haul them would only be two hundred and fifty miles instead of over two thousand. When the Carson and Colorado railroad shall be extended the land in Owens Valley will be divided into small tracts and much of it used for the production of the articles now carried so far to Los Angeles.

A CARD

To the Voters of the Seventy Second Assembly District

The undersigned has to say that professional duties have prevented him from making a canvass of this Assembly District, as he contemplated, having been engaged in the Superior Court of Mono county, in the suit of the Bulwer Con. M. Co. vs. Standard Con. M. Co., continuously from the 3 of October. Trusting that the people of this Assembly District will support me as a candidate for the Assembly,

I am theirs,
R. S. MINER.

Bridgeport October 26 1888

Since the bridge of the Riverside canal was finished last week and water let into the canal Mr. Miller has concentrated all his force on the work of excavation and rapid progress is being made. Where work is now being done the ground is very favorable. The canal is now finished about three and a half miles south of Independence Station.

Mr. Bigland is making a collection of Owens Valley products which he will take to San Francisco and place on exhibition at the office of the Bulletin, on Market street. He is surprised and not a little astonished at the excellence of the fruits and farm products. This is his first visit to Owens Valley and the country far surpasses his expectations in extent, excellence of soil, and pleasant climate.

Well Pleased Visitors.

Messrs. Gilbert Farrar and H. J. Butterworth, of Pasadena, were at Independence yesterday; having spent a week in the valley they are now on their way home. Both of these gentlemen expressed the very highest satisfaction with Owens Valley. They will make a favorable report of the country to many acquaintances who are waiting anxiously to hear what they have to say. The hour railroad connection is completed to Mojave there will be a rush of people here from the south.

A copy of the report of the Secretary of the State Board of Horticulture has been received. The report contains a great deal of information of greeat interest to fruit growers. A handsome feature of the work is a number of plates containing pictures of different fruits; these are beautifully colored. Several of the pictures illustrate insect pests and the text tells what has been done in the way of experimenting for their extermination. Copies of the report can be had by applying to the Secretary, B. M. Lelong, San Francisco.

Mr. N. Rhine is yet in San Francisco. He has bought large quantities of goods of all kinds. Some of these have already been received and others are on the way. The stock of clothing will be large and will be of as good quality as can be found in the market. Ladies will have an opportunity to select from a large stock of drygoods. It will be worth while to call at the store about the end of next week and see the new stock.

Election officers should be careful to observe that the law requires the polls to be opened at 6 o'clock on the morning of election day and to be kept open until 7 o'clock in the evening. The greatest care should be taken by election officers to make out the returns correctly. Two years ago the vote of Panamint precinct was thrown out by the Board of Canvassers because the returns were not made out properly.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS.

Tax payers are hereby notified that the undersigned, Tax Collector of Inyo county, will be at the following places on the dates given, for the collection of taxes:

Bishop Creek, November 8th and 9th.

Big Pine, November 10th.

Darwin, November 13th.

Keeler, November 15th.

Lone Pine, November 16th.

Taxes will be received at the office of the Tax Collector at any time before the first day of January, 1889.

S. G. GREGG,
Tax Collector.

FOR SUPERVISOR.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself for Supervisor for the Fourth District, Subject to the will of the people.

JOHN LUBKIN.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

GEORGE H. PALMER, REGULAR REPUBLICAN nominee for Road Overseer, Sixth District.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that I am a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District.

JERRY MAIRS.

ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

INYO MARBLE COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA—Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California; location of works Inyo county California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, held on the 24 day of October, 1888, an assessment (No. 4) of five (5) cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately in United States gold coin to the secretary, at the office of the Company, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 34 day of November, 1888, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before will be sold on MONDAY, the 34 day of December, 1888, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with cost of advertising and expense of sale. By order of the Board of Directors.

GEORGE W. LUCE, Sec.

Office No. 205 Front St., San Francisco, Cal.

FOR ROAD OVERSEER.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE myself as a candidate for Road Overseer for Independence District.

WALTER JAMES SR.

National Democratic Ticket.

For President—

GROVER CLEVELAND,

Of New York.

For Vice-President—

ALLEN G. THURMAN,

Of Ohio.

STATE TICKET.

For Chief Justice of Supreme Court,

NILES SEARLS.

For Associate Justice—

JEREMIAH F. SULLIVAN.

For Representative 6th Dist.

REEL B. TERRY,

Of Fresno.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

AT LARGE.

CAMPBELL P. BERRY .....Of Sutter.
BERTRAND D. MURPHY..Santa Clara.

FIRST DISTRICT.

FRED. BERRINGER.....Of Napa.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A. CAMINETTI..... .....Of Amador.

THIRD DISTRICT.

C. A. JENKINS..... ..Of Sacramento.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

P. J. MURPHY. .....Of San Francisco.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

N. BOWDEN.....Of Santa Clara.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

BYRON WATERS ..Of San Bernardino

COUNTY TICKET.

Assemblyman... .... .. R. S. MINER.
Sheriff.....J. R. ELDRED.
County Clerk.....P. H. MACK.
Treasurer..... .....J. J. MOORE.
District Attorney..Endorsed..G. M GILL
Surveyor ... .....——
Coroner.....G. W BRADY

I. O. O. F.

REGULAR MEETINGS OF INYO Lodge No. 301, I. O. O. F., are held at the Masonic Hall every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the Order in good standing are invited to attend.

P. W. FORBES, N. G.
J. D. BLAIR, R. S.

IT IS READY.

We are pleased to announce that the Fall and Winter edition of our Fashion Catalogue is now ready for distribution. It is large sized, handsomely printed volume, containing 128 pages and over 1500 illustrations. It is full of facts and figures setting forth information both valuable and interesting. Moreover

IT TELLS YOU HOW

To effect a saving of from 10 to 40 per cent. on over a hundred lines of merchandise. In short, on almost all household supplies. No risk incurred by the customer whatever. All goods not as represented are returnable at our expense. Orders are filled from the largest stock of merchandise on the coast. Goods of any description not carried by us will be purchased outside. Extra expense in shipping is thereby saved the customer.

A POSTAL CARD REQUEST

Will bring you this catalogue by return mail FREE OF CHARGE. We believe it to be the best Shopping Guide west of the Mississippi.

HALE BROS & CO.

HEAVIEST IMPORTERS ON THE COAST

—OF—

Dry Goods, Cloaks and Wraps,
Clothing, Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Fancy Goods,
Toilet Articles,
Trunks,
Etc.

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K St. & 1026 Ninth,

Sacramento, Cal.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LITTLE'S
CHEMICAL FLUID
NON-POISONOUS
SHEEP DIP.

One gallon mixed with 60 gallons of cold water will dip thoroughly 180 sheep at a cost of 1 cent each. Easily applied; a nourisher of Wool; a certain cure for SCAB. Also,

Little's Patent Powder Dip.
(POISONOUS)

Mixes instantly with water. Prevents the fly from sticking. In a 2 pound package there is sufficient to dip twenty sheep, and in a 7-pound package there is sufficient to dip one hundred sheep.

CATTON, BELL & CO
Successors to FALKNER, BELL & Co.,
No. 406 California Street, and Wool Agency warehouse, 6th and Townsend Streets,
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

James Hillyer,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Plans, Specifications
And Estimates of all kinds of buildings
Furnished.
All kinds of Carpenter Work done in the best manner.
JAMES HILLYER,
Independence.

S. G. GREGG,
Sheriff and Tax Collector,
INYO CO., CAL.

Wm. Muth-Rasmussen.
Bee Keeper.
Manufacturer of Comb Foundation.
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.

A NEW DEAL!

BISHOP CREEK
Livery. Feed & Sale Stable.
ROBERT O'NEIL, Prop'r.

Horses are boarded by the day, week or month. Stock bought and sold.
Bishop Creek, Cal., Nov. 20, 1883.

FRUIT TREES

All Kinds of Fruit & Shade Trees.

—The Best Varieties Of—

Apples, Pears, Peaches & Plums.

Three year old trees 25 cents apiece.

Call and Look Over My Stock.

AGENT FOR W. R. STRONG & CO.

S. A. DENSMORE,
Camp Independence.

W. H. GEORGE, M. D.,
Physician and Surgeon,
Bishop Creek, Cal.,
Offers his professional services to the people of Bishop Creek and vicinity. Office and residence opposite Andrew Clark's.

BELL'S Flouring Mills,
A. N. BELL, Prop.
TRY BELL'S
EXTRA PATENT ROLLER FLOUR.
Having added Patent Rolls and other Improvements to our Mills, I am now turning out Flour that is fully
Equal to the Best.
Corn, Oats and Barley Cracked on Short Notice.
A. N. BELL,
Independence, Cal.

FRED BURCKHARDT
Watchmaker & Jeweler,
LONE PINE, CAL.

Time pieces of all descriptions repaired and regulated, satisfaction guaranteed. Jewelry made to order. Firearms repaired and loaded.
All orders from any part of the country will be promptly attended to, at the most reasonable charges. At the old stand "Mechanics' Hall," Lone Pine.
FRED BURKHARDT.

INTENDING ADVERTISERS should address
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
10 Spruce Street, New York City.
For SELECT LIST OF 1000 NEWSPAPERS
Will be sent FREE, on application.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. 256 pages, 8½ x 11½ inches, with over 3,500 illustrations—a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices direct to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of everything you use, eat, drink, wear, or have fun with. These INVALUABLE BOOKS contain information gleaned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any address upon receipt of 10 cts. to defray expense of mailing. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
227 & 229 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Pioneer Livery & Feed Stables.
INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

Having returned and resumed the management of the above well known feed and livery stables, patrons can be assured of finding there the best of Buggy Teams, Saddle Horses, and

Livery Accommodations

in general. Also, Hay and Grain for sale by the pound or ton.
O. I. MAIRS, Proprietor.

TO ADVERTISERS
A list of 1000 newspapers divided into STATES AND SECTIONS will be sent on application—FREE.
To those who want their advertising to pay, we can offer no better medium for thorough and effective work than the various sections of our Select Local List.
GEO. P. ROWELL & CO.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce Street, New York.

JOHN W. P. LAIRD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Independence, Cal.

Wheeler & Wilson
Sewing Machine.
New No. 8.
"THE BEST!"
Sales Made on Installment Plan.
Old Machines Exchanged for.
Farm Produce Taken in Payment.
This is the best opportunity ever offered to get a really
First-Class Machine.

Several have already been sold here, and in every instance have given the greatest satisfaction. Anyone desiring to examine the machine will please call at the INDEPENDENT Building.

I. H. MULHOLLAND,
Agent.
Independence, Cal.

EDWARD CHENOT,
Independence, Cal.,
INVITES PUBLIC ATTENTION TO extensive Stock of
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
....Consisting of....
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS
Tobacco, Cigars,
WINES AND LIQUORS
FLOUR & GRAI
Together with an Assortment of
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING
ETC., ETC
Buyers and consumers should not call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
E. CHENOT.
Independence, Cal., March 29, 1884.
n476tf

Sulphur & Borax Baths
AT SODA SPRINGS, NEVADA
On the line of the Carson & Colorado Railroad
These valuable Springs offer special
INDUCEMENT TO INVALIDS
THE WATER CONTAINS
SULPHUR, MAGNESIA AND BORAX.
And Is Very Strengthening and Cleansing
When used for bathing purposes.
THE BATH HOUSES HAVE BEEN REBUILT,
—And a large—
SWIMMING : BATH
Added, where those wishing to do so can take an invigorating plunge.
Excellent Accommodations,
—AND—
Board by the Day, Week, or the Month
MARTIN BRAZZANOVICH, Prop.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The Newest Styles
OF
Fashionable Clothing
Dry Goods, Ladies' Wear, etc., etc
AT
L. WOOD'S
CASH STORE
A small stock of fresh groceries and canned goods constantly renewed.
Fresh Produce, and Grain Flour, etc., constantly on hand.
CANDIES,
PEANUTS,
WALNUTS,
TOYS!
THE CASH STORE
Is Where You Get
WORTH OF YOUR MONEY
TOM BOLAND,
KEELER, INYO CO., CAL.

Dealer In GENERAL
MERCHANDISE,
GROCERIES
MINERS
Supplies
PROVISIONS,
&c., &c., &c.
LOCAL AGENT FOR THE GIANT POWDER Company.

115 CLAY STREET, 117
SMITH'S STORE IS
The Best Place on the Coast to get Supplies. Wholesale prices to Consumers. Equality to all. No Humbug. No Tricks. A full List of Prices sent free on application.
CASH.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THIS PAPER IS ON FILE
—AT—
PALMER & REY'S
ADVERTISING BUREAU!
405-7 Sansome St., San Francisco.
—AND AT—
PALMER & REY'S
Pacific States Advertising Bureau
46 Tribune Building,
NEW YORK.
Where Advertising Contracts can be made.

LUMBER. LUMBER.

SPRATT & CREASER,
BIG PINE.
—DEALERS IN—
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER.

Square timber of all dimensions for buildings and bridges.
CEILING,
FLOORING,
FENCING,
RUSTIC.

All kinds of tongued and grooved lumber.
Surfaced lumber of all kinds.
All orders filled promptly. Lumber delivered on board the cars at Alvord.
SPRATT & CREASER,
sep1-tf BIG PINE, Inyo Co., Cal.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated. In Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, try to ill. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed for 25c. W. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

Drink and Learning.

One of the chief aphorisms of Brillat-Savarin, the philosophical gastronome, was: "Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are." The famous Dr. Arthaud, who wrote a learned dissertation on vines and wines, said: "The witty magistrate approached the truth had he written, 'Tell me what you drink and I will tell you what you are.'" He insists that a tea drinker never was, never can be, a jolly good fellow; that the poverty in musical genius of great tea drinkers, such as the Chinese and the English, arises from no other cause. Bacchus gave up a part of his empire to incense, myrrh, nard and opium, and with the introduction of these drugs art, science and literature declined, and the civilization of Greece passed with the vine into Italy. Dr. Arthaud was a Frenchman and a lover of French wines; therefore he detested beer and those who delight in it, saying of the German people generally, that if they had multiplied their wine stocks instead of hops and pies, they would have commanded an enviable political position.—The Argonaut.

One of Mexico's Quiet Cities.

Our next stop was made at Siloa, a quiet city of 15,000 inhabitants, the towers, spires and minarets of its massive houses of worship rising high above the low thatched dwellings of its residents, rich and poor. Its beautiful gardens and clean kept courts are filled with choicest flowering plants and semi tropical exotics. The city band gave a concert in the evening in honor of our visit. Our Pullman train was side tracked for the night, and we slept soundly, to be awakened with the morning light by a jargon of bells—as though struck by a thousand sledge hammers. The bells in this strange land all came from Spain, and every old cathedral, church, monastery and convent has from three to twelve—never keyed to concert pitch nor rung as chimes, but hammered vigorously with the clapper, and these people think it exquisite music.—Mexico Letter.

Invention of Bank Notes.

The Chinese invented bank notes in the Ninth century and called them "flying money," but the currency became so inflated that two centuries later a £20 note would only purchase a pound of rice. When Sir John Mandeville visited China in the Fourteenth century the emperor issued leather money—"which his majesty spent most outrageously"—and some years later the currency was transferred to a joint stock bank of Chinese merchants, who ultimately failed, and paid only two shillings on the pound.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

One Thing Lacking.

At a recent exhibition of paintings a lady and her son were regarding with much interest a picture which the catalogue designated as "Luther at the Diet of Worms." Having descanted at some length upon its merits, the boy remarked: "Mother, I see Luther and the table, but where are the worms?"

PRIZE WINNERS.

Who the Fortunate Ones Were This Time.

"So you are the lucky man, are you?"

A reporter made this remark yesterday to J. T. Callender of 5 Broadway, this city, as he grasped the latter's hand fervently and looked into his eyes with an I-will-stay-with-you-forever glance.

"Well," replied Mr. Callender, who is an intelligent colored man, "I am lucky in more ways than one. I have a good wife, good business and good health."

"You are indeed fortunate," said the reporter, "but the public wishes to know whether it is a fact that you drew one-twentieth part of the first capital prize of $300,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery at the last drawing."

"Yes, sir," rejoined Mr. Callender pleasantly, "that is a fact."

"Do you object to telling about it?" asked the reporter.

"Not in the least," replied Mr. Callender; "only there is very little to tell. Just take a seat. You see I've been buying the tickets of this lottery off and on, and have won several small prizes. Well, two or three days before the last drawing there were a couple of gentleman here—one was a sea captain (my business is that of shipping sailors and boarding them)—and they had a couple of tickets which nobody wanted because the numbers were small, and the captain was going away, too. Well, says my wife to me: 'Just you buy me one of those tickets.' But I said I didn't especially want it. Well, a woman's a woman, no matter where you take 'em—"

"Thanks," said the reporter. "No sugar in mine."

"And being a woman, and wanting a ticket, she shoved out a single hard silver dollar and just made me pocket one of them, and kinder smiled at me a knowin' smile. No, I didn't think anything of it until one day one of the boys says to me:

"'Old man,' says he, 'what's some good news worth to your good health?'

"'Oh, I don't know,' says I, 'but maybe it's worth a suit of clothes to you if it is real good.'

"'Old man,' says he, solemn-like, 'your ticket, No. 3,894, has drawn a twentieth of the capital prize.'

"Well, Mr. Reporter, I just sat there and gasped for breath."

"Breath seemed to possess a double-distilled sweetness to you just then eh?" inquired the reporter solicitously.

"You've just hit it," said Mr. Callender, laughing heartily, "but it was true all the same; and the boy got his suit of clothes and I got my money."

"Tell us about its receipt, please."

"That," continued Mr. Callender, "is as simple as the drawing. I took the ticket down to Wells, Fargo & Co., and they said they would forward it to New Orleans and get me the money. Well, sir, in just fourteen days I was notified by them to call at their office, which I did, and I got it, all in bright new gold pieces, just from the mint—$15,600 less commission of the express company—and the money is safely deposited in the bank."

C. H. E. Harden of 916 Jones street, this city, also drew a one-twentieth of the first capital prize, and the money has been paid over to him. Also one-twentieth of ticket number 31,809, which drew the second capital prize, and one-quarter of ticket number 87,449, which drew the sixth capital prize, were sold and cashed in this city.—San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle, August 30th.

Allan Quatermain.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

AUTHOR OF "KING SOLOMON'S MINES," "SHE," "JESS," "THE WITCH'S HEAD," ETC.

(CONTINUED.)

"Never have I seen the like, Macumazahn, never," he said. "The battles of my people are as the play of children to what this will be. Thinkest thou that they will fight it out?"

"Ay," I answered sadly, "to the death. Content thyself, 'Woodpecker,' for once shalt thou find thy fill."

Time went on, and still there was no sign of an attack. A force of cavalry crossed the brook, indeed, and rode slowly along our front, evidently taking stock of our position and numbers. With this we did not attempt to interfere, as our decision was to stand strictly on the defensive, and not to waste a single man. The men breakfasted and stood to their arms, and the hours wore on. About midday, when the men were eating their dinner, for we thought they would fight better on full stomachs, a shout of "Sirais, Sorais," arose like thunder from the enemy's extreme right, and taking the glass, I was able to clearly distinguish the Lady of the Night herself, surrounded by a glittering staff, and riding slowly down the lines of her battalions. And as she went, that mighty, thundering shout rolled along before her like the rolling of 10,000 chariots, or the roaring of the ocean when the gale turns suddenly and carries the noise of it to the listeners' ears, till the earth shook, and the air was full of the majesty of sound.

Guessing that this was a prelude to the beginning of the battle, we remained still and made ready.

We had not long to wait. Suddenly, like flame from a cannon's mouth, out shot two great tongue like forces of cavalry, and came charging down the slope towards the little stream, slowly at first, but gathering speed as they came. Before they got to the stream, orders reached me from Sir Henry, who evidently feared that the shock of such a charge, if allowed to fall unbroken upon our infantry, would be too much for them, to send five thousand sabers to meet the force opposite to me, at the moment when it began to mount the stiffest of the rise about four hundred yards from our lines. This I did, remaining behind myself with the rest of my men.

Off went the 5,000 horsemen, drawn up in a wedgelike form, and I must say that the general in command handled them very ably. Starting at a hand gallop for the first 500 yards, he rode straight at the tip of the tongue shaped mass of cavalry which, numbering, so far as I could judge, about eight thousand sabers, was advancing to meet us. Then he suddenly swerved to the right and put on the pace, and I saw the great wedge curl round, and before the foe could check himself and turn to meet it, strike him about half way down his length with a crashing, rending sound, like the breaking up of vast sheets of ice. In sank the great wedge into his heart, and as it cut its way hundreds of horsemen were thrown up on either side of it, just as the earth is thrown up by a plowshare, or, more life struck, as the foaming water curls over beneath the bows of a rushing ship. In, yet in, vainly does the tongue twist its ends round in agony, like an injured snake, and strive to protect its center; still farther in, by Heaven! right through, and so, amid cheer after cheer from our watching thousands, back again upon the severed ends, beating them down, driving them as a gale drives spray, till at last, amid the rushing of hundreds of riderless horses, the flashing of swords, and the victorious clamor of their pursuers, the great force crumples up like an empty glove, then turns and gallops pell mell for safety back to its own lines.

I do not think it reached them more than two thirds as strong as it went out ten minutes before. The lines which were now advancing to the attack opened and swallowed them up, and my force returned, having suffered a loss of only about five hundred men—not much, I thought, considering the fierceness of the struggle. I could also see that the opposing bodies of cavalry on our left wing were drawing back, but how the fight went with them I do not quite know. It is as much as I can do to describe what took place immediately around me.

By this time the immense masses of the enemy's left, composed almost entirely of Nasta's swordsmen, were across the little stream, and with alternate yells of "Nasta" and "Sorais," with dancing banners and gleaming swords were swarming up toward us like ants.

Again I received orders to try and check this movement, and also the main advance against the chest of our army, by means of cavalry charges, and this I did to the best of my ability by continually sending squadrons of about a thousand sabers out against them. These squadrons did the enemy much damage, and it was a glorious sight to see them flash down the hillside and bury themselves like a living knife in the heart of the foe. But, also, we lost many men, for after the experience of a couple of these charges, which had drawn a sort of bloody St. Andrew's cross of dead and dying through the center of Nasta's hosts, our foes no longer attempted to offer an unyielding front to their irresistible weight, but opened out to let the rush go through, throwing themselves on the ground, and hamstringing hundreds of horses as they passed.

And so, notwithstanding all that we could do, the enemy drew nearer, till at last he hurled himself upon Good's force of 7,500 regulars, who were drawn up to receive them in three strong squares. About the same time, too, an awful and heart shaking roar told me that the main battle had closed in on the center and extreme left. I raised myself in my stirrups and looked down to my left; so far as the eye could see there was a long dazzling shimmer of steel as the sun glanced upon falling and thrusting spear.

To and fro swung the contending lines in that dread struggle, now giving way, now gaining a little in the mad yet ordered confusion of attack and defense. But it was as much as I could do to keep count of what was happening to our own wing; and, as for the moment the cavalry had fallen back under cover of Good's three squares, I had a fair view of this.

Nasta's wild swordsmen were now breaking in red waves against the sullen rock like squares. Time after time did they yell out their war cries, and hurl themselves furiously against the long triple ridges of spear points, only to be rolled back as billows are when they meet the cliff.

And so for four long hours the battle raged almost without a pause, and at the end of that time, if we had gained nothing we had lost nothing. Two attempts to turn our left flank, by forcing a way through the wood by which it was protected, had been defeated; and as yet Nasta's swordsmen had, notwithstanding their desperate efforts, entirely failed to break Good's three squares, though they had thinned their numbers by quite a third.

As for the chest of the army, where Sir Henry was with his staff and Umslopogaas, it had suffered dreadfully, but it had held its own with honor, and the same may be said of our left battle.

At last the attacks slackened and Sorais' army drew back, having, I began to think, had enough of it. On this point, however, I was soon undeceived, for, splitting up her cavalry into comparatively small squadrons, she charged us furiously with them all along the line and then once more rolled her tens of thousands of sword and spear men down upon our weakened squares and squadrons—Sorais herself directing the movement and, fearless as a lioness, heading the main attack. On they came like an avalanche—I saw her golden helm gleaming in the van—our counter charges of cavalry entirely failing to check their forward sweep. Now they had struck us, and our center bent in like a bow beneath the weight of their rush—it parted, and had not the 10,000 men in reserve charged down to its support it must have been destroyed. As for Good's three squares, they were swept backward like boats upon an incoming tide and the foremost one was burst into and lost half its remaining men. But the effort was too fierce and terrible to last. Suddenly the battle came, as it were, to a turning point and for a minute or two stood still.

Then it began to move toward Sorais' camp. Just then, too, Nasta's fierce and almost invincible highlanders, either because they were disheartened by their losses or by way of a ruse, fell back and the remains of Good's gallant squares, leaving the positions they had held for so many hours, cheered wildly and rashly followed them down the slope, whereon the swarms of swordsmen turned to envelop them and once more flung themselves upon them with a yell. Taken thus on every side, what remained of the first square was quickly destroyed, and I perceived that the second, in which I could see Good himself on a large horse, was on the point of annihilation. A few minutes more and it was broken, its streaming colors sank, and I lost sight of Good in the confused and hideous slaughter that ensued.

Presently, however, a cream colored horse with a snow white mane and tail burst from the ruins of the square and came rushing past me riderless and with wide streaming reins, and in it I recognized the charger that Good had been riding. Then I hesitated no longer, but taking with me half my effective cavalry force, which now amounted to between 4,000 and 5,000 men, I commended myself to God, and without waiting for orders, I charged straight down upon Nasta's swordsmen. Seeing me coming and being warned by the thunder of my horses' hoofs, the majority of them faced round and gave us a right warm welcome. Not an inch would they yield; in vain did we hack and trample them down as we plowed a broad red furrow through their thousands; they seemed to arise by hundreds, driving their terrible sharp swords into our horses or severing their hamstrings and then hacking the troopers who came to the ground with them almost into pieces. My horse was speedily killed under me, but luckily I had a fresh one, my own favorite, a coal black mare Nyleptha had given me being held in reserve behind, and on this I afterward mounted. Meanwhile I had to get along as best I could, for I was pretty well lost sight of by my men in the mad confusion of the moment. My voice, of course, could not be heard in the midst of the clanging of steel and the shrieks of rage and agony. Presently I found myself mixed up with the remnants of the square, which had formed round its leader, Good, and was fighting desperately for existence. I stumbled against somebody, and, glancing down, caught sight of Good's eyeglass. He had been beaten to his knee. Over him was a great fellow, swinging a heavy sword. Somehow I managed to run the man through with the sjaa I had taken from the Masai whose hand I had cut off; but as I did so he dealt me a frightful blow in the left side and breast with the sword, and, though my chain shirt saved my life, I felt that I was badly hurt. For a minute I fell on to my hands and knees among the dead and dying, and turned sick and faint. When I came to again I saw that Nasta's spearmen, or rather those of them that remained, were retreating back across the stream, and that Good was there by me smiling beamingly.

"Near go that," he shouted, "but all's well that ends well."

I assented, but I could not help feeling that it had not ended well for me. I was sorely hurt.

Just then we saw the smaller bodies of cavalry stationed on our extreme right and left, and which were now reenforced by the 3,000 sabers which we had held in reserve, flash out like arrows from their posts and fall upon the disordered flanks of Sorais' forces, and that charge decided the issue of the battle. In another minute or two the enemy was in slow and sullen retreat across the little stream, where they once more reformed. Then came another lull, during which I managed to get my second horse and received my orders to advance from Sir Henry, and then, with one fierce, deep throated roar, with a waving of banners and a wide flashing of steel, the remains of our army took the offensive and began to sweep down, slowly indeed, but irresistibly, from the positions they had so gallantly held all day.

At last it was our turn to attack.

On we moved, over the piled up masses of dead and dying, and were approaching the stream when suddenly I perceived an extraordinary sight. Galloping wildly toward us, his arms tightly clasped around his horse's neck, against which his blanched cheek was tightly pressed, was a man arrayed in the full costume of a Zu-Vendi general, but in which, as he came nearer, I recognized none other than our lost Alphonse. It was impossible even then to mistake those curling black mustaches. In a minute he was tearing through our ranks and narrowly escaped being cut down, till at last somebody caught his horse's bridle, and he was brought to me just as a momentary halt occurred in our advance to allow what remained of our shattered squares to form into line.

"Ah, monsieur," he gasped out, in a voice that was nearly inarticulate with fright, "grace to the sky, it is you! Ah, what I have endured! But you win, monsieur—you win; they fly, the laches. But listen, monsieur—I forget, it is no good; the queen is to be murdered to-morrow at the first light in the palace of Milosis; her guards will leave their posts and the priests are going to kill her. Ah yes! they little thought it, but I was ensconced beneath a banner, and I heard it all."

"The queen is to be murdered to-morrow."

"What!" I said, horror struck, "what do you mean?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

For Paralysis, and nervous diseases generally, Dujardin's Life Essence is the true remedy. Hundreds of cases of paralysis have been prevented by timely use of this life-giving essence. A physician in Oregon writes: "I have prescribed the Life Essence in several cases of sexual debility, and am surprised at the results. I thank you for placing such a remedy in my reach." Price, $1.50 a bottle. All druggists.

HEADACHES,

Which are of regular or frequent occurrence, are nearly always caused by some derangement of the digestive organs, either temporary or habitual, like constipation. Nothing more efficacious than HAMBURG FIGS can be found to regulate this derangement. HAMBURG FIGS are prepared in lozenge form, and are delightful to the taste. It is not, therefore, necessary to take nauseous medicines when you can obtain the compressed pulp of fruits and vegetables which compose HAMBURG FIGS. Where once tried the FIGS become a household remedy. Sold by druggists at 25 cents a box.

The Work of the Book Agent.

There is probably no class of workers in the busy hive of the commercial mart that has received more abuse, has had more ill-natured flings thrust at it, than the one laboring for the dissemination of knowledge under the title of book solicitors. Even the lightning-rod man, the life-insurance agent, or the thousand and one canvassers for this and that patent have escaped the reproachful and opprobrious epithets heaped on the head of a book solicitor, and yet it can truly be said that there are no more active, patient, persevering, and intelligent workers than those catering in this way to the mental feeding of the public.

In the business of canvassing one meets all kinds and classes, and that it takes all sorts of people to make a community is a truism most forcibly impressed on the mind of a book solicitor. He will go to one house and on asking to see Mr. or Mrs. So-and-so will be invited in, and, on stating his business, will be most courteously received and given time and attention. He will go next door and be made at once to understand that the sooner he departs the better for him; or still a little further on Mr. or Mrs. So-and-so opens the door for him, and standing on the threshold he states his business, when, with a most courteous, "Excuse me," he finds the door slammed in his face and he is left to moralize on the rudeness of his fellow-beings. Sometimes he will be left standing on the stoop like a beggar while the servant girl goes to see if her master or mistress will receive him, or if he is allowed to stand in the hall the servant casts furtive glances at him as she goes up stairs, fearing he may be a sneak thief in disguise.—Chicago Tribune.

Every Boy Should Have a Trade.

In this country every boy, rich or poor, is the better off for a trade. The lad favored by fortune does not require mechanical knowledge to earn his living of course; but an industrial training may develop in him a genius for invention that would benefit the whole race; and a trade in the hands of a poor boy is a sure means of gaining a living. If all classes are to be reached, therefore, it is hard to see how this can be done without an industrial training department in each school.—New York Tribune.

At the Breakfast Table.

"Ah, Mrs. Fogg," said the professor, placing the biscuits in front of him, "I never ignore your rolls, whatever else I may do."

"Indeed, professor, your words charm my soul. As the poet says: 'Every ear is tickled with the sweet music of applause;' but I have noticed that there is one of my rolls for which you seem to have a chronic aversion."

"And that is, my dear madam?"

"The pay roll," responded the landlady, with a smile that reached over and tickled the solemn boarder so that he laughed.—Life.

Maud S. has got her mile down to 2:08¾. Maud is pretty and gentle, but awfully fast.

A LARGE ESTATE.

A broad land is this in which we live, dotted so thickly with thrifty cities, towns and villages! And them all, with ever increasing popularity and helpfulness is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, giving hope and cheer where there is disease and despair. Wherever there is humanity there is suffering; wherever there is suffering there is the best field for this greatest American Remedy. Consumption, (which is lung-scrofula), yields to it, if employed in the early stages of the disease; Chronic Nasal Catarrh, yields to it; Kidney and Liver diseases, yield to it. If you want the best known remedy for all diseases of the blood, ask for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and take no other.

More than three quarters of all the bakers in the United States are men of German birth.

THE FATHER OF MANY ILLS.

Constipation leads to a multitude of physical troubles. It is generally the result of carelessness or indifference to the simplest rule of health. Eugene McKay, of Brantford, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been a sufferer from constipation, had taken a great many different remedies, some of which did me good for a time, but only for a time, then my trouble came back worse than ever. I was induced by a friend, whom BRANDRETH'S PILLS had benefited, to try them. I did so, taking two each night for a week, then one every night for about six weeks. Since that time I have not experienced the slightest difficulty whatever, and my bowels move regularly every day. I believe firmly that for sluggishness of the bowels and biliousness BRANDRETH'S PILLS are far superior to any other.

Have you wondered why some people have better, whiter teeth than others? The use of RUBYOAM will explain it. Try it yourself, it is perfectly harmless. Large bottles 25 cents.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

RUBIFOAM

FOR THE TEETH KEEPS THE TEETH WHITE THE BREATH SWEET, AND THE GUMS HEALTHY.

Price, 25 cents a Bottle.

PUT UP BY E. W. HOYT & CO., PROPRIETORS OF HOYT'S GERMAN COLOGNE. LOWELL, MASS.

ITCHING PILES.

SYMPTOMS—moisture; intense itching and stinging most at nights; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in many cases removes the tumors. It is equally efficacious in curing all Skin Diseases. DR. SWAYNE & SON, Proprietors, Philadelphia. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT can be obtained of druggists. Sent by mail for 50 Cents.

It is stated that General Prim, when in power in Spain, offered to sell the island of Cuba to the United States for $5,000,000.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The discovery by the inhabitants of a locality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is ascertained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefitted and cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquility reigns throughout the whole neighborhood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the organs of digestion and assimilation.

The chief duty of one of the watchmen in the New York Postoffice is to collect the keys of boxes that are left in the locks by careless men and boys.

White Elephant of Siam, Lion of England, Dragon of China, Cross of Switzerland, Banner of Persia, Crescent of Egypt, Double Eagle of Russia, Star of Chili, The Circle of Japan, Harp of Erin.

To get these buy a box of the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, price 25 cents, and mail us the outside wrapper with your address, plainly written, and 4 cents in stamps. We will then mail you the above list with an elegant package of oleographic and chromatic cards. Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Nearly 500,000 people hold licenses from the United States Government of one kind or another authorizing them to deal in tobacco.

THE LONGEST WORD IN THE DICTIONARY

Is incompetent to communicate the inexpressible satisfaction and incomprehensible consequences resulting from a judicious administration of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a preparation designed especially for the speedy relief and permanent cure of all Female Weaknesses, Nervousness, and diseases peculiar to the female sex. The only remedy for woman's peculiar ills, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, to give satisfaction. See guarantee on wrapper of bottle. This guarantee has been faithfully carried out for many years by the proprietors.

St. Louis has a successful mining company composed entirely of women.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are simple and convenient for Bronchial Affections and Coughs.

Swordfish are reported to be very numerous off the Atlantic coast this summer.

POPULAR PREPARATION!

Pure, Potent, Powerful! Pallid People Praise, Progressive People Purchase! Positively Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, Properly Partaken, Preserve Physical Powers, Produce Permanent Physical Perfection. Purchase, Prove!

A company has been formed in the city of Mexico for exporting fruit to this country.

See Antisell Piano advertisement.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and Most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alumn. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. YORK. CHICAGO ST. LOUIS.

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK AND Iodide of Potass.

It cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Boils, Pimples, Scrofula, Gout, Catarrh, Tumors, Salt Rheum, and Mercurial Pains. It Purifies the Blood, Restores the Liver and Kidneys to healthy action, and makes the Complexion Bright and Clear.

J. R. GATES & CO., Proprietors, 417 Sansome St. San Francisco.

YES, IT PAYS

To advertise? We want to know which papers pay best. For every cash order of $25 sent within a week after you read this notice in which you order at least five articles from the following list and mention the paper you saw it in and the date of it, we will send you, free gratis for nothing, any one of the articles named, valued at $1, and very, very cheap at that.

| | |
|---|---|
| 11 yards Amoskeag Dress Gingham | $1 00 |
| 14 yards late style Calico | 1 00 |
| 10 yards Canton Flannel | 1 00 |
| 1 handsome wide Bedspread | 1 00 |
| 2 ladies' Undervests or Drawers | 1 00 |
| 8 pounds Cotton Batting | 1 00 |
| 24 spools Cotton, all different | 1 00 |
| 40 dozen Buttons, several kinds | 1 00 |
| 20 pocket Handkerchiefs | 1 00 |
| 12 pairs ladies', men's and children's Hose | 1 00 |
| 25 papers new Garden Seeds | 1 00 |
| 12 useful Brushes, all different | 1 00 |
| 30 pounds good black Figs | 1 00 |
| 25 pounds dried Pears | 1 00 |
| 14 pounds good dried Peaches | 1 00 |
| 15 pounds nice dried Prunes | 1 00 |
| 10, 12 or 20 yards Toweling | 1 00 |
| 16 useful Kitchen Articles | 1 00 |
| 6 pounds green or ground Coffee | 1 00 |
| 5 pounds green or mixed Tea | 1 00 |
| 15 pounds Tea Dust, good quality | 1 00 |
| 20 bars Poor Woman's Soap | 1 00 |
| 35 pounds white or colored Beans | 1 00 |
| 12 cans Spices, all different | 1 00 |
| 9 cans Corn, Peas or Beans | 1 00 |
| 25 pounds shelled Pop Corn | 1 00 |
| 50 pounds Bone Meal or Egg Food | 1 00 |
| 1 Wash Bowl and Pitcher | 1 00 |
| 1 dozen fine engraved Goblets | 1 00 |
| 3 large glass Stew Dishes | 1 00 |
| 8 double rolls Wall Paper | 1 00 |
| 10 pounds fine mixed Candy | 1 00 |
| 5 pounds fancy mixed Candy | 1 00 |
| 1 good Axe and Handle | 1 00 |
| 25 papers assorted Tacks | 1 00 |
| 6 cans Table Fruit, assorted | 1 00 |

You must comply with the conditions, and we will do our part faithfully. Smith's Cash Store, No. 418 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal.

STEINWAY. KRANICH, PEASE & BACH, Gabler, Roemish Pianos; Burdett Organs, Band Instruments. Largest stock of Sheet Music and Books. Bands supplied at Eastern Prices. MATTHIAS GRAY CO., 206 Post Street, San Francisco.

POWDERED 98 CAUSTIC SODA TREE WASH, Carbolic Sheep Wash. T. W. JACKSON & Co., 104 Market St., Mfg. Agents.

NOTE!

AFTER THE PARADES TAKE A BATH and remain all night; it will save you your hotel bill.

DR. LORYEA'S NEW HAMMAM, 218 Post Street, S. F.

S. F. N. U. Series No. 328.

IRRIGATING MACHINERY.

At this time, when the irregation and reclaiming of land are receiving so much attention, the exhibit of Byron Jackson at the late Mechanics' Fair, San Francisco, shows a wide-spread interest in such machinery. He displayed in motion several sizes of his improved "Whirlpool" centrifugal pumps, with suitable engines and boilers, forming complete pumping plants for raising water from wells or streams. In compactness, durability, simplicity and low cost of operation, Mr. Jackson makes strong claims for his pumps and engines. His catalogue on the subject is a perfect encyclopedia and may be had by addressing him at 625 Sixth street, San Francisco, where his works are located.

A gas well has been bored at Easton to a depth of 3,400 feet.

A WONDERFUL FOOD AND MEDICINE.

Known and used by Physicians all over the world. SCOTT'S EMULSION not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food that builds up the wasted body. "I have been using Scott's Emulsion for several years, and am pleased with its action. My patients say it is pleasant and palatable, and all grow stronger and gain flesh from the use of it. I use it in all cases of Wasting Diseases, and it is specially useful for children when nutrient medication is needed, as in Marasmus."—T. W. PIERCE, M. D., Knoxville, Ala.

Try Germea for Breakfast.

YOU SUFFER from Biliousness, Constipation, Piles, Sick Headache, Sour Stomache, Colds, Liver Trouble, Jaundice, Dizziness, Bad taste in the Mouth, etc.—You need Suffer no longer—

Warner's SAFE Pills

will cure you. They have cured tens of thousands. They possess these points of superiority: sugar coated; purely vegetable, contain no calomel, mercury or mineral of any kind; do not gripe; never sicken; easy to take; mild in operation; and for these reasons are especially the favorites of women. Ask for

WARNER'S SAFE PILLS.

$5 To $8 a Day. Samples worth $4.50, FREE. Lines not under the horses feet. Write BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER CO., Molly, Mich.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage, MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. 111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

PIANOS. 1st Premiums. 25,000 in use. 20 years established. New patented Steel Tuning Device, in use in no other Piano, by which our Pianos stand in tune 20 years, good for 100; not affected by climate. No wood to split, break, swell, shrink, crack, decay, or wear out; we guarantee it. Elegant Rosewood Cases, 3 strings, double repeating action, finest ivory keys; the Famous ANTISELL. Call or write for Catalogue, free. T. M. ANTISELL PIANO CO., Manufacturers, Odd Fellows' Hall, Market and Seventh Streets, San Francisco.

ST. JACOBS OIL

For NEURALGIA. CURES CHRONIC Cases PROMPTLY AND PERMANENTLY.

No Return of Pain. Cures Positively.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.

The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Balto., Md.

Diamond Vera-Cura FOR DYSPEPSIA.

AND ALL STOMACH TROUBLES SUCH AS: Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Nausea, Giddiness, Constipation, Fullness after eating, Food Rising in the Mouth and disagreeable taste after eating, Nervousness and Low-Spirits.

At Druggists and Dealers or sent by mail on receipt of 25 cts. (5 boxes $1.00) in stamps. Sample sent on receipt of 2-cent Stamp.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

WRITE for Catalogue.

JACKSON "WHIRLPOOL" CENTRIFUGAL PUMP, With Horizontal Shaft.

ENGINES, BOILERS AND PUMPS,

Comple Power and Pumping Plants, HARVESTING MACHINERY, "Eclipse" and "Acme" Hay Stackers and Rakes.

BYRON JACKSON, - 625 to 631 Sixth St., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

WELL DRILLS FOR EVERY PURPOSE. Sold on Trial!

Investment small, profits large. Send 20c for mailing large illustrated Catalogue with full particulars. Manufactured by GOULDS & AUSTIN, 167 & 169 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILL.

A PROMINENT "WOOL" GROWER

The above well-known "wool" grower has figured prominently in politics for the past 20 years, and his opinion is that "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut is the boss smoke, and don't you forget it.

DWIGHT'S SODA THE COW BRAND.

— TO MAKE —

DELICIOUS BISCUITS OR WHOLESOME BREAD

USE

DWIGHT'S COW-BRAND SODA OR SALERATUS.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

ALWAYS UNIFORM AND FULL WEIGHT.

Be sure that there is a picture of a Cow on your package and you will have the best Soda made.

THE COW BRAND. DWIGHT'S SALERATUS

YOU are hustling around for your share of the world's good gifts, and it's hard work: think of something else.

This constant work will tell sometime—perhaps it has already—and nervousness, sleeplessness, neuralgic and rheumatic aches and pains are part of the "good gifts" your hustling has won.

If you are that way, let us give you a prescription—no charge for the prescription, though it will cost a dollar to have it filled by your druggist.

℞ PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND Oj.

Sig. Use according to directions.

All druggists keep it. It will strengthen your nerves, tone up your whole system, and make you bless us for prescribing this great nerve tonic. Be sure to get the genuine, prepared only by WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

ARM & HAMMER BRAND

To Housekeepers and Farmers.—It is important that the Soda or Saleratus you use should be White and Pure same as all similar substances used for food. To insure obtaining only the "Arm & Hammer" brand Soda or Saleratus, buy it in "pound or half pound" cartoons which bear our name and trade-mark, as inferior goods are sometimes substituted for the "Arm & Hammer" brand when bought in bulk. Parties using Baking Powder should remember that its sole rising property consists of bicarbonate of soda. One teaspoonful of the "Arm & Hammer" brand of Soda or Saleratus mixed with sour milk equals four teaspoonfuls of the best Baking Powder, saving twenty times its cost, besides being much healthier, because it does not contain any injurious substances, such as alum, terra alba etc., of which many Baking Powders are made. Dairymen and Farmers should use only the "Arm & Hammer" brand for cleaning and keeping Milk Pans Sweet and Clean.

OUR TRADE MARK

CHURCH & CO'S SODA

ON EVERY PACKAGE.

CAUTION. See that every pound package of "Arm and Hammer Brand" contains full 16 ounces net, and the ½ pound packages full 12 ounces net, Soda or Saleratus same as specified on each package.

Packed in Card Board Boxes. Always keeps Soft.

SODA OR SALERATUS

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

INDEPENDENCE CAL.

SATURDAY.....NOVEMBER 10, 1888

INYO INDEPENDENT.

VOL. XX. NO. 22. INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., NOVEMBER 10, 1888. WHOLE NO. 941.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

C. MULHOLLAND, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

| | |
|---|---|
| One year (post-paid) | $4 00 |
| Six months | 2 50 |
| Three months | 1 25 |
| One month | 0 50 |
| Single copies | 0 10 |

ANIMATED BARRELS.

How a British Privateer Was Captured by the Yankees in 1812.

Perhaps the most barren, lonesome-looking and woebegone appearing country to be found in Southwestern Massachusetts, not even excepting the sandy dunes and cranberry swamps of Cape Cod, is to be found in that long waste of territory lying between the boundaries of Taunton, New Bedford and Middleboro, and much the largest part of which is within the confines of the township of Freetown. But this is just the town where people live to be from eighty, ninety and ninety-five years old, scores of them. A canvass of the town would disclose an average of one person over seventy years old to every third house, and an average of a person of eighty or over to every twenty houses throughout a large portion of the town.

In a low, old-fashioned farm-house on the Assonet road dwells the patriarch of all this community of aged people, Ennis Hathaway, the man who enjoys the distinction of being the oldest inhabitant in a town where old age counts for a good deal. He was born in Freetown, in a house near by where he now lives with his son, on March 12, 1793. Gray-haired, with a pinched and wrinkled face, the old veteran sits in his chimney corner by the window and tells stories of his younger days, and of the changes that time has wrought within the span of nearly a century of his recollections. He dwells with special liking upon the stormy times of the war of 1812, in which he was a private and of which he is a pensioner. He was attached to the "coast guard" stationed at Fort Phœnix, in Fairhaven, when his comrades sighted in the offing the British privateer Nimrod, that was known to have been prowling about in neighboring waters for several days. The guardsmen took a schooner from the dock, loaded her with empty barrels, covering over the decks and hatches in imitation of a vessel bound to sea loaded with ordinary freight in barrels. In each barrel a guardsman was stationed. Then, apparently shorthanded, the schooner sailed quietly out into the bay, taking a course out toward the privateer that lay at anchor outside. Down she bore on the privateer, whose men had never a suspicion of the trick, and all at once, when close alongside, the barrels turned over all at one time on the deck of the schooner, and a fierce round of shot taking the privateersman by surprise, forced them to surrender before they had a chance to rally.

Another experience in which Mr. Hathaway had a narrow escape in his young manhood was when he shipped in a schooner from Assonet for the South, and was cast away off Cape Hatteras. He finally reached land, after long exposure, more dead than alive. While in the South, at Savannah, he, with several other Northerners working at or near the city, was drafted to fight the Indians, but they had heard stories of hard usage, and rather than waste their time and lives to fight a foe that was no particular foe of theirs they deserted. This Mr. Hathaway recalls with great gusto.

The old man is slightly losing his mind, but otherwise his senses are apparently unimpaired. His sight, hearing, sense of smell, and touch seem to be as good as those of half the men of sixty to seventy years of age whom one might select at random. His strength is failing, and he can not exert himself much in walking about the house without frequently stopping to rest. He says that he has used tobacco all his life, both for smoking and chewing and, while he does not see that it has done him any harm, neither does he see that it has been of any help to him beyond the great comfort it has been to him and its assistance in passing away many dull hours. He has used very little liquor in all his life, except for medicine, and then rarely and sparingly, as he has had very little sickness. He attributes his great age as largely owing to his coming of a long-lived race. His father, Joseph Hathaway, lived to the age of ninety-two years, and his sister, who died last year aged ninety-five years, was for several years the oldest resident of the town where she lived. Added to the natural hardihood of his race he attributes his age to his simple mode of living in the country. He was engaged in out-of-door labor as a carpenter and farmer the larger portion of his years, although he learned the cabinet-maker's trade and worked at it for a number of years. This kind of labor, added to temperate habits, and taking good care of himself in a general way, he thinks has led to his living to his ripe old age.—Boston Globe.

—Mr. Greeley's Mistake.—One evening an associate editor of the Tribune accosted Mr. Greeley as he came to his desk with some such question as this: "Didn't you know, Mr. Greeley, that you made a dreadful blunder in one of your statistical editorials this morning?" "No; how was it?" said Mr. Greeley. "Why, you said something about 'Heidsieck and champagne.' Don't you know Heidsieck is champagne?" "Well," said Mr. Greeley, quietly, "I am the only editor on this paper that could make that mistake."

—Time, 9:30 p. m. "Hello! Central. Give me 1739, please." "Hello! Is that Mr. Hydekoper's house? Is Mr. Hydekoper at home?" "No, sir, you will find my husband at his office, sir, posting his books." "Well, I was just there a minute ago and couldn't find him, I didn't know but that he had reached home by this time." Four hours later Mr. Hydekoper tries to explain his absence, but it isn't a brilliant success.—Nebraska State Journal.

HE CAME PREPRAED.

How a Chicago Youth Proved the Depth of His Love Scientifically.

"You don't know what love is, Mr. Swackhammer," protested the beautiful girl, with a smile of incredulity on her face; "the sentiment you entertain for me is only a passing fancy. When it has had its brief day and you look at it in the cold light of reason you will be surprised that you ever mistook so palpable a delusion for the genuine thing it assumes to represent."

"But hear me, Miss Garlinghouse," exclaimed the young man, calmly, yet earnestly, "am I not old enough to know my own—"

"It is not a question of age, Mr. Swackhammer," interposed Miss Garlinghouse, still smiling incredulously, "but of scientific demonstration. As you are probably aware, I have devoted myself for the last two or three years to a severe course of scientific study, and I have acquired the habit, perhaps unconsciously, of accepting nothing as true that is not demonstrated by the inexorable rules of mathematics or the soundest process of logical induction. Science has become with me the touchstone of all things asserted, claimed or proposed, and—"

"But how do you apply the rules of science to matters of the heart?" inquired the young man. "How can you subject my love to the test of a mathematical or scientific demonstration?"

"In this way, Mr. Swackhammer: The action of the passion or emotion of love upon the various sympathetic ganglia of the human organism causes certain well established and clearly-defined phenomena. When you speak to me of love I look for the appearance of those phenomena. From a scientific point of view they are not satisfactory. The tremor in your voice is not sufficiently pronounced. Your articulation is not thick and husky. The color in your face is hardly a shade paler than its normal hue, and you have no nervous movement of the hands. Do you think a mere assertion can disprove the evidence——"

"Alvira Garlinghouse," came impetuously from the lips of the young man, as he rose to his feet, "there are facts in mental as well as physical science that are not wholly beneath your notice. Some men are gifted with a marvelous faculty of self-control, so far as external manifestations are concerned. Beneath the apparently unmoved exterior that you have subjected to a scientific test there rages a volcano of passion. Do you doubt it? I will demonstrate it to a mathematical certainty. I foresaw the skepticism with which you would receive my avowal, and came prepared. Listen to the beating of my heart!"

And with a quick movement he drew from beneath his waistcoat the flexible tube of a stethoscope and placed it against her ear.

"Count the pulsations!" he continued. "They will run nearly one hundred to the minute. Normal heartbeat, seventy pulsations. Note the revelation of deathless love conveyed by this respirometer!" And he produced another flexible tube. "Respirations per minute, twenty-eight! Twenty-eight, Alvira—count them—twenty-eight! Normal respiration per minute, from fourteen to twenty in adults. Observe the mathematical certainty of tempestuous passion demonstrated by my temperature!" And opening his tightly-closed left hand he showed her a small thermometer. "Temperature, Alvira, one hundred and twelve degrees! Normal temperature, about one hundred degrees Fahrenheit! Have I proved my love?"

"Alpheus," murmured the lovely girl, as she placed her head on his shoulder, with her lips at an accessible angle, "you have."—Chicago Tribune.

An Abstruse Vagabond.

A tramp walked back and knocked on the kitchen door of a North Sidney house, with the confidence of a family doctor whose coming was expected. The lady opened the door, and he said:

"Madam, I have not had a bite of bread since yesterday, could you give me a hunk of cold meat?"

"We haven't got a bit in the house."

"How do you manage to keep so much this warm weather?"

"I say that we are clear out of meat."

"Is it roasted or broiled?"

"I mean that we ate it all up at dinder," raising her voice.

"It don't matter, veal or beef."

Still louder: "I tell you we've got no meat. I'll call the dog."

"You going to give the dog a chunk of it?"

"Chunk of what?"

"Why, a chunk of the no meat that you say you have got."

"Here, Tiger! Tiger!"

"Good day, madam. I have been plentifully supplied with no meat today, and have none to lose," and he skipped the fence as the dog turned the corner, saving his bacon.—Detroit Free Press.

Deficient Mentally.

Dumley (whose credit is not first-class)—I say, Brown, can you lend me ten dollars for a few days?

Brown (reluctantly pulling out a roll of bills)—I—er—s'pose I'll have to, Dumley.

Dumley—Thanks. You seem to have plenty of money, old fellow.

Brown—Yes, I seem to have more money than brains.—N. Y. Sun.

—An ingenious young man who lives in the west end of Battle Creek, Mich., has a valuable summer dog. He ties a fan to the animal's tail, and the canine waves it to and fro as he reclines in the shade of a tree reading a book.

The Sons of Rich Men.

Not only should the children of wealthy parents receive the most liberal education that the country affords, but they should be expected to make a good use of it in after life. As professional men, from complete immunity from the cares incident to poverty, they should deepen and widen the tracks that others are prone to follow, and institute systematic reforms. As men of state, far removed from partisan strife, they should draw their principles direct from history and from science, and lay the foundations of an ideal government. As men of letters they could afford to be content with nothing less than the best, whether in the manner or the matter of their work. As men of science, not obliged to make their investigations yield them a pecuniary return, they, of all others, should devote themselves to the pursuit of truth for its own sake, which, paradoxical as it may sound, has always proved the most important and really practical of all human labor.

Now, what the modern age demands of those who possess wealth is that they employ it in the proper direction of their activities. No right minded artisan begrudges the millionaire his millions. The manufacturer, the merchant, and even the railroad king are stirring, industrious men. They organize the production, exchange and distribution of wealth, and are essential to society. So of other industrial operations. Concentrated capital is indispensable to their prosecution on an adequate scale. And those on whom devolves the duty of conducting these industries, and who accept and perform this duty as responsible citizens, are not envied nor denounced by sober minded people, however widely their lots may differ. But honest and industrious people, those who with hand or brain labor for society, create its wealth and effect its proper distribution—all, in fact, who really work—have a right to complain that so much of the wealth of their creation has fallen into the hands of idle persons who despise every form of labor, even the ennobling pursuit of science, art and authorship. They do not ask them to take up the blacksmith's sledge, the carpenter's hammer or the mason's trowel. They every[illegible] refer that they devote themselves to higher and really more useful labors—labors which their leisure, means and independence peculiarly fit them to perform thoroughly and well.—Professor L. F. Ward in The Forum.

Intelligence of Ants.

One day, while watching a small column of these foraging ants, I placed a little stone on one of them to secure it. The next that approached, as soon as it discovered its situation, ran back in an agitated manner to communicate the intelligence to the others.

They rushed to the rescue. Some bit at the stone and tried to move it; others seized the prisoner by the legs and tugged with such force that I thought the legs would be pulled off, but they persevered till they got the captive free.

I next covered one up with a piece of clay, leaving only the ends of his attenna projecting. It was soon discovered by its fellows, which set to work immediately, and by biting off pieces of the clay, soon liberated it. Another time I found a very few of them passing along at intervals. I confined one of these under a piece of clay, at a little distance from the line, with its head projecting.

Several ants passed it, but at last one discovered it, and tried to pull it out, but could not. It immediately set off at a great rate, and I thought it had deserted its comrade; but it had only gone for assistance, for in a short time about a dozen ants came hurrying up, evidently fully informed of the circumstances of the case, for they made directly for their imprisoned comrade and soon set him free.—Naturalist in Nicaragua.

Cases of Seeming Intoxication.

A farmer, 54 years old, a man of wealth and character, whose father was a drunkard, but who himself never used any kind of spirits, showed symptoms of intoxication after meeting with an accident from a runaway horse. At the funeral of a child, some months later, his family were greatly mortified at his silly language, staggering gait, and other marked symptoms of intoxication. A year later a similar attack followed the burning of some buildings on his farm.

There are similar cases in which the nerve degeneration is due, not to heredity, but to early habits of intoxication. A noted temperance lecturer, a total abstainer for ten years or more, received while lecturing a dispatch announcing the fatal illness of his daughter. He drank a glass of water, became confused, staggered, and was led from the stage laughing and shouting in a maudlin way. He had drank no spirits, but the audience supposed him intoxicated.—Youth's Companion.

The Alaskan's Dwelling.

The Alaskan natives live in very peculiarly constructed houses. The structures are of half hewn logs, one story high, with only one door. The interior of the house is divided off into small compartments, not larger than the staterooms on an ocean steamer, and in each of these little rooms sleep an entire family. The floor of the dwelling is of beaten clay, and is depressed several inches below the surface of the surrounding land. In the center of the floor is a fireplace of rough stones, on which the cooking for the entire household, numbering at times as high as seventy-five persons, is done. The smoke escapes through a hole in the roof.—Lieut. H. T. Monahan in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Ramanas Rose.

The Japanese in their paintings make free use of this picturesque shrub. Happening to show the crimson ramanas rose to a decorative artist some days ago, he was silent for a few seconds, then exclaimed: "Now, I understand it all," and went on to say he had been that morning examining a beautiful Japanese screen, but (unheeding the leaves) felt completely puzzled to know why they drew their apples with blossoms on the same branch. Now he recognized the large fruit of the rose in what he had mistaken for apples, and carried away a branch to design from.—Vick's Magazine.

Old women are sillier than young ones because they have been so longer. Orphan children have not so much need of guardians as stupid men.—Christian at Work.

IMITATING THE ENGLISH.

The Difficulties of Trying to "Follow the Hounds" on Long Island.

Therefore, in this hyperborean region when the thermometer is below zero and the ground covered with snow for months, when the blasts are most penetrating and the frosts most biting, the fine folk must imitate the English mode. They, too, must open their country houses, built and furnished for summer, and invite "country house parties" to sports that nearly kill them by exposure. They shiver and freeze and suffer, and sometimes die; they take diphtheria and pneumonia, and endure agonies of torture because the high English go to the country at the same time.

Therefore, on Long Island, where a man may hold, perhaps, 100 acres, and his next neighbor is a farmer as much a proprietor as he, the imitator of aristocracy sets up a kennel and attempts to follow the hounds. But his neighbor protests; he is no tenant bound to allow the descendant of a feudal lord to destroy his fences and trample on his crops. Not long ago one of these farmers gave notice to a gallant master of the hounds that he would shoot the first man who attempted to ride over his grounds. Good sport, however, could not be interrupted, and the whole "field" swept proudly down. But there stood the farmer, with musket in hand, and like the king of France, with twice 10,000 men, the huntsmen bold rode up a hill and then—rode back again. They had no feudal rights, and were only trespassers.

They even did not find the good Democrats of the country willing to give them the road. When a lady of the neighborhood was thrust aside, her vehicle broken and herself injured, she absolutely went to law with the would be aristocrats. These gentry should reserve their sports for regions where they can own land enough to enjoy themselves in aristocratic style, and not on a potato patch put on the airs of lords of the manor or masters of a demesne.

'Tis as good as a screaming farce to see a little "field" of twenty or thirty people, the men in regulation "pink," with high top boots and hunting breeches, following, not a fox, but a bag of anise seed tied to a horse's tail; stopped by the farmers and turned off by the old women—and calling this fox hunting. They even invite Englishmen to join them; real lords and sportsmen, and these English go back to the country of preserves and privilege, and many a joke they tell about the democrats who aspired to their company and thought themselves aristocrats because they wore red coats, and hunters because they rode after anise seed.—Adam Badeau in Kansas City Journal.

Serpents as Ornaments of Fashion.

No little beetles or serpents have as yet appeared this season upon the evening toilet of those of the earth who can afford to be eccentric. Twenty years ago French women had a caprice about snakes. They made pets of them.

The Princesse de la Tour d'Auvergne always kept a little one in her pocket, alive of course. Her husband objected, and her friends did not all quite like it, but no entreaties availed to separate her from the little reptile that she loved. Mme. Musard wore a small viper on her neck among her incomparable diamonds. When she appeared in her box at the opera every glass in the house was leveled at her as she sat scintillating with diamonds, and with the dark coil of the serpent's body illustrating the whiteness of her neck.

Later on the Countesse de Villineuve for several months wore on her neck a beautiful scarabeus beetle. It was tethered to a ring by a very slender golden chain. It could run about on her shoulders; a sight which pleased few who saw it. An American lady, a few seasons ago, imitated this distinguished example. In both cases the little creatures died of starvation.—London News.

The Shah's Hour of Prayer.

A eunuch in stocking feet raises the heavy drapery that closes the entrance to the apartment where Nusr-ed-Deen Shah is sleeping, and, with bowed head, in a low tone reminds his majesty that it is the hour of prayer. A "moonfaced" maiden approaches, bearing a basin and ewer of gold; she pours scented water over the royal hands, and another fair attendant, scantily clad like her companion, dries his hands with a soft towel. Both kneel at this duty, for the king is yet on his couch, which is a mattress laid on the costly rugs that cover the floor. Having accomplished the ablutions, which form one of the essential rites of Mussulman prayor, the shah offers his devotions on a superb prayer rug of silk pointed toward Mecca. When a Mohammedan is on a journey he carries a compass with him in order to find the direction of Mecca. The prayer is repeated in a low tone with many genuflections, of which the chief consist or repeatedly falling flat on the face, rising to the knees and then standing, and passing both hands reverentially over the face.—S. W. G. Benjamin.

The Chicken Cure.

In some parts of India it is a custom of snake-bite specialists to apply the chicken cure, which is thus described by a correspondent:

"A Hindu woman having been bitten on the ankle, her husband applied a bandage above the wound and sent for the specialist. The man recommended the chicken cure. Twelve live chickens were brought to the house and applied to the wound one after the other. All of them died from the effects of the poison, and two more were sent for; these two lived, and the patient was declared cured. The matter having been reported to the police, the woman was removed to a hospital, but at the end of five hours the doctors found no sign of poisoning and permitted her to walk home."—Exchange.

The Least Painful Death.

Death by aconite is the least painful of any. The feeling is something like being frozen to death. A kind of numbness begins in the extremities and gradually spreads over the entire system. There is no pain whatever, except, possibly, a slight burning sensation in the breast. The fatal sensation is, in fact, extremely pleasant. Death from freezing is said to be delightful. It is the same with aconite. A pleasant tingling is felt through the limbs, while entrancing dream fancies run through the brain.—Cincinnati Physician.

GREAT STEAMBOAT RACE.

More Than a Million Said to Have Been Staked Upon the Result.

The greatest steamboat race that was ever run in the world was that which occurred in June, 1870, from New Orleans to St. Louis, between the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez. The latter was built at Cincinnati, was commanded by Captain T. P. Leathers, and in June of the above year made the fastest time on record from New Orleans to St. Louis, 1,278 miles in three days, twenty-one hours and fifty-eight minutes. The Robert E. Lee was built at New Albany during the war and was towed across the river to the Kentucky side to have her name painted on her wheel houses, a matter that was deemed prudent in those exciting times. She was commanded by Captain John W. Cannon, who died at Frankfort, Ky., in 1882.

There was great rivalry between the boats, and when the Natchez made her great run Captain Cannon determined to beat it. He stripped the Lee for the race—removed all parts of her upper works which were calculated to catch the wind; removed all rigging and outfit that could be dispensed with to lighten her; engaged the steamer Frank Pargoud to precede her a hundred miles up the river to supply coal; arranged with coal yards to have fuel flats awaiting her in the middle of the river at given points, to be taken in tow under way until the coal could be transferred to the deck of the Lee, and then to be cut loose and float back. He refused all business of every kind, and would receive no passengers. The Natchez returned to New Orleans and received a few hundred tons of freight and a few passengers, and was advertised to leave for St. Louis on June 30.

In the afternoon the Robert E. Lee backed out from the levee, and five minutes later the Natchez followed her. The whole country watched the race with breathless interest, as it had been extensively advertised by the press, and the telegraph attended its progress along the river at every point. At all the principal cities—Natchez, Vicksburg, Helena, and Memphis—people for many miles were present to see the racers pass, and the time of passing was cabled to Europe. When Cairo was reached the race was virtually ended, but the Lee proceeded to St. Louis, arriving there in three days, eighteen hours and fourteen minutes from the time she left New Orleans, beating by thirty-three minutes the previous record of the Natchez. The latter steamer had run into a fog and grounded between Memphis and Cairo, which delayed her more than six hours. It is said that 30,000 people crowded the wharf, the windows and the housetops to welcome the Lee on her arrival at St. Louis. Captain Cannon was tendered a banquet by the business men of the city, and was generally lionized while he remained here.

It was estimated that more than $1,000,000 changed hands on the result of the great race. Many of the bets were withdrawn, however, on the ground that the Lee had been assisted the first hundred miles of the trip by the power of the Frank Pargoud added to her own, and many steamboat men have ever since regarded the Natchez as the fastest boat of the two, but think she was outgeneraled in the race by the Lee. There was so much adverse comment afterward by the press that there has been no attempt since to repeat such a performance.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MAN'S TRUE CHARACTER.

In Most Instances It Is Called For h Only by Great Emergencies.

Great emergencies call forth the great soul. War in the twinkling of an eye turns village drunkards and pettifogging lawyers into Generals and statesmen. Love transforms Cymon from a brute into a man. Necessity makes Shakespeare a dramatist; accident reveals Scott his true powers. The most commonplace men and women have passed through the fool's paradise of love, when they were divine beings worshiping divinity, and in that fool's paradise they for a brief moment found their true selves, saw deep into the soul of their consort. That flitting dream was in truth an awakening, the brief opening of the spiritual eye. When the world of facts has passed away, our dreams may remain. The man of common sense asks for realities, the poet knows that only illusions are true. Look you, the man whom you hate are there not women who worship him, children who look up to him? Who sees the true man—you who hate him, or they who love him? Love is a divine delight; it reaches out over and around its object into the illimitable; it is a part of the over-soul of the infinite, of God. Hatred is painful. It strains and racks the body, it blinds the vision, it makes man conscious of his mortal limitations. "Love sees the virtues that are of the soul; hatred only the diseases of the skin." "All men have their faults, and stealing was Bill's," said a weeping widow over the corpse of a desperado shot in attempted burglary. And grotesque, ludicrous as the expression may seem, she was right. She knew that not in the robber, the law-breaker, the outcast, did the real man shine forth, but in those rarer moods of kindliness and generosity when he was the true friend and husband. Perhaps when two enemies, who have refused to see any good in each other on this earth, meet hereafter in another world free from the muddy vesture of decay which clogs their vision here, the first thought of each will be: "is this the beautiful soul that I maligned and hated?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

—Pastures can not be continually cropped without something being returned to prevent loss of fertility.

THE TIN TINDER-BOX.

How People Used to "Strike a Light" Before the Days of Friction Matches.

Probably there are few children of the present day who have ever seen, or heard of the old-fashioned tinder-box and matches. Yet, fifty years ago, the friction match, now so universally used, had but just been invented, and did not come into general use for many years. Before the year 1836, or thereabouts, housekeepers were obliged to use matches of domestic manufacture. There were small pieces of white-pine wood, perhaps twice the size of our match, the ends of which had been dipped in melted brimstone. A small iron skillet in which to melt the brimstone was once a common kitchen utensil in many families in New England, if not elsewhere. The only way to light one of these brimstone matches was to bring it in contact with a spark of fire. For this purpose there used to be kept in every house a small tin box filled with burnt rags, and this was called a tinder-box. In order to obtain a light a common gun flint was struck with considerable force against a piece of steel made of convenient size, which produced a few sparks; these lodging upon the burnt rags made sufficient fire to enable one to readily light the match.

The smouldering rags (for the sparks thus obtained did not produce a blaze) were afterward extinguished by a round tin cover called a damper. To thus create fire required some experience, especially in damp weather, or with cold fingers on winter mornings. We have known people to make "a bad piece of work" with the flint and steel and to succeed only with great patience in "striking a light." If one happened to be cross or nervous the chances were that he would not succeed at all; nor was it an infrequent sight to see the goodwife of the house running across the street with a shovel to borrow a shovelful of "live coals" from a neighbor, the chimney smoke of whose dwelling proclaimed that she had fire. The change to the match of commerce was one of the first of what we now consider modern conveniences. In many families it was one of the "children's chores" to prepare wood for the matches and to dip the ends in melted brimstone. These matches were sometimes to be bought in shops, but New England economy more frequently led each family to prepare its own. Still it was not uncommon for poor children to make a trifle of money by selling bunches of matches to their more fortunate neighbors. In sparsely-settled neighborhoods great care was exercised [illegible] hard of the house to "keep the fire." He took precautions that there should be a good bed of "live coals" at the hour of retiring; these he covered with many shovelfuls of ashes to prevent them from burning out. The next morning the coals were usually found to be "live" on raking open the ashes, and served to start the day's fires. It was not an impossible feat to thus preserve the family fire through the year without recourse to tinder box and matches.

The modern friction match was welcomed by most housekeepers, although here and there some old people objected to it, considering it a dangerous article, as no doubt it is when carelessly used or left lying about. The first friction match invented required to be drawn across a piece of fine sandpaper in order to produce a light. This was called a lucifer, and was much safer, although not so convenient as the present match. Then came the present patent friction matches, which used to be called "loco-focos." There were no fancy match-boxes in "old times," and the tinder box was not considered an ornamental article, but was kept out of sight in the cupboard or on the kitchen mantle-piece.

We find in a Salem newspaper of June 30, 1836, the following: "Notwithstanding the convenience of those dangerous little articles, friction matches, which are in almost every body's hands, but which, with all charms, bids fair to prove a heavy curse to the community, we learn that there is one man in Salem, a respectable tradesman, who keeps a store where we should generally expect to find such things, but he has never sold them, nor allowed them to be used on his premises. At his house and shop he sticks to the old-fashioned flint, steel and tinder. He shows his wisdom in so doing. How many more can say as much?"—Wide-Awake.

How to Cure Poor Memories.

Visitors (to idiot asylum some years hence)—What is the matter with that man?

Superintendent—Softening of the brain, we believe; can't tell. He appears to be as wise as any one, but his personal history shows that his memory is liable to such bad lapses that it is not safe for him to be at large.

"Indeed!"

"Yes; he was a city official once, but when called upon to testify against other officials in some boodler cases, it was suddenly discovered that he could not remember any thing at all. The courts ordered him sent to the asylum for treatment, and he'll stay here until he recovers."—Omaha World.

—By watching where doctors visit, and then playing with vigorous industry in front of a house or near it until some body sends them some money and a request to move on, some organ-grinders in New York have been doing a thrifty business; but there are many signs of popular revolt, as complaints to the newspapers indicate.

THE HIGHEST INCENTIVE.

Inspiration from Within the Key-Stone of Real Success in Life.

Great aims have been the inspiration of a multitude of great men; but with the greatest men the aim is something within rather than some external fruit of achievement. That which inspires the noblest men to long-continued and fruitful effort is an impulse from within rather than the glitter of a prize from without. There must be even in so colossal an egotist as Napoleon a tremendous impulse of character and mind to respond to a great external ambition. The greater the selfishness, the more dominant the exterior object—the mere sign and symbol of reward or success; the less the admixture of selfishness in a nature, the more predominant the interior motive and impulse. There is no question as to which is the highest and most ennobling incentive; there is no question as to which is the true, healthy motive of work. The great artist is he whose intensest desire is to give visible expression to the images in his own soul; not because the exterior vision will bring fame and money, but because there is in his heart a divine hunger for utterance. The true impulse of a great statesman is not the accomplishment of designs and the execution of plans which will secure the acclamation of a people, but the intense desire to stamp upon his time and generation the impress of a thought which is in itself noble and progressive. Half the failures of strong men are due to the fact that they rely for impulse upon an external ambition rather than upon an incentive within themselves. It is not so much the desire to work out their own nature, the fulfillment of their own life, which presses work out of them, as the desire to win and wear some external symbol of their success. He whose motive is within himself is relieved by that very fact from the pang of the bitterest disappointments. It is in one sense a small matter to a great artist that his work must wait for recognition; to a great writer that his thought must linger long on the threshold of popular acceptance; to a great statesman that his policies must be often postponed and the fame which he justly deserves long withheld. In all these cases that which fires the spirit is a desire to give expression to the life; and the measure of success is not that which the world returns, but the volume and adequacy with which the individual soul pours itself out. The truest refuge from disappointment is to pursue great things, not for what they shall bring to us, but because in their accomplishment we shall work out the strength and force of our own natures.

The man who would best serve his fellows must free himself largely from the tyranny of desire for contemporary approbation, must be able to sustain himself by the consciousness of the elevation and integrity of his own purpose, and from that consciousness must derive the serenity and cheerfulness which preserve one from the bitterness and discouragement of disappointed ambitions. To truly and permanently serve a community is to give one's self continually to the pursuit of the things which makes for its richest life, without counting upon immediate recognition or reward. That which gives work the only satisfaction which it possesses for a large-minded and aspiring man is the consciousness that it has been done faithfully and well; if the reward comes, it may bring pleasure; if it is withheld, a certain pain follows; but neither the pleasure nor the pain will detract from the satisfaction of faithful performance. There are too many men who are continually measuring the value of their services to the community, and continually holding the community responsible for lack of recognition which offends their vanity and dissipates their energy; too many men who, upon the first failure, drop their work in disgust, and become thenceforward bitter critics of their fellows. All work of enlightenment and advancement is educational; it proceeds by slow and gradual stages, just as the building up of a character proceeds. No man who has any knowledge of himself, renounces his moral or intellectual ideals because he sometimes fails to attain them; on the contrary, failure spurs him to greater effort. In public service the work is slow because it is the work of education. They who attempt to serve a community or a nation must take this truth to their hearts; the purity and permanence of their service will be largely determined by the spirit in which it is rendered. If that spirit is one of simple self-seeking, or one of ambition, the service, though it may bring large returns, must always be unsatisfactory. If, on the other hand, the service be rendered out of a pure heart, whether it secure recognition or fail of it, the reward is assured. They who would work cheerfully and persistently for the good of others must perform that work out of pure love of doing it; must count it a joy to give and not receive again; must win from repulse and renewed energy; and through disappointment be stimulated to that persistence of effort which never fails of its fruit in due season.—Christian Union.

—Mental heredity does not always seem to hold in the human race, but it is alleged that it does in the lower animals. Circus people say that the offspring of trained animals are far more capable of learning tricks than any other, and frequently more so than their parents.

—The work of the United States Geological Survey employs at the principal office in Washington from 70 persons in summer to 225 in winter.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

County Official Paper.

C. Mulholland,
EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL

SATURDAY NOVEMBER 10.....1888

The vote of New York carries a most important lesson with it. Hill, the Democratic candidate for Governor is elected by a majority reported at 15,000. The majority for Harrison is reported to be not less than 12,000. The difference of 27,000 votes is due entirely to the free trade policy of Mr. Cleveland. It is very clear that the working men of the country will not sacrifice their own interests for party success. New York is to-day a Democratic State, and if the party leaders shall be wise enough to drop the free trade heresy and fall into line on the patriotic policy of Samuel J. Randall, the State will give her vote for the next Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Free trade is as dead as the doctrine of the right of secession, and only pigheaded obstinacy will persist in a policy that can never win. Tens of thousands of as ardent Democrats as live voted against Cleveland for the only reason that he advocated free trade.

The matter of bread and butter is of more concern to working people than party politics. It was bread and butter that defeated Cleveland and elected Harrison. From the beginning of the campaign to the end of it there was but one question at issue and that was the preservation of the American industries. American working men will never consent to throw the home market, their own best market, open to be glutted by the manufactures of other countries, and themselves and their wives and children reduced to the poverty prevalent in Europe.

CLOUDS.

Day after day—day after day—
Always the same gray skies;
And, sobbing the same dirge alway,
The sea beneath them lies.

"Day after day the wind is loud,
The stinging raindrops fall;
The earth lies in a misty shroud—
I'm weary of it all."

"Oh, fool," mine own heart said to me—
"And ready to complain!
Wait, and the gray skies blue must be,
The sunshine come again."

Souls that are sad, lives that are gray
'Neath sorrow's fingering blight,
Wait only—clouds shall pass away,
And earth once more be bright.

—Shirley Wynne in Once a Week.

Lap Dogs and Footmen.

There is another thing about life in London that struck me as sensible. At the shop doors there are seats on one side for the footmen, and opposite a bench with steel chains. A carriage drives up, and a lady alights with her dog. The footman closes the carriage door and the vehicle drives off to make room for another. Then the footman takes her ladyship's canine pet and chains it to the bench, while he seats himself on the other. I have seen as many as five pretty little dogs fastened in this way, and so accustomed are they to the method there is no quarreling. I have an idea they exchange gossip as London servants do, and it would be interesting to know what these dogs think of high life in London. —Norman P. Wilder in New York Herald.

Help for Harvard Students.

A new help to student work is for a professor to gather out of the whole library such books (no matter how many) as he wishes his classes especially to study. These are put in an alcove under his name, his pupils having access to them all day and take them over night, returning them next morning. The plan is new, but it grows in favor. In 1880 thirty-five teachers thus reserved 3,330 books. In 1886 fifty-six teachers reserved 5,840. All books lent out numbered in 1880 41,986, in 1886 60,195. This rate of increase greatly outruns that of the number of students. It speaks of an increasing industry and productiveness. And the best thing about the intellectual life here is that it is hopeful and not timid—it looks forward.—American Magazine.

Boat Building of Old.

It is sad to think of the trouble Robinson Crusoe put himself to when he undertook to make himself a boat. Had he been up in archæology he would have hollowed out a tree trunk with red hot stones. His ancestors appear to have used this rude, but effective method. A canoe found recently in the Tunhovd fiord, in Central Norway, has proved to have been fashioned after this manner. It is in good condition, and will be shown at the museum of Christiania.—Detroit Free Press.

A New Nickel Plated Bullet.

A new bullet proposed for the English army is of an unusually small caliber, and is encased in an outer sheet of nickel, which increases its power of penetration. It is used with a rifle of greater thickness of barrel, in which a heavier charge than usual can be fired. Several hundred of the rifles have been made for experimental use.—New York Sun.

A New English School.

A young woman's polytechnic institute is a new English school, the object of which is to supply technical instruction to women, such as dressmaking, cookery and bookkeeping. In the evening the building will be used as a young woman's club and rooms are fitted up for social purposes and reading.—Good Housekeeping.

Mortar by Machinery.

An idea has been developed in Germany in the shape of the manufacture of mortar by machinery in large quantities, to be delivered to contractors and individuals as required for use. About 2,000,000 barrels were disposed of in Berlin on this plan alone last year.—Public Opinion.

Cats Versus Rabbits.

Cats are found to be the best exterminators of rabbits in New Zealand. They do great havoc among the young ones, and in some sections scarcely a rabbit was to be seen.

EXPERT ACCOUNTANTS

SAY EMPLOYERS LOSE MONEY SIMPLY THROUGH NEGLIGENCE

All Opportunities for Embezzlement Can Be Removed Through the Exercise of a Little Care—Results of a Careless System of Keeping Accounts.

How to keep trusted clerks from embezzlement is a secret which every business firm or corporation in Chicago would like to know. There does not pass a day but some peculations are discovered, from the young man who steals a few dollars and is sent to jail to the genius who leaves for Canada with a million in his pockets. Expert accountants say that employers lose money simply through their own negligence, and that all chances for embezzlement can be removed through the exercise of a little care.

W. C. Paine says: "The business of an expert accountant is a new one in the west, and has not acquired the dignity of a profession. It not only calls for a knowledge of bookkeeping in one line of business, but it also requires a knowledge of every business, contractual rights, and the ability to construe the terms of contracts. But in Chicago, whenever an ordinary bookkeeper is thrown out of employment, he at once sets himself up as an expert accountant. Of course such men fail. The keeping of a set of books can be learned in six months as well as in six years, and the bookkeeper does not realize that this is the smallest part of the knowledge which an expert accountant should acquire before he can succeed. In Great Britain a man cannot arrive to the dignity of an expert accountant until he has gone through a course of study in the same manner as a student for the bar. He therefore becomes fitted to answer any call that may be made upon him, and the business becomes a life business.

But look at the list of accountants in the Chicago directory. There are very few names which appeared in last year's directory, showing that the business with many has been but a temporary one while the men engaged in it were out of work in their ordinary vocation, that of keeping books. But the business is bound to grow. Business is done in such a hurry here that mistakes are very liable to occur. In the large majority of cases, where an expert accountant is called to examine a set of books which are out of balance, it will be found that there has been no thieving, but that carelessness has been the trouble. If a bookkeeper or cashier is trusted sufficiently and has the handling of money it is an easy matter for him to steal, but it is as much harder for him to conceal his thefts. A very common way is to falsify the items on the debit side of the cash book. The correct amounts are generally entered on the ledger account, and the merchant almost invariably looks at the ledger when he wishes to see whether any account has been paid. It is his own carelessness that permits embezzlement, and if he has not the time to look after his own business he should have an accountant go over his books three or four times a year."

Merritt Brooks, who has been in the business for a number of years, has had the opportunity of watching the course taken by a number of embezzlers, and the means used by them to make their books apparently balance, so that at a casual glance their peculations cannot be discovered. "The way I happened to enter into the business was this," he said; "I had been engaged as a bookkeeper in Buffalo, and was employed to examine into the accounts of the county treasurer of Erie county. It was found that through a careless system of keeping accounts the treasurer was short in his cash $19,000. This discovery led to an investigation into the accounts of the city of Buffalo from the time when the charter was originally granted. The sum of $151,000 was discovered, the accumulation of small amounts of overcharges on special assessments, which the city had no knowledge it possessed.

"It is difficult for a man who keeps an upright set of books to steal his employer's money without detection. When a cashier of a bank wants to steal money outright, and with such a sum as he can take at once and leave for parts unknown, there is no necessity for him to try to cover up the theft by false entries in his books. But the defaulter who takes money from time to time is forced to make his books appear balanced. He makes false entries which can be discovered easily by an expert accountant. The systematic embezzler simply relies upon no examination being made. In order to commit systematic robbery he must be trusted not only with the cash, but also with the books. It is then a very easy matter to enter items or false footings in the cash book so that the figures will appear correct. Unless the employer goes beneath the surface the fraud will never be discovered.

"The honest bookkeeper would not feel offended or insulted if his books were examined, and if he is dishonest, the sooner his work is looked over the better. Bookkeepers would be more careful and the books would be better kept. A cashier in a large establishment should not be allowed to have full charge of the books, and the bookkeeper should be the one to keep the record of all the cashier's receipts and expenditures. In this way embezzlement is impossible unless the two act in collusion. The accounts of the cashier can then be examined by the bookkeeper's records only. Few defalcations are found in the accounts of railroad corporations, where large sums of money are handled every year. This is because of the system of auditing accounts. The agent who handles money for the company does not know what moment the traveling auditor may come in and demand an immediate inspection of his accounts. Examinations made in this way affect the market value of stock in corporations. If investors could be satisfied that the condition of the finances of any corporation was exactly what it is given out to be by the officers they would have greater confidence in investing and the market value of the stocks would increase."—Chicago Times.

Concerning Intermittent Fever.

Residence in valleys or on lowlands through which or upon which cold air flows at night, and thus causes insidious changes in the atmospheric temperature, favors intermittent fever. In our climate those measures, such as drainage, which enable the soil to retain warmth during the night, and thus reduce the daily range of temperature immediately over such soil, tend to decrease intermittent fever among residents thereon. In the cure and prophylaxis of intermittent fever those remedies are useful which lessen torpidity (especially of the liver) and tend to increase the power of the body to react promptly to insidious changes in atmospheric temperature.—Science.

A Very Convenient Word.

Speaking of writing letters reminds us of one we saw a day or two ago, in which a new word was used, that is to say, it will be new to many of you, though it has been employed in business correspondence for some time. A clause of the letter ran thus: "We hand you herewith pomo for $10, which please place to our credit, etc." Now, what is pomo? you ask. That is simply a very convenient contraction for "post office money order." It deserves to be formally adopted into the language, and no doubt it will be.—Philadelphia Times.

SLAUGHTER OF FOWLS.

A Difference Between Amateur and Professional Work—The Chicago Way.

Killing a chicken is a feat that few men care to undertake a second time. It is not half so easy as it looks. A man without experience may approach his victim confidently, seize it by the neck with a vise-like grip and swing it round his head and shoulders until he is tired or until poor "chick" ceases to flop her wings or wriggle her feet, and the chances are that the half strangled bird will go cavorting all over the back yard the instant it is laid on the ground. Its slayer, tired and sweaty and covered with dust and feathers, chases it around a circle, and finally, after a number of desperate plunges, regains his grip on the limp but unbroken neck.

"Take the ax and cut its head off, John," suggests his wife, who has been an interested but silent spectator of the attempted slaughter. John acts upon the advice with a promptness that proves that he knows a good thing. The ax is procured, and again the wriggling bird is imprisoned. John carries it in triumph over to a block of wood, lays its neck out as evenly as the muscular contortions of its body and legs will permit, and then raises the keen blade for the fatal blow. It descends with unerring aim, and the severed head rolls off the block. But before John has time to congratulate himself on the success of his expedient the head gives one flutter that is its last, and a tiny stream of blood hardly bigger than a darning needle spurts from the gaping wound like a geyser, and stains his white shirt front a deep red. Then he vows in language that will hardly bear reproduction that he has killed his last chicken. If the victim is an aged and tough hen with a steel spring neck and extraordinary vitality the work of slaughter is even more difficult. This is the way a man kills a chicken intended for his own table.

